Nation wide rail strike may hinder local plants

Officials at the two largest companies in Pampa had breathed a sigh of relief Tuesday after a Federal court restraining order had been issued ordering striking railway workers back to work.

Railway workers chose to ignore the back to work order and continued to walk picket lines Wednesday morning and virtually all rail traffic had stopped running on the local Santa Fe line.

Administrators at both Cabot and Celanese were concerned with the walkout and the effects the rail stoppage might have on their companies.

"We have two different operations here, one military and one for the oil fields, Vic Raymond, head of Cabot Machinery stated. "Our oil field business is shipped in and out by truck and the strike would virtually have no effect on it, but if we can't get the scrap metal to melt here, then we would have a problem."

"The strike will not effect our employment status or our production of steel," Raymond said. "If it lasts more than 60 days then we will have to take a second look at it."

"We buy our scrap by the (train) car load," Raymond said. "If we can't get the scrap then we can't melt any metal. In that area it could hurt us."

Celanese officials stated they would have to wait and see what Santa Fe supervisory personnel could do with moving their products before any decisions could be made.

"We are watching the situation very closely," Al Miller, industrial relations manager said. "We don't know why the restraining order was not honored by the union. We will have to wait and see what the supervisory personnel of the railway can do for us."

Miller said there would be a slight increase in truck traffic due to the strike, but that Celanese was hoping railway supervisory personnel could move the company's products on the rails.

The Associated Press reported Texas railroad workers were under a court order today to return to work but early checks with affected railways showed not all unions were immediately complying.

Freight traffic moved slowly across Texas and the rest of the nation Tuesday as railway clerks picketed 43 railroads. The pickets went up in sympathy for the Norfolk and Western Railway on the East Coast, which has been idled for several months because of the strike by the Railway and Airline Clerks Union.

Some railroad spokesmen said they felt the court orders would be honored but the logistics of serving the orders today might account for the delay.

Loren Simmons, a spokesman for Santa Fe in Dallas, said there would be about 80 crews in its system today, made up of supervisory personnel who started their careers as trainmen.

Simmons said those 80 crews could probably operate about a third as many trains as usually run on the line.

Amtrak passenger service in Texas was canceled Tuesday. The Interamerican, which runs from Chicago to Laredo through Fort Worth, made its run south and stopped.

Limiting SPS rate hike

Commission approves ordinance

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

At an emergency meeting this morning, an ordinance limiting a proposed $21.9 million Southwest Public Service Co. rate increase to $4.2 million per annum was adopted by the city commission.

The ordinance also eliminates automatic monthly fuel cost adjustment billings.

Similar ordinances have been passed in Amarillo, Canyon and other cities fighting the proposed increase. The ordinances are part of a strategy designed to put the cities a step ahead of an upcoming Public Utilities Commission ruling on the case, which is expected within a few weeks. The cities anticipate the ruling will follow a recent PUC examiner's report recommending SPS be granted a $15.6 million increase.

The ordinances limiting the increase and eliminating fuel cost adjustments are certain to be appealed by SPS to the PUC. The cities, pessimistic about the ultimate outcome of the case before the PUC, hope to take it to court if necessary.

Mayor R.D. Wilkerson proposed today's emergency session so the city could "be a step ahead rather than a step behind" the PUC.

"The PUC may meet Thursday to consider the examiner's report on the SPS increase," said Wilkerson at Tuesday's city commission meeting. "According to our plan, we think it's necessary to pass this ordinance before the report is given to the PUC."

The Pampa ordinance will become effective 20 days after passage unless appealed by SPS, at which time it would be suspended.

"We will have to appeal this to the PUC," said SPS District Manager Melvin Kunkel, adding he is "very disappointed" in the commission's action this morning.

Describing the fuel cost adjustment as "the only fair way" of recouping SPS' fuel expenses, Kunkel said

"Elimination of the fuel cost adjustment would be disastrous for our company."

If the ordinance is allowed to stand, Kunkel said "We'll have to curtail our operations tremendously." He added that even if SPS is granted the $15.6 million increase recommended in the examiner's report, "There's something that's going to have to be cut back. We don't ask for what we don't need."

Good afternoon

News in brief

The forecast for Pampa is generally fair through Thursday with warmer afternoons. The high today will be in the 70s with the low tonight in the 50s. Thursdays high will be in the 80s. The winds will be out of the west at 10-15 miles per hour, becoming light and variable on Thursday.

Two small planes may have been involved

Jet pilot may have seen only one plane

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The pilot of a passenger jet that collided with a single-engine plane in a cloudless sky may have thought he was past the tiny craft because he was confused by a second light plane, investigators say.

Phillip Hogue of the National Transportation Safety Board said that a twin-engine light plane may have played a part in Monday's crash that left at least 150 people dead when the Pacific Southwest Airlines jet and Cessna 172 crashed into a residential area. It was the nation's worst air disaster.

But Hogue emphasized Tuesday that investigators were nowhere near fixing blame for the crash.

"The only conflict I have at this moment is to determine if the PSA pilot saw the aircraft he collided with," Hogue said. "Did he see a third aircraft out there or did he see any aircraft at all?"

Hogue also said that the PSA Boeing 727 and Cessna were being controlled by the Lindbergh Field tower on the same radio frequency, contrary to testimony in Washington on Tuesday by Elwood Driver, acting chairman of the safety board. He said Driver might have received wrong information before testifying the planes were talking to different towers on different frequencies.

The small plane was practicing instrument landings and the jet was descending for a landing when they collided.

"It was virtually head-on," Hogue said of the crash.

Hogue said pilot James

McFeron, 45, calmly reported his jet was going down as it plunged into the North Park neighborhood three miles from the airport. "We're going in," Hogue quoted McFeron as telling the tower in a soft voice.

The death toll included 135 aboard the jetliner, two in the Cessna and at least 13 on the ground killed by chunks of metal and bodies cascading down on the neighborhood. At least nine people were injured.

Hogue said McFeron, a 17-year veteran of the airline, may not have been aware of the single-engine Cessna 172. "He may have thought he was past the aircraft he actually collided with."

Hogue said McFeron might have been confused.

"Listening to the tower, it's apparent that the twin-engine plane was making its approach," he said. "They had made their approach before the single-engine one. The pilot said, 'We've passed,' but we're unsure what plane he was referring to. The pilot probably was confused."

He said the pilot of the third plane had not been located but that investigators planned to study communications tapes in an attempt to learn the craft's registration number.

Hogue marveled at McFeron's "calm statement that he was going down."

"I cannot begin to account for it," he said. "Because when that airplane was hit, it had to be a matter that was understood in the cockpit."

Hogue said earlier that McFeron had told the tower his plane was about to crash.

"He said it in the softest tones, 'We're going down,' and I couldn't believe he said it in such soft tones. There was no sign of panic, no hint of terror."

Hogue said traffic controllers were also extraordinarily calm.

"It sounded almost routine," he said, "and the tower radioed back just as calmly: 'We'll dispatch the equipment.'"

Earlier, Tuesday in Washington, a House subcommittee heard testimony on air safety in a hearing that was scheduled weeks before the crash. Most of the testimony centered on Monday's disaster, however.

Driver said his board had recommended several times that the Federal Aviation Administration require collision avoidance systems. Witnesses for the Air Line Pilots Association said the technology for such systems has been available for years, but they are not in use because of inaction by the FAA.

The computerized systems would automatically warn pilots when they were on a collision course and some designs also would tell the pilot the best maneuver to avoid a crash.

Subcommittee Chairman John Burton, D-Calif., said the collision "perhaps could have been avoided" by avoidance systems.

Langhorne Bond, the head of the FAA who is scheduled to testify when the hearings resume Thursday, told reporters the FAA is working on such a system. But he said the FAA wants a system "that really does work."

Knesset to approve Camp David accords today

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's party is badly split over his agreement to abandon the Jewish settlements in the Sinai Desert if Egypt makes peace with Israel, but the Knesset is expected to endorse the Camp David accords overwhelmingly today.

With leftist opposition parties supporting the accords, analysts predicted 75-90 of the 120 members of the Knesset, the Israeli Parliament, would vote in favor of them.

Begin met Tuesday with the powerful Foreign Affairs and Security Committee and with Knesset members of his own Likud Party. He told them the Camp David negotiations nearly collapsed over the settlement issue until he decided that "peace is preferable to the settlements," but he failed to win over militant opponents of the accords.

One Likud member, Yosef Rom, complained that the decision to dismantle the settlements was made "as a result of an ultimatum. Peace reached by surrender to this kind of dictate cannot hold up."

The Laam faction of the Likud, which holds eight of the party's 45 Knesset seats and two places in the cabinet, planned to vote against the accords or abstain. Education Minister Zvulun Hammer, a member of the National Religious Party, reportedly was considering voting for the accords and then resigning to avoid the accusation that he backed Begin only to retain his cabinet post.

Political analysts said the depth of the adverse reaction within Begin's power base could spell trouble for him in the future, but he still has a sizable majority and does not have to face elections until 1981.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. officials were seeking support for the Camp David accords among Palestinians in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, but the initial reaction was negative.

The accords envision the end of Israel's 11-year military occupation and self-government for the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. But most Palestinians demand an independent state, and Israel rejects that.

The sources said the Americans believed that respected Palestinians, including some nationalist leaders who publicly condemn the accords, would cooperate and come forward to be candidates for the administrative council that is planned.

The sources said many Palestinians privately believe the Camp David accords provide the only realistic chance of ending the Israeli military government.

In the Arab world, President Hafez Assad of Syria met with King Hussein of Jordan and then went on to Saudi Arabia seeking support of his campaign against Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and the Camp David agreements.

OPINION PAGE

Hegemony ... depends on Who's looking

Throughout the history of the world — from the time things called countries were formed — one nation would have power to cower or exact tribute from others.

Powerful kings demanded "ransom" from less powerful ones. The word "tyrant", from the Greek, simply meant "one who is in power," as originally used.

The power game has led, of course, to many wars. Nations seeking to spread their sphere of influence have arbitrarily decided sometimes, "Hey, let's grab the other guy's land and riches."

In our time, the world's quadrants have come together. The big money holders in the Monopoly game are the United States and the Soviet Union. Others also in position of power now are China, India and, economically, nations like Saudi Arabia, Japan, West Germany, France, and even Iran — though this last one is fraught with poverty. Many others are rising on the scene.

Strategically, as Marx foresaw and as the Bible prophesied, there is a struggle between East and West. But the shape of East and West took a turn for the worse as far as Russia was concerned when Japan and China, two long-time former adversaries, signed a 10-year treaty in which the two pledged peace and friendship and agreed to "oppose" hegemony, or the establishment of international spheres of influence.

Here in Neuseland, this action seems distant and of little consequence to us. But two world wars — three counting the struggle for the Southeast Asian Peninsula encompassing Vietnam — have taught that actions in strange lands have a way of coming home.

The chieftains in the Kremlin were furious over this treaty. China has a deep bitterness toward Russia, claiming the Russians swiped 106 miles of its border territory. Japan has even a greater gripe with Russia.

The Soviet Union entered into World War II in the Pacific nine days before the Japanese surrender in August, 1945. Russia still holds four tiny islands in the Kurile chain it seized at the time. Japan wants them back.

Meanwhile, in D.C., our "chieftains" were dancing a jig. We are, after all, on "good" terms with the "yellow" powerful nations of the East. "Oppose", of course, is a word that suggests a position of immovability to a force. What we could be witnessing now, at a time when nations are arming faster than ever before, and with far more lethal power, is the lining up of the sides in the Chess Game to come.

C. Northcote Parkinson, the late historian, predicted the struggle between East and West was perennial and would continue until a great war.

The hegemony of Russia and the United States clearly exists. Many of the pieces on the world board move at one or the other's discretion.

With the Sino-Japanese pact entering the game, it remains to be seen which side of the board has the undesired hegemony, and that, like looking out a window, usually depends from which side you are looking.

Inflation in one page

By HENRY HAZLITT
(The Freeman)

A correspondent, heading a group of "Inflation Fighters," recently sent me a one-page typewritten summary of their case against inflation, and asked for my opinion of it. The statement was sincere and well-intentioned, but as with the great bulk of what is being written about inflation, it was confused in both its analysis and its recommendations.

I wrote approving his effort to "do something," and approving also his idea of trying to state the cause and cure for inflation on a single page, but suggested the following substitute statement.

1. Inflation is an increase in the quantity of money and credit. Its chief consequence is soaring prices. Therefore inflation — if we misuse the term to mean the rising prices themselves — is caused solely by printing more money. For this the government's monetary policies are entirely responsible.

2. The most frequent reason for printing more money is the existence of an unbalanced budget. Unbalanced budgets are caused by extravagant expenditures which the government is unwilling or unable to pay for by raising corresponding tax revenues. The excessive expenditures are mainly the result of government efforts to redistribute wealth and income — in short, to force the productive to support the unproductive. This erodes the working incentives of both the productive and the unproductive.

3. The causes of inflation are not, as so often said, "multiple and complex," but simply the result of printing too much money. There is no such thing as "cost-push" inflation. If, without an increase in the stock of money, wage or other costs are forced up, and producers try to pass these costs along by raising their selling prices, most of them will merely sell fewer goods. The result will be reduced output and loss of jobs. Higher costs can only be passed along in higher-selling prices when consumers have more money to pay the higher prices.

4. Price controls cannot stop or slow down inflation. They always do harm. Price controls simply squeeze or wipe out profit margins, disrupt production and lead to bottlenecks and shortages. All government price and wage control, or even "monitoring," is merely an attempt by the politicians to shift the blame for inflation on to producers and sellers instead of their own monetary policies.

5. Prolonged inflation never "stimulates" the economy. On the contrary, it unbalances, disrupts and misdirects production and employment. Unemployment is mainly caused by excessive wage rates in some industries, brought about either by extortionate union demands, by minimum wage laws (which keep teenagers and the unskilled out of jobs), or by prolonged and over-generous unemployment insurance.

6. To avoid irreparable damage, the budget must be balanced at the earliest possible moment, and not in some sweet-by-and-by. Balance must be brought about by slashing reckless spending, and not by increasing a tax burden that is already undermining incentives and production.

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

As a new school year begins, parents and community officials are deeply concerned about problems of educational content and administration.

A number of states are plagued with strikes by teachers. Such strikes are among the most unfortunate work stoppages, for they offer impressionable youngsters a model of irresponsible behavior on part of persons who are supposed to embody civic virtues. School boards have an obligation to their communities to take a firm stand against teacher strikes. This means hiring replacements for teachers who want to picket instead of teach.

Educational reform

On the other hand, many teachers have a legitimate grievance in that their earnings have fallen behind in a period of runaway inflation.

The solution for the teachers and the community is not a strike but a reappraisal and restructuring of spending on public education.

In many communities the educational apparatus is top-heavy with administrative personnel and expensive consultants. Money goes into the salaries and "perks" for the new educational bureaucracy, not into the salaries of classroom teachers.

The most needed educational reform is a reduction in the size of local and state educational hierarchies and elimination of costly facilities and "perks." Cutbacks in this area should provide funds to increase salaries of classroom teachers, who should be put on the merit system.

To be sure, administrative bureaucracies exist, at least in part, because of the demands of education laws passed by Congress, such as the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. In a recent study, the Rand Corporation concluded that the availability of federal funds encouraged school districts to undertake programs that were beyond their resources.

The lesson is that federal aid always results in federal control and heavier burdens on the taxpayers. Participation in federal education programs also results in enormous requirements for paperwork in connection with compliance forms. Thus educators are turned into paper shufflers. They are so busy attempting to comply with federal regulations that they haven't the time or money to develop local programs geared to local needs.

Unfortunately, it's far easier for a state or a school district to become involved with federal financing and planning than it is to end the involvement. States and school districts gradually move away from authentic educators to "grantsmen" who make a career of latching onto federal dollars.

If public elementary and secondary education are to be improved, however, it will be necessary for the states and school systems to end their dependence on Washington.

The emphasis in the schools must not be on the individual student and individual classroom teacher. Much has been accomplished in recent years in the way of providing accurate aptitude tests and for determining learning disabilities.

Public schools have real needs — improved book collections in school libraries, wide vocational opportunities, a stress on written and spoken English and basic mathematics, and freedom for teachers and principals to test and assign students without fear of lawsuit or harassment.

The way for Congress to help is to dismantle the federal educational apparatus constructed since the mid-1960s, not extend money and controls to more schools. The courts can help by restoring the concept of the neighborhood school as the legitimate educational entity.

Decentralization, local control, and elimination of bureaucracy and administrative overhead — this is the proper route for an improved educational system in the United States. In such a system, school boards would have more money for the capable, hardworking classroom teacher.

Much grumbling, no fight

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Carter loyalists at the Democratic National Committee are taking no chances that the party's mid-term conference in Memphis this winter might turn into a rebellion against the president.

Party Chairman John White and the DNC hierarchy have rigged the agenda and rules of the Dec. 8-10 conclave so tightly that conference delegates will be all but precluded from mounting any significant challenge to Carter's leadership.

It is a risky maneuver, for the procedural manipulation has angered many liberal activists within the party who had hoped to force a showdown on the failure of both Carter and Congress to fulfill the promises of the 1976 Democratic platform.

But it will probably succeed, despite the grumbling now going on. The liberals, blacks, union leaders and others most disenchanted with Carter and Congress are not yet ready to declare open warfare.

They read the same opinion polls as the president, and they realize any major Memphis confrontation over issues would inevitably be viewed by the press as the start of a "dump Carter" movement within the Democratic Party.

"No one really wants the type of fight the Carter people are obviously afraid of," said one liberal organizer, "but the more they batten down the hatches, the more they run the risk that sheer frustration will precipitate the very fight they want to avoid."

The one issue that could ignite a liberal revolt against Carter at the Memphis conference is probably national health insurance, where the president's caution has already provoked an open split by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his powerful allies in the United Auto Workers and other liberal unions.

But Kennedy, who insists he will not be a presidential candidate in 1980, cannot afford to stir the troubled waters, and the union people are not likely to lead the way for fear their efforts would be perceived as a draft-Kennedy gesture.

There will be 1,633 voting delegates to the mid-term conference, about 80 percent of whom will have been chosen by the end of September at various conventions and in primary elections. So far, liberal activists likely to have no great affection for Carter are picking up anywhere from 35 to 50 percent of the delegate seats.

But no matter how many potentially hostile delegates wind up in Memphis, they will be hard pressed to create any real mischief. The first two days of the conference will be devoted to speeches, parties and workshops that have no power to submit resolutions to the floor of the convention.

Only on the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 10, — when most delegates will be anxious to head for the airport to catch the last planes out of Memphis — will the conference devote an hour or so to debating and voting on resolutions.

In order to reach the conference floor for discussion, however, proposed resolutions must be submitted to the DNC by Nov. 27 and be cleared by Dec. 1 by a majority of the DNC's executive committee — which is firmly controlled by Carter loyalist John White.

To qualify a resolution for conference consideration over the objections of the DNC executive committee, dissidents would have to submit petition signatures from 409 delegates to the DNC no later than Dec. 5.

That amounts to a four-day "window" for collecting and submitting signatures from delegates scattered all over the country — an almost insurmountable chore. As a practical matter, any group pushing a resolution that would meet objections from the DNC hierarchy would have to start gathering petition signatures long in advance of that four-day period.

It isn't likely to happen. Most party activists will be too busy with the November elections to organize for Memphis, even if they had the stomach for a full scale confrontation with the Carter forces. Those unhappy with the president's performance will not doubt find informal outlets for their sentiments, but a fullscale fight will probably be forestalled.

Your money's worth

The truth about bottled waters

Q. What's the latest "nouveau" American "chic" in drinking in homes and restaurants across the land?

A. Bottled water, that's what — a European habit which goes back to the times of Julius Caesar and Michelangelo, which is immortalized in the story of Ponce de Leon and his search for the fabled fountain of youth. While our nation is known the world over for having the best tap water available anywhere sales of bottled waters are reaching the $200 million a year mark, triple the total as recently as a decade ago. And whatever the reason — chic or dieting or fear of contamination — one of every 200 Americans now drinks bottled water, with the perpendicular climb showing no sign of slowing.

The fad is not restricted to any one part of the U.S. The five states that consume 90 percent of the country's production — California, New York, Illinois, Texas and Florida — represent five very different parts of the country, different climates and lifestyles. The one apparent link is that they all have heavily populated city areas — suggesting a special appeal to sophisticated tastes and a popularity in trendier establishments.

But if you are part of this switch, do you know what you really are drinking? Do you know how to buy? The odds are you don't.

(1) A first key fact is that it's just about impossible for one bottled water to be described as better than another. The differences depend entirely on your individual tastes. As Alfred Y. Morgan Jr., president of the world-famed White Rock Products Corp., which has been bottling Wisconsin spring water for more than a century, says with refreshing honesty:

"Don't be fooled by fancy names or bottles. Drink what tastes good to you."

(2) No matter what the conflicting claims (spurred by an authoritative survey in late 1977 that the average municipal drinking water contained 22 carcinogens that would produce cancer), all bottled waters must meet certain bacteriological, chemical and physical standards, must be bottled under strict regulations covering cleanliness of processing, containers, shipping and storage. And all must be labeled under Food & Drug Administration rules.

(3) Many of the terms used to describe a water's source are confusing:

Bottled waters described as "artesian" (water pumped from a well), "natural spring," or "mineral water" (spring waters) come from natural springs or wells. They are bottled, minerals intact, directly from the source, unfiltered and unprocessed.

Bottled waters described as "purified," "artificial," "formulated," "drinking water" or "springlike" also come to just about the same thing. The terms mean the water has been scientifically treated to remove such impurities as chlorine and sulphates. Minerals are frequently added. Although the levels may differ, the contents of purified bottled waters are generally the same as artesian, natural spring or mineral waters.

As for purification treatments, "the different types include distillation, deionization, electrolysis or filtration," Morgan explains. "Most purified bottled waters are filtered," a category into which White Rock's Club Soda falls.

You also easily may be befuddled by the mineral (or salt) content. It's misleading, though, to limit the term "mineral water" to natural spring waters, because all bottled waters, except distilled, have minerals. (Morgan suggests that distilled water, while drinkable, should be consumed by your car, battery or clothes iron.) Minerals give bottle water its flavor.

(4) If you're choosing between carbonated or non-carbonated (still water), it's your taste which must dictate your purchase. Naturally carbonated (or naturally sparkling) means that carbon dioxide gases captured at the source are added to the water during bottling. Artificially carbonated water has carbon dioxide added.

(5) On price: roughly 75 percent of bottled waters on the market are purified, and tend to cost a little less than the imported varieties (so chic to order a

Sylvia Porter

Perrier or an Evian with a slice of lemon peel, you know.) But don't forget: one bottled water can't be called better than another. It's all a matter of personal taste, so experiment on your own and reach an intelligent decision.

(White Rock is preparing a free brochure, "A Consumer's Guide to Bottled Water," which will be available soon, from 215 Van Dyke St., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11231.)

One year ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko addressed the U.N. General Assembly in New York and met with President Carter at the White House.

Today's birthdays: Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois is 59 years old. Actor George Raft is 83. Film director Arthur Penn is 56.

Thought for today: Whether women are better than men I cannot say — but I can say they are certainly no worse — former Israeli Prime Minister Gold Meir.

LONDON (AP) — Patrick Cormack, a Conservative member of the House of Commons, says he is going to nominate President Anwar Sadat for the Nobel Peace Prize.

Cormack says he doesn't undervalue the contribution of Prime Minister Menachem Begin or "the herculean efforts of President Carter. But, without President Sadat's initiative and his refusal to be deflected by disappointment or bullying, there would have been no Camp David summit."

MONTREAL (AP) — Air Canada's 2,700 flight attendants will go on strike Oct. 5 unless their contract dispute with the airline is resolved by then, the attendants' unions say.

The airline, which suspended operations for 10 days last month when 7,500 ground-service workers walked out, has been training office workers to replace the flight attendants and plans to maintain limited service if the attendants strike.

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Former lawyer Siegfried Haag went on trial Monday on charges of masterminding a 1975 raid on West Germany's embassy in Stockholm in which two hostages were killed.

Haag, 32, who defended terrorists of the Red Army Faction in trials before he was arrested in December 1976, is charged with being an accomplice to murder and attempted coercion of the West German government. The prosecution alleges that the purpose of the raid was to secure the release of terrorists imprisoned in West Germany.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A 119-year-old man who was Malaya's pioneer rubber small-holder planted a rubber seedling Monday at an exhibition commemorating the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first rubber tree from Brazil.

The old man, Mat Isa, collected rubber seeds from the Kuala Kangsar district office 68 years ago and planted them on his two-acre plot. After the rubber trees supported him and his family for years, he sold his little plantation and bought a seven-acre orchard. He and his seventh wife still operate it.

South Dakota senator fails to hear speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Mondale should have known better.

He should have known that Jim Abourezk does not go to joint sessions and that he certainly would not go to one to listen to a speech about a Middle East peace plan he had already called a sellout of the Palestinians.

But it was a busy and confusing night and Mondale was only trying to do his job as vice president of the United States, to play his part in the ritual of joint sessions of Congress.

Understand that a president does not just walk into the House chamber and start talking. He is escorted into the chamber by a duly appointed committee of senators and congressmen.

So it was that the speaker of the House appointed six members of the Democratic and Republican leadership to the committee.

Then it was Mondale's turn. He appointed 12 senators, six Democrats and six Republicans.

His list included: The senator from West Virginia, Mr. Byrd; the senator from California, Mr. Cranston; the senator from Connecticut, Mr. Ribicoff; the senator from South Dakota, Mr. Abourezk.

The committee marched off and found the president and escorted him into the chamber.

It went smoothly. Hardly anyone noticed that the senator from South Dakota was not there. Abourezk was home watching the show on television.

And where were Americans on Sunday night when President Carter descended from the Maryland mountains with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to announce the Camp David accords?

It is a good bet many were home in front of their television sets watching "Battlestar Galactica," "King Kong" or the Emmy Awards.

Don't be upset if you found the adventures of a giant ape tearing up the New York subway system more exciting than the ceremony in the East Room of the White House. At least one senator admits he has been able to control his enthusiasm.

Interviewed on Capitol Cloakroom on CBS radio, Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., remembered the historic moment this way:

"Well, first of all, I must say I have not been as euphoric about all this as some of my colleagues have been, the press has been and a lot of other people have been.

"Sunday night, I was sitting trying to distract my daughter's attention from some new program called 'Galactica' or something or some three-hour movie, while I was trying to engage her in conversation, this thing at Camp David developed.

Quote of the week comes from Rep. Millicent H. Fenwick, R-N.J., who suggested to her colleagues:

"We must begin to look at ourselves not as princes or princesses, but as part of the population."

ROME (AP) — A new diet is sweeping Italy — or at least languishing its way up the Tyrrhenian seacoast from Amalfi to Naples to Rome and will one of these days yawn its way to the Italian Riviera.

In the easy going Italian style, no jogging, sprinting, yoga or calisthenics are required.

Quite the opposite, in fact. One stays in bed all day and refrains from getting nervous.

Reclining like a Roman in Lucullan luxury (after the manner of Lucius Lincinius Lu-cullus, the Roman general and epicure who according to surviving statuary definitely had a weight problem) has become the new fad diet for cruiser class Italian opera divas who put aboard too much pasta during the summer recess and want to get back to clipper-sized by La Scala's opening night.

Darya Quinn, gossip columnist for the Rome Daily American, revealed the secrets of the snoozing diet after a recent fact-finding expedition down the Via Veneto, her turf for titillating tattle and an occasional pinch of scandal. Fortunately not all of Rome had taken to its beds to shed excess poundage and few acolytes of the dolce vita were abroad on that famous boulevard to fill her in on the details of what she soon told her readers was "the new, comfortable and chic" way to shape up.

"You don't get up in the morning," Ms. Quinn passed on the new horizontal counter-attack on calories, "but you sip your tea with a biscuit. You freshen up, and rest in bed reading, ringing up, writing, painting, thinking and doing whatever doesn't make you nervous."

That, apparently, is the nerve center of the whole diet: don't get nervous, even about the mounting telephone bill as you chatter with your friends in recumbent ease.

"Then at midday," columnist Quinn continues, "You get up and go for an hour of strolling." — This probably to prevent bed sores and give the phone a rest. — Then again in bed after a light lunch of meat, vegetables and water. In the afternoon you receive your friends, while in bed and while sipping with them a strong tea.

Medicare patients to pay higher fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 27 million Medicare recipients will have to pay higher hospital fees from their own pockets next year before the government's insurance program for the elderly steps in to pay the rest.

The standard base payment for Medicare patients entering hospitals will rise from $144 to $160 on Jan. 1, 1979, an increase of 11 percent.

There will be comparable fee increase for patients hospitalized with extended illnesses and those transferred to nursing homes.

The increase in the Medicare insurance program's "deductible" was disclosed Tuesday at a White House meeting hastily convened to seek support for the administration's eleventh-hour campaign for passage of legislation limiting hospital fee increases.

Administration officials said the fee increases in the Medicare program for the elderly are a direct result of unchecked inflation in the health care industry.

Hale Champion, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, told more than 200 local officials, consumer representatives and hospital administrators that hospital costs are "the single biggest inflationary problem in this country."

He noted that the amount Medicare patients must pay before the government steps in has risen from $40 10 years ago to $144 this year with the new $16 increase scheduled to be announced officially this week.

In addition, a patient hospitalized for more than 60 days soon will be required pay $40 a day in room charges before Medicare takes over, a $4-a-day increase. And those remaining in the hospital more than 90 days will be required to pay $80 a day, up from $72.

Medicare patients who are transferred from hospitals to nursing homes will be required to pay $20 for each day they stay in the nursing home after the first 20 days, a $2-a-day increase.

President Carter, saying hospital cost-containment legislation is one of the few ways to gain control of inflation, told Tuesday's gathering that adoption of even a weaker measure than he has proposed would be "the single most important thing that Congress can do this year."

Only a week ago, Carter had given up the administration's efforts to put a cap on hospital fee increases this year.

Administration wants to export more goods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flooded by imported cars, televisions and oil, the United States is mounting a drive to get foreigners to buy products marked "Made in the U.S.A."

The United States bought $26.5 billion more from other countries last year than it sold — a trade deficit that contributed to inflation and the decline of the dollar against foreign currencies.

Most of the deficit was caused by enormous amounts of oil purchased from the Middle East. But Japan and Germany, which do not sell oil, still sold far more to the United States than they bought.

President Carter announced Tuesday what he said were the first steps to get U.S. businesses to start promoting their products abroad.

"Our export problem has been building for many years and we cannot expect dramatic improvement overnight," Carter said in a statement. "Increasing exports will take time, and require a sustained effort."

If the plan works, the president said, the economy will grow, new jobs will be created, the dollar will become stronger and inflation will be curbed.

The program involves loans to exporters and easing of some of the environmental and legal restrictions exporters face.

The U.S. trade deficit this year is already ahead of the record year of 1978, but Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal held out hope Tuesday that it will improve.

In a speech to world monetary officials, Blumenthal pointed to progress in Congress over energy legislation and increasing ability of foreigners to buy U.S. products.

"I am confident that these efforts, combined with the slowing of the U.S. economy and more satisfactory growth worldwide, will substantially reduce our current account deficit by perhaps as much as 30 to 40 percent from current levels," he said.

He said it will be critical for the United States to control inflation. The Labor Department said Tuesday that consumer prices rose 0.6 percent in August, higher than the 0.5 percent mark in July, but still well below the rates recorded earlier in the year.

Government economists were encouraged that food prices were stable. However, medical and housing costs continued to rise.

Carter will not release until dispute is solved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration will not release its letter pledging American aid for new Israeli air bases until the dispute over new Israeli settlements on the West Bank is resolved, according to U.S. officials.

The officials denied that the aid is being withheld to pressure Israel into agreeing with the U.S. view that Israel verbally agreed at Camp David to ban new settlements for five years.

But they acknowledged that Israel might perceive the action that way. "We can't prevent people from seeing things," one official said.

The officials, who asked that they not be identified, made the remarks Tuesday.

In another development Tuesday not likely to be taken lightly by Israeli supporters, a high State Department official said the United States has not abandoned the idea of reconvening the Geneva conference on the Middle East. Such a conference would be co-chaired by the Soviet Union.

"We recognize the strong interest of the Soviet Union in the Middle East and would welcome any positive contribution the U.S.S.R. can make to the long-term amelioration of problems in the area," said Marshall Shulman, special adviser on Soviet affairs to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Israel and its supporters were upset last year when the administration issued a joint statement of principles on the Middle East with the Soviets. Israel claimed that Soviet participation in the area can only damage its interests, since the Soviets back Arab states that have not accepted Israel's right to exist.

The possibility of a Geneva conference involving the Soviets was played down by other officials. They said the conference was likely only if the Camp David frameworks are fleshed out into treaties settling the Israeli-Egyptian issue and the West Bank and Gaza Strip issues.

At that point, they said, the task remaining would be to make peace between Israel and neighbors like Syria that are not included in the Camp David frameworks. But until the Arab states begin cooperating with the Camp David accords, "the issue is moot," one official said.

The decision not to release the letter on American aid for the new bases was the latest episode in the dispute that has angered Israel and the United States since the summit ended.

Investigators probe conversation

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators are exploring why Jack Ruby talked by telephone with at least five alleged crime syndicate figures during the weeks preceding the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The House Assassinations Committee was to take testimony today about Ruby's alleged ties to organized crime.

The committee is investigating whether Kennedy's assassination was the product of a conspiracy, possibly involving the crime syndicates that were the target of a Justice Department crackdown under Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

The Warren Commission concluded that there was no conspiracy, that Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy and acted alone and that Ruby also acted alone when he shot Oswald to death in the Dallas police station. Kennedy was slain in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, and Oswald was murdered two days later.

But some commission critics have alleged that Ruby had crime syndicate ties suggesting a possible underworld plot against Kennedy.

Earl Ruby told the committee Tuesday that his brother Jack insisted to his death that he acted alone and on an impulse when he killed Oswald. Jack Ruby was convicted of murder and sentenced to death, but the verdict was overturned and he was awaiting a new trial when he died of cancer in January 1967.

Texas forecasts

By The Associated Press
 Flood water roared through Pecos early today as the rising Pecos River forced about 40 families from their homes.

More rain continued in Southwest Texas, but forecasters said it was light. But Pecos was expected to continue having problems with high water for about four days, forecasters said.

No one has been injured in the flooding, officers said.

The Rio Grande crested at 26 feet at Presidio, about three feet below the tops of levees in the Presidio area. The flooding will move downstream along the Rio Grande.

Elsewhere around the state, skies were cloudy except clear skies were reported in northern sections of the Texas Panhandle and in the El Paso area.

Forecasters called for more rain in central and eastern portions of the state. Highs were expected to be mostly in the 70s and 80s.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 70s in South Texas to the 50s in Northwest Texas. Early morning extremes ranged from 54 at Dalhart in the Panhandle to 77 at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Welfare board reviews slide program

A slide presentation titled "The Realities of Adolescent Care: Meeting Needs and Managing Behavior" was reviewed by the Gray County Child Welfare Board Tuesday in the Gray County Courthouse.

The slide program related the experiences of one family while they provided a foster home for an adolescent.

After viewing the slides, the board made plans to preview several films at their next meeting Oct. 24.

Bob Carmichael, chairman of the board, announced the Child Welfare Regional Council is scheduled to meet in Pampa Oct. 5.

Dollar weakens

LONDON (AP) — The dollar was generally weaker in Europe again today but rose slightly in Tokyo as foreign-exchange traders awaited the announcement later in the day of the U.S. trade deficit for August.

One London dealer said the markets were "more nervous than active." By contrast, the gold market was extremely active, with a heavy volume of orders to buy from persons hedging against more declines in the dollar.

London's five major bullion dealers fixed the morning price for trading in gold at $217.15, 60 cents below Tuesday's closing price. The price in Zurich, Europe's other major bullion market, was $217.125, down 50 cents.

Tolstoy's American Connections

This month marks the 150th anniversary of the birth of one of Russia's greatest authors: Leo Tolstoy. Tolstoy was a serious thinker, who eventually gave away all of his personal property, to try to live what he considered a better life. A soldier, farmer, and teacher as well as a writer, Tolstoy read and admired the work of Americans such as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Walt Whitman, and Henry David Thoreau. Late in his life, with the help of two American journalists, Tolstoy obtained a phonograph from Thomas Edison. When Edison learned that the machine was for Tolstoy, he gave it to the author for free.

Skellytown officials postpone rate hike

SKELLYTOWN — A resolution to postpone implementation of Southern Union Gas Co. rate increases for 120 days and plans to cut the rate request of Southwestern Public Service Co. gained city council approval Tuesday night.

The gas company's rate increase is delayed for 120 days, beginning next Monday, as a result of council's adoption of the resolution Tuesday night.

City officials reported Tuesday night they have decided to take action on the Southwestern Public Service rate request similar to that being taken by other cities.

Those cities, including Pampa, are in the process of approving a $4.2 million per annum increase and prohibiting automatic monthly fuel cost adjustment billings. The electric utility is seeking $21.9 million in rate increases.

During the Tuesday night meeting city officials decided that a study will be made of safety regulators on natural gas meters in use within the city.

In other action council approved the city's 1978-79 tax rolls and approved the second of three readings of an ordinance calling for continuation of the city's one percent sales tax.

It was decided the city will seek assistance from the Texas Municipal League in developing local zoning regulations.

And, repair of the city's road maintainer and a tractor was discussed, with no action taken.

Attending the meeting were Mayor P.M. Cousins; Aldermen Mike Chaney, Howard Coday, Richard Mills and Wayne Pogue; and Edna Chaney, city secretary.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Who should pay for what in a live-in type relationship?

The female is divorced, has two children and is on welfare. The male is well-to-do, with a good steady job. Should the rent and food expenses be divided?

In this case the guy pays no rent and is living in her home.
THE FEMALE

DEAR FEMALE: In any kind of relationship, the assets, liabilities and responsibilities should be shared 50-50. And if you're the female living on welfare, you (and the taxpayers) are supporting the guy who's living with you.

You might consider living with this free-loading, well-to-do creep just long enough to confirm a common law status (under recent court decision), and then sock it to him!

DEAR ABBY: You answer to that 16-year-old who felt that girls expected him to make a pass on the first date fell short. The kid said, "On the first date, I feel no irresistible urge to make out with her or even kiss her," and you said, "Most girls prefer the slow approach."

Why didn't you tell him that the only right time to kiss someone (or to make love) is at the precise time when the urge is irresistible? If it happens on the first date, you're in business. If it hasn't happened by the 15th date—don't kiss her just because you think you ought to. Admit the fact that the chemistry is wrong in the relationship, and then either go on enjoying her company on that basis, or end it on that basis.

If everyone just followed their inclinations—or didn't act when the inclinations weren't there—there would be a lot less stress, guilt and resentment between the sexes.

I am a 45-year-old divorcee, and believe me, most middle-aged men don't seem to understand this any better than 16-year-olds.

W.C.M.

DEAR MS. M: The rules for kissing, dating and making love are vastly different for 45-year-old divorcees and middle-aged men than they are for 16-year-old boys on their first dates!

I still say, the slow approach is preferable for kids. They may feel like making out (or making love) on the first date, but they lack the experience and maturity to handle it.

DEAR ABBY: This evening while working in my yard, I noticed the very pretty little neighbor girl—about 6, wandering up and down the street in nothing but her panties.

A few months ago I saw this same little girl and her older brother struggling to get a heavy band instrument from the bus stop (three blocks away) to their home, so I stopped and offered to drive them to their home. They accepted gladly. I assumed they knew me. Once in the car it became apparent that I was a stranger to them!

Abby, please remind parents that it is their duty to instruct their children never, never to get into a car with a stranger.

DEWY, OK., MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Thanks for a timely reminder.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: The other day I went with a friend to the west side of the island to see a friend of his who is a fisherman. He lives in a tent on the beach. While seated and talking with this fisherman, I noticed that both of his feet were swollen. I asked him, "What happened to your feet?" He said that it had been going on for quite some time. There is no pain, the swelling only happens during the day and disappears at night. Now what makes this swelling and the disappearing act?

DEAR READER: Swelling of the feet and ankles is a symptom. It can be caused by many different diseases but, of course, it means the accumulation of fluid.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-6, Swelling: Causes and Management. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will discuss with you the different mechanisms that cause swelling and, in more detail, why the swelling develops during the day and disappears at night.

Briefly, fluid tends to "run downhill." When you have excess fluid in the body, and you are sitting upright, or standing upright, it accumulates in the feet first. The more fluid you have, the more swelling occurs and the higher up the leg it will extend.

When you lie down at night, so that the feet are at the same level of the heart, the fluid runs out of the feet and back into the rest of the circulation.

That is why swelling from most medical causes tends to occur during the day, gets worse as the day progresses and tends to decrease or may even disappear at night when you are lying down. You could also get rid of it during the day if you were lying down the whole time. The occurrence and disappearance of swelling in this fashion does not establish what causes the swelling. It can be caused by heart disease, liver disease, varicose veins, kidney disease or a number of other medical problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been using nose spray for almost a year now. I can't go without it. It seems that I need it even more when I am in the company of other people. I know of several other people who are just like me. I don't step out of the house without it. I don't want to damage my nose tissue and wonder if I am doing so. I am 24 years old. My father also uses it. Could this be hereditary?

DEAR READER: You have developed a bad habit. Many of the nasal sprays are useful for temporary relief. The medicines in them shrink the swollen membranes in the nasal passage so that one can breathe easier. Unfortunately, when the medicine wears off, these tissues often have rebound swelling, causing the air passages to be blocked again.

If a person uses nasal sprays too often, he will have a constant shrinkage and rebound reaction. This can result in chemical irritation and the person literally becomes hooked on nasal spray. It's not that these are addicting but you just can't get relief from blockage of the nasal passage by always resorting to the nasal spray.

What can you do about the problem if you are hooked on nasal sprays? A good technique is to use the spray in only one side of the nose for several days. During this period of time the untreated side of the nose recovers from chemical irritation. At that point, you should be able to stop using nasal spray altogether.

I doubt that you have inherited the need for nasal spray from your father, although you could both have the same allergy that can cause problems.

The farming Ragsdales Just plain farming folks

BY PAMTUREK

With young twins, Jereme and Joseph, Jan and Bill Ragsdale moved south of Pampa March of 1974 to begin life as a farming family.

They had no farming background.

Dallas is where Jan grew up. She enrolled in college for two and one-half years with a major in marine biology. She thought art was a hobby, but after five semesters realized marine biology was a hobby and switched her major to art education.

Pampa is where Bill Ragsdale grew up. He was a marketing major at North Texas when he met his future wife.

The young student had always been mechanically inclined which would help later when he became a farmer. While in school he managed a Burger Chef and worked in a garage.

After Ragsdale finished his tour in Viet Nam he wanted to settle in a sparsely populated area. "I had a negative attitude toward being around people," he said. The young couple had planned to move to Alaska or Canada.

"We're not anti-people...we just want to live away from a city type life," his young blonde said.

At about the same time, Jan's grandfather, Edwin Nelson, decided he needed some help on the farm and was tired of living 20 miles out of town by himself. So the young Ragsdales decided to try their hand at farming. They lease the land from Nelson.

When asked if he felt like an outsider at first, Ragsdale answered in the affirmative. Most of the other families in the area are farming families and the Ragsdales were new to the whole scene. Grandpa Nelson taught them and they have experimented on their own.

The land situation in this area is very tight. Few people are selling and if they are the land is very expensive. People are buying for investment not farming in particular. The fair haired, mustached Ragsdale said, "you have to fall into it (land) through family or marry into it...once you're into it you're not sure you're supposed to say thank you," he chuckled. It is obvious the family enjoys their way of life.

The couple explained their closeness to God and His elements. Jan Ragsdale said, "we have such a realization of how dependent we are on God. We put it (the seed) in the ground and the rest is up to God." If the crop gets blown down by hail or rain, they are at the mercy of the elements.

"You still have to do the best you can by keeping the machinery clean and in good condition," the farmer explained. A breakdown in the field costs money.

The farming couple sat in their double wide trailer explaining their life. Ragsdale supplements the family's income by working for Gray County. He is a heavy equipment operator.

Another sideline is doing mechanical work for individuals, on cars, machinery, and motorcycles.

The family supported the American Agriculture Movement. Jan Ragsdale explained, "at least people realized high food prices are not because of the farmer."

When asked about the future of the small farmer, Ragsdale said, "we will eventually do it as a hobby or on the side, we have no choice."

The Ragsdales have a garden, which is not great this year, "because of the bugs," explained Mrs. Ragsdale. She makes the majority of the family's clothing and they have raised chickens to sell eggs.

"It really wasn't Puddles' fault," she explained about the dog that played a little too roughly with the chickens. The other dog was playing and Puddles got a little carried away.

Jan Ragsdale also runs farm equipment. "I just learned how to run the combine last year," she said, "if I foul up, it's like dropping money out there."

The couple enjoys their chosen life and it is peaceful and quiet 20 miles south of town or it was last week.

Attempt to make grapefruit wine

Queen Citriana died from tape

PROGRESO, Texas (AP)—The Queen is dead

Queen Citriana — a noble attempt to turn grapefruits into wine — succumbed to a combination of red tape, a spectacularly unsuccessful first batch and a poor market.

"Texans are not wine drinkers. They're beer drinkers," said Billy Drawe, the Rio Grande Valley farmer who made and bottled Queen Citriana. "They want something that'll give them a little kick."

In 1971, amid a series of crop failures on his farm here, Drawe decided the world was ready for a low alcohol, grapefruit table wine. He bought the equipment and opened the state's second existing winery.

The experiment ended March 11, 1977 — leaving a trail of broken bottles and dead alfalfa.

"We had some pretty good wine in the barrels," Drawe, 55, said of the initial batch of Queen Citriana.

The first inkling of doom came after the wine was aged for a year. Drawe went looking for appropriate bottles and found there was a glass strike.

"We bottled it in an ugly looking bottle. Nobody liked the bottle and nobody liked the label," he recalled.

And, six months later, nobody liked the Queen.

"It turned rancid. The color and flavor changed," he said.

So Drawe, a proud man who lives by his word, bought the wine back from the stores.

"I bought back $30,000 worth of it trying to hold onto my reputation," he said.

Drawe learned from his mistakes. The second batch of wine, he said, was good.

But he found wine drinkers to be an unforgiving lot.

"We has many unsatisfied customers from the first year," he said. Among the unsatisfied were the distributors. No one would handle the Queen — despite an attractive new bottle and label.

Drawe's problems were further complicated by a bout with cancer.

"I damn near kicked the bucket and I figured why waste all that money I didn't have in the first place," he said.

So, shunned by the supermarkets and unwanted by the distributors, the Queen died.

"We ended up with a good wine. We failed in marketing Queen Citriana had such a bad reputation," the winemaker lamented.

For awhile he had thoughts of making the winery on his farm here into a tourist attraction. But state law prohibited selling the wine on the premises. Now he is looking for a buyer for the equipment.

"I've had about 10 suspects, a couple of prospects but no buyers," he said over a glass of grapefruit wine.

Drawe remembered that closing the winery was about as hard as opening it.

"To stop the wine permit we had to sell or destroy all the wine," he said, adding that he had 20,524 gallons on hand. Selling it, he realized, was not a feasible solution.

"It used to be on the shelves next to those 99 cent pop wines. What do you think they're going to drink ... those hippies?" he said.

Drawe kept about 100 cases "for posterity." The taxman made sure he paid 34 cents per gallon.

The remainder of the wine wound up in the Mercedes city dump and Drawe's irrigation system.

State and federal witnesses watched as Drawe supervised the city dump operation. A tractor mashed thousands of gallons of bottled wine into the dump.

"The Caterpillar got stuck and the driver nearly got drunk from the fumes," he recalled.

The wine that wasn't carted off to the dump was poured out on the farm here.

"It killed three acres of alfalfa," Drawe whined.

City and State news

Jury to get case today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The capital murder trial of David Lee Powell, one-time high school valedictorian accused of machine-gunning Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo, today goes to a jury that must decide which psychiatrist to believe.

State District Judge Tom Blackwell gave jurors the afternoon off Tuesday so he could prepare his charge and so attorneys could polish final arguments.

Powell, 27, faces death by lethal injection if the jury convicts him and finds he would present a continued danger to society if allowed to live.

Ablanedo, 26, was riddled with at least 10 shots, fired machine-gun style from an AK-47 automatic rifle, about 12:40 a.m. on May 18. He had stopped Powell's car for improper paper registration tags, then learned Powell was wanted on a petty theft charge.

As Ablanedo walked from his car to arrest Powell, a man opened up the Mustang, shattering its rear window and cutting down Ablanedo.

Powell was that man, an eyewitness testified.

The driver of the car, Sheila Margaret Meinert, 27, also is charged with capital murder but is free on bond.

American author Nathaniel Hawthorne was born in 1804.

Travis County group seeks 'tax rebellion'

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "Do you feel that many elected officials are out to squander the public funds to pay for programs that are unnecessary or unwanted?"

"Do you feel that limiting taxes by law is an effective way to stop the government from picking your pocket every payday?"

Those questions — and more — are being asked of thousands of Texas in Travis County as a non-profit, non-partisan organization seeks members to spread the tax "rebellion" throughout Texas, and possibly the nation.

Former Attorney General Waggoner Carr announced Tuesday the creation of Texas 13 of Travis County, Inc., to "limit government spending and lower our tax burden."

Carr, also a former House speaker and unsuccessful candidate for governor and U.S. senator, told a news conference Texas 13 started as a result of a conversation he had with a neighbor. Carr, now an Austin lawyer, is president of Texas 13.

He said several of the organization's members are friends of Howard Jarvis, the guiding force behind California's Proposition 13.

Carr said the average taxpayer pays 42 cents out of every $1 to the tax collector and added, "That's too much."

In its statement of principles, Texas 13 says, "We, the people, must in fairness accept the blame for today's mess. We got busy on other things and let the wrong people call the shots. As a consequence, we now find it takes far too much of our time and labor to support the ever expanding bureaucracy."

"The tax collector is taking away our ability to provide for ourselves and our families, raiding our savings, our dreams are becoming unachievable, our plans are becoming impractical, our future deeply troubled."

Carr said because of favorable reaction and because Austin is the capital city, Texas 13 is trying to expand statewide through mailed invitations.

He said the organization would ask the 1979 Legislature to:

—Hold state spending to whatever revenue is available from existing tax sources.

—Reject any attempt to raise taxes over the next two years.

—Approve a proposed constitutional amendment requiring a two-third legislative vote to enact a tax bill.

—Approve constitutional amendments giving Texas and local taxpayers the right of initiative and referendum.

—Create a commission, to be appointed by selected state officials, to ferret out "every instance of waste and excessive bureaucracy in our state government."

"Never have I seen a grass-roots (tax) rebellion such as we are experiencing in this state," said Carr. Texas 13, he said, would "coordinate all the fires built locally."

Asked if Texas 13 might seek national impact, Carr said, "I think and hope ... that if in time we develop muscle ... we could work toward the time we can do that."

TENANTS MOW ROOFS?

LONDON (AP) — The ruling council in suburban Lewisham is going to lay turf on the roofs of single-story extensions to 22 houses in an experimental development so families won't have to stare out their windows onto a blank stone expanse of roof.

But tenants won't be mowing their roofs, because the soil depth is only four inches and the grass won't grow long.

Natural gas compromise bill may pass Senate vote today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The natural gas compromise expected to pass the Senate later this afternoon is viewed as a boon for bureaucrats, lawyers and accountants but bad news for Texas, according to opponents of the bill.

The compromise calls for phased deregulation of natural gas with consumer gas bills steadily rising by about $13 a year by 1985, according to the conference committee report that has been widely disputed by liberals and producing-state congressmen.

The bill "will add substantially to the cost of producing gas," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who along with fellow Texan John Tower has been an outspoken critic of the bill. "It will make it more difficult for the small producer to stay in business and cost increases will be passed on to the consumer. How much of an increase? It's really hard to say right now."

"It will be a bonanza for attorneys and accountants," the Democrat added.

The bill establishes a rigid set of regulations for determining the price that can be charged for gas taken from a specific well.

The "staggeringly complex new regulatory scheme" will "significantly increase the regulatory cost of exploring for and producing gas," added Tower who earlier this month joined an unlikely coalition consisting of fellow Republicans Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma and Clifford Hansen of Wyoming plus Democrats Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio and James Abourezk of South Dakota in condemning the centerpiece of President Carter's energy package.

Carter, who earlier tabbed America's energy problems the "moral equivalent of war," has apparently been successful in Capitol Hill in selling the compromise as a means of reducing this country's dependence on foreign oil and shoring up the faltering dollar abroad.

The compromise was hammered out during 17 months of bargaining between Senate-House negotiators after the Senate passed a deregulation bill while the House version called for extended regulation.

On Sept. 19, the Senate voted 59-39 not to have the bill recommittees to the conference committee, a move that would have effectively killed the measure.

A day before the vote, both Tower and Bentsen received a letter from Texas Railroad Commission urging that the controversial compromise be defeated.

The letter, signed by chairman Mack Wallace and commissioners Jon Newton and John H. Poerner, said the compromise would create a "devastating administrative burden" on the commission.

The compromise "is really strange. Several senators have commented that this bill has more lives than a cat," said Ron Smith, Tower's legislative counsel who specializes in energy matters. "The bill doesn't represent any cohesive regulatory scheme. It's self contradictory. It calls for deregulation while extending regulation."

Both Smith and Mike Naeve, Bentsen's legislative director, said the compromise will increase the amount of federally regulated gas.

The repercussions in Texas — where intrastate gas is deregulated — is a "big concern for Texas consumers because Texas has prospered economically," said Smith. "It has been an attractive place for industry." But he said the bill likely will dilute that benefit because there no longer will be assurances of a great supply.

"You have the clear potential of a subsequent congress making a few word changes in the law and extending, in effect, total authority to regulate natural gas from the well head to the user, determining how it's produced and at what rate, who it's sold to at what price and where it is eventually sent in time of emergency," added Smith.

Many independent producers "literally exist for the intrastate market and the lack of regulation there," said Smith, and he contended the bill will extend a giant framework of federal regulation on those producers.

"We've got a feeling you're gonna like us."

All he wanted was $50

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — All Terry Sundkvist wanted was his $50 cleaning deposit refunded. Now he "owns" the $1.5 million apartment complex where he once lived.

Using his knowledge of small claims court and a corporation's unwitting cooperation, the attorney was able to pay $449.31 at a county marshal's auction and receive a certificate of sale for the 95-unit Laura Dawn Manor.

The former owners, Sacland Investors, are trying to settle with Sundkvist so they can sell the complex. Sundkvist, now an attorney in Portland, Ore., says he has refused an offer of $10,000.

The firm also is disputing his claim in Sacramento Superior Court, calling the acquisition an "extraordinary windfall."

It all began in 1973, when the then 23-year-old McGeorge Law School student and his wife moved from their apartment.

Sundkvist says that when the manager said the cleaning deposit would not be returned although the apartment had been left clean, he wrote to the firm's legal agent, Patricia Lapan of San Leandro.

He says he received no reply. She claims she vaguely remembers instructing the manager he was not entitled to a refund.

On March 13, 1975, Sundkvist filed suit in small claims court, seeking $50 plus costs and $200 in punitive damages.

Mrs. Lapan was served with a summons May 4, 1976, but she ignored it, and on June 1, 1976, a default judgment of $312 was awarded to Sundkvist.

When he could not get Sacland to pay the judgment, Sundkvist requested that the county marshal's office auction off the complex to meet the court's judgment.

The sale was scheduled for Sept. 17, 1976, at the county courthouse and notices were sent to the parties involved. Only Sundkvist showed up and he was advised by marshals to bid for the property at $449.31, the amount of his judgment plus marshal's fees and interest. He got a certificate of sale of real estate.

Sacland had a year to pay the judgment and redeem title to the property, but the notice of the marshal's sale was returned unopened.

But Sacland took notice in August 1977, when it attempted to sell the property for $1.5 million and a title search turned up Sundkvist's claim.

Mrs. Lapan and the firm's other lawyers first offered Sundkvist $1,000 to clear the title, but Sundkvist ignored the letters until the time for redemption ran out.

The firm's lawyers offered Sundkvist more money to extend the redemption period, but his Sacramento lawyer, Clarence Brown, told them, "You're too late."

"Anyone could have done the same thing," Sundkvist said. "It might have taken longer for someone not familiar with the procedures, but the avenues are there."

New planet discovered

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — It's a strange new planet, with jutting mountain peaks surrounding gouged valleys — a lifeless moon, perhaps, if it were larger than 3 millimeters.

An Arizona State University graduate student has charted the surface of this unknown world — a grain of sand.

William Wellendorf spent 120 hours piecing together 1,100 electron microscope photographs into a 10-foot mosaic, all part of his work toward a master's degree in geology.

Dr. David Krinsley, head of ASU's geology department, says it's the first time for such a detailed portrait of a grain of sand.

"Irregularities on grain surfaces enable scientists to chart the history of a grain of sand more than 200 million years in the past," he said. "We can study very small portions of sand grains and determine, for instance, whether an area has been glaciated or exposed to desert conditions."

He says he's been studying sand for 15 years, and he's never seen anything like Wellendorf's display.

"Viewing an entire grain rather than limited portions gives one a new perspective," he said.

Carter administration aware of press coverage

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Disclosure by a weekly journal of a year's worth of minutes from President Carter's Cabinet meetings reveals that a recurrent topic of interest is press coverage of the administration. Editors of The Nation, which released the material here Monday, said that important issues are discussed at the sessions but — judging by the brevity of the meetings and the topics talked about — apparently not deeply.

The magazine said that items that appear important are sometimes mentioned only briefly in the minutes, raising the possibility that some matters are excluded from the minutes.

During a Nov. 7, 1977, meeting, the weekly said, "In one hour and 53 minutes, 52 main topics were discussed and more than 80 sub-topics... that gives us an average of two minutes and eight seconds per main topic and only seconds for related issues."

Portions of the minutes were made available to other media at a news conference Monday marking a new format for the 113-year-old magazine, the seventh for America's oldest weekly journal.

As for the source of the material, Nation editor Victor Navasky said: "It was given to us." An unnamed White House staffer was checked to assure the minutes were genuine, he added.

"The minutes are boring," said Navasky. "That's why they've been keeping it from us. They don't want us to know how little goes on."

According to the minutes in The Nation's possession — from March 14, 1977, to March 13, 1978 — the Cabinet spends its time on many matters not pertaining to urgent issues.

A continuing issue of interest to those attending the meetings is what is being said and written about the Carter administration and its programs, and what the general public thinks about those concepts and actions.

The minutes of April 25, 1977, show that "The President said that he regretted missing Dr. Schlesinger on 'Face the Nation' yesterday, but he had watched the energy industry representatives on 'Meet the Press.'"

Mary, Queen of Scots, abdicated in 1567.

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Erwin Kreuz, the West German brewery worker who left his heart in Bangor while trying to find San Francisco, is back in town. This time, however, townsfolk are making sure he doesn't get lost.

The affable, ruddy-faced Kreuz flew in Monday night and celebrated his second visit by downing a beer.

The 50-year-old bachelor speaks no English but said through an interpreter at the airport he was overjoyed to be back in his "hometown." Last October, Kreuz mistakenly got off a chartered flight to San Francisco during a stop-over in Bangor. He spent three days wandering around Bangor before he realized he was not in California.

When his dilemma became public, Kreuz turned into an instant celebrity. He eventually made his trip to San Francisco, courtesy of the San Francisco Examiner, but admitted he preferred Bangor.

He is here this time courtesy of an insurance company and the owner of a mall he will dedicate Oct. 5. He departs Oct. 20.

—Extinguishing Confusion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state fire prevention agency wants to extinguish Bicentennial fire hydrants.

Firefighters, it seems, can't tell if they're pulling up to a hydrant or a miniature statue of a Minuteman, comic strip character or

W.C. Fields.

The state Division of Fire Prevention and Control says in the September issue of Newsweek, a state publication, many hydrants have been accidentally camouflaged by the Bicentennial decorations. Thus, it's difficult for fire units to find hydrants in emergencies.

—Hacking The Record
KADOKA, S.D. (AP) — Two Alabama men have a hefty tip to reckon after taking what they claim is the world's longest taxicab ride to try to set a new Guinness record.

Driver Freddie Hamby and passengers Charles Dailey and Herbert Sedinger, all of Lanett, Ala., reached the mark of 6,752 miles early Monday in the city limits of Kadoka, located between Rapid City and Sioux Falls.

They were scheduled to go on to West Point, Neb., today.

The Nebraska town is the second of eight West Point-named towns they will visit to bring greetings from Mayor Johnny Barrow of West Point, Ga.

The taxi left West Point Dam on the Alabama-Georgia state line Sept. 9 after Dailey paid a $3,800 fare in advance. They also are scheduled to visit 41 states and parts of Mexico and Canada on a trip of more than 12,000 miles.

The 1977 edition of the Guinness Book of World Records lists the longest taxi journey on record as having begun from the Tarabya Hotel in Istanbul, Turkey, by Joseph Murphy. On Oct. 18, 1969, he wanted to get to 13 Hasebury Road in London, England. The mileage driven was 2,098 1/2.

Cancer institute may test Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cancer Institute is expected to decide within a few days whether to test Laetrile on cancer patients who have not responded to any conventional treatment.

A decision to go ahead would give Laetrile supporters what they have long pushed for — government-sanctioned tests on humans.

They insist the tests would prove the controversial substance saves lives.

A sharply divided advisory panel of the National Cancer Institute voted 14-11 Monday to recommend clinical trials for Laetrile even though most members of the medical community maintain it is worthless in treating cancer.

The institute's Decision Network Committee made its recommendation after a federal search turned up six cases of cancer patients whose condition improved after taking Laetrile.

The panel's recommendation now goes to Dr. Arthur C. Upton, the institute's director, who is expected to decide this week whether to authorize the tests.

If he approves, about 230 patients at major medical centers would be given Laetrile and closely monitored for three to six months. NCI officials emphasized that the substance would be given only to cancer patients who have not responded to any other treatment.

Dr. Vincent T. DeVita Jr., director of NCI's division of cancer treatment, cautioned that any decision to test Laetrile should not be viewed as a reversal of scientists' long-held mistrust of the substance made from apricot and peach pits.

"You shouldn't misinterpret the people who want to do a Laetrile test as believing that Laetrile works," he said. "Laetrile has never been interesting and still isn't interesting as far as I am concerned" in treating cancer.

But DeVita said the advisory committee felt human testing was warranted based on the information turned up by the nationwide search for positive results from Laetrile therapy.

The NCI had asked any cancer patient who felt Laetrile helped him to submit his case records. Ninety-three did so, but in only 22 cases had the patient received Laetrile exclusively. Of those, six showed signs of improvement, nine were thought to have remained the same and seven were believed to have worsened.

Algeria declared its independence from France in 1962.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

September 28, 1978

Several helpful people will take more than a nominal interest in your personal ambitions this coming year. They may aid you materially, as well as providing constructive advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A new interest you have could be a winner. It's important that you do more than think about it, because it requires active measures to become reality. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Penny-ante goals should be of small interest to you today. Aim high. Do what's necessary to achieve them without calling attention to yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) No matter where you are today or who you are with, you have the talent to make the best of any situation by letting events run their course.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Ideas of others can be ingeniously remolded by you today and transformed into something far more worthwhile. Put your skills to work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When dealing with associates today, candor is essential. You can correct a misunderstanding to everyone's benefit if you don't pull any punches.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Whether tasks are large or small today, perform them so that you'll be unashamed to be identified with them. Pride takes precedence over profit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Time should be devoted today to people and activities that you truly enjoy. This can be a real fun day if you give priority to whom and what you like.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Set a good example for family members today, using unselfish desires to help those you love. Your message will be readily received.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The size or scope of projects will not intimidate you today. You excel in situations where the stakes are high.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your luck is focused in material areas today. Possibilities are further enhanced because you'll have the foresight to recognize opportunities and capitalize on them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll see ample evidence of the value of positive thinking today if you so attune your mind. "Can't" mustn't be permitted in your vocabulary.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Listen very carefully today to the ideas of one who has your best interests at heart. You may hear of something immensely beneficial.

Teams return to top ten

By Associated Press

Odessa Permian and Highland Park, a pair of playoff-offense Class 4A teams, returned to The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week while Grapeland, ranked No. 1 in a last week, won the game but lost its top billing to the Farmersville Farmers.

Temple in 4A, Huntsville in 3A and Mount Vernon in 2A held onto their No. 1 rankings while Grapeland fell into second place with 11 first place votes compared to Farmersville's four.

Grapeland and Farmersville went into last week's games ranked 1-2 in the state with unbeaten records and in weekend games. Grapeland beat Westwood 26-14 and Farmersville knocked off Kennedale 34-7.

But when the AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters cast their weekly ballots, the Farmers had out-pointed the Sandies 184-168 in total points.

Ten points are awarded for first place votes and nine for second place. The Farmers moved into first place based on 14 second place votes compared to only two for Grapeland.

Temple, Garland and Arlington Lamar continued their stranglehold on the top three positions in Class 4A but LaPorte, Houston Forest Brook and Abilene Cooper tumbled from the unbeaten ranks.

Forest Brook and Abilene Cooper dropped from the top 10 and LaPorte fell from No. 6 to No. 9 after losing to Houston Stratford, ranked sixth this week.

Odessa Permian, 3-0, and Highland Park, 2-0, replaced Cooper and Forest Brook as the Nos. 9 and 10 teams.

Permian's Panthers, who perennially reach the playoffs with rock-hard defense and just enough offense, have undergone a personality change—suddenly they are offense minded rolling up a 3-0 record by a composite score of 101-19 over the opposition.

Highland Park, meanwhile is 2-0 and won't have to wait long to test its new rank. The Highlanders meet defending state champion Plano, currently ranked No. 5, this weekend before a sellout crowd of 13,000.

Gregory-Portland lost for the second straight week to a 4A team and Kilgore lost to Palestine among the 3A ranks. Unbeaten Pecos and Kerrville Tivy are their replacements in the ninth and 10th positions.

Breckenridge, No. 6, Willis Point, No. 8 and Bellville, No. 10, suffered losses among the 2A ranks and only Breckenridge remained in the poll as the No. 8 team.

Pastorini skips practice

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Disgruntled Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini went AWOL from Tuesday's workout following criticism of his play selection in a 10-6 loss to Los Angeles but Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips expected everything to be ship-shape today.

"I think Dan knows that 44 individuals are more important than one and what is best for the team is for him to come back," Phillips said.

Pastorini's action followed a series of events in which Oilers offensive coordinator Ken Shipp had criticized Pastorini for one play he called and Phillips announced that he would start calling the plays in clutch situations.

Phillips said he met with Pastorini Tuesday morning and Pastorini told him that he would not be at the workout.

The Oilers start putting in their game plan today for Sunday's divisional battle against Cleveland. So far, Phillips said, Pastorini's absence hasn't meant much.

"What we do on Tuesday you can stick in your ear," Phillips said. "We just loosen up and review film."

Phillips said Pastorini, who could not be reached for comment, was just upset at losing the game.

"I know that kid as well as I know anyone and right now his feelings are really hurt," Phillips said. "I've never seen a great one that didn't get upset when he lost."

"I don't think he resents the fact that we're going to send in some of the plays as much as he is upset that we lost the game," Phillips said. "I think if we had won the ball game, none of this would have come up."

Phillips said the Oilers actually wouldn't be making any drastic changes in their play-calling. It will amount more to a suggestion.

"The best person to call a play is the man right behind the center," Phillips said. "If we send in a play and when Dan comes up and sees there's no way it can work, he'll change it."

"It's not meant as a criticism of Dan," Phillips said Tuesday. "We're just trying to complement what he can do. We put together a game plan based on what the team, we're playing has done against other teams, but in the second third and fourth quarter we can start making decisions based on what they're doing against us."

Yanks chased by Red Sox, women

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are being chased by the Boston Red Sox... and a bunch of women.

Not the usual baseball groupies. Rather, they are newswomen who invaded the Yankees' clubhouse Tuesday night following a court ruling ordering baseball's locker room doors opened to all accredited members of the media regardless of sex.

Five women were in the Yankees' dressing — and undressing — quarters. They included four television reporters — one from as far away as upstate Schenectady, N.Y.—and one writer from a New Jersey newspaper.

"It's enough to make me come out of retirement," quipped former catcher Fran Healy, who ended his active career earlier in the season and became a broadcaster.

Some players like Sparky Lyle and Reggie Jackson weren't bashful about disrobing and parading around the clubhouse as if only male members of the media were present.

"It's not a very comfortable situation," said relief pitcher Rich Gossage. "They don't belong here. As athletes, we feel this is a pretty private place for us. It's a place to get away from people and be comfortable. If a woman is able to handle it professionally, I guess it's okay, but if they're gonna stand around and watch you undress..."

"Where are they when you need 'em?" third base coach Dick Howser asked with a smile. "When you need 'em, you can't stir 'em with a stick. Now they're all over the place."

Pitcher Ron Guidry, who rarely gets excited, shrugged it off.

"They've gotten into everything else," he said. "But if I walked into their locker room they'd probably have an epileptic fit."

Dallas sells Rote

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League announced Tuesday night they have sold their most popular player — Dallas native Kyle Rote Jr. — to the rival Houston Hurricane.

Tornado General Manager Fred Hoster confirmed the sale prices was in six figures, but would not disclose the exact figure. Sources said the price was around $120,000.

"Dallas would have been stupid to have refused that much money for me," Rote said after the deal was announced. "The money Houston paid will increase the Tornado's player budget by 60 per cent."

Hoster said, "The money changes our whole financial status on recruiting players. We can do more now. When you get an offer the size of this, you can't refuse it."

Cowboys, Redskins sow seeds of contempt early

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seeds of contempt were sown early this NFL season between Dallas and Washington.

The two NFC East powers resume their rivalry Monday night as the Cowboys attempt to blemish the Redskins' unmarked record. Washington quarterback Joe Theismann has tabbed the game a "mini-Super Bowl." Redskins defensive tackle Diron Talbert simply refers to the encounter as "war."

And although the regular season is four weeks old, Dallas has been on the minds of the Redskins since before the season began.

In an informal, pre-season poll conducted by Washington Post sportswriter Leonard Shapiro, the Redskins displayed both respect — and contempt — for the Pokes.

Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach epitomized the love-hate relationship between the two teams. Staubach was listed third behind Chicago running back Walter Payton and Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones as the first man the Redskins would pick to start a franchise.

But he was also listed as one of the most overrated NFL players by the Redskins. Staubach was listed fourth behind New Orleans guard Conrad Dobler. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini and Dallas safety Charlie Waters.

Waters' counterpart in the Dallas secondary — Cliff Harris — was listed behind Dobler as the "dirtiest NFL player."

But the Cowboys were also voted by the Redskins as having:

- the "classiest" uniforms in the NFL.
- the best stadium locker rooms in the league;
- the best artificial turf (Houston, incidentally) was voted as having the worst.

Residents confident in firemen

PASADENA (AP) — Pasadena is nestled in a huge petrochemical industrial complex with only a 160-member club standing between it and a possible fiery devastation.

But the city's 130,000-plus residents sleep each night with full confidence the nation's largest single-city volunteer fire department can handle the job.

"I guess you could call this a hobby with professional status," said Jay Goyer, chief of the Pasadena Volunteer Fire Department. "No one gets paid. We all hold other jobs and participate with the fire department in our off time."

Goyer says he spends more time as head of the fire department than he does at his regular job as fire safety director at GATX Corp.

"I take all my free time and spare time and devote it to the fire department, and I've done this for 19 years," Goyer said. "And I'm definitely not unique," he said. "It's a bunch of civic-minded men and families that makes this thing work."

Goyer put a heavy emphasis on the involvement and understanding required of the volunteers' families.

"It's harder on the women and children of the volunteers than it is on the volunteers themselves," he said. "It takes a lot of time away from home, and a lot of women can't stand the heat that comes from the situation."

There apparently are a lot who can, since the department has very little turnover and a waiting list to join.

U.S. to export more food next year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower prices of some commodities will enable the United States to ship about 10 percent more food to needy countries under the Food for Peace program in the coming year.

The Agriculture Department, which administers the program, said Tuesday that about $785 million has been tentatively allocated for the year beginning Oct. 1 for the part of the program providing long-term credit to qualified countries to buy American farm products.

This year's allocation was $800 million.

But the breakdown by USDA also showed that lower prices of some commodities in the coming year will mean recipient countries will be able to buy more than 5.25 million metric tons of food items compared to 4.77 million metric tons allocated in the current year.

As it has been traditionally, wheat is the largest item scheduled in the coming year, some 4.17 million metric tons against about 3.78 million metric tons this year.

Other commodities tentatively estimated for the coming year's allocation under the Food for Peace long-term credit program include:

Rice 500,000 metric tons in 1978-79 compared to 428,000 this year; feedgrains 502,000 and 354,000 and vegetable oil 77,000 and 211,000.

Those are total allocations including some commodities to be held in reserve in case some countries later want more or new countries enter the program.

Egypt and Indonesia are currently scheduled to receive the largest allocations of aid, $184.8 million and $104.3 million respectively, against $189.1 million for Egypt and $135.7 million for Indonesia this year, according to a similar breakdown issued by USDA as of June 30.

Assistant Secretary Dale E. Hathaway said that of the $785 million total for Title I aid some $83 million is being held in reserve to buy commodities "for any countries which may be added to the list" later on.

Further, he said in a statement, "situations may develop which would cause a change during the year" in the tentative allocations announced now for the various countries.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's corn crop, estimated as of Sept. 1 at a record of 6.8 billion bushels, continues to be in "mostly good" shape, according to the Agriculture Department.

A weekly weather review said Tuesday that the crop as of Sept. 18-24 was doing well except in the Southeast where it was "poor to fair" because of dry weather.

Nationally, only 8 percent of the crop was harvested as of Sept. 24 compared with 14 percent a year ago, the report said.

Soybeans in the Corn Belt were rated "good" as of the past week, with maturity ranging from 20 percent in Indiana to 70 percent in Michigan and Illinois.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress provided a stew of relatively minor agricultural actions Tuesday, including:

—Final action by the House on bills naming agricultural research facilities in three states after retiring or former colleagues.

It sent to President Carter Senate-passed measures that would name a bee research laboratory in Tucson, Ariz., after the late Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., a pean field station in Brownwood, Tex., after Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., and the near animal research center near Clay Center, Neb., after former Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.

—Fishing operations will be able to obtain larger 15-year loans from production credit associations under legislation given final approval by the House.

The Farm Credit Administration asked for the change in the federal rules. Associations now can lend money to fishing operations with the understanding it has to be repaid within three years.

But 15-year loans are needed to finance purchases of larger boats and more sophisticated equipment so that fishermen can take advantage of the new 200-mile territorial limit for fishing waters, the agency said.

—Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, said taxpayers will be saved $25,088 a year by a House-passed bill repealing an 1884 law requiring the secretary of agriculture to publish notices in local newspapers and write railroads and other commercial carriers when a quarantine is imposed to stop the spread of certain insects and animal diseases.

Vance, Gromyko reopen negotiations on SALT

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reopen negotiations today that may determine whether a new treaty to limit the nuclear arsenals of the two superpowers can be completed by the end of the year.

The two men planned two days of meetings, beginning in the late afternoon at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations and continuing Thursday morning at the U.S. Mission.

U.S. officials said after Vance addresses the General Assembly Friday, the negotiations probably would be shifted to Washington on Saturday with President Carter taking charge last October, speaking in

Des Moines, Iowa, an optimistic Carter forecast completion within weeks of a strategic weapons limitation treaty that would be "the pride of the century."

Now, 11 months later, the agreement remains elusive despite three rounds of Vance-Gromyko negotiations since April and Carter's intercession last May.

There are a number of issues in dispute. Chief among them is "modernization," how many new missile systems the two governments will be allowed to build and how many they will be allowed to improve for the duration of the treaty, until 1985.

Paul C. Warnke, the chief U.S. arms negotiator, outlined the latest American bargaining position on a two-day visit to Moscow earlier this month.

Gromyko will convey the Kremlin's response to Vance. There has been no tip-off to it, although Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in a speech last week and Gromyko in a speech to the General Assembly Tuesday expressed hopes for completing the accord.

"The distance between the positions of the two sides is not all that great and is quite surmountable, given good will and state wisdom," Brezhnev said.

Gromyko said a new agreement "is equally needed by the Soviet Union, the United States and the world at large." He said he hoped forces favoring a treaty would prevail in the United States.

After speaking for about an hour, the 69-year-old foreign minister became ill and slumped against the speaker's desk. He was helped from the podium but returned 35 minutes later to complete his speech.

U.N. spokesmen said he was treated in an office behind the assembly chamber by both American doctors and his own Soviet physicians. On his return, he spoke in a firm voice and referred to the heat of the television lights.

Sour relations between Washington and Moscow have hampered the weapons negotiations. The Soviet trials of prominent Soviet dissidents and of Francis Jay Crawford, an international Harvester representative accused of currency manipulations, hardened feelings in this country against the Russians.

The Russians have tried to suppress new U.S. weapons systems. The United States has proposed that each government be permitted to introduce one land-based intercontinental ballistic missile and one new submarine-launched missile during the treaty's life.

National briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government food regulators say it will be more than a year before any effort can be made to take the preservative sodium nitrite out of meats in response to its possible link to cancer.

Final orders to the food industry on what to do with the preservative will not be issued for 12 to 15 months after a tentative decision is reached, officials of the Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department told a Senate committee Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has asked the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to uphold a lower court ruling which prohibits former CIA officer Frank W. Snepp from publishing any articles without prior review by the CIA.

Snepp, whose book "Decent Interval" tells of CIA foulups during the fall of Saigon, is appealing a July court ruling which found he had violated a secrecy oath and ordered him to turn over profits from sale of the book to the government. Justice Department attorneys said the review procedure was necessary to insure that Snepp did not publish anything further containing classified material.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A musicians' strike against the National Symphony Orchestra has forced cancellation of the opening week of concerts, although both sides expressed hope for a quick resolution of the strike.

Orchestra conductor Mstislav Rostropovich joined his musicians in walking the picket line Monday in front of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. The musicians' three-year contract expired at midnight Saturday. The principal issues are wages and the length of a new contract.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation increasing federal aid to prepaid medical plans has been approved by the House. The measure passed Tuesday will authorize $126 million in grants and loans in the next two years for health maintenance organizations.

HMOs have been strongly endorsed by the administration as a way to stimulate competition. They provide an alternative to traditional medical fees by setting up systems in which doctors receive fixed fees regardless of the services they provide.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal fee to legally hunt ducks would be increased under a bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure would raise the price of duck stamps from $5 to $7.50.

Supporters of the measure said Monday the increase is necessary to keep up with steadily rising prices of migratory bird refuge lands and waterfowl nesting areas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a bill that would greatly increase tax benefits for U.S. nationals working abroad. Similar provisions were trimmed by lawmakers two years ago.

The legislation, which goes to the Senate, would largely restore the old benefits and add more. Except for Americans working in Canada and western Europe, the bill would restore the flat $20,000 earnings exemption from U.S. taxes. The 1976 law had cut the exemption to $15,000.

CHICAGO (AP) — A trial date of Oct. 31 was set for two Croatian nationalists charged with holding four people hostage inside the West German consulate last month.

U.S. District Judge Thomas R. McMillen set the date Monday during a hearing for Bozo Kelava, 36, and Mile Kodzoman, 33. The two are charged with kidnaping consulate officials Aug. 17 in an attempt to force the West German government to free a Croatian nationalist in prison there.

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Robert A. Bergland says the salt, fat and sugar content in foods prepared by the government for public schools has been reduced greatly in the past year.

Bergland told a group of Chicago public school administrators on Monday that studies showing the effects of diets on the functioning of the brain and overall health of a child caused the Agriculture Department to revamp its menus.

Carter receives bad report card

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter received a terrible report card from the nation's business economists at their annual meeting in New Orleans a few days ago. They flunked him.

They graded him "poor" or "failure" on a list of five major economic policy issues, and on top of that said his economic conduct produced "uncertainty" — call it confusion — about the future.

To economists, that reference is probably the most damning of all, the future being their turf. They find it difficult to forgive anyone they think has made too many footprints on it.

Uncertainty undermines planning, explained Albert Matamoros, Armstrong Cork economist, in delivering the views of the National Association of Economists. Uncertainty is an anathema.

First, said Matamoros, it forces a company into day-to-day monitoring of the economic environment. Uncertainty is war, and the economist must always be ready to dive for cover.

"At Armstrong," said Matamoros, "we are preparing 1979 budgets on a 'most probable basis' but are also feeding independent variable values from our 'worst case' model into our predictive equations."

"Uncertainty, indeed pessimism," he said, "is rooted in disappointment in the administration's seeming inability to deal effectively with ... economic problems."

This is Carter's report card, based on responses to a multiple choice questionnaire — superior, good, average, poor, failure — by 42 of the association's 3,000 members:

— Energy Program. Rated "poor" or "failure" by 87 percent.

— Tax Program. Almost 80 percent rated it "poor" or "failure." The rest termed it "average."

— Private Capital Formation. "The preponderant proportion of survey respondents give the administration a grade of 'poor' or 'failure.' Once more, 20 percent say 'average.'" — International Economic Policy. Rated "poor" or "failure" by 72 percent. Almost 5 percent said "good," while 23 percent checked the "average" box.

— Confidence-Inspiring Qualities. Rated "poor" or "failure" by 86 percent of respondents.

Matamoros seemed to feel the pupil was not applying himself and that economists "have got to work harder in the economic education area," offering "constructive observations at all levels of government."

Carter might be justified in reminding the public that the record of business economists has not always been superior or good. One sweeping charge against them is that they tend to be expert in forecasting a continuation of conditions but often fail to call the important turns.

But the record of economists really is not the point. What is important is that some presumably influential thinkers believe the present administration is doing a poor job and is not likely to improve much.
