Leasing may effect retirement

By CARLA BARANAUCKAS
Pampa News Staff

The Gray County employee retirement fund would change from being in an excellent financial position to being in a poor financial condition if the county hospitals are leased, according to Robert May, actuary.

May and Robert Brown, director of Texas County and District Retirement Systems, were in Pampa Wednesday to explain implications to the Gray County Commissioners' Court of leasing the county hospitals for the county retirement system.

Hospital employees make up approximately 68 percent of the total number of county employees according to May.

"Before the change, your financial and actuarial condition was excellent," May said. "After the change you shift from being in a very favorable actuarial position to a poor actuarial position, primarily because you severely shrink the source of financing that is coming into the system."

When the county entered the retirement system in 1970 a 25-year period was needed to grant and fund allocated prior service. Allocated prior service means that employees' retirement benefits were calculated according to the amount of time they had been employed by the county instead of just by the number of years the employees paid into the retirement system.

A 65 percent benefit was granted for allocated prior service, according to May.

As of Dec. 31, 1977 the period remaining to amortize the plan's unfunded liabilities had been reduced to 11.66 years, May said.

If the hospital employees are removed from the employ of the county, the funding period will increase to 70.77 years, according to May's estimate.

"The system essentially is predicated through the law — the Texas County and District Act — around the notion that a funding of 25 years or less is desirable," May said. "When this gets beyond 25 years it gets progressively more adverse. This creates a poor actuarial position for you. A specific impact it will have immediately on you, you will not have the chance to improve benefits."

Every four years the system is required to inform counties of any way they can improve benefits if the period of funding is less than 20 years, according to May.

If the hospital employees remained employees of the county, the county would be eligible to increase benefits Jan. 1, 1980, May said.

Benefit improvements would have been in the 16 - to 26 - percent range for prior service and in the 10 - to 20 - percent range for current service, according to May's calculations.

"I might say this system uses the benefit improvement feature as a keystone to its success," May said. "Because it is the system's way of responding to the impact of inflation on retired people. It's the system's way of saying you're doing well and you can afford to if you choose to without any additional monthly financing give 5-10-20-percent increases across the board in the checks of the retirees are receiving."

May indicated that benefits would not be decreased for retirees or county employees who remained in the system unless the funds were depleted.

As of Dec. 31, 1977 the balance in the system was $635,000, according to May. Assuming hospital employees remain county employees until Jan. 1, 1979, there will be approximately $771,000 in the county's fund, he said.

If the hospitals are leased, he expects the fund to decrease to $717,000 by the end of 1979 and then remain stationary during 1980 and 1981, May said. "The projection becomes more and more speculative as you look beyond," May said. "My best estimate is that the fund would not be depleted. It's pretty clear to me it would not be depleted in the next two or three years. It is much harder to predict in the future."

The retirement funds of hospital employees will be affected by the change according to how long they have been employed, May said.

Of the 280 hospital employees, 21 have less than 12 years of service and are not vested, according to May.

Employees are entitled to a refund of the money they have paid into the fund plus the accrued interest, or they may leave their funds in the retirement system for up to five years as a savings plan, May said.

Funds that are on deposit Jan. 1 receive interest Dec. 31, according to May. The interest rate is determined by the board of directors of the Texas County and District Retirement System. Last year the interest rate was 8 1/2 percent.

If an unvested employee leaves the funds in the system and is reemployed by the county within the five years, their rights are protected, according to May.

There are 16 employees who are eligible to retire, but have not retired, according to May.

It would be in their best interest to retire, because they would lose death benefit protection offered under the system, May said.

Vested employees who are not eligible to retire may leave their funds in the system and then would have a right to a pension when they reached age 60, May said. However, they also would lose death benefit protection.

Vested employees may also remove their funds from the system and then would not be eligible for a pension, he said.

Clarendon campus to be located here

By KATHY BURR
Pampa News Staff

Clarendon Junior College revealed its plans to bring a full schedule of courses to Pampa, beginning in January at this morning's Pampa Independent School District meeting.

The campus will be located on the old Houston Elementary School campus.

The subject was introduced at the meeting by Bob Phillips, Superintendent of Schools.

"We've had several months of discussion as to what to do with the Houston campus. We didn't feel that we were ready to advertise it for sale."

"For the last month we have had contact with Clarendon Junior College through the Chamber of Commerce."

Phillips said the concept of adult education and a continuing education program has exciting possibilities for Pampa.

Phillips said it is an expansion from the night school program and it's an opportunity to reach men and women during the day.

"My recommendation is that we enter into the lease agreement with Clarendon College."

He added that entering into the lease agreement with Clarendon College would not eliminate the possibility of repossessing the campus if the Pampa school system needs it.

"I feel that in so many ways the community could benefit from this."

In addition Phillips said the Houston campus would be leased at no cost to the Pampa school district.

A representative from Clarendon Junior College said, "In the discussion that has gone along, our board has decided this would be advantageous to us."

He added, "The success of the night classes has been outstanding. All in all, the program looks like a program of expansion."

Vic Raymond, vice president of Cabot Machinery, said, "We see it as being a very positive influence in the community. We would support it in every way we could."

A representative of Celanese said he echoed the sentiments of Cabot, and Luther Robinson, from the Chamber of Commerce, said, "This is a definite need in our community."

Paul Simons, vice president of the board of trustees, said, "This is a positive occurrence."

Following the meeting, Kenneth Vaughan, president of Clarendon Junior College, said, "We are working on an agreement, but it will depend on both parties. We hope to bring the campus into Pampa within the next 30 days."

Vaughn added that the lease assures Pampa it will have no more expenses to the building.

When the campus first opens in Pampa, students will be able to take courses and work toward an Associate of Arts degree.

Vaughn said the degree will not be offered immediately, but the courses will be directed towards the degree.

"We will offer a varied curriculum, with the courses being transferable," Vaughan said.

Vaughn added that the college is expecting a large enrollment, but said it will depend on the support of the community.

Tuition rates have not yet been set for this campus, but Vaughan said, "It will be a minimum of $25. Other fees will be charged to continue the use of the facility."

Vaughn said the college will offer a variety of courses including vocational academic, adult vocational courses, continuing education courses and vocational courses.

He added, "A broad segment of the community can make use of the facility."

Lloyd Waters, director of the new facility, said, "We will be continuing a night program, and hope to start a secretarial science program and a mid-management program."

"Your imagination is the limits. There are so many things we can do," said Waters.

He added, "The Associate of Arts program is not too far away. When the funds are generated we need to build new science labs. Once that is completed we can bring in the program."

Waters said he expects the degree programs to be here within a year and 18 months.

Dr. Bob Riley, Dean of the institute, said, "We're looking forward to coming over here. It will be a challenge."

Commission to assist in project

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

At Tuesday's city commission meeting, the commission resolved to assist in the development and financing of a privately-owned, government-subsidized apartment project for elderly low-income persons in Pampa. According to a statement released by city officials, here is how the city would participate in the project.

The city would consent to the establishment of a non-profit corporation that would act as an 'Instrumentality' of the city by issuing tax-exempt bonds to provide financing for these apartments.

The city would approve the charter, by - laws and directors of the non-profit corporation and would review an annual audit of the corporation prepared by an independent certified public accountant. The city would also approve the terms and conditions of the financing provided by the corporation.

"The actual financing transaction would occur as follows. The corporation would sell an issue of tax exempt bonds and then lend the proceeds to the owner of the apartments. This loan would be secured by a mortgage on the project and an agreement of all of the rents in other revenues, including all Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) subsidy payments.

"The trustee bank would be responsible for the payment of debt service on the bonds, the administration of project revenues received from the owner and HUD, and disbursement to the owner of monies to pay project operating and maintenance costs.

"The city would have no liability in the event of a default of the non-profit corporation would in turn assign the mortgage and revenues to the bondholders as security for the bonds. The project's owner would be responsible for the operation and maintenance of the apartments, but a trustee bank would administer the financing on behalf of the non-profit corporation.

"The trustee bank would be responsible for the payment of debt service on the bonds, the administration of project revenues received from the owner and HUD, and disbursement to the owner of monies to pay project operating and maintenance costs.

"The city would have no liability in the event of a default of the bonds since the bonds would be payable solely from the revenues of the project. The city would not pledge tax revenues or any other monies of the city to the financing.

"In the event of a default on the bonds, the trustee bank would have authority to take over and operate the project on behalf of the bondholders or to foreclose on and sell the project and distribute the proceeds of the sale to the bondholders.

"The city's involvement in this manner is required by HUD regulations to make the bonds of the non-profit corporation tax-exempt.

"The proposed bond issue would be under - written by the firm of Rauscher, Pierce Securities Corporation, and the law firm of Vinson & Elkins, Houston, Texas, would act as bond counsel in preparing the financing documents.

"In addition, the project would be constructed by the Hermann Bennett Construction Co. of Brownwood, Texas, and would be managed upon its completion by National Living Centers.

"The only potential for additional involvement in the project by the city would be in case of a repeated failure by the owner to comply with HUD regulations for receipt of the subsidy rental payments. In this event, HUD could ask the city to take action to correct the owner's actions.

"HUD also might require the owner to forfeit title to the project and the city could, in its discretion, agree to accept the project. The city could then contract with a private management company to operate the project.

"In any event, the city still would have no obligation to repay the bonds, except to the extent of project revenues."

The project would consist of 96 one - bedroom units and would be developed and owned by the firm of Friedman and Associates of Houston. Ronald R. Friedman, president of Friedman and Associates, has been associated with 36 housing developments using government programs.

Don Hinton-experience counts

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is one in a series of interviews by Carla Baranauckas with candidates running in the Nov. 7 election.

Don Hinton, Democratic candidate for county judge, says his experience in the office during the past year and a half is his major qualification for the job.

"Experience is very important with the county judge more or less the head of the whole county," he said. "The county judge is the highest official in the county other than the sheriff."

Hinton was appointed county judge in April 1977 when the position was left open by Don Cain who was appointed to the 223rd

District Court. Hinton was commissioner for six years before being appointed judge.

"I know what the problems of the commissioners' court are," Hinton said. "I can understand those problems a lot better than someone who hasn't been on the commissioners' court."

County officials need "A knowledge of where the county is, what the county is and who comprises the county," Hinton said.

Hinton said he has that understanding because he has lived in Pampa all his life.

"Basically the county is a working class of people," he explained. "There's all the difference in the world between a rural county and an urban county."

What problems are facing Gray County at the present time?

"We're continually having more things put on us from the state," Hinton said. "Not only financial burdens, but new laws come through the legislature each year. You have to have a basic knowledge of the past to deal with the new laws."

Hinton mentioned mental health and retirement legislation as areas in which changes occur rapidly.

When Hinton took the county judge position his experience as a county commissioner helped him, he said.

"I had a basic knowledge of what was going on up here," Hinton said. "It's taken a lot of long hard work. I have the foundation, but I don't know everything."

Hinton describes himself as a conservative in philosophy.

"You have to have a conservative feeling in using and handling other people's money," Hinton said. "I want to see the tax money spent in the most economical and justifiable way."

"It takes one little word to make it work and that's 'No.'"

Why is Hinton running for county judge?

Well, I enjoy it," he said. "People have problems. I don't enjoy listening to problems, but it's a challenge to see if you can work that problem out."

"When people have problems, usually the county judge is the first one they go to. I don't always have the answer, but I can usually tell them where to find the answer. I want to help them."

Responding to a question about the ability of a layman to handle a job requiring legal decisions, Hinton said:

"I would say about 20 percent of the county judge's job is judicial. The other part doesn't deal with that much legal matter. The whole job — whether layman or lawyer — is about 99 percent common sense."

Are there any issues in the campaign for county judge?

"I don't see any issues," Hinton said. "It's just one guy running against another. Most issues are man made and I'm not going to make an issue."

Candidates do not know what an office really entails until they are elected, so issues are relatively unimportant, according to Hinton.

"I'm just running on my past record, which I do not think is all that bad," Hinton said. "I stand for the people of Gray County and I speak for them."

Carl Kennedy-asked to run

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is one in a series of interviews by Carla Baranauckas with candidates running in the Nov. 7 election.

Carl Kennedy, Republican candidate for County judge, was asked to run for the office after Joe Curtis, winner of the Republican primary, died.

"The executive committee had the right to replace him (Curtis), and I was asked if I would run," Kennedy explained. "After doing considerable research, I decided that I would."

"When they asked me, the first thing I did was I talked with a number of people about what the job required. The decision was based on meetings with the county judge, the district judge, the district attorney, the county attorney and discussions with my business partners."

Kennedy also visited with some ministers and discussed the possibility of running with his family, he said.

"There's no question in my mind that I have the administrative qualifications," Kennedy said. "For the past 23 or 24 years I've worked in business, industry and agriculture. My experience fits in very well with the different economic groups in the county."

Kennedy said he felt qualified to handle both the administrative and judicial sides of the county judge position.

"I was very encouraged when Judge (Don) Cain told me the state of Texas provides opportunities to go to school, and that the county judge can draw on the resources of the secretary of state's office. Along with knowing I could get immediate training and would be able to draw heavily upon my Christian principles, I felt confident of the judicial side of the job."

Kennedy said he plans to draw upon his experience in business if elected county judge.

"Part of my work as a businessman, manager, owner and administrator is an understanding of the importance of financial planning, actual accounting and day to day operation of business which is essentially the same as the administrative side of the county judge job."

Should the county be run as a business?

"Yes," Kennedy replied, "with the understanding that the owners of the business are the residents of the county. The administrator is responsible to the people of the county, and should follow the wishes of the majority of the residents."

Kennedy has spent time discussing the state of the county with officials in Pampa and McLean, he said.

"I do plan to spend time visiting with the people of the community and periodically reporting to them," Kennedy said. "I feel strongly that the primary job is to keep the people of the county informed so their views are reflected in county government."

Kennedy has used the slogan "Vote for, not against" in his campaign. He said what he means by the slogan is that he wants people in the county to familiarize themselves with the candidates and to "vote for a candidate instead of voting against a candidate to keep someone out of office."

What will voters get if they vote for Kennedy?

"They will get an experienced, proven leader," Kennedy said. "I will provide honest, capable county administration. Secondly, decisions will be based on high moral and ethical standards."

One of Kennedy's major concerns is inflation, he said.

"I think inflation is affecting all of our lives and it is important that we have sound financial planning and administration in (See KENNEDY page 4)

OPINION PAGE

Outwitting energy bureaucrats

We have mentioned before the fallacy of governmental agencies mandating the type and amount of "protective" equipment an industry must purchase. Only recently the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) instructed the utilities industry that it must spend $10 billion for stack scrubbers to control emissions from new coal-fired plants.

The $10 billion figure seems to be a favorite for the federal bureaucracy. That was the same amount allocated to set up the Department of Energy (DOE). In the one case the money will come from consumers as the utility industry passes on the added costs. In the other the money is extracted directly from the same people as taxpayers.

The two expenditures have more than just their amount in common. The waste factor is tremendous for both.

We have gained nothing save confusion and no energy from the new DOE agency.

Even as the release from EPA reached our attention, at least one utility was installing a Bag House type control for a power plant which bids fair to do a better job than scrubbers.

And recently the Sundance Oil Co., of Denver has purchased a $4.7 million interest in a Hong Kong company whose technology may allow coal-fired plants to comply with air quality standards in sulfur dioxide and nitrous oxide emissions.

The firm is the Kintyre Enterprises Ltd., which has rights in new technology for cleaning, transporting and burning coal for use in generating electric power.

The Lower Colorado River Authority of Austin, Tex., said it will begin testing the processed fuel in its Sim Gideon Plant by the end of the year. The technology involves burning purified coal in a 15-megawatt composite burner designed and manufactured by the Kintyre company.

Another test, according to the Lower Colorado River Authority, would mean the complete conversion of one unit at a second plant and the purchase of specially processed clean fuel from Australia.

The processed coal can be imported from Australia for $1.75 per million British Thermal units (BTU) compared with a cost of $2.15 per million BTU's for natural gas.

The cost of the project is about $819,000. An additional $900,000 would be spent converting the plant. The authority called the price, "An incredible bargain considering the estimated $100 million it would cost to convert all three units using conventional coal-conversion technology." The authority already has reserves of lignite coal, and, using the cleaning process on that coal, the clean lignite wouldn't require scrubbers for additional cleaning.

So, as usual, industry is way ahead of the Washington chair-borne "experts" whose snail-like pace and ineptitude may be the utility industry's best salvation.

We expect there will be other innovations in the area of efficient burning of fossil fuels. They will probably be tested and in use before too many new generating plants will be hamstrung by mandates of the EPA.

It figures?

Speaking of the IRS, not to mention gut issues, the tax collectors report a record take of $154.6 billion on personal incomes for 1977. That's an increase of 9 percent over the previous year's nicking of the taxpayers.

Total income was also up, to $1.31 trillion, but by less, a bit over 7 percent. It appears to be a case of the more we earn, the more we pay Uncle Sam.

Meanwhile, another set of statistics reveals another upward trend in life. American style. Liquor consumption is rising, heading toward a record 450 million gallons which would be 5 percent over last year.

There's probably no connection with taxpaying, but...

Nation's Press

Inflation and passion

(Wall Street Journal)

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall probably didn't win many friends in the United Steelworkers union last week when he told their annual convention that the public increasingly blames labor for inflation.

There is no doubt some truth to the assertion. One of the most insidious things about inflation is that it spreads a sense of resentment and distrust. Consumers, confronted with climbing price tags on food, clothing and other necessities, are all too willing to take out their wrath on someone. It may be factory workers, farmers or even the supermarket or shoe store manager.

Farmers and workers, on the other hand, know that they are having as tough a time as anyone else and look for bankers or "middlemen" to blame.

This climate of hostility is a troublesome social and political phenomenon. As inflation becomes more pronounced, it threatens to tear the social fabric, as workers, farmers and consumers all vent their passions.

It doesn't help, in our view, for government officials to encourage such attitudes, even in the most offhand allusions. Mr. Marshall wasn't saying that he agreed with the public in blaming labor for inflation. On the other hand, the mere fact that he brought it up suggests that he thinks the idea has credibility, at least enough credibility to use as a weapon to try to get labor to cooperate with the administration's expected wage-price guidelines.

Unions may at times contribute to inflationary pressures through interference with the supply of labor, and thus to production and productivity. And it may be true that unions sometimes have unreasonable expectations when they make their contract demands.

But in the final analysis, labor is subject to market forces which limit the ability of unions to "cause" inflation. Government economic policies, as represented by excessive regulation, large federal deficits and imprudent money management seem to us to be far more important sources of inflationary pressures.

In short, Mr. Marshall should worry less about the demands of productive people and more about the demands of people who are either non-productive or counterproductive. He won't have to travel out of Washington to find them.

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The Central Intelligence Agency is at it again—invoking "national security" in a belated effort to cover up its inept handling of a sensitive matter.

The current case involves Arkady Shevchenko, a Soviet Union diplomat who until last spring was the United Nations' undersecretary general for political and security affairs. Shevchenko disappeared from the UN

CIA's curious 'control'

last April, then surfaced two weeks later to apply for asylum in this country. The request was granted.

But in early October, an embarrassed Shevchenko reappeared, in the company of a young woman named Judy Chavez who claimed that after she met the Soviet defector through her "escort agency" he paid for her companionship at an initial rate of $500 a night and later at $5,000 a month.

In addition, she claimed, Shevchenko took her to the Virgin Islands on a vacation and bought her a $9,000 sports car. The total tab came to $35,000 to $40,000, she estimated, with the money provided to Shevchenko by the CIA.

Around the story was uncovered by James R. Polk, a reporter for NBC News and one of Washington's best investigative journalists, the CIA huffily denied everything. "The whole thing is the woman's story," said agency spokesman Herbert Hetu. "The implication is falsely made that the CIA is paying for a whore."

The CIA then quickly took the offensive, suggesting that NBC had somehow breached security. "Part of his (Shevchenko's) protection was his anonymity. Obviously it was blown," said Hetu.

"He was under cover until all this happened," added the CIA official. "Now the Soviets have got him pinpointed and we'll just have to relocate him."

The Soviet defector did indeed occupy a Washington apartment under a fictitious name. But last May he opened a personal checking account at Washington's second largest bank under "A Shevchenko."

As recently as last month, Shevchenko was paying personal debts—including those owed to Miss Chavez—with checks bearing his own name.

The choice of location for Shevchenko's new home is equally curious because this city is rivaled only by New York in terms of the large number of Soviet diplomats, intelligence agents and other USSR officials allowed to freely roam the streets.

Shevchenko was a frequent visitor to Washington nightclubs and restaurants, no apparent effort was made to disguise his personal appearance and before his downtown apartment was ready for occupancy he was housed in two of the city's busiest hotels.

Privately, CIA and FBI officials point accusing fingers at each other, claiming that the sloppy security arrangements were the responsibility of the other agency.

Publicly, the CIA says "we have no control over any defector." The selection of Washington, Shevchenko's name on his checks and the decision to lead a very public life all were "his choice," claims an agency spokesman.

But earlier this year, the congressional committee investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy sought to gain access to Shevchenko to question him about Lee Harvey Oswald's life in the Soviet Union.

The CIA firmly rejected the request, insisting that security precautions surrounding Shevchenko were so tight that he couldn't even be questioned by the committee in a guarded meeting closed to the public.

Miss Chavez' motives for providing much of the story to NBC News became apparent when she surfaced at the New York press conference less than a week after Polk's exclusive report to tout her forthcoming book about the experience.

Even if the CIA didn't pay for Miss Chavez' support, a far more compelling question remains unanswered: If Shevchenko's security was so lax that she could turn him over to a television network, what would have prevented her from turning him over to the Soviets?

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, October 26 the 299th day of 1978. There are 66 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1825, the Erie Canal was opened, connecting the waters of Lake Erie and the Hudson River. It was the first of the great man-made waterways of the United States. In this date:

In 1760, George III was crowned King of England.

In 1774, the First Continental Congress was adjourned in Philadelphia.

In 1905, Sweden recognized Norway's independence.

In 1959, the Soviets released the first pictures of the hidden side of the moon which had been taken by a Soviet spacecraft.

In 1966, 43 American servicemen died in a fire on the aircraft carrier Oriskany off Vietnam.

In 1967, the Shah of Iran crowned himself and his queen after 26 years on the Peacock Throne.

Ten years ago: A manned spacecraft was launched by the Soviet Union, and it carried out an approach maneuver with an unmanned craft in orbit around the earth.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon said in a televised news conference he would not be deterred by demands for his impeachment and that he had no intention of resigning.

One year ago: South Africa's Defense Minister Pieter Botha said his nation could surmount any international arms embargo and put up a fight that would astonish anyone seeking to end South African rule by whites.

Today's birthdays: The Shah of Iran is 59 years old. Republican Senator Edward Brooke of Massachusetts is also 59. Infielder Mike Hargrove of the Texas Rangers is 29.

Thought for today: It never occurs to fools that merit and good fortune are closely united — Goethe (guh-teh), German poet, 1789-1832.

New relief for cancer pain

I've never been certain that all we call progress in progress. I am not yet convinced that we are necessarily better off flying higher and faster and farther.

But in alleviating human suffering—in this we have made measurable, provable progress.

And now terminal cancer patients are promised some relief from their agonizing suffering.

The Wall Street Journal looked in on Fred Schultz. Word was that this former marketing manager for Topps Chewing Gum was "dying of cancer," that he was bedridden with severe pain.

Five months ago he was. But today, though he still has the cancer, Mr. Schultz is up and around his Syosset, N.Y., home in no pain.

The difference is that Mr. Schultz has received a series of chemical injections near his spinal cord, injections which act like a "circuit breaker" in the nervous system.

The nerves that carry pain to the brain are either anesthetized or destroyed.

Your money's worth

ITEM: On July 21, 1978, a California dairy farmer and his wife sent $9,000 to a New York city firm in payment for 200 ounces of gold. They did not know whether they were buying an option, a deferred delivery contract or the actual gold—nor did they consult their local broker, banker or lawyer. A few days later, the telephone salesman, who had in an earlier phone call convinced them to send the money, called back with the good news that the price of gold had increased and they had already made a profit... Didn't they want to invest more?

The California couple sent another $13,500. Finally, a concerned daughter-in-law called the New York City Better Business Bureau. More than two months after wiring their money bank-to-bank in the overnight federal funds market, the Californians are in a bitter dispute trying to get back their $22,500. The New York City firm claims the money went for "selling costs."

ITEM: A coal mine superintendent in Ferron, Utah, sent $9,500 to a different company. He has been unable to get written confirmation of his purchase or even to get through to anybody at the company—including his salesman. When he did reach the company, he was told the salesman involved had suffered a nervous breakdown and was in the hospital. That same evening, a spokesman for the company told a BBB investigator that the salesman was on the telephone. Most of the $9,500 went for fees and commissions, but the miner was not told this before he sent in his cash.

ITEM: A Missouri farmer was allegedly told by another gold sales pitchman that there was no commission—and in a second call the same day, the disclaimer was repeated. A few hours later, the pitchman was telling a Better Business Bureau investigator that he had fully disclosed to the farmer that commissions and fees would absorb $2,400 of his $5,000 initial cash outlay.

What about the "unique program" being touted by telephone con men that permits you, a small investor, to buy gold for profit as well as for a traditional hedge against continuing inflation? What about the "dozens of experts... watching the minute-by-minute fluctuations in the gold on pain research since the token $200,000 five years ago.

While drugs remain the most widely used analgesics, opiates are being studied—and so are electrical stimulation of nerves, acupuncture, hypnosis, self-hypnosis and surgery.

Brain-stem stimulation, which involves planting in the brain an electrode that is controllable by the patient with a radio-frequency transmitter in his pocket, sounds like something out of Star Trek, but in most patients brief periods of stimulation produce long periods of pain relief.

Granted, such treatment does not carry with it the excitement and victory of a preventive medicine. But while others seek cancer "cures," medical science is now giving some tardy attention to the treatment of "pain." And in this we may discover that pain itself, and the anxiety associated with it, sometimes worsens the disease and therefore should be treated separately.

The gold bug! Don't send money!

Sylvia Porter

markets," so that they can tell you when to buy, when to sell?

The "experts" are nothing more than bucket-shop pros who are watching their commissions (and not your interests). The "unique program" is nothing more than a boiler room operation being run by more than a dozen fly-by-night firms in the New York City area alone right now—and spreading rapidly from coast to coast.

As for the claim that gold will reach $300 an ounce by May 1979—way above today's price level and a new, all-time record—it could happen. Unless the United States shows far stronger leadership in fighting inflation and halting today's erosion of the dollar, it very well may happen. I don't pretend to be an expert in this area. But the upsurge in gold prices in the recent past is no guarantee that this is the trend in the immediate future.

Are the con men successful? Yes. They always are in periods of near-hysteria in markets such as these—and gold has a mystique all of its own.

And without investigating whether or you are patronizing a legitimate dealer in gold—the category in which the vast majority of gold-selling firms fall—and without knowing whether or not you're buying a legitimate—or illegitimate—gold contract, increasing numbers of you are sending thousands of dollars to the unknowns at their misleading prestigious addresses.

Fortunately, few get calls to send money. A construction company owner in Shawnee, Okla., got a pitch to buy $55,000 of gold contracts. A messenger would come to his office personally to pick up the check. A few hours before the messenger's planned arrival, the Shawnee businessman became suspicious and called the New York City BBB.

"We told him we had known of the firm for three weeks. After a few questions, the man realized he did not know what he had agreed to buy nor how much he was paying for it," Karl F. Lauby, vice president of the BBB in New York City, told me. "Most people don't know what they're buying, from whom, on what terms, or at what cost. Nearly all are taking savings to buy what is at best a speculation or, at worst, a swindle."

"To say they're being made fools of may seem unkind. But our experience shouts that it is true."

Tomorrow: The gold bug! How to trap the con men.

Questions remain unanswered

BROOKSIDE VILLAGE. Texas (AP) — Two major questions remain unanswered in the wake of a gas pipeline explosion that killed five persons — what caused the destructive blast and where is Miss Ivey Beasley?

Philip Hogue of the National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday there was no evidence of maintenance or operating failure by the United Texas Transmission Co. owners of the 30-inch pipe that erupted near the Royal Trailer Park Tuesday.

Hogue said the initial investigation showed no failure by the company or any corrosion in the pipe, which is 25 years old.

Hogue added that the board's investigation would take three months and it would be detailed and thorough. "We will look into much more than the immediate cause of the explosion," he said.

The bodies of five victims were found in the pre-dawn hours and 43 others were injured by the blast. All area residents affected by the blast have been accounted for except Miss Beasley, 65, whose small frame house was leveled in the mushroom explosion.

Tom LeClere, a Pearlland policeman, said "Ninety per cent of the opinions out here are that she was in the house at the time of the fire. Her whole house was leveled except for some concrete stairs."

Firemen said the intense heat was capable of incinerating a human being. A friend visited Miss Beasley Monday night and saw the woman lock her front gate and return to her home. Miss Beasley's dogs were found dead near the home.

Joe Piotrowski, director of the Texas Railroad Commission's gas utility division, said the "cause is anybody's guess. You can't point a finger at anything. We can't see any negligence on anyone's part."

Piotrowski said the pipe was 20-25 years old "and appeared in excellent shape. You can compare it with the new pipe they are installing and cannot see any difference."

The ruptured section of pipeline was replaced with 80 feet of new pipe and was back in operation early Wednesday.

In Texas politics

Republicans take offensive

By The Associated Press
Republicans took an offensive stand in Texas Wednesday, with Sen. John Tower calling challenger Bob Krueger a "slavish flunky" while attorney general hopeful Jim Baker branded opponent Mark White a user of "lame rhetoric."

Tower told a San Antonio news conference that Rep. Krueger has gone from portraying himself as an independent Democrat to "stressing party teamwork."

"That indicates to me that he is subordinating the idea of being an independent Texas senator to that of being a party hack, so to speak," Tower said.

Krueger parried by repeating his charge that Tower three times voted to raise his own pay while asking Americans to curtail their lifestyles.

Baker was on a card with White at a pair of lawyers' meetings in San Antonio.

He said White "has fallen back on such lame rhetoric as saying crime can be handled by educating people not to be criminals. That's simply not enough. That's gobbledygook — a non-answer to a very serious problem. It just won't get the job done."

Over in the governor's race, Democrat John Hill said for the first time in history, county officials have joined together to endorse a gubernatorial candidate.

A statement from the county-oriented committee — called CHOOSE HILL — said Republican Bill Clements will spend upwards of $7 million to lose this race for governor.

Committee members said they will make a three-day flying tour of Northeast and West Central Texas "to make voters in these areas aware of the overwhelming support John Hill has in the courthouses of Texas and to warn voters of Clements' attempts to buy the governor's office."

Hill told audiences in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Corpus Christi he would use state surpluses to reduce local school district property taxes.

Meanwhile, Clements' campaign trotted out a statement from Margaret Martin of Austin, widow of the late Attorney General Crawford Martin and a registered Democrat.

She said, "I have watched the governor's race this fall with great interest. I am not surprised by John Hill's dirty campaign tactics this year because I know from first-hand experience that he waged the same kind of negative and divisive campaign against my husband... in the 1972 attorney general's race.

"I find it amusing that Mr. Hill has the audacity to falsely accuse someone else of his own style of dirty politics. Texans deserve better," Mrs. Martin said.

Rapist sentenced to life

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas jury late Wednesday set life in prison as punishment for Michael Wayne Roy on his conviction on a charge of aggravated rape.

Roy, 23, had been accused of raping a 23-year-old public school teacher. He also faces rape charges in Austin and Houston.

The jury of seven women and five men took about 45 minutes to find Roy guilty and then took an additional 45 minutes to set his punishment at life in prison, the maximum punishment for aggravated rape.

Police identified Roy as a parolee wanted for bail jumping in Houston and Austin. He was arrested Aug. 12 in the laundry room of a Dallas apartment complex.

Several women identified Roy as the man who raped them, police said.

At the time of his arrest, Roy was suspected of being responsible for at least 19 rapes and robberies in Dallas.

INSURANCE LOSSES
TORONTO (AP) — Since World War II the Canadian automobile industry has had more loss years than profit years, says the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

The cost of parts, garage labor and hospital services has increased more rapidly than the increase in insurance premiums, the bureau says.

McInnis faces trial on murder charges

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Barring change of venue motions, disqualified Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis will be tried Jan. 15 in Edinburg on solicitation of murder charges.

State District Judge Vernon Harville also set the first pretrial hearing in the case for Nov. 13, but said the Edinburg site and the dates were only tentative.

The case was assigned to Harville after State District Judge Joe Evins disqualified himself, citing the working relationship between him and McInnis.

McInnis is accused of attempting to arrange the murder of the ex-husband of Patricia Parada. Federal charges against the 62-year-old McInnis and the 24-year-old Miss Parada were dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Police notes

Christy Gail Lockett, 2227 N. Russell, reported someone broke the windshield of her car while it was parked at her residence.

Vehicles driven by B. Clark Lamprade, 500 N. Wells, and James Cleveland Taylor III, 209 S. Nelson, were in collision in the 500 block of N. Nelson. Lamprade was reportedly cited for failure to yield right-of-way and Taylor was reportedly cited for exceeding a safe and prudent speed.

Hugh Campbell, 944 S. Nelson, reported someone has been bothering him with obscene telephone calls.

Diana Dowler, manager of Ashley's Outlet Store, 110 N. Cuyler, reported she returned to the store Wednesday evening after it was closed and found a male attempting to put about a dozen pairs of socks into a sack. The male, who was identified, said he had been driving down the alley behind the store and noticed a door unlocked, but a check with employees revealed all doors had been locked and double checked before closing. An investigation revealed no sign of forced entry into the store, and Dowler advised she would decide whether to file charges.

Carl Brown, 1136 Sandlewood, reported the theft of a pocket knife and wallet containing $30 from his pants while they were hanging in the locker room at the Pampa Youth Center, 1005 W. Harvester.

An employee of Minit Mart, 2100 Perryton Parkway, reported two juveniles shoplifted shaving cream and a package of batteries from the store.

A vehicle driven by Robert Glenn Steen of Perryton was in collision with a parked vehicle belonging to Bruce & Son Van & Storage Co., 732 W. Brown. Steen was reportedly cited for failure to drive in a single marked lane and driving while intoxicated.

An employee of the Pampa Clinic, 1002 N. Hobart, reported someone broke a window in the building. Nothing was reported missing.

The department responded to 38 calls in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Texas forecast

By The Associated Press
 Showers and thundershowers dropped light amounts of rainfall early today ahead of a weak cold front extending from near Longview to Del Rio.

Forecasts called for more shower activity across the southern half of Texas with clear to partly cloudy skies expected elsewhere. Highs were to range from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 70s in South Texas.

Other rainfall during the night was reported over the South Plains and Panhandle in association with a weak upper level disturbance moving towards West Texas.

Most points reporting any rainfall at all had light amounts with most under .25 of an inch. The heaviest amount was at Austin where .69 of an inch fell.

Although much of the state had clear to partly cloudy skies, some early morning fog was reported in East Texas. Visibility at Lufkin dropped to about a mile.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle to the 70s along the coast. Early morning extremes ranged from 34 at Dalhart to 75 at Corpus Christi.

Some early morning readings included 38 at Amarillo, 44 at Wichita Falls, 67 at Texarkana, 66 at Austin, 69 at Lufkin, 68 at Houston, 73 at McAllen, 60 at Del Rio, 53 at San Angelo and El Paso and 44 at Lubbock.

Light rain was reported at Austin, College Station, Lufkin and Texarkana. Fog was also reported at Longview and Texarkana.

Children to paint windows
 Kindergarten through fifth grade students will be painting Halloween scenes on store windows Saturday in the downtown area and at Coronado Center.

The Pampa Fine Arts Association will be sponsoring the event entitled "A Halloween Happening".

Students in kindergarten through the second grade should register and receive their paints inside the Coronado Center where they will be painting.

Third, fourth and fifth graders should register and get their paints on the corner near Pampa Hardware. They will be painting windows in the downtown area.

Registration and paint distribution will be from 9:30 to 10:30 at these locations. Students are asked to bring their own paint brushes, four containers (such as empty juice or soup cans) and an empty carton to carry the paints.

Each grade will be judged individually with first second and third place ribbons.

Steele completes naval training
 Navy Airman Recruit Ricky E. Steele, son of Walter E. and Rosa L. Williams of McLean, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Orlando, Florida.

The eight-week training cycle included studies of general military subjects for further academic and on-the-job training.

This course of instruction gives three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene to personnel completing the training.

Steele is a 1978 graduate of McLean High School and joined the Navy in August 1978.

The Hudson's Bay Co. was incorporated in 1670 by royal charter to trade in regions draining into Hudson Bay.

FOCUS

"Teddy"

Theodore Roosevelt, who was born 120 years ago tomorrow, was a man of many nicknames, as well as one of our country's most outgoing presidents. Millions of people called him "T.R." or "Teddy," and after a cartoonist drew a picture of Roosevelt with a bear cub, the term "teddy bear" was born. He earned the name "Four Eyes" because he always wore glasses, and "Rough Rider" for leading a cavalry regiment called the Rough Riders during the Spanish-American War. Once, when a reporter asked him how he felt, Roosevelt replied, "I feel as strong as a bull moose." From then on he had another nickname: "Bull Moose."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur accepted the surrender of Japan on the USS Missouri Sept. 2, 1945.

HYPERTENSION COURSE
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixth graders in 10 Virginia schools will study hypertension — high blood pressure — in an experimental program this year, according to the Health Insurance Institute.

An eight-day curriculum on the subject was developed in an attempt to deal with disease prevention at an early age and encourage self-responsibility for health care, explains Dr. Keith Howell, assistant professor of health education at the University of Virginia.

WOMEN IN SCIENCE
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The exhibit "Women in Science in 19th-century America" is on display at the Smithsonian's National Museum of History and Technology through February of 1979.

The museum says it is the country's first exhibit to document the accomplishments of women scientists in the past century.

Maria Mitchell, America's first woman astronomer, is included as are Ellen Swallow Richards, the first woman admitted to a professional scientific school; botanist Kate Furbish, and Florence Bascom, the first woman hired by the U.S. Geological Survey.

ESSAY WINNER
 CHICAGO (AP) — John Aron Grayzel, a New York City attorney, has been named winner of the Ross Essay Contest for 1978 by the board of editors of the American Bar Association Journal.

Grayzel, who is also an anthropologist, received a stipend of $5,000 for his essay, "The Legal Adoption of Social Science Concepts in the Fight Against Discrimination: The Law's Servant or the Sorcerer's Apprentice."

JIMMY TAYLOR, 209 N. Nelson, suffered multiple injuries as a result of a car - motorcycle accident Wednesday morning. The accident occurred at 425 N. Nelson and Taylor was taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance. His injuries included possible fractures of the arm and leg.

government — primarily at the local level where we can do something about it," he said.

Kennedy said he is not only concerned with the financial aspects of inflation, but also the sociological implications.

"I am concerned that stealing and crime of various sorts will increase," Kennedy said. "Hence we also need very positive law enforcement for our community which will be strengthened by a county court that discourages law breaking."

I will work with all of the law enforcement officers, civic leaders and interested people of the community to help make this a better place for honest, law-abiding citizens to live.

Kennedy, 46, was born in Pampa. He lives in Pampa with his wife Patricia, and children Douglas, Kendri, Treca, Wiley and Worley. He is a member of the Bible Church of Pampa.

GOP Sabotage?

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Lillian Carter wasn't happy with the way she was introduced, and she let her host know it.

First, former state Democratic Party Chairman Ben Alexander on Tuesday referred to Miss Lillian, President Carter's mother, as an "octogenarian." Before he could continue, she piped up, "I don't like that word."

At another point, Alexander said that while son Jimmy campaigned for president, his mother stayed home and took care of her granddaughter, Amy.

Not so, interrupted Miss Lillian. "I campaigned every day for Jimmy," she said.

Alexander peered accusingly at his notes. "Who wrote this?" he asked.

"It must have been a Republican," Miss Lillian replied.

Roommates Who Couldn't Get Along

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Kim Stone opened the kitchen cabinet in her new apartment and found a roommate who wasn't helping stretch the rent payments, although he did stretch pretty far.

Charlie, a 6-foot boa constrictor, had been living in the apartment since the previous tenant moved out — without telling the landlord he had lost his snake.

Charlie was captured by Jay Curtis of Onondaga County's Animal Control department after a lengthy search.

"It's unbelievable how strong he was. It was like pulling on a horse," Curtis said after he captured the snake Monday.

Charlie was taken to the Burnet Park Zoo.

Got the Shoo, Need the Jacket

DOVER, Del. (AP) — The Air Force Reserve unit here now can boogie to authentic "Shoo Shoo Baby" records. Now it's looking for an old World War II flying jacket to match the mood.

Nationwide publicity last week about the unit's need for copies of the Andrews Sisters' 1940 hit produced a flurry of phone calls offering relief.

"I have in my possession thus far, I think, five copies of the sheet music and four copies of the 78 and one album that a gal in Kansas City sent express," information officer Wesley Bell said Tuesday. "We'll use everything we got."

Bell's other request, for the old flying jacket, is designed to complete a display of "Shoo Shoo Baby," a B-17 bomber that is being restored at Dover Air Force Base in Ohio. It is believed to be one of only two B-17s still in existence out of 8,000 used in World War II.

Bell had tried getting the rare record from several radio stations and record collectors without any luck.

It came out in 1943 or 1944, he said, shortly before the "Shoo Shoo Baby" bomber went into service in Europe with the 401st Bomb Squad.

Bell said a flying jacket is "worth a little more than the record, but we thought somebody out there might have one that they would be willing to donate to the museum."

UNIONS GAIN
OTTAWA (AP) — Union membership in Canada totaled 3.3 million at the start of 1978, up 4.1 percent from 3.1 million a year earlier, according to the federal labor department.

Union members represent 31.3 percent of the total labor force.

Looking at the proposed 'tax relief' admendment

On November 7, the proposed "tax relief" amendment to the Texas Constitution will be brought before the voters. According to the Texas Research League, the amendment has three purposes: (1) to provide tax relief to certain categories of property owners; (2) to permit legislative resolution of the rural - urban conflict over public school finance; and (3) to facilitate property tax reform by the Legislature.

The League, a non-profit organization based in Austin specializes in studies on the operations, programs and problems of Texas Government.

The report is informative, but takes no position for or against the proposed amendment.

The report states: "All homeowners, especially those who are elderly or disabled, some automobile owners and some agricultural land owners may expect to see their property taxes reduced if the amendment passes. For persons living in jurisdictions that make no effort to assess individually owned automobiles, the amendment may forestall the collection of vehicle taxes in the future. For farmers and ranchers who now pay relatively low taxes, the amendment probably would slow down future increases. For owners of intangible personal property (stocks and bonds for example), the amendment would permit the legislature to remove the threat of local efforts to collect taxes on such property in the future."

The cost of the various tax relief measures is difficult to estimate, but the exemption of intangibles and household goods would have little effect because they are rarely taxed now. If the Legislature allowed the exemption of automobiles, school districts could lose up to $25 million a year, and 24 major cities that collect the tax would lose about $10 million.

The mandatory exemption from school taxes of the first $5,000 of the market value of residential homesteads could cost $104 million annually. The additional $10,000 exemption for the elderly (optional with the Legislature) could reduce school tax receipts by $6-$10 million on top of the $23 million already granted on a local option basis. The optional exemption for the disabled would cut school revenues another $4 million. The Legislature might (but would not be required to) make up the losses from state funds.

Use of productivity values in the assessment of agricultural land is more difficult to estimate because refined data is not yet available and because the Legislature might add restrictions later. However, preliminary estimates indicate that productivity assessments in rural areas where much of the land has little value except for agricultural purposes would cost $89 school districts a total of $48 million in lost revenue. On the other hand, 353 districts would gain a total of $15 million if they applied the productivity values.

In metropolitan areas, use of productivity values would result in substantial losses, and losses in suburban districts would also be significant. Noting that "productivity" or "income" valuation is an accepted appraising technique for income-producing property, the League's report declares that the task of preventing the amendment from becoming a major boon for land speculators "can be addressed by the Legislature in the amendment passes." Productivity valuation requirements would apply to all local taxing jurisdictions.

In school finance, the amount of State aid each district receives is related to the State's estimate of the district's local tax base. The more taxable property a district has, the less State aid it gets. Next year, the estimated value of intangible property will be included in the estimates, even though such property is almost impossible to find and tax. Urban districts, in particular, stand to lose large amounts of State aid if the estimate of intangible values is used in the State aid formula under the new provision. On the other hand, agricultural land is now valued for state aid purposes on the basis of its productivity, even though much of this land is taxable according to market value under the present constitution. It is possible that state or federal courts (where several suits are pending) might step in to enforce the existing constitutional provisions. Passage of the proposed amendment would permit the Legislature to resolve these problems by bringing the constitutional tax base into conformity with actual practice — and perhaps avoid another major battle on school aid formulas at the next session.

Property tax reform efforts have been hampered by fears of higher taxes through revaluation, fears that tax burdens would be shifted among various classes of property (residential, commercial, industrial and mineral, for example), and fear that a state agency set up to supervise and improve local assessment practices might supercede local authorities in direct administration of the property tax. The proposed "tax relief" amendment seeks to address all of these fears — or permit the Legislature to address them.

Washington briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources say Taiwan has no place else to go in its search for new fighter planes to improve its air force now that the United States has rejected a request for F-5G fighters.

President Carter has rejected the request because the administration feels there are no planes in the U.S. arsenal that would improve what Taiwan has now. State Department officials said Tuesday. Taiwan was turned down earlier this year in its request for F-4 fighter-bombers because the administration felt the F-4 had too much offensive potential against mainland China.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

gun control organization says a court decision upholding Washington's strict gun control law "is a victory for all the residents of the district."

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that the law, considered one of the toughest local gun control laws in the nation, was legal. The National Rifle Association had contended that the city did not have authority to enact the legislation, which banned handgun sales after 1976. The National Council to Control Handguns says the court ruling "shows the gun lobby can be beaten."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says that nothing has changed its view that the cruise missile is an effective weapon — despite a report the Soviets have shot down either a cruise missile or a cruise drone in tests.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service is consulting with a contractor about a fence the government wants installed to prevent illegal entry from Mexico. It seems the fence is so sharp that it could sever the toes of people trying to scale it.

The government said Tuesday that it is discussing "re-designing the fence," which would be constructed along two six-mile stretches of the Mexican border, one at El Paso, Texas, and the other at Chula Vista, Calif.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I suspect that my husband has been cheating on me for a long time, but I haven't been able to pin anything on him. I even hired a private detective to follow him, but he couldn't come up with a thing. It's just a feeling I have. My husband goes out a lot and tells me he is going to such and such a place, but he's never where he says he'll be, and that makes me suspicious.

I finally went to a lawyer, and he told me to grow up—that every man cheats on his wife at some time in his life. Is this true? I always believed my father was a faithful husband to my mother, and I've got brothers who I am sure wouldn't go out on their wives.

My lawyer says I should quit trying to catch my husband, and accept the fact that all men cheat. Do they?

CHICAGO TRIBUNE READER

DEAR READER: Not there are plenty of married men who never cheat, and your husband could be one of them. The only thing you can be fairly sure of is that your lawyer cheats on his wife.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from CANT TELL HIM, the girl who couldn't tell her fiance that he had bad breath.

I, too, suffer from chronic bad breath, and it's ruining my life. I'm a young, attractive, single girl and a very clean person. My dental hygiene is excellent. I brush twice a day, and floss, too.

Commercial mouthwashes are worthless. Please, Abby, can you ask some of your doctor friends if I could have a medical problem? Perhaps it's a vitamin deficiency.

Please answer in your column because I'm sure there are many others who suffer from this terrible affliction.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Bad breath could be a symptom of so many physical ailments that it would take a full column to list them.

It could be poor nutrition, a vitamin deficiency, or emotional stress. But don't assume anything. Start with your physician. It's even possible that the affliction is only imaginary, in which case psychotherapy is the answer. Get help now and put an end to this needless suffering.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed CLUTTERED MAILBOX IN L.A. wrote to complain because he had been finding a lot of leaflets, advertisements, political propaganda, etc., in his mailbox.

You said there was a law against using a mailbox for anything except mail for which postage had been paid to the U. S. Postal Service.

Well, I own my own mailbox—the U. S. Postal Service does not! And if I want to store chopped liver in it I would like to see anybody stop me!

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 30 years old, 5-foot-2 and weigh 128 pounds. I would like to get my weight down to 120 pounds. I work at a factory and I do a lot of walking, lifting heavy boxes and pushing a broom all day long. Could you send me a pamphlet on how much I can eat during the working day so I can keep my weight down to 120 pounds and not be so tired?

My mother weighs 146 and is 5-foot-4. She would like to get down to 140 pounds and keep that weight. She doesn't work. She's at home all day. I'd appreciate any information you can send.

DEAR READER — There is no magic amount of food you can eat to lose weight and not get tired. You have put your finger on an important point. People who diet often feel tired, particularly if they overdo it and try to lose weight too fast.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, that you asked for. It will provide you a basic diet plan of between 1200 and 1400 calories that you can use. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you do a lot of physical work, that may not be enough calories for you as your goal should be to lose weight slowly. Everyone should think of fat as stored energy just like the cash balance in your checking account. What you eat increases your fat deposits and the work you do uses up your fat deposits. It's a straight balance situation. The only way you can tell when you're working enough, or physically exercising enough, and limiting your diet sufficiently, is by what happens to your body fat stores. That's best judged by feeling how much fat is under the skin.

I think it's a big mistake for anyone to try to lose much more than a pound a week on any do-it-yourself dietary program. Any more than that will result in loss of muscles, weakness and other problems. A successful dietary program to lose weight should probably not be continued for more than about six or eight weeks at a time, after which a person should eat a normal maintenance diet for a few weeks to let their body adjust for any dietary deficiencies that may have occurred, then resume the diet program.

So, the answer to your question is to see what's happening to your body weight while you're dieting and exercising. If you're losing more than about a pound a week, that's probably too much. Certainly, if you're tired and weak at the same time it may be too much. If you're not losing anything, and that persists over a period of several weeks with your dietary and exercise routine, then you have not restricted your diet enough or else you're not doing enough physical activity.

I'd like to emphasize to all my readers not to neglect the value of physical exercise in helping to eliminate body fat. Most people, if they would just walk a mile and a half a day and not increase their dietary intake, will lose eight to 10 pounds in a year's time with such a program.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I keep a recipe file box on a shelf above my washing machine. When I buy a new garment I remove the washing instructions, write the name of the garment on the tag and file it in the box. Instructions are always handy when I am ready to launder. — MRS. C.M.

DEAR POLLY — A friend of mine has been using the following Pointer for years. If kitchen windows are located over the sink where steam, water, soap, etc. can soil or dampen the curtains, place the bottom part of the curtain in a clear plastic bag. Attach with a decorative bow or pins. This saves laundering and pressing the curtains so often. The bag can be removed when company is expected and the curtains will have a fresh, tidy look. — L.L.P.

DEAR POLLY — Recently my mother-in-law bought new bedroom furniture and had to remove the old furniture. When it was time to move the mattress and box spring she thought of using a skate board instead of trying to lift them. She put the board under the mattress, which was on its side. With the board in the middle, one person in front and one in the back it was a cinch. I am sure your kids will not mind if you borrow a skate board to do such moving. — MRS. P.A.

DEAR POLLY — When painting a room keep a record of the brand and color of the paint, whether or not it was flat, enamel, latex or whatever and how much was used. Next time you paint there will be no guesswork. — MRS. M.B.

Am I really a woman?

If you act "just like a woman," it's not necessarily because you are one. A lot of it may be all in your mind — or someone else's.

Traditionally, temperament and emotions have been attributed to biological differences between men and women. According to The World Book Encyclopedia, people in many societies believe that women are naturally more emotional than men, particularly during menstruation and the menopause. But scientists have found little evidence that woman's emotional makeup differs significantly from man's. Research shows that a woman's feelings depend strongly on what she has been taught. Many women are taught that they can expect to become emotionally upset during menstruation and the menopause. These women experience such upsets more frequently than do women who have been taught that menstruation and the menopause are normal parts of life.

Research shows that men and women have the same range of emotional characteristics. In other words — what's traumatic for the goose can be just that for the gander.

CHRISTMAS IN OCTOBER was celebrated Monday at M.K. Brown by several groups and merchants. They had free patterns to make gifts for those gearing up early.

Reaction varied on Rhodesian raids on guerrillas

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — White Rhodesians are triumphantly toasting the troops who smashed several black nationalist guerrilla camps in neighboring Mozambique and Zambia, even as reports reach them that the assaults have dashed immediate hopes for peace talks.

Blacks, meanwhile, fear that the raids will provoke guerrilla reprisals, escalate the war and further dim chances for an early end to the six-year conflict. "It was fantastic and way overdue," a white doctor who would not be identified said. "If these terrorists want to come in and murder Rhodesian civilians they must expect us to hit them before they hit us."

But Kenneth Mbufano, a watchman and supporter of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union whose camps in Zambia were the target of the most devastating assaults, said: "Violence will bring more violence. I want it all to end so we can all live in peace."

Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, head of the Mozambique-based Zimbabwe African National Union, have stated since the raids that the only conference they are now prepared to attend will be designed to transfer power from the Salisbury government directly to them and their guerrillas.

The cross-border raids, which ended over the weekend, smashed some 13 guerrilla camps in Mozambique and Zambia. Rhodesian accounts say more than 1,500 of the 25,000 guerrillas under arms outside the country were slain and vast quantities of Soviet-made arms and supplies destroyed. There are about 8,000 guerrillas inside Rhodesia.

The attacks, mainly against Nkomo's camps in Zambia to the north of Rhodesia, were ordered as Prime Minister Ian Smith and three moderate blacks in the transition government were in the United States seeking support for a constitutional settlement they reached seven months ago.

It was while they were in the United States that Smith and his colleagues — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the Rev. Ndabingi Sithole and Sen. Jeremiah Chirau — agreed to take part in a U.S. and British-backed peace conference with the guerrilla leaders who boycotted their earlier accord.

That agreement spelled the end to almost a century of white domination in this country of 6.7 million blacks and 260,000 whites and promised majority rule by the end of the year.

But Nkomo and Mugabe, co-leaders in a fragile and ideologically and ethnically opposed political alliance called the Patriotic Front, stepped up the war which is now costing some 30 lives and more than half of the Rhodesian budget daily.

A Rhodesian official, who would not be named, defended the timing of the latest government raids by pointing to the recent upsurge of terrorism — particularly the slaying of 10 survivors of a civilian air crash last month and earlier massacres of missionaries and their families.

He also noted that the United States, anxious to organize a new all-party conference, expressed doubts about the current effectiveness of the white-run but largely black Rhodesian security forces.

"The fact that we were able to strike both at Mozambique and at Zambia with virtual impunity surprised the Americans that we did still have military superiority," he said.

"We reckon this has strengthened our hands for any negotiations that might now evolve."

White Rhodesian soldiers, off duty and drinking in Salisbury pubs, were jubilant over the apparent success of the raids.

"We've shown that we won't sit back and twiddle our thumbs while they step up things," one young trooper told a group of foreigners. "And we'll show them that we can do it again."

Turkeys in short supply for Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers will see only "light" supplies of turkey in supermarkets next month as they turn to planning Thanksgiving dinners, says the Agriculture Department.

As used by USDA marketing experts, "light supply" of a food item means "less than adequate, not enough for normal needs."

Consequently, as department economists have been saying for months, turkey prices will be up this fall, perhaps by 10 to 15 percent from a year ago and maybe more for certain kinds of birds.

The light supply of turkey for November was described in a new "food marketing alert" sent each month to large-volume food buyers such as schools, hospitals and other institutions.

As far as officials could determine Tuesday, it was the first time in at least a decade that the November supply of turkeys was forecast to be on the light side.

In other years since 1974, when the report was begun, turkey was on the "plentiful" list for November or was described as "adequate," according to Dale May of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Shirley Wagener of the department's Office of Governmental and Public Affairs said that prior to 1974, at least since 1969, turkey was featured on USDA's "plentiful foods" list, the forerunner of the current report.

It's not that turkey producers aren't stepping up production — because they are this year. But consumer demand has been heavy for all sorts of poultry due to high prices for red meat.

Thus, inventories of birds ready for supermarket shelves have been reduced. For example, a report by USDA last week showed that, as of Sept. 30, there were only 361.7 million pounds of frozen turkeys held in cold-storage warehouses nationally, down 12 percent from a year ago and 21 percent from two years ago.

Meanwhile, the food marketing alert for November showed also that beef will be in adequate supply, meaning that there will be "enough to meet needs" of consumers next month. Beef, after being "plentiful" for almost three years, dropped to the adequate rating earlier this year.

Pork also will continue adequate in November, along with milk and other dairy products, fresh oranges and grapefruit, and some other commodities.

But there will be continued plentiful supplies of broiler chicken, eggs, fresh apples, pears, cranberries, potatoes, sweet potatoes, onions and peanuts next month, the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new analysis by the Agriculture Department shows that there will be about 8 percent more corn in the nation's inventory carried over a year from now than experts predicted just two weeks ago.

Officials said Tuesday that the corn supply next Oct. 1 may be about 1.47 billion bushels, the most since the carry-over was 1.54 billion on that date in 1964.

But nearly one-third of the corn carried over next Oct. 1 is expected to be locked off the market under the government's three-year grain storage program, officials said.

A new "supply and demand" report for corn and wheat showed that the corn carry-over for Oct. 1, 1979, is expected to be about 107 million bushels more than USDA projected on Oct. 12. The corn carried over this Oct. 1 was about 1.06 billion bushels, up from 884 million bushels a year ago.

The revision followed a quarterly grain inventory report that showed there was more old-crop corn in the country than USDA had been estimating. Also, the supply-and-demand analysis showed there will be slightly less corn used domestically in 1978-79 than had been perceived earlier.

Thus, the amount of corn left over when the 1979 harvest will be ready a year from now will be larger than had been indicated.

Young couple have become East Texas 'pioneers'

By BOB WIELAND
Associated Press Writer
TRAWICK, Texas (AP) — The honeycomb-shaped log cabin is growing slowly, as a young couple prepares to face their third harsh winter among the primeval pines of East Texas. Jim and Anna Lemon had planned careers as a doctor and an opera singer, but now they are pioneers.

They live with two German Shepherds and a cat in a canvas tepee on 8½ acres off a dusty red-dirt road that leads to oil company production leases.

The Lemons tend several gardens and raise chickens, pigs and rabbits to eat. Meals are cooked over an open fire.

"I can even bake pies," Anna said proudly, as she barbecued chicken and rabbit on a blackened grill. "Domestic rabbits are all white meat," she said, although admitting not many people could raise and then kill rabbits.

"It's hard to get attached to a chicken, but a bunny is furry, and warm and soft."

After supper, by the gently hissing glare of a gasoline lantern, they plan details of the hexagonal log cabin that is to be their new home.

For a while, at least, it probably will not have running water, electricity or a phone. "It would cost at least $1,500 for any utility to be brought out this far," Anna said with a sigh.

"I would give anything for a hot bath," she added, "although Jim would prefer the electricity."

PIONEERS Jim and Anna Lemon sit in the doorway of the cabin they are building among the primeval pines of East Texas. Both passed up the promise of successful careers to live in the deep woods. The couple face the third winter at the building site with a long way to go before the cabin is complete. (AP Laserphoto)

The Lemons moved to the woods two years ago, to escape encroaching civilization.

"They made my garden into a parking lot, and zoned my front yard for townhouses," said Jim, who used to live in a stone house between Fort Worth and Dallas. "And somebody stole my compost pile."

he added indignantly.

Their new lifestyle is different from what they had been used to. Both are from Fort Worth and from affluent families; the children of physicians.

Jim, 31, studied at one time to become a doctor, and Anna, 27, trained her voice for the opera stage. But Jim ended up with a master's degree in clinical psychology and Anna spent seven years, working and studying, to get a bachelor's in social work.

Now they are both caseworkers in the girls' home at the Summit Oaks residential treatment center in Laneville. They commute half an hour over deeply rutted roads and two wooden bridges, taking home a cargo of ice and water from the center.

They paid $500 an acre for the land, with a six-year note. Then they borrowed an additional $600 to finance materials for the cabin.

The logs come from their woods, cut down with a chainsaw, but stripped of bark and dragged by hand. Windows, doors and other hardware were scavenged from a two-county area.

"Whenever we pass a construction site, we stop to see if they have anything to spare. Jim said, 'If Anna is with me, I send her over to ask,' he added, smiling through his beard at his wiry, red-haired wife.

A lot of what the young couple has comes from others. "I came out here to increase my self-sufficiency," Jim said, "but find myself depending more on other people. We have friends come out to help up build the cabin, and a local man helps me slaughter the pigs. He pays half the feed and gets one of the pigs."

Many of the visitors admire the primitive existence, although the Lemons know things can get rough.

"Everything is harder here. We wash the dishes once a week, because it's a two-hour production to heat enough water," Anna said. "Last winter, I asked myself: 'This isn't fun — what am I doing here,' but then it was spring, and it was all right again."

"Apparently, living like this is a common fantasy," Jim said. "But it wasn't my fantasy," he added, even though he had worked as a canoe-trip guide in Canada.

Living in the woods has been almost a religious experience for the Lemons. "When we first moved out here, we set up a Sunday routine," Anna said. "We would walk, ride our bikes and then maybe climb a tree to talk about what God means to us."

"It doesn't take long to see there's a higher power at work — a universal pattern to things," she said.

Much of the couple's life is controlled by the weather. A lack of rain this fall has taken its toll among their tomatoes, and last winter they were snowed in.

"The tree branches were bent across the road, loaded with snow and ice," Anna said. "We had to use the chainsaw to cut them free."

When it does rain, the roads turn to mud. "If you can see ruts going straight through the water, stay in them and keep going," Anna advised.

The Lemons learn a lot of things by experience, or from a handful of books on wilderness living. The cabin, though, is being built one step at a time, with every detail hashed out. "Would you settle for sideways windows that open out instead of up-and-down windows that slide?" Jim asked Anna, when a problem developed with framing their second-hand windows.

The cabin is built on a pier-and-beam foundation, with old railroad ties soaked in creosote as the supports. Each log provides about 11 feet of inside wall for the six-sided structure.

"It will have a sleeping loft, which maybe will include some type of water heater," Anna said hopefully.

"Eventually, I'd like to add a deck and a greenhouse," Jim said.

They'll continue to use their red-and-white-striped outhouse, though.

"It gets a little cold when it's freezing," Anna said, "but then we use a bucket inside."

She added: "Some elderly women visited us the other day, and said, 'you two are pioneers.' They kept saying that," she laughed, chopping wood for the fire.

Names in the news

OTTAWA (AP) — When is a word derogatory? According to the official record of the Canadian House of Commons, it apparently depends on how you spell it.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, infuriated when an opposition legislator charged that the government might destroy documents dealing with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, cried out, "Who said that? I'll kick his ass!"

Conservative member John Crosbie identified himself as the man, but speaker James Jerome calmed the uproar by turning to another questioner.

In the draft of the Commons' official written record for Tuesday, the spelling was changed to make Trudeau's outburst read: "Who said that? I'll kick his arse!"

Trudeau's comments occurred during House of Commons debate on allegedly illegal activities by the RCMP.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Bolshoi Ballet Theater won't asked Maya Plisetskaya to step down, but its director says the company's prima ballerina has acute arthritis which could end a career that has spanned more than three decades.

there were no plans for her to appear in any of this season's ballets.

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Mondale, accompanied by New York Mayor Edward Koch, traveled down the Yellow Brick Road to the world premiere of "The Wiz," a glittery musical reincarnation of "The Wizard of Oz."

The wife of Vice President Walter Mondale attended Tuesday night's benefit opening, which also attracted the movie's director, Sidney Lumet, and Lumet's former mother-in-law, Lena Horne, who appears in the film.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Mondale visited a New York screening room for a look at the film "Running Fence," a documentary on artist Christo's 1972 attempt to build a 24-mile, white fabric fence over the hills of California.

The 18-foot high nylon fence, which cost $3 million to construct and was dismantled, by agreement, two weeks later, sparked a bureaucratic struggle between Christo and local authorities.

Mrs. Mondale called the fence artistic because "it's visual. It serves no function. It does not do anything you need. But it is aesthetic. It's beautiful."

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Alan Aida, Mike Farrell, Henry Morgan, Loretta Swit, David Ogden Stiers and Jamie Farr were filming an episode of the CBS-TV series "M*A*S*H" when an electrical short apparently sparked a fire in a wall of the set. Farr, who plays the phony transvestite Col. Klinger, says the real hero was an extra, Roy Goldman. "He saved all my dresses," Farr said. Actor Burt Reynolds is sporting a little less hair these days and it's all because he just couldn't turn down comic Steve Martin's dare that he shave off the mustache. He has worn since 1973. The event was viewed by millions during a recent telecast of "The Tonight Show." "You're not a wild and crazy guy, are you?" Martin taunted Reynolds. Reynolds' reply was to get a shaver from a prop man and cut away. Reynolds completed his new look by wearing a fake arrow through his head. Mick Jagger told love Jerri Hall she could buy a Malibu house but not to spend more than $700,000. In that post show she may only find a big sandbox! And Mick's Rolling Stones were forced to change their "Some Girls" album cover when Lucille Ball threatened to sue because of grossly distorted pictures of herself and other female stars. Those first covers may be collectors' items. Master mystery-maker Alfred Hitchcock, 79, admits he's in poor health but he's hard at work on an eerie British spy story. He wants Sean Connery and Liv Ullmann to star.

INSIDE THE TUBE: Cindy Williams is furious producers "forgot" to send in her name as an Emmy candidate for "Laverne and Shirley." "I had such a good chance," she wails. Natalie Wood and William Devane will be naked as jaybirds in the beach love scene in TV's "From Here to Eternity" but it will be cut for American viewers. Europeans get to see their beautiful bods. John Astin and wife Patty Duke battled a lot when he was dumped from "Operation Petticoat" but they endured and are closer than ever, contrary to gossip about a split. John Houseman, the overbearing law professor star of both the movie and the new television series "The Paper Chase," says he isn't concerned about whether the TV show is a success as long as it's done right. "Since the show is exactly the way I want it," he told me, "whether it succeeds or fails is just part of show biz as far as I'm concerned. When I first did the movie, I previewed it for my students at Julliard. (He has been a teacher, among many other things.) I was anxious to hear what they said, hoping for words of praise and appreciation. I got very little. They said they enjoyed the movie and thanks a lot. I finally said, 'What did you think of my performance?' and they said, 'Oh, that's just the way you are around here.'"

TV BACKSTAGE: Violence is off TV but rampant in movies—with real hoodlum gangs being hired for "atmosphere." At least six of these gangster flicks are planned—and teenthrob Robby Benson, who probably never even got a traffic ticket, stars in one. Dick Van Dyke got so mad at a double-parked delivery van that he actually rammed it from behind with his car. Herve Villechaze took a nasty spill off a horse while rehearsing "Fantasy Island" but he climbed right back up onto the monster. Cheryl Ladd was reduced to tears when she was forced to wear a too-revealing bikini in a "Charlie's Angels" episode. Now she wants to quit the show. Jaclyn Smith, suffering from exhaustion and flu while filming the season's opening of "Charlie's Angels," had to be physically supported as the cameras rolled. "The Donna Fargo Show," an Osmond Television Production in association with Metromedia Producers Corporation, will feature top guest stars and resident comic Tom Blener.

Michael Caine-newest arrival

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The British are coming to California in increasing numbers, fleeing from a tax-hungry government. The latest arrival is Michael Caine.

Already, Beverly Hills real estate agents have prospered on sales of estates to British rock stars. The realtors have another ready, but wary, customer in Caine.

"Trouble is," he sighed. "The house I priced four years ago at $400,000 is now a million and a quarter."

Three of Caine's last four films have been made in Hollywood: "The Swarm," "California Suite," and currently, "Beyond the Poseidon Adventure." He now thinks that he might as well stay.

"It's been something I've been thinking about for four years," he remarked in his mobile home at the Burbank Studios. "But when it comes to making up my mind, decisions usually come tomorrow morning at 8 a.m. I'm inclined to put things off."

"But I think the time is ripe for me to move here. It seems to me that the center of world film-making runs in 10-year cycles. Of course, Hollywood had it all until after the war. Then England had it for 10 years, France for 10 years, Italy for 10 years."

"I believe that the film world is going to center here for the next 10 years. So I might as well make it my home base."

Caine, the Cockney lad to achieve fame in "Alfie," "The Ipcress File," "Sleuth" and other Anglo-American films, is among the last of the English stars to leave the Isles.

Roger Moore has now gone. Sean Connery left long ago. Caine observed. "Michael York has gone. Robert Shaw —

God rest his soul — had left the country. The same with Finchie (Peter Finch). Laurence Olivier stays, but he has to take those jobs "Marathon Man," "The Boys from Brazil" to be able to leave something for his wife and children.

The reason for the exodus, Caine explained, is the Labor Government's tax policy, which has drive out not only high-earning English but American film makers as well. The actor cited Cubby Broccoli, "who is now spending $35 million in France for the next James Bond picture."

Said Caine: "Two years ago, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said, 'We are going to squeeze the rich until they scream.' Well, the English rich are screaming in the south of France, the Cayman Islands, South Africa, the Bahamas, and the United States. They are paying their taxes to other countries."

In Nielsen ratings
NBC holds onto top spot

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC may have been counting on a full seven-game World Series to hold onto its No. 1 spot in the networks' prime-time ratings competition. The New York Yankees won the series in six, but NBC came out on top nonetheless.

NBC's strong finish for the week ending Oct. 22 was due, in part, to a big TV audience for the series finale and a boost from the network's most popular series, "Little House on the Prairie." No. 2 in the ratings from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

The rating for the concluding World Series game was 35.9, representing an estimated 26.7 million homes. Nielsen says the rating means 35.9 percent of the homes in the country with TV saw at least part of the game, in which the Yankees defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers.

While NBC was winning the first two places in the week's ratings, competing ABC and CBS were dividing the next eight spots. NBC's rating for the week was 19.8, just a bit higher than ABC's 19.7. CBS, for the fifth week in a row, was third, at 17.8.

The networks say that means that in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.8 percent of the homes in the country were tuned to NBC.

Three of ABC's returning hit shows and one of the network's new programs were in the Top 10, among them No. 3 "Charlie's Angels" and No. 6 "Mork and Mindy." It was a clear sign that ABC would regain the top spot in the ratings with the World Series over. Until the series, ABC had dominated the ratings competition, winning each of the first four weeks.

Another sign in ABC's favor could be found toward the bottom of the week's ratings. NBC had three shows in the last five, No. 61 "Lifeline," No. 63 "Dick Clark's Live Wednesday" and No. 64 "Project U.F.O." CBS had two, "Paper Chase" 62nd and "American Girls," on the verge of cancellation, 65th.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

World Series Game 6, with a rating of 35.9 representing 26.7 million homes, and "Little House on the Prairie," 28.9 or 21.5 million, both NBC;

"Charlie's Angels," 27.1 or 20.2 million, ABC; CBS Sunday Movie: "Like Mom, Like Me," 26.1 or 19.4 million; "All in the Family," 25.9 or 19.3 million, CBS; "Mork and Mindy," 25.6 or 19.1 million, ABC; "Alice," 25.1 or 18.7 million, CBS; "Three's Company," 24.9 or 18.6 million, ABC; "60 Minutes," 24.7 or 18.4 million, CBS, and "Laverne and Shirley," 24.3 or 18.1 million, ABC.

The next 10 shows:

"Happy Days," ABC; "One Day at a Time," CBS; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Lou Grant," CBS, and "Vegas," ABC, tie.

"Eight is Enough," ABC; "Barnaby Jones," CBS; "Operation Petticoat," ABC; "Rescue from Gilligan's Island," NBC, and World Series Pre-Game, NBC, and ABC Sunday Movie: "Final Chapter: Walking Tall," tie.

Be sure to specify birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Without seeking it, and much to your surprise, you'll be in a leadership role today. You innately know what others want and how to direct them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a good chance today you'll run into or hear from someone you haven't encountered for some time. You'll have a good time catching up on things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Just when you think someone has let you down, another person turns out to be even better for you. You'll be glad things happened as they did.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The best way to unwind a touchy situation is to be a good listener. The right persons with the right advice will cross your path today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should have a rather interesting day because of some pleasant, unexpected happenings that will alter your normal routine.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Cupid has his eye on you. If you let him, he'll make sure all goes smoothly in the romance department for you and yours today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Because you're so creative today, work will seem more like play. It's the right time to take on a project that has been too tough in the past.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unplanned events sometimes turn out to be the most fun. This is one of those days when a bright, cheerful personality is the unexpected spark to get things humming.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An unusual proposition could come your way today, offering a means to acquire something you've been wanting. Snatch it up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Flexible plans will work out best for you today. Several fun and exciting things could pop up, and you'll want to take advantage of them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your material prospects look very promising today. Be alert for something going on behind the scenes that will mean financial gains.

Blow by blow

By Joe Blobaum, sports editor

With football season barely past the halfway point, it's a little difficult to turn one's thoughts to this winter's basketball campaign. But Coach Gary Abercrombie and a few hardy individuals are already spending their afternoons looking at the hoops in Harvester Field House.

In fact, the team's first intersquad scrimmage is scheduled one week from today — that's Nov. 2 — at 3 p.m. And while Steve Stout, a part-time starter last year, is still punting for the Harvester football team, Abercrombie does have returning starter Steve Duke and some players with JV experience preparing for their debut.

Besides Duke, a 5-7 senior guard, returning letterman Darryl Hughes (6-3) and Doug Skaggs (6-0) are working out. But the Hustling Harvesters will have a youthful look in 1978-79, according to Abercrombie.

Ronnie Faggins, a 6-3 sophomore with a good shooting touch but only junior high experience, will probably see plenty of action. So will juniors Cedrick Parker (6-2) and Joe Jeffers (5-11), both of whom played B-team ball last winter.

Other seniors currently working out with the varsity include Darrel Narron (6-2) and Doug Baird (5-10). After its intersquad tussle, the Harvesters will host Canyon for a scrimmage Nov. 15 and travel to Altus Nov. 16 and Oklahoma City Nov. 18 to complete their preseason campaign.

The regular season begins one week after football's regular season ends. The Hustling Harvesters open with home games against Perryton and Hereford Nov. 24 and 25. Perryton, by the way, returns a pair of 6-6 starters in David Reynolds and Jeff Conner. Reynolds was regarded highly enough to be placed on the Panhandle Plains basketball magazine's preseason first team. Getting back to matters at hand — that is, the football season — last week's predictions nearly went down the tubes. Canadian knocked off Boys Ranch with a fine effort, Miami was blanked by Follett at that school's homecoming and the Harvesters looked listless in a loss to Caprock.

Thanks to victories by Wheeler, Booker and Memphis, the record was salvaged at 3-3, bringing the season's mark to 22-15, or 59%. You'd think I had learned my lesson by now, but I'll go on picking them anyway — and hope I wind up the season over the 500 mark.

Pampa at Tascosa

I've darn near decided to pick Pampa to lose the rest of its games, just to give John Welborn and company a chance. For those who haven't been paying attention, I am now 0-6 on Harvester games. And I don't care if I wind up 0-10, as long as Pampa finishes the regular season at 6-4. Therefore, I'll take Tascosa to win its first homecoming game by 10 points. Now it's up to you, Harvesters.

Canadian at River Road

Was last week a fluke for the Wildcats, who evened their season's record at 3-3 with the upset win over Boys Ranch? Not likely. I saw Canadian beat Shamrock a few weeks back, and the Wildcats looked pretty good doing it. River Road is 0-5-1, which might put some people to sleep. But my guess is that Charlie Russell, Ray Lee Price and the rest of the Wildcats will be suffering from insomnia Friday night. Canadian by 12.

White Deer at Clarendon

Clarendon is 3-3 and shut out Shamrock last week. Of course, if the Irish blew as many scoring opportunities as they did against Canadian a few weeks back, it's no wonder it was a shutout. White Deer's defense played pretty well against Memphis last week. They'll need a similar effort — and some offense — to beat Clarendon. The Bronchos should win by 10.

Groom at Booker

Booker is not a team to be sneezed at, as last week's 54-13 trouncing of McLean indicates. But Groom should be steaming after last week's setback to Wheeler. Russell Roberts isn't the type of coach to allow a letdown, and the Kiowas could well end up licking their wounds — or their chops if they tame the Tigers. As usual, I'm just guessing, but I like Groom by a touchdown.

Follett at Wheeler

Follett may be flying high after last week's win over Miami, but the Panthers will come crashing down to earth at Wheeler Friday night. The Mustangs aren't about to let an outfit with a 4-2 record interrupt their march to the state playoffs. They'll keep their Class B title hopes alive by no less than 30 points, if past performances mean anything.

Texline at McLean

The Tigers took a jolt last week when they lost David Tolleson to injury. But McLean's at home this weekend against a team that hasn't shown much all year long. This might turn out to be a pretty close one, but I'll take the Tigers to win their first game since the season opener against Chillicothe. Let's say by six points, for lack of a better figure.

A closing note: Jim Hall tied for medalist honors among the B teams competing at the Amarillo Boys Golf Invitational last week. He shot an 82 and has my apology for not mentioning it in the story that appeared in Sunday's paper.

Double loss theory put to test

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

It was a theory of Bill Murray, the former Duke football coach, that when a team riding a victory crest suddenly stubbed its toe it plopped on its nose — not once but twice.

"The emotional letdown is tremendous," Murray said. "After such a loss, it's virtually impossible for a coach to get the team up the next week. If the foe is tough, count on another upset."

This rule of thumb is put to test again this week in the game between Arkansas, beaten by Texas, and rugged Houston. The Razorbacks are favored, but look out for the "let-down jinx."

Last week's score: 39-13, 750. Season: 227-85, 731.

Oklahoma 48, Kansas State 7: The Sooners have had their little "sleep-in" — the Kansas squeaker — and may be unstoppable.

Penn State 33, West Virginia 14: Coach Joe Paterno is in danger of making QB Chuck Fusina balloon-headed from syrupy praise.

Alabama 35, Virginia Tech 7: The Tide's cover boy, Jeff Rutledge, needs a fast finish if he covets the Heisman Trophy.

Nebraska 27, Oklahoma State 7: The Cornhuskers won't match the 641 yards gained against Colorado but should prevail.

Maryland 27, Duke 14: The Terrapins, counting the Hall of Fame Bowl, are gunning for No. 12 in a row.

Southern Cal 30, California 14: The Golden Bears must still be dazed over all those turnovers in the UCLA game.

Texas 30, Southern Methodist 21: The Longhorns refuse to be hypnotized by the Ford-Tolbert razzle-dazzle of SMU.

Michigan 28, Minnesota 7: The Wolverines imbibe freely from the Little Brown Jug.

Houston 25, Arkansas 20: The sharp-toothed Cougars put the bite on Lou Holtz' sense of humor.

UCLA 33, Arizona 20: Better keep the kickoff away from UCLA's Theotis Brown — his return average is 29.5 yards.

Washington 25, Arizona State 19: The Sun Devils have had an extra week to savor the Southern Cal upset and grow soft on adulation.

Missouri 31, Colorado 25: Phil Bradley, Earl Gant and James Wilder look like too tough a trio to stop.

Pitt 14, Navy 9: The Midshipmen yield yardage and touchdowns grudgingly, but Pitt should grunt to a pair.

Georgia 18, Kentucky 15:

Friendly home surroundings for the Wildcats should make this a closer game.

Purdue 25, Iowa 10: Mark Herrmann's got an arm that should be preserved in bronze. Notre Dame 28, Miami, Fla. 7: Even if Miami plays as it did against Auburn, it won't be enough in this one.

Clemson 20, North Carolina State 18: The Tigers anxious to get the ACC title, as the song says, "back where it belongs."

The others:

Army 21, Colgate 17: Holy Cross 21, Brown 14; Cornell 17, Dartmouth 10; Yale 23, Penn 7; Harvard 19, Princeton 15; Rutgers 23, Columbia 7.

Bellard: Regents' axe was ready to fall

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — As far as former Texas A&M football Coach Emory Bellard is concerned, his resignation came just before regents were to ask him to quit.

"Tuesday morning after I arrived at the office, I was given some information from a very reliable source that the intentions of the president of the university and the Board of Regents were to ask me to relinquish my coaching duties at the end of the season, regardless of the outcome of the remaining games, and remain at Texas A&M as athletic director," Bellard said.

A later conversation with school President Dr. Jarvis Miller convinced him the information was correct, Bellard said.

Offensive coordinator Tom Wilson took over the coaching duties. His name had been prominent as a successor to Steve Sloan at Texas Tech, but the job went to Rex Dockery instead.

Bellard said he's through with athletics, but isn't sure what he will do in the future. In 6½ seasons, his Aggie teams won 75 percent of their games.

The resignation came after the team lost consecutive games to Houston and Baylor.

"I feel no animosity toward Texas A&M," Bellard said. "I truly love this university and most of all the people of Texas A&M. They have been great to me. I hope that I can be remembered as a good Aggie." Most accusing fingers in the matter were pointed at an alumni group in Houston, but one Aggie supporter from Dallas went on record for Bellard. "It must have come as a hell of a shock to everybody," Tom Dwyer said. "I know Emory Bellard did a hell of a job. I hate to see him persecuted in any way."

Aggie placekicker Tony Franklin denounced some recent student moves calling for Bellard's replacement. "A lot of students were really being crass," Franklin said. "Chicken bleep is the only way to describe it." Meanwhile, Wilson put the Aggies through their paces in preparation for Saturday's game against Rice.

Wilson said halfback Curtis Dickey would not play against the Owls because of an injury, and named Adger Armstrong to the position.

"I know I have to work hard and come out fighting," Wilson said of his new assignment.

"It will be different, to say the least, because I've always been in the press box since I started coaching," he said.

McAdoo, who returned to New York Tuesday night because of back problems, was missed by New York Coach Willis Reed.

"It's tough when you have to play without someone like Bob," Reed said. "He would have made a big difference and we weren't able to do some of the things we would have liked to do without him."

Nissalke upset despite good start

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Coach Tom Nissalke doesn't sound like a man whose club is off to its best start in its 12-year history.

"We've only played a couple of good games so far," Nissalke said as the Rockets moved into first place in the National Basketball Association's Central Division with a 106-101 victory over the New York Knicks Wednesday night.

"We've had some good moments offensively, but defensively we're not where I want us to be."

Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy scored 23 and 21 points respectively as Houston snapped an 80-80 tie early in the fourth quarter and roared to its fifth victory against a single loss this season.

Marvin Webster's dunk shot with 9:21 left in the fourth quarter had pulled the Knicks into the tie, but Houston reeled off 18 of the game's next 23 points to ice the triumph.

Spencer Haywood led all scorers with 24 points. Webster added 21 and blocked six shots as New York had its three-game win streak snapped.

"I don't think we played particularly well," said Rocket forward Rik Barry, who scored 14 points. "You can't be upset when you win, but I know we can play better than this. I'm disappointed that we didn't play better than we did."

New York led briefly in the early moments of the second quarter, but Houston came back to take a 52-48 lead at halftime. Tomjanovich scored 11 points in the third quarter for the Rockets, but the Knicks, who played without their leading scorer Bob McAdoo, closed to within two points at 76-74 at the end of the period.

Biggest, smallest players make AP list of honorees

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

Rockdale Coach Fred Johnson looked at 250-pound defensive lineman Louis Stewart and decided he needed more size in the backfield. Vidor Coach Philip Brown looked at 5-5, 140-pound Denbow and decided to give the kid a chance. Both decisions made the coaches look like geniuses last week when Stewart rushed 192 yards on 27 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 21-15 victory over Hearne and Denbow caught four key passes for 100 yards and a touchdown in a 21-15 upset of Port Neches-Groves. Their performances last week earned them mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Stewart, the biggest player on the Rockdale team at 6-1, 250, shifted to fullback this year after lettering as a sophomore defensive lineman last season. Rather than play the season with 140-pound runners, Johnson shifted Stewart into the backfield.

"He had some trouble holding onto the football early in the year," Johnson said. "But he only fumbled once last week and that went out of bounds."

"He runs about an 11-flat 100 yard dash so he's no George Woodard (Texas A&M's 265-pound fullback). He just flat runs over people."

Johnson said Stewart and several other players missed one game because of disciplinary reasons. "I think he's more determined now," Johnson said. "He's just starting to realize his potential."

Denbow leaped between two taller defenders on his 39-yard touchdown catch for Vidor's first touchdown. He later caught key passes to the PN-G one and 16 yard lines to set up the next two touchdowns. Denbow's size never has bothered either the player or his coach.

"There's a place for every kind," Brown said. "I've had 5-2, 120 pound safeties playing 4A football. He (Denbow) couldn't be a tailback or fullback but for the type of offense we run, we can find a place for him."

Brown called Denbow "my kind of player. He's just 5-5 and 140 pounds but he plays like he's 240 and I'm not going to tell him he can't."

Joining Stewart and Denbow on this week's list is Gregory-Portland quarterback Mark James, who was virtually a one-man show in G-P's surprisingly easy 35-0 victory over Beeville in what was expected to be a close district showdown.

The victory put G-P in the driver's seat for its 10th consecutive district championship, a feat accomplished by only two other teams in Texas schoolboy history.

James rushed 209 yards on 13 carries scoring on runs of 73 and 15 yards and hit five of eight passes for 124 yards and two more touchdowns. James' 73-yard TD came on the first play of the game.

Other top performances last week included:

—Linebacker Bensavio Yzaguerre of Benavides, who averages 20 tackles per game, but got 24 last week and returned an interception for a touchdown in a 26-18 victory over Freer. Yzaguerre's 20-yard interception return helped Benavides beat Freer for the first time in 10 years.

—Farmersville quarterback Bobby Bishop rushed 100 yards on seven carries and scored two touchdowns, one on a 59 yard run and another on a 40-yard interception return and halfback Tony Don Craddock scored four touchdowns in a 48-0 shutout of Caddo Mills.

—Laredo United's Luis Gonzales rushed 230 yards on 24 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 27-21 victory over Rio Grande City.

—Celina's Robert Rhodes rushed 107 yards on 18 carries and scored three touchdowns in a 21-0 upset of state ranked Pilot Point.

—Ervin Davis of unbeaten Plainview rushed 175 yards on 13 carries and scored four times in a 46-27 romp over Lubbock Monterey.

Kenedy's Mark Hrbacek rushed 205 yards on 27 carries and scored on runs of 72, one, one, 47 and two yards in a 42-23 victory over Golias.

Hargrove sent to Padres

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Ranger first baseman Mike Hargrove, dealt to the Padres in a five-player deal, said he was surprised and hurt, but looking forward to playing in San Diego.

"They probably did a good thing to trade me to the other league," Hargrove said. "If they hadn't, I'd come in with a crowbar, a stick of dynamite and a shotgun and would have eaten first base if I had to to help beat Texas."

Rumors of a trade circulated for weeks, but the Rangers made it official Wednesday announcing Hargrove, infielder Kurt Bevacqua and catcher Bill

Fahey will go to San Diego for outfielder Oscar Gamble, catcher Dave Roberts and an undisclosed amount of cash which two Dallas newspapers estimate at between $250,000 and $300,000.

"I knew it would come someday, but I'm surprised and hurt it happened this soon," said Hargrove, the American League Rookie of the Year in 1974. He finished 1978 with seven homers and a .251 average.

Hargrove got the official word Tuesday night during a dinner with Corbett, reported the Dallas Times Herald. "I'm not mad at anyone but (Eddie) Robinson. I cannot stand that man," said Hargrove, adding that he thought Robinson was the force behind the trade.

Gamble expressed his pleasure with the trade. "I hit better in the American league," said Gamble in a telephone interview from his Montgomery, Ala., home.

Gamble powered 31 home runs with the White Sox in 1977. But last season he finished with just seven homers and a .275 average.

"Yes, I'm happy because they didn't want me to play here," said Gamble. "It got to the point where I had to fight to get into the lineup."

Hargrove was once described as "the kind of guy you like to build a team around" by former Texas Ranger manager Bill Hunter.

But Hunter was axed with just one game left in the season, and now the play he prized has become the biggest bargaining chip in an apparent economy move by the Ranger's wheeling and dealing owner Brad Corbett.

"I've had some time to get over the shock and I'm looking forward to going there," said Hargrove. "But I didn't want to leave. I don't understand it other than maybe the economics involved."

The Rangers had been considered pennant contenders. But it was a disappointing season for the Rangers at the box office, with losses approaching $2 million, as well as at the diamond. And team management apparently has backed up the bus in a cost cutting drive.

The Hargrove swap is the second trade for the Rangers since the end of the season. Earlier the team dealt slugger Bobby Bonds and Len Barker to Cleveland for Jim Kern and Larvell Blanks.

"I almost wish I didn't have so many good friends on the team," said Hargrove. "Then it would make it a lot easier to hate the Rangers."

Coaches enjoy prestige of TV

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Coach Tom Landry and Minnesota Coach Bud Grant don't mind Thursday night "Monday night" National Football League games.

"When television wants to put you on the air nationally it's an honor," said Grant. "That means you are a contending team or they wouldn't call."

"I'm sure it would be nice to play at 1 p.m. every Sunday but if you are a contending team you just have to bear the cross of unusual starting times. I'm not so sure Dallas has an advantage because we have to travel. The important thing was that we both played at home last Sunday. It (the travel) is not a major handicap."

Landry said "It's an honor to be asked. They don't ask you to play in games like this unless you have a good football team. I think we can recover from our tiredness from Sunday, but maybe our bruises won't heal as fast. I think we probably have a little advantage—I don't know how much because they have to travel."

Then he laughed "knowing Bud they probably won't be here until the last minute anyway."

Playing on the artificial turf of Texas Stadium was a bigger worry to Grant.

"Well, it's a distinct disadvantage to play on your (the Cowboys') field coming off grass," said Grant. "It's a handicap we find it difficult to adjust to. There is so much more traction. It's a faster, finer, more precision type of game. A Tony Dorsett type field."

Landry countered saying "All I know is that we've been on grass twice and lost."

The Cowboys were seven-point favorites for the nationally televised 7:30 p.m. CDT kickoff with a sellout crowd of 65,000 expected in the stands.

Dallas (6-2) had a chance to move a half-game ahead of Washington in the National Conference Eastern Division with a victory while the Vikings (4-4) were trying to stay close to Green Bay in the NFC Central.

The game marked the return to starting grace of Tony Dorsett, who regained the Cowboy No. 1 halfback job after he apologized to the team and Landry for oversleeping a workout last week. Landry had demoted Dorsett to second-string.

"The thing I was concerned about more than anything else was the players," said Dorsett. "I didn't want to start any dissonance within the team. I made an apology to the coach and to the players because I felt it was necessary. I made it perfectly clear it was unintentional and that I would do my best never to let it happen again."

Seattle Slew runs final race Nov. 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle Slew, the 1977 Triple Crown champion and Horse of the Year, will make the final start of his racing career Nov. 11 in the Stuyvesant Handicap at Aqueduct.

That announcement Wednesday was surprising because Slew had an opportunity to run in the more prestigious Washington, D.C. International Nov. 4 at Laurel, but his owners decided to bypass the 1½-mile race on grass, a surface on which the 4-year-old colt never has run.

"New York's been good to us and we'd rather go out in New York and retire him here," co-owner Mickey Taylor said.

Taylor said that after the 1½-mile Stuyvesant, Slew would go to stud Dec. 1 at Spendthrift Farms in Kentucky.

"It would be nice to run him another year as good as he is right now, but an agreement was made in the spring to retire him as a 5-year-old and that's what we're going to do," said Taylor.

Slew will become a 5-year-old Jan. 1, the official birthday of every race horse.

Golfers assault course

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP)

—The par-71 Waterwood Country Club took a beating Wednesday from golfers trying to earn a PGA tour card in a qualifying tournament, but University of Georgia player Chip Beck did the most damage, taking the first-round lead with a 67 that broke the course record by three strokes.

"I started off slow, but I just told myself that if I played each hole the best I could...then I'd be alright," Beck said. "You can't relax on this course, because you can lose your lead as quick as you got it."

Beck wasn't the only shooter to break Keith Fergus' old record of 70.

The mark also fell to the second and third place finishers, with Robert Donald of Athens, Ga., firing a 68 and former tour player Tom McGinnis of Sylvania, Ohio, recording a 69.

Pro tour cards will go to the top 25 finishers in the four-round tournament. The field will be cut to 90 players after today's second round.

A group of four golfers finished three back at 70 Wednesday. They were Tony Hollifield of North Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Dick Mast of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Vance Heafner of Gary, N.C.; and Jamie Edman of Susan, Calif.

Early blur cause of accidents

By J.D. Peer
Texas Parks & Wildlife

LUBBOCK — The lack of adequate identification or "early blur" prior to the shooter pulling the trigger can tempt the hunter into believing that he actually sees a deer when, in reality, it may be another hunter.

Recent studies by the U.S. military, various universities and clothing industries show that the best defense for a hunter, whether after deer or other game, is to wear outer clothing made from hunter blaze orange.

The hunter, hiker, angler or trapper who wears clothing of a color that merges into the brush and tree shadows or who is clad in garments of gray or brown is continually giving off deer clues. These clues — such as movement, noise or odor — are used by deer hunters as well as the deer to spot or identify an animal or man.

It is apparent from accident reports received and studied by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department hunter safety experts that "hunter judgment" accounts for a large percent of the accidents each year. Of the 36 hunting accidents reported to the P&WD since Jan. 1, 1978, 13 have been classified as hunter judgment. The victim moved into the line of fire, was covered by a shooter swinging on game, was out of sight of the shooter or was mistaken for game.

But many shooting accidents occur when experienced hunters who do not drink and are adept at identifying game shoot another hunter or person.

The human mind can be convinced that a deer is standing in the brush if the conditions such as shadows, light, sound or movement are inadequate for the hunter to identify the target.

This early blur condition can be corrected if the person in question is wearing outer clothing with a luminance factor of not less than 40 percent, a dominant wave length between 595 and 605 nanometers and an excitation purity of not less than 85 percent. This recommended color specifies the daylight fluorescent orange or hunter blaze orange which is required on the P&WD wildlife public hunting areas during the deer season and should be on the hunters list of required equipment.

Nature does not produce any object, plant or animal life with these color variations. Many hunters have not gone to the hunter blaze orange for fear of scaring the deer away, but tests have shown that deer do not distinguish different colors, only shades of gray.

Most experienced deer hunters realize that movement scares deer and, therefore, the majority of successful deer hunters are stationary or hidden when the bag their deer.

The P&WD suggests that all hunters, experienced and beginners, take a little more time in identifying their target before pulling the trigger, even if it might mean letting a buck deer slip away in the brush.

A member of the British Parliament once told his 13-year-old son on his first hunt, "All the pheasants ever bred won't repay for one man dead," and this remark should apply for all wildlife whether in Texas or other states.

QUAIL HUNTS
LUBBOCK — The two wildlife management areas maintained and operated by the P&WD in northwest Texas will open for their annual quail hunts Nov. 4-5.

The Matador WMA, located 11 miles northwest of Paducah in Cottle County, will be open for quail hunting Nov. 11-12, Dec. 2-3, 9-10 and 16-17, 1978, Jan. 6-7, 13-14, 20-21 and Feb. 3-4, 10-11 and 17-18, 1979. There will be no restrictions on the number of hunters during each hunting day.

The Gene Howe WMA, located east of Canadian in Hemphill County, will also be open to quail hunters on Dec. 9-10, Jan. 6-7 and 20-21, Feb. 3-4 and March 3-4. The number of hunters will be 30 per day, with no repeat hunters after the first day unless the daily quota of 30 is not filled.

Quail hunting on these two WMA's as well as the Black Gap, Chaparral and Engeling WMA is by permit issued at the check stations on the area.

To help defray the cost of conducting the hunt, a $5 fee will be charged for each hunter for each day hunted. Fees will be paid at the check stations when the hunters report. Hunters will also be required to check out at the stations when their hunt is ended.

Only persons 12 years of age or older will be allowed to hunt on any of the P&WD's WMA's. The under-17 participant must be accompanied by his parent or a person 21 years of age or older, who shall be responsible for the conduct of the minor. The "under-age" hunter must remain under the immediate supervision of his or her sponsor while hunting and will not under any circumstances be allowed to hunt alone.

An adult may sponsor only one young hunter and failure to supervise the minor will be cause for forfeiture of both permits.

Bobwhite quail populations on both area are reported to be good. Blue quail populations on the Matador WMA is also good.

More information on these WMA's or other areas across Texas are available by calling toll-free 1-800-252-9327. For specific information, call Vernon Morse at the Gene Howe WMA, 806-323-6074 or Charles Boyd at the Matador WMA, 806-492-3405.

DEER POPULATIONS are good in most areas, with the Panhandle region's season opening Nov. 18 and continuing through Dec. 3. The South Plains region and most of the remainder of the state will open Nov. 18 and continue through Jan. 1, but white-tailed deer season will be closed in 19 Panhandle and South Plains counties and mule deer season will be closed in 14 of these same regional counties. Hunters must check county regulations in the P&WD hunting guide prior to the hunt.

Ohio hunters to go after deer with primitive arms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For an old-fashioned Mountain Man type rendezvous the primitive weapons deer hunter can't go wrong by heading for Shawnee State Forest in southern Ohio.

Ohio's special primitive weapons bucks-only season kicks off for six days on Oct. 30. This will be the third year the bow and muzzleloader-only hunt has been held at Shawnee. The hunt is also held at the Salt Fork and Wolf Creek wildlife areas. But it's at Shawnee that the hunter is likely to find the least pressure.

It's 60,000-plus rugged acres in Scioto County. And one of the reasons why it's a good place to hunt is its very ruggedness. What it amounts to is this: Most deer hunters don't want to tangle with it. And that being the case, there's very little pressure on the sizeable whitetail herd.

But this year, the Daniel Boone Muzzleloading Club is trying to do something about the fact that the forest is underhunted.

On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 28-29, the club will host an old-fashioned rendezvous with shooting matches, fire starting contests, knife and tomahawk throwing competition — the works.

Competitors can take all day to finish up the events and between times they can meet other buckskinners, trade gear, work on their equipment, enjoy an old-fashioned cornbread and beans dinner, relax.

There's free camping on the club grounds for the entire hunt and at the Bear Lake Horseman's camp. There are no electrical hookups or showers on the club grounds or at the Bear Lake site. More camping is available at Shawnee State Park, with both electricity and showers. There is a charge for campsites at the park.

"The deer population really looks good," said Stan Richards, Shawnee State Forest Supervisor and an officer in the club. "There's quite a bit of sign."

The deer in Shawnee have to range a lot farther for their food than do the whitetails at either Wolf Creek or Salt Fork where there is plenty of cropland, Richards said.

The main reason Shawnee was added to the special season was to take some of the pressure off Salt Fork and Wolf Creek.

The special season has proved extremely popular and many states run similar hunts as muzzleloader shooting becomes more widespread.

Lots of hunters (at Shawnee) get discouraged easily," Richards says. "From what I've noticed, most of the guys who come down here aren't acclimated to this kind of hunting." Many are used to just going about 100 yards off the road to do their hunting and that won't work at Shawnee, Richards added.

But through Ducks Unlimited's efforts, over $70 million has been raised in the United States since the organization's inception. And 80 cents out of every one of those dollars has been sent to DU (Canada) to reserve some 2.6 million acres of prime habitat, encompassing over 1,400 wetland projects.

The only problem in all this is that biologists estimate millions of additional acres of habitat must be reserved in order to stabilize North America's waterfowl population.

When you consider that habitat today is diminishing due to agricultural and developmental pressures, and that DU is the only nonprofit conservation organization involved in the Canadian waterfowl habitat race, you can begin to see the significance attached to the fund-raising event.

Tickets for the banquet are $20 for individuals and $27.50 per couple and include a one-year DU membership and a subscription to the organization's magazine.

Interested persons can call Holt or Ken Fields at 669-6851 for tickets and further details.

The Top O' Texas chapter of Ducks Unlimited will hold its annual banquet Nov. 9 at the Coronado Inn in Pampa. Chapter Chairman David Holt feels the fund-raising function, scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., should be marked on the calendar by anyone interested in the future of North America's waterfowl.

"The Ducks Unlimited success story is really starting to spread around," according to Holt. "Banquets much like our chapter event held throughout the country last year contributed toward Ducks Unlimited national fund-raising effort which raised $13 million during 1977. But what's even more important to realize is that this national total must increase this year if the North American waterfowl habitat race is to be won."

D U's sportsmen-conservationists founders discovered through surveys conducted forty years ago that 70 percent of North America's waterfowl production occurs in Canada.

They figured out back in 1937 what holds true today. Since Federal duck stamp dollars cannot be spent beyond U.S. borders, sportsmen funds earmarked for waterfowl conservation are not getting to the places where the great percentage of production takes place.

Oiler fans jubilant

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips says Oiler fans appreciate good football and he does too. "But I don't know if I'd go out to the airport at 4 a.m. to show it," Phillips said, rehashing the Oilers' 24-17 victory over Pittsburgh.

Phillips referred to a chanting throng of about 400 fans who met the Oiler plane early Tuesday at Houston International Airport following their nationally televised performance against the previously unbeaten Steelers.

Monday night football fans also apparently appreciated the Oilers performance. It was Houston's first victory in four appearances in the Monday night game and marked Pittsburgh's first loss in five appearances.

The game also was important to the Oilers from a building standpoint.

"Our victory over Cincinnati in the last game last year helped stabilize this team," Phillips said. "And this is another game just like that."

"This was a must game for us. We had to say 'Okay, let's see what we can do' and then we went out and did it. We met the challenge and that makes us a better football team."

Pittsburgh dropped to a 7-1 record and the Oilers improved their chances of making the playoffs by boosting their record to 5-3.

"The pressure was all on us and we played as well as we could play," Phillips said. "We had some errors but when you win a game, all the errors are forgotten."

The Oilers also ended Pittsburgh's string of 11 consecutive home victories against American Football Conference Central Division opponents.

The Oilers now have traveled from a season opening loss to Atlanta 20-14 in an uninspired performance, to playing well in a 21-17 loss to Oakland, to playing excellent against the Steelers.

"We did some good things at Oakland too but we lost the game," Phillips said. "I didn't feel like Pittsburgh was going to beat us and I didn't think Oakland would either."

The Oilers now must prepare for another road game Sunday against the winless Cincinnati Bengals and Phillips doesn't expect a letdown.

"We're going to prepare for this game just like we did for Pittsburgh," Phillips said. "You have to do it that way. Cincinnati has as much talent as anybody in this league. They are a time bomb and they're going to explode on somebody."

A Canadian harness horse, Fresh Yankee, raced in the Roosevelt International Trot six times and won the event once, in 1970.

More than just a convenience store.

Pope looks at Lebanon

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II and President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France discussed a wide range of "burning world issues" today, including ways and means to bring about "peace in a unified Lebanon."

The French president, who was received for 45 minutes in the pontiff's first working audience for a chief of state, said he had discussed the wide range of subjects with the pontiff, including prospects for peace in war-torn Lebanon.

During a brief visit after the audience to the Basilica of St. John the Lateran, where French chiefs of state have been honorary canons since King Henry IV, Giscard d'Estaing said he agreed with the pope that "there is a great renewal of spirituality in the world at the moment."

"I was deeply moved by the bearing personality of John Paul II," Giscard d'Estaing added. "We also discussed and agreed on the universality of the faith and that each person is free to accede to the spirituality of his own faith."

The pontiff's predecessor — John Paul I

— reportedly had planned to make a trip to Lebanon to underscore his personal commitment to the settlement of the internal strife.

The Sacred College of Cardinals, which ran the affairs of the church during the interregnum between John Paul I's death Sept. 28 and John Paul II's election Oct. 16, twice appealed for peace in Lebanon. The church recently received a plea from Lebanese Christians seeking the church's help in putting an end to the internal strife.

In his first papal speech on Oct. 17, John Paul II indicated that he would pay prompt attention to the Lebanese question. He spoke of the "grave" problem in "the beloved land of Lebanon and its people who earnestly desire peace and liberty."

Last year, Giscard d'Estaing proposed sending French troops to Lebanon to act as a peacekeeping force in much the same way U.S. Marines intervened in the Moslem-Christian fighting in the 1950s.

French officials said at that time that they were willing to accept this responsibility in view of the long-standing ties between France and Lebanon, which go back not only to French colonial rule but to the Crusades.

The plan was welcomed by Lebanese Christian leader Pierre Gemayel and others but was vehemently opposed by the Moslem community and died quietly.

Some 37,000 persons died in the 1975-76 Lebanese civil war between the Christians and an alliance of Moslems and Palestinians. The Syrians ended the fighting 23 months ago, saved the Christians from defeat and prevented establishment of a radical regime on Syria's doorstep.

But the Israeli-backed Christian militias refused Syrian orders to disarm in February because the Moslems and Palestinians weren't told to give up their guns, and the Syrians began cracking down on Christian enclaves.

Eight months of clashes followed, culminating in a furious, 10-day bout in Beirut that left some 1,300 dead. The Beirut fighting tapered off after a cease-fire Oct. 7, but sporadic gunfire and shelling continue on a daily basis.

Vance to go another round

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter plans to send Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance to Geneva next month for another round of strategic weapons limitation talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, according to U.S. sources.

The idea is to try to complete a treaty and have it signed at a summit meeting by Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev before the end of the year.

The treaty would limit each country to a total of 2,250 strategic bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles. Soon after completion, U.S. and Soviet negotiators would go to work on a follow-up treaty with further cutbacks.

After the last round of talks, in Moscow earlier this week, a number of key issues remain unsettled. They include the range limitations to be placed on land-and sea-launched U.S. cruise missiles and the details for restricting new weapons on both sides.

Still, U.S. officials say they have not lost hope of completing the treaty by Christmas.

Vance's meeting with Gromyko will mark their ninth round of weapons talks in less than two years. Overall, the Americans and the Soviets have been working on a treaty for six years.

On Wednesday, the Soviet newspaper

Izvestia said "definite circles" in the United States that cling to cold war attitudes are trying to impede the arms limitation talks.

The article also accused the unnamed groups of "artificially" tying up the negotiations with other questions of Soviet-American relations.

The Izvestia article noted some progress was made at the latest round "a relatively small number of questions...still remain outstanding."

It said use of the word "constructive" by both sides to characterize the talks "means that the stands on issues under discussion have further become closer."

Help your son get ahead.

This boy knows that courtesy is good business.

Newspaper route management can be a boy's first step forward

A BOY with a newspaper route truly is in business for himself. With an assist from our people who are experienced in working with boys.

He buys his newspapers from us and retains them to you.

He sells, he delivers, and he collects. Like any good businessman, he keeps records (you can see how valuable this is in applying the lessons he learns in the classroom in a practical way).

And like any good businessman, he shows a profit. A boy with a newspaper route earns money that can help him build a sizable bank account of his own. Useful for the things he wants. Even for a college education.

Not only does a newspaper route sharpen a young boy's business sense (which will be helpful to him throughout life no matter what career he chooses). It also offers him some important extras — the ability to deal with people, and the lessons of promptness, of care, of self-reliance, and of good manners.

In these ways, a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life.

If your son wants to handle a route, put him in touch with us. One may be available for him in your neighborhood. It will be an unusual opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

Vietnam sends in reinforcements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam has sent 10,000 to 15,000 reinforcements to its army facing Cambodia amid expectations of intensified fighting within the next few weeks, U.S. intelligence sources say.

These sources, who declined to be named, estimated that Vietnam now has about 100,000 fighting men in position to push deeper into Cambodia if Hanoi decides on such a move. The reinforcements are said to have arrived in southern Vietnam from the north within the last month.

The Vietnamese are reportedly in effective control of an irregular strip of territory on the Cambodian side of the border. However, most of their units are deployed in five Vietnamese provinces within striking distance of Cambodia, the sources said.

Fighting between the two one-time Communist allies — it began after their Indochinese victories of 1975 — has slowed during the rainy season, but U.S. intelligence sources say the Vietnamese have been conducting battalion-sized sweeps while Cambodian troops have staged small hit-and-run attacks into Vietnam.

Task of National Commission on Neighborhoods Carter to receive bad report

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The task of the National Commission on Neighborhoods, which submits an almost certain to be controversial report to President Carter in January, is necessary perhaps but certainly not enviable.

It must determine how the nation's largest political unit, the federal government, can deal directly with the smallest, a neighborhood, without in the process damaging relations with mayors and others.

It must seek ways in which a cumbersome federal bureaucracy can help inspire development of a neighborhood's resources, skills, vision and creativity, without intruding upon and destroying its spontaneity.

The delicacy of the latter task has been compared to pushing a tricycle with a bulldozer, and the former with stepping on the paw of a lion and then patting the enraged beast in an effort to make it smile.

Joseph Timilty, chairman, knew from the beginning that he faced a challenge, including molding a report from the views of 20 ethnically, racially, geographically and politically diverse members.

But the White House wanted action because of the suspicion that federal urban programs might be helping to build impressive municipal skylines and beautiful suburbs that merely hid the scars.

Inner city residents, for example, complained that federal funds went for downtown business development instead of community projects, and that other money, such as for roads, speeded the exodus to suburbs.

Timilty, an attorney, university instructor and Massachusetts state senator, believes that "government is more help when it supports what the neighborhood wants to do rather than imposes programs on it."

And what the neighborhoods seem to want includes locally owned businesses, home ownership, strong local institutions and, as the commission has stated, "a place where the scale is human."

On inspection trips throughout the country, the committee — which includes community activists, mortgage lenders and four members of Congress — has found pockets of energy, imagination and vitality alive.

But members wrote in their interim report that people in every city told us they are sick of centralized, alienating institutions that respond to human needs in remote, bureaucratic fashion.

They saw "neighborhoods turned over wholesale to a developer, with needless displacement of hundreds of families," and "miles of public housing where the design obliterates the possibility of community."

They frequently found individual initiative buried by red tape and by difficulties in obtaining insurance or home mortgages, and simply dying or lying unattended because of the neglect and ignorance of officials.

Jimmy's White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amy Carter has coined a new name for folks 10, 11 and 12 years old. Her father isn't very happy with it.

In fact, says the president, the phrase — a reminder of the difficulty of controlling inflation — is forbidden at the White House these days.

It all came up when Amy celebrated her 11th birthday a week ago. Carter related the tale a few days later at a political rally in Minneapolis.

John Travolta, star of the movies "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease," was the guest of honor at a private birthday supper for Amy and a few friends.

It seems that Amy wanted to see the two movies but her parents decided she wasn't old enough.

"Well, Daddy, I would like to remind you that I am a pre-teen-ager," the youngster said, according to her father, prompting him to reply:

"Amy, you have been a pre-teen-ager for a long time, ever since you were born."

"Yes, but I am a double-digit pre-teen-ager," Carter said his daughter answered.

That prompted the president to remind his audience that "we don't let people use double digits around the White House anymore until we get inflation under control."

Unlike some public speakers,

Carter rarely appears to have any trouble keeping the length of his speeches under control.

When the White House releases a text of a speech in advance of its delivery, it rarely runs fewer than five pages or more than seven. That means, invariably, that the speech will take just about 20 minutes, give-or-take a minute, to deliver.

But when the president gives a speech without the benefit of a prepared text, the address still lasts about 20 minutes. Sometimes 18 minutes. Rarely more than 22 minutes. And you won't catch him looking down at his watch.

Now it can be told how the president manages this feat of timing.

Almost all of his speeches are delivered from a heavy, modern, bullet-proof lectern. The White House Communications Agency owns 12 of them and transports them around the country for presidential speeches.

A small digital clock is built into the upper right-hand corner, visible only to the speaker. As the president begins a speech, he can push a small button that starts the clock running. It ticks away each second and minute and as it approaches 20:00, he can wind up the talk.

Gap Planked

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The visit by the Portuguese tall ship Sagres II drew two bands, several local dignitaries, the Canadian Navy and a cheering crowd.

The Portuguese sailors would visit Vancouver, and the British Columbians would step aboard ship.

But there was no proper dock for a tall sailing ship, and a makeshift arrangement with two barges and gangplanks didn't work — there was a 15-foot gap.

Two hours passed, and one band and many well-wishers departed before longer gangplanks arrived.

Twenty volunteers pitched in, and the sailors stepped ashore. Then some 10,000 locals checked out the ship.

Foreign briefs

READING, England (AP) — An American who impersonated a U.S. Army major and tried to smuggle 128 pounds of marijuana into Britain has been sentenced to six years in prison.

Charles Stone, 37, who gave his address only as Michigan, was convicted Tuesday in Reading Crown Court. Customs officials called him "somewhat of an adventurer" and said they weren't even sure his name is Stone.

Prosecutor Jeremy Compertz said the fake major was stopped by real customs officers at London's Heathrow Airport June 29 and he told them he was on "army movement orders." But the officers noted he had arrived from West Germany, while his suitcase was shipped from India, and when they opened it, they found the marijuana.

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A chlorine shortage because of a strike at a chemical plant has left a Lisbon suburb with untreated water, and police broadcast warnings to residents to start the kettles boiling.

Almada, hit Tuesday, was the first town to be affected by the 3-week-old strike at the Soda Povoia plant, where 1,000 workers are striking for higher wages. The company supplies more than 90 percent of the chlorine used in Portugal.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada plans to admit 100,000 immigrants next year, Immigration Minister Bud Cullen has announced.

He said Tuesday that the figure is slightly higher than the number of immigrants to be accepted this year but gave no figure.

Under the Immigration Act that took effect in April, the government outlines its annual immigration plan. Cullen said the 100,000 figure is not a quota or ceiling but a "target level" to ensure smooth planning.

LONDON (AP) — Owners of the grounded Greek oil tanker Christos Bitas say the vessel will be sunk because examinations have shown it is beyond repair.

The ship ran aground Oct. 12 off Milford Haven, Wales, spilling an estimated million gallons of crude oil into the Irish Sea and fouling a 100-mile stretch of the Welsh coast. Pumping of the remaining 9.6 million gallons into the British tanker British Dragoon was completed Sunday.

Zephyr Shipping Corp. of Piraeus, Greece, owner of the tanker, said the ship will be towed to a deep-water site and sunk.
