Dollar climbs higher on marts

LONDON (AP) — The dollar climbed higher on European money markets today and volume was heavy following President Carter's plan to bail out the beleaguered currency. The president got high marks from some but drew rebukes from others for not acting sooner.

The dollar gained dramatically against every major European currency and jumped more than 4 percent over the Japanese yen in Tokyo to close at 186.025 yen, compared to 178.80 Wednesday.

Here were early dollar rates in Europe, compared with Wednesday:

Frankfurt—1.8680 West German marks, up from 1.8450 marks.

Zurich—1.6025 Swiss francs, up from 1.57 francs.

Paris—4.2450 French francs, up from 3.90 francs late Tuesday. Markets were closed Wednesday for All Saints' day.

Milan—815.50 Italian lire, up from 790 lire late Tuesday. Italian markets also were closed Wednesday for the national holiday.

Amsterdam—2.0220 Dutch guilders, up from 1.9950 guilders.

"Although a rise of the dollar was expected, dealers are a bit shocked by the extent and rapidity of its improvement," said a Milan broker.

In London, one dealer said he was "too swamped" to comment on the dollar's gains. Rates were fluctuating rapidly, with a mid-morning level of about $1.9860 to the pound, compared with $2.01 Wednesday.

Gold prices, which fell $17.25 in London

Wednesday to close at $225 an ounce, opened at $219.50 but recovered to a middling $222.875 in mid-morning trading.

In Zurich early trading pegged gold at $219 an ounce, down from $234.75 Wednesday, which in turn was drastically lower than Tuesday's closing price of $243.875.

The French newspaper Le Figaro said Carter's moves stopped "the wind of panic" which it said he himself unleashed by presenting the administration's anti-inflation program. "It was about time, as the situation was beginning to get out of hand," the paper added.

One banker in Tokyo cautioned that America's trade deficit, inflation and reliance on foreign energy supplies must improve in the next three months or the dollar will return to a downward trend.

The Bank of Tokyo's chief dollar-watcher, Iwao Takesada, said, "The big question is whether the U.S. government will take fundamental measures to improve its balance of payments position."

But Japan's Finance Ministry and the Bank of Japan said, "We are sure that joint intervention by the Japanese, U.S. and other governments in the foreign exchange market will help stabilize the international monetary situation."

The strengthening of the dollar means more buying power for American tourists and Americans working abroad who are paid in dollars. Savings in theater tickets, restaurant meals and apartment rents, among other things, are certain to follow.

A Common Market official in Brussels who declined to be identified remarked, "We've been saying for a long time that there was no relation between the dollar's recent very low value and the real state of the U.S. economy, which is still basically sound."

Administration braces for news on inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dollar continued to rebound strongly on world markets today in response to President Carter's crash program to stem its rapid loss of value overseas. But even as the administration took heart from the foreign response, it braced for more bad news about inflation at home.

Indications were that October's wholesale price figures, due out later in the day, would be up sharply for the second straight month. Wholesale price increases normally are reflected later at the retail level.

In Tokyo meanwhile, the dollar, which closed at 178.80 yen Wednesday, soared to 188 at the opening of the foreign exchange market, then slipped to close at 186.025 on the first day of trading there since Carter's announcement.

The dollar had started edging up on the Tokyo market before Carter's announcement Wednesday, apparently in anticipation of what he would say.

And in Europe, the dollar continued the dramatic gains started Wednesday soon after Carter's announcement and gold bullion prices fell as demand for dollars rose.

In London, rates fluctuated rapidly, but the mid-morning level was about $1.9860 to the pound, compared to Wednesday's close of $2.01. London gold prices, which closed at $225 an ounce Wednesday, opened today at $219.50, but were back up to $222.875 by mid-morning.

Early dollar rates today on other European markets showed similar gains.

The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday that prices farmers get for their products rose 1 percent in October — an annual rate of 12 percent. And economists at Georgia State University predicted overall wholesale figures for October would at least equal the September rise of 0.9 percent, which translates to an annual rate of more than 10 percent.

The October wholesale figures were determined mostly before Carter announced his anti-inflation program last week. Moreover, administration officials have said it is likely to be six months to a year before the anti-inflation moves begin having any noticeable effect on government statistics.

In New York, the initial stock market response to Carter's program to shore up the failing dollar was to surge forward in heavy trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average jumped a record 35.34 points Wednesday, closing at 827.78.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal acknowledged that some of the steps taken Wednesday by the Carter administration will drive up interest rates for businesses and, eventually, consumers.

But noting Wednesday's stock market response, Blumenthal predicted that the 1 percent increase in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate — the largest single boost since 1933 — and related steps to tighten the money supply will give business leaders renewed confidence in the administration's determination to stem inflation and thus spur them to new investment.

He said the sharp boost in interest rates will "lead to less inflation in the longer run than these constant step-by-step little increases, which did not seem to have any real impact."

John Connally addresses group

By KATHY BURR
Pampa News Staff

Approximately 100 Pampa residents attended a fund raising dinner for Senator John Tower Wednesday night in Amarillo, as he made his last campaign swing through the Panhandle.

Guest speaker at the event was former Governor John B. Connally, who is campaigning for Tower for the Nov. 7 election.

Prior to the dinner Connally had a press conference in which he talked about his plans for the 1980 election.

"I have no political plans. This isn't the time to think about 1980," Connally said.

"I'm interested in the presidency... I may seek it and I may not."

Connally advised President Carter against mandatory wage and price controls. He said they were appealing when many were plagued with fears of inflation, but the justices of control became overpowered.

When speaking of Towers' election Connally "It would be nothing short of a tragedy if Tower is defeated."

"A vote against Tower would be a vote for Carter."

Connally also spoke of the farmers situation "If they want to maintain freedom, they shouldn't insist on 100 percent parity."

Connally stated the solution to the farmers problem is the international market.

Connally said there is currently an unwise use of natural resources.

"When our oil and gas run out will the northern states have to sell coal to the south?"

During the press conference Connally also spoke of reductions of federal spending.

Connally said the President has to "keep after federal spending". He must make a determined effort to decrease federal spending.

There are two things that need to be done, Connally said.

"We must work quickly to balance the budget."

The second item is to "show ourselves that we will adopt policies to create a lasting effect."

During his address Connally spoke on the subject of wage and price controls.

"In one sense it was being used as a protective device."

"Congress by legislation would use wage and price controls. The real force was to try to provide a stabilizing element in what might be a volatile atmosphere."

Following Connally's address Tower said he had seen a surge of support in his campaign and believed, "properly informed Texans will make the right decisions."

"They will see the distinction between the things I stand for and those for which my opponent will not speak on."

"I intend to use the power of this office to promote Texas ideals and visions to the people of the United States."

Election school set for tonight

An election school is scheduled tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom of the Gray County Courthouse, according to Wanda Carter, county clerk. Bill Hunter from the secretary of state's office will conduct the class which covers all changes in election procedure and any should be continued cool with a chance of rain on Friday. Today's high should be in the 70s with the low tonight in the 40s and the high on Friday in the mid 60s. The winds will be out of the south-southwest at 10-15 miles per hour today decreasing to 5-10 miles per hour tonight.

Gray brothes to receive sentence

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Don and Clarence Gray were to appear in federal court today to be sentenced for their convictions on charges of misuse of federal manpower training funds. The Gray brothers, of Harlingen, were named in eight federal indictments. Don Gray, 47, is business manager of the Harlingen based Plumbers and Pipefitters Local 823. He pledged guilty to the first count of four indictments. Clarence Gray, 34, ran a trade school affiliated with the union. He pleaded guilty to the first count of three indictments.

In return for the guilty pleas, prosecutors agreed to drop other charges. Maximum penalty in the cases is five years in prison and $10,000 for each count.

Schools to close Friday

Pampa schools will be closed Friday to give teachers in the school system a chance to attend District 16 Day in Amarillo.

Teachers are not required to attend the workshop, but those who want to may. The day will be considered a vacation for students in the school system.

Vance, Begin to tackle talk problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin meets Secretary of State Cyrus Vance today, but President Carter, campaigning in New York, will not join the pair as they tackle issues holding up an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, who flew here from Washington on Wednesday, said talks with State Department officials produced "relatively good progress" toward a peace treaty, but stressed the importance of the Vance-Begin session.

"Many points we do not have a mandate to agree upon or even to discuss will come up between" the two, he said.

The session, to be held in Begin's Regency Hotel suite on Park Avenue, also will deal with U.S. aid to Israel.

State Department press officer George Sherman said Wednesday that U.S. aid is not "a condition to concluding the treaty," except for a U.S. commitment to finance two new airfields in Israel to replace Sinai facilities given up in the proposed peace pact.

Begin will receive the New York City Council of Churches' "Family of Man" award tonight. His trip will also take him to Los Angeles for a speaking engagement and a week-long visit to Canada.

He joined the White House on Wednesday in downplaying reported hard feelings between him and Carter.

"We've had very cordial exchanges in the last few days," he said.

A White House spokesman said Carter is not seeing the prime minister because "Mr.

Begin has not requested a meeting."

Carter, beginning his final round of campaigning for local candidates in next week's election, is visiting New York today to attend "Get-Out-The-Vote" rallies.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell disputed reports that Carter refused to meet Begin or is snubbing him because he is angry over Israel's plans to expand its West Bank settlements.

The West Bank issue is said to be among the principal items holding up an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty, and a State Department spokesman said.

Besides the thorny West Bank issue, Egypt and Israel reportedly have yet to decide whether to exchange ambassadors or lower-level ministers once the treaty is signed.

Wholesale prices rise for second straight month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose 0.9 percent in October for the second straight month, a sign that inflation may worsen. Labor Department figures showed today.

The department's report showed that the price of food, before it reached the grocery store, rose 1.7 percent for the second straight month after declining during the summer.

Even worse, the report showed prices rising at some of the fastest rates of the year at the early stages of production.

The wholesale price figures give consumers an early indication of what to expect in coming months. Many of the costs eventually are passed on to retail shoppers.

The inflation rate for the year has been nearly 10 percent, but the government had been counting on prices to ease by the end of 1978. The October increase, if averaged out over an entire year, would be about 11 percent.

President Carter is trying to convince unions and businesses that his new wage-price guidelines will eventually steady most prices.

In October, prices of products sold at farms and mines jumped 3 percent, the second biggest rise of the year. At the intermediate stage of production they rose 1.2 percent, the biggest increase in four years.

Some of the biggest increases were in food, but other products were rising in price as well.

Wholesale prices rose sharply for gasoline, home heating oil, tires, soap, detergents, leather shoes, clothes and beverages. Prices were up for kitchen utensils, jewelry and mobile homes.

Prices rose in October for most finished consumer foods, including pork, fish, beef, veal, fruit, cocoa, rice, eggs, sugar, vegetables and dairy products.

Prices declined for processed poultry, fresh and dried vegetables and candy.

Prices paid by auto dealers declined in October. However, the report said, "automobile producers had raised prices across the board this past spring and therefore did not increase prices of new models as much as they would have under the former pricing policy. Over the year, passenger car prices were up 6.2 percent."

Most of the wholesale prices are measured by the Producer Price Index, which is the cost of products just before they reach the consumer. The index stood at 199.7 in October, meaning products costing $100 in the 1967 base period now cost $199.70.

Wholesale prices last month were 8.6 percent higher than in October 1977. The figures are adjusted to account for seasonal variations.

Consumers usually notice changes in wholesale prices within a few months as those gains make their way to the retail level. In September, reflecting earlier wholesale price increases, retail prices rose an average 0.8 percent.

While the Teamsters and United Auto Workers unions have backed the president's plan of limiting inflation through voluntary wage-price guidelines, AFL-CIO President George Meany strongly opposes the program.

There is no guarantee, Meany said, that prices will moderate if wages are kept down. He called the president's approach "unfair and inequitable."

Yet Carter said Wednesday

he believes "the working people" will support his approach in place of the mandatory wage and price controls Meany wants.

"I believe there will be growing cooperation... from the working people of our nation, and also of course the organized labor movement itself," he said.

Speaking via telephone to an anti-inflation forum in St.

Louis, Carter said he was not surprised by Meany's statement.

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the president's Council on Wage and Price Stability, told the forum it will take nine months for consumers to see results from the program.

"I'm convinced the president's program will work," Kahn said.

TWO NEW ATTORNEYS were sworn in by 223rd District Judge Don Cain Wednesday. Richard Harris, attorney for Martindale and Martindale, and Vanessa Buzzard, attorney for Buzzard, Comer and Buzzard, were given the oath of office and given authority to practice law in the state. Buzzard is believed to be the first woman to practice law in Gray County, according to Cain. (Pampa News Staff photo by Carla Baranuckas)

How not to fight inflation

The "tired, true, discredited" approach to curbing inflation by restraining demand is the one now being used. Lawrence A. Kudlow, vice president and economist for Paine - Webber, told a group of analysts recently.

He said the Federal Reserve Board is tightening interest rates to discourage people from buying or demanding goods and services. "The second way to curb inflation is to increase supply. That technique hasn't been used for 35 to 40 years. The effect of too much supply is a decline in prices."

As an example, Kudlow cited an imaginary United Hubcap Co., "a manufacturer with a steady 10 percent rate of return after taxes. Add to that picture, an investor who wants to invest and is satisfied with a 10 percent rate of return. Everything looks good until the government decides to place a surcharge or price controls on the excess profits of the manufacturer.

"United Hubcap can't raise prices to meet demand. Its rate of return declines. There is a disincentive for the investor to invest. Without the investment, obsolete equipment cannot be replaced. Production declines and supplies contract. The money supply continues to increase and inflation is the result," Kudlow said.

That's the syndrome the United States is suffering from today. Kudlow said, maintaining, "We are now firmly on the road to wage and price controls."

Kudlow predicts no real growth in production, a 9 to 10 percent inflation rate and higher unemployment for the last half of 1979. He said that incentives must be increased to reverse the trend. He advocates passage of the Kemp - Roth tax cut bill on the grounds that it will shrink the government deficit, provide incentives and increase goods. With this, the rate of inflation will drop.

We do not believe that this one measure will be a cure - all for our economic ills. It probably will be a start in the right direction, if it is not watered down by many amendments.

Sponsors and advocates of this bill should view it as a beginning and follow through with everything at their command. They should see to it that the national debt is reduced, that fiscal responsibility is not sidetracked for political expediency and that much is done to give this nation a sound dollar.

All that is a big bill of goods and we would be overly optimistic to think that much of it will take place in the near future. But, we would like to see a few honest goals set so that their progress can be monitored and enhanced by an awakened citizenry.

Ruining promise of solar energy

By PETR BECKMAN
(Access to Energy)

The basic fact about solar energy is that it comes in at the dilute rate of only 1 kW-m<sup>2</sup> — on a cloudless day. The idea that American industry or agriculture could be run on solar energy only is a cruel hoax not worth another line of print.

Yet solar energy does have great possibilities: in particular, solar energy could make a major contribution to space heating in homes, offices and industrial enterprises.

But solar energy is being killed by its alleged friends: by Nader, Lovins, Brower and every other anti-energy demagogue in the country.

For one thing, they turn to government to coerce people into solar power. What type of energy is best is not to be decided by the consumer and the free market, but by the wise men who know what is good for you. They know how best to deliver the mail, how best to run the railroads, how best to balance the federal budget, and now they will show you all about solar energy.

What the professional bureaucrats leave standing, the politicians will demolish. Although solar energy costs more than would follow from Lovins' coolly concocted figures, it is getting cheaper, and would continue to do so if the politicians did not step in to give a tax break here and cripple something there, subsidize here, confiscate there, forbid a little here and make the rest compulsory. The solar engineer who understands physics is already being driven out by the operator who understands Washington.

Finally, and perhaps most damagingly, solar power may well be crippled for decades when people find out that what Jerry Brown and Amory Lovins told them was shameful political demagoguery. Even such great statesmen as Lola Redford and Jane Fonda are powerless against simple physics; and when all the power plants, mines and refineries have been done in, they will not be able to deliver the needed energy with their forward-looking and consciousness-raising windmills.

There was once a time when ecology was not a faddish cult, but a respectable scientific discipline; and when environmentalists were interested in the environment, not in social revolution. There were solar advocates and solar experts, too. They were interested in the sun as a source of energy, not as a source of easy income ripped off the taxpayer.

Foremost among them have been the Meinelns, husband and wife, doctors of astronomy at the University of Arizona. They have been studying solar energy since the 1940s; they had collectors going at a time when Lovins could not tell the sun from the moon or from his diapers. Overselling solar now, the Meinelns warn, could create a backlash from a disillusioned public in several years. It is not yet time, they say, to take solar and let it damage other options such as nuclear and coal.

Everything will be solar in 30 years, gushes Nader. In 50, anyway, adds Lovins. 50 percent solar by the end of the century, opines Denis Hayes, recently knighted at the court of James Schlesinger (DoE's first award for "exceptional public service"! ) All of these brilliant scholars are rudely contradicted by Dr. Michael Noland, deputy director of DoE's Solar Energy research Institute: "We can and should be very proud as a nation if solar power provides 7 to 10 percent of our energy by the beginning of the 21st century."

And then there are the entrepreneurs and technicians who built solar houses for their merits long before they were built to land a contract out of the DoE's bulging solar budget. One of them is Steve Baer, founder of Zomeworks, Inc., in New Mexico, inventor of the solar Drumwall and the Skyild. Is he being showered with favors from Washington's sunshippers now? Here is what he says in Solar Age:

"We can't compete with the National Center of Appropriate Technology in any way. They've got your money and my money... They can afford to pay double the salary that small business can. I don't think that's right. I don't think that's a good way to run the country."

There are, in short, two ways to obtain solar energy. One is from the government. The other is from the sun.

Under the able guidance of Jimmy Carter and Lola Redford, the sun is losing out.

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) - Imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery, but there are times when the compliment is a little hard to take.
Consider, for example, what has been happening to the Grand Old Party this year on the twin issues of inflation and taxes.
For most of the last decade, Republicans

Dems accept 'indexing'

on Capitol Hill and elsewhere have been vigorously denouncing both inflation and high taxes, only to see their warnings ignored by the public and their programs ignominiously defeated by the majority Democrats.

Now that the voters have finally aroused, who do you suppose is reaping the benefit? The Democrats, that's who, and they are doing so in large part by shamelessly plagiarizing great chunks of heretofore Republican economic doctrine.

The tax bill now nearing enactment in Congress could easily have been written by an all-Republican cast, but even it pales in comparison to recommendations contained in a forthcoming report of the Joint Economic Committee.

The JEC is comprised of 12 Democrats and 8 Republicans, drawn equally from the House and Senate. Although it has no legislative jurisdiction, its economic analyses carry considerable weight with Congress as a whole.

And the JEC, with the approval of its Democratic majority is about to come out in favor of inflation-proofing the tax system by, of all things, indexing.

There is nothing intellectually disgraceful about indexing. On the whole, it is an eminently sensible notion that should have been incorporated into the tax structure years ago. But until now, it has been the private preserve of the Republican Party, scorned and feared by Democrats, especially liberals.

The details of indexing sound complicated to a layman, but the results are simple enough. With an indexed tax system, wage-earners, businessmen, investors and small savers would pay income or capital gains taxes only on real increases — not nominal gains due solely to inflation.

Under the current system, a worker who wins an 8 percent pay increase this year will see his entire wage gain wiped out by inflation. But he may nonetheless wind up paying more in income taxes because his nominal increase has shoved him into a higher tax bracket. A saver earning 6 percent interest on a passbook savings account will actually lose ground, because inflation will eat away his entire gain and then some, yet he will have to pay taxes on the interest he earns — adding insult to injury.

Indexing, as outlined in the soon-to-be-published JEC report, would eliminate such distortions and inequities by widening brackets limits, exemptions, standard deductions and tax credits at a rate equal to the rise in the Consumer Price Index the preceding year. A wage-earner would then pay higher taxes only on the portion of his pay increase which exceeded the inflation rate.

One reason liberals have opposed indexing in the past is that the federal government receives an inflation dividend under the existing system, with revenues rising faster than real growth in the economy.

But Congress never lets the dividend grow too big. When it gets out of hand, as it is now, Congress steps in to vote a major tax reduction so that the government's share of the total economic pie remains roughly the same.

Unfortunately, these periodic tax reductions do not always provide relief when it is most needed, and never correct all of the inequities inflation creates in the tax system. The small saver with the passbook account, for example, will get no help from this year's tax cut legislation.

The real reason Congress in general, and the Democrats in particular, have been so resistant to indexing in the past is that it would remove the necessity — and opportunity — for periodic tax reductions for which they can claim political credit. With inflation now the cruelest tax of all, that is no longer an acceptable excuse. If the JEC report is any clue, the Democrats may finally recognize that fact.

Behind closed doors

An American Catholic of prominence had it right. A friend of mine, Father James Moriarty, director of the Catholic Television Network in Chicago, won a wager by predicting a week in advance precisely who would be the new Pope.

The biggest to - do in Chicago, though, was when an announcer at radio station WMFT rushed to his microphone excitedly to announce the election of "the first non-Catholic Pope."

You think that didn't light up the switchboard!

How long did the Cardinals take in selecting a new Pope — less than two days? If they'd had TV cameras inside the Sistine Chapel, I doubt we'd have a new Pope yet.

These days we of the media, in the name of freedom of speech, demand access to the most sensitive deliberations to where our President has to go into hiding in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland in order to negotiate delicate diplomatic decisions.

To recommend closed door deliberations in a democratic country sounds inconsistent.

Yet the founders of our nation sequestered themselves in Independence Hall in Philadelphia and they even arranged to have straw strewn on the streets outside to muffle the distracting sounds of horses hooves on the cobblestones.

In Rome, cloistered, 111 Cardinals were able to arrive at an historic decision of monumental significance within eight ballots — and then emerge smiling in unanimity.

Somewhere between the way they do it and the way we do it there must be a formula less autocratic than theirs and less cumbersome than ours.

The choice of the new Pope threw open Poland's doors for Catholic prelates to visit Rome and threw open Poland's windows for all of us to look in.

I'm fascinated by the improved view. Billy Graham was there at the time and he was astonished by the degree to which the Christians are stubbornly thriving in a Communist country.

No nation in Eastern Europe has remained more fervently Catholic than Poland, despite the aggressive atheism of its Communist rulers.

The Church has never lost the allegiance of the citizenry.

Despite governmental opposition, overt and subtle, Polish Catholics built churches. Some magnificent ones. And dictatorship was impaled on their spires.

The world will continue now to examine this example of a Church maintaining its faith and its voice in the face of Communist hostility.

Infinitely more impressive than anything most of the rest of us have done to mouth pious expression of support for religious liberty are these gallant Poles who demanded it, would willingly have died for it and so hung on to it.

In a country with no free election — and without the force of arms — the church leaders and church people of Poland have prevailed.

Pope John-Paul II — lead on!

Your money's worth

What sort of inflation are we fighting?

(Second in a series)

Inflation, in the simplest of words, is an unhealthy rapid rise in prices over a relatively short span of time.

Its results, expressed in one way: a sharp erosion in the buying power of the currency you use to conduct all your transactions at home and in your business or profession; plus a dwindling in the future buying power of the funds you put away in cash savings or the equivalent (life insurance, U.S. savings bonds, the like); an undermining in the value of most other investments.

Its results, expressed in another way: an upsurge in your living costs, which few can offset successfully and which, therefore, puts you in a budget squeeze, reduces your standard of living despite pay hikes you may win, all but destroys your confidence and peace of mind.

But that's not the whole tale, for there are two types of inflation — drastically different from each other.

The first type is called "demand-pull," which means that demands for goods and services during a specified period are exceeding the available supplies of those goods and services and this excess of demand (fueled by more than adequate cash or credit in the hands of buyers) is "pulling up" prices.

A classic illustration of demand-pull inflation occurred in food prices — especially meat prices — during the early post-World War II period. Millions of newly prosperous U.S. workers and their families sharply hiked their demands for meat, more millions steadily increased their purchases of higher quality meats, shoppers the nation over loaded their supermarket carts with roasts, steaks, lamb, veal.

The relentless buying of a limited supply of meats rapidly pulled up meat prices, until the spiral culminated in the blow-off in meat prices in the wild inflation of 1974 — and (at least temporarily) interrupted the long-term upsurge in our consumption of meats.

The second type is called "cost-push," which means that mounting costs of producing goods and services during a specified period are "pushing up" prices. For many, many years — possibly the longest span in modern times — we have been in the clutch of cost-push inflation in the U.S. And no end to this form of inflation is yet in sight. Despite the president's phase I program pleading for voluntary cooperation on wage and price increases and despite his stiffer phase II program for wage-price moderation, the leaping of prices over wages, then wages over prices, then prices over wages, on and on, continues. Even more disturbing, in 1979, our country enters a year of major wage negotiations, with the most powerful, biggest labor unions determined to "catch up" to the inflation of the past few years.

Organized labor is in no mood whatsoever to exercise restraint on pay demands or fringe benefits. And it is against this background that the White House's latest anti-inflation plan must be analyzed, its chances for success appraised.

Meanwhile, intolerable though it is, an annual inflation rate of 8 percent (or up to 9 percent) feels "better" than the double-digit rates of the late Nixon-early Ford years. But below is what would happen to your dollar's buying power if it were to continue to lose value at the 8 percent pace now officially forecast for all of 1978.

There are two assumptions in the following figures. The first is that the U.S. dollar is worth 100 cents in this fall of 1978. The second assumption is that a share of the typical marketbasket of a city family costs $1 this fall. Source — U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics; annual inflation rate — 8 percent.

The dollar that is worth 100 cents in the fall of 1978 will be worth only 93 cents in 1979, 43 cents in 1980, 20 cents in 1990 and only 9 cents in 2000. At the same time goods and services costing one dollar in the fall of 1978 will cost $1.08 in 1979, $2.33 in 1980, $5.03 in 1990 and $10.87 in 2000.

This is NOT tolerable. You couldn't make plans for anything worthwhile on the basis of an inflation rate of this magnitude — not for your own independence in your older years, not for the education of your children or future education of yourselves, not for care of your loved ones. NOTHING!

Tomorrow: Expectations of inflation — The dangerously self-fulfilling prophecy.

Act helps recover stolen goods

DALLAS (AP) — Arrest teams from Fort Worth and Dallas roamed the streets today in an attempt to round up more than 200 persons suspected of thefts and burglaries of millions of dollars worth of goods this year.

Police in both cities announced Wednesday that undercover agents posing as fences have recovered more than $2.6 million worth of stolen goods in two separate operations.

The announcement was made at a joint press conference called by officials from both cities, where similar operations had previously ended successfully, according to police chiefs Don Byrd of Dallas and A.J. Brown of Fort Worth. Both operations were revealed simultaneously because some suspects were involved in cases in both cities, they said.

The Dallas operation reportedly was completed late in September.

"They (Dallas) were ready to go down a month ago on theirs," Brown said.

Brown said he decided that the Dallas operation at that time might have had an adverse effect on the Fort Worth project, dubbed Westwind II, so he asked police there to hold off until Nov. 1.

Fort Worth police began their round-up of 128 persons named in sealed indictments shortly before the news conference. They said they expected to have all the indicted suspects in custody within 48 hours. Brown said 15 fences well known to police are among those indicted.

Westwind II began operations Feb. 1, the day after the first phase of the project terminated. Police working on the project concentrated on identifying and arresting fences, Brown said.

'Tortilla Curtain' may lose punch

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "Tortilla Curtain" may lose some of its punch, but it's still going to be built.

Administration officials reiterated their position concerning 12 additional miles of fences along the 2,000-mile Mexican border Wednesday amid hints from Texas politicians that the controversial structures would not be built.

Hispanics groups angrily greeted last week's Immigration and Naturalization Service announcement that six-mile stretches of sturdy fences are planned for El Paso and San Ysidro, Calif.

Hispanics labelled the fences a "Tortilla Curtain" that reeked of "Berlin Wall" symbolism.

During a Monday speech in Brownsville, Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said INS Deputy Commissioner Mario Noto had told him that a stop order had been issued concerning the fences until the concrete-based, barbed-wire topped barriers equipped with razor-sharp steel meshing could be re-evaluated.

And State Rep. Matt Garcia told a Laredo radio station earlier this week that during a recent Washington fund-raiser for Rep. Bob Krueger's senate campaign, President Carter had stated the additional fences would not be built.

"Carter said very emphatically that there would be no fence," Garcia said. "He and John White (chairman of the Democratic National Committee) told us that no new fence was going to be built. The president indicated they were only going to repair the existing fence at El Paso."

San Antonio attorney Ruben Montemayor affirmed Garcia's report on the president's statement. But he indicated the president might not have been fully informed on what was planned and that the fence may still be built.

John Russell, a Justice Department spokesman, said they are operating on the assumption the fence will be built.

"We have received no word to the contrary," he said.

Wednesday, the White House press office took the request for confirmation of the president's statements but noted the fund raiser had been a private affair and that reporters covering the president had not been allowed in the room.

Noto said Wednesday that INS Commissioner Leonel Castillo had "more or less put a hold on the fence construction" but the delays were attributed "in light of the complaints over the type of fence."

Noto added that he could not speak for Castillo but "as I understand it, the delay involves redesign of the fence. We have no intent of abandoning the fence itself."

Rick Hernandez, a White House aide specializing in hispanic affairs, noted Wednesday that the fences had been authorized before the days of the Carter Administration.

In final week of campaigning Tower, Krueger barbs sharpening

By The Associated Press
The barbs exchanged between Democrat Bob Krueger and Republican John Tower in the race for U.S. Senate are growing sharper as the candidates go into their final week of city-to-city campaigning.

In Wichita Falls Wednesday, Tower said the big difference between him and Krueger was "that my opponent does not understand the needs and desires of Texans."

In Abilene, Tower said, "Texans know that my opponent voted six times for the unions on the so-called labor reform bill that I helped kill in the Senate. In doing so, he tried to help George Meany and the other labor bosses make an end run around our state right-to-work law. Now that his vote is catching up with him, he's trying to sound like a champion of right-to-work — he's so worried about the consequences of his pro-union position that he's even taking out advertising to try and make us forget his votes on this issue."

Krueger said in Austin Wednesday that he opposes "mandatory wage and price controls proposed by AFL-CIO President George Meany. 'I don't want to see mandatory controls but I think we need to work with the president and see that voluntary controls work and work efficiently,'" he said.

Krueger also said he thinks the proposed 10-foot border fence proposed at El Paso to keep out illegal aliens would be "insulting and shameful. We should try to improve our relations with Mexico instead. Whatever we do must be non-discriminatory."

Krueger announced that his endorsements from state legislators total 72 of 181. The latest supporters include 12 Dallas County senators and House members.

Mark White, Democratic candidate for attorney general, said Wednesday he has the support of Abner McCall, president of Baylor University and a prominent statewide figure in Texas politics for many years. White is a graduate of Baylor.

White also announced that local government officials have organized a statewide committee, "GO WHITE," to support his campaign. It includes mayors, city council members, county judges and county commissioners.

Attorney General John Hill, Democratic candidate for governor, said Wednesday that he will lead the fight in Washington next spring to remove federal price controls on Texas oil.

"President Carter has authority next spring to lift the federal price ceilings on oil production imposed by the Nixon administration and one of the primary goals of my energy policy as governor will be to push for decontrol of oil prices," Hill said in a statement.

Hill said his efforts next year would follow up the joint support of Abner McCall, president of Baylor University and a prominent statewide figure in Texas politics for many years. White is a graduate of Baylor.

FOCUS

The Incumbent

Democratic Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia is the only current member of Congress who served on Capitol Hill during the first days of Franklin Roosevelt's administration. In a year when a record number of legislators are retiring, Randolph wants to keep his job. The "incumbent," or person who holds an office, is usually expected to have the advantage in an election campaign, because of the free news coverage he gets just for doing his job. But some observers feel Randolph may have trouble being re-elected this year. One reason is his age, 76. Another is the energetic campaign his Republican opponent, former Governor Arch Moore, is waging to defeat him.

Drugs could pose problem

By STEPHANIE S. COOKE
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Medicines as common as cough drops and aspirin, taken by pregnant women, can lead to gutters, and internal bleeding in their newborn babies, and even death, a Houston doctor says.

A pregnant woman "should limit any drugs during pregnancy," says Reba Hill, but particularly drugs such as anticonvulsants, some antibiotics, potassium iodide, aspirin and tranquilizers such as valium. Cigarettes also are included.

Dr. Hill, who specializes in newborn research at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston, says gynecologists and obstetricians should check their pregnant patients' "social habits."

Some epileptic women may have outgrown their need for anticonvulsants by the time of their pregnancy and could be taken off it, she told her colleagues at a meeting of the New England

Obstetrical & Gynecological Society Wednesday.

If not, the medication may cause their babies to be born with heart disease or cleft lip and palate.

A study of 47 children whose mothers took anticonvulsants during pregnancy showed a high degree of both defects and there also was some evidence of learning disability in young children, which seemed to disappear as they grew older, Ms. Hill said.

"I've seen some mothers who have been on the drugs 20 years even though they had no seizures within the past 10," she said. "I recommend that a mother be re-evaluated before pregnancy to see if the drugs can be discontinued or a single drug used."

Ms. Hill said there is evidence that cough medicine containing potassium iodide can cause a goiter to form around the neck of a newborn, leading to potential respiratory problems and even death.

Woman injured in crash

A Pampa woman was injured in an automobile accident Wednesday.

Vickie Lynn Hoover, 606 Lowery St., was traveling west on Texas Ave. and attempted to turn north on Frost St. Hoover's vehicle reportedly struck a properly parked vehicle and then traveled 112 feet further, colliding with the porch of the residence at 728 Frost.

Hoover was taken by Metro Ambulance to Highland General Hospital, where she was treated and released. She was reportedly charged with driving while intoxicated.

Jury could be seated in trial

HOUSTON (AP) — If all nine remaining prospective jurors are qualified, a jury could be seated today to hear the solicitation of capital murder trial of Cullen Davis, but Judge Wallace Moore said testimony would still not begin before Monday.

Jury selection slipped past the two-thirds point Wednesday, with a dozen more prospects surviving the tedious questioning of attorneys, bringing to 23 the total number of persons "qualified."

Once a panel of 32 has been qualified, attorneys for the state and the defense will each strike 10. Survivors of the twin strike will compose the 12-member jury.

Two members of the original panel of 50 were excused Wednesday, one who said the jury duty would pose a financial hardship and the other because she had formed an opinion in the case. The dismissal of those two prospects left only 32 candidates.

Texas forecast

By The Associated Press
Fog reduced visibility along the Texas coast early today, but forecasters said good weather was in store for the entire state.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and warm weather statewide with a slight chance of scattered showers in South Texas, mainly along the coast and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Highs were to range from the 70s in the northern sections of the Panhandle to the lower and middle 80s in South Texas.

In addition to the fog along the Texas coast early today, some fog was also reported at Dalhart in the Panhandle and in isolated areas in East Texas.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the middle 40s in the Panhandle to the upper 60s in the Valley. Extremes ranged from 45 at Dalhart to 68 at Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

Some early morning readings included 48 at Amarillo, 51 at Wichita Falls, 52 at Texarkana, 54 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 59 at Austin, 53 at Lufkin, 55 at Houston, 63 at Del Rio, 55 at San Angelo, 56 at El Paso and 52 at Lubbock. Fog was reported at Corpus Christi, Dalhart, Alice and McAllen.

Baptists should revue situation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Baptist institutions should make annual surveys to assure themselves they are not becoming dependent on federal money, messengers representing two million Texas Baptists have decided.

The 93rd annual session of the Baptist General Convention in Texas ends today after acting on resolutions — possibly including one condemning oral sex between husband and wife.

After presenting his resolution on "heterosexual-perversion" to the convention's resolutions committee, the Rev. Glynn Little of Langwood Baptist Church in Houston said he plans to bring it to the floor if the committee tries to bury it.

Little's resolution includes 15 scripture citations that he contends instruct Christian couples to avoid oral sex.

It says "heterosexual-perversion within marriage is another of the animalistic influences in an age of sexual permissiveness."

Little began his crusade after learning that religious author Charles Shedd would speak at a Baptist family life conference in March. He says he heard a marriage enrichment tape some years back in which Shedd asserted it was okay for married couples to engage in oral sex.

His resolution would put the session on record against participation of anyone in Texas Baptist activities who "teaches, practices and/or encourages any type of sexual techniques or heterosexual-perversion (oral sex), homosexuality or lesbianism."

Meanwhile, the messengers adopted the report of a special Church-State Study Committee without question or opposition.

This put the convention on record as urging trustees of Baptist colleges, universities, children's homes and hospitals to perform annual reviews of government money they receive.

"We cannot challenge excessive government interference if the institutions cannot survive financially without government support. This must be avoided," the report said.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Right out of high school I started working for my father. He's a plumber and owns his own company. I decided that because my brother and I would probably inherit our father's business one day, I should go to school and learn all I could about the business. I went to school nights and worked days for my father, and I just got my diploma. Now I'm familiar with blueprints and estimating and everything a competent plumber should know.

I happen to be a girl, and that's the problem. People seem to think that girls who perform this kind of work have to be fat and ugly. I'm far from ugly. (I placed sixth in the Miss Minnesota beauty contest.) Men on my jobs try to pick me up. When I walk into a warehouse, I get whistled at and looked over like a piece of raw meat. But worst of all, people keep asking me why I am doing a man's job. This is not a man's job. It belongs to anybody who can do it right. I take pride in my work, and just once I wish people would notice my work instead of my behind!

PLUMBING AWAY IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR PLUMBING: Don't complain. You're ahead of the game. A good plumber with a nice behind is hard to find.

DEAR DEAR ABBY: Problem: Our neighbors all have huge shade trees. The ones on the south don't shade their lot as much as they do ours.

Trying to raise a garden is difficult in all the shade. We love trees, but with the loads of leaves soon to come, do we ask the friends on three sides to trim the trees, remove them, or help us clean up our yard? Perhaps they will pay more attention to Dear Abby than to us. It may be possible that others have this same problem now that leaves are coming down.

One cartoon showed a guy with a pile of leaves in his yard with no trees of his own.

FIRST TIME WRITER

DEAR FIRST TIME: You can't love trees without loving their leaves. You can't have it both ways; so get out the rake, and count your blessings.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago you gave me a recipe for Southern pecan pie. Every year I bake it for my family around Thanksgiving and Christmas and it's always the hit of the dinner.

Recently I made it for my bridge club and every woman there wanted the recipe. I didn't think it would be right to pass it out without your permission. If you say no, I will guard it with my life.

PECAN PIE LOVER

DEAR LOVER: I hope your life is worth more than one cup of white corn syrup, one cup of dark brown sugar, one-third cup of melted butter, one heaping cup of shelled pecans, three whole eggs, a dash of vanilla and a pinch of salt.

Mix above ingredients well, pour into an unbaked 9-inch pastry pie shell and bake in 350-degree oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool and top it with whipped cream or ice cream. But served plain, nothing tops this! (P.S. I can't understand why anyone would refuse to share a recipe. Sharing enhances the enjoyment.)

Ask Dr. Lamb
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — We would like to have your comments on the problem of gas. My husband has cut out eating all milk products and almost all fruit and juices. Does activity or inactivity contribute to the problem? We need an answer soon.

P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The digestive tract does seem to work better if a person is active. Regular walks seem to help eliminate gas and prevent distention. Patients who have to stay at bed rest often have more gas trouble than usual.

DEAR READER — Gas is a common and frequent problem. A high percentage of people who go to see a stomach specialist do so because of symptoms related to gas. About 10 percent of the general population has symptoms from gas retention.

Although activity helps inate gas, the ideal situation is to avoid excess formation and to have normal colon function so the gas isn't trapped to cause pain. If you have good colon function, eat the proper food and don't swallow air, you're not likely to have gas problems.

There are two main sources of gas. A major portion of the gas often comes from swallowing air. The problem is people don't realize they're swallowing it, and if you don't know you're doing it, it's hard to stop it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there any information to substantiate or refute the feelings of some that apple seeds are toxic, that if too many are taken into the body serious damage could result? Is it true that grape seeds and apple seeds can get lodged in some way and cause damage to the appendix? I have heard that in extreme cases death has resulted in otherwise healthy people.

A good trick here is to hold a rubber eraser between your teeth. While doing this it is difficult to swallow. This will alert you to the fact that you are swallowing air and it will give you a mechanism to stop the habit.

The other major source of gas is the fermentation of undigested food. Milk can certainly be a cause in people who have milk intolerance. Large amounts of carbohydrates seem to do this in other people. Then, of course, there are the well-known gas formers such as beans, radishes, onions; some people have particular foods that are real gas formers for them. If you know which foods cause you gas, it's wise to avoid them.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness to give you more information about how gas is formed and what you can do about it. Often you need to improve the colon function. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper.

It's unlikely that seeds will lodge anywhere in the intestine. There are stories about seeds lodging in the appendix, but the question is was the appendix already diseased before this happened. Patients with diverticulosis (pockets of the colon) are often advised not to eat small seeds for the same reason. In the normal person, who still has his appendix, the danger of having a seed of any kind impact in it is extremely remote, to the point that it is probably not a practical consideration.

Polly's pointers
By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I use a plastic milk jug with a handle to make a great clothespin bag. Carefully cut out part of the front section — big enough for the hand to go through easily and at least three inches up from the bottom. Next slit the bottom of the handle so the jug can hang on the clothesline. I also puncture a few holes in the bottom for drainage. The jug slides on the line very easily and does not keep falling off. — KAREN

DEAR POLLY — If Helen's husband's shirt collars are just a bit too tight she might try ironing them crosswise. Start in the middle and iron outward in both directions. I find this stretches a collar a little bit. — MRS. R.N.

DEAR POLLY and HELEN — When shirt collars are too tight I not only sew the buttons as close to the edge of the neck band as I can but I use elastic thread. It is surprising how much larger the neckband seems. — MRS. J.P.S.

Mary Clements

"I'm just plain Mary"

Last Friday Mary Clements celebrated her 93rd birthday. Her son, Bob, was born the same day so they celebrated together. This year her grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clements, hosted her birthday party.

"I'm just plain ole Mary," she said when describing herself. "I just stayed home and made a living." The couple had three children.

She was born in Dallas on a farm where the Texas State Fair grounds now stand. "I think I was one year old when I went to the first state fair," she said.

Mary Clements recalls growing up in east Texas. "There were no paved roads, we just had to wade through that black land mud.

School was about a mile, I guess." She would put on her overshoes and plod through to school.

When she married, Mary Clements, moved 13 miles from home. She had all three children at home on that farm.

Thirteen years ago, Mrs. Clements moved to Pampa to be closer to her children; besides Bob she has a daughter, Irma Miller, in Pampa; and a son, Roy in Friona.

Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis: the woman.

By ALISA KLINE

life, and each of the 32 pages of photographs gives us another look at her face.

A great deal of attention is

The world seems to enjoy a strange and riveting fascination with Jacqueline Onassis. It is the sort of phenomenon that tends to feed upon itself, as the mounting obsession serves to fuel the fires and attract even more attention.

Stephen Birmingham's book, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis (Grosset & Dunlap, $12.95), is a well-written and fascinating indulgence of our national preoccupation with Mrs. Onassis' life.

The book caters to the secret or avowed Jackie-watcher in all of us like a voyeur's trip through a nudist camp.

Each page feeds our thirst for more details about her background upon her early years and her family history. The picture Birmingham paints is one of a Bouvier family so-obsessed with forging a place in "society" that Jackie's grandfather virtually invented a family history which included wholly fabricated ties with French nobility.

Her years as a child, and especially Jackie's ties with her father, are important to Birmingham's thesis that it was from him Jackie learned the trick of attracting attention and holding it tenaciously.

Her father Jack was somewhat of a dandy, and he had definite ideas about what makes a woman attractive, all of which he passed on to his daughter.

Foremost in his advice was that a woman should always remain aloof, that she should create about herself an aura of inaccessibility. It would seem that these lessons of her childhood were taken to heart.

Jackie's studied aura of reserve and mystique burst upon public awareness when John Kennedy assumed the presidency.

Her father's early advice about keeping something back was assiduously followed, even to the point of her declining to make an appearance at a Kennedy-Bouvier-Auchincloss party the day of the inauguration.

The years with Kennedy required an adjustment for Jackie. Frequently, she was not the center of attention, even for her husband. Birmingham alludes to the reported million-dollar bribe paid by the Kennedy family to keep Jackie from divorcing him in the early years of their marriage.

As Birmingham moves on to Onassis, he spares no adjectives in detailing the opulent splendor of his life. Onassis' yacht, with its El Greco painting, marble bathrooms and lapis fireplace, is painstakingly described.

The book also includes one of the first detailed accounts of the marriage contract between Onassis and Jackie. The provision for separate bedrooms, the $10,000,000 for each year of marriage if Ari left her, and finally how he changed Greek law to avoid fulfillment of the contract, are all presented, and the sources named.

Chapter after chapter, Birmingham's book reads like a novel with the patina of a well-researched piece of journalism.

Although he walks a fine line between exploiting and explaining our national preoccupation with Mrs. Onassis' life, it is to Birmingham's credit that he rarely crosses over into sensationalism.

Birmingham lays the foundation in his early chapters for his controlling thesis that much of our fascination with Jackie is managed and orchestrated by her.

Art lover versus some artful dodgers in GSA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jay Solomon came to Washington hoping to beautify government buildings with art and landscaping. Instead, he is dealing with what may be the biggest U.S. government money scandal ever.

The successful real estate developer from Chattanooga, Tenn., who would rather talk about modern art than bid rigging and kickbacks, became head of the General Services Administration just as it was being discovered as the most corruption-riddled agency in government.

He describes himself as a private man and acknowledges he is uncomfortable being in charge of cleaning up the sleepy agency, where an estimated $100 million annually may have been lost to corruption in recent years.

"I'm a builder. I'm a creator," he said in an interview. "My character would be the other way — of building rather than destroying — and I'm in a destructive position by the very nature of what you have to do."

As a builder, the 58-year-old Solomon became a multi-millionaire. In 1961 he turned one of a chain of drive-in theaters owned by his father in Chattanooga into a shopping center. Today, the firm — Solomon has divested himself of company stock — owns or manages 184 such centers and is the country's largest shopping center developer.

Solomon's background has little in it to show him as a chaser of crooks, but he has been praised by investigators and members of Congress for his determination to rid the agency of corruption.

"One thing about him is that he has hung in there. He could have said, 'I'm leaving. I don't want anything to do with this.' But he didn't," says an investigator.

Solomon admits that he often has thought of quitting. "I sometimes wake up in the morning and say I've had enough... I want to get back to Tennessee. I want to go home," he told reporters recently.

But each time, he says, he decided he didn't want to leave "such a mess" to President Carter, whom he and his family supported when few gave the Georgian a chance of becoming president.

Vincent Alto, the lawyer Solomon hired to head the GSA investigation, doubts that Solomon will remain into a second Carter term. The frustration of trying to change the bureaucracy is exhausting, Alto says.

Despite Solomon's view of himself as a private person, associates say he enjoys the limelight. When asked to head the GSA, the government's landlord and supply agency, Solomon had two desires: to bring modern business techniques to government and to "give a lot of emphasis to art and architecture" in federal buildings.

Reflecting his love of art, Solomon's office is filled with artists' models of sculptures that adorn federal buildings and the hallway has paintings by avant-garde artist Peter Max. All were discovered in storage at GSA headquarters until Solomon directed them displayed.

"I didn't come to Washington to be an investigator," Solomon says, adding that neither he nor Carter had an inkling of the corruption in the GSA over two decades that has brought dozens of indictments.

Since arriving at GSA, Solomon has made changes that rocked the agency, including replacing dozens of middle-echelon workers. But his biggest move was to fire Deputy Administrator Robert Griffin, a close friend of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill. Solomon said that with Griffin as his top assistant, there was a question about who was boss.

Close associates of Solomon say the agency remains bitterly divided between backers of Solomon and those of the previous regime or of Griffin. And Solomon says he still is unsure that some corruption does not yet go on among the agency's 37,000 employees.

To the consternation of some workers, Solomon ordered all office doors kept open as a symbol of the agency's new openness. Symbolic of the bureaucracy's stubbornness is that most doors remain closed.

Solomon's supporters concede that he has made mistakes — usually, they say, because he is inexperienced with federal bureaucracy and legal questions. The Justice Department, for example, has told him to stop estimating how many may eventually be indicted in the scandal.

His friends say he also acts as if he were still in business. Not long ago, Solomon ordered dealings cut off with a supplier because of alleged improprieties. A federal judge overruled the directive, saying wrongdoing had yet to be proved.

Texas longshoreman-American dream in action

By MICHAEL O'CONNOR
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Freedom is the legacy of the Longshoreman.

He is the American Dream in action — the rugged individual in a collective system that guarantees future benefits for hard work.

Once he has seniority, the Longshoreman works when he wants at the job of his choosing, and he answers to no other man.

The dues a man must pay for this freedom are heavy, however, and not all are paid to the union.

For the man with little seniority, the dues are uncertain days spent at the union hall waiting to be chosen for one of the work crews that load and unload the huge cargo ships docked at the Port of Houston.

The dues are trying to make ends meet when jobs are scarce, and breaking your back on the hardest jobs when you can get them.

But these men carry the tools of their trade — sinewy arms, case-hardened hands and broad backs — as proudly as they carry the union designation that is the key to their freedom.

"Once a man gets some seniority, this job is fabulous," said Bill Trapp of ILA Local 1273 in Houston. "A man can make some terrific money, and he's got all the freedom in the world."

"He don't have to answer to nobody," he said.

A man's seniority is determined by the number of hours he spends on the job each year. He advances one rank if he works 1,200 hours or more from October to October, and the men with the highest ratings get first choice of hours and jobs.

The men in the lower ranks often go without a job at the end of a work call, but they don't begrudge the older men their special privileges.

"It takes a minimum of 25 years to get a star (the highest ranking)," one man said.

"Those men have been through a lot of hell."

"Have you ever loaded 500-pound barrels or 100-pound sacks of concrete?" he asked. "They've spent most of their lives doing just that to get where they are today."

A man only has to put in about 25 hours a week to meet the 1,200 standard, but the young ones often spend more time at the union hall than they do on the job.

"A young man has to take what's left over, and it can be a tough row to hoe," said Millard Barrington, 41, president of Local 1273. "I had to face that program when I started, and I've been here 22 years."

But the future promise offered by the seniority system, plus the hourly wage of $9.60 straight time and $14.60 overtime, make the docks "a fantastic place to work," he said, especially when it's compared with the way things used to be on the waterfront.

"There was no kind of system when I started," he recalled. "You just walked in off the street, and if the foreman liked you or you knew somebody, you got hired."

"There were a lot of transient-type people who came in to make some money, then move on," he continued. "It wasn't nothing to see a fight in the union hall. It was pretty rough back then."

But Barrington says the Longshoreman of today doesn't fit the boozing, brawling image held by the public.

"People have the wrong idea of what a Longshoreman is like," he maintains. "I'd say at least 90 percent of our members are family men, and the rest are working on it."

Irish tenor John McCormack, who died in 1945, was brought to the United States by Oscar Hammerstein in 1909.

Brain still being probed

On trail of Einstein's genius

By Tom Tiede

WICHITA, Kan. (NEA) - Like everyone else, Albert Einstein knew he possessed the most original intellect of the 20th century. But why? How was he so different from other men? Always the inquisitor, Einstein asked that his brain be removed on his death, and studied for the secret of his genius.

The deed was done the day after Einstein expired in 1955. A pathologist named Thomas Harvey removed the great man's matter, and a team of specialists picked it apart for probing. Alas, initial observation revealed nothing unique about the brain; it was of normal size, weight (2.64 pounds) and construction.

Albert Einstein

gation of the brain was warranted. And so he kept the material to launch a private, almost secret, study of his own.

Recently a magazine article revealed that Harvey's study is still continuing, here in Wichita, 23 years after Einstein's death. Now a medical supervisor in a biotesting laboratory, Dr. Harvey keeps pieces of the brain in ordinary jars filled with preservatives; the jars are stored in a worn out cardboard box.

Harvey says he has Einstein's cerebellum, his cerebral cortex, some aortic vessels "and other bits." The rest of the brain was sectioned long ago, according to Harvey, and given to other professional researchers. Harvey says he acts as the central repository for the results of the investigation.

But where are the results? Dr. Harvey has not published a word on the brain study in more than two decades. He has told Einstein's family that he will eventually issue a full report, but he refuses to set a date. The only thing he tells newsmen is that "I'm still trying to see if the brain is different."

Harvey's secrecy has provoked some consternation among neuroscientists, most of whom thought the study of Einstein's brain ended with the initial observations. One eminent brain researcher, Dr. W. Maxwell Cowan of Washington University, says flatly that he thinks Harvey's study is "morbid" and "without merit."

Cowan says that studying Einstein's brain to determine its difference from the norm hints something of the discredited practice of phrenology. Phrenologists at the turn of the century believed they could predict a person's character and behavior by the shape of his head. "Ridiculous," says Dr. Cowan.

Aside from phrenology, Cowan says there used to be a belief that the size of the brain dictated intelligence. Then there was the preposterous notion that the criminal brain could be ascertained by the distance between one's eyes. Cowan says Dr. Harvey's mysterious work with Einstein's brain is just as outdated.

Even if Einstein's brain were different, Cowan adds, the time for determining it is long past. He says tissue cells begin to deteriorate immediately after death, and it's been nearly a quarter of a century since Einstein's death; by now, Cowan feels, the soaking brain remnants have become little more than unrevealing rubber.

Finally, Dr. Cowan says he has a personal dislike for the kind of study that Harvey says he is conducting. Cowan grew up in South Africa, where scientists try desperately to prove the inherent superiority of the white man's brain. "Our brains are pretty much the same," Cowan says, "we should know that by now." Withering criticism aside, however, Dr. Harvey of Wichita insists that his probe into Einstein's mind is ongoing and scientifically legitimate. He admits his research is only part-time, but he says his interest is all consuming. He also says he has "learned a lot," even though he will not cite specifics.

As for his long-promised report, Dr. Harvey says there is no hurry. He reminds that Einstein's brain, like all human brains, has something on the order of one billion cells, and therefore "a thorough study takes time." He says he will probably issue his report "soon," but then again "I may not." Dr. Harvey is likewise taciturn regarding the precise nature of his long research. He concedes that Einstein's brain has not proven to be "anatomically different" from normal; but he refuses to say whether this, after all, is the ultimate finding of his search, or whether there are true revelations forthcoming.

Meantime the brain remnants of one of history's great figures continue to float in Mason jars, which in turn sit on the floor of a cluttered office here in southern Kansas. And so far, after 23 years, the only known difference in them from others is that they are not buried forever at rest with their owner. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

RARE LIBRARY

MILWAUKEE (AP) - A 1478 edition of Ptolemy's "Cosmographia" on vellum is among the priceless treasures in the collection of the American Geographical Society recently moved to the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

The new library site was selected by the society after a nationwide search for a suitable home for the collections.

Free checking endangered specie

DALLAS (AP) - "They'll have to tear the dam down," said the attorney. "This case is like the snail darter." His comparison was to a famous environmental decision in which a judge ruled a tiny fish should be permitted to survive at the expense of a multimillion dollar dam.

The endangered specie, said William Prather, legal counsel for the U.S. League of Savings Associations, is the free checking account.

Judge Oliver Gasch ruled Tuesday that it is permissible for money to be transferred from savings to cover checks, which means interest-bearing checking accounts are effectively here.

His ruling came during the league's annual meeting here, and officials say it will be appealed.

The league, whose 4,000 members are limited to offering savings accounts and lending for homes, sought to bar commercial banks from offering interest on checking accounts.

"The law says that by no device whatsoever can they do so," said Prather. The Federal Reserve, which regulates commercial banks, had no authority to permit the move, he said.

Robert McKinney, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, agreed when the Federal Reserve announced plans to consider the move last winter.

And so we have two financial regulatory agencies seeking to counter each other - the Fed in an effort to protect commercial banks, the bank board to protect savings and loans.

The banks resent attempts by S&Ls to obtain checking accounts. The S&Ls resent efforts by commercial banks to eliminate the one-quarter point interest rate advantage enjoyed by the S&Ls.

S&Ls, or thrift institutions as they are called, have a commitment to housing. They must lend most of their funds. In return, they are allowed to offer a slightly higher interest rate on passbook savings, the purpose being to assure them of funds to lend.

The commercial banks, however, have observed that

S&Ls are maneuvering to get checking accounts. Big as they are, the banks don't think that's fair.

And so their regulator, the Fed, came up with the idea of covering checks by permitting money to be withdrawn from the same person's savings accounts in the same bank, in effect, paying interest on checking.

The league fears that, put at a competitive disadvantage, its members' customers will withdraw from their savings accounts to take advantage of the allegedly free services.

Its members warn of higher mortgage rates if S&Ls have too little funds to lend and have to charge more for whatever they do lend.

President makes grand error

WASHINGTON (AP) - If there's one sure-fire system for getting a rousing cheer around Boston, it's to say something nice about the beloved Boston Red Sox.

President Carter tried it the other day and got a good round of applause. But he got a little mixed up.

The president was in the midst of a political trip to New England and was addressing a street rally in the old mill town of Lynn, Mass., northeast of Boston.

He gave a list of priorities offered to him by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, a favorite in those parts, and said they were presented in increasing order of importance.

The first thing mentioned was passage of a hospital cost containment bill. Then came a strategic arms limitation treaty and control of inflation.

Finally, the No. 1 priority: "To see the Red Sox win the National League pennant and to win the World Series."

All well and good. However, Boston hasn't had a National League team since 1952, when the Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee. The Red Sox play in the American League.

Carter's preference for softball is well documented. He also plays tennis. Stock car racing is one of his favorite spectator sports and he took in a football game a few weeks ago in Washington.

He also disclosed that he watched a recent boxing match in which Mike Rossman of Turnersville, N.J., reclaimed the light heavyweight boxing crown for the United States.

Rossman was invited to meet Carter and found out that the president "does some roadwork" - boxing's term for running - as well as pushups.

The 54-year-old president, Rossman said, "looks real fine."

The president attended a typical political dinner Saturday night in Portland, Maine. The speeches toasted the lineup of Democratic candidates in the state. The room was filled with smoke. The bar was doing an active business.

But the usual rubber-like chicken was missing and there were no soggy rolls. Instead, the diners were served a vegetarian meal: cream of carrot soup, whole wheat bread, soybean straganoff - a soy bean casserole - and peanut butter pudding.

Sen. William Hathaway, for whom Carter was campaigning, said that on the flight to Portland, the president, thinking about lobsters and clams, asked what was planned for dinner.

"I said bean sprouts," Hathaway said. "He said, 'Turn the plane around.'"

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reminding her director of "a young Peggy Lee." Susan Ford showed she had a yen for show business by belting out a television commercial for an auto manufacturer — and it wasn't Ford.

Former President Gerald Ford's 21-year-old daughter came to Washington on Tuesday to sing, just slightly off key, the praises of the Japanese-made Subaru.

It took more than a dozen takes for Ms. Ford, standing in front of the Capitol, to get her lines right. "This car fills my energy bill" more than once came out. "This car kills my energy bill."

But director Rick Levine was enthusiastic. "She's as good as any professional," he said. "And she's charming and gregarious."

Miss Ford, who last week announced her engagement to a Secret Service agent, refused to answer a reporter's question about why she would want to make her first commercial for a Japanese-made car in light of the dollar's worldwide problems, especially in Japan.

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, who has fought in a few wars in his time, says the one man he wouldn't want to face in battle is President Carter, a U.S. Senator says.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said Tuesday that Weizman told him that "of all the men he knew, Jimmy Carter was the one he would never want to meet on a battlefield."

Ribicoff said Weizman made the comment to him when the Camp David accords were being signed at the White House.

He said Weizman also said the president that "he had never seen a man more tenacious."

NEW YORK (AP) — The key to the decade's biggest breakthrough in Mideast diplomacy was relaxation and openness, says Jehan Sadat, wife of Egypt's president.

"Be relaxed. Talk to them," is the advice Mrs. Sadat says she gave her husband, Anwar, before he made his historic trip to Israel in 1977.

LONDON (AP) — Bad luck seems to come in big bundles for Iranian heiress Kitty Milinaire. First, she lost millions of dollars gambling. Now, a judge has given her four days to vacate her posh London apartment.

Mrs. Milinaire, 39, daughter-in-law of the Duchess of Bedford, was ordered Tuesday to leave her dwelling at Portland Towers, Marylebone, after the judge, Sir Michael Fox, heard evidence the property was legally acquired by two men in 1973.

The two men said that despite the transaction, Mrs. Milinaire has refused to vacate the premises, and has threatened to commit suicide or to bomb the apartment if she is forced to leave.

Foreign briefs

KRESSBRONN, West Germany (AP) — Police have retrieved a yacht that sank in Lake Constance more than two years ago and arrested the owner and charged him with killing his wife.

Prosecutor Hans-Heinz Grob said 47-year-old Werner Blass was arrested Tuesday at his home in Ulm. Blass reported in August 1976 that his wife, Doris, was killed when the yacht exploded and sank.

But when salvage experts recovered the yacht Calypso from the muddy lake bottom they found there had been no explosion and the vessel had been deliberately scuttled by opening three valves, the prosecutor said. He reported the body of Mrs. Blass was not found.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A tractor-trailer cruising along Italy's

Highway of the Sun caught fire and when firemen arrived to help extinguish the blaze they found the cargo was stolen cheese worth $65,000, police reported.

They said the firemen became suspicious Tuesday because there was an aroma of melting cheese while the truck driver's documents listed the shipment as tissue paper. Police said the cheese was part of the loot from the weekend burglary of a Milan warehouse.

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — An explosion at the Pitești oil refinery killed nine workers, the news agency Agerpres reported.

It said others were injured in the blast and fire that followed. The report gave no damage estimate, but said army and civilian firefighters along with plant employees extinguished the fire within a few hours Tuesday night.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Police raided a candy factory on the outskirts of Bangkok and reported they rescued 43 girls aged 10-15 who were working under slave-labor conditions.

They went to the factory Tuesday after receiving a complaint from a man who said one of his daughters had died from mistreatment there.

Police said the girls were forced to work 16 hours a day for less than $5 per month, were fed only rice and fish sauce and were beaten if they tried to escape from the factory compound where they were confined.

BILL CLEMENTS ON AGRICULTURE

As Governor, Bill Clements is determined to plow back some of the profits to the farmers and ranchers who have worked so hard to earn them.

Bill Clements hasn't always worn a shirt and tie to work. For many years, he earned his living working from daylight to dark, generating a lot of sweat and a little profit.

As a farmer himself, Bill Clements knows firsthand the problems of rising costs, declining markets and regulations that limit the effective marketing of farm and ranch products.

The inflation cost squeeze threatens to drive many hard-working farmers and ranchers out of business.

Bill Clements knows that as Governor he cannot stop the waste of federal money. But, as Governor, he can do something about how the State of Texas taxes farmers and ranchers and spends their money.

Maximize exportation, minimize regulation for more agricultural profits.

Increased farm production expense caused by government-induced inflation and over-regulation is seriously depressing farm income. Bill Clements believes the best long-range solution for these problems is a vigorous exportation policy. Not more government regulation and restriction. Long-lasting improvements in agricultural net profits can be achieved only through prices received in the marketplace, not dictated by the government.

We must expand our competitive position in world markets, and avoid undue governmental interferences with market-oriented agriculture. Unlike the liberal economists in government, farmers know that they cannot borrow themselves into prosperity. Bill Clements knows this, too. That's why he believes farmers will fare better under a market system than under any type of government-managed system.

The importance of a beef import quota. Bill Clements favors a change in the beef import quotas which would decrease foreign imports when domestic supplies are plentiful and increase these imports only when domestic supplies are scarce.

He also believes that all imported beef should be labeled as such and required to meet all USDA standards.

A fairer tax program for agriculture.

One of the greatest problems for farmers and ranchers has been the increased burden of taxation.

Bill Clements intends to alleviate this burden. He has already made precise public stands to do so.

Bill Clements testified before the special session of the legislature advocating the increase of the inheritance tax exemption, and the proposed constitutional amendment which would allow agricultural land to be taxed at productive value rather than market value.

Bill Clements also fought for an increase in the Homestead Exemption and for repeal of the state ad valorem taxes.

Elect a doer, not a talker.

Bill Clements is a pragmatic conservative who will be agriculture's advocate in government, both in Austin and in Washington. He will be the farmer's and rancher's best salesman to help with marketing problems, both at home and abroad.

Bill Clements is not another bureaucrat. We have plenty of those at every level of government. Bill Clements believes in more action to generate changes in government.

Bill Clements has a proven record for getting things done. And there's a lot he can do for Texas. But he needs your vote—and your friends' and neighbors' votes—on November 7 to be in a position to do them.

Get behind Bill Clements. He'll see that we all come out ahead.

"Our state has experienced an enviable record of growth over the past few years. But, as our state has grown, the politicians have tended to pay more attention to the large urban areas than to the rural areas. It's time we turned our attention back to the land and the people who have made our state great."

BILL CLEMENTS

A GREAT GOVERNOR FOR TEXAS.

Farm price index raises for October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Boosted by higher prices for cattle, hogs, soybeans, wheat and milk, the government's farm price index rose 1 percent in October, the second consecutive monthly increase.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that lower prices were reported during the month, however, for citrus fruit, broilers, potatoes and apples, taking some of the edge off the gains for other commodities.

Compared with a year ago, farm prices in October were up 23 percent, the report said.

Farm prices, after climbing for nine consecutive months, dropped 1 percent in July and 3 percent in August. They rose 2 percent in September.

Last week the Labor Department announced that retail grocery prices were up 0.5 percent in September after rising 0.2 percent in August and holding steady in July. Food prices rose an average of 1.6 percent a month in the first half of this year.

Farm prices of raw commodities are exempted from President Carter's recently announced anti-inflation guidelines and thus will be subject to supply-and-demand pressures as they have been.

The USDA says retail food prices are going up an average of about 10 percent this year and that they may rise at least 6 percent in 1979 and possibly by as much as 11 percent if farmers get bad weather next year.

Much of what happens to food prices in 1979 depends on weather and next year's production of crops and livestock.

But grocery prices will go up anyway because of general inflation boosting costs to middlemen who handle food products after they leave the farm.

Thus, since about 60 cents of each grocery dollar spent by consumers at supermarkets is paid to process, transport and sell food after it leaves the farm, grocery costs will rise regardless of what happens to farm prices as long as the economy is inflationary.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said its index of meat animal prices for October averaged 4 percent above September's and that the dairy price index was up 2 percent during the month.

Prices of food grains also gained 4 percent from September, including a 12-cent increase for wheat to an average of $3.04 a bushel, according to the preliminary figures for October.

One reason for food prices going up 10 percent this year against a gain of 6.3 percent in 1977 is that cattle producers, after years of depressed prices, have trimmed their herds sharply, meaning that there is less beef now.

Also, hog producers are not stepping up production as much as USDA economists had expected earlier this year.

The report said prices paid by farmers to meet expenses, meanwhile, rose 0.5 percent in October and averaged 11 percent more than a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are making good progress in harvesting this year's bumper corn crop, says the Agriculture Department.

As of Oct. 29, about 73 percent of the corn acreage was harvested, well ahead of the pace a year ago of 68 per cent and the average for this time of year of 63 percent, officials said Tuesday in a weekly weather review.

The soybean crop was about 72 percent harvested by Oct. 29, compared to 63 percent a year ago and the average of 66 percent, the report said.

THE COMMUNITY DAY CARE CENTER offers a variety of services. One of them is recreational activities. Here several youth take part in these activities.

National briefs

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Agricultural experts say a 1968 freeze that killed 1 million apple trees in Washington state proved a blessing to the industry. The state's orchards, planted with changing consumer tastes in mind, are younger than others in the United States and have been adapted to new orchard technology, they say.

It cost up to $30 million to repair the damage from two nights when temperatures fell below minus 25 degrees, Washington State University agricultural economist A. Desmond O'Rourke says. Today, production is up 42 percent, compared with 3.5 percent nationally. Washington's share of the U.S. market is up from 23 percent in 1968 to 30 percent today.

HOUSTON (AP) — A NASA computer specialist says it's his opinion that the Soviet Union can kill space satellites as far as 23,000 miles from Earth.

The United States does not have a similar capability but is seeking countermeasures because the Soviets have resumed testing satellite killers. James Oberg, of the Johnson Space Center, told an American Astronautical Society conference Tuesday. Oberg said he was expressing his own opinions, not his agency's. Possible means of destroying satellites include beam weapons, hot metal shrapnel, and nuclear radiation, he said.

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A union representing employees of Adolph Coors Co. has agreed to proceed with a decertification election. Officials say they're confident Brewery Workers Local 366 will be retained, although 510 union members will not be allowed to vote.

A $254,629 back-pay settlement in a 2-year-old arbitration case involving demotion of 111 members cleared the way for the vote, union officials said Tuesday. The local struck in April 1977, but most of its 1,472 members have since returned to work. The National Labor Relations Board had delayed a decertification vote pending the arbitration ruling. Striking workers are not eligible to vote.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — At one time the University of Minnesota almost had to beg for cadavers for use in its medical and dental schools, but no more. "We're approaching our maximum," said Dr. David Hamilton, chairman of anatomy.

The university announced in April that it would accept bodies only from seven counties of metropolitan Minneapolis-St. Paul. It had 180 of its 188 spaces filled last week. Hamilton said Tuesday. Revision of the state's Uniform Anatomical Gift Act in 1969 to make it easier to donate a body to science spurred donations, he said.

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — The Cache County Commission has reversed a 40-year-old ordinance that allowed livestock to roam freely and required homeowners to fence their land to keep strays out.

Cattlemen will have to fence their property to restrain animals under the revised law, adopted after residents in the community of Mount Sterling complained that the law penalized homeowners.

GOLDEN ERA

by Thomasville

At the turn of the century, American furniture designs exhibited a special ambience of livability and charm. The ideal of comfort and tranquility was seen in the late Victorian, even Edwardian designs. These designs illustrate the perfect blend of sophistication and cultural history that brings the warmth and beauty of nostalgic furnishings into the mainstream of today's eclectic room settings. Mirror accents on these pieces are etched for authenticity. Several cast aluminum pieces are finished in a matt black tone to achieve the look of wrought iron so popular for ornate fences and balcony trimwork in earlier times. For this Golden Era collection, Thomasville chose rustic pecan veneers and oak solids. The mellow fruitwood finish is distressed to provide the look of prized antiques. Hardware includes a white knob with brass finished backplates, a period brass ball design and a finger-grip pull. Here are exciting designs of yesterday, yet beautifully stated for today's lifestyles.

Carter's inflation program may get slow start

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration is hoping it can rally labor support for voluntary wage and price guidelines despite opposition from the AFL-CIO's George Meany, who has called for mandatory inflation controls instead.

The administration's chief inflation-fighter also says it may take at least a year for the program to lower the inflation rate, now above 8 percent a year.

Meany, the 84-year-old president of the 14 million-member AFL-CIO, unloaded his wrath at the Carter guideline program Tuesday, saying it would require a greater sacrifice on the part of workers than businessmen. He urged Carter to call a special session of Congress to enact wage and price controls.

"The plan his advisers have devised is unfair and inequitable and the end result of their ill-considered proposals could well be another recession," Meany said in a statement adopted by the federation's executive council, which includes 33 union presidents.

"We now believe the time has come for mandatory, legislated economic controls," he told reporters. It was his first public comment on the voluntary guidelines program Carter announced last week.

In other economic developments Tuesday:

—The Agriculture Department said farm prices rose one percent in October, the second consecutive large monthly increase, which means a wholesale jump in a number of prices. The Labor Department is scheduled to issue its report on September wholesale prices Thursday.

—Carter appointed Douglas Costle, head of the Environmental Protection Agency, to also head a new Regulatory Council to supervise efforts to coordinate government regulations to make them more efficient and less costly to business.

—The Dow Jones industrial average closed below the 800 level for the first time in nearly six months as the average of 30 industrial stocks lost 19.4 points to close at 792.45.

—The dollar finally stood firm against several major European currencies, including the German mark, after a series of sharp declines. But it fell to a new low against the Japanese yen.

—Concern on Wall Street that interest rates will continue to rise even higher appeared confirmed when the Treasury Department reported interest rates on a new issue of 3½-year notes rose to 9.36 percent, the highest ever.

Administration officials quickly dismissed Meany's call for a special session of Congress to enact controls and said they have had good indications of support from other labor leaders and from rank-and-file union membership.

"We have reason to believe individual unions will cooperate provided we can demonstrate the program is fair," said Alfred Kahn, chairman of the administration's Council on Wage and Price Stability and Carter's chief inflation adviser.

Indicating a feeling — or a hope — that Meany may not call the tune on the labor attitude toward the plan, Kahn said he thinks "leaders of unions who actually do the bargaining" on new contracts will support the plan.

Although he is president of the AFL-CIO, Meany does not get involved in actual bargaining by the individual unions that make up the organization, although the members of its executive council do.

Kahn said the program already has important support from the two largest non-AFL-CIO unions, the United Auto Workers and the Teamsters Union.

But administration leaders were nevertheless distressed at the opposition expressed by Meany, since it certainly will hinder if not prevent success of the program.

In a statement, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall criticized Meany and the AFL-CIO leadership "for waiting less than a week before condemning the program, obviously without a fair test."

Marshall observed that

Meany did not urge individual union leaders to reject the 7 percent wage guideline.

Of Meany's appeal to Carter to call a special session of Congress to enact controls, Kahn told a news conference, "I am as certain as I can be that he is not going to convene Congress now and ask for a mandatory program."

But although Kahn promised a successful program, which he said is needed to prevent a new recession from occurring, he said it might not show up in a lower inflation rate for at least a year.

"I am not going to set a time on it, but I would be surprised if within less than a year one were able to show a tapering off and possibly a downturn," he said. "There are so many other factors involved."

Kahn and Barry Bosworth, the council's director, indicated at a news conference that one of their first targets in trying to enforce the price guidelines may be the 8 percent rate increase the nation's railroads are seeking from the Interstate Commerce Commission. They both said the rates appear to exceed the guidelines, and indicated they may ask the ICC to reject the increase if this proves to be the case.

The new price standards provide that companies should increase prices next year by 0.5 percent less than the average increases in 1976 and 1977, although it allows them considerable flexibility if they can demonstrate that uncontrollable costs justify bigger increases.

New details of the program released by the council Tuesday say such costs include prices of agricultural and industrial raw materials, energy products and interest rates.

Law to change language

By MARTIN WALD
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The first "Plain Language Law" in the nation goes into effect today in New York state, banishing legalese from most consumer transactions and requiring that it be replaced with understandable English.

The law requires all consumer contracts for less than $50,000, including leases, loans and credit card agreements, to be written in "a clear and coherent manner, using words with common and everyday meanings."

New York City's largest bank, Citibank, and its largest rental agent, Helmsley-Spear, have changed their contract forms to comply with the law. After a period of initial resistance, many smaller businesses seem to be falling in line as well.

But a number of lawyers continue to question the wisdom of throwing out centuries of legal terminology.

"There are some legal thoughts you just can't set forth simply," said Wilbur Friedman, who as president of the New York Lawyers Association has been one of the law's most vocal opponents.

"My objection to this law is that it has gone too far, too fast," he said. "Until a court decides, we won't know who is in compliance and who is not." But Assemblyman Peter Sullivan, the Westchester County Republican who sponsored the law, said "people have found they can do it if they try."

"Some lawyers are bitter because they're going to have to relearn the use of language," said Sullivan, a stockbroker and non-lawyer. "It's like the 14th century, when Edward III took the court system off Latin and made English the official language. Now we're going to make English the official language again, instead of the gobbledegoose we've been hearing for years."

As an example of the new language, there is a Citibank loan agreement that used to say, "For value received, the undersigned jointly and severally hereby promise(s) to pay the sum of ..."

It now reads, "To repay my loan, I promise to pay you ... dollars."

The law originally was to have taken effect in June — nearly a year after it was passed. However, many businesses pleaded insufficient time to comply and mounted a massive lobbying effort to have it delayed another year. Some banks threatened to withhold loans rather than rewrite their mortgage agreements.

Sullivan, who accused them of trying to scuttle the law altogether, held the delay to five months.

Some banks, like the Manhattan Savings Bank, still are waiting for new forms to come back from the printers. Other businesses, according to Friedman, are just waiting.

"Sometime soon you are going to see a lot of lawsuits," he said.

Pumpkin Patch Plunder
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — It was a case to boggle the imagination of even the greatest sleuth: the Great Pumpkin — all 165 pounds of it — was missing, and on Halloween yet.

Children in the southeast Portland neighborhood of Erroll Heights who raised the pumpkin from seed were in tears.

It was discovered missing from its prominent place in the pumpkin patch early Tuesday.

The description: very dark orange, a long, curled stem, 6 feet in diameter, with the initials K.E.F. carved on its base.

Police said they would keep an eye out.

On the light side

SEATTLE (AP) — Home alone and upset at missing her school bus, 7-year-old Mary Hurley didn't know where else to turn, so she picked up the telephone and dialed the FBI.

However, the federal gears ground too slowly to help Mary in time: she got a tardy slip and now has to explain two long-distance phone calls to Seattle to her parents.

Mary, a second-grader at Vancouver's Glenwood Elementary School, reached FBI switchboard operator Gail Petersen at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

"She was really upset and wanted to get to school," said Ms. Peterson.

Ms. Peterson told Mary to call the school, but Mary got only a busy signal and dialed the FBI right back. Ms. Peterson tried the school herself. She also got a busy signal.

Mary said her mother was at work in Portland and her father was away at Lake Oswego, Ore. So Ms. Peterson tried dialing one of Mary's neighbors. No luck.

Her next call went to the Clark County sheriff's office. The dispatcher there sent a car to Mary's home and found a neighbor who agreed to take her to school. Mary arrived at 10 a.m. — about an hour late.

Man Behind The Mask
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Standing in line to buy license stickers at the state Highways and Public Transportation office can be a bore, unless it's Halloween and you're sharing the line with a gorilla.

Underneath the gorilla mask was Tommy Trotter, a service station employee, who also wore the mask at his station, surprising motorists as he pumped gasoline.

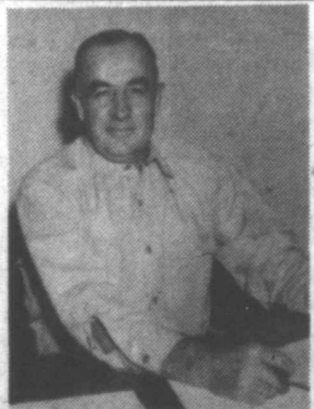

"Everybody who was standing in line out there cracked up," said Kathy Harsey, a department employee. "It was really funny."

She said he stood at the counter for several minutes "until I could get myself together" and wait on him.

"It sure took the monotony out of standing in line," said a woman who was waiting to renew her license tags.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

November 3, 1978
Some of those changes that you wanted so much to make will finally be possible for you this coming year. Your chances of finding success are excellent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're very adept today at working things out so that a profit results. If someone asks your assistance, don't be afraid to tell them what you think. Like to find out more about yourself? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You're extremely perceptive at this time and can come up with revolutionary ideas. If something needs to be refashioned, do it today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Usually you're at your best when you can proceed in slow and well-analyzed movements, but today it's not such a bad idea to follow your intuition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-March 20)
Mixing with people is good for you today. You're ready to exchange ideas and formulate some new opinions of your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Achieving your aims should not be too difficult today. Others will spur you on before you have a chance to work up any doubts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Let that sixth sense you're experiencing guide you in your dealings today. Its source is well-founded.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Benefits will come to you today because you'll look beneath the surface and see what is really there. You'll not be easily fooled.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Everyone around you is put at ease today because of your philosophical approach to things. You don't take yourself too seriously. Neither will they, from the example you set.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
That which has been discarded will take on new life in your capable hands today. The transformation will be startling.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Without even trying, your popularity will accelerate over the next few days. It looks like a very pleasant weekend in store for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Something you've been wanting could be acquired today because you allow your imagination to work for you. The answer was there all the time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Flashes of inspiration could occur all day. It would be worth it to write some of these ideas down if you can't put them to work at this time.

TOMMY JOHN, whose pitching arm meant 47 victories for the Los Angeles Dodgers the past three years, will probably be pitching for someone else next year. The 35-year-old hurler is one of 43 players in this year's free agent pool. (AP Laserphoto)

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It is a measure of the quality of this year's pool of baseball free agents that no team will suffer terribly from the loss of its unsigned players.

In the first two years of free agency two clubs were decimated by the players' new found freedom. The Oakland A's, a dynasty in the early 1970s, lost six star players in 1976. One year later, the Chicago White Sox lost two players who had a combined slugging total of 61 home runs and 184 runs batted in.

After losing infielders Bert Campaneris and Sal Bando, outfielders Don Baylor and Joe Rudi, catcher Gene Tenace and relief ace Rolie Fingers, the A's hit rock bottom in the American League in 1977, even finishing behind Seattle, a Elias Sosa and Mike Marshall.

The White Sox battled for the AL West Division flag in 1977, but lost Richie Zisk and Oscar Gamble to free agency. Without their power, the White Sox floundered this season, beating only Oakland and Seattle in the division. As a result, the White Sox fired Manager Bob Lemon in midseason and his replacement, Larry Doby, last month.

As of midnight Wednesday, the cut-off point, 43 players had declared their intentions of becoming free agents and offering themselves in Friday's re-entry draft. Excluding pitchers and designated hitters, only two of these players were regular starters for their clubs in 1978 — Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Darrell Evans of San Francisco.

Rose is a star who cannot be expected to shine that much longer. His departure would hurt the aging Reds, who have failed to make the playoffs the past two seasons. But with players like Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan and George Foster on the roster, the Reds could hide a good-glove, no-hit man like Ray Knight at third. Still, the Reds will definitely miss Rose.

The Giants will miss Evans' 20 home runs, but not his spotty infield play. They could get along next year with Bill Madlock moving to third and Rob Andrews taking over second base. And they felt they could get along without right-hander Jim Barr in the starting rotation. With their superb collection of young arms, Barr was the spare tire on the Giants' four-wheel rotation this year.

The Giants' division rivals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, might be suffering the most from free agency. No longer one big, happy family, the Dodgers will lose ace left-hander Tommy John, who won 37 games the past two seasons, and two important subs, versatile Lee Lacy and speedy Billy North.

At the World Series last month, John was asked where he wanted to go in 1979. He began marching away, singing "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy." Yankee owner George Steinbrenner reportedly is interested in the 35-year-old sinkerballer.

Other pitchers who are expected to stir interest are Luis Tiant, Larry Gura, Jim Slaton. The Mets, in desperate need of relief hurlers the caliber of Marshall or Sosa, will have the first pick in Friday's draft.

Lucas triumphs in first meeting

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Rick Barry and Golden State's John Lucas met on the basketball court Wednesday night but it wasn't the way Barry had planned it.

"I had always wanted to play on the same team with him," Barry said after Lucas' Warriors had decked the Rockets 112-105 in a National Basketball Association game. "But unfortunately the Warriors decided to take him out there."

All eyes were on Barry and Lucas, the central figures in an off-season switch that was orchestrated by NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien. After the Rockets signed Barry, O'Brien ordered Lucas to the Warriors as partial compensation.

It was the first meeting between the two teams since the switch and Lucas demonstrated that the Warriors made a good decision. He scored 26 points and passed off 15 assists in a winning cause compared to 16 points and 12 assists for Barry in a losing effort.

"There was no extra pressure on me because we were playing the Rockets," said Lucas. "We just wanted to win one more on the road that's all. It's not like it was the final game of the season."

week. He has a choice between Joe Theismann or Billy Kilmer, and sometimes it takes a while. (AP Cartoon)

Pardee problem not new

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Jack Pardee sits in his office in Washington each Monday wondering who the Redskins' starting quarterback is — Joe Theismann or Billy Kilmer.

Last Sunday it was Kilmer, for the first time in nine games. Next Monday night in Baltimore it'll be Kilmer again. But the Sunday after that... who knows?

It is not, as you might think, a problem for Pardee, this business of finding a steady starter. Or, as another head coach who faced the same quandary a few years back, all teams should have such problems.

Midway in the 1971 season, Landry, who had vacillated between Roger Staubach and Craig Morton, finally settled on Roger the Dodger. The result: seven straight victories in the regular season, playoff victories over Minnesota and San Francisco and a Super Bowl triumph over Miami.

Landry, Staubach and Morton remember those seasons of uncertainty and can understand what Pardee, Theismann and Kilmer are going through these days.

Hull announces retirement

WINNIPEG (AP) — Bobby Hull, the 39-year-old left winger who gave the World Hockey Association the credibility it needed to get started, has hung up his skates.

Winnipeg Jets President Michael Gobuty said Wednesday that Hull, who jumped to the WHA seven seasons ago after an outstanding career with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, feels he has played enough.

Gobuty told a news conference that Hull, who amassed a total of 1,012 goals and 988 assists in 1,623 regular-season and playoff games over 22 years in the NHL and WHA, will stay with the Jets as a vice president. Only Hull and Gordie Howe have over 1,000 major league goals.

Hull, who has been away from the Winnipeg club for the last 12 days, did not attend the news conference. But Gobuty read a statement from the Golden Jet, expressing his intention to retire as a player.

The statement also said Hull has no intention of returning to the NHL, squelching a rumor that has pursued Hull doggedly ever since he went to the Jets in 1972 for a 10-year contract worth $2.75 million.

Tennis, school work to make up Wightman Cup

LONDON (AP) — It will be a mixture of tennis and school work in the next three days for Tracy Austin and Pam Shriver, the precocious youngsters of the U.S. Wightman Cup team.

Their first objective is to help beat Britain at London's Royal Albert Hall and keep the trophy in America. Then come school exams.

"I'll be studying biology and English in every spare moment when I'm not playing tennis or practicing," said 15-year-old Austin, who turned pro just a week ago. "I've got to be ready for exams in a few weeks."

Shriver, the lanky 16-year-old who is still an amateur, took a week off from high school in Lutherville, Md., to help defend the Cup.

She brought her school books with her and said: "I have to keep cramming, otherwise I will fall so far behind my classmates. I have exams in two weeks' time."

"I've just got to do well if I am to achieve my ambition and cram two years of school work into one. Then I can devote myself to full-time tennis next summer."

Chris Evert, playing in her eighth Wightman Cup series at age 23, is No. 1 singles player in the United States' lineup. She will open the matches tonight against Sue Barker.

Austin plays No. 2 singles and Shriver is No. 3. Shriver takes on Michele Tyler in the other match tonight.

The Wightman Cup matches, which started in 1923 between the women's teams of the two countries, have a long one-sided tradition in favor of the United States. The Americans have won the trophy 40 times and Britain has won it only nine times.

Few were predicting any change in the usual pattern.

Chris Evert confidently forecast a 5-2 success for the U.S. But Billie Jean King, who first played in the Wightman Cup 17 years ago, was more cautious.

"We have too many unknown quantities this year to make big predictions," she said.

King, 34, is player-coach to the U.S. squad and opted out of singles play. She will play doubles only, partnering Austin.

Austin is not scheduled to go into action until Friday night, when she faces former Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade in singles and then partners King in doubles against Sue Mappin and Anne Hobbs, a 19-year-old newcomer to the British team.

Blow by blow

By Joe Blobaum, sports editor

Anyone who's upset with Pampa's 2-5 record in football should give Alliance, Nebraska a call. That's where I was hacking out sports stories before I moved down here, and the fortunes of that town's two gridiron teams have been little short of disastrous in 1978.

The Alliance Times-Herald's Circulation Manager-turned-Sports Editor Robert Campbell (I guess anybody can do the job) tells me the Alliance High Bulldogs have suffered through an 0-7-1 campaign, while the Alliance St. Agnes Crusaders, who were Nebraska's Class D runners-up in 1976, have finished the year 0-8. Nebraska has just five classifications for its football teams, by the way — A, B, C, D and eight-man.

As another point of reference, I was asked at Monday's Harvester Booster Club how Texas high school football shapes up against Nebraska's version. Well, folks, you can rest easy.

Nebraska has no such thing as spring practice for high school football. Most of the better athletes are two- or three-sport men, playing basketball or wrestling in the winter and toiling at track and field in the springtime. Also, there are no interschool scrimmages during the preseason. There are such animals as blue-white games, soap scrimmages or whatever you want to call them.

But to get to the point, my gut feeling is that the best high school team in Texas would have little trouble with Nebraska's top squad. Y'all take it more seriously down here, and most Nebraskans tend to throw the greatest part of their loyalty to the Cornhuskers on those madhouse-red afternoons in Lincoln's Memorial Stadium.

Getting off on another tangent, there is one area where Nebraska might outdo Texas. At least from what I've seen at Harvester Field House, Nebraska's volleyball officials call the games a lot closer than they do down here. I'm not necessarily criticizing the Texas zebra, mind you. I'm just saying things like double hits, illegal hits and the like are called a lot more frequently up north.

Now how did I get off on this track? I meant to brag up my 5-1 mark on football predictions last week. Booker's semi-upset of Groom was the only miss, although the Harvesters came dangerously close to extending my perfect record on the outcome of their games.

But now I'm 1-6 on Pampa games, 27-16 for all of the season picks and quickly building my confidence with a .628 percentage. This week's guesses:

Plainview at Pampa

The way I figure it, the Harvesters could — make it should, if all goes well — stay in this game for two to three quarters. But with Plainview's fearsome backfield, it's hard to imagine Pampa pulling off one of the biggest upsets of the year. By the way, have you ever noticed how the backs (witness Plainview's success at winning Player of the Week awards) seem to get all the credit for those huge holes opened by guards, tackles and centers? Plainview by three touchdowns.

Canadian at Spearman

You've got to hand it to Charlie Russell's Wildcats. After a 1-3 start, Canadian has won three straight and is currently leading District 1-A-A with a 2-0 record. Perryton and Spearman are both 1-0-1 after last week's 13-13 deadlock at Perryton, so the Lynx — or is it Lynx? — should be ready to taste a victory. Tradition, better overall talent and the home field make Spearman a seven point favorite in what could be (pardon the pun) a tooth-and-claw battle.

Panhandle at White Deer

Now here's an interesting matchup. Panhandle is 5-2 on the season and 0-2 in District 2-A. White Deer is 1-6 on the year, but owns an identical record in league competition. But taking mutual opponents (other than district) into account, Panhandle's beaten Stinnett and Phillips. The Bucks lost to both of those teams. White Deer's defense has played well lately, but the Bucks will need an injection of offense to win this one. Panhandle by 10.

Booker at Texline

This one falls outside the realm of our normal predictions, but it's too easy to pass up. The Kiowas by — aw, go ahead and pick your own point spread.

Groom at Follett

Russell Roberts and the Groom Tigers would like to forget the last two weeks. Follett would probably like to forget this game's on the schedule. Groom roars back with a 20-point win.

McLean at Miami

Bill Coward's crew got back on the winning track last week against Texline. Unfortunately, it only added another loss to a long, winless season for the Tornados. Miami must — make that has to — be hungry for a win after three straight setbacks, so I'll go with the Warriors by eight.

Just for fun, I'm going to fool with the other District 3-AAAA games scheduled in Amarillo. Tonight, Tascosa will beat Caprock by 15 points or so. Palo Duro-Amarillo High is harder to call, but I'll take the Dons by a touchdown. You'll notice there's no logic behind either of those choices.

Eastern football takes spotlight

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

Unbeaten, untied and unabashed over disparaging remarks about Eastern football, Penn State and Maryland come to grips Saturday in the college "Game of the Week."

Navy — undefeated and unappreciated — also sticks its nose out of the water in a match against defending national champion Notre Dame. Some rumblings in the Top Twenty, but powerhouses Oklahoma, Alabama, Nebraska and Southern California carry on.

Last week's score: 37-12, 755. Season: 264-97, 731.

Penn State 27, Maryland 18; The No. 2 Nittany Lions move quicker and hit harder than the No. 5 Terrapins.

Notre Dame 21, Navy 7: A salute to Coach George Welsh and his gritty Midshipmen, but the Irish get there "fastest with the mostest."

Oklahoma 38, Colorado 20: The Sooners' Billy Sims finds little wind resistance in the mile-high Rockies.

Alabama 35, Mississippi State 14: The Bulldogs have shown they can explode, but it's hard to explode in a Bear-trap.

Nebraska 42, Kansas 19: The Cornhuskers' offensive line, led by Kelvin Clark, is strong enough to move a house.

Southern Cal 27, Stanford 10: How come the Trojans consistently come up with top running backs? Charlie White is another O.J.

Michigan 48, Iowa 6: With ratings at stake, the gates of mercy close slowly among the big powers.

UCLA 32, Oregon 9: UCLA is pushing linebacker Jerry Robinson for the Heisman Trophy. A good man but an impossible task.

Houston 30, TCU 6: The Cougars were Southwest Conference co-champs in 1976. They were crippled in 1977. Now they're all well again. So?

Louisiana State 19, Mississippi 19: The Tigers have christened Charles Alexander, their top rusher, "Alexander the Great."

Georgia 34, VMI 7: If the Bulldogs don't win this one, President Carter should call for a federal probe.

Purdue 31, Northwestern 6: The Boilermakers have jelled under Jim Young and loom as prime Rose Bowl material.

Clemson 30, Wake Forest 6: The Tigers, subject to last-half siestas in 1977, have learned concentration must be a 60-minute enterprise.

Avant catches, kicks way onto Honor Roll

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer

Channelview High School football Coach Jack Moss says split end-kicker Stewart Avant is an excellent receiver and an outstanding college prospect but it was Avant's foot that finally lifted the Falcons to a 25-22 upset of state-ranked Huntsville last week.

Avant, a 6-2, 200-pound senior, threw 24 yards for one touchdown off a fake field goal attempt with eight minutes left in the game and with 2:10 to go caught a 24-yard touchdown pass and then snagged the two-point conversion pass.

But that was only good enough to pull the underdog Falcons into a 22-22 tie and what Avant did next earns him mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Honor Roll.

Avant caught two passes to move the ball into field goal range and then, on his second career try at a field goal, booted through a 45-yarder that hit the cross bar and bounced good as time expired in the game.

"We just kind of lined up and kicked and hoped it would go through," Moss said. "He's got the leg to kick it but he'd never done it in the pressure of a game."

"But we had no choice. It was the only thing we could do. He hit it and I thought it was good and then it started dying and hit the cross bar. I thought it was over."

Moss figures Avant will become an outstanding college tight end.

"He's got the greatest hands in the world," Moss said. "He made one catch the other night that was unbelievable. He had to dive out and grab it by one hand and then landed on his stomach."

Greenville quarterback Mason Nathaniel and running back Ricky Simmons put on a running and passing show that led to a dazzling 28-27 upset of state-ranked Highland Park. It earned the Lions the No. 10 rank this week just in time to go against defending state champion Plano.

Nathaniel completed eight of 13 passes for 162 yards and rushed 154 yards on 20 carries and touchdowns of 80 and one yard. Simmons had 133 yards on 20 carries. Nathaniel and Simmons did most of their damage in the first half.

Meanwhile, Pasadena quarterback Dirk Ingram put on a fourth-quarter passing display that produced three touchdowns on three consecutive plays and pulled the Eagles to a 40-40 tie with South Houston. Ingram completed all six fourth-quarter passing attempts for 230 yards and finished the game with 11 of 20 for 364 yards.

Pint-sized Corpus Christi King running back Hub Aston, 5-7, 152, turned in one of the best performances of his career then learned shortly after the game that his father had suffered a heart attack in the stands.

Aston rushed 146 yards on 13 carries, including two touchdowns, and intercepted a pass on defense in a 47-14 victory over Robstown.

Aston's father, Paul R. Aston, was rushed to a Robstown hospital where he died shortly before midnight.

In other outstanding individual performances:

—Wylie's Ricky Blackman rushed 94 yards on six carries, scored three touchdowns and intercepted three passes in a 54-0 rout of Lake Dallas. Blackman now has 12 interceptions for the season. Against Lake Dallas, Blackman ran for touchdowns of 64 and one yard and broke one interception for a TD.

—Prosper running back Marvin Williams rushed 19 times for 240 yards and three touchdowns in a 28-0 shutout of Ana.

—Plainview's Ervin Davis rushed only four times but gained 115 yards and scored on runs of 84 and 12 yards in a 49-15 rout of Hereford. Davis also caught touchdown passes of 51 and 27 yards to give him 14 touchdowns for the season.

—Bret Clark of Robert Lee rushed 241 yards in a 59-18 victory over Miles marking the fourth time this season the 5-9 runner has gone over 200 yards. Clark now has 1,426 yards rushing.

—Larry McCoy fueled Madisonville's 31-28 upset of Rockdale with 235 yards rushing on 27 carries. He scored on runs of three, two and 55 yards and kicked a 25-yard field goal for the victory margin.

—Oscar Guzman of Donna had touchdown runs of seven, 18 and 44 yards in a 29-8 victory over Laredo United and finished with 238 yards on 19 carries. Guzman has rushed 1,200 yards through seven games.

—Odem cornerback Richard Rodriguez intercepted four passes and safety Armando Aleman got three more thefts that helped their team beat Refugio 18-8.

Oscar Roan keeps the faith on bench

CLEVELAND (AP) — About the only thing Oscar Roan does for the Cleveland Browns any more is pick up his paycheck.

The 6-foot-6 tight end has been relegated to the third string of the National Football League team. But Roan is not complaining.

"I'm aligning myself with whatever God wants me to do," said the former Southern Methodist star. "There's nothing more I can do."

"It's tougher some days than others. I spend a lot of time in word and prayer. God has given me peace. I'll continue to do what he asks me to do," he said.

Injuries restricted Roan during the 1976 and 1977 seasons. Twice he was told he would see some action this season. Both times he pulled a hamstring muscle.

Roan, who gets most of his playing time with specialty teams and on short-yardage situations, said losing his starting job is nothing new.

"It's identical to my sophomore year in college," said Roan, who transferred to Southern Methodist from UCLA. "I had a tremendous freshman year at UCLA. When I reported the first day of my sophomore year, they told me I was a third-string flanker and that I was going to be red-shirted."

Roan said.

He said he never was given an explanation for the move.

Roan said practicing during the week is the toughest thing for him. A starter with the Browns during his 1975 rookie season, he caught 41 passes.

"It's tough to walk out on the practice field knowing I won't get a shot in the game," he said. "I know two guys have to get hurt first."

Roan said he prepares for games "very carefully. The thing about adversity is you should grow from it. Don't let it conquer you," he said.

He said the Browns' management has been fair with him. "But you've got to realize the organization is not out to be fair," he said. "It's out to serve its own purpose."

"It's going to do what's best for the Cleveland Browns, not Oscar Roan."

Lopes campaigning in Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Now that the baseball season is over, Davey Lopes is going to do a little campaigning.

Lopes, who was born in south Providence, is going to stump for Democratic mayoral candidate Frank J. Darigan. Darigan says he coached Lopes back in his Catholic Youth Organization days.

Darigan is holding a volunteer rally with the Los Angeles Dodger second baseman on Friday night at Johnston.

Deer, turkey seasons to open

By J.D. Peer

Texas Parks & Wildlife
LUBBOCK — Forecasting the deer and turkey populations for the upcoming November 18 season is like trying to forecast the weather — it keeps changing each week.

Comments from Texas Parks and Wildlife Department personnel stationed across the state indicate deer and turkey populations are ranging from poor to good. The deer situation has improved in the Panhandle and South Plains regions over what it was earlier in the year, but the rains came too late in the year to help antler development. These late rains have helped to mature the browsing conditions for deer and the herds should go into the winter with ample food supplies.

In the Texas Panhandle, the 16-day white-tail season is Nov. 18-Dec. 3, with a bag limit of one deer, buck or antlerless (antlerless by permit only).

The mule deer season in the Panhandle is open for the same period with a two mule deer, limit one buck or antlerless (antlerless by permit) bag restriction.

In most of the remainder of the regulatory counties, including the South Plains (Lubbock), the rolling plains (Wichita Falls) and the edge of the Edwards Plateau, the white-tail season is Nov. 18-Jan. 1. The bag limit in most of these areas is three deer, no more than two bucks, antlerless by permit.

The white-tailed deer season will be closed in the following northwest Texas counties: Andrews, Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Dallam, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Gaines, Hale, Hartley, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Oldham, Parmer, Terry and Yoakum.

The mule deer season will be closed in these northwest Texas counties: Andrews, Bailey, Cochran, Collingsworth, Dawson, Castro, Lamb, Hale, Lubbock, Hockley, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Martin, Sherman, Hansford, Lipscomb, Wheeler, Parmer and Yoakum.

Shooting hours for both deer and turkey are 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset.

The regulations governing white-tailed and mule deer were created to enable the P&WD to manage both species more closely by being able to modify seasons and bag limits. Studies have shown that the mule deer season should not be as long as the white-tailed season, since mule deer attain sexual maturity at a later date than do white-tailed deer. The shorter season and bag limit on mule deer reflect the more vulnerable nature of this species.

The same conclusions about the upcoming turkey season have been made by P&WD personnel as were made for the deer forecast. Too much dry weather during the nesting period reduced the hatch to a point well below what it was last year.

Hunters will see quite a few turkeys due to the carry-over from last year's population, which was good statewide. However, fewer young turkeys will be found.

The turkey season in the Panhandle will be from Nov. 18-Dec. 3 with a bag limit of one gobbler or bearded hen. The remainder of the counties east and south of the Panhandle will have a Nov. 18-Jan. 1 turkey season with a limit of two gobblers or bearded hens.

Shooting turkeys from the roost is prohibited and the shooting hours for turkey hunters are the same as the deer hunters.

For specific seasons in the county you wish to hunt, consult the department's 1978-79 Texas Hunting and Sport Fishing Guide, available where hunting licenses are sold.

Further questions regarding hunting laws may be answered by local Texas game wardens or biologists, or by calling the department's statewide toll free telephone number, 1-800-252-9327.

FISH APPLICATIONS

LUBBOCK — The deadline for applying for fish to be stocked in private waters has been extended by the P&WD to Jan. 5, 1979.

Fish ordered by this deadline will be available in 1979. Bids, which cost $2 per surface acre, will be delivered in the spring. Catfish, at $4 an acre, and sunfish, at $5 per acre, will be delivered in August.

This deadline extension was made because of the low number of requests. Only 526 applications have been returned to Austin, as compared to over 1,000 last year. Many fish applicants did not request fish this year when their ponds went dry from inadequate rainfall. Recent rains across Texas have put some water back into ponds, which will allow the pond owner to restock next year.

The fish delivered by the P&WD in the spring and summer will be available for pickup at 37 locations across Texas. In northwest Texas, these locations include Andrews, Colorado City, Dickens, Dundee fish hatchery at Electra, Levelland, Pampa and Vega.

Applications may be obtained by writing to the Hatchery Coordinator, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744.

TURKEY POPULATIONS vary from good to poor and the season will run the same as the deer season in each region. For those counties not having a deer season, the turkey season will be listed in the P&WD's hunting guide. The daily and season bag limit varies from one gobbler or bearded hen in the Panhandle to two turkeys, either sex, in the Abilene area. (P&WD photo)

Bradham in legion of UH unknowns

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston linebacker Steve Bradham is another in that legion of little recruited players who came to Cougarland and developed into an outstanding performer.

Bradham joined four other former Longview High School teammates on the Cougar roster but that wasn't the reason Bradham came to UH.

"I guess everybody (from Longview) had their reasons for coming here but mine was it was here or no place," the 6-2, 217-pound junior said.

The Arkansas Razorbacks would have preferred Bradham be any place but the Astrodome last Saturday.

Bradham went from no place to every place, tagging Hog runners with eight tackles, to help Cougars rally to a 20-9 victory in a game that sent UH fans scrambling for their "Think Cotton" signs.

For his efforts Bradham was named Associated Press Southwest Conference defensive player of the week.

Arkansas moved the ball easily on the Cougars in the first quarter but had to settle for three field goals when the UH defense stiffened each time near its own goal line.

Bradham was the primary "stiffening agent" on the third Hog drive of the game, contributing four solo tackles. Arkansas had to settle for a 9-0 lead, giving the Cougars time to get their own offensive weapons revved up.

Bradham was a freshman playing on the specialty teams in 1976 when the Cougars first got caught up in Cotton Bowl fever. It's different the second time around, Bradham says.

"That first year we had to prove to everybody that we could play with anybody," Bradham said. "This time we don't have to show people we can play. We just WANT to go this time."

The Cougars dipped to a 6-5 record last year and Bradham, scheduled to sit out the year as a red-shirt, suddenly was thrust into a starting linebacking position when super star David Hodge decided to give up football.

"It was quite a shock for me to be thrown in there but I'm glad it turned out the way it did," Bradham said. "I'm just glad David is back this year and everything is going right."

Jones contribution helps Longhorns corral SMU

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

At a team meeting before the Texas-Southern Methodist game last week Johnny Lam Jones had a suggestion. He believed he could help Coach Fred Akers would let him return kickoffs again.

Jones, the Olympian who earned a gold medal at Montreal in the 1976 Olympics on America's sprint relay team, had been nursing a shot at return.

"He told me at the meeting that even though he was injured he thought he could make a contribution," Texas Coach Fred Akers said.

"It bordered on being prophetic, didn't it?" asked Akers. Jones sped 100 yards to break a 3-3 tie and helped Texas subdue a stubborn SMU team in Saturday's 22-3 Longhorn victory.

The kickoff return was a school record and earned Johnny Goldmedal The Associated Press Southwest Conference Offensive Player of the Week Award.

"That was a great football player making the return," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer.

Akers was more to the point: "There's not a finer athlete in the world than Lam Jones."

Jones has played flanker, running back, and kick returner in the Texas offense. He also isn't afraid to block.

Teams have double-covered and triple-covered Jones but he still has the knack for the big play. For example, he scored against Oklahoma on a reverse.

Jones, a junior from Lampasas, Texas hence his nickname "Lam" because there is also a Johnny "Ham" Jones and an A.J. "Jam" Jones in the Longhorn backfield, has never made a bigger play than the one Saturday.

Texas could not move and SMU was showing some life as Eddie Garcia kicked a field goal to tie the game in the third period. Jones fielded the kickoff at least two or maybe three yards deep in the end zone and blazed down the left sideline. The elapsed time on the scoreboard was 12 seconds.

The official distance was only 100 yards because the NCAA does not recognize the yardage and deeper in the end zone.

"He probably won't even make All-Conference," said Akers. "He's not a statistic type player...just explosive. He's a super athlete and things just happen when he touches the ball."

He added "statistics can be unfair. When it comes to All-America teams, too many times too many people are concerned with statistics."

Brownwood leaps to top spot

By The Associated Press

Brownwood, a perennial Class 3A playoff entry, leapfrogged once-tied Beaumont Hebert into the No. 1 position in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week following New Braunfels' upset of former No. 1 Gonzales.

Brownwood, third last week behind Gonzales and Hebert, lost its opening game of the season to Abilene-Cooper but Cooper eventually had to forfeit the game because it used an ineligible player.

While Gonzales dropped to No. 8 this week, the other No. 1s, Temple in 4A, Newton in 2A and Farmersville in A, maintained their rankings.

Hebert, 7-0-1, remained the No. 2 team in 3A by the slimmest of margins, 184-183 in points behind Brownwood. Bay City moved up two notches to third while Fort Stockton, unscored on in seven games, remained fourth.

Gainesville, No. 8, and Huntsville, No. 9, also were 3A casualties last week. Gainesville fell to ninth after a 13-6 loss to Grapevine and Huntsville, beaten on the last play of the game by Channelview, dropped off the list after its second loss in three weeks.

Carthage replaced Huntsville as the No. 10 team.

Greenville replaced Highland Park in the 4A rankings after upsetting the previously No. 9 ranked Scotties 28-27. Greenville, 7-0, led 28-7 at halftime.

Mount Vernon, ranked No. 2 last week and a former No. 1 rated 2A team, was embarrassed 47-7 by North Lamar and fell to the No. 10 spot this week.

There were no upsets and no new faces on the A list.

Sixteen Pampans picked for choir

Sixteen out of eighteen high school choir students were recently selected as members of the all region choir, according to John Woickowski, choir director.

Five out of eight junior high students were also selected to the all-region choir.

Among the high school students were second bass, Tyler Berry, first bass, Bill Combs and Mark Lehnick; second tenor, Marvin Goad; first tenor, Brent Luck; second alto, Kayla Coffe and Linda Lee; first alto, Debbie Gattis, Pam Homer, Dana Dykes and Pam Mills; second soprano, Lisa Michael, Lynn Cambern and Kim Rich and first soprano, Diane McNeely and Mary Skoog.

Wallis assigned as recruiter's aide

The junior high students that were selected were Elizabeth Fraser, Mark Case, Brian Welborn, Andora Smith and Angela West.

The high school students will be performing on Dec. 1-2 at West Texas State University at 7 p.m.

The junior high students will be participating in a concert on Nov. 11 at Hereford High School at 7 p.m.

Woickowski said the selection of these students is the first step towards their participation in the all-state choir.

Private First Class Larry M. Wallis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay T. Wallis of 216 East 9th St. in Lefors has returned to his hometown area as recruiter aide to help the local Army representatives for 30 days.

Wallis is a 1974 graduate of Lefors High School.

He is presently stationed at Fort Hood, Tx and is a military policeman.

Pvt. Wallis will visit local high schools and discuss the opportunities available in the Army.

Pampa to sponsor VFW convention

The Ninth District Convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary will be hosted by Pampa Post No. 1657 this Saturday and Sunday at the Sportsman's Club.

Registration will begin Saturday from 2:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Fellowship hour will be for an hour on the same day starting at 5:00 p.m.

A dance will be open to the public Saturday starting at 9 p.m. at the Playboy Club located on South Cuyler.

Sunday's activities will begin with the Past Commander Breakfast at the Lampiter Restaurant at 8:00 a.m.

The Auxiliary Past Presidents Club coffee will be at the Sportsman's Club at 8:30 a.m.

Ladies Auxiliary will meet at Lovett Memorial Library for a business meeting at 10:00 a.m.

District Commander, Frank Siller of Borger will preside at the VFW meeting at the Sportsman's Club.

State Commander, Robert Speaks, who is from Denton and a lifetime member of Phil Miller Post 2205 in Denton, was elected to the state VFW's highest office at the annual convention in San Antonio in July 1978 after having served as State Senior Vice Commander during 1977-78.

Speaks has been with the VFW for 30 years.

Speaks is employed as an assistant vice president for the Denton Savings Association. He and his wife Jean have two grown sons, Steven and Garry.

Government steps may lead into recession

NEW YORK (AP) — The drastic steps announced by the government Wednesday to bolster the sinking dollar and stem rising inflation reflect a trade-off decision that many economists say increases the risk of a recession.

At the heart of the trade-off is the question of whether the U.S. economic progress and President Carter's program to attack inflation would be hurt more if current economic conditions were allowed to continue without Wednesday's action.

The government's answer to that question is no. In its strongest steps to date, the Treasury and Federal Reserve announced a series of measures designed to counter the long slide of the dollar against other major currencies and at the same time raise interest rates sharply to slow the growth of the nation's money supply.

Both the slide of the dollar and the rapid growth in money have been key contributors to inflation.

But the price that goes with the government's actions is sharply higher interest rates. And many economists say the effect of that raises the risk of recession next year.

If pollsters are correct

Races may end in scoreless tie

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If pollsters and political scientists are correct, the mood of America this political year is so apathetic some races could end in a scoreless tie.

But a massive show of indifference won't discourage politicians from drawing some outrageous conclusions from the results of next Tuesday's voting.

For example, if the Republicans pick up 30 or more House seats and two or three Senate seats, GOP National Chairman Bill Brock will proclaim that the voters have repudiated the record of the 95th Congress and particularly its rejection of the Kemp-Roth tax cut bill.

Farm Bureau committee slates meeting

The Texas Farm Bureau resolutions committee will meet at the headquarters building in Waco Nov. 6-8.

Jim Greene of Pampa will meet with the committee chairman and the chairman of the TFB Young Farmers Advisory Committee composed by leaders of each of the 13 Farm Bureau districts.

The resolutions will be submitted to vote delegates at the 45th annual meeting Nov. 26-29 in Dallas.

Adopted resolutions at the Dallas meeting pertaining to state affairs will become state policy for next year.

School board to meet Monday

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Education will hold a regular meeting Monday at 5 p.m. at the Carver Educational Center.

Items on the agenda include the approval of the school districts' property insurance coverage, the approval to purchase a school bus and the approval of adjustments to delinquent tax rolls.

The board will also meet in executive session.

If the Republicans pick up no more than 30 House seats and break even in the Senate, Democratic National Chairman John C. White will proclaim that under the leadership of President Carter, the Democrats held to a minimum the losses normally suffered by the party in power in non-presidential election years.

If the Democrats pick up a seat or two in the Senate, Jimmy Carter's grin will grow a few inches wider even though some of his most difficult moments the last two years came from trying to deal with the Democratic majority in Congress.

The ritual of party leaders reacting to election results always has them looking for silver linings no matter how dark the clouds.

More interesting and outrageous this year should be the efforts to link the 1978 returns to prospects for 1980.

Howard H. Baker Jr., is running for re-election to the Senate from Tennessee and few people doubt he'll win easily.

Baker also is running for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

As Senate minority leader, Baker played a key role in winning votes for the Panama Canal treaties. Diehard opponents of the pacts are certain to pounce on the Tennessee election results to see if Baker seemed to suffer.

Six years ago, Baker received 62 percent of the vote when he ran for re-election. The only percentage that is certain to knock him out of the 1980 race would be something less than 50.

If Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California is re-elected easily, what will that portend for 1980? Will Brown challenge Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination? If Brown wins, his decision on 1980 is likely to depend more on how President Carter is doing than on the California vote next week.

And then there are all those campaigners abroad in the nation whose names are on no ballots this year.

Ronald Reagan has been in 26 states and George Bush in more than 40. Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, although not up for election this year, is maintaining a similar schedule.

All three Republicans want to be president and all three have spent a lot of time in New Hampshire this fall.

So have John Connally, the former Democratic governor of Texas who's now a Republican, Rep. Jack Kemp, the Republican former football quarterback turned tax-cutter, and Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, the conservative who is the only announced candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Baker to host supper Friday

The Baker Head Start program will be sponsoring a chili supper Friday from 5-7 p.m. in order to raise funds for the program.

Jeneane Thornburg, director of the program, said the school has many minority groups and many of the parents are unable to provide the necessary items for the children. Thornburg said this is an opportunity for everyone to band together and help out.

The Head Start program is designed to help not only the children but the entire family.

FOCUS

The Independents

Earlier in this century, there were two main groups of American voters: Republicans and Democrats. Today there's a third group which refuses to be linked with any particular party. This growing group of independent voters is playing an important role in the outcome of American elections. Because independents choose individual candidates rather than parties, they often vote "split tickets," selecting Democrats for some offices and Republicans for others. For this reason, today's political candidates are spending more time, energy, and money than ever before, trying to win independent votes. In recent years, the Republican party has had the greatest success in wooing independents in national elections.

DO YOU KNOW — Independent voters outnumber the members of which major political party?
WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — Richard Nixon was the incumbent in the 1972 presidential election.
