EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Bottom smoke line is up to individual

The old saying is that wherever there is smoke there is fire. When HEW Secretary Joseph Califano flipped the top of his latest smoking report, he seemed to spark more fire than smoke. The signals had gone up across North Carolina a day or two before Califano unwrapped his bundle. Politicians, especially, were chagrined that Califano would release the report without allowing senators and representatives a chance to see what was in it. Senator Jesse Helms said that "there may have been, in the history of this country, a more arrogant bureaucrat than Joe Califano, but I have been spared knowledge of him." Senator Robert Morgan had equally kind words for Califano. He said that the report demonstrated Califano's "continued obsession with tobacco ... I have heard reports that many officials within HEW are concerned with the secretary's obsession ... (It) is clear that this report is another sad chapter in Secretary Joe Califano's efforts to destroy the American tobacco industry." Well, Old Joe wouldn't win any popularity contests in North Carolina, that's for sure. He seems to have made it a full-time career attempting to bring pain and vexation to people in this state. If he is not telling the University of North Carolina to get with it in one way or another, he is smarming the eyes of tobacco-conscious residents with his frequent smoke bombs. You can't blame Helms and Morgan for being upset. They realize that Califano is now one or two steps ahead of them in the one-upmanship game that he has been playing with them. He arranged the release of the smoke report so that the report and what he said would get prime play. And since he neglected to hand out copies to his antagonists, they were at a loss for words when it came time for them to rebut. All they could say was dern that Califano! He is more poison than smoke!

And you can't blame Helms and Morgan for defending the tobacco industry. It is a billion-dollar-a-year industry in their state, and they know that votes are made when one rises to the defense of the homefolks. There is one thing that bothers, however, and that is — all the window dressing aside — what is contained in the report. There is not much astoundingly new in it, but there is enough old stuff and some new to have just enough edge to cut. It probably won't cut much, but the folks in the tobacco industry don't want it to cut any. There was a five percent drop in tobacco consumption after the original surgeon general's smoking report in 1964, and it is believed that another decline is in the offing. Few people would argue that smoking-related diseases are exacting a high price from the American public, both in terms of dollars and in terms of lives. Yet, people smoke because they choose to smoke. And we should never forget that. Let the surgeon general provide all the information he can on the dangers of smoking, and ditto the tobacco industry on the other side. But the bottomline should be up to the consumer. To smoke or not to smoke? That is the question. Sure, it's a dumb bunny who wants to endanger his health with the habit, but it is his own health is fooling with.

Government agency reorganization eyed

By LARRY LIGHT
Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON — Want to know how hard it is to deal with the federal government? Ask officials of Boston, Mass. Trying to get U.S. aid to revitalize four acres of land, the city has to submit 72 separate applications to nine different federal agencies. Each agency has its own tangle of requirements and deadlines. Dealing with Washington is such a complex affair that Boston maintains a full-time staff for it, which costs the city $1 million a year. Smaller towns, of course, generally cannot afford their own guides through the federal maze. That is one reason President Carter is considering a major reorganization of government agencies concerned with economic aid and natural resources. He also intends to push again this year for a separate Department of Education, a proposal that died in the last Congress. Streamlining the government has been one of Carter's constant themes. Proposed consolidations of agencies are expected to be ready for congressional action within the next two or three months. Using recommendations drawn up by his Office of Management and Budget (OMB), the president is expected to make a decision by mid-January on exactly what reorganization scheme will be sent to Capitol Hill. OMB wants Carter to centralize most development functions in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and transfer most resource agencies to the Interior Department. The changes would save $594 million a year, OMB says. Should these changes go through, the federal alphabet soup no longer would contain the acronym HUD. The new beefed-up HUD would be known as DDA (the Department of Development Assistance). Interior's name would be changed to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The biggest losers under this plan would be the Agriculture Department, from which parts of the Farmers Home Administration, elements of the Soil Conservation Service and the entire U.S. Forest Service would be stripped, and the Commerce Department, which would lose the Economic Development Administration, all eight Title V regional development commissions and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). In the past, ambitious plans to restructure the federal government often have met stiff resistance from powerful interest groups comfortable with the old order and congressional committees jealous of their jurisdictions. So far, the bulk of the opposition to the proposed reorganization has come from friends of the Agriculture Department. The chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., sent Carter a letter in late December objecting to dismemberment of the department. They said such an action would "Hamper the nation's growing need for food." The National Forest Products Association is concerned that the timber industry would be harmed by transferring the Forest Service, which manages public wilderness areas that are used by loggers, from Agriculture to the DNR. The association perceives the DNR as more interested in preservation than exploitation of resources. One-quarter of Agriculture's current manpower is in the Forest Service. Resistance to expanding HUD's development role has been muted so far, pending Carter's final decision on the reorganization. However, key staff members on the Senate and House public

The following Copy is excerpts from the State of the State Address given by Governor Dolph Briscoe. We have written the budget within the available revenues, instead of increasing taxes to meet all of the requests for expenditures. The growth of government must be limited and one sure way to accomplish this is to live within our income now and in the future. It has been proven beyond any doubt that a policy of fiscal restraint and fiscal responsibility will encourage economic growth and prosperity. A no new tax concept, which was once an untested theory, is an accomplished fact and an idea whose time has come. While our federal government is struggling with an uncertain economic future, the State of Texas can take pride in a strong economy and very positive prospects for the future. We can say without fear of contradiction that to be in Texas today is to be in the right place at the right time. Texas today is the best place to live, to work, to be in business and to raise a family. Over the past six years more than seven hundred thousand new jobs have been added and our unemployment has averaged a full two percentage points below the national average. New industry has invested more than eleven billion dollars in the Texas economy and the per capita income has risen over 49 percent in the last five years alone. Every other major state has had to resort to an income tax, but not the state of Texas. Texas remains today the only major state, the only industrial state, the only sun belt state without a state income tax, either corporate or personal and we have proven that Texas needs neither now or in the future. Education is the key to success and advancement in a democracy, thus it is that education is the greatest and most important service that we can provide the people of this State. Presently, 52.4 percent of the total state expenditures are spent on education. The other populous states ... California, New York and Pennsylvania allot less than 40 percent of their entire budget to education. During these past six years, you and I have added more than four billion dollars of new money to education. Clearly, education has been our top priority as it has been since the history of the Republic and as it must remain in the years ahead. But the time has come for an accounting. We must review and examine the results of these additional expenditures in the field of education. There is a serious and valid question as to whether the youth of today is receiving effective, quality education and I believe that this is one of the major concerns of the people of Texas today. Therefore, before there is any massive infusion of new money to our educational system, I urge you to be completely assured that the young people of Texas are receiving the quality and the effective education they deserve. Texas must have the very best educational system in the nation, and I believe we can. I do not believe our State government in Texas will at any time in the near future engage in the kind of reckless spending and taxation against which the people of California were finally forced to rebel, but at least the people of California had a vehicle for the direct redress of their grievances. The people of Texas do not. I call upon you to allow our citizens to decide for themselves whether such a right will exist in Texas in the years ahead. The Legislature of this State has not once, but twice, called upon the federal government to live within its income as does government in Texas, and to amend the federal Constitution to impose fiscal restraint on the federal government which so obviously lacks the will to restrain itself. Twenty-two states endorsed this position. I look forward to working in the national effort to obtain the concurrence of the 12 additional states necessary to require consideration of the amendment. Texas has produced more than 40 percent of the petroleum consumed by this country. We produced the fuel which made America the greatest industrial nation in history. That energy was not produced through a system of complex and oppressive government controls. It was produced under a system which believed that the best role for government was the least role. We have proven in Texas that deregulation works. The federal government should have learned that lesson from its deregulation of the airline industry. Today, more people travel by air than ever before. Airline profits are at an all-time high, and because of that, more airplanes are being ordered and more people hired. Deregulation has been good for the airlines; it has been good for the economy; it has been good for the consumer. I call upon you to continue to urge that lesson on the federal government.

"Indiscriminate, unwarranted and inexcusable." In these words, a presidential commission headed by former Pennsylvania governor and UN ambassador - to - be William Scranton summed up the Kent State shootings. That was back in 1970, only a few months after National Guardsmen had fired into a crowd of war - protesting students on the Ohio campus, killing four and wounding nine. The commission's finding was to be not the end of the matter, however, but the prelude to years of trials, appeals, retrials and re-opened inquiries. The survivors of the shootings and the parents of the dead refused to accept the decisions of the state that they had no claim against the state and its officials. Now at long last the legitimacy of their case has been recognized. The state of Ohio has agreed to pay compensation, $600,000 to victims and families plus $75,000 in expenses. The out - of - court settlement terminates a retrial in which Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and 27 guardsmen were defendants. Like several similarly violent campus incidents, Kent State was a product of its violent times. It is unlikely that all the rights and wrongs will ever be sorted out and a final judgment rendered. It could well find a placid cold well find a place with the Sacco - Vanzetti case, the Hiss trial and the Rosenberg executions as one of those long - run ethical issues which bedevil the national psyche, and in the recurrent debating of which emotion rather than reason comes to predominate. But at the very least the settlement ends an appalling display of official insensitivity. After eight years of stonewalling, the state of Ohio now accepts responsibility and admits redress is due for the injuries caused private citizens by its agents. And the defendants have added a postscript of their own to the Scranton commission report. The tragedy "should not have occurred," they observe in a statement of regret. "Hindsight suggests that another method would have resolved the confrontation." True and welcome words as far as they go. But still not the definitive ones on Kent State. Those have already been delivered: "Indiscriminate, unwarranted and inexcusable." Back to the drawing board. Getting there first with the most may be a good way to win military battles, but not necessarily technological competition.

A costly case in point is provided by Britain and France which are closing down the Concorde production line, acknowledging that while the supersonic airliner may be a thing of aeronautical beauty, it is an economic loser. The Concorde flies at more than twice the speed of sound and does the New York-Paris run in three and a half hours. But it costs in the prohibitively expensive neighborhood of $500 million per plane. And with its limited passenger capacity, even at a 20 percent fare surcharge over regular first class it can't show an operating profit. In its last annual report, British Airways reported a loss of $32.6 million on its Concorde service. When the last plane is rolled out in February, a grand total of 16 will have been constructed - eight for the British and eight for the French national airlines. No other buyers have been found. Back in 1971, the United States opted out of the supersonic race, leaving the field to the Anglo - French project. Prudently, it now appears. Supersonic technology has now reached the stage where an economically practical and environmentally acceptable plane may be feasible. The experience with the Concorde has certainly contributed significantly to this development. But as a commercial proposition, it turned out to be too far ahead of its time. Call it, for the British and French, the $8 billion miscalculation.

Not in a seminar, but in reality

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
For many people today, the phrase "land of opportunity" has only a ritualized quality. They don't have a personal appreciation of the enormous opportunities available to men and women in this country. A distinguished American who truly understands the phrase is Dr. Roger Freeman, economist, author, and adviser to presidents. Dr. Freeman, who came to the United States in 1940, served as an aide to Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon. He held important positions in business and the academic world, becoming senior fellow emeritus of the Hoover Institution in California this year. Dr. Freeman recently wrote a pamphlet for the United States Industrial Council Educational Foundation with the title "What America Means To Me." His pamphlet should be a text in schools and colleges. The following is an excerpt from his essay. "My hopes weren't too high when I landed in New York alone, with no money, no one waiting for me (my affidavit was purely an arrangement of convenience) and no one I could turn to. Those were rough times, the tail - end of the Great Depression. Yet, the first job I got was to manage 21 retail stores, the New York City division of a nationwide chain. "How did I get it? The day after I landed I was sitting in the Public Library reading current trade journals. Then I got an idea on merchandising problems, wrote an article, and succeeded in having it published in a trade paper. It appeared just one month after my arrival. Then I sent reprints out, with applications, to about 100 firms. From the offers I received, I selected what seemed to be the most promising. That was the last time I job hunted. Later as I moved, upward each time, I only chose among offers. Within 10 years I found myself - not on my own initiative - in a governor's office: a few years later in the White House. "I doubt that this could have happened in any country but the United States. That is why I believe that this still is the one country that offers a fair and open chance for individual effort and merit, the 'land of unlimited opportunities.' It's not a theory developed in a political science seminar. I lived it!" Dr. Freeman has never lost faith in the country that became his home. He writes: "Sometimes, at the end of a congressional session, I feel disillusioned, discouraged, frustrated, even bitter. Then I go abroad for awhile - to faraway countries. And no matter where I go I find that by comparison the U.S. starts looking better and better. By the time I come home, I am almost a chauvinist - with confidence that this still is and will remain the best country in the world." This eloquent testament to America by an extraordinarily able migrant to these shores should help a new generation better appreciate the "land of opportunity."

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our 50s and have two unmarried sons, 25 and 30. They don't live at home. Each prefers to have his own apartment, but we are still providing them with money, food, clothes, etc.

The oldest is a college graduate and employed, but seems to be in debt all the time.

The youngest had only one year of college, and goes from job to job. He's always broke due to poor judgment and minor scrapes with the law. Right now we have a lawyer trying to get his driver's license back, so here we are, bailing him out again.

We love these boys, but I am tired of having to constantly rescue them from their mistakes. At our age, my husband and I should be looking out for our own welfare, but our sons are a constant drain on us financially as well as emotionally.

What do other parents do in such a situation, Abby? And what do you suggest?

TIRED PARENTS

DEAR TIRED: At 25 and 30 it's time your "boys" were men. Perhaps they have never become responsible and self-supporting because you have always rushed in to rescue them when the going got rough.

Though motivated by "love," you have done them a disservice. You will not always be around to bail them out. Tell them that from now on they are on their own. They will respect you for it, and it might make men of them yet. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in the third grade and recently had a birthday party. She took the invitations to school and passed them out to the classmates she wanted. There were 29 kids in her class and she wanted only 23 of them at her party.

After the party her teacher called me and told me that my daughter should not have passed out her invitations at school unless she invited all the kids in her class.

Since when does a schoolteacher have the right to tell a pupil whom to invite to her birthday party? I would like your opinion in print.

OUTRAGED

DEAR OUTRAGED: Three cheers for the teacher! She is obviously much more understanding than you. The pain of having been left out will remain with those six uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I know that the thyroid gland is somehow related to one's metabolism — that it affects the processing of food calories into fat or energy. I also know that usually the cause of obesity is one's poor diet.

But I don't understand the extreme variation. I see some people eat a lot of calories every day and yet they are slim. Others who smoke, eat fattening foods such as burgers and sodas and ice cream cones for lunch and yet they are slim.

Is smoking related to metabolism? Can an individual do anything to increase his metabolism? If one were on a very low calorie diet of under a thousand calories a day for over a year would this actually decrease the person's need for the normal amount of calories to survive? I'd appreciate any information you can give me, particularly on how to alter metabolism.

DEAR READER: You've asked some very good questions. An inadequate production of thyroid hormones means that the metabolism of the cells actually slows down.

The fundamental biochemical processes are altered. Less oxygen is required because less food is broken down to release energy. Instead, the food is converted to fat, the body's way of storing energy. It doesn't require oxygen to convert calories into fat the same way it does to release calories from food.

What happens if you're on a starvation diet? Your metabolism slows down markedly as soon as your diet is severely restricted in calories. This is nature's way of enabling your body to survive a fast, starvation or semi-starvation period.

Your body is designed to protect it against such wretched excesses to some extent. By slowing down all of your metabolic processes and actually decreasing the metabolic rate, it does require less energy and less food to survive.

But there are a lot of unpleasant changes such as loss of energy, changes of personality, some people's hair falls out. Studies have shown that individuals on low calorie diets may have a loss of sex drive. Yes, you can get along on less food in a less than optimal state of health. It is in a state of survival.

Cigarettes do affect metabolism. They contain nicotine, which is a tissue poison. Tissues don't thrive when they are being poisoned anymore than plants thrive when they're being poisoned. The other problem is that some people respond to their nervous activity by smoking and others respond by eating. When a person stops smoking he may substitute eating for smoking.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which provides a well-balanced, low calorie, low fat diet which is suitable for weight control programs. It provides 1200 to 1300 calories a day.

I don't recommend it either for longer than six weeks at a time. After that, at the very latest, a person should add to that basic balanced diet enough additional food to maintain a stable weight for several weeks before you try to lose any more. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many high-tension type people are constantly moving their hands, their knees, their feet and their muscles are always active. This continuous minor activity uses a lot more energy than you might think.

DEAR POLLY: I recently acquired some used hopsack drapes that had to be lengthened to fit my windows. After being re-hemmed the creases from the previous lengths remain steadfast. The drapes have been washed and pressed but I can't get those creases out. — J.C.

DEAR J.C.: I have always had great luck removing such creases by wetting a pressing cloth with a strong solution of white vinegar and water. On heavy material I have even used full-strength white vinegar. Test first. — POLLY

Beauty improvement plan

by josephine lowman

PLAN HEALTHY MENUS (This is the tenth in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman, author of "Why Grow Old?" and leading authority on health and beauty, tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. You may want to save these menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.)

It doesn't seem fair that something can be in our mouths for a minute and on our waists forever. That is what happens, though, if we eat too much of the wrong kinds of food. This is the third week of my eight-week Beauty Improvement Plan (BIP) and you are now planning your own menus.

When doing so, remember that a good slimming diet has two requirements for success: It must supply the reducer with all of the essential nutrients in sufficient amounts for good health, and it also must provide fewer calories than are used up in body maintenance and physical activity. Also, remember that there is no room for empty calories (those which have no nutritional value) on a slimming diet. Get fit while you lose fat!

Following is some help from the U.S. Agricultural Research Service. Each day include:

- MILK GROUP
Plan to use the following amounts of milk daily: Cheese, yogurt and ice cream may replace part of the milk. Adults, two or more cups; teen-agers, four or more cups.
- MEAT GROUP
Plan to have two or more servings daily of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish or eggs. Dry beans, dry peas and nuts may be used as alternates. Count as a serving 2 to 3 ounces of lean, cooked meat, poultry or fish. Count as alternates for 1/2 serving of meat: 1 egg; 1/2 cup cooked dry beans, dry peas, or lentils; or 2 tablespoons peanut butter.

VEGETABLE-FRUIT GROUP
Plan to have four or more servings daily, including a citrus fruit or other source of vitamin C; a dark-green or deep-yellow vegetable for vitamin A; at least every other day, other vegetables and fruits to make up the suggested four or more servings for the day.

Count as a serving: 1/2 cup of vegetable or fruit, or a portion as ordinarily served, such as one medium-sized apple, banana, orange or potato, half a medium-sized grapefruit or cantaloupe, or the juice of one lemon.

BREAD-CEREAL
Plan to have four or more servings daily of the whole grain, enriched, or restored kinds. Check the label to be sure. Count as a serving: One slice of bread; 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal; 1/2 to 3/4 cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

You may not be able to follow this exactly and hold your calorie intake to 1,200 a day, but be certain to obtain some of the foods from all four groups daily.

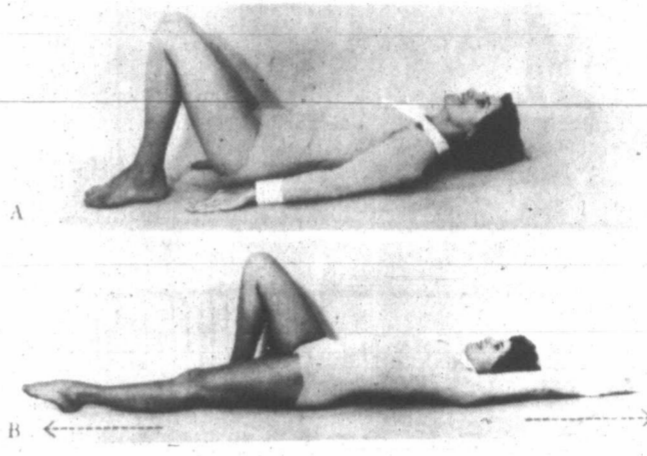

The way you prepare food can make a great difference. Tomorrow I will tell you more about that.

You can eat the following foods with abandon. They are low in calories and high in vitamin and mineral content: Greens of all kinds, including spinach and lettuce, celery, radishes, cauliflower, asparagus, cucumbers, peppers, cabbage, broccoli, string beans and summer squash.

It is not too late to join BIP. If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks to get ready for spring clothes, send for the BIP kit. It gives you all of the necessary instructions, two weeks of NEW calorie-counted menus, a calorie chart, spot-reducing exercises and a wall chart on which to plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. For your kit, send $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the BIP kit to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

The Now Washbasket

Are your white clothes showing signs of "tattle-tale grey"? Fabric greying is caused by a buildup of unremoved soil and soap or detergent, an overloaded washer and wash water temperature that's not hot enough. Here's a "prescription" to help alleviate this problem:

1. Wash whites in separate loads; cottons in hot water, synthetics and blends in warm.
2. Use at least the recommended amount of detergent as per directions on the package. Increase this amount for heavily soiled items.
3. If you have hard water and/or live in a "phosphate ban" area, use a laundry additive with your detergent. These products condition the wash water and help prevent fabric greying and remove stains, thus boosting your detergent's cleaning power. However, stay away from liquid chlorine bleach. Frequent use can weaken some fabrics and cause others to fade or turn yellow over time. Many homemakers recommend using BORATEEM PLUS instead, because it's safe for laundering whites and colored clothes.

Astro-Graph

January 23, 1979

Friends and associates will be instrumental this coming year in helping you achieve your hopes and desires. They will be lucky for you. You, in turn, will be lucky for them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Any group you've involved with today will benefit greatly by your presence. You know how to get things organized and aren't afraid to do it. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in 1979 by sending for your copy of the all-new Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Dame Fortune will be doing a great deal to assist you today, so sit tight, don't make any unnecessary waves and just let things happen.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Go where the action is or where your friends are gathered. You're at your best today when you can be involved with many people.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Concentrate on matters of major importance and exert the necessary effort to accomplish your aims today. A large victory can be yours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your thinking is positive and well-directed today, making it possible for you to be quite lucky when dealing with others. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Willing hands will help you with a task for which otherwise you might have had to hire outside assistance. Your saving will be substantial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a dynamic personality today, drawing others to you like a magnet. Wherever you go you'll be well-received and welcome.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could be an especially productive day because you are capable of harmoniously blending your inner drive with your physical ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something pleasant could occur today to put you in a good frame of mind all evening. It might even be cause for celebrating.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck is in your corner today and might favor you with a small windfall. If there's something you've been wanting, go after it now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your optimistic attitude today can awaken in others an interest in your ideas. Contact persons who might fit into plans you're contemplating.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you might not think you need assistance, others are going to play an important role in helping you get what you want today. Accept graciously.

Navratilova to play for crown

HOUSTON (AP) — Martina Navratilova, a devout Dallas Cowboys fan, overcame the shock of the Cowboys' Super Bowl defeat in time to advance to the finals of the $125,000 Women's Pro Tennis tournament here for the fourth straight year Sunday.

And if the fluctuations in the Cowboys' successes and failures mean anything, Navratilova should capture her fourth straight championship in the Houston stop on the women's tour in the finals tonight. "I lost in the Washington tournament and the Cowboys won," said Navratilova, who defeated Dianne Fromholtz 7-5, 6-0 Sunday to gain tonight's championship. "Now the Cowboys lost and I won."

Second-seeded Virginia Wade of England will challenge the top-seeded Navratilova for the $24,000 first prize. Wade defeated Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-3, 6-2 in Sunday's other semifinal match.

Her Super Bowl prediction wasn't accurate, but Navratilova has another for tonight's title match with Wade. "I look for a slugfest," said Navratilova, who has won 13 of 14 matches on the tour this year. "You should see a variety of shots. It just depends on who is doing better. You never know who will win when the top players meet."

Fromholtz and Navratilova played an entertaining first set that went down to the 12th game before Navratilova, leading 6-5, broke Fromholtz after two deuces to win the set.

Fromholtz fell behind love-40 in the sixth game in the first set before winning five straight points to hold service. Navratilova struggled in the 11th game before holding service after two deuces. Fromholtz crumbled in the second set, although she took the final game to five match points before losing.

"I was just hitting out and not worrying about it going in," Navratilova said. Wade broke Turnbull in the seventh and ninth games to win the first set. After the pair traded service breaks in the fourth and fifth games of the second set, Wade again cracked Turnbull's serve in the sixth and eighth game win to complete the match.

Super day for Bradshaw

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — The noise Tom Henderson ultimately heard was not his own. It was the turbulence churned up by Terry Bradshaw's passes.

Hollywood Henderson had played his big scene too early in the drama. But Bradshaw saved his best for last — for the final curtain in a decade of Super Bowls. And, when the last cheers faded, the Pittsburgh Steelers were proclaimed unquestioned champions, 35-31, over the Dallas Cowboys.

No one had ever thrown more than two touchdowns in one of these National Football League extravaganzas.

Bradshaw threw four of them.

No one had ever thrown for more than 250 yards in one of these games.

Bradshaw threw for 253 in the first half alone and wound up completing 17 of 30 passes for 318 yards, more than he'd ever thrown for in any pro game.

And no one — not legendary Vince Lombardi's Green Bay Packers, not Don Shula's once-perfect Miami Dolphins, not Tom Landry's defending champion Cowboys, not even Chuck Noll's Steelers — had won this Hope Diamond of pro football more than twice.

Henderson, the loudmouth Cowboy linebacker, was distraught — but unbowed — by the defeat. "As you can see, I'm a little sad," he said, letting tears flow freely. But he vowed that his brashness would continue to flow just as freely.

And Noll, when asked in the postgame bedlam about Henderson's pregame bragging literally leered as he replied, "Thomas who?"

In a Super Bowl XIII that turned out to be Super Rematch I, Bradshaw and the Steelers re-enacted their drama of three years ago, once again using the Cowboys as foils. Once again they grabbed the seemingly insurmountable lead — and once again they held their collective breaths before hanging on for the narrow four-point victory.

And once again, Lynn Swann, the Nureyev of wide receivers, was on the receiving end of Bradshaw's game-winning touchdown pass. Last time, it had been a 64-yard bomb and a 21-17 victory. This time it was an 18-yard coffin nail for the final points.

That made it 35-17 with less than seven minutes to play.

Roger Staubach, who also completed 17 of 30 passes but unlike Bradshaw did most of his throwing in the second half, found Billy Joe DuPree on a 7-yard scoring pass with 2:23 to play. Then he connected with Butch Johnson on a 4-yarder two minutes later after Dallas had pulled off a successful on-side kick.

The only way the Cowboys could win, of course, was to get the ball back once more on an on-side kick and pray for a miracle. It didn't happen.

Rocky Bleier's jumping catch of Bradshaw's third scoring pass of the day, a 7-yard looper 26 seconds from halftime, had put Pittsburgh in front for good. The task of keeping the Steelers there also fell to Bleier, who pounced on Dallas kicker Rafael Septien's soft roller with 22 seconds to play. Bradshaw then fell on the ball twice more to run out the clock.

The first big play that was costly to Dallas came only moments before Septien's 27-yard field goal, the only points scored in the third period, and shaved Pittsburgh's lead to 21-17.

Jackie Smith had spent 15 years in a St. Louis uniform, waiting in vain for a trip to an NFL championship game, and he finally made it with Dallas following a brief retirement. And there he was, all alone in the end zone, poised to make a game-tying catch.

Staubach was shielded from Pittsburgh's thundering line, linebackers and defensive backs. They said they were expecting a run on the third-and-three situation. The quarterback flipped the ball almost — but not quite — perfectly.

And Smith dropped it.

The next play in the series of Cowboy back-breakers came with the score still 21-17 about four minutes into the final period. Swann, who caught seven passes for 124 yards, sprinted down the right side, almost stride for stride with cornerback Benny Barnes. There was contact and they went down in a tangle of legs and arms.

"There was a blitz and no pickup on it by our guys. And I knew it, so I just put the Hail Mary on it," Bradshaw said, alluding to the now-famous Hail Mary pass by Staubach that went for a touchdown in a play-off game against Minnesota.

This one didn't go for a TD — but it went a long way toward one.

"I saw it and I figured, our ball down there." It was Field judge Fred Swearingen flagged Barnes for pass interference — 33 yards and a first down at the Dallas 23.

A few plays later, Franco Harris roared through the line for 22 yards and the touchdown that made it 28-17.

Nineteen seconds after Harris' TD, came Swann. Randy White of the Cowboys, who shared last year's Super Bowl MVP award, was one of this year's goats when he fumbled a kickoff after the Harris score.

Bradshaw opened the scoring with a TD pass, covering 28 yards, to the guy known primarily as Pittsburgh's "other" receiver, John Stallworth. He made a leaping catch in the left corner of the end zone, just 5:13 into the game.

On the final play of the quarter, Staubach tied it with a swing pass to Tony Hill, who took the ball on the Steelers 29 and raced the rest of the 39 yards down the left side for the score.

Henderson, who had two of Dallas' four sacks of Bradshaw, clutched the Steelers quarterback and fellow linebacker Mike Hegman swiped the ball and sprinted 37 yards for a TD that gave Dallas a 14-7 lead less than three minutes into the second period. Less than two minutes later, Bradshaw and Stallworth struck again.

Bradshaw faded back from the 25 and dumped off a pass to Stallworth at the 35. Cornerback Aaron Kyle, burned by Stallworth once, was charged again. He dived at the receiver's feet, missed, then could only watch as the play went for 75 yards and a tying touchdown.

PITTSBURGH STEELERS wide receiver Lynn Swann goes high to take in a pass from quarterback Terry Bradshaw during their Super Bowl victory over Dallas Sunday. Pittsburgh's 35-31 triumph made the Steelers the first team to win three Super Bowls.

Crenshaw fires 61

PHOENIX (AP) — It sounded just a bit like whistling past the graveyard, but Jerry Pate and Andy Bean weren't conceding anything.

"You can't tell. I might go out and shoot 61," said Pate. "I'll just try to birdie every hole," said Bean. "Ben didn't miss it far."

Indeed, he didn't.

Ben Crenshaw, adjusting his putting stroke in the middle of the round, fired a spectacular, 10-under-par 61 Sunday and established a 4-stroke lead going into today's third and final round of the weather-abbreviated Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The tournament, postponed both Thursday and Friday, was trimmed from a 72-hole to 54-hole format. The purse, originally announced at $250,000, also was trimmed, to $187,500.

"That's as low as I can shoot," said Crenshaw, who reeled off a string of nine birdies in one stretch of 11 holes on the rain-soaked, 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

It was the lowest round on the PGA Tour since Al Geiberger's all-time record 59 composed in Memphis in 1977.

"I couldn't believe it," said Jay Haas, who was tied for second with Bean and Pate. "I'm out there making pars and birdies and every time I look up I'm another stroke behind."

Crenshaw, a disappointed non-winner last year, put together a 36-hole total of 128, a distant 14 strokes below par. Pate, Bean and Haas were at 132. Bean and Pate, who finished birdie-birdie, had 66 in the cool, cloudy weather, and Haas holed an 18-foot eagle putt on the final hole for a 67.

Howard Twitty was next at 66-134, six shots back. John Mahaffey, winner of the season's first tournament, was 69-137 and U.S. Open champ Andy North 70-136.

Harvesters to host AHS

Pampa's Hustling Harvesters will close the first half of their District 3-AAAA basketball campaign Tuesday night at home against the Amarillo Sandies.

The girls, meanwhile, will be at the Sandie gym for their second district contest of the season. Both teams will take a break from league play on Friday, when the girls will host powerful Plainview and the boys will travel south to take on the Bulldogs in Plainview.

This week's high school sports

MONDAY

Basketball — Junior high girls at Plainview Red; Junior high boys Red teams vs. Plainview Red, Pampa Middle School, 4 p.m.

TUESDAY

Basketball — Boys JV and varsity vs. Amarillo High, Harvester Field House, game times 6 and 7:45 p.m.; Girls JV and varsity vs. Amarillo High at Amarillo, game times 6 and 7:45 p.m.

THURSDAY

Basketball — Junior high boys Blue teams vs. Borger White at Borger.

FRIDAY

THE TRUE BARGAIN
NOT JUST A LOW PRICE, BUT A LOW PRICE, HIGH MILEAGE, AND TOYOTA RELIABILITY.

TRUE RELIABILITY.
The 1979 Corolla 2-Door Sedan has a fully transistorized ignition system for surer starting. Dual master cylinder braking system for added safety. And self adjusting brakes.

31 40
EPA estimated mpg

TRUE FUEL ECONOMY. Remember. Compare this estimate to the EPA "Estimated MPG" of other cars. You may get different mileage, depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and trip length. Actual highway mileage will probably be less than the EPA "Highway Estimate."

TRUE COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE.
Inside, you'll find room for four. Vinyl upholstery. Reclining driver's bucket seat. Power-assisted flo-through ventilation. And steering column-mounted Headlight, Headlamp Flasher, Windshield Wiper/Washer controls.

TRUE VALUE.
If it's defined as what you get for what you pay, this Corolla's a winner. It's only $3,748 with all the standard equipment listed below. Manufacturer's suggested retail price. Price does not include tax, license, transportation, California emissions or optional equipment.

TRUE ROADWORTHINESS.
For surer cornering there's MacPherson strut front suspension. And for surer stopping, power-assisted front disc brakes.

TRUE QUALITY.
Built right, to last. This Corolla has welded unitized body construction, to help prevent squeaks and rattles. Paint that's applied thick and smooth. And rust-resistant, galvanized metal in rust-prone areas.

STANDARD FEATURES: 12 liter overhead valve engine, 4-speed synchromesh transmission, Fully transistorized ignition, Power-assisted front disc brakes, Styled steel wheels, MacPherson strut front suspension, Unitized body construction, Rust-inhibiting front fender liners, Locking gas cap, H-back vinyl front bucket seats, Power-assisted flo-through ventilation, Inside hood release, Steering column-mounted headlight, headlamp flasher, windshield wiper/washer controls, Heater/defroster with 3-speed fan, Recessed spare tire well, Five main bearing crankshaft, Temperature gauge, 3-position dome light, Reversible keys, Adjustable leaved fresh air vents, 13.2 gallon fuel tank, Glove box, Molded headliner, Wide blade fan, Aluminized muffler, Plus these standard Safety Equipment features: ELR 3-point seat belts, Steering column lock with ignition reminder buzzer, 2-speed electric windshield wiper/washer, Padded dash and visors, Recoverable shock-absorbing bumpers, Combination brake fluid "low"/parking brake "on" warning light, Collapsible steering column, 4-way hazard warning light, Breakaway inside mirror, Recessed door handles, Side door guard/reinforcement, Seat belt warning light and buzzer, Tandem master brake cylinder.

Navratilova to play for crown

Houston (AP) - Martina Navratilova, a devout Dallas Cowboys fan, overcame the shock of the Cowboys' Super Bowl defeat in time to advance to the finals of the $125,000 Women's Pro Tennis tournament here for the fourth straight year Sunday.

And if the fluctuations in the Cowboys' successes and failures mean anything, Navratilova should capture her fourth straight championship in the Houston stop on the women's tour in the finals tonight. "I lost in the Washington tournament and the Cowboys won," said Navratilova, who defeated Dianne Fromholtz 7-5, 6-0 Sunday to gain tonight's championship final. "Now the Cowboys lost and I won."

Second-seeded Virginia Wade of England will challenge the top-seeded Navratilova for the $24,000 first prize. Wade defeated Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-3, 6-2 in Sunday's other semifinal match. Her Super Bowl prediction wasn't accurate, but Navratilova has another for tonight's title match with Wade. "I look for a slugfest," said Navratilova, who has won 13 of 14 matches on the tour this year. "You should see a variety of shots. It just depends on who is doing better. You never know who will win when the top players meet."

Fromholtz and Navratilova played an entertaining first set that went down to the 12th game before Navratilova, leading 6-5, broke Fromholtz after two deuces to win the set. Fromholtz fell behind love-40 in the sixth game of the first set before winning five straight points to hold service. Navratilova struggled in the 11th game before holding service after two deuces. Fromholtz crumbled in the second set, although she took the final game to five match points before losing. "I was just hitting out and not worrying about it going in," Navratilova said.

Wade broke Turnbull in the seventh and ninth games to win the first set. After the pair traded service breaks in the fourth and fifth games of the second set, Wade again cracked Turnbull's serve in the sixth and eighth game win to complete the match.
