Today started out badly for many Pampans, due to a power shortage early this morning that stopped alarm clocks for about an hour.

Jesse Whitson, however, suffered a far worse catastrophe than being late to work. His business, the S & J Mart at 600 E. Frederic, was gutted by an early morning fire.

Whitson called the fire department at 5:30 a.m. after being told his building was burning. Thirty-five firemen and five pieces of fire-fighting equipment were rushed to the scene, but their efforts were impeded by frozen plugs on nearby water hydrants. Firemen finally hooked up to a hydrant on Starkweather south of Highway 60, and spent several hours before extinguishing the flames.

The severely-damaged building was described as "a total loss" by Don Hendricks of the fire department. Hendricks said the fire apparently started in the mart's kitchen area.

Fire Chief Finace Dyer said the cause of the fire is as yet unknown. "The way it was burning, there's no telling," Dyer added.

Betty Whitson, wife of the owner, this morning said the building was insured and that she thought Whitson plans to rebuild. No damage estimate was available.

The most visible result of this morning's power failure was the tardiness of many Pampans in getting to work. The failure, which occurred at approximately 4:20 a.m., was caused by a broken wire in a 69,000-volt transmission line, according to Joe Gidden, local manager of Southwestern Public Service Co.

Cold weather and vibrations caused the break. Gidden said, putting the McCullough power sub-station out of order. At the time of the break, most of the city was tied into the McCullough sub-station, located in the south end of town.

The northwest and western portions of the city, those areas feeding on the Kingsmill and Kite sub-stations, were not affected by the failure.

Power was restored to most sections of the city within 45 minutes, Gidden said. Everyone was receiving power again within an hour and 15 minutes, he said.

News in brief

SNOW

A winter storm watch and traveler's advisory is in effect for Pampa today, with light snow and drizzle expected to create hazardous driving conditions. Snow is expected to become heavy tonight, with the probability of measurable precipitation at 20 percent. The high today is predicted to be in the upper teens, with the low tonight dipping to five to ten degrees. Winds will be out of the northeast at 10 to 15 mph.

Microphone denied as source

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas motorcycle policeman has denied his microphone was the source of a tape recording that led House assassination committee members to conclude conspirators "probably" were behind the murder of President John F. Kennedy. Committee members said their conclusion last week was based on new acoustical evidence that "establishes a high probability that two gunmen fired at President Kennedy."

That evidence included an analysis of a tape recording made during the assassination, that the panel determined was a stuck transmitter on officer H.B. McLain's motorcycle.

Iranians returning to jobs

By THOMAS KENT

Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Oil-industry sources said striking petroleum workers began returning to their jobs today, apparently heeding the call of the anti-shah religious opposition to produce enough oil to save the Iranian economy from collapse.

The embattled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, meanwhile, was taking a two-day holiday with his family at a nearby ski resort. In Tehran, Shahpour Bakhtiar, the shah's choice for prime minister, was readying his proposed new civilian Cabinet for presentation to the monarch and the Parliament.

Since the latest round of anti-shah strikes began last month, oil production has plummeted from 6 million barrels a day to 250,000 barrels or less. Industry sources say it takes 900,000 barrels to meet Iran's domestic needs alone, and because of shortages the military-led government ordered fuel rationing last week.

An oil-industry source, who asked not to be named, said that with the return of some strikers the first shipments of kerosene and heating oil are expected to reach Tehran Saturday. Figures on total production for the day were unavailable.

Refineries in Abadan and Tabriz resumed limited production today but those in Shiraz and Tehran remained shut down pending a decision by their striking workers Saturday.

Ayatollah Khomeini, the Moslem religious leader who is the symbol of the anti-shah movement, had called Wednesday for the workers to produce enough fuel to ease the burden on the people.

The shah emerged from near-seclusion in his palace Thursday for his brief vacation in the nearby mountains. Earlier, he formally appointed Bakhtiar to head a civilian Cabinet to replace the military regime the shah named last November in an unsuccessful attempt to end months of violence and crush religious and political opposition to his reign.

Bakhtiar has said the shah would leave for a "rest and a vacation" while the new government works to restore order, but the trip to Jajroud clearly was not what he had in mind.

Bakhtiar, a veteran of the anti-shah opposition, reportedly agreed to recruit a government after the shah bowed to demands that he surrender some of his powers and leave Iran temporarily.

Most leaders of the religious and political alliance fighting the shah said they would settle for nothing less than abdication and denounced Bakhtiar for dealing with the monarch.

But Ayatollah Khomeini, the shah's strongest foe and spiritual leader of Iran's 32 million Moslems, told The Associated Press at his residence-in-exile outside Paris: "The shah and his immediate family are criminals and they have to be tried and punished according to Islamic laws."

"Life imprisonment would be the minimum," he added in an interview. "And also the return of all the property he has confiscated from the people."

The prime minister-designate is expected to present his Cabinet for the shah's approval on Saturday, and the two houses of Parliament will then vote to formally install the new government.

Davis' defense completing testimony

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The defense neared the end of testimony today in the marathon murder-conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis after a parting shot at the defendant's brother, Bill.

A deputy sheriff told of repeated efforts to serve Davis' younger brother with a defense subpoena.

Deputy Wayne Boggus said he attempted by telephone and in person to contact Bill Davis at his Fort Worth office, his residence and three lake homes before abandoning the effort.

"It was my opinion I had made a diligent effort to serve the subpoena," Boggus testified.

"It was my understanding that he would not be available until after this trial."

Defense lawyers wanted to question the younger Davis about his role, if any, in a heavily financed private investigation of the lawyers and investigators representing his wealthy brother.

Defense attorneys, ending their fifth week of testimony, indicated Thursday they would rest their case by noon today.

"I'll believe it when I see it," said a weary prosecutor.

Trial Judge Wallace Moore informed newsmen Thursday he expected the defense to wind up by noon and he instructed the state to have its rebuttal witnesses on hand.

Moore said it was "very likely" the case could reach the jury next week.

"I think they'll rest. They've gone too long as it is," grumbled prosecutor Jack Strickland, prior to today's session. Strickland indicated state rebuttal would not exceed more than two days assuming defense cross-examination is not extensive.

Davis, 45, who spent four days on the stand, is accused of plotting the murder of his divorcee judge and others on an alleged death list.

Despite nine weeks of testimony, the jury must decide essentially whether to believe Davis or his chief accuser, FBI informant David McCrory, 40.

McCrory testified that Davis ordered him to hire a gunman to kill Judge Joe Eidsen and the defendant paid him $25,000 when he thought the judge was dead.

The FBI wired McCrory for sound and recorded two conversations last August in which Davis discussed mass murder and the money to finance it.

Davis maintained he "played along" with McCrory to expose an extortion plot against him and to win over killers purportedly hired by his estranged wife Priscilla.

It was Mrs. Davis, 37, the defense insisted, who masterminded a scheme to frame Davis in an attempt to enhance her position in the high-stakes divorce case.

Most of Thursday's testimony unfolded outside the jury's presence, with lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes questioning private investigators.

Fort Worth attorney Joe Shannon, who headed the "sidestar investigation," said he did not know who was financing the operation, adding:

"I was told that Bill Davis was not involved in this matter."

Children get due process

By DAN LACKEY

Pampa News Staff

The major change during Bill Leonard's 20 years as Gray County Juvenile Probation Officer has been the enactment of the Texas Family Code, which went into effect in July 1973. The Family Code was enacted in response to a new concern for children's legal rights and rising public awareness of the problem of child abuse and neglect.

The first major administrative change was the shifting of responsibility for abuse and neglect cases from county juvenile probation offices to the state Department of Human Resources.

Leonard said Thursday "Child abuse has been with us for ages... but it's been well publicized lately... and the publicity has brought to light some hidden cases." Leonard said he thinks the change of responsibility for abuse and neglect cases is a good development.

"These people (department workers) are specially trained to deal with these kinds of cases." This leaves for the county probation officer the supervision of what Leonard calls "a multitude of sins," which includes cases of runaway, truant, or delinquent children, age 10 to 17.

By law, it's technically impossible for a child under 15 to commit a crime—misdemeanor or felony—and what would be criminal offenses for an adult are known as delinquent acts for children.

Leonard said most of the delinquency he deals with are cases of theft. However, he said he often receives drug abuse cases, usually involving marijuana. He said the average age of child offenders fluctuates but "15 or 16 year olds are the ones that seem to get caught."

Once caught, however, the child has under the Family Code what amounts, according to Leonard, to full due process.

Before the Code, it was common practice to ask the child defendant and his parents to sign a waiver for a right to an attorney. Now an attorney—usually court appointed—is required for all court appearances. A child, said Leonard, can waive his right to have an attorney present if he wants to make a statement after he is caught. But he has to be fully informed of his right to have an attorney present. This reading of rights to a child is much extended version of the Miranda warning issued to adults upon arrest.

If a child is detained, a detention hearing must be held within two days, and again in ten days, if the child is still under detention.

Leonard said that the judge should have no prior knowledge of the child before the disposition hearings. But he said that it's his responsibility to prepare a background brief on the child for the first hearing.

The second court appearance, the adjudication hearing, is a full court trial, with prosecutor, attorneys, and, if requested, a jury.

No bond is posted for a child, said Leonard.

Parents have the responsibility to bring the child to court," he said. "And I find most parents are very sincere in trying to meet their responsibility."

If a child is found guilty of a delinquency, there is a third hearing for the disposition of the case.

"This has given the child, I think, better legal protection," said Leonard. "It has made the hearings longer and you don't really get to the problem until the last hearing, but I think it (the system) good."

Disposition of a case can range from the detention of a child in one of the children's homes administered by the Texas youth council to release to parental supervision. The middle ground is probation, with Leonard acting in concert with the parents.

"We're very flexible with rules," said Leonard. "Everybody works together. Parents ask advice but I'm limited because I don't live in the home. We like the parents to take as much responsibility as possible." Leonard said that rules and restrictions may involve hours and friends kept, places visited, and attention to the child's behavioral and academic record in school.

"We try to make a solution in the community, rather than in the courts. I think over all probation has been successful with juveniles."

Leonard said, however, that "after 18 we don't follow up on them and because we don't have records (of subsequent behavior) we don't really know how successful we've been."

"If they stay out of trouble for a certain period after 18," said Leonard, "then they have a right to have their files sealed, so that they will have no record to carry around with them." The juvenile probation office, said Leonard, receives all of its referrals from police. According to Leonard, his office received about 200 referrals in 1978, screened by the probation officer to about 100 cases. Leonard estimates that he presently has 30 children on probation, with five new court cases scheduled and six to eight old cases pending.

Leonard said he has to screen cases carefully to see if they fit the law of the Family Code. It's a thick book he says he has to consult every day. "It's trying to get children away from the connotations of crime," he said of the Code. "We're also trying to get away from the word 'juvenile.' They're children—not juveniles."

The Family Code was enacted in response to a new concern for children's legal rights and rising public awareness of the problem of child abuse and neglect.

In Candor lies our hope

By MARTHA ANGLE
and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Like the laundry soaps periodically repackaged with a label proclaiming "all new ingredients inside," the national legislature that convenes here this month will be widely identified as the "new" 96th Congress.

But just as the detergent too often turns out to be merely a minor variation of the same old formula, the 96th Congress will differ little from its recent predecessors.

A wave of institutional reform during the past decade has produced numerous substantive changes, but the task remains largely unfinished. In some cases, the initial reforms have produced unexpected harmful results.

In the past, most of the pressure for improvement has come from outside groups and individuals because the legislators have been instinctively protective and defensive in rebuffing criticism of their institution.

But one of the most significant developments of the past few years, especially in the House of Representatives, has been the increased willingness of the lawmakers themselves to publicly discuss and debate their problems.

Two notable recent examples of the trend are "A House Divided" a television documentary produced by Capital Cities Communications, Inc. and last year's resignation speech by Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., one of the most respected members of the House.

Pike's candor and insight make his farewell address a truly remarkable document. Talking about the unhealthy symbiotic relationship between special interest groups and his colleagues, he says:

"The parade of daily fund-raisers in the Democratic Club or the Republicans' Capital Hill Club in Washington—whereby the unions, corporations, trade associations and lobbyists are systematically though legally milked—is just...nauseous."

In the television documentary broadcast in late December, Rep. Leon E. Panetta, D-Calif., is refreshingly honest in describing what too many of those donors demand in return for their money:

"I got approached by a lobbyist from (maritime union) who said... we gave you $2,000 in your last campaign (and) we expect a vote for this bill... They said we don't have to talk substance, we gave you the money and we expect (you) vote."

Another participant in the Capital Cities program, Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., also talks frankly about the army of approximately 15,000 lobbyists permanently encamped in this city:

"You are harassed by one issue group after another. You get so many interest groups who couldn't care less if I vote for World War III as long as I vote for their pet projects... then they are happy as clams."

On another crucial issue, Pike is both eloquent and indignant:

"The day - to - day operations of the House, the time we spend, the hours of our lives are to a large extent controlled by a small group of procedural nit-pickers..."

"No congressman minds working hard on important issues — Lord knows there are enough of them around — but this congressman is weary of wasting his time on a drive."

On the same subject, the documentary cites "a dawn - to - dusk workload too exhausting for even the most dedicated and ambitious representative" and last year's record - breaking 1,540 votes in the House, many on trivial issues.

"There is no way," concludes Obey, "that any human mind can absorb enough information to be intelligently informed on all those issues."

Pike acknowledges that "people expect a good deal from their public servants" but rejects the notion of "being expected to put in a full day's work in the office every day and a full night's appearance on the banquet or meeting circuit every night."

Tradition-bound institutions like the House invariably are reluctant to accept change, but there's hope for needed future improvements if other lawmakers will join Panetta, Obey and Pike in a candid discussion of the issues.

OPINION PAGE

Adam's folly

It is a shame we didn't have a genius forty years ago as Transportation secretary. From his chair-borne vantage point in the bureaucracy he could have told the airplane engine makers to come up with the jet engine. Just think what that would have done for the military in the World War II effort, not to mention instant 747s for transportation.

All the slow, tedious elements of technological progress could have been circumvented by a command from on high for the industries to get together with the government agency and jump into the future via a government sponsored symposium.

But then, we didn't have a Brock Adams as Transportation secretary in 1938. We have him today and he has just called for a joint research venture between the government and the auto industry to develop a radical new power source for cars.

"I'm talking about re-inventing the car and coming up with a superior vehicle for the future."

Adams told the Economic Club of Detroit: "Events in Iran and the announcement of rationing by American oil companies reinforce my belief that the curtain is quickly dropping on the age of the internal combustion engine as it is, and the fact is, we have no replacement."

"It's time for industry and government to stop butting heads on everything and to start working together for the future," Adams said. He urged leaders of the big four auto companies to join him at an "automotive summit conference" in Washington to begin planning the development of an all new propulsion system for automobiles.

The secretary expressed concern that the industry was not moving ahead on its own with new engine technology.

Heads of the auto firms were startled and cagey but polite in their reaction to the proposal and statements made by Adams. It was indicated by one that the meeting agenda would have to be more specific to gain his company's cooperation. Another said, "I'm not sure what he means."

The auto companies have been hard-pressed to meet requirements on improvements in existing technology. Some of these goals and deadlines were not consistent with normal progress and have created many kinds of costly problems for the auto industry. And these costs have hit consumers hard the last few years.

Adams seeks a "quantum leap forward" in engine technology and advocates using a completely different approach. He mentions the Stirling external combustion engine, turbine engines and electric cars. All of these have had the attention of engineering innovators for many years.

But, of course, they have not had the expertise of top level officials in the bureaucracy to perform a miracle at a summit conference.

It would be our suggestion that Secretary Adams be led by the hand through the automotive design and production facilities and given a course in the history of technological development. He might then be less inclined to suggest that inventions can be mandated by government.

OPEC Economics

WALL STREET JOURNAL

OPEC's announcement of a phased 14.5 percent increase in the price of crude oil over the next nine months was a shock to Washington. But it need not have been. OPEC is behaving in much the way it could be expected to behave if its pricing decisions are analyzed in economic, as opposed to political, terms.

The OPEC nations, acting in what they see as their own best interests, are trying to maximize their oil revenues within the context of their long-term economic needs. It makes some sense for the consumer nations to argue that their attempts will be defeating in that the increases will bring about a world economic slowdown. However, that is simply a way of saying that the proposed price increases might not stick — a real possibility — if supply and demand come into balance at some price level below the one OPEC is seeking to establish.

OPEC obviously thinks it can get the higher prices because of the sharp drop in Iranian oil production during that country's political crisis. Had there not been such a production decline, the oil producers might have had to endure a continued erosion in their real returns because of surplus production capacity and the reduced value of the dollar. To interpret OPEC's deliberations in anything other than these hard-headed terms is to chase will-o'-the-wisps.

The U.S. will not change OPEC's policies by political jawboning as it hopes to do with the pricing policies of American industry. It can, however, change OPEC's policies by operating directly on the world oil supply and demand equation.

It can do this through a strong move towards deregulation of the U.S. energy industry, which, after five years of governmental hand-wringing over energy, still is tangled in federal red tape. The wellhead price for crude oil should be decontrolled as soon as possible to get rid of the silly entitlements program that subsidizes foreign producers. This year's natural gas act should be quickly amended to remove the incremental pricing nonsense that seems certain to disrupt gas distribution and create incentives for industrial users to switch to oil. The meddling interference of environmental radicals with development of coal and nuclear energy should be swept aside with clear federal policies pointing towards exploitation of these two resources under reasonable environmental safeguards.

Finally, the administration should not waver from its efforts to restore the stability of the dollar. Former presidential economic adviser George P. Shultz, now president of Bechtel Corp., wrote in a recent issue of Stanford Magazine that while the real price of crude oil has declined 11 percent in dollar terms since October 1975, it has fallen 25 percent in German marks and 40 percent in Japanese yen.

It is of course true that the most immediate relief from OPEC's latest designs would come from a restoration of normal production of Iran. That, however, appears to be beyond U.S. control. There is nothing at all, beyond half-baked political and economic theories, stopping the U.S. from providing its own relief.

Income tax collectors

By SAM CAMPBELL

The effect of the income tax is to make you an enemy of the government that you were long taught to uphold.

That is, you are constrained to take defensive action to prevent the legitimate side of the law from robbing you worse than the illegitimate side is likely to do.

That places you under stress. On one hand, you look at the government to provide for the common defense and domestic tranquility of society, and on the other hand you are trying to fight it off. This situation leads to strange tactics.

For example, Orange County resident Bill Kaysing has just republished the IRS

"Handbook for Special Agents." He said you could buy it yourself from the government for $10. However, since not many people know such a handbook exists, Kaysing himself is issuing the book, promoting same, and isn't a bit adverse to making a buck by doing so.

The value of the book is that it lets you know what the IRS Intelligence Division (since renamed Criminal Investigation Division) is relying on when it seeks information from you.

If the income tax law were clearly written, the law-abiding citizen would have no trouble obeying its requirements. But it's a jungle. So, in defense of your own interests, you have to rely on the law of the jungle. In other words, you are better prepared to keep what you have earned if you know your enemy, if you understand what the IRS regulations permit the special agent to do and what they forbid him from doing.

Kaysing, officed at 177 Riverside, Suite F, Newport Beach, makes the point that even the IRS concedes that all citizens have the right to refuse to show their records to the IRS although they must produce them after being summoned. As proof, he cites page 34 of the publication, which reproduces item 267.41 of the Internal Revenue Manual. The item states, in part:

"Neither can he - she (i.e. the taxpayer) refuse on the grounds of the Fourth or Fifth amendments, to appear in response to a summons requiring him to testify or produce records. He - she must make the appearance, after which he - she may refuse, on Constitutional grounds, to SHOW sections or to answer specific questions." (Emphasis added.)

Patriotic individuals may be surprised to learn that the manual instructs special agents to search military service records to get the goods on a taxpayer. Within limits, the IRS agent is also authorized to tap Social Security files. Family conversations are not sacrosanct, even between husband and wife, if a child is present who is old enough to understand what is going on.

If the object is terror, the handbook serves a useful purpose. From Kaysing's point of view, the object is to divest the IRS of the power to instill fear. "When somebody can make you afraid, he has power over you," he said.

In an earlier booklet titled "Tax Wars," Kaysing relayed other advice: "This pointed out that the IRS agent is expected by his superiors to generate a certain dollar volume for each hour of work. 'If you can run up his time, he may want to get rid of you,' the counsel stated. Then followed a catalog of time-consuming moves. The main point was, do everything by mail because it takes the bureaucracy longer to write a letter than it does you.

The tax rebels that I have met are loyal persons. Tactics as suggested in the advice quoted, go against their own inclinations. Their central thought is that the income tax should be repealed, that surely we can have a national defense and tolerable civil order without continuation of what rapidly is becoming a financial gessapo. Typically they believe that misgovernment must be resisted in order for true government to be maintained.

Briefly noted

By DON GRAFF

As is all those potential foreign foes weren't enough to worry about, the Army is now encountering a threat within its very own ranks to the expedient accomplishment of its mission to defend the nation.

Sex. Women soldiers — there are now some 56,000 in a total uniformed force of 769,000 — and men soldiers have developed an interest in each other that is not in the line of duty. In fact, as the brass sees it, it interferes with duty.

They are dating. Worse, they are even courting and marrying. And it is leading to serious morale problems, a not unusual consequence of man-woman relationships even for civilians.

The "most potentially dangerous" aspect, according to an official report on the problem, is socializing — or more — between officers and enlisted personnel of both sexes.

It amounts to a "creeping advance of sex fraternization throughout the Army" and the Army wants it, if not stopped, at least curbed. Orders are out to commanders to counsel individuals involved and otherwise discourage relationships that can "reasonably be expected to undermine discipline, authority or morale."

Love, it now appears, conquers all except the U.S. Army.

Bureaucracy's new dimension. Months went into the study. Its conclusions have the approval of 41 federal departments and agencies including the White House and the General Accounting Office. So the Congressional Joint Committee on Federal Printing and Paper Sizes has delivered itself of an official recommendation.

The dimensions of stationery used by agencies of the federal government is to be increased from 8 by 10 1/2 inches to 8 1/2 by 11, conforming to the letterhead size most common in private enterprise. It will also, by the committee's reckoning, give bureaucrats 11 percent more actual paper and 15 percent more text space per page to get their messages across.

This is not a change to be rushed into, however. The new size will not become effective until it is anticipated that existing stocks of the old stationery are used up — Jan. 1, 1980.

Don't bank on it.

Maybe there's a connection with the decline of the dollar and maybe there isn't. The world's 10 top banks, according to a recent listing in The Wall Street Journal and based on reported 1977 assets, included three American institutions.

In 1970, seven U.S. banks made the top 10.

Keep what change?

Tippling is unpopular in restaurants. With restaurant owners, that is. The National Restaurant Association found in a recent survey that 72 percent of its members would rather add a standard service charge to bills, usually 15 percent.

Already that is being done in more and more establishments. The charge makes bookkeeping easier and, it is asserted, employees happier. They are spared poor tippers and everyone, not just the waiter, gets a cut. If generally adopted, it could do away with tipping entirely. Sure, sure.

It pays to save energy

By WILLIAM STEIF

Would you like to save $300 on the federal income tax you must pay next April?

That's a dumb question, isn't it? Everyone would like to reduce that tax by $300.

To do it, you have to spend money — $2,000. But that $2,000 will bring returns beyond the original investment, in the form of lower heating bills. You'll also be more comfortable and enhance the value of your home.

The Energy Tax Act that President Carter signed recently makes the tax saving available and you don't have to spend as much as $2,000. You can get a 15 percent tax credit on energy-conservation spending anywhere up to $2,000.

For example, if you've spent $500 any time between April 20, 1977, and Jan. 1 of next year on storm windows, you can take a 15 percent credit for that expenditure — $75 — and deduct it from what you owe next April 15. Minimum allowable credit is $10, so even if you've only spend $67 on energy conservation in your home you can save $10.

The Internal Revenue Service, which administers the energy credit, has just published a "fact sheet" detailing the rules. It says the credit can be applied only to a "principal residence" — the place you and your family live primarily, no vacation homes.

You can get the credit even if you rent. The qualifying item must be installed between April 20, 1977, and Dec. 31, 1985 (you can take the credit for the year in which the work was done). A credit can be carried over through 1987. Among items available for credit are:

- Exterior storm or thermal windows and doors.

- Exterior caulking or weatherstripping for windows or doors.

- A furnace replacement burner reducing the amount of fuel used.

- A device making fuel openings for heating systems more efficient.

- Such energy-saving gadgets as electrical or mechanical furnace ignition systems that replace gas pilot lights, automatic setback thermostats, and meters displaying the cost of energy usage.

Here are some of the things that DON'T count: carpets, draperies, wood paneling, exterior siding, heat pumps, wood or peat-fueled heating systems, swimming pools used to "store" energy, greenhouses.

You must be the first person to use the energy-saving item to qualify for a credit; the item must be expected to remain in use at least three years.

Co-op owners and condominium owners are treated as sharing the co-op's or condominium's energy saving spending; that is, if a co-op or condo owner contributes an amount to the building's energy-saving plan, 15 percent of that amount can be claimed as a credit on the individual's tax return. Co-op or condo owners who spend individually for energy saving in their units can treat the spending just as any other home owner in their tax returns.

You may want help in deciding how to make your home more efficient. Under the new law, electric and gas utilities must inform customers about feasible conservation improvements and estimated cost and energy savings of each recommendation. The utilities also are supposed to provide lists of lenders, contractors and suppliers.

Legislature, public termed on same wave length

Clements pledges cooperation

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov.-elect Bill Clements thinks he's on the same wave length with most Texas legislators, as he was with Texas voters on Nov. 7.

"I think that most of the legislature understands that most of them were elected by the same people that elected me," Clements said in an interview with the Associated Press. "They feel a responsibility to be responsive to what I am talking about. There is not one set of voters out there who elected me and another set who elected the legislature. These are one and the same people."

"You would be amazed how many legislators have told me they fully understand that," Clements, who talks fast and moves fast, does not take office until Jan. 16 in what may be the most elaborate gubernatorial inauguration in several decades. But he has been busy since the general election votes were counted in a small 10th floor office of a downtown office building.

Day after day, and some nights, there has been a constant stream of visitors and job hunters to the small office where the 61-year-old self-made multi-millionaire sits behind a bare wooden desk.

Clements' plan for dealing with the predominantly Democratic Legislature is simple — follow the aggressive personal contact method that was so successful when he was Deputy Secretary of Defense in Washington.

"I have met with four groups that constituted more than 100 members of the Legislature," he says proudly. "In addition I have met with a large number of committee chairmen and people like that on a one-on-one basis. I intend to develop these personal relationships with the legislators and be fully sensitive to their needs and their responsibilities to their own constituents. I represent all the people of the state. I'm where this whole process comes together as being the highest elected official statewide and I intend for us to have a legislative program that is responsive to this state."

Clements will make an inaugural address on Jan. 16 and present his proposed state budget about Feb. 1. But there will be no big unloading of his entire program at one time.

"We've got several months before we end up with definite answers to these questions and I'm not going to cut off the process half way through or even before it starts," he said. The big issues of the session are easy to point out.

"You have to put tax reduction No. 1 and no. 2 undoubtedly is the issue of improving the quality of our education. Between those two there is the school finance problem, a separate issue but a part of both."

Next, Clements says, are our relations with Mexico. He has plans to meet with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, at a date to be announced later, and discuss three subjects that also are of interest to the Texas Legislature.

"Illegal aliens, that's a problem that's got to be solved," he said. "There's not any question whatsoever that Texas has a role to play in this. For us to be in default and abrogate our position is absurd."

sense of an amnesty program put forth by President Carter. Another matter to be discussed would be the border drug traffic.

And third would be Mexico's new oil and gas reserves. "It is absolutely necessary that we now commit to market some reasonable amount of Mexico's gas and oil for our energy requirements in the United States and allow us here in Texas to conserve our national resources in a technical and reasonable basis."

"Talking with Mexico about these three main things would set the tone for what the United States does at the national level," Clements declared.

Clements says he is not only optimistic of his relations with the legislature, but he is not afraid of the strongly entrenched Democrats either.

"I feel strongly that the people of Texas have spoken, they have said what they want in approving the tax relief amendment by 85 percent."

"If the Legislature in its wisdom sees fit to do otherwise and violates the will of the people and does not carry it out to the letter and the spirit, I will veto it."

"I'm not afraid of that," Clements says with a smile. "I see no sign of that."

Aliens must report

If you are an alien in the United States you must report your address to the United States Government each January.

In view of serious penalties for failure to comply with the law, the government has made it easy for you to meet this requirement.

Go to your nearest United States Post Office during January and at offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service after Jan. 31 to obtain an Alien Address Report form. After filling out all items on the form, sign the form, place a stamp on the reverse side and drop in any mail box.

If you have alien children under 14 years of age, a parent or guardian must fill out the form for them.

If you are disabled, a friend or relative can obtain the form for you.

New railroad head says he sold oil, gas holdings

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — New Texas Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent, whose predecessor resigned after his family inherited natural gas-producing land, says he has sold his own oil and gas-related financial holdings to also avoid a potential conflict of interest.

Nugent, 56, a Kerrville Democrat who represented a sprawling Hill Country legislative district for 18 years, was sworn in here Thursday to the powerful three-member commission that regulates Texas' oil and natural gas production.

Nugent was appointed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to serve the remaining four years of Jon Newton's six-year term. Newton resigned Dec. 7, saying he wanted to avoid a possible conflict of interest resulting from natural gas production on South Texas property recently inherited by his wife.

After being sworn in by Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court, Nugent told an overflow hometown crowd, "I had certain financial holdings which raised the question of a conflict of interest when Gov. Briscoe first notified me of my appointment."

"As of this time, I have sold those holdings which presented a conflict of interest or have them under a binding contract of sale, which will be closed as expeditiously as possible," he added.

"Responsibilities of this agency are too important for there to be a public question about the freedom of a member of this commission to make a decision that could involve a personal interest."

Nugent said those holdings represented a "very minor portion of my income."

"They included, he added, "a very small" amount of energy-producing land and some stock in companies under the jurisdiction of the commission.

Nugent's appointment must still be confirmed by the Texas Senate, which convenes Tuesday. He said, however, that he anticipates no problem being confirmed.

Nine candidates are competing in Saturday's special election to replace Nugent. The ceremony was attended by more than 300 persons, including Briscoe, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Newton, the other two railroad commission members and a host of legislators and state officials.

Summit to focus on security issues

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAINT FRANCOIS, Guadeloupe (AP) — President Carter and three European allies focus their Caribbean summit today on key Western security issues, including the future of Iran and its oil resources and China's future role in the world.

The agenda for the two days of discussions was worked out Thursday night while Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, spent a relaxed, convivial evening over an elaborate French meal with British Prime Minister James Callaghan, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, their host, French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, and their wives.

Giscard told reporters as the leaders gathered at a seaside resort Thursday afternoon: "We want talks without academics — simple, plain and direct."

U.S. officials said the leaders might hold most of their sessions, which will conclude Saturday, without advisers at their sides.

The most prominent academic on the scene is Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser. There was no indication, however, that Giscard's comment was directed at him.

American sources report the four leaders are united in hoping Iran will achieve political stability and resume oil production without total repudiation of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Giscard talks of China playing an increasingly important role in a world of "multi-polarization," in which the United States and the Soviet Union will be joined by other major power centers.

Callaghan, who faces national elections this year, seems ready to take the lead in arranging a major arms sale to China, a deal that could mean thousands of jobs and billions of dollars for the British economy.

The Carter administration, which opened diplomatic relations with China only this week, is taking a neutral stance toward such arms sales so long as the weapons are characterized as defensive in character. But the Soviet Union has given formal warning that arms sales to Peking would have serious although unspecified consequences.

The Chinese want to acquire about 80 Harrier jump-jet warplanes, a British product effective against tanks and capable of taking off from short runways. There are few, if any, full-scale jetports along the disputed Chinese-Soviet border.

Some Pentagon officials share a European belief that if China's industrial and military prowess is enhanced, Moscow would be compelled to reinforce its eastern frontiers and this could ease Soviet military pressure in Europe.

Carter and Giscard both have emphasized that the Caribbean summit will produce no major decisions. This is necessarily so because a number of their allies were not invited to the talks. These include the other three countries that participate in the periodic economic summits — Japan, Canada and Italy — as well as the other nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Weather Texas forecasts

By The Associated Press
An Arctic cold front moved southward across the Red River into North Texas early today, bringing with it freezing drizzle, freezing rain and snow.
Much of North and West Texas was under a winter storm watch today as the National Weather Service warned of freezing drizzle, freezing rain, sleet and snow accumulations today and Saturday.
The Dallas area, still attempting to dig out from last weekend's devastating ice storm, expected additional accumulations of ice from the latest storm.
Texans living south of the area anticipating the latest wintry onslaught had little to look forward to weatherwise. Dense fog cut visibility to near zero in the Hill Country and dense fog was reported in South Texas as well as in areas of the Panhandle. Forecasts called for drizzle rain and some possible thunderstorms in the southern half of the state.

National
By The Associated Press
Rain and freezing drizzle slicked roads in Oklahoma and northern Texas, and cold temperatures continued today from the Midwest to the Atlantic Coast.
Deaths related to the cold were reported Thursday in Illinois, where two mentally retarded boys were found frozen to death, and in Georgia, where an elderly woman died in a fire kindled by sparks from a bedroom fireplace.
Electric use records were set in Milwaukee and in North and South Carolina.
Schools were closed Thursday in parts of Oklahoma because of ice-coated roads, and Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh ordered all non-essential state workers to stay home today because of the hazardous driving conditions.

WEATHER FORECAST by the National Weather Service calls for snow flurries, showers or rain in a band from southern California and the Rockies to the Mississippi Valley. Snow flurries are also expected from North Carolina to New England. Most of the nation will have cold to very cold temperatures.

Shah's family seeks refuge

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The besieged mother and sister of Iran's troubled shah have found refuge in a sprawling desert estate, where former President Richard Nixon also sought a haven in recent years.
Queen Mother Tadj Ul Moluk and Princess Chams arrived at the oasis winter residence of Walter Annenberg Wednesday night after they became the targets of anti-shah violence in Beverly Hills.
Federal, state and local authorities are protecting the estate — surrounded by a high wall and Tamarisk trees — said Annenberg, the former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain.
Asked about security against possible violence by anti-shah demonstrators — at Sunnylands near Rancho Mirage, the 70-year-old publisher replied: "If they come, so be it."
Annenberg served as ambassador to Great Britain from 1969 to 1974, and his winter home provided seclusion for Richard Nixon following the former president's resignation in 1974.

"When the government of the United States offers shelter to those seeking protection from radical extremists, the citizens of this country should respond affirmatively if necessary," he said.
The 90-year-old mother of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was flown to Los Angeles from riot-swept Iran last weekend, reportedly to seek medical attention.

She was at the Beverly Hills home of her daughter, Princess Chams, on Tuesday when about 500 protesters — including many Iranian students attending U.S. colleges — rushed the house.
Demonstrators broke windows and set fire to cars before being driven back by police using tear gas and fire hoses.

In a statement to the Palm Springs Desert Sun, Annenberg called the attack "outrageous conduct."

'Peaceful reunification' sought

PEKING (AP) — Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping says he hopes China can get Taiwan back peacefully this year, but he doesn't rule out regaining it by "other than peaceful means."
To rule out other means, the senior vice premier told American correspondents at a news conference today, would tie China's hands. But he emphasized that peaceful reunification of the mainland and the big offshore island is Peking's goal.
Teng said his government "will be taking a variety of measures in different forms" to open discussions with President Chiang Ching-kuo and other leaders of the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan.

Chiang has repeatedly rejected negotiations with the Communists, and his government has rebuffed the overtures Peking has been making almost daily since the Nationalists' mainstay, the United States, opened diplomatic relations with Peking on Jan. 1 and broke formal relations with Taipei.
But Teng, who is 74, said he expects to see the mainland in control of Taiwan within his lifetime. He added with a smile: "I can live for at least another 10 years."

Teng, who begins a visit to Washington on Jan. 28, spoke with the American reporters for an hour conference in the Great Hall of the People. He spoke in Chinese entirely, using an interpreter, chain-smoked throughout and appeared to relish the session.
Asked about China's getting most-favored-nation tariff status from the United States, which Washington denies the Soviet Union because of its restrictions on Jewish emigration, Teng said his government is "making great efforts in this regard" and "trying to give full play to democracy." But he said he hopes there will be no discussion abroad of "human rights in China," "for each country has its own interpretation or explanation."

He denied Soviet charges that Chinese-American normalization will lead to a military alliance of Washington, Peking and Tokyo.

Vietnamese troops advance

By DENIS D. GRAY
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese divisions were reported driving north, south and east of Phnom Penh today in an apparent move to throttle the Cambodian capital.
"I would not be surprised if Phnom Penh was evacuated soon and the government took to the countryside," one European diplomat in Bangkok said.

Other Bangkok analysts said the Vietnamese bypassed Kompong Cham, 45 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and may have moved 19 or more miles west of the Mekong River to a point near the dead center of Cambodia.

The analysts said Takeo, a provincial capital 37 miles south of Phnom Penh, had been taken by the Vietnamese, who were believed to have moved most of a 100,000-man force into Cambodia.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: The following item appeared recently in my column:

DEAR ABBY: While flying from Los Angeles to Chicago recently, I was rudely awakened from a much-needed nap by a booming voice that came over the loudspeaker with: "This is your captain speaking. We are now flying over the Grand Canyon . . . etc."

Abby, this was not a charter flight carrying a load of sight-seeing hicks who had never flown before. I'm sure most of the passengers had already seen the Grand Canyon from 39,000 feet.

Be a friend to those of us who fly the friendly skies frequently and print this. It might help.

J.E. IN L.A.

DEAR J.E.: I also fly the friendly skies frequently, and concur. (Captain, oh, captain, are you listening?)

Ever since the above hit print, I have been deluged with reader reaction. For example:

DEAR ABBY: To assume that others should miss the opportunity of a lifetime because YOU have already seen the Grand Canyon at 39,000 feet is selfish and inconsiderate. If you and J.E. find it necessary to nap in the afternoon, you should get to bed earlier or see a doctor.

J.K. IN COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA

DEAR ABBY: H. J.E. doesn't appreciate the captain's announcements, why doesn't he charter his own private jet and put a hood over his head?

BILL C. IN ELIZABETH, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: I am a private pilot and recently flew to Arizona on a commercial flight. This was my first flight west. The captain's voice, calling attention to points of interest, increased the pleasure of the flight immensely. I had a window seat, but there were three noses pressed against it. So, Abby, stick this in your boarding pass and enjoy your next flight.

E.C. IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you and J.E., reluctantly, that sleeping passengers should be allowed to sleep. However, you should not have allowed his arrogant, deprecating allusion to "sight-seeing hicks" to have passed without reprimand.

BERNARD SCOTT, ERIE, PENN.

DEAR BERNARD: You're right. I apologize.

DEAR ABBY: Fares are now low enough so that many are flying for the first time. Those who want to sleep during a daytime flight should use earplugs. I slept soundly at 2 a.m. during a forced landing while the rest of the passengers prayed and sang hymns.

A.I.M. IN S.F.

DEAR ABBY: I love to hear the captain's voice come booming over the loudspeaker at any time of the day or night! It lets me know that he's up there, wide-awake and tending to business.

J.E. IN N.Y.C.

DEAR ABBY: As a flight attendant I am frequently asked how high are we, how fast are we going, and what is it that we just flew over. I can answer a lot of these questions, but the captain is the authority, and has been complimented by many passengers for his informative and witty comments.

BETTY FOR NORTH CENTRAL

DEAR ABBY: I agree, some captains are too verbose on the P.A., so after 30 years of flying, I delegate the public relations duties to the second officer; however, research indicates that two few announcements are made. The complaints come not from first-timers, but from the 100,000-milers.

CAPTAIN GEORGE F. WITH U.A.I.

DEAR ABBY: My personal thanks to every pilot who takes the time and trouble to speak to his passengers during the flight. I'm 26, and had my first flight last week. I was terribly frightened, but when the captain's voice came over the loudspeaker, it was so reassuring, I forgot my fear, calmed down immediately and enjoyed the flight.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was 22 I had to have a total hysterectomy because of an infection. This was five years ago. Ever since then I have been taking Premarin. I've gained a lot of weight. I just can't seem to lose it. I want to know if the Premarin has anything to do with my not being able to lose weight?

My doctor has told me I have to take these the rest of my life but I don't want to be overweight. I've tried asking my doctor for a good diet but since he himself is overweight he just tells me, "Forget it, you'll never lose."

He won't ever tell me why. So, I've just stopped asking him. I really do want to lose and I am confident that I can. Recently when I went for my prescription, my regular doctor was on vacation and there was a lady doctor. She decreased my dosage of Premarin and I lost 14 pounds. Can you please help me? I'm desperate. I hate being overweight.

DEAR READER — Maybe you ought to change to the lady doctor on a permanent basis. Your letter makes an important point. Many doctors' treatment of their patients is affected by their own life style and habits.

So it is that a fat doctor certainly is not very effective in helping his patients to lose weight. The doctor who smokes has difficulty in getting his patients to quit smoking or stay off cigarettes. Doctors are also teachers and one of the best ways of teaching is by example.

I am proud to say that doctors as a whole have the best record of any occupation in quitting smoking. If the general public would do nearly as well as physicians have done, the health problems associated with cigarette smoking would have been markedly decreased already.

Many women gain weight after a hysterectomy. Sometimes it is associated with changes in hormone balance. It is certainly associated with changes in eating habits and levels of physical activity. Also, since most women have a hysterectomy in middle life or later, it is also the time in their lives when they are inclined to gain weight if they aren't very careful about their life style.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet to provide you a basic diet plan. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send you request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Regardless of your previous hysterectomy or medicines, it is still true that if you eat more calories than you use you will tend to get fat. If you eat less calories than you use, you will lose fat.

Try to improve your diet and increase your level of physical activity. If you're successful in doing this, it will go a long way toward helping control your weight problem.

It is true that young women who have a hysterectomy need to have hormone replacement if the ovaries were also removed. The amount you need is an individual matter and has to be determined in each case. Irrespective of this, a sensible diet and exercise program is an important way of helping to prevent becoming overweight after a hysterectomy at any age or after the ovaries cease functioning with the normal change of life.

GLEAMING BRASS AND GOLDEN OAK

In today's homes, country natural is achieved through a melding of natural materials, textures and sturdy, comfortable furniture.

Rooms can go country all the way, or only part way when you use a few carefully selected furniture pieces as accents.

Other hints from the professional decorator:

- Country furniture's warm wood tones enhance the traditional room.

- The transitional room that's neither traditional nor modern can be updated with a new focus on a country chest or table.

- Modern rooms are more interesting visually when an antique piece and/or country nostalgia reproductions are added.

- When you select a round, oak, kitchen pedestal table of the 30's, like the one from Ward's moderately priced Americana collection, your kitchen/dining area becomes the combination kitchen, parlor and family room our forefathers enjoyed. After the meal, children remain there to do homework, work on craft projects or share in family games.

Including a secretary in the room will provide extra storage, as well as space for menu-planning and catching up on correspondence while you stay near your family.

Country charm comes easily to the bedroom, too, if you display handwork like patchwork quilts, afghans and hooked rugs.

The mood can go decidedly romantic if you add a brass bed and coverlet with a eyelash dust ruffle.

Other pieces that set a properly old-fashioned tone include roll-top desks, washstands, tilting mirrors, curio chests, hall trees and plant stands.

The old-fashioned is decidedly the new fashion for America's homes—and a good recipe for getting the family together again.

Her one good chance is

On the street after leaving home

NEW YORK (NEA) — They're no match, the New York pimp and the female runaway.

Police say he spots her faster than they can, in or around Port Authority Bus Terminal off New York's seedy Times Square.

He sidles up to the white girl, 12 to 17, from all kinds of families in New England, Florida, California, and says, "Hi, can I buy you a cup of coffee?"

If she moves off, he stops her with "What's the matter, you prejudiced because I'm black?" (White pimps work out of high-rise luxury buildings, police say.)

One way or another, he breaks the ice. Then he buys her a meal and gets her a room in a fleabag hotel.

And for three or four days, he's what she wants him to be. He's Daddy because she doesn't get on with hers or never had one; or he's Good-time Charlie because Mom and Dad said movies and music were sinful. And so on.

But then comes the payoff. "Look, kid, I owe these four guys a favor and you're it." And willingly or not, she is.

The gang rape starts her sexual break-in period which often includes beatings and drugs, and then she's on the street turning between five and 10 tricks a night, for $20 or $30 each, which she turns back to him.

Chances are she's one of the "prosties" who "stroll" Madison Avenue and 32nd Street come dark, when the business area is otherwise deserted. She looks like any working girl, only older than her age because, "they age faster on the street," police say.

So one night three months ago — for the 28th time in the past few years — she took off with a guy who offered to bring her home. "I only had $10 but he had money. I didn't know he was a pimp when I first met him — I was really ripped! — but I knew when I left with him."

He promised her glamor and travel and, "He said we'd be a gentleman and a lady."

Instead, she worked the streets. "I was nervous my first night out," she says. "My pimp put me on Lexington and 25th Street at midnight and my first trick was a young white guy in a VW from California, he said. About 25. He seemed scared," she laughs, "and I felt I had control. I made $75 for two tricks that night."

The pimp got the money, but she got two new outfits and a plate of filet mignon. "I have expensive taste."

All told, she says, she's made about $10,000, but it's all been spent, mostly by the pimp. Still, she was lucky with him and the others she says she's had. None of them ever used her ear as an ashtray or cut off a breast, common brutalities, police say.

So she stayed with him not out of fear — the reason the runaway doesn't run away again — but because, she says, "We all need love whether we get it in return or not, and I had my man."

being picked up soon by the plainclothes Runaway Unit of New York's Police Department: six officers and one supervisor who yearly return 450 runaways out of 16,000, they say, who pass through at any time. (Only five states recognize 16 as the age of majority, so most of them are under 18.)

"If we can get a girl who's out on the street for a week, it's just a bad chapter in her life," says Officer Peter Spangler. "We call her home in front of her and if she doesn't want us to we don't tell her parents she was a hooker. Why do that? It's tough enough for her to reform as it is."

But if going home means re-entering an old nightmare, he says, "We won't send her back to that environment. We'll contact social services in her city to start investigation there, but she won't be sent home until we know if, say, she is being abused there."

Sometimes the parents don't even want her back. "Mostly they do, like the ones driving from Pennsylvania tonight to pick up their 17-year-old daughter who sits smoking in the Runaway Unit's downtown offices."

Blonde, tall, chunky, she looks like a young country girl. Too young, which is why someone at the decrepit Brooklyn Hotel she was living in called the police.

"I was just tired of everything, that's why I left," she begins. "My parents are really religious and when I was younger I couldn't drink or smoke or wear short skirts. And my mother and I fight a lot. It's always been a competition for my father's affection."

Patty's plan

Work for battered wives, get married and have one or two children — that's the life Patty Hearst sees for herself in the future.

"I think I'll have a fairly normal life," she says in the current issue of McCall's, noting she expects in five years to be "working for some community or feminist organization."

She adds, "My feminist consciousness really started when I began the trial experience, coming to grips with myself and what had been done to me."

Hats and hair back to past

LOOKING BACK — Fashionable heads return to the 1940s this spring as longer hair twists and rolls beneath perky and petite hats. Instead of the time-consuming pin curls of the '40s, today's nostalgia seeker can tame wisps and curl ends with a modern curling iron. At left, for a glamorous mood, free-falling curls are topped by a twist reminiscent of the movie queens of yesteryear. At right, a sophisticated look with sleekly knotted styling softened by wispy tendrils.

With the proper clothing, a man can stand the extreme cold as low as 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Fame helped star get into Congress

By Murray Olderman
(Second of three parts)

warned the people of Buffalo ... that if he's not elected ... he's going to come back and play quarterback."

The line is good for a rouser in Kemp's current political spiel.

He won that 1970 race with 52 percent of the vote. He was re-elected by landslides in 1972, 1974 and 1976. This last November, he got a 95 percent mandate.

"We all know that commercial value in a free enterprise system," Kemp tells a Chicago audience, "is determined by the law of supply and demand. With O.J. Simpson signing a contract for $3 million and Reggie Jackson for $3.75 million, I want to share with you the commercial value placed on my services. Back in 1962, I was sold from the San Diego Chargers to the Buffalo Bills for $100.

"I didn't mind that — but they asked for change." "I feel a kinship with you," he says to the convention of the National Association of Small Business Investors in Williamsburg, Va. "I'm an entrepreneur. I played quarterback in the AFL and the NFL. There's no more entrepreneurial activity in the world than being a quarterback in the pros."

He was an organizer and president of the American Football League Players Association. Jack calls it a labor union to impress the highly organized district he represents with the fact he is sympathetic to labor — although his voting record appals national AFL-CIO leaders.

In Boulder, Colo., on his favorite subject — tax reduction — he tells a college audience of 1,000, "We need to bring back the reward for human effort, for both labor and capital, by reducing capital gains taxes and personal income taxes."

He theorizes, "Imagine what would have happened before the World Series if the IRS had come into the Yankee locker room and taxed Reggie Jackson's salary away and redistributed it equally among the Yankee players."

It's a rhetorical question, and Kemp doesn't expect an answer. But from the back of the hall, a young man pops up. "He'd hit singles!" Kemp loves it. "People understand intuitively," he adds, "there has to be a reward for the home run hitter."

The politician who was a physical education major at little Occidental College (B.A., 1957) in Southern California — he was born and raised in Hollywood — is more than a converted jock. He is a polished, articulate speaker and sensitive about his athletic background.

"People think you're supposed to be dumb," he frowns. "They don't expect a jock to be able to engage in dialectic debate."

Kemp has done graduate study at Long Beach State and California Western in education and political science.

He is also an avid reader, particularly of economic treatises. He has done his homework to marshal facts and figures behind his advocacy of tax reforms.

Soviets experiencing border problems

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Serious trouble spots are developing along vast areas of the Soviet Union's non-European borders — more problems than the Soviets have had to deal with at one time since World War II. Western diplomatic analysts say. Clearly, it has the Kremlin worried.

Afghanistan all have known periods of turmoil before, but never have all been so unstable simultaneously.

Complicating the picture is China, which has a troubled 4,350-mile border with the Soviet Union and has just opened diplomatic relations with the United States.

It adds up to this: With the exception of Mongolia, Kremlin strategists are now faced with uncertainty in every country that the U.S.S.R. borders from the Middle East to the Pacific.

In addition to developments in China, the Kremlin must consider that:

—Iran, which separates the Soviet Union from the Persian Gulf and has ethnic links to Azerbaijanis and Turkmenis living in the U.S.S.R., has been wracked by rioting aimed at deposing Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. Iran has been pro-West, but also supplies the Soviets with natural gas. And the foreign policy of any successor would be hard to predict.

—In Turkey, a NATO member whose government has taken steps toward normalizing relations with Moscow, martial law has been declared after rioting in the eastern part of the country.

—In Afghanistan, the Soviets have become deeply involved in the survival of a fragile regime. And in Pakistan, whose border with Afghanistan comes within a few miles of the Soviet Union, deposed Premier Zulfikar Ali Bhutto is appealing a death sentence — which, if carried out, could split his nation.

The Peking regime capped a year of vigorous diplomatic activity by normalizing relations with the United States — a move that prompted uneasiness in the Kremlin about the objectives behind it.

Diplomatic sources are uncertain what to expect now. They say it is possible to argue that the Russians' concern over developments in Asia and China will make them more accommodating toward the West — or that they will do anything they can to prove that expectation wrong.

"I don't think there's been a time since the war when the Soviets have had to cope with so many problems at the same time," said one senior Western envoy. "They are masters at the international chess board but there are too many imponderables at present to move with confidence in one game, let alone in several."

One factor the Kremlin must consider is whether its own Moslem population could be swept up in the Islamic revival in the Arab world, Iran and Pakistan. One in seven Soviet citizens is a Moslem.

The stakes are greatest in oil-rich Iran.

The White House said Wednesday that the carrier Constellation and accompanying ships are still in the South China Sea with no indication they will be moved nearer Iran.

Why should our son have a newspaper route?

The living is good. Plenty of money, nice home, nice furnishings, another salary raise in sight; we've never had it so good. Why should our son manage a newspaper route?

Most any educator or businessman will tell you why in three simple words: it builds character.

Oftentimes the youngster who grows up in comfortable circumstances and who gets his weekly "handout" from dad never realizes the value of money or the efforts required to make it and manage it, until he's on his own. By then attitudes and habits are difficult to reverse.

But the newspaperboy quickly learns valuable lessons that stick. While making money on a newspaper route is important, the experience of getting-the-job-done-no-matter-what is more important. When through route management, responsibility and self-confidence are acquired at this early age, a newspaperboy has an advantage over other youngsters that no amount of money can buy.

If you're still wondering whether your son would benefit from newspaper route management, ask a community businessman or civic leader, or better still, phone our Circulation Department.

China decision often applauded

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The establishment of U. S. diplomatic relations with Communist China has stirred mixed reactions in the churches, but the leadership of mainline Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations long has favored it.

Their representatives hailed the step by President Carter as greatly enhancing "the prospect of peace in the world." Some Christian leaders said it also increased the eventual possibilities for resumption of church work in China.

But there was some individual dissent and the nation's Roman Catholic bishops never have taken an official position on the matter, although informed assessments were that most of them favored recognition.

Most major Protestant and Orthodox bodies, acting jointly through the National Council of Churches, have been on record for 12 years for steps toward normalizing relations between the two countries.

"On the whole the reaction among church leaders to Carter's action has been very positive," said the Rev. Franklin Woo, a Chinese American and long-time missionary in Hong Kong who now heads the National Council's China desk.

Attorney to speak

Gray County residents will participate in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints state conference at 2 p.m. Sunday in David Crockett Junior High at 4720 Floyd in Amarillo.

Speaker will be D. Carl Richards of Dallas, a regional representative of the 12 Apostles of the Church. He is an attorney with Richards, Harris and Medlock of Dallas.

The conference will be conducted by Arlo D. Moss, state president. Moss, of Brownfield, is a soil conservationist with the United States Department of Agriculture.

Laron B. Voyles is bishop of the church at Pampa.

Local services set

The First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 1700 Alcock, will have a week of special revival services beginning Sunday and continuing through Jan. 14. The services will begin nightly at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Otis Garrison of Amarillo. After several years as pastor, Mr. Garrison and his wife, Bonnie, also an ordained minister have entered evangelistic work.

In inviting everyone to attend the services, Pastor Albert Maggard said: "I feel that we're very fortunate to be able to have this wonderfully consecrated evangelistic team in Pampa. I hope you won't miss this chance to here them."

Ban continues on religious books

GLENDALE - Players and spectators of the 1980 summer Olympic games in Moscow will be welcome provided they bring no religious literature into the country, warns the official Communist newspaper Izvestia.

While the ban on Bibles, Korans and any religious material has been in effect for 60 years, the Izvestia warning implies tighter surveillance against missionary efforts to infiltrate crowds and propagate their beliefs during the games.

According to Michael Wurmbrand, general director of Jesus to the Communist World Inc. of Glendale, Calif., the penalty for distributing religious literature is two to five years imprisonment.

Wurmbrand asserts the ban will not stop his organization's support to the Russian underground church. Secret evangelism efforts behind the Iron Curtain are major efforts of the Glendale mission.

Missionary societies closely guard smuggling methods used for infiltrating Communist countries with the Gospel. Couriers are carefully trained to protect not only themselves and the literature, but their contacts.

HERE IS THE PATH

Mommie ... They want me to come to church.

Yes, Mommie, they do want her in church, for in the church, they have a place for all ages. No child is too young to learn. This also provides you an opportunity to worship and give undivided attention to church services.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this "grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

January 6, 1978

This coming year you could become involved with a partner in an undertaking that is large in scope. Your chances for success are excellent so long as you are both aiming at the same target.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Selfish motives could enter the picture today in your dealings with others. Go it alone in things that are important to you. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in 1979 by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Better not say anything if you can't say something nice today. This is especially true in dealings with your family, where an explosive situation could occur.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't try to overcome others with your ideas today. If they're not buying, pressuring them won't do the trick.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might have to watch your temper because it has a very short fuse today. You could easily blow up over the slightest thing that goes against you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In trying to satisfy others you are likely to change course too often to be effective today.

Chances are, things could get bungled.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful that you don't say things out of spite that are, better left unsaid. The person who suffers in the end will be you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Blaming the family because you can't afford to do something isn't fair, and you know it. You're the one who unbalanced your budget.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others will do as you do today, so provide a positive example. If your actions are negative, they'll emulate them as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For one who usually plays it pretty close to the vest, you may be out of character today and abandon prudence. You could even take a foolish financial risk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Because of impatience you might wipe out what you had already gained. Take things slowly. Haste in this case will make waste.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If things don't go exactly as you feel they should today, you could make a negative decision that has no place to go but against you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be extra-cautious today with work for which you're responsible. If you have any big ideas, better sleep on them before you try them out.

Guidry winner of Male Athlete award

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

markable pitching seasons in major league baseball history, was named Male Athlete of the Year for 1978 by The Associated Press today.

Guidry, who was the unanimous choice for the American League's Cy Young Award after posting a remarkable 25-3 record last season, received 143 votes in nationwide balloting by 412 sports writers and broadcasters. The Yankee's southpaw easily outdistanced another baseball star, Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies, who finished second with 94 votes after setting a modern National League record by hitting safely in 44 consecutive games for the Cincinnati Reds last season.

Jim Rice, the Boston Red Sox slugger who beat Guidry for the American League's Most Valuable Player Award, was third with 38.

Muhammad Ali, who became the first man in history to win the heavyweight championship three times, finished fourth, with 26. He was just ahead of rookie running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers, the National Football League rushing leader with 1,450 yards, who had 23.

Auto racer Mario Andretti (13), marathon runner Bill Rodgers (12), Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates (9), Triple Crown jockey Steve Cauthen (8), and tennis star Bjorn Borg (7) completed the top 10 finishers. Cauthen won the award last year. Guidry's winning percentage of .893 was the best ever for a 20-game winner and his earned run average of 1.74 was the lowest by an American League left-hander since Dutch Leonard's 1.01 in 1914. The Yankee left-hander also had nine shutouts, tying the AL record set in 1916 by Babe Ruth.

Guidry started the season with a 13-game winning streak, and for the first half of the year was the only dependable pitcher his floundering team had. Fifteen of his 25 victories, which included the division clincher in the single-game playoff against Boston, came after New York losses.

He pitched the pennant clincher in the championship series against Kansas City and resumed his stopper role in the World Series, winning the third game against Los Angeles after the Yankees had dropped the first two contests.

The slim southpaw set a club record with 248 strikeouts in 2732.3 innings, breaking a Yankee mark that had endured for 74 years since Jack Chesbro fanned 239 in 1904. He finished second in the AL in strikeouts, trailing only California's Nolan Ryan, who had 260.

Guidry was named the Female Athlete of the Year Wednesday.

Duke, Faggins leaders

Steve Duke and Ronnie Faggins are leading the Pampa Harvesters in every statistical category but one going into tonight's game at Dumas, according to figures compiled by the basketball team's managers.

Doug Baird is the leader in free throw shooting — he's sunk both of his attempts thus far — but his statistics cover just five of Pampa's 18 games. Steve Stout is the free throw leader (69 percent) for players with 16 or more games under their belts, while Joe Jeffers has connected on 65 percent of his charity tosses. Doug Skaggs has hit 9 of 10 attempts in seven games.

Duke and Faggins pace the Harvesters in four categories apiece. Duke has scored at a 15.3-point per game clip and has 57 assists, 3 steals and 59 turnovers. Faggins, meanwhile, has put 46 percent of his field goal attempts through the hoop, grabbed 99 defensive and 59 offensive rebounds and committed 58 fouls.

Other scoring averages in double figures include Stout (12.4), Faggins (11.6) and Skaggs (11.1). Stout barely trails Faggins in the rebounding department with 53 offensive and 93 defensive caroms. Stout and Cedrick Parker are both shooting 45 percent from the field, while Duke and Skaggs are at 42 percent.

The following statistics are for 18 games except for Parker (16), Skaggs (seven), Darrell Narron (six) and Baird (five). Figures in parentheses are percentages or per-game averages.

Eighth grade Red team rallies

The Borger Reds topped the eighth grade Blue team by a 57-44 count. Mike Nelson hit 17 points in a losing effort and Dennis Dougherty and Danny Guerra had six apiece. Borger's Terrance Sheppard had 18 to lead all scorers, while Bulldog Tony Tillman scored 11.

In girls action, Pampa's eighth grade team pushed its season mark to 4-1 with a 23-22 win over Plainview in overtime. A field goal by Doretta Bruce and Carla Rogers' free throw iced the game for Pampa in the extra period after regulation time expired with a 20-20 tie. Rogers' seven points topped Pampa scorers, while Whitney Kidwell and Keva Richardson had three apiece.

Plainview beat the ninth grade girls team 43-31 despite 13 points (and 98 percent free throw shooting) by Amy Wheeler. Sharolyn Salisbury added 11, but it wasn't enough to offset the small mistakes and early foul trouble that plagued Pampa.

All six teams will return to action Monday as the girls travel to Stanton, the Reds take on Stanton in Pampa and the Blues travel to Plainview.

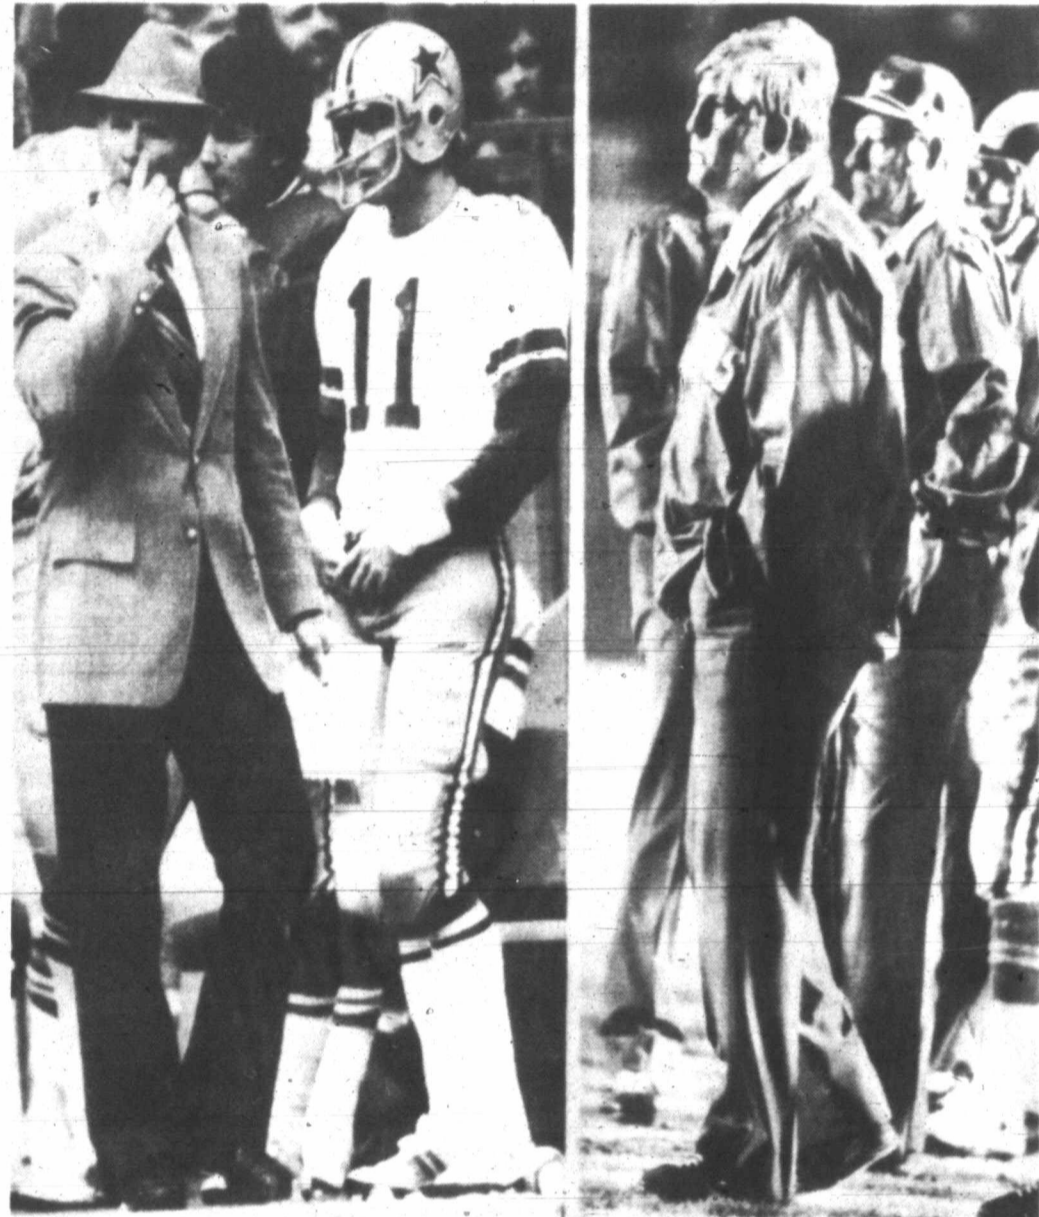

Down by as many as 19 points in the second half, the eighth grade boys Red basketball team roared back for a 44-41 win over Plainview Thursday night.

Randy Skaggs poured in 26 points to lead the charge, but Pampa got a lot of help from its bench, and had a good performance on both ends of the court. Coyle Winborn added 10 points in the come-from-behind victory.

The ninth grade Red team got a strong team effort on the boards and played good defense as it topped Plainview 51-37. Randy Slaybaugh's 19 points topped Pampa's scorers, while Derek Bigham had nine, Terry Faggins, Romeryl Dowdy and Jimmy Barker eight each and Jim Braxton four.

The boys Blue ninth grade team upped its season record to 6-1 and district mark to 4-0 as it topped the Borger Reds 64-38. Once again, Pampa controlled the rebounding and used a hustling defense to cause several Borger turnovers. Charles Nelson's 18 points paced the Blues, while Grady Norris contributed 14. Borger's John Hunt took game honors with 22 and teammate Roy Davis had 19.

Tearful Madden resigns Raider coaching position

OAKLAND (AP) — John Madden of the Oakland Raiders says he's burned out, has an ulcer to prove it and has coached his last football game.

"There was no pressure on me to retire," he said Thursday in his retirement announcement. "It was my decision."

It was a decision he made late in the 1978 National Football League season, but when the announcement was made, the impact of it filled Madden's eyes with tears.

"Things like this are easy to talk about and hard to do," said the burly, red-haired coach whose 10-year record of 103-32-7 with Oakland is one of the best in NFL history.

"I think this is the end of an era, certainly in Oakland Raiders' history," said Pete Banas-zak, the running back who was in his second pro season when Madden joined the team as an assistant coach in 1967.

"I only knew one way to do this job for 10 years, and that was to give it everything I had. I just don't have it any more," Madden said, speaking of the dedication and drive that helped the Raiders win seven division titles and one Super Bowl.

Madden may work for the Raiders in another position after relaxing for a few months in hopes his ulcer problem improves, but he said that even should his physical condition improve dramatically, he has decided, "I'm never going to coach again."

Al Davis, the team's managing general partner, probably will name a new head coach within a month. He said, "I don't think we're really talking about a successor, but a philosophy."

Davis made some critical remarks in 1978 about the Raiders as they struggled to a 9-7 finish, their worst season record under Madden, but on Thursday he said any implications that he was forcing Madden out "are just trash."

Davis also denied reports that a trade of quarterback Ken Stabler to Baltimore for the Colts' Bert Jones is imminent.

Madden was pro football's youngest head coach for many years, and this past season, at 42, still was one of the youngest.

"But I think 10 years is about the limit, at least for me," said Madden.

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

WHAT'S THE ROLE OF THE HANDS AND WRISTS IN GOLF?
THAT'S BEEN A SUBJECT OF GREAT DEBATE EVER SINCE THE GAME BEGAN, AND PROBABLY WILL BE AS LONG AS IT'S PLAYED.

BEING ESSENTIALLY A "BODY" RATHER THAN A "HANDS" PLAYER, THE HANDS AND WRISTS IN MY SWING ARE FOLLOWERS RATHER THAN LEADERS. BASICALLY, THEY WORK SIMPLY AS A HINGE TO STORE AND THEN TRANSMIT THE FORCE CREATED BY MY LEG AND BODY ACTION. AS SUCH, THEY COME INTO PLAY REFLEXIVELY RATHER THAN CONSCIOUSLY.

Saban takes over at West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Lou Saban begins the seventh college coaching job of his 28-year career today, taking over an Army football program that is rife with controversy.

The hiring of Saban, 57, as head football coach was announced Thursday by Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, superintendent of the Military Academy. Saban resigned as head coach and athletic director at the University of Miami, Fla., to take the Army job.

Saban succeeds Homer Smith, who was fired last month and then charged Army with illegal recruiting practices and an attempted coverup. Smith also said he was fired three days after he resigned.

Saban, who was to be introduced as Army's coach at a news conference today in New York, was briefed Thursday on investigations into alleged improprieties in Army recruiting by Maj. Gen. Ray Murphy, Army's athletic director.

Saban also met with six assistant coaches, all of whom Murphy recommended Saban retain.

Asked why he gave up a $50,000-a-year job at Miami with four years left on his six-year contract, Saban replied: "Some people like to rebuild cars. I like to rebuild football programs."

Saban, who served in the Army during World War II, added: "I'm happy to be here at West Point because of what the Academy stands for and because it produces men who are serving their country."

Murphy refused to discuss Saban's contract at Army, however it is speculated the coach also may take over as athletic director. Murphy was brought out of retirement to become athletic director and was known to have been looking for a man that could replace him.

In addition to numerous college coaching jobs, Saban coached the old Boston Patriots of the American Football League and Buffalo and Denver in the National Football League.

After playing college ball at Indiana and in the pros at Cleveland in the All-American Football Conference, Saban saw duty at Case Institute in Cleveland, the University of Washington, Northwestern University, Western Illinois, Maryland and Miami, both as an assistant and head football coach.

Aggies roll over

West Texas State LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Sharpshooter Chuck Goslan broke open a tight game Thursday with six straight points midway through the second half as New Mexico State rolled to a 102-87 win over West Texas State in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball duel.

The 6-foot-3 Goslan pumped in 24 points to share game scoring honors with teammate Slab Jones.

The Aggies, 10-3 overall and 1-0 in conference play, shot a sizzling 55 percent from the field in the second half and destroyed the Buffaloes' tenacious zone defense with outside shooting.

Goose count gives hunters encouragement

By J.D. PEER
Texas Parks & Wildlife
CANYON — Texas goose hunters have perhaps their best opportunity of the season as a recent aerial goose count tallied twice as many birds as last year, according to personnel of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Over 54,300 geese were spotted by plane during the December survey, with most of the birds found in the Oldham-Deaf Smith-Randall county area of the Panhandle.

"Nearly 39,000 Canada geese were using the lakes and grain fields in this area which includes Hereford, Friona and Vega," said Max Traweck, P&WD waterfowl biologist.

"We also found several thousand geese south of the Hereford area toward Dimmitt and Lubbock," he continued. Other concentrations numbering over 3,000 birds were found north of the Canadian River in the Dumas, Fritch and Spearman communities.

A larger-than-normal number of snow geese were also counted in the Hereford area with over 1,000 of the white birds intermingled with the dark or Canada geese.

The waterfowl season for Texas, which includes both ducks and geese, will continue through Jan. 21. Conditions during the recent survey found cold temperatures and plenty of ice. Most of the geese were utilizing the large man-made reservoirs, since most of the natural of playa lakes were frozen over.

More water was available for the birds than last year with the geese feeding on winter wheat, waste corn and milo, which is readily available in the Texas High Plains.

The total number of dark or Canada geese should increase on the High Plains as this area of northwest Texas is the southern-most wintering grounds for the shortgrass geese.

The local populations of geese could shift from lake to lake due to winter conditions and available food. Waterfowl regulations and information are available at license vendors and all P&WD offices throughout the state.

MANUALS IMPORTANT
LUBBOCK — Gifts of sporting items such as firearms, fishing tackle and archery equipment are appreciated by the hunter and fisherman, but many recipients are unfamiliar with the operation and use of their gift.

The instruction manual included in the package should be considered an important part of any gift and should be read and understood prior to using the equipment. Guns and tackle can be quite complicated to use with so many moving parts and mechanisms to push and pull.

The instruction manual will describe how to prepare the equipment for use, how to operate the item and, most important, how to clean and store the item for future outdoor adventures.

Christmas gifts such as heating stoves can be dangerous if used with the wrong fuel or in a confined area. Even a knife can be dangerous if the handler does not know how to sharpen it.

If you cannot find the instruction manual for your sporting item, look through the Christmas boxes, even though you might be proficient at handling the equipment. Most sporting items carry a manufacturer's warranty which must be filled out and sent to the company, many times within ten days.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department hopes you have a Happy New Year with many safe and enjoyable outdoor trips.

Bryant nearly missed championship

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
AP Sports Writer
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) —

Bear Bryant almost missed out on Alabama's fourth national college football championship.

he disclosed today.

Krivacs back in form

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Jim Krivacs regained his sharp-shooter's eye Thursday night, pouring in his first 15 shots as Texas thrashed Texas Christian, 92-63, in the Southwest Conference basketball opener.

It was Texas' 21st victory without a loss in the Superdome. The Longhorns now go on the road for four straight games, and Coach Abe Lemons said, "The road trip coming up is terrible."

Krivacs, a 6-1 senior, had hit only 40 percent of his field goal attempts in Texas' 6-3 season, but tossed in 10 of 10 field goals and five of five free throws as Texas bolted to a 53-24 halftime lead.

"I almost retired two years ago, but now I'm glad I didn't," the 65-year-old Alabama coach told The Associated Press by phone from "somewhere in Florida," where he is on a recruiting trip.

Bryant said he was so close to retiring that he "even talked with the president about it."

"I thought maybe they should bring in somebody younger. I was getting old and I didn't think I was doing a good job. I still don't think so, but I'm surrounded by good people and it wasn't very hard to talk me out of it," Bryant disclosed just a few days after Alabama defeated previously unbeaten

Penn State 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl and captured the national championship.

The Bear, who has been Alabama's head coach since 1958 and has taken the Crimson Tide to a record 20 consecutive bowl games, knows that some day he will have to step down. He doesn't want the cupboard to be bare and he's doing something about it, even though he can coach through the 1984 season if he wants to.

"We have a good program going, and when I thought about retiring it looked like we'd have good material for the next two years," he explained. "I don't want to retire after we lose all our players and then have people say Alabama couldn't win because I wasn't here."

He won't have to worry about that for awhile because all retirement plans have been pushed aside and the Bear is on the track of Amos Alonzo Stagg's all-time record of 314 coaching victories. The Sugar Bowl triumph was Bryant's 284th and he needs just 31 more to become the all-time king.

"People started using my age against me in recruiting," he said. "I never even thought about Stagg's record until last year and I said as long as somebody has to, have the record it might as well be me."

The Computer and the Carrier

Once upon a time there was an industry. It produced newspapers for people to read. For many years it remained unchanged, clinging to the glories of its past. When other industries modernized to keep in pace with progress, the newspaper industry followed suit.

Computers were introduced in many areas of the newspaper production cycle. In the news room they were used for electronic editing and reporters threw out their pencils, paper and erasers.

In the composing room the computer was instrumental in producing type at a much faster pace, and type setters threw out their lead, their molds and saws.

In administration computers were used for storing information, preparing invoices, checks and statistics.

To make a long story short, the computer helped produce a better newspaper. But what did the industry do with the better newspaper? When they asked the computer to deliver it to the thousands of daily readers, it blinked, shook, sputtered and failed to come up with an answer.

Then the newspaper people realized that, with all that great technology, they still had to depend on their carriers to deliver their product.

"That makes the carrier just as important as our computer" said one of the newspaper people. All the others agreed and they lived happily ever after.

One name heard for top farm job

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Lt. Gov. Jim Williams of Florida is the administration's top candidate for the No. 2 job in the Agriculture Department, according to informed sources.

Williams was said by the sources Wednesday night to be in the final process of being cleared by the White House for the $7,500-a-year post of deputy secretary.

One of the sources said Williams "is the only name we hear" for the job.

Both sources, who asked not to be identified, said the decision is up to President Carter and that Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has not been deeply involved in the selection. They did say the secretary "gave Williams an enthusiastic endorsement."

Williams lost a bid for the gubernatorial nomination in the Democratic primary in Florida last fall.

The deputy's job has been vacant for a year, since the resignation of John C. White to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

A number of names were considered in the last year for the post, but no nomination was announced by Carter. At least one candidate dropped out after deciding not to divest himself of business interests as required by the president, the source said.

Another candidate asked to be removed from consideration for personal reasons and because of the high cost of living in Washington. It was also disclosed that he had been arrested by District of Columbia police two years earlier on a charge of sexual solicitation. The charge was later dropped.

The sources said that one of the reasons for Bergland's support is that Williams has "a solid background" in agriculture and "is from the South."

One of the unwritten guidelines has been that since Bergland is from Minnesota, the job of deputy secretary should be filled by a southerner.

The sources said they did not know when Carter might officially send Williams' nomination to the Senate because a number of other appointments are stacked up for similar action.

Officials who work closely with Bergland say the vacancy has meant a heavy load for him the last year and that, as one said, "he needs somebody in there to take part of the heat, a kind of chief of staff."

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may be next week before Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland feels well enough to return to work.

Bergland was ordered by doctors to go home Wednesday and take it easy for at least "a couple of days" to recover from a sore back resulting from excessive exercise over the holidays.

An aide, Tom Sand, said Bergland was released late Wednesday from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he was X-rayed and given medication to use at home.

"If there is no improvement, he'll return to Bethesda for further tests," Sand said.

The X-rays "showed nothing except he does, in fact, have a spine," Sand said.

Remind me to...

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP)

— Upon my soul, the new year is upon us already.

I must be up and doing or the decade will have fled without my having accomplished several long planned but oft delayed improvements.

Before 1979 slips into the great beyond of unrecalable yesteryears and the 1980s are ushered in, remind me to:

Swear off junk food forever.

Learn how to ski, although at this late date I shall probably have to settle for cross country skis or perhaps even snow shoes.

Get on with Henry James' "The Golden Bowl." I have been bogged down on page 14 for the past 14 years.

Take up tap dancing. It is too late to master the piano or the harpsichord but I must find something to amuse others with when called upon for a turn at a party.

Increase my regime of daily sit-ups to 25. It has been bogged down at 3 for the past decade.

Reread George Orwell's "Nineteen Eighty-Four" so I will be prepared for what Big Brother has in store for us a few years hence.

Swim the Hellespont, if I can recall where it is and why Byron wanted to swim it. Or was it the Grand Canal that he favored for his morning refresher?

Learn how to change a typewriter ribbon. Office boys have become too touchy to bother since their job title has been changed to administrative assistants. With the arrival of the computer, they too lack the basic skill to cope with the fundamentals of this archaic writing device.

Take a course in celestial navigation so when friends invite me to tour the isles of Greece or the lesser Antilles on their yachts I can do more than just pop the champagne corks and swab the decks.

Cultivate some friends with yachts plying the Greek isles or the lesser Antilles so my efforts in celestial navigation will not be in vain.

Sit through Wagner's Ring cycle and an uncut version of Shaw's "Man and Superman."

Failing that, read the complete speeches of Fidel Castro.

Shave off my mustache so I can retrieve my look of the '60s and carry it into the '80s.

Get a new suit, although there is every indication that the double-breasted-belt-in-the-back is making a comeback in some pretty trendy circles. The fashion pendulum always swings back if you can hang in there longer than the moths.

Dust off my novel, vaguely autobiographical, which has been bogged down at page 14 for the past 14 years and so far carries me to age 14 of a sluggish childhood much muddled with procrastination.

Widen the driveway. Take off 15 pounds so it will be necessary to get a new suit.

Sherlock's Birthday

The world's most famous detective has a birthday tomorrow, but he may not be around to celebrate it. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle first introduced Sherlock Holmes in the 1887 novel "A Study in Scarlet." But Holmes scholar William Baring-Gould later decided that the fictional sleuth's actual birthday was January 6, 1854. In 1893 Doyle wrote a story in which Holmes died. But by then Holmes had become so popular that the author wrote another story and brought him back to life. Even today, on the eve of his 125th birthday, die-hard Holmes fans prefer to imagine that their hero is alive and retired in England.

DO YOU KNOW — What fictional character narrates most of Sherlock Holmes' adventures?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Guadeloupe is a territory of France.
