

Commissioners looking for cure to hospital ills

By CARLA BARANAUCKAS
Pampa News Staff

The Gray County Commissioners' court is looking for a prescription to cure the ills of financially troubled Highland and McLean General Hospitals.

After Monday's commissioners' court meeting it appears the favored option is leasing the hospitals to a hospital corporation.

American Medical International Inc. (AMI), a hospital corporation from Houston, presented a letter of intent to the commissioners outlining a plan for the corporation to lease the county hospitals and take over their operation.

The commissioners voted unanimously to have Don Hinton, county judge, sign the letter. Hinton's signature authorizes AMI and the county to bring in attorneys to negotiate a lease.

The commissioners also voted unanimously to hold public hearings as required by state law Oct. 19 and 26 at 7:30 p. m. in the county courtroom in the Gray County Courthouse.

The plan outlined in the letter of intent states AMI would spend up to $750,000 to correct plumbing and other deficiencies in the hospitals.

The hospital corporation would provide $483,278 to repay the total balance due on the $592,199 Hill - Burton loan "in the event that any actions are taken in connection with this lease which cause the Hill - Burton loan to become due and payable."

The Hill - Burton loan is a grant made to the county hospitals in 1969 for renovations. If the county leases the hospitals, the grant must be repaid, because the hospitals would no longer be under the control of the county, according to Hinton.

All equipment presently in the hospitals and owned by the county will be maintained by AMI, according to the letter. Any additional equipment purchased by the hospital corporation will be repurchased by the county at the termination of the lease.

The initial term of the lease will be for five years, the letter says. AMI retains an option to extend the lease for two additional five-year terms.

During the initial term of the lease rental payments will be only the amounts AMI pays for repair work and for repayment of the Hill - Burton loan. AMI could pay as much as $1.2 million under the terms of the letter of intent during the first five years.

For the second and third five-year options AMI will pay $150,000 per year in rent, the letter says.

The letter of intent also provides a plan for collecting accounts receivable. Under the plan AMI would advance funds equal to 80 percent of the total billable value of all patient receivables of the hospitals which are less than 91 days old at the date of the closing. AMI will act as an agent of the hospitals to collect the accounts receivable, but will not buy the accounts receivable from the hospitals.

AMI will retain from the amounts collected all sums until AMI has received an amount equal to the amount initially advanced by the hospital corporation, the letter says.

After the amount advanced by AMI is collected, the corporation will turn over 60 percent of all amounts collected to the county on a monthly basis.

AMI may discontinue to collect the accounts receivable whenever it determines the remaining accounts are uncollectable, according to the letter.

Medicare receivables are not included in the accounts on which AMI will make an advance, the letter says.

Hospital employees will become the employees of AMI and will be eligible for all benefits including group life insurance, group health insurance, retirement, long term disability and stock purchasing, the plan stipulates.

Officials of AMI indicated they thought their experience in hospital operations would benefit them in dealing with the problems of the county hospitals.

"We have experienced some of the problems over and over, so the solutions should be easier for us," said Joy Rubin, coordinator of public relations for AMI.

Rubin indicated AMI has experts in all fields of hospital administration.

"The biggest problem in any hospital — even an AMI hospital — is a free standing hospital cannot have real experts in all areas."

Hospital rates will not necessarily be raised by AMI, however, the prices will be studied, according to R.W. Barkley, director of health care facilities development.

"We're going to have to get in here and prove to the people of Pampa that we can offer quality medical care," Barkley said. "If we don't the people of Pampa will just truck on down the highway to Amarillo."

The leasing of the hospitals can be put to an referendum if a petition signed by 10 percent of the eligible voters in the county is presented to the commissioners court before the first hearing scheduled for Oct. 19.

Explosion destroys Colorado refinery

DENVER (AP) — A series of thundering explosions ripped through a Continental Oil Co. refinery today, killing at least four persons and injuring at least 11 others, police said.

Billowing fireballs rose over the white storage tanks of the refinery and bulk storage plant just northeast of Denver in Commerce City.

Several of the injured were hospitalized in serious or critical condition, and a Continental spokesman said damage could run to between $5 million and $10 million.

Robert Alexander, Continental manager at the refinery and storage plant, said the initial explosion — heard throughout the Denver metropolitan area — was touched off by leaking flammable fumes. He said the source of the ignition was not known.

The Denver bomb squad was sent into the refinery area after the Adams County Sheriff's Department received a call from a man who said he was a Conoco employee and had placed a bomb near a storage tank.

However, police said no bomb was found.

Alexander said 13 men were working in the refinery when the blast occurred, at least nine of them in the area of the explosion. Some of the workers said they had noted leakage of fumes in the area before the blast, Alexander said.

An hour and a half after the first blast shook the city at 6:35 a. m., authorities began to evacuate the area surrounding the plant boundaries. Police at a roadblock two blocks south of the plant said a chlorine storage tank had been blown up in the last series of explosions.

Two hours after the first blast, the flames had subsided in the plant area. Firemen atop aerial ladders sent flat streams of water cascading on the main blaze, but brilliant orange flames continued to burst occasionally over the refinery structures.

The area resembled a war scene with hissing flames, chunks of twisted metal the size of car doors littering the ground and buildings with their sides and roofs blown out.

Interstate Highway 270, one-quarter mile north of the refinery, was closed to traffic as pieces of charred metal rained down on the roadway.

be fair and warmer on Wednesday. Today's high should be in the low 70s with the low tonight in the mid 50s. The high Wednesday will be in the mid 70s. The winds will be out of the northwest at 15-20 miles per hour becoming light and variable tonight.

Teachers face back to work order

By The Associated Press
Striking teachers in Tucson, Ariz., are facing a court order to return to work today, a move that could cut short their strike for higher pay and send 57,000 students back to classrooms.

Meeting in emergency session Monday afternoon, the district school board agreed to ask a Superior Court judge to halt the strike, which the district claims is illegal.

The strike was the first in the city's history.

A spokesman for the Arizona Education Association said the court action was anticipated.

"If they are suing us they are hurt," said Joe Stocker. "Otherwise they wouldn't be going to court."

Meanwhile, negotiations continued Monday night and William Simkin, called in as a mediator, met separately with both sides. The two sides have agreed not to report on progress.

The teachers, whose average salary is $16,189, are seeking a wage boost of 6.5 percent rather than the 5.6 offered by the district. Their list of 14 demands also asks for more power in such areas as class size and discipline. In Cleveland, a judge has ordered the city's strike-plagued, 100,000-pupil school system to reopen Thursday whether or not striking teachers and non-academic employees ratify a contract offer.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Harry A. Hanna directed negotiators for the 10,000 striking school employees to submit the board's latest offer to their members, even though no agreement had been reached. And he ordered that a ratification vote be completed by 4 p. m. Wednesday.

He said Monday that a back-to-work order would be enforced Thursday if the pact is rejected, but declined to say what action he would take if the order is defied.

Terms of the offer were not disclosed, and Hanna continued a gag order barring all parties from commenting on the proceedings.

The 27-day-old walkout has prevented Ohio's largest school system from conducting any formal instruction this fall. Classes have been officially canceled since Sept. 12.

Voters remember to register

Friday is the last day for voter registration for residents intending to vote in the Nov. 7 election.

Voters are being registered at the Gray County Tax Assessor-Collector's office in the Gray County Courthouse from 8:30 a. m. until noon and from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m.

Registration is also being taken at Gray County Democratic Headquarters, 107 W. Foster, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

State should help pay bills commission says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State government should help pay electric bills for the poor and elderly, the Public Utility Commission staff recommended today in a comprehensive report on Texas electric rates.

Another key recommendation was adoption of time-of-day electric rates that would price energy according to when it was used — similar to long distance phone charges.

The 266-page report culminated six months of research and three weeks of public hearings in June. The three-member utility commission will receive the staff report and can accept, reject or revise its recommendations for submission to the Texas Legislature in January.

The Legislature ordered the commission to study the general structure of electric rates in Texas. Pending federal energy legislation also would require state review of rising electric rates.

State human resource agencies could develop an energy assistance plan, the staff said. State funds would be channeled directly to utility companies.

A direct assistance program would help those most in need, the report said, while lifeline rates and energy stamps could aid middle income consumers. The energy payment program would require legislative approval.

"It will be expensive to implement, but the cost of subsidized electric rates could be substantial also," the report said. "A percentage of the poor would not be reached, but some would not be under most lifeline rates, also."

Lifeline rates are below-cost charges to cover a fixed amount of electricity and are aimed at helping low-income customers.

The staff said lifeline rates would force other utility customers to subsidize the lower rates and would not follow the commission's policy of cost-based rates.

Time-of-day pricing instead would be equitable to all consumer classes, the report continued. Time-differentiated rates are based on the fact that it costs more to produce electricity at certain periods of the day or year when demand peaks.

"Time-differentiated rates are the best, but they should be implemented gradually," the staff said.

The report recommends that utility companies should review whether time-differentiated rates would be feasible and how easily special meters could be installed. After such an industry review, the utility commission should consider requiring utilities with significant seasonal variations to use seasonal rates for all customers.

The staff based its recommendation against lifeline rates partially on a survey of Texas electric consumers. The staff survey showed that only one-third of the poor could trim energy consumption enough to qualify for the lower rates.

Declining block rates and flat rating charges are the most common electric rate forms used in Texas. Declining block charges decrease as volume increases. Flat rates charge the same price for any quantity of electricity.

In other recommendations, the staff suggested the state supplement federal efforts to insulate homes against energy loss.

Of Fort Hood soldier

Sheriff says shooting death to go to grand jury

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Sheriff Jim Boutwell says he plans to refer the shooting death of a Fort Hood soldier by deputies from a neighboring county to the district attorney for presentation to a grand jury.

But Boutwell said in his opinion the shooting death early Sunday of Spec. 4 David Samuel Fullington, 21, of Alford, Ill., was clearly justified.

He said deputies who fired at him mistook the glint of a metallic object near his hand for a gun. The glint came from handcuffs placed on Fullington when he was arrested earlier for drunken driving.

Boutwell said Fullington, who stole a state police car and went on a wild joyride before he was killed at a roadblock just inside the Williamson County line, was endangering lives.

He said the soldier must have been "on a spree" when he drove a stolen Department of Public Safety squad car across fences and over pastures, ramming one deputy's squad car and running several officers of the road.

"He crossed the center stripe, charging cars head-on, both police and civilian. I really don't know what else they could have done," said Boutwell. "They did everything they could to stop him. We're just lucky that some innocent people weren't killed."

Fullington was stopped for speeding and drunken driving on Texas 26 near Burnet about 2 a. m. in a car with three other soldiers. The DPS officer cuffed Fullington's hands behind his back, put him inside his squad car and went to search the other soldiers.

Boutwell said Fullington apparently sat on his hands and wiggled them under his legs so that his hands were in front, allowing him to drive off in the DPS car.

There appeared to be conflicting reports on the shooting when officers were questioned about it Sunday. Burnet County Sheriff Roy Hilliard said his deputies opened fire as Fullington crashed through the roadblock, while a DPS spokesman said officers fired on him only after he raised a hand and they saw what they believed to be a gun.

"As near as we can determine, both events happened," Boutwell said. "The officers did open fire on him in an attempt to stop the car" after it crashed through the roadblock, but apparently Fullington was not hit.

"There were numerous bullet holes in in the stolen police vehicle, and deputies shot out a tire or two," Boutwell said. The car made it through the roadblock, but swerved off the road and ran into a fence.

"When officers approached, he put the car in reverse, and attempted to back away," Boutwell said. "He was ordered to halt. At that time he raised his hands to the top of the steering wheel. The officers saw a glint, which they assumed to be a weapon. As it turned out it was his handcuffs. Nevertheless they fired at that time, and Fullington was killed by a single bullet to the head."

Give the United Way

Inmates sue over conditions

HOUSTON (AP)—A 60-year-old man who has spent the past 17 years behind bars testified Monday he had filed numerous lawsuits against the Texas prison system and "at least 50 complaints this year concerning violations of the rights of inmates."

Lawrence C. Pope, convicted of bank robbery and armed robbery, was the leadoff witness for the plaintiffs in a lawsuit challenging the way Texas prisoners are handled and seeking major changes in the penal system.

Pope said that in his job as a prison janitor he was forced to dust 3,000 books at least once a week, "and I have to climb up to reach them without a ladder and I am allergic to dust."

And, he testified he was forced to strip for a search by Texas prison guards four times each day.

admitted he frequently had filed lawsuits and complaints and had "at least 14 apple boxes filed with legal material."

Eight inmates have filed class action suits against the Texas Department of Corrections and state Prison Director Jim Estelle.

U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice, who is hearing the case, consolidated the lawsuits.

Pope was convicted of bank robbery in Waco, Texas, and of armed robbery in Schulenburg, Texas. He was in federal prison from 1961 until 1970 and then sent to the Texas prison unit for a state robbery sentence.

Pope, with an apparent extensive knowledge of law, said the prison system used other inmates, known as "building tenders" to enforce the behind-the-bars laws.

William Turner, an attorney from San Francisco representing David Ruiz, 35, now serving 25 years for robbery, said most inmates are in "constant fear of assault and punishment."

Turner also said the system is operated on the basis of "fear and force. We will show that medical care is substandard and there are too few trained personnel and that the system relies on inmates to dispense drugs, perform minor surgery and take X-rays."

Ed Idrar of the Texas attorney general's office said the state had taken the lead in prison reform long before the federal government moved into civil rights and "inmates in our prison system are safer than those in any other prison system in the nation."

The trial is expected to last about six weeks.

Orientation meet set for workers

An orientation meeting for volunteer workers for the newly established Pampa Meals on Wheels Program will be held at 10 a. m. Friday in the Leisure Lodge kitchen, according to Shirley Kucifer, program coordinator.

Kucifer said the volunteers will be involved in delivery of the low-cost, nutritious meals to persons over 55 years of age who do not have someone to cook for them.

Additional volunteers are needed for the meal delivery phase of the Pampa Meals on Wheels program, she said.

Persons wishing to deliver meals, which will take about 40 minutes per day Mondays through Fridays, should telephone the Meals on Wheels office at 665-1461.

The meals, which will cost the recipients $1 each, will be prepared at Leisure Lodge, under direction of a registered dietician.

The food will be packed in a heat retaining disposable plate and placed in a thermal chest for non delivery by the volunteers, the program coordinator said.

OPINION PAGE

Its United Way time

We have come once again to that time of the year when volunteers will be knocking on doors, asking for money.

Just as surely as September comes around, and then October, so does the annual drive to raise money for the United Way.

This year is no different. The need for money is the same, with emphasis on more. The goal for the local 1978 United Way campaign is $158,000 dollars, an increase of $8,500 over last year's goal.

The agencies are counting on your support and United Way officials note that 97 percent of all contributed funds remain in the community.

There are an even dozen agencies waiting in line this year. If you were able to talk to the people on the receiving end in one of these agencies you would get from them the word "need."

They need your help; they need your support.

This year's United Way activity only came to the surface last week. However, work has been going on for months in quiet little groups gathered in someone's home or an office somewhere as plans were made for the drive.

And, now the drive for contributions to assist in the various agencies' activities for the coming year is moving ahead.

This is a private effort. No agency of government has told us that we have to do this. There are no tax dollars involved.

This is private response from private individuals who are seeing needs in the community and who are determined to help.

That is the best way. That is the only way to make sure that local dollars are spent locally for needs which have been evaluated by local people.

This year, those dollars given here will go out to the homeless and needy, to the underprivileged and the handicapped, to the young and the elderly. There is no strata of our society that United Way money won't touch.

The drive is now underway and the people in the forefront are asking for your help with dollars.

It is an investment that will bear many dividends.

The unblushing governors

Proposition 13, was the banner if not the theme, of the recent governors conference in Boston. While all the state heads tried to pledge allegiance to that flag of taxpayer revolt, they could not stay consistent individually or as a body.

One newspaper headline summed up the seeming paradox of the conclave; it read, "Governors, unblushing, seek more U.S. funding."

The lead paragraph beneath the headline stated, "While calling on the federal government to balance its budget by 1981, the nation's governors also urged Washington to increase the flow of money to the states. They did it without blushing even though the federal government already has a huge debt while states are enjoying surpluses totaling at least $6 billion."

A number of resolutions were adopted by the National Governors' Association which call for more federal spending and, if adopted, would insure further growth of the bureaucracy.

The president and the Congress were urged to continue and expand eight regional commissions. These have often been termed boondoggles, and they are slated to expire in 1979. These are known as Title Five Commissions. The governors asked that they be retained and that funding be increased from $65 million to $250 million per year.

Gov. Thomas Judge, D - Mont., said a White House task force now recommends creation of three new commissions encompassing mid-Atlantic, mid-South and Mid-America states. These commissions would plan and administer economic development programs for groups of states.

Right after voting unanimous approval for expanding the regional commissions, the governors voted for a resolution calling on the federal government to balance its budget. The statement asking for the budget balance expressed "great concern" over the growth of federal expenditures and their effect on the economy.

Without debate and with little discussion, they adopted a series of resolutions requesting additional federal expenditures.

So, our great state leaders have managed to sit on both sides of the fence at once and can use their "position" either way as the occasion requires at home.

There was a great deal of lip service to helping the overburdened taxpayer as they basked in the shadow of Proposition 13 with all its implications. But, the cloak of consideration for fiscal responsibility soon wore thin to reveal the political image in all its self-held esteem.

Perhaps it was too much to expect or even hope for, to find this body willing to take a real stand leading to the solution of our greatest problem: inflation.

Had they had the best interest of all of us at heart, they could have decided to refuse all federal aid until the budget was balanced and the national debt was reduced.

Where leadership is most needed to end devastating inflation and monetary debasement, none was evident in the meeting of our governors. In the end it was only "politics as usual." Taxpayers' plight was on their lips, but actions denied any rightful consideration.

The governors adjourned, unblushing.

Citizens get a 'fair share'

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

BOSTON (NEA) - Citizens in this city's Roxbury section have battled successfully for more mass transit service. East Boston residents are pressing for improved police protection. In Dorchester, the people want better banking facilities.

Throughout Massachusetts, community-based citizens' organizations are exercising their newfound power and influence. In Fall River, for instance, residents recently won a campaign for prompt reconstruction of a fire-razed neighborhood school.

After a Revere youngster was killed by a passing commuter train, an outraged community demanded — and got — full fencing on both sides of the track. In Worcester's Grafton Hill section residents won their struggle for demolition of an abandoned building that was a neighborhood eyesore.

All of those local groups share a common affiliation: They are chapters of Massachusetts Fair Share, one of the country's most successful and sophisticated practitioners of community organizing.

Most of Fair Share's 20,000 dues-paying member families are headed by a low-income or blue-collar wage-earner whose annual salary is in the $10,000- to $14,000 range. Few had any record of prior participation in civic or political affairs.

Many had been alienated from local, state and federal politicians and bureaucrats perceived as unresponsive to their needs. They were afflicted with what Michael Ansara, Fair Share's staff director, describes as "a paralyzing sense of powerlessness."

"Every member we organize comes with a whole lot of work," says Ansara, a talented, articulate 31-year-old. "It's not as if we're riding the crest of a great wave."

Further complicating the organizing task is the ethnic diversity of membership that ironically also is one of Fair Share's great strengths. The Dorchester chapter is heavily Irish, the Roxbury unit is dominated by blacks and the East Boston affiliate is predominantly Italian.

Portuguese-Americans are heavily represented in the Fall River chapter, with numerous French-Canadians in Lowell and Spanish-speaking citizens in Jamaica Plain.

To avoid unwanted philosophical clashes, Fair Share members have agreed to disagree on two highly emotional subjects — school busing and abortion — by purposely avoiding any organizational position on those issues.

But there's no dearth of other issues for Fair Share's 30 affiliates spread across the Bay State. At the local level, neighborhood groups are constantly battling municipal officials for improved street lighting, traffic signals, snow removal, recreational facilities and other services.

The community units in each city usually are also working concurrently on at least one broader municipal issue. In Springfield, for example, Fair Share affiliates have challenged a $13.1 million rate increase being sought by the local gas company.

In Worcester, a citywide cash paign humiliated the owners of a hotel, a nursing home and other commercial properties into paying hundreds of thousands of dollars in delinquent real estate taxes.

Fair Share also campaigns for social and economic justice on a statewide basis, emerging in recent years as a potent lobbying force in the state capitol on Beacon Hill.

One recent effort was instrumental in convincing the state legislature to require auto insurance companies to rebate $55 million to more than 600,000 drivers. On the general election ballot this year is a Fair Share-inspired initiative to provide property tax relief for all Massachusetts home-owners.

With an annual budget of almost $600,000 and a staff of 50 organizers, Fair Share stands as a model for aspiring community-based organizations now springing up throughout the country to enhance citizen participation in the political and governmental processes.

"Perhaps our most important accomplishment," says Ansara, "is our success in restoring to some citizens the belief that they can control what happens to them."

Self-government on trial

Self-government won't work without self-discipline.

Businessmen fuss and fret over the usurpation of their prerogatives by alphabetical agencies of government — yet if they don't discipline themselves, government has to move in and free enterprise becomes that much less free.

This year the government had to order Safeway stores to sell advertised bargains at advertised prices.

McDonald's hamburger restaurants in Los Angeles had to be court-ordered to stop advertising "fresh" orange juice when it is not fresh and "maple" syrup when it is not maple.

A health food distributor was caught buying up cases of ordinary mayonnaise, relabeling it "health food mayonnaise" and selling it at an inflated price.

One diet bread tried to get away with advertising "less calories per slice" by slicing thinner.

Self-government without self-discipline is self-defeating.

For example when the FTC finds that up to 40 percent of all car repairs you get charged for were not made or were not needed.

From experience we know that without government surveillance somebody will try to put Chevy engines into Oldsmobiles.

The number of government regulatory agencies has doubled in 10 years. For every new law passed by Congress last year, unelected bureaucrats turned out 18 new regulations with the force of law.

President Ken Wessner of Servicemaster said it: "To the extent that we businessmen vacate our moral obligations of stewardship, to that extent our businesses will be taken out of our hands."

What is true of us collectively is true for us individually.

Already traditional American "freedoms" have been so abridged that you are not free to get on an airliner without submitting yourself, your luggage and, if indicated, your underwear — to search.

Why? Because there is a dictator in Washington determined to dictate?

No, sir. It's simply because we have a handful of screwballs running around with guns and knives.

Because a few sickies hide razors apples, whole states have had to outlaw Halloween.

They've taken away our fireworks and threaten to take away our guns — because some misuse theirs.

Not because there is tyranny in government, but because there is anarchy in the unbuttoned brains of a handful of looneybirds who don't deserve to be free — so the rest of us can't be.

And it's down that road that nations go from regulations to regimentation to tyranny.

Self-government implies an immense responsibility: we must behave voluntarily or we will be forced to behave. We must work voluntarily or we will be forced to work.

Let's volunteer.

Let's preserve, protect and defend our beautiful, bountiful republic from all enemies — foreign and domestic, sometimes including ourselves — if only because so many people we never knew have broken their hearts to get it and keep it for us.

Your money's worth

All charter reforms flying

Sylvia Porter

Never before has the federal government pushed so aggressively to lower plane fares to save money for the millions of us who must or want to travel by air for business, vacations, etc.

On top of the sweeping new regulations from the Civil Aeronautics Board that could slash our coach fares by as much as 70 percent on scheduled airlines, the CAB is proposing reforms to make it easier for us to withdraw from charters in which significant changes are made at the last minute. Under the board's proposals:

You, a charter participant, could cancel your reservations and receive full refunds if any of several "major" alterations are made to the charter package after you have signed your contract. New disclosures also would be required in charter advertising.

A detailed review of these new proposals plus other comprehensive protection regulations is to be undertaken this coming month (October). And this is not all. Other broader charter reforms were instituted by the CAB just a few weeks ago — with some effective immediately, others to go into effect starting Jan. 1, 1979.

In its earlier actions, the CAB liberalized charter rules to eliminate most current charter forms and to replace them with a single form called "Public Charters." As a result, there will be:

- No advance purchase requirements;
- No minimum stay requirement;
- No restrictions on discount pricing;
- No minimum group size.

In addition, while the CAB will permit one-way charters among others, it will bar open-end round-trip charters — great good news for all of you who have found yourselves stranded on the other side of the ocean after having paid for a return flight, but with no return charter flight and no funds to make alternate deals.

Charters were responsible for nine out of 10 complaints logged against agents and tour operators by the Office of the Consumer Advocate of the CAB last year. Inherent in the problem was the infancy of the mass charter market, which really only began to take off three years ago. Nightmarish stories spread about charter passengers sleeping at terminals overseas, about unexpected cancellations and defaults, about charters that took bookings and then never even got off the ground.

But now if the CAB proposals are adopted and you are a charter passenger, you may be able to cancel your reservation if:

- There is an alternation of departure or return date;
- The origin or destination city is changed;
- You are assigned a hotel other than the one named in the operator-participant contract.

The price of your tour is hiked 10 percent, whether all at once or in smaller chunks. No increases would be allowed after the 10th day before departure.

Should you be advised of a major change by the charter operator, you would have seven days in which to cancel and you would be entitled to receipt of a refund seven days after cancellation.

The bulk of all those confusing "alphabet soup" special regulation charter names will be eliminated beginning Jan. 1, 1979. Due to disappear are such names as Advance Booking Charters (ABCs), Travel Group Charters (TGCs), Study Group Charters (SGCs), Inclusive Tour Charters (ITCs), and One-stop Inclusive Tour Operators (OTOs). Affinity group and single-entity charters will remain because, says the CAB, of the specialized nature of the groups to which they appeal.

If you're among the never-to-be counted thousands who have been through agony because of charter cancellations, slow refunds, poor or inadequate advisory service from charter tour operators, none of this big news about spectacular reforms will be much consolation to you. You already have lost your vacation or money or had your dreams ruined.

But at least you — along with the countless numbers to follow you on charter flights — will have the assurance of new protections on future trips. And the benefits should start to flow to you on any autumn or end-of-the-year holiday trip.

Should you wish to comment on any of the projected changes, write to CAB, Docket Section, Docket 29165, Washington, D.C. by the deadline of Oct. 23, 1978.

Letters from readers

Dear Editor,
In an age when the public is supposedly entitled to know what it's "getting for the money", why should the ingredients of dog food be easier to obtain than those of a single pill? Unfortunately, this is the case. At the present time the only way to obtain information about fillers in medication is by calling the drug company which manufactures that particular drug. It takes from three to 48 hours to get an answer.

A young mother from Sunray, Texas, who has recently lost her son, has begun circulating petitions to try to get this changed. The petition requests that information regarding fillers be made readily available to doctors so that allergies to such things as corn sugar, corn starch, wheat, and egg whites can be taken into account when writing prescriptions. At the present time, without this information, it can truly be a case of the cure being worse than the cause.

As the mother of a child who suffers an allergy to corn — in any form — I found this information startling and frightening. It may be that additional legislation is not really needed; that this problem can be handled under existing laws governing labeling. This is a problem for our law makers; however, I do support the petition now being circulated, as it will make our government representatives aware of the problem. They in turn can work with the FDA to see that the necessary steps can be taken to correct a situation which could be fatal.

Political battle underway for South Texas voters

By The Associated Press
A battle is on for the important South Texas vote between gubernatorial candidates Democrat John Hill and Republican Bill Clements as they argue over Hill's role in a 1975-76 Webb County grand jury probe into alleged corruption.

At a news conference Monday in Austin, Hill said published reports that he declined to investigate the Webb County allegations because he had "lots of friends in Laredo" were "totally false."

Hill called out Texas Ranger Ramiro Martinez, Laredo District Attorney Charles R. Borchers and Ray Bravenec, a member of Hill's organized crime task force, to reinforce his stand. All had played an active part in the grand jury probe which indicted and gave a probated sentence to one person.

Meanwhile, Clements released a statement which said, "It is a sad day for the citizens of Webb County and all of Texas when we learn that our interests come second to the political ambitions of any politician."

"John Hill apparently has violated the public trust and his own oath of office. His reported inaction in regard to the Webb County cover-up brings into serious question his integrity and his entire career in public office."

Clements charged Hill has "only selectively enforced the law and has used his office where it benefits him politically."

Hill told the Austin news conference the Webb County investigation was one of 20 investigations made by his department in all areas of the state.

"Under my leadership, the attorney general's office has participated in more local grand jury investigations of public corruption than any of my predecessors," he said. "More than 120 indictments have resulted."

In the state attorney general's race, Republican Jim Baker said Monday in Dallas that he was looking forward to a scheduled television debate with Democrat Mark White. Later in the day, Baker took part in a fund-raising event with tennis star Ilie Nastase.

White was in Amarillo Monday and Monday night.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said Monday in a statement that former Congressman O.C. Fisher, a Democrat, had endorsed his re-election campaign at a fund-raising dinner in Austin Sunday night. Tower's office said he grossed $104,000 from the dinner, which was aimed at Democrats and independents.

Rep. Bob Krueger, the Democratic challenger to Tower, was on a Central Texas helicopter tour Monday with a noon stop in Marlin and ending up in Waco.

Shriners hit Pampa streets

Shriners throughout the United States have designated Friday and Saturday as Shrine Hospital Benefit Days (SHBD) to acquaint the public with work that is done for children in their 21 orthopedic and burn hospitals.

Members of Pampa Shrine Club will be stationed in various spots in Pampa to hand out literature and talk about the work they are able to perform daily through donations.

Any donations to this vital organization will be gladly accepted.

To Texas' death row

New wing to be opened soon

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas' Death Row is getting so crowded with prisoners condemned to die that correction officials say they may have to open up a new wing of Death Row.

"They're coming in hard and quick" said Department of Corrections spokesman Ron Taylor. "At some point we're going to have to open up a third cell block to house all these people."

But at the same time Taylor predicted Monday that Texas will begin carrying out executions next year for the first time in 14 years.

Taylor said there are now 100 persons in state custody who have been sentenced to die, "plus probably another dozen in county jails who have been sentenced but have not yet been transferred to us."

Taylor said some have been on Death Row for four years, and appeals are beginning to run out. Texas has not executed a prisoner since July 30, 1964, when convicted murder Joseph Johnson of Houston was electrocuted. The electric chair has been replaced by a method of execution yet to be used — lethal injection.

"It looks like there's a good possibility for an execution in 1979," Taylor said. "My guess is it will be late spring or early summer."

Texas houses its condemned prisoners in single-person cells in the Ellis Unit, about 18 miles north of here. If the trend continues, Ellis' Death Row stands to grow even more crowded before the executions start. Texas juries sentenced 17 persons to death in 1974, but sent 24 convicted killers to death row last year.

Houston juries alone have handed down 12 death sentences so far this year, including four in one week.

A jury in nearby Wharton last month sent the only condemned woman in Texas to Death Row. Mary Lou Anderson of Lake Charles, La., was sentenced to die by an injected overdose of sodium pentothal for hiring a killer to murder her parents so she could collect their life insurance.

Several women have been sentenced to death, but the only woman ever put to death was Chipta Rodriguez. She was hanged from a mesquite tree near Sinton in South Texas in 1863 for murdering a horse trader and stealing his gold.

Texas lawmakers wrote a new capital punishment law in 1973 to replace one declared unconstitutional the previous year. But prisoners have avoided death by continually appealing their cases. Now, legal experts in Austin say time is running out, especially for two condemned inmates. James Paul Burns and Jerry Lane Jurek.

Burns, who was convicted of abducting, torturing and murdering an Odessa man in 1973, he is "pretty close to the end" of his legal battle, an assistant attorney general said.

Jurek, who has been on death row even longer than Burns, was convicted of abducting and strangling Wendy Adams, 10, of Cuero, in August 1973.

Eleven members of DECA will travel to the Lubbock Convention Center, Friday and Saturday.

These members will attend an area-wide leadership seminar where they will learn leadership and techniques which can be applied in the local chapter to make it even stronger.

Of local National Guard Collazo to demand probe

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — State Rep. Frank Collazo Jr. says he will demand a congressional investigation of charges that officials in the local Texas National Guard falsified federal documents.

"I am not only going to request a House investigation, but also that the inspector general conduct a separate investigation on this matter," Collazo said Monday.

The matter stems from charges based on information supplied by two administrative supply technicians at the Port Arthur National Guard unit.

The technicians are responsible for transactions, acquisitions and record keeping.

The charges involve falsification of federal documents regarding strength reports and misappropriation of funds.

One of the technicians also claims his constitutional rights were violated, but Collazo said he will direct the investigation only into the matters of falsification of documents and misappropriation of funds.

The technicians also have requested Senate consideration from State Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur and U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas. Tower said he passed the request to the inspector general's department of the 49th Army Division.

"I am satisfied there is documented proof and it will be presented," Collazo said.

Parker said he also plans to look into the matter.

Collazo said he plans to contact U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, about the allegations.

"This could involve millions of taxpayers' dollars being misused," Collazo said.

He said he plans to request the investigations immediately.

Bigham to speak

Jerry Bigham, Vocational Director of the Borger Independent School District, will be a guest of the Pampa DECA Chapter on Wednesday.

Bigham will speak to the DECA Members on techniques of marketing research. This speech will aid the DECA members in the development of a marketing research project for the 1978-79 school year.

Elderly couple found slain

LORENZO, Texas (AP) — The bullet-riddled bodies of an elderly Lorenzo man and his wife were found sprawled in the dirt driveway of their small, two-bedroom home just north of town Monday evening.

Crosby County deputies said. Deputies said Valton Vernoid Gandy, 73, had been shot three times, and his 68-year-old wife, Cora Hughes Gandy, had been shot twice.

They had apparently just returned from a shopping trip, officer said, and a bag of groceries was resting on the hood of Gandy's car parked in his driveway.

Mrs. Gandy's sister discovered the grim scene about 6 p.m., deputies said.

Residents of this small South

Plains town, about 20 east of Lubbock, were shocked, and officers said they had few clues.

An autopsy was ordered on the bodies.

Officers said a television was missing from the Gandy home, but the house had not been ransacked. Neither Gandy's wallet nor his wife's purse was missing, although there was no money in either, deputies said.

There was no evidence of forced entry into the Gandy home, but neighbors told deputies the couple never locked the house.

Mrs. Gandy's sister, who found the bodies, was the last person to see the couple alive. She had visited with them earlier in Lubbock.

Test vote nears on ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senators opposing the proposed Equal-Rights Amendment outnumbered announced ERA supporters, but sentiments of more than a quarter of the Senate are unknown as a test vote nears on extending the ratification deadline.
 The Senate begins debate today with a final vote set for Friday on the proposal to give state legislatures another 39 months to ratify the ERA or let it die.

A major test will come Wednesday on an amendment to allow legislatures that have already ratified to use the extra time to withdraw approval.
 The sponsor of that amendment, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, argues that if supporters are given more time, the same should apply to opponents. But ERA supporters say passage of the Garn amendment would cancel any ratification help the extension might provide because of current sentiment

Texas forecast

By The Associated Press
 A touch of real autumn has moved into Texas with a cold front that by dawn reached deep into the South Plains.
 The front was moving south at a brisk 15 mph.
 Some showers were scattered along the coast and fog draped southern portions of Texas this morning. The rest of the state was under clear to partly cloudy skies.
 The forecast called for scattered showers and thunder-showers in eastern and southern sections of Texas today.
 Highs should range from the 70s in the northwest to almost 90 in the south.
 At 7 a.m., temperature readings at selected locations included Waco, 72; Abilene, 63; Tyler, 68; Midland, 60; El Paso, 59; Lubbock, 57; Austin, 71; Corpus Christi, 77; and Del Rio, 67.

Vandals strike at high school

Paul Payne, principal at Pampa High School, stated that vandals struck at the school between midnight and 6 a.m. today.
 Payne said the vandals probably broke into the high school through a window in the restroom, and entered the principals office by breaking a hole in the wall.
 The vandals took approximately $150 from a safe, but Payne said more vandalism was done to the wall than the safe.
 Payne said no extra safety precautions will be taken.
 According to Payne the school needs to keep a minimal amount of money in their safe.
 Payne said the police department has no suspects in the case yet, but Payne's guess is that the vandal is someone that has been or is associated with the school.

Willis guest speaker at Upsilon meet

Leona Willis, buying agent for Cabot's twelve foreign plants, was the guest speaker at last night's Upsilon meeting entitled "Learning to Earn."
 Willis, a certified professional secretary, said all women have a career no matter what they do. However, if you are a housewife, Willis instructs you to prepare yourself to be able to do something outside of the home.
 "It is a shock to be thrown out into the world because of a divorce or death," she said.
 "If you have to work, don't take a job just to pay for new furniture or carpet," Willis instructed. "Do something you like to do. Know where you are headed regardless of the money."
 Willis said she is not a women's liber. "But it would be foolish for women not to take advantage of what is available to them in the job market. And additional learning never hurt anyone."
 Willis' "Learning to Earn" speech was part of Upsilon's Seeking New Horizons theme for this year.

Needy children to be screened

Needy Gray County children will be screened for health problems in Pampa October 11 and 25 from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Department of Health, 120 South Russell.
 Volunteers are needed to work with Marjie Holland, R.N. according to Larry Bobbitt caseworker with the Texas Department of Resources.
 Persons wishing to assist may call the Pampa DHR office, 669-6807.
 Individuals under the age of 21 are eligible for the health screening. Those who do not already have an appointment are urged to contact the DHR office immediately.

Tickets on sale for Chamber meet

Ticket sales for the annual meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at M.K. Brown Auditorium Oct. 26 are progressing at a steady pace, according to Gary Stevens, chamber president.
 He noted that tickets are still available, but they should be purchased soon as he expects a sellout.
 The tickets, at $5 each, may be purchased from any Panpa Chamber of Commerce director or at the Chamber office, Stevens said.
 The chamber's annual meeting is the event at which the new officers and directors officially begin their duties with the exchange of the gavel.
 Many people from other Panhandle cities and towns will be present, representing their Chambers of Commerce, and will be recognized.
 Highlight of the evening will be patriotic address given by Jerry Clower who has patriotic address given by Jerry Clower who has rapidly become a national personality by telling down-home stories he has perfected over the past several years.
 Clower's strong religious belief undergirds every part of his life and for many years his efforts have benefited the Gideon cause. He serves as a deacon in the First Baptist Church of Yazoo City, Miss., and as a lay preacher he responds to many requests for talks in that capacity.
 The Pampa High school band and choir will be featured in a patriotic music concert at the meeting. These groups have appeared on stage with many nationally known personalities and have gained nationwide recognition.
 The band and choir have also competed in festivals all over the nation in which they have won many awards.

Glacier man injured in collision

A Glacier man was injured when he apparently fell asleep while driving east of Pampa on U.S. 60 this morning, crossing the center line and striking a semi-tractor trailer.
 Dennis L. Bryan of Glacier was reported picked up at the scene of the accident by a passing motorist to be transported for medical attention but authorities reported they are unable to locate Bryan.
 "We are looking for him now," a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said. "If we don't find him today then the charges are really going to pile up."
 The spokesman stated that Bryan was cited for disregard for no passing zone and driving without a Texas operators permit.
 The driver of the semi-trailer, Robert Lee Angel of Shaddock, Tx. was not injured in the accident.
 The DPS spokesman stated that there was slight damage to the truck but extensive damage was done to Bryan's 1978 Chevrolet. Bryan's vehicle was listed as a total loss.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 15-year-old girl who is begging her mother to let her get married:

In some states, the decision to allow teenagers to marry does not lie with the parents.

For example, in the state of Washington, no child under the age of 17 may marry with or without parental consent without a court's permission. Kids between 17 and 18 require permission. After 18, they require only a witness.

In one case, a 15-year-old girl was pregnant by a 17-year-old boy. Both his family and hers tried to get the judge to let them get married. At first he refused because he talked to the kids and didn't think they were sufficiently "sincere." Only after they attended several months of counseling did the judge feel they were ready for marriage, after which he gave his consent.

Another case: A 16-year-old girl asked for permission to get married because she was pregnant. The judge refused, saying that wasn't a good enough reason. The girl had her baby, waited until her 18th birthday, and then got married.

Many parents feel it is their right to give or withhold permission to marry, but the state of Washington says differently.

B. IN SNOHOMISH, WASH.

DEAR B.: At first I thought someone was giving me a "Snoho" job, but a call to a Washington lawyer confirmed your facts. Thanks for the information.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for people who would like to leave their worldly goods to favorite relatives and special friends.

DO NOT write: "I want Sister Diane to have the gold brooch I got from Aunt Sophie." DO WRITE: "I want my sister Diane to have my 14 kt. gold brooch in the shape of an owl with diamond eyes." (If you have more than one gold brooch, no one may remember which one your Aunt Sophie gave you for your 16th birthday 55 years ago.)

Or, better still, if you don't have one of those instant cameras, borrow one and take a picture of every valuable item you own—and write the name of the person you want to have it on the back of the picture.

That way there will be no misunderstanding.
MRS. M. IN L.A.

DEAR MRS. M.: Good idea, but very few people are prepared to accept the fact that they can't take it with them—or indeed, that they are even going!

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago we wanted a third child. We joyfully welcomed a 3-year-old child into our existing family. My husband, our social worker and I were certain the adoption would be a happy one. It wasn't.

I still feel the pain of the six months that child was with us. So much had happened in her little life that the adjustment could not be made. At the time of our anguish, I read every book and article I could find about adoption. No one mentioned the pitfalls or even the possibility of an unsuccessful adoption—only the glowing accounts of the "happily-ever-after" successful adoptions.

I have been tempted to publish the story of our failure, but I hesitate because I don't want to discourage others from adopting children who desperately need a loving home.

One of the most difficult things we had to deal with was a problem no one mentioned—the sexually abused child. As I write this I can still hear the child's screams as my loving husband tried to hold her. We finally understood when she told us in detail how "that bad man" had hurt her.

We had hoped that our patience, kindness and love would help. Perhaps it did—but not enough.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 28 years old and have a slight problem with pimples, but on the neck area only. I don't eat junk foods, fried foods or any kind of food stuff like that. I always eat well-balanced meals.

I would like to know if any or all of the vitamins that I take (two lecithin tablets, two vitamin E tablets, one multi-vitamin, and two vitamin C tablets) could be the cause of the problems? It seems the pimples started after I began taking the vitamin C. I would appreciate any advice you can give me.

DEAR READER—Recent studies show that the diet has very little to do with acne. At one time it was thought that chocolates, rich foods, nuts and a long list of items might be related to acne, but controlled studies have demonstrated that they do not. If follows that the various vitamin tablets you are taking won't cause the acne. If you are on a balanced diet, they won't help you any either.

Acne is caused by an overproduction of sebum, the oily material that comes out of the skin. While the process does begin most often during the adolescent years, it can continue into adult life and even be present in later years.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-2, Acne Can Be Treated by giving you more information on what causes acne and what you can do about it. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I would just point out that the basic concept of treatment is to dry up the oily secretions, eliminate any of the bacteria in the skin that causes problems and, in some instances, induce skin peeling to eliminate clogged or damaged skin surfaces. These methods are discussed more completely in the issue of The Health Letter I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB—How many kinds of cancer are there? I don't mean how many different places can you get cancer. I have been told a friend of mine had seven different kinds of cancer. I always thought there was just one cancer but it could go to all parts of the body. I am anxious because a dear friend of mine has it and I want to do as much as I can to make the last days as happy as I can.

DEAR READER—A good concept of cancer is to regard it as an abnormal growth of body cells. Thus, a thyroid cancer consists of abnormal thyroid cells and the growth of these abnormal cells has gone wild. A cancer that originates from the liver is a liver cancer that consists of liver cells which have gone wild. A lung cancer consists of cells from the lungs that are abnormal and are growing wild.

Under the proper circumstances, almost any cells in the body can become abnormal and undergo wild, uncontrolled growth, meaning cancer. Therefore, you can have as many kinds of cancer as there are tissues in the body.

The place where the cancer starts is usually called the primary cancer. If a woman has a cancer of the breast, that is the primary site. These cancer cells may spread by the lymph system and the rest of the circulation throughout the body.

At first, the small number of cells that are released from the primary cancer site may be so few in number that they are never able to lodge and plant themselves elsewhere. The longer the primary cancer remains undetected, the greater the probability that some of the cells that break off and feed throughout the body will implant and survive in other locations. These are called metastatic. Metastatic cancer then is cancer that has spread from the primary cancer site.

Avoid swivet over sweat

By Charles Hix

If man couldn't regulate his body heat and eliminate internal waste by perspiring, he'd die. So why is perspiration always bad-mouthed? For the nose-knowing reason that it's associated with body odor.

Surprisingly, perspiration itself is usually odorless. But when perspiration intermixes with bacteria, odor generates. Since odor is most pronounced under the arms and at the pubic areas, understanding the operation of sweat glands in these places versus other parts of the body will make it clearer why body odor is a specialized problem.

The eccrine glands and the apocrine glands are both sweat glands, but they deliver different types of perspiration.

The more numerous eccrine glands are spread throughout the entire body. Constantly releasing perspiration, these glands are the organism's heat and waste regulators. Ordinarily most men are unaware of constant perspiration. During periods of excessive heat or physical exertion, the sweat becomes apparent, sometimes to the point of dripping off the skin. Nervous tension also stimulates the production of sweat, basically free-flowing salt water.

The apocrine glands, on the other hand, generally release a sticky, whitish fluid containing various metabolic by-products. Although far outnumbered by eccrine glands, apocrine glands are especially populous in the underarms. They are also found in the genital and anogenital areas as well as the navel and around the breasts.

Bacteria are ever present on the body. But since the little buggers breed best in warm, moist environments, bacteria are at their happiest and most prolific in areas where perspiration can't readily evaporate—the armpits in particular, where apocrine glands are densest.

Since body odor is the outgrowth of bacteria, and since soap and water can remove these microorganisms for a time, personal cleanliness is the most effective combatant of offensive odor.

Deodorants are supposed to diminish body odor. Depending upon the chemical ingredients in the formulation, they may or may not. But more often they mask the odor. Technically, deodorants should not interfere with the flow of perspiration. Some do, but for marketing reasons certain companies would rather call their products deodorants than antiperspirants.

Some type of aluminum salt to delay the delivery of perspiration to the skin's surface is common to all antiperspirants. But that doesn't mean all antiperspirants are the same. The percentage of ingredients will vary. Creams and roll-ons reportedly give more protection than aerosols, although judgments are fairly selective, since men perspire at different rates and at different times.

Although called antiperspirants, fortunately these products don't stop all sweating. Immediately after application, if they even reduce the flow of perspiration by a half, that's monumental. Most provide far less control. Despite the claims, it's dubious whether any antiperspirants work full force for more than several hours. Their effectiveness decreases as temporarily checked perspiration gets pumped once again, diluting the product in its course. Rebound effects, with perspiration redoubling its efforts once uninhibited, have been reported.

It's hard to justify an argument for hairy armpits, other than supposed masculinity. Since hair holds odor, and most of the odor created in the armpits is hardly pleasurable, B.O. would be more easily controlled if men shaved their underarms. However, the likelihood of fellows doing so is miniscule.

Women benefit from inventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inventions patented in September were a godsend to woman, according to IPO, Inc., a non-profit public education group dedicated to preserving the patent system as an incentive to innovation and creativity.

On Sept. 10, 1846, Elias Howe Jr. of Cambridge, Mass., patented the first workable sewing machine. Woman were soon using them in their homes and many later found jobs in factories when Isaac M. Singer used Howe's patents to help create a giant ready-made clothing industry.

M.R. Bissell in September 1876 literally helped housewives off their knees when he patented an upright, push-type carpet sweeper, an instant success.

National news

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Honeybees appear to use the Earth's magnetic field to find their way when the sun, stars or landmarks are not visible, according to a Princeton University professor.

Biologist James Gould, 33, says bees can use the magnetic field to navigate because of a compound of iron and oxygen called magnetite that is present in bees' abdomens. Each honeybee carries millions of crystals of magnetite and the crystals appear to rearrange themselves in response to changes in the bee's position in the magnetic field, Gould said.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Striking employees picketed the Disneyland Hotel here after 120 workers walked off the job following a breakdown in contract negotiations.

A spokesman for AFL-CIO Local 399 of the Hospital and Service Employees Union said the dispute that began early Sunday involves contract length, wages and pensions.

HIGHLAND, Ill. (AP) — A Collinsville woman died and her husband was critically injured when their replica of a 1912 Bellanca single-engine plane crashed in a field, officials said.

Authorities said Ann Murphy, 23, died in Sunday's crash. Her husband, Michael Murphy, also 23, was hospitalized in critical condition.

Murphy began building the replica, described as "wings with wire," when he was 14. The cause of the crash was not known.

BURNET, Texas (AP) — Army Spec. 4 David Fullington was shot to death by sheriff's deputies after he led officers on a wild chase through two Texas counties in a stolen highway patrol car and attempted to run a roadblock, officials said.

Sheriff Roy Hilliard said the Fort Hood soldier died Sunday near Burnet. Three men who were also in the patrol car were arrested and jailed in Burnet on charges of public intoxication, police said.

The incident began when police stopped a speeding vehicle on Texas 29 and its occupants made off in the patrol car, officials said.

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Heart attack victims have normal sex lives but shouldn't have a cocktail or a heavy meal before making love, says a nurse who is the author of a booklet called "The Sensuous Heart."

Suzanne Cambre, the nurse, told a weekend meeting of the Georgia Heart Association that most heart attack victims can resume sexual activity after an initial recovery period.

But the nurse at Atlanta's Piedmont Hospital said sex after drinking alcohol or eating a heavy meal isn't wise for heart attack victims because their hearts are already under stress. Her booklet advises a three-hour delay in such cases.

ALLENDALE, Mich. (AP) — Russel Kirkhoff, a 82-year-old retired industrialist who never got beyond the seventh grade, has given Grand Valley State College $1 million.

College President Arend Lubbers said the donation is the largest in the 15-year history of the Michigan school. Lubbers said the liberal arts professional studies building, and the corresponding academic program, will be renamed after Kirkhoff.

During last week of 95th Congress

ERA, tax cut highlight agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — More time for the proposed Equal Rights Amendment and a tax cut for some Americans highlight the Senate agenda for what may be the next to last week of the 95th Congress.

Both issues have already been dealt with in the House, although the tax cut is expected to be back there again after a House-Senate conference committee has arrived at a compromise measure.

Meanwhile both houses are bracing for an expected veto of the $10.2-billion public works bill they passed despite President Carter's strong objections.

On another issue, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd,

D-W.Va., said over the weekend that the prospects for Senate passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill are "fairly good."

Leaders of both houses say they are aiming at adjourning Oct. 14.

The House voted on Aug. 15 to push the deadline for ratification of the ERA back to June 30, 1982. From the present cutoff of March 22, 1979. On Thursday, Senate opponents said they were abandoning their planned filibuster.

While a final vote is set Friday, what could be the crucial vote will come Wednesday on an amendment to permit state legislatures that have already ratified the ERA to reverse themselves during the extra time period.

Backers of the ERA say this amendment would wipe out the advantage of the extension.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, leader of the fight against the extension, said Saturday that 53 senators, three more than needed, had told him they would vote for the amendment. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the pro-extension leader, said earlier the vote was "too close to call." Byrd predicted Saturday it would be "very close."

The ERA, which would prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex, needs to be ratified by 38 legislatures to become part of the Constitution. It has been approved by 35, but the legislatures of Idaho, Kentucky, Nebraska and Tennessee have rescinded their approval.

Debate on the tax bill will probably begin Thursday, Byrd said, with a vote possible the following Monday. The bill would cut the government's tax take by $23 billion and would reduce taxes for single people earning about $15,000 and for families of four or more earning under $20,000.

The Carter administration, contending the bill is too costly, says it favors the wealthy by making deep cuts in taxes on capital gains, the profits from the sale of assets owned a year or longer.

The House-passed bill would cut taxes $16.3 billion. Carter favors a cut of about $20 billion.

Efficiency may claim many federal agencies

NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of efficiency, many areas of the federal bureaucracy might be laid to rest, but that which was buried this past weekend hardly was the proper one.

So far as is known, the National Center for Productivity and Quality of Work Life didn't even win its vital organs to another agency.

All it left was its studies, and the warning it referred to constantly throughout its three-year life: Production efficiency, which helped build and support the American way of life, is deteriorating.

Everyone piously acknowledges the dangers. In its 1978 report to the president, for example, the Council of Economic Advisers called it "one of the most significant economic problems of recent years."

But it's almost ignored. In its final report, the Center commented that "although this slowdown affects almost every major economic issue, policymakers have paid inadequate attention to it."

Unforgivable, you might conclude, when you consider that the issues policymakers sometimes build so large are mere anthills against the smoky volcano that the issue of lagging productivity really is.

Consider first, in the Center's final words to the president and Congress, what productivity increases have meant to the country:

"Americans, throughout history, have enjoyed a steadily rising standard of living. The economy has expanded, new jobs have been created, choices have been broadened, and rewards have increased.

"The average American today consumes greater amounts and varieties of goods and services, performs less backbreaking work, and has more leisure time than the generations before."

"This better life was made possible by sustained productivity improvement — a continuing ability to produce more in less time and with fewer resources."

George Kuper, the Center's executive director, isn't totally pessimistic. We can, he said, vigorously pursue a program that gives top priority to the problem.

Involved would be an effort to enhance technological innovation, stimulate capital investment and human resources development, and encourage labor-business and business-government cooperation.

But that was what the National Center was designed to set the stage for, and under Public Law 94-136, enacted in November 1975, the Center self-destructed on September 30, 1978.

Meanwhile, prospects for productivity, whose growth began slowing in the late 1960s, are no better for the 1980s. The country still has no productivity policy. And the volcano smokes, as it did at Pompeii.

Yanks hold off Red Sox for crown

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Jackson, still in full uniform with No. 44 on his back, walked into the Boston Red Sox clubhouse, carrying a bat in one hand and a can of beer in the other.

Jackson, the New York Yankees' millionaire slugger, was a gracious winner Monday. After 162 games in which they built a 99-63 record identical to Boston's, the Yankees hung on for a 5-4 victory over the Red Sox in a one-game playoff, just the second tiebreaker in American League history.

The Yankees get a chance now to defend their 1977 World Series championship.

The New York victory was one hour old, and most of the Yankees were getting ready for a flight to Kansas City and a best-of-five playoff with the Royals for the pennant.

In the Boston clubhouse, the Red Sox quietly accepted defeat, satisfied with a stretch drive that fell short despite eight consecutive victories and 12 of 14 before the playoff.

The Red Sox were wishing each other a happy winter. Then, in walked Jackson, who had hit his 27th homer leading off the eighth inning, a shot into the center-field bleachers which proved decisive.

"You guys could have done just what we did," Jackson told the Red Sox. "I didn't think my homer would end up being the winning run. I didn't want it to be the winner, not with us ahead 5-2."

"But your guys came back, and how. You got two runs in the eighth inning and took us down to the final out with runners on first and third in the ninth. That's too much pressure, man. Kansas City? Let me relax this one."

Despite the loss, the Red Sox were able to hold their heads high. Their record of 3-14 from Aug. 30 until the victory in New York Sept. 15 will not be forgotten.

The Red Sox did what they had to do down the stretch, catching the Yankees and forcing a tiebreaker with eight victories in a row.

Zimmer was depressed.

"I've gambled all my life and have been in a lot of photo finishes, but this is the biggest I've ever lost," Zimmer said just one year after losing to the Yankees on the next to last game of the regular season.

While the Yankees got ready to fly to Kansas City, the Red Sox were busy unloading bags from a truck ready to go to the airport for the trip to Kansas City.

Mike Torrez, who pitched the Yankees to the World Series championship last fall while playing out his option, looked like a $2.6 million loser. Torrez blanked his old teammates on two hits for six innings. Then he surrendered a three-run homer to light-hitting Bucky Dent in a four-run seventh and it was all over.

Jackson put all his muscles into a pitch by Bob Stanley in the eighth for the homer and the Red Sox were unable to catch up. Ron Guidry, a runaway winner of the AL Cy Young Award, boosted his record to 25-3 with relief help from Rich Gossage, who came on in the seventh.

Trojans advance to No. 2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Oklahoma held onto first place in The Associated Press college football poll today, while Southern California moved into the second spot and Arkansas dropped from second to fourth.

Michigan also climbed ahead of Arkansas into third place, while Penn State and Texas stayed in the fifth and sixth positions and Texas A&M replaced Alabama in seventh.

Oklahoma, 4-0 following a 45-23 victory over Missouri, received 38 of 63 first-place votes and 1,226 of a possible 1,260 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Southern Cal. third last week, moved up to second with a 30-9 triumph over Michigan State. The Trojans received 14 first-place votes and 1,166 points.

Michigan rose from fourth to third with six first-place votes and 1,093 points following a 52-0 rout of Duke.

Arkansas, which had to come from behind in the second half to defeat Tulsa 21-13, slipped from second to fourth with three first-place votes and 1,062 points. The Razorbacks had been runnersup in every previous poll this season.

The other two first-place ballots went to Penn State, which clobbered Texas Christian 58-0 and received 1,049 points. Texas received 917 points for a 24-7 triumph over Texas Tech.

Texas A&M went from eighth to seventh with 853 points following a 58-0 rout of Memphis State. The Aggies traded places with Alabama, which needed a second-half rally to beat Vanderbilt 51-28.

Pittsburgh remained in ninth place by defeating North Carolina 20-16.

Florida State, the only member of last week's Top Ten to lose Saturday, fell from 10th to 18th by dropping a 27-21 decision to Houston. The Seminoles were replaced in the 10th position by Nebraska, which jumped from 12th following a 69-17 mauling of Indiana.

The Second Ten consists of Louisiana State, Maryland, Colorado, Ohio State, Iowa State, UCLA, Stanford, Florida State, Auburn and North Carolina State.

Auburn and North Carolina State appeared in the Top Twenty for the first time this season. Auburn whipped Tennessee 29-10 while N.C. State trounced Wake Forest 34-10. They replaced Missouri, which lost to Oklahoma, and Georgia, which was beaten by South Carolina 27-10.

He is under contract to coach the remainder of the season.

Washington shuts down NFL's top scoring team

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was, according to Washington defensive captain Diron Talbert, a matter of shutting down the National Football League's No. 1 offense, and especially the NFC's leading rusher, Tony Dorsett.

"We stopped them rushing, we stopped their passing," said Talbert after the Redskins' 9-5 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Monday night.

Talbert remembered, when reminded, that the Cowboys were the top scoring team in the NFL. "But basically, we pursued Dorsett and we tackled him. We stopped his long runs."

The Washington defense stopped the Cowboys when it was necessary, including six plays from the 7-yard line and four from the 2 in the third quarter and also late in the fourth quarter on a controversial play.

"It was kind of sloppy," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We have no excuses. We just didn't put it in there."

The Redskins won their fifth straight game against no losses this season before a sellout crowd, including President Carter, taking a two-game lead in the NFC East on Mark Moseley's field goals of 52, 42 and 27 yards. Dallas, the defending Super Bowl champion, is now 3-2.

The Cowboys' only offensive score came on a 19-yard field goal by Rafael Septien after the Washington goalline stand in the third quarter. They got a safety when the Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann voluntarily ran into the end zone on the final play of the game.

The Cowboys complained about an official's call on third-and-eight at the Washington 13 late in the fourth period.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach threw what the Cowboys thought was a completed pass to Drew Pearson near the goal line, but the official ruled it out of bounds.

"I thought I caught the ball," said Pearson. "I caught the ball on the shoulder pad and got hit by (Redskin cornerback Joe) Lavender. He hit me and then I was sent out of bounds. I thought I saw an official say it was good and then another official overruled him. That's the way it goes."

Rice new Bengal coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Homer Rice, a newcomer to pro football but not to its wide-open style, is head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals today, five months after joining the National Football League club.

The 51-year-old Rice was a surprise choice Monday as a replacement for Bill "Tiger" Johnson, who resigned under pressure less than 24 hours after the winless Bengals suffered their fifth straight defeat.

Rice, who 10 years ago turned down an offer to become head coach at the University of Oklahoma when Jim McKenzie died, was selected over two former NFL head coaches Mike McCormack and Charley Winner.

He is under contract to coach the remainder of the season.

Johnson, under fire as the Bengals staggered to their worst start ever, departed after a Monday morning meeting with general manager Paul Brown.

"We mutually agreed that something had to be done," said Brown, in a prepared release.

Rice said one of his first priorities is to "bring the troops back together."

The Bengals, who suffered a humiliating 28-12 loss Sunday to previously winless San Francisco, have lost six straight games over two seasons — one shy of the club's longest losing streak.

Johnson, 52, was in the final year of a three-year contract after succeeding Brown, an NFL and college coaching legend. Johnson, a former All-Pro center with the 49ers, had served as Brown's top assistant for nine years. He finished with an 18-15 record in the NFL.

Brown said Johnson "is a fine, proud man and he put the welfare of the club first and agreed that a change could help our situation."

Johnson, after inheriting an 11-3 team that Brown took the playoffs in his final season (1975), saw the club slip to 10-4 in 1976 and 8-6 last year after being touted as a Super Bowl challenger. His failure to take the team to the playoffs triggered mounting fan criticism.

Johnson was unavailable for comment, reportedly on a fishing trip in Canada.

Optimist football begins tonight

The 1978 Tiger League football schedule kicks off tonight at 6 when the Rams take on the Colts at Optimist park. Tonight's 7:30 contest will feature the Cardinals and Packers. The Redskins are idle for the first week of play.

The program, sponsored by the Pampa Optimist Club, provides five weeks of competition for boys in the fifth and sixth grades. It costs approximately $65 to outfit each player, so team members are presently raising money to help offset expenses.

Besides bake sales and other money-raising efforts by the individual teams, the league is selling tickets for two halves of beef, to be given away during the all-city tournament Nov. 11. Players in uniform are selling tickets on the beef now, with the boy selling the most tickets to win a football.

The rest of this year's schedule: Oct. 10 — Cardinals vs. Redskins at 6; Rams vs. Packers at 7:30. Oct. 17 — Colts vs. Packers at 6; Rams vs. Redskins at 7:30. Oct. 24 — Rams vs. Cardinals at 6; Colts vs. Redskins at 7:30. Oct. 30 — Packers vs. Redskins at 6; Cardinals vs. Colts at 7:30.

Shipments should be protected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interstate shipments of natural gas for agricultural use "should be well protected" against interruptions by new legislation headed for final action in Congress this month, says the Agriculture Department. The Senate approved a conference report on new natural gas legislation last week and the House is scheduled to vote on it on Oct. 12.

A background paper issued Monday by USDA says that the Natural Gas Policy Act has two major provisions of concern to farmers and agri-businesses—Section 206(b) relating to "incremental pricing" and Section 401 about gas for "essential agricultural use" and natural gas curtailment policies.

The USDA background paper said that —The measure defines agricultural use as gas used for "agricultural production, natural fiber production, natural fiber processing, food processing, food quality maintenance, irrigation pumping, crop drying, or as a process fuel or feedstock in the production of fertilizer, agricultural chemicals, animal feed or food."

—Under the provision the secretary of agriculture will certify to the secretary of energy and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission the amount of natural gas needed for agricultural uses for "full food and fiber production."

—Within 120 days of enactment of the measure, the secretary of energy "shall prescribe and make effective a rule on non-curtailment policy for interstate pipelines concerning the non-curtailment of natural gas for essential agricultural uses." The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission will implement the rule.

Further, the report said, the commission "in consultation with the secretary of agriculture" then will determine if alternative fuels are "economically practicable and reasonably available" to meet the certified needs of agricultural producers.

"If both criteria are met, the uses will not qualify for a curtailment priority," the USDA said.

However, the commission, in determining "economically practicable" fuels "shall not include a requirement to switch to high cost alternatives" to natural gas, it said.

"For example, this should rule out forcing farmers to convert natural gas-powered irrigation pumps to any other energy source in the near future because alternative fuels are sharply higher priced," the report said.

As a further backdrop, the "secretary of agriculture may intervene" in curtailment proceedings by the commission when it implements this section of the measure, it said.

On pricing, the legislation directs the commission within 12 months to "implement incremental pricing pass-through to industrial boiler facilities served by interstate pipelines."

The bill "focuses the incremental cost of acquiring new supplies of natural gas to be billed to large industrial boiler facilities served by an interstate pipeline" until they reach the energy equivalent price of alternative fuels — generally, No. 2 fuel oil.

Within 18 months of enactment, "incremental pricing" is to be applied to other industrial facilities "served by interstate natural gas pipelines."

Railroad briefs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' average calendar day oil allowable is 3,580,437 barrels, a decrease of 23,287 barrels a day from Sept. 15, the railroad commission reported Monday.

The commission said 181,425 wells are on allowable schedules, 494 fewer than on Sept. 15.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The railroad commission Monday approved the application of Shell Oil Co. for a permit to conduct a lignite surface mining operation about two miles east of Rockdale in Milam County.

Shell's application covers a tract of more than 7,708 acres and "marks the company's entry into lignite mining operations," the commission said.

The application is for a five-year permit. A Shell spokesman testified that mining could start in 1981 at a production rate of one million tons a year, increasing to six million tons by 1985.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The railroad commission Monday postponed from Oct. 10 to Nov. 6 a hearing on a dispute between Amoco Gas Co. and two of its affiliates and four Amoco natural gas customers.

The dispute is over the flow through of gas costs under a proposed settlement plan between Coastal States Gas Corp., Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., and Lo-Vaca's customers.

The Amoco issue was severed from the Lo-Vaca settlement for a separate hearing.

The hearing involves affiliates of Amoco Production Co. and Standard Oil of Indiana, and customers of Big 3 Industries, Inc.; Air Products and Chemicals, Inc.; Champion International; and Gulf Oil Corp.

The hearing involves affiliates of Amoco Production Co. and Standard Oil of Indiana, and customers of Big 3 Industries, Inc.; Air Products and Chemicals, Inc.; Champion International; and Gulf Oil Corp.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The railroad commission Monday postponed from Oct. 10 to Nov. 6 a hearing on a dispute between Amoco Gas Co. and two of its affiliates and four Amoco natural gas customers.

The dispute is over the flow through of gas costs under a proposed settlement plan between Coastal States Gas Corp., Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., and Lo-Vaca's customers.

Texan dies for second time this week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — For the second time in a week, 19-year-old Roger T. Ragland of Dripping Springs has been declared dead—the victim of an automobile crash.

A spokesman at Austin's Brackenridge Hospital said

Ragland, who showed signs of life 12 hours after being declared dead following the accident last week, died at 6:35 p.m. Monday.

Ragland suffered massive head injuries in the accident last Wednesday and doctors at the hospital told his family Ragland was dead. He was put on a respirator after his family agreed to let doctors remove a kidney for a transplant.

Ragland's family, meanwhile, called a funeral home and the funeral home gave Ragland's death notice to newspapers.

But as doctors prepared last Thursday to remove Ragland's kidney, they noticed movement in his legs. An electro-encephalogram was performed to measure Ragland's brain activity. A neurosurgeon called Ragland's family and informed them of the life signs.

Following brain surgery, Ragland clung to life on an artificial life support machine. He remained in critical condition until his death Monday.

"The error that was made—the real tragedy—was that the family was told he was dead. It is a semantic thing. At that time, there was no question his injury was so severe that there was no hope for his recovery," said Dr. George Beathard late Monday.

Beathard, chairman of Brackenridge Hospital's organ donor committee, said the original determination of Ragland's death was made without the application of "brain death techniques."

Texas has no legal standard for declaring a person dead.

Brain death, however, is a medically accepted definition.

Dr. James Lindley had said Ragland had shown no brain activity when he was brought to the hospital.

The shock over the latest death announcement Monday squelched the possibility of another kidney transplant, a member of the family said.

Unless proposals change immigration package dead

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Unless controversial proposals are changed, President Carter's sweeping immigration package, apparently dead this session, won't be approved by the next session of Congress, says the head of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Congress is stalemated over two proposals in Carter's effort to develop a new national immigration policy. Leonel Castillo told a conference on immigration here Monday.

"We haven't been able to reach a compromise on the proposal to grant some kind of amnesty to new illegal immigrants or temporary residents," Castillo said. "And there's still considerable controversy over the proposal to impose sanctions — economic penalties — against employers who knowingly hire illegal immigrants."

With Congress due to adjourn in two weeks, Castillo said, "The proposals haven't had a hearing before the House and none are scheduled. It appears the Carter proposal is very unlikely to be passed this session."

Castillo said he's hopeful the package will be reworked and that the Carter Administration will make concessions on the controversial proposals.

Former Pampan gets promotion

Col. Darryl Powell formally of Pampa became the Deputy Commander, Chief of Professional Services and director of Medical Education at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Col. Powell was Chief of Professional Activities at the U.S. Army Medical Command in Heidelberg, Germany.

In recognition of his professional attainment, Col. Powell was awarded the Surgeons General's "A" professional designator prior to leaving MEDCOM.

Raised in Pampa, Powell has spent 12½ years in the military. Col. Powell and his wife, Alicia, reside in quarters at Ft. Lewis.

UNUSUAL PH.D. LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Stephen Sloan is believed to be the first person in the country to receive a doctorate in human sexuality.

He received the degree in September, 1977, from New York University where a program that offers a Ph. D. in human sexuality was established in 1970. A lot of people started through the program before he did, he said, but most were part-time students, and he was the first to finish.

Dr. Sloan, 28, who has been doing some counseling work here, said his primary interest was in counseling the handicapped and the elderly, and in teaching.

Light bedtime reading

Presidential Vetoes, 1789-1976

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Carter is looking for some light and timely bedtime reading, he might consider curling up with "Presidential Vetoes, 1789-1976."

Published by the U.S. Senate, this fat volume is a fund of information on a subject very much on the president's mind. He'd learn that the first veto was cast by George Washington on April 5, 1792.

The first president objected to a bill passed by the 2nd Congress, which provided that in the next Congress the House of Representatives would have 120 members. The legislation then set out how many representatives each of the 15 states would have.

In his veto message, Washington pointed out that the Constitution said representation in the House should be based on population.

President Carter will be heartened to learn that the House upheld Washington's veto. A week later, the House passed another apportionment bill that said the next Congress state representation in the House would be based on one member for every 33,000 persons.

However, the Democratic president might be distressed to discover that President Thomas Jefferson, a Democratic Party hero, never vetoed a bill during eight years in office.

Jefferson's predecessor, John Adams, served four years and also never vetoed a bill.

Compare those veto-free 12 years to the eight years in which Richard M. Nixon vetoed 43 bills and Gerald R. Ford rejected 66.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, president for 12 years, holds the all-time record for vetoes with 635, a mark unlikely to be broken now that the Constitution limits presidents to two terms.

Here are some of the more memorable vetoes.

Rutherford B. Hayes vetoed a bill authorizing "the coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character." But both the House and Senate voted to override on Feb. 28, 1878.

Woodrow Wilson was overridden when he vetoed a bill repealing the Daylight Saving Law.

Franklin D. Roosevelt vetoed bills proclaiming Oct. 11 as General Pulaski's Memorial Day, authorizing the use of War Department equipment for the August 1938 convention of the American Legion in New York City and safeguarding homing pigeons.

The all-time loser in veto fights with Congress was President Andrew Johnson, who vetoed 29 bills and had 15 overridden.

The last 10 regular vetoes by Johnson were overridden. That encompassed the period from March 2, 1867, to Feb. 24, 1869. The only bills Johnson succeeded in killing during that period were pocket vetoes.

Reunion

"This is the most wonderful thing in my life," said one Cuban-American arriving in Miami from Havana last month. "I can't describe how I feel." Another planeload of Cuban-Americans is scheduled to fly to the United States tomorrow, under an agreement worked out with Cuba's leader, Fidel Castro. Apparently trying to improve relations between his country and the United States, Castro also has said that his government expects to release a number of political prisoners now held in Cuban jails. But serious obstacles still stand in the way of closer Cuban-American ties, among them the presence of about 40,000 Cuban troops in Angola and Ethiopia.

DO YOU KNOW — What crop is the most important product in Cuba's economy?

MONDAY ANSWER — Warren Burger is the chief justice of the United States.

Names in the news

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — It was one of President Carter's finest feats of timing and luck.

"I now declare the 28th Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce open," intoned the president — just moments before thunderclaps, lightning and a downpour ended any further outdoor festivities at Walt Disney World Sunday night.

Wiped out by the unusual October rains were a gala Main Street parade, a champagne party and a fireworks display which Disney officials said would have been the park's biggest extravaganza since opening day seven years ago.

Almost 2,000 delegates from 66 countries are attending the week-long conference of the Paris-based chamber, which represents about 5,000 business organizations in 95 countries.

Carter drew hearty laughs and applause in his welcoming speech when he said he "was looking forward to seeing Fantasy Land, particularly because it is the source of inspiration for my economic advisers."

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio audiences here can always tune in to all-news and all-religion stations. Beginning Monday, they can listen to a new "all" — all-John. Paul, George and Ringo.

In an attempt to shore up sagging ratings, radio station WYNY-FM, 97.1, is switching from a soft rock format to one of all Beatles music.

The station ranks a disappointing 20th overall, said program Director Dennis Waters.

During a two-week "experimental period," songs recorded before the Beatles disbanded in 1970 will be aired, said Waters, and a random phone survey will be made to judge listener response.

TOKYO (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford will visit Japan next March as a guest of a television company which says Ford is "a major figure on the American political scene" who "remains today a possible candidate in the next presidential election."

Ford is to be accompanied on the visit — his second following an official visit as president in 1974 — by his wife, Betty, and his daughter, Susan.

Kansai Telecasting Corp. of Osaka said Monday it had invited Ford to "discuss fully the current state of and prospects for Japan-U.S. relations."

The company said Ford will take part in a televised panel discussion and lectures in Tokyo and Osaka in connection with the celebration of the company's 20th anniversary.

On the light side

A Connecticut Yankee Turns 143

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The gathering on the 143rd birthday of Mark Twain at his Hartford home probably was slightly different than Huck Finn's creator would have had it.

"Usually there would be the theater," said Twain aficionado Atwood Collins. "He'd put on a show, and he'd have the children act. Then you might adjourn to the third floor for billiards."

The Spanish national flag was adopted in 1927.
