Haggling may pay off at home and abroad

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Haggling over price may seem more suited to a Mideast bazaar than to a Midwest boutique, but give-and-take bargaining can save you just as much money at home as it can abroad.

Experts quoted in the bank's latest newsletter say the trick lies in knowing where, when and how to haggle. "You don't bargain in a big store or about groceries in your supermarket."

What about in a bank? "You can bargain with us," said April Klimley of the Citibank public affairs department. Ms. Klimley conceded, however, that most bank charges are fixed. "It would vary from service to service," she said.

But there are certain kinds of branch loans where people do bargain. Branch loans are paid back all at once rather than in installments. They are often "secured" — backed by something like stocks or by large deposits.

The Citibank economists say that "for big-ticket items, a certain amount of haggling is not only expected, it's the accepted way of life." Prices for appliances and automobiles vary widely, for example, and dealers have a certain amount of freedom to negotiate. Bargaining could get you a better service contract or an extra accessory at no extra charge.

Isn't haggling an unusual subject for a big bank? No, said Sarah Wells, editor of the newsletter. Bargaining is simply "a money-saving device. It's buymanship," she said.

For places where you can haggle, there are some general guidelines to keep in mind. Among them:

— Don't exaggerate or make unrealistic claims. Automobile dealers, for example, generally have a pretty good idea of what their competition is charging.

City commission faces SPS rate increase ruling

Continuation of the hearing concerning the rate application of Southwestern Public Service Co. and first reading of an ordinance setting rate schedules top a lengthy agenda to be considered by the city commission at its regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

The ordinance would limit SPS' proposed rate increase to $4.2 million per annum, and "will address the fuel cost adjustment as well," according to City Manager Mack Wofford. Wofford said he doesn't yet know how the fuel cost adjustment will be treated in the ordinance.

Foster care needs experience

"Come in, come in," Irene Dodd said to a visitor as she opened the door to her immaculate home.

"We raised four children of our own and hated for all that experience to go to waste," she said. "A friend of ours was working for the welfare department and it just sort of worked itself out. It just seemed like that would be the thing to do."

Before they got their first foster child, the Dodds didn't have time to be nervous, she said.

"They are shy, withdrawn and they don't have any confidence in humanity. But love will do it. If they get enough love and affection it will always come out OK."

Debate opened on pact; approval almost certain

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin called on the Knesset today to approve the Camp David peace agreements, including the "painful" abandonment of Jewish settlements in the Sinai Desert.

Everything done at Camp David would be nullified. "With an aching heart I suggest we make the choice," he continued. "This is the road to peace."

strongest opposition comes from within Begin's Likud bloc. As many as 10 of Likud's 45 deputies may vote against the accords.

he would not join the peace negotiations unless the Camp David pacts are modified to guarantee Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank, including Arab East Jerusalem, and Palestinian rights. But Hussein also refused the so-called Rejectionist Front led by Syria.

Vance leaves Mid-East without tangible results

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance returned home today, conceding that his five-day Mideast trip had produced no tangible results on President Carter's bid to gain Arab support for the Camp David peace accords.

Vance's reception was similar in Saudi Arabia and Jordan. Arab states considered more moderate than Syria. Both expressed strong reservations about the Camp David plan before Vance came. They expressed the same reservations after he left.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Good news for Hillsdale

Beleagued Hillsdale College, located in the Michigan town of that name, is in receipt of some most welcome good news; two packets of it, in fact. The first concerns developments in its legal battle with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW); the second, a private enterprise gift to the college.

First, about the HEW unpleasantness. As our readers know, Hillsdale College, whose president is now Dr. George C. Roche, has never solicited or accepted government grants of taxpayer money of any kind and, long before HEW came into existence and began throwing its weight around, Hillsdale was accepting both women and members of minority groups on its campus.

The school does, however, have some students, armed forces veterans, among others, who are receiving federal financial assistance; a fact which HEW has seized upon to claim that Hillsdale is in receipt of federal funds and, therefore, subject to HEW regulations.

Challenging the HEW allegations, and pointing out that where students get their funds is their business, not the college's, Hillsdale has refused to execute an "Assurance of Compliance with HEW Regulations" form demanded by the federal agency, reiterating that it is not a recipient of government financial assistance and its belief that HEW's characterization of federal assistance to individual students as federal assistance to the college went beyond the intent of Congress in approving Title IX legislation.

At which point, HEW retaliated by threatening to terminate all forms of federal assistance to students attending Hillsdale by serving the college with a notice of hearing requesting an order permitting the agency to do so.

Countering this, in case the decision went against the college students concerned, Hillsdale began soliciting contributions from friends of the school in order to set up a fund to assist affected students continue their education.

After that brief background, now for the first piece of good news. In an initial decision in response to the HEW request, Hearing Judge Herbert L. Perlman has denied the motion, pointing out that the HEW contemplated action may, indeed, be unconstitutional.

While cautioning that the Perlman decision is still subject to review and that the case may yet go against the Hillsdale students affected, college president Roche, optimistically, views the decision as a significant victory in the school's continuing fight to resist increasing governmental interference with Hillsdale College's institutional and academic freedom.

Which brings us to the second, and more concrete, item of good news for the college.

Concurrent with announcement of the Perlman decision, Hillsdale President Roche announced that the college will receive a $1 million gift in the estate of Donald Hare, a semi-retired physicist currently of Phoenix, Ariz. Acknowledging the gift, Roche said:

"Dr. Hare is a fine supporter of the private sector and the highly individualistic values which make this country great. His decision to make a major gift to the Hillsdale Freedom Fund is a vote of confidence in the freedom-loving stance which the school has adopted." Congratulation, Hillsdale. Hang in there!

Time for the sun

Large scale production electricity direct from sunlight and competitive with present methods may still be a long way off. Yet, the advances in such technology seem to be coming at regular intervals with less time between each gain in progress.

One gain, which may become more of a factor than first appears, was the subject of an article contained in the Silver Institute monthly newsletter.

A new high performance silicon solar cell has been developed by the Spire Corp., of Bedford, Mass. It consists of a three-inch wafer covered with thin silver lines in a geometric pattern and the reverse surface is a sheet of silver.

According to Dr. Thomas Shaughnessy, physicist for the company, the silver addition increases the conversion efficiency of the cell by about 60 percent. The new type of cell is called "Starburst" and it is claimed that it has a conversion efficiency of 16 percent while other types of cells have less than a 10 percent efficiency factor in the conversion of light to electric energy.

The fastest way to cut costs of electricity from photovoltaic (PV) sources, Shaughnessy says, is to use silver performance units like the Starburst together with silver backed mirrors, or lenses, that bring light from a large area and focus it on a small PV cell area.

Such systems, he says, now multiply electrical output by 20 times; the per watt cost thus drops accordingly, making the system now cost effective for use in areas remote from commercial power sources. Theoretically, silvered mirrors could multiply wattage by a hundred times. When that is achieved in practice, the PV systems will be feasible for a greatly enlarged variety of applications. As such applications become more numerous, the incentives to add new progress in the field are heightened.

In this one advance it is the silver in the cell's contacts, wiring and mirrors which cut present costs and hasten the day when sunlight can be commercially competitive with fossil fuel production of electric power.

It is these progressive advances, brought about by the ingenuity and inventive genius of thousands working in the private sector, which will eventually bring us clean power from sunlight. We doubt that any great advance will be brought about by government throwing taxpayers' money at the problem.

If private enterprise were able to devote more of its time to its own progress and less to governmental red tape, the road to clean power would be shortened.

And, if more of its income was left to industry, instead of having it absorbed by the wasteful sponge of excess taxation, the end of that road to complete success could be close at hand.

To tap directly the source of all energy on this planet is a dream which can be fulfilled. How and when are the unanswered questions. They could be answered sooner than most of us believe.

'Roots' emphasizes the family

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
Is American society in a state of moral decay?

Some see signs of it. Disorder reigns in public schoolrooms. Shop - lifting costs merchants million of dollars. Welfare fraud is rampant. Public servants, including teachers, go on strike even though they know it is contrary to law. Magazines are sprinkled with obscenities, and publishers assert their freedom to print pornography. Sexual license is widespread. Youth, taking drugs, sell their mental and physical health for a momentary "high." And we try to justify these acts with the hoary alibi, "Everybody's doing it."

Some hold that such behaviour is not important - that after all one action is as good as another, and that everybody should be "free" to decide for himself what is right, what is wrong. They should soberly ask themselves whether anyone is "free" in a society that flouts the accepted rules.

Having just read "Roots," by Alex Haley, I cannot help but contrast American society in 1978 with what Researcher Haley found was 18th century society in west Africa. There, in the village of Juffure, his great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather, Kunta Kinte, was born in the year 1750.

In Juffure the children grew up under a discipline dictated by tradition and taught them by their parents. Every day they must pray to Allah, they being Moslem. Obedience to parents was a strict rule. It was coupled with love and respect bordering on awe for all elders. Childhood was divided into stages. At the age of 8, Kunta was christened ceremonially, the name given him being that of a revered ancestor. At a certain age, all boys were initiated into the second "kafo" and assigned certain duties such as herding the family goats. At a later age, the boy went through certain ordeals, which ushered him into manhood. At each stage, the child assumed more responsibilities.

This, minus the ordeals, was not unlike the way of life in early America. Most families lived on farms or in small towns and depended on the soil, the animals and plants, the sun and the rain. They prayed daily, not to Allah but to God, family prayers being a tradition.

Even in the first years of this century, people lived under discipline. The only excuse for not going to church every Sunday was illness. In Sunday school one became acquainted with the great characters of the Bible, from Abraham to Jesus. The Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule were analyzed and memorized. I vividly remember my mother warning me that if I called my brother a fool, I would be "in danger of the hell fire." If I doubted this I could look it up in Matthew 5:22.

If those were the "good old days" in America, they were also the good old days in Africa. Mutual respect between the races is heightened when they learn that the "roots" of each were nourished in the same kind of soil.

There was, however, one great difference. The people of Juffure and of hundreds of other African villages lived under the constant fear of the "toubob," or whites who ranged the countryside, seizing likely young blacks and herding them on board filthy ships, to be taken across the Atlantic and sold into slavery. No such peril hung over American youth.

Both Africans and Americans, brought up in an atmosphere of order and responsibility, learned to love freedom. Would Paul Revere or Daniel Boone have submitted to enslavement? Neither did Kunta Kinte. Four times he ran away from his Virginia master, only to be hunted down with bloodhounds. The fourth time the slave-hunters permanently immobilized him by chopping off one of his feet.

Thanks to the humanity of a white doctor, he survived and became the doctor's coachman. Later he married, fathered a daughter, and thus transplanted the family line to America.

From Kunta's very birth, the importance of family had been inculcated in him. The story of his ancestors was told him by his father, and he was abjured to take pride in it and pass it on to his own offspring. All down the years, the story was passed along, orally, from generation to generation, growing as each added its experiences.

Finally, it came to one, Alex Haley, who was inspired to flesh it out and put it down on paper. This required prodigious research. The result is not merely an absorbing story but a veritable epic of the black people in America over the last 200 years. It will take its place, I am confident, among the "great books" of the western world.

Haley would have his fellow-blacks respect their race. Self-respect invites the respect of others. When whites fully respect blacks, they live with them as equals, for no longer is there any excuse for doing otherwise. At this point equality becomes a real, segregation ridiculous.

The moral slump of the present is not restricted to either white or black Americans. Both are infected. What ever color a person may be, he can get a new lease on moral life by tracing with Alex Haley the story of one heroic American family.

Today in history

Today is Monday, Sept. 25, the 268th day of 1978. There are 97 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1789, the first United States Congress, meeting in New York, adopted 12 amendments to the Constitution. Ten of the amendments became the Bill of Rights.

On this date:
In 1513, the Spanish explorer, Balboa, crossed the Isthmus of Panama and discovered the Pacific Ocean.

In 1555, the Peace of Augsburg in Germany granted Lutheran states the same rights as Roman Catholic states.

In 1775, the American Revolutionary War hero, Ethan Allen, was captured by the British and Indians as he led an attack on Montreal.

In 1890, Yosemite National Park in California was established by an Act of Congress.

In 1940, during World War II, the collaborationist Quisling government was established in Norway.

In 1976, a proposal for eventual Black rule in Rhodesia was accepted by Rhodesia's Prime Minister Ian Smith in a broadcast to the nation.

Ten years ago: In Portugal, a law professor and businessman, Marcello Caetano, was named to succeed critically ill Premier Antonio Salazar.

Five years ago: The longest mission man had made in space ended as the Skylab II splashed down in the Pacific after being in orbit 59 days.

One year ago: A Rand Corp. report said the voluntary army had been a success in the four years since the military draft was abolished.

Today's birthdays: Prime Minister Eric Williams of Trinidad and Tobago is 67 years old. Former baseball star Phil Rizzuto is 60.

Thought for today: What the government gives you the government can take away, and once it starts taking away, it can take more than it gave. — Samuel Gompers, American labor leader, 1850-1924.

'Dirty' list to clean gov't

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Carter, who has had no more luck than his predecessors in weeding out wasteful federal programs, might do well to emulate a political tactic developed by the Environmental Action citizen's lobby.

Every election year since 1970, Environmental Action has published its "Dirty Dozen" hit list - the names of 12 members of Congress the group considers to have the worst voting records on environmental legislation. Then it sets out to beat those congressmen at the polls.

In the four congressional elections held since the "Dirty Dozen" campaign was organized, the lobby group has had remarkable success. Thirty-one of the 41 members named to the hit list (some were repeats) are no longer in Congress. Twenty-five were defeated, while six chose to retire.

Despite a few conspicuous exceptions such as Rep. Samuel DeLoe, R-Ohio, who is going into his fourth straight election as a "Dirty Dozen" target, most members named to the list have found it a dangerous distinction.

Now a former Nixon-Ford administration official, Laurence H. Silberman, has suggested a similar approach for ridding the government of programs that no longer work or involve excessive waste.

Writing in a new Republican Party quarterly magazine called "Commonsense," Silberman notes that almost every federal program, once initiated, "achieves instant immortality" because an "iron triangle" builds up among the congressional committees that developed the program, the bureaucrats who administer it, and the constituency that benefits from it.

Although the general public decries wasteful spending and unnecessary programs, the "iron triangle" alliance in favor of keeping a program going is always stronger, because it is intense and narrowly focused, than the diffused constituency for reform.

James McIntyre, President Carter's budget chief is the first to acknowledge the difficulties of reducing, let alone eliminating, programs which do not by any objective standard warrant continuation.

"It's one of the most frustrating problems we face," he told us in a recent interview. "Those with a vested interest in a program always claim it just needs a little more time - and a little more money - to prove its worth."

But Silberman's analysis, which McIntyre found intriguing enough to get photocopied on the spot, suggests that the president could mobilize an effective board constituency for program cuts by using something like the "Dirty Dozen" technique.

In preparing the federal budget each year, Silberman argues, the president should require department heads to rank each program within their jurisdiction according to effectiveness - the bang for the buck.

Then, before actually sending his budget to Congress, the president should make public the rankings - along with an explanation of why certain programs are rated at the bottom of the heap.

"Perhaps ineffective but particularly popular programs would gain a somewhat higher than deserved ranking," Silberman concedes. "But if those at the bottom were not the very worst, they almost certainly would be poor ones."

Most presidential management reports receive scant notice from the press and public. But a report card on federal programs, coming directly from the president, would probably be the exception since, as Silberman points out, "it has the ingredient that commands attention in Washington - winners and losers."

If the rankings were carefully compiled, and the president's own budget watchdogs would see to that, the vested interests fighting to preserve wasteful or ineffective programs would find their task considerably harder than it is now. If a "Dirty Dozen" hit list works in congressional elections, why shouldn't "Bureaucratic Boondoggles" draw some fire at budget time?

Your money's worth

New protections if you are 'bumped'

If you are involuntarily "bumped" from an overbooked airline flight, you can, as of this month, get much more of a refund (and cash, too) than in the past. But if you're typical of most airline travelers: you still are startlingly ignorant of what you can do to protect yourself against this bumping.

This past Sept. 3, most of a new Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) ruling went into effect. The rule is designed to slash the number of passengers - more than 150,000 a year - who are bumped off flights against their will.

Here is a simple Q and A to explain what rights and protections the new rule does and does not provide you, as an airline passenger.

Q. What rights do I have if I hold a confirmed reservation on a flight and am bumped against my will because the plane has been overbooked and is overcrowded?

A. If you are involuntarily bumped, the airlines must refund you the full cost of your ticket to your destination or your first stopover. A stopover is more than just a change of planes; it is defined as a stop of more than four hours on domestic flights and more than 24 hours on international flights. Thus, if you are bumped from a New York to Los Angeles flight that has you changing planes in Chicago, say, the airline must refund the full cost of your New York-Los Angeles fare, not just the New York-Chicago portion. If you lose your seat involuntarily, the very least you must receive is $37.50, up to a maximum of $200.

Q. Do the new rules require an airline that bumps me to make sure I reach my destination within a certain time?

A. Yes. If an airline fails to provide you with alternate transportation that brings you to your destination within two hours of your originally scheduled arrival time, it must refund you twice the cost of your ticket. The minimum you can receive in this case is $75; the maximum is $400.

Q. How can the airlines avoid paying these stiff penalties?

A. Under the new CAB rules, before anyone may be bumped against his or her will, the airlines first must ask for volunteers who agree to give up their seats in return for a payment at the discretion of the airlines.

Q. What sort of payment or compensation are airlines required to give passengers who willingly give up their seats?

A. There is no specified amount airlines must offer would-be volunteers. Compensation may vary from one flight to another, or even from one volunteer to another, reports my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer. Under American Airlines' volunteer system, for passengers on an oversold flight receive a printed notice when they check in. This notice discloses that if they are willing to catch a later flight, they will receive a certain payment. This payment may range from $25 to $100, depending on the airport, time of day, number of alternative flights available, other factors. Under American's system, all volunteers from a particular flight receive the same compensation, but airlines may adjust their offerings to prospective volunteers as they see fit.

Q. If no one volunteers to be bumped, how do airlines decide which passengers stay behind?

A. This remains a problem. The airlines' rules about boarding priority differ. Most give preference to unaccompanied children, the elderly and connecting passengers - at least in practice, if not formally.

But the procedures do vary and as of today, the CAB has approved none of the airlines' priority rules. When it does so - probably within the next couple of months - the airlines must make available to passengers at all ticket counters and boarding points at least a summary of these rules.

Q. What can you do to avoid being among the bumped?

A. Not much, until the priority rules are clarified. You can verify that the airlines are acting in accordance with their own rules, of course. You can avoid being among the last passengers to check in. Generally, the first passengers bumped are airline personnel or eligible travel agents traveling on passes, not regular tickets. Next come passengers holding discount tickets, the last to check in for the flight, or the "least inconvenienced." Your best protection is to be fully aware of the problem - and avoid the obvious pitfalls.

Louvre Lineage

The Louvre Museum in Paris was first opened to the public on Nov. 8, 1793. The construction of the Louvre, originally intended as a royal residence, was started in 1204 by King Philippe Auguste. Its fine art collection was begun by Francis I in the 16th century.

Mickey Mouse scene

At first it seemed odd that Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and the Saudi Arabian minister of finance, Mohammed Abalkhail, secretly met about the declining dollar in, of all places, Florida's Walt Disney World.

On second thought the locale seemed just right.

Given the administration's poor job in maintaining the value of the dollar, it's fitting that its fate was discussed in the land of Mickey Mouse.

Authorities intensify search

PALO PINTO, Texas (AP) — Authorities intensified their search today for two Palo Pinto County Jail escapees who are believed to have robbed two men Sunday at a motel a block from the jail before fleeing in a stolen pickup truck.

The search for Dan Taggart, 18, of Dallas, and Michael Bender, 23, of Mineral Wells, had been concentrated along U.S. 180 between Mineral Wells and Palo Pinto.

Law officers searched for the pair on horseback and in foot patrols.

But Sunday's apparent sighting of the two escapees caused authorities to redirect their efforts to an area west of Palo Pinto along U.S. 180 and Interstate 20.

Deputy Sheriff Bobby Smith said two Jacksboro men told officers they were robbed by men they identified as the escapees. One of the Jacksboro men, Clifford Barker, said the two escapees forced their way into his motel room.

Barker told officers the two escapees—armed with a 44-magnum pistol and a carbine rifle—tied them up with lamp cords, cleaned up and changed into new clothes. The robbers stayed about two or three hours, Smith said, then robbed the pair of about $300.

The two Jacksboro men, Barker and Kirby Castle, were not hurt, Smith said.

Taggart and Bender were among three inmates who escaped from the jail here Thursday evening after stabbing a jailer and clubbing a woman radio dispatcher. The victims were in stable condition Sunday at Palo Pinto General Hospital.

The other escapee, Karol McAtee, 24, of Mineral Wells, was captured Saturday when officers raided a house in Mineral Wells. McAtee offered no resistance, officers said.

Officers said they were puzzled by Taggart's involvement in the escape, since he was serving a 30-day sentence for misdemeanor marijuana possession. McAtee was accused of armed robbery, while Bender was being held on a burglary charge.

All three men were charged with attempted capital murder after the breakout. The charges stemmed from the attacks on the jailer and the dispatcher.

The Investigation Continues

The House Assassinations Committee begins its fourth week of public hearings today, as it continues to investigate the death of President John F. Kennedy. The committee is trying to find answers to questions which have plagued some people since 1963. How many shots were fired at Kennedy's car? Who fired them? And from where? The committee has interviewed doctors, weapons specialists, and film and sound experts to try to get at the answers. Among the objects involved in the investigation: the gun Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly used to kill Kennedy, a mail-order rifle purchased for $12.78.

One man injured in crash

HOUSTON (AP) — One man was critically hurt but 18 others escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when a twin-engine, propeller aircraft crashed near Hobby Airport after both engines failed.

The plane, a Gruman Gulf Stream I owned by Continental Oil Co., plunged to the ground about a half mile southeast of the airport as it battled to regain altitude following an unsuccessful landing attempt.

A.M. Winham Houston area coordinator for the Federal Aviation Administration, said one of the plane's engines had malfunctioned just before reaching Hobby from Ponca City, Okla., where its flight originated.

Winham said the second engine apparently failed after the pilot gave it full power during the aborted landing.

Passenger Scott Cranford, 25, of Ponca City, was struck in the torso by a fence post that crashed through a window of the plane as it slid sideways to a rest in a corral at stable near the airport, said R.H. Le Moing, a Houston district fire chief.

In 117, Hadrian was told he was heir to the Roman Empire.

holding more than one job do so for financial reasons. About one-third need the extra work to meet regular expenses; the others want to buy something special, save for the future or, like Miss Williams, pay off debts.

Here is a look at what working two jobs can mean:

Betty Rogam — her name and some of the details of her life are disguised at her request — earns about $8,000 a year as a teacher at a private, Montessori-method school in Bayonne, N.J., about an hour's drive from her home in Manhattan. Three nights a week, she is a waitress in a restaurant in New York's theater district. She works from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursdays and from 4:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays, earning $150 to $180 a week.

Miss Rogam, 30, says teaching is "something that I really love" and she plans to continue after she gets married sometime in the next year. She does not feel the same about the restaurant work. "There's such anxiety. This is the most horrible job in the world."

Miss Rogam works two jobs "because I'm on my own. It's survival." The extra money helps make ends meet, but the two jobs mean she spends more than she otherwise would. "I never clean my own house. I hire a maid... Transportation costs $100 a month... Miss Rogam's biggest regret is "that I didn't have time to start a family earlier." Is she looking forward to marriage and the prospect of quitting her job as a waitress? "I can't wait."

Jean Seiler, 22, spends eight hours a day, five days a week as an offset printer for the state of South Dakota, earning $7,800 a year. She works at least 16 hours a week as night manager at a Super Duper grocery store, earning $3.50 an hour and adding a minimum of about $3,000 to her annual income.

Miss Seiler says two jobs "really cut down on your social life," but she manages to find time to play softball on a team sponsored by a local business. "You've just got to watch what you do."

Miss Seiler started at the supermarket in April 1977 so she could buy a car. The car is paid for, but she will keep both jobs. "I'm getting used to the money. It's almost worth it. It's the first time I don't have to sit around worrying about where the money will come from if the car needs repairs or wondering about what happens if I get sick."

Family, friends speak of change

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Family members and friends have told a jury of the change that came over David Powell as he immersed himself in a world of "speed" and assumed names.

His lawyers planned to present psychiatric testimony today that Powell was insane and should not be executed for machine-gunning Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo.

Powell, 27, and Sheila Meinert, also 27, are charged with capital murder in the May 18 slaying of Ablanedo, who was struck 10 times by bullets from an AK-47 automatic rifle.

Miss Meinert's trial is scheduled for next month.

Edith Roberts, a defense lawyer, said the key witness would be Dr. Emmanuel Tanay of Detroit, Mich. She said no Austin psychiatrist would examine Powell and testify for the defense "because it's unpopular."

The state rested Friday, and the defense presented evidence that mental illness had afflicted numerous members of Powell's family in the past, including his mother, father and maternal aunt and uncle.

Friends said his behavior changed in recent years, his appearance became unkempt and his conversation was rambling, incoherent and full of wild and grandiose notions.

One friend said he refused a request by Powell to inject him with methamphetamine, or "speed," when Powell's hands were shaking too badly to give college, then quit. She got the job at Blaney's and, when she went back to teaching, did not want to give it up. "You develop friends that you work with and they've really become important to me."

The extra money also is important. "I can save a lot more," she says, noting that she spent 10 days in the Virgin Islands this summer. Ms. Ashley has a boyfriend she sees regularly and she works out at a health club three afternoons a week. Can she keep it up? Probably, she says. "I might just play it by ear."

Ellen Frank, 34, is the host of "Woman Is..." a weekly half-hour talk show on KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh. She does research in the psychiatry department of Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic and is studying for a Ph.D. in clinical psychology. She is married with two daughters, 7 and 9, three stepdaughters and a stepson visit several times a week.

Ms. Frank spends "probably 50 hours a week at the hospital." The TV show, taped Thursdays and aired Saturdays, takes four or five hours. She prefers not to reveal her income, but says the TV work accounts for about a fourth of it. "I love everything that I'm doing," she says. "I have always been the kind of person who is happier the more I have to do... This is really out of love."

himself the shot.

A doctor who treated Powell for a knife wound in the hand said Powell gave his name as John Michael Abney Jr. His landlady testified she rented a house to him and a young woman this spring under the name David Shotlander.

Powell's uncle, Dr. Clemens Struve, a Corpus Christi physician, said he believed as early as 1969 — Powell's sophomore year at the University of Texas — that Powell needed psychiatric treatment.

Struve testified that Powell, whose IQ was 135 to 145, "dropped from straight A's to straight F's."

"I felt he was becoming more and more part of the counterculture, the hippie crowd and less and less oriented to regular life," Struve said.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss...but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss. Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail. ADV.

Police notes

Leslie Williams, 1101 Campanella, reported the theft of two beds from 1120 Varnon.

While on patrol an officer observed a vehicle traveling in an erratic manner in the 300 block of W. Brown St. The vehicle was stopped and the driver, Charles Martinez, 740 N. West St., was reportedly arrested for driving while intoxicated. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Venora Cole at $500.

An officer observed a vehicle backing east at a low rate of speed from the front of a bar on W. Foster St. The vehicle was stopped and Charles Phillips was reportedly arrested for driving while intoxicated. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Venora Cole at $1000.

Employees of Allsup's Convenience Store on W. Wilks reported a juvenile shoplifter in the store. After resisting officers and damaging some merchandise in the store, the juvenile was arrested and charged with theft under $5, criminal mischief, intoxication and resisting arrest.

An employee of Taylor Petro-Shamrock, 1324 N. Hobart, reported someone stole $15-20 from the cash register and approximately $3 worth of candy.

Jerry Turner, 328 N. Dwight, reported Jack E. Roth pulled a knife on her daughter and then on her. Roth was located and reportedly arrested for public intoxication.

Joe L. Griffin was reportedly arrested at 2210 Hamilton for possession of a controlled substance and disorderly conduct.

Earl R. Guinn, 523 S. Bakkard, reported an acquaintance stole a silver dollar with a hole in it, an undetermined amount of pennies and two checks from the First National Bank, numbered 202 and 203.

Dallas violates rights according to Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet television commentator described Dallas as an impressive city of breathtaking views but said its natural beauty was a facade hiding social inequities and great wealth, genius and crime, mistreatments and violations of human rights.

Valentin Zorin started his hour-long documentary on Dallas and the assassination of President Kennedy there by quoting American author Warren Leslie's advice that those who go to Dallas should always try to arrive at sunset.

"All of a sudden on a flat barren plain like a mirage in a desert appear the outlines of a big city," Zorin said. "Since the air in the Southwest is always crisp and clean, the traveler gasps at the breathtaking sight — the reflection of the sunset on the windows recalls the colors of Matisse. It's very impressive."

The buildings change their colors like a rainbow, Zorin continued, but many things are hidden behind the colors — "mysteries and violations of human rights, genius and crime, inequities and riches and bright hopes for a better future."

The film then showed preparations for a cocktail party at the home of oilman Lamar Hunt. Zorin said an orchestra was flown down from Washington and among the prominent guests "who own oil rigs, ranches, banks and department stores... one should look for the answer to the secret riddle of Dallas," who killed Kennedy.

Zorin contended that the assassination was a conspiracy involving more than one gunman, that Lee Harvey Oswald was a "fall guy" whose bullets from the book depository window could not have hit Kennedy, that the alleged conspiracy was linked to Hunt's father, the late billionaire H.L. Hunt, and that "persons from the CIA and FBI" were involved.

Zorin made no mention of Oswald's living for several years in the Soviet Union and his attempts to visit Cuba.

Carter's energy program headed for first victory

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's embattled energy program appears headed for its first congressional victory in months as the House and Senate wade through busy agendas in hopes of finishing the year's work by mid-October.

Opponents of a hard-fought compromise on the natural gas section of Carter's 17-month-old energy plan are expected to make one more attempt today or Tuesday to try to scuttle the measure by returning it to committee. But they concede it will be an uphill fight.

Supporters of the bill — which would remove price controls from most natural gas by 1985 — claim they now have more than enough votes to approve the measure on a scheduled 1 p.m. EDT vote on Wednesday.

The House has not yet acted on the plan, but House leaders intend to lump the gas-pricing bill with other administration energy proposals and pass the package on a single vote.

This week should also see the Senate Finance Committee complete work on its version of a tax-cut bill. It is eyeing a much more modest reduction than the proposed 33.3 percent cut being championed by Republicans.

The energy and tax-reduction bills have been given top priority by leaders of both chambers, who say they will not end the 1978 session until they are passed — even if it means returning after the November congressional elections.

However, the lawmakers seem intent on finishing their work and going home by Oct. 14 — even though they must first negotiate their way through several possible filibusters and pass a number of "must" federal spending bills.

That means many late-night sessions of both chambers during the next three weeks.

Ohio natural gas well burns out of control

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — A natural gas well burned out of control today, sending thousands of dollars worth of gas up in smoke, as officials aided by a Texas expert on well fires planned a second assault on the blaze.

Attempts to dump mud into the well and stop the fire that began Friday, spouting flames into the air that could be seen for miles, failed Sunday.

Another mud-packing attempt was planned today. About 600 tons of mud — a mixture of gel, sand and water — would be used, said Paul Bartlo, one of the owners of the New Philadelphia firm of Tipka-Bartlo, which leases the well.

The well is owned by the Libbey-Owens-Ford Co. of Toledo. Bartlo said the fire was burning about 10 million cubic feet of gas a day, or $20,000 worth at wellhead prices.

If the mud failed, he said, "The next thing is to drill a relief well off-setting this well."

The second well would relieve pressure in the first, he said.

Bartlo said use of explosives would be considered if the second well failed. Blasting would be an effort to extinguish the fire by pulling oxygen from the flaming gas.

Four rig hands who were burned when the well caught fire Friday and were hospitalized were listed in fair condition.

The well is about 15 miles northeast of Cambridge on a private farm. Well firefighting expert Red Adair was called from Houston Saturday. He said the fire was "very serious... very dangerous," but posed no threat to the surrounding area.

Firefighters hosed down farm buildings and vegetation in the area to prevent the fire from spreading.

Three rig hands hospitalized at Akron's Children's Hospital were identified as William Hall, 23, George Cottrell, 22, and Don Salisbury, 27, all of Cambridge. Their condition improved from serious to fair Sunday, the hospital said.

William N. Tipka, 64, of Middleburg Heights, who also was working on the well, was listed in fair condition Sunday at Union Hospital in Dover.

Deaths

ORA HARPER
Ora Lee Harper, 78, died Saturday in Amarillo.

Services are at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Duenkel Smith Funeral Home. Officiating will be Rev. Gene Allen. Lamar Full Gospel Assembly. Burial will follow in the Lefors Cemetery.

She was born in Commanche, Okla., and moved to Lefors in 1940 from Oklahoma. She moved to Pampa in 1963 and to Amarillo in 1973.

She is survived by one son, Mark Harper, Velma, Okla.; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Enloe, Amarillo; two brothers, Tom Florence, Lefors; Bob Florence, Torrance, Calif.; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Correction

Police reports indicated that Dorothy Jefferies was the owner of the Boozie and Brew but Jefferies is an employee and not the owner.

Vandals recently used a pellet gun to shatter windows in the establishment.

Worker survives fall

SEATTLE (AP) — Unable to cry out, his body broken, Joseph Heller spent three days crawling for help after he fell five stories in an elevator shaft, police say.

"I'm amazed that he made it," said Sgt. Floyd Walker. "The torture he went through must have been unbelievable."

The Seattle man, 33, a deaf mute, suffered fractures of the neck, pelvis, ribs and upper right arm, as well as a broken leg and head injuries, a Harborview Medical Center spokeswoman said. He was reported in serious but improved condition late Sunday.

William N. Tipka, 64, of Middleburg Heights, who also was working on the well, was listed in fair condition Sunday at Union Hospital in Dover.

Students back in school as teachers strike ends

By The Associated Press
More than 22,500 students returned to their classrooms today in Bridgeport, Conn., as the 19-day strike by public school teachers in the state's largest city ended with both sides approving a two-year contract proposed by the state labor commissioner.

Elsewhere, teachers' strikes affected nearly 500,000 students in Washington state, Ohio, Michigan, Massachusetts and Minnesota.

The Bridgeport City Council voted overwhelmingly to accept Commissioner Peter Reilly's proposals Sunday night, minutes after more than 260 jailed teachers were freed from a National Guard camp where they were held for violating a judge's back-to-work order.

The new contract was unanimously approved earlier Sunday by the city's Board of Education after the teachers voted 686-205 to accept the settlement, although they were unaware of its recommendations.

Superior Court Judge James Henebery ordered the teachers released when he learned of the school board vote.

The two-year contract contains a 6 percent wage increase plus increments in the first year and a 7.5 percent pay raise including increments for the second year. The agreement also includes a "no reprisals clause" for strike participants.

The union had sought 8.6 percent annual increases for the teachers, whose salaries ranged from $9,450 to $20,180 a year, under the contract that expired Aug. 31.

St. Louis service cancelled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All Amtrak passenger train service through St. Louis has been canceled because of picketing against Terminal Railroad Association. Amtrak officials said.

The following routes are affected: —Chicago-to-St. Louis trains will operate only between Chicago and Springfield, Ill.

—The National Limited, which normally travels between New York City and Kansas City, Mo., will end at Indianapolis.

—The Inter-American, which normally runs between Laredo, Texas, and Chicago will end at Little Rock, Ark.

A hearing requested by Terminal Railroad for a preliminary injunction against the Brotherhood of Railroad and Airline Clerks was scheduled to begin this morning in federal court in St. Louis. Terminal Railroad, which is responsible for almost all railroad switching in the St. Louis area, was hit by a walkout of about 1,500 workers last week.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are three married sisters deeply concerned about our mother who, up until a few months ago, was a normal, healthy mother and a loving grandmother. Mother got involved with a weird religious cult, and now she's taking part in voodoo rites. She gave them $5,000 to make her a "saint." They locked her in a house for seven days and nights with another "saint" who is her "Godmother."

She went through a ritual during which her head was shaved, and chickens and doves were sacrificed and their blood poured over her body. For a year she must wear a white turban, support her "Godmother Saint," and get permission before going anywhere. Mother now actually believes that she has the power to cure, curse and kill!

Her lovely home has become filthy—cluttered with candles and all sorts of ceremonial paraphernalia. She hangs up the phone when we try to reason with her, and says if we can't accept her new religion we can all drop dead. She vows she will never give up her religion even if it means never seeing her children or grandchildren again.

The police know all about this cult, but they say they can't do anything about it because our mother joined it of her own free will. Her doctor says she definitely needs psychiatric treatment, but we can't get a psychiatrist to commit her.

Meanwhile, our lawyer says that he is powerless to act without a psychiatrist's affidavit.

Please help us.

WAITING IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR WAITING: Even though your mother insists that she chose this "religion" of her own free will, she obviously was influenced by some kind of mind control such as hypnosis or brainwashing.

The fact that your mother paid $5,000 to become a "saint" and now claims powers to cure, curse and kill is clear evidence that she is a very sick woman.

You need a lawyer and a psychiatrist who will work together in an effort to get your mother deprogrammed and restored to normalcy. Don't give up!

DEAR ABBY: Some weeks ago you ran a letter from a lady who claimed flatly that everyone in the world knows the Swiss to be closer with a centime, tighter with a token, if you please, than any other people. That statement has rankled me ever since.

As one whose ancestors wore the tartans and kilts, I take umbrage at her claim, for the whole world knows that the canny Scots are the most penurious people in the world.

As a matter of fact, 'tis common ken here in Bonnie Arizona that the Grand Canyon was dug in a fortnight when my maternal great-great-grandfather, Pedro Gonzales McLeod (Pronounced McCloud), dropped a nickel, and it rolled down a gopher hole.

DALE CANNON: TEMPE, ARIZONA

CONFIDENTIAL TO ETHEL GRAHAM VANCE— wherever you are— Thank you for these profound lines:

"If white is good, and black is bad
Then all my friends are gray or plaid."

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby; Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— What can be done for fungus of my toes? The growth is thick and fibrous and adheres to the toes. It falls from the nail. It is very sore to touch and it is impossible to even touch the bed covers at night. Is there a chance of blood poisoning? I got this during the service in the South Pacific Islands during World War II.

DEAR READER— One of my friends with the same problem says he has "terminal toenails," and I guess that's as good a term as any.

Fungus involvement of the feet can attack the toenail and this is a frequent source of constant reinfection. Sometimes it is so bad that the toenail involved has to be removed.

You are certainly going to need direct care from your physician. He may want to give you a medicine by mouth used to treat fungus infection called griseofulvin (Fulvicin U/F). This is sometimes used in the presence of difficult fungus infections as you described yours.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What To Do About Them. It gives you more information on treating athlete's foot, which is a fungus disease. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As the material I am sending you explains, fungi can live in your shoes and socks. That means that you need to change your socks regularly, and the socks should be sterilized. That's usually accomplished by ironing them. Home care, in terms of attention to your shoes and socks, may help you in the overall picture in treating your fungus disease while your doctor is prescribing the medicines he thinks are

Polly's pointers
By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY— Do tell Ruby that I have a 9-by-12 foot braided rug in my dining room which has required cleaning. I wash it with a commercial rug shampoo— always wash with the braids, never across them— and it comes out beautifully. If it is very soiled I let it dry and then repeat the cleaning in a few days. Try this and I think you will be proud of the rug. — GOLDIE

DEAR POLLY— I think I have a good idea to pass on to our camping friends. I have always had trouble keeping clothes from falling down in the closet when we were pulling our camper but have found that if the hangers are put on the rod facing toward me they will not fall. — MRS. R.K.

DEAR POLLY— I used to have trouble getting my dog to take medicine. Now I just smother the pill with peanut butter and the dog swallows it with no trouble. — B.B.

FILLED chocolate shells are a scrumptious make-ahead dessert.

Chocolate dessert

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Many dessert lovers are convinced chocolate is the soul food to end all soul foods.

Homemade chocolate treats are a happy end to family meals and an extra-special addition to dinner parties.

Even people watching their weight can indulge in one of these elegant chocolate shells filled with chocolate almond cream. Many experts say that an occasional small treat can stave off the eating binges that devastate weight-maintenance programs.

The chocolate shells are simple to make. Brush melted milk chocolate on the inside of fluted paper baking cups and chill. You may fill the shells with frozen yogurt, ice cream, sherbet, custard or pastry creams, whatever suits your fancy.

Keep a batch of filled and frozen chocolate shells on hand. You'll never be without spectacular dessert for a spur-of-the-moment party.

8 ounces milk chocolate

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler over warm water. Stir until melted. Remove from heat. Cool slightly.

HAMMING UP LASAGNA

- 1 package (23 7/8) Lasagna Dinner
- 4 slices boiled ham, cut into 1" squares
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound Mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 4 hard cooked eggs, sliced

Cook lasagna according to package directions. Sauté boiled ham, onions, and green pepper in margarine. Preheat oven to 425. Grease a 6"x10"x2" baking dish. Put 2 tablespoons of sauce from package over the bottom of the dish. Spoon 3 tablespoons of sauce over macaroni. Sprinkle with one-half of Mozzarella cheese. Add another layer of macaroni; arrange one-half of ham combination on it. Continue layering macaroni, ham mixture, one-half of egg slice, then sauce. Sprinkle top layer with cheese from package. Bake uncovered for 20-25 minutes. Garnish with slice eggs. Serves 4 to 6.

Quiche makes brunches

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Quiche makes a perfect brunch. The cheese pie is easy to prepare with little worry about something going wrong.

Roquefort cheese lovers will enjoy the use of their favorite as a filling. You may make your own pie crust, line a pie shell with puff paste or make a crust from refrigerator biscuits. Service with an orange-and-onion salad and a crisp white wine.

QUICHE A LA CANYON

- 4 ounces Roquefort cheese
- 1/4 pound bacon
- 2 cups sour cream
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 small onion, minced
- 2 large fresh mushrooms, chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
- Pinch of mace
- Pinch of pepper
- eggs, well beaten
- 2 tablespoons white wine
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 8-inch unbaked pie shell lined with puff paste or pie crust

Mash Roquefort cheese.

FRESH STRAWBERRY FRITTERS

Strawberry fanciers know no season. They like to indulge their cravings for their favorite fruit wherever and whenever they can.

Fresh strawberry fritters will be a pleasant eating surprise for family and friends.

- 2 pints fresh strawberries
- 1 cup complete buttermilk pancake mix
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 powdered sugar
- Whipped cream (optional)

Wash whole strawberries and pat dry with paper towels. (Remove stems or leave them intact.)

Combine pancake mix with water using rotary beater. Beat just until smooth. Dip berries in batter, coating all but stem. Fry in hot oil (400 degrees) until golden, about 30 seconds. Drain.

Dust with powdered sugar. Serve at once. If desired, offer whipped cream for dipping. Makes 6 servings.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Fry bacon until crisp, drain and crumble.

Mix Roquefort and sour cream. Sauté onion and mushrooms in melted butter until wilted. Stir in Roquefort mixture, garlic salt, mace and pepper.

Beat eggs with cornstarch and wine. Stir into Roquefort mixture. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated oven 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until firm. Serve warm. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

ORANGE AND ONION SALAD

- 1 orange, peeled and cut into sections
- 1 sweet or red onion, peeled and thinly sliced
- 1 head of romaine

- lettuce
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup pitted black olives, sliced
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds, toasted (optional)

Wash and dry lettuce. Make sure all white inner peel is removed from orange. Blend oil, juices and salt. Add orange and onion. When ready to serve, add crisped greens and toss well. Sprinkle with olives and sesame seeds. Makes 4 servings.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

September 26, 1978

Valuable contacts will be made this coming year with new and interesting people who come into your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can make great strides today in advancing your self-interests without the need for costly investments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll make a favorable impression and gain the support of a valuable ally today if you're congenial and friendly. Be extremely careful not to come on too strong.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Maintaining a philosophical nature will keep the good things rolling in today. Getting uptight about a situation over which you have no control is folly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You should be lucky today in commercial situations, but not if you allow those who don't belong to be included. Keep freeloaders out of the act.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your decisions today are well thought out and will prove beneficial. However, an associate might not be able to see the advantages and could give you a hard time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be able to accomplish a great deal and have quite a rewarding day, but know when to quit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions are so ripe for you to have a good time with others today that you have a slight tendency to overindulge. Avoid extremes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An associate may be an annoyance to you today, but if you can laugh it off he or she will have little effect on your productivity and won't spoil your day.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Communication channels are wide open today, but I doubt if you'll use them for anything other than social purposes. This would be self-gratifying, but unproductive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is plenty of material opportunity about you today, but you seem to be in a hurry to get rid of anything you acquire. It's doubtful much will stay in your pocket.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though your notices will be unselfish, you're likely to fare better personally than the people you may be trying to do things for today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Because things come your way today without too much effort, you might be challenged on how you acquired your goods. Don't enter into a dispute.

Cowboys struggle to get past Cards

By TOM DeCOLA
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — No one came right out and said it, but the Dallas Cowboys may have been looking ahead Sunday to undefeated Washington when they fumbled to a 21-12 National Football League victory over winless St. Louis.

Dallas, now 3-1, and Washington clash in a Monday night television game next week. Dorsett piled up 154 yards on 21 carries, with most of it coming in the second half.

Bakken field goal. The Cowboys roared back behind Dorsett's running, with Newhouse scoring on a two-yard run and a 15-yard pass from quarterback Roger Staubach to put the Cards away.

Patriots nip Raiders in thriller

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
It is neither a geographical rivalry, nor a divisional one. For the Oakland Raiders and New England Patriots, it goes a lot deeper than that.

More than anything else on Sunday night, they wanted to beat the Raiders again for him — and they did. Sam Cunningham's 1-yard touchdown dive with 16 seconds to play beat Oakland 21-14.

touchdown passes — 40 yards to Steve Largent, 4 yards to Ron Howard and 12 yards to Sam McCullum — that launched the Seahawks past the Lions.
