Clements plans follow up on trip

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements planned telephone calls today to the governors of California, New Mexico and Arizona to follow up on his visit with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

There is one word that describes our visit and the proper word is "accord." Clements told reporters after arriving home from a two-day visit to Mexico City "President Lopez Portillo and I were in accord."

Clements said he talked with Lopez Portillo about Mexico's new oil and gas discoveries, the flood of illegal aliens to Texas and other states, and U.S. government plans for a "tortilla curtain" of border city fences. They also discussed the border drug traffic.

Lopez Portillo has offered no comment on his meeting with the Texas governor.

Clements said he did not want to reveal details of any conclusions reached with Lopez Portillo "because I don't want to pre-empt President Carter who visits the Mexican president next month.

Clements said he proposed that the tide of "undocumented workers" crossing into Texas and the other states could be stemmed by a work permit system similar to the old bracero program in the 1960s.

"This would be a starting point," Lopez Portillo is in accord with this," he said.

"The next step will be to get the governors in on this. The counterpart Mexican governors will be brought in too," Clements said after the governors of the four states, with their Mexican counterparts,

"evolve a program for the workers, then it will be submitted to the State Department and they can negotiate with Mexico. It would have to be on a bilateral basis, that's the only way it can work."

He said a similar pattern would be followed on border drug traffic problems. "The governors will be brought in and their Mexican counterparts will be brought in too."

Boy needs kidney Transplant blocked

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Anne Little wants to give her 14-year-old brother the new kidney he needs to stay alive. Doctors say Anne is the only person with an acceptable kidney for Steve.

But Anne is mentally retarded. And the law — or a lack of it — is standing in the way of the life-saving transplant.

In what attorneys said is the first appeal of its kind in Texas, the 4th Court of Civil Appeals was asked here Wednesday to decide whether Steve Little could receive the life-saving kidney from his retarded sister.

A Guadalupe County probate court order last Nov. 17 allowed Anne's parents to consent to the operation.

An attorney appointed to represent Anne's interests, however, reluctantly appealed the order because he believes the probate court lacked the authority to give it. He contends that Texas law provides no process to allow mentally incompetent persons to donate organs to others.

"My intent is to fully protect her interests," said R.H. Wester Jr., appointed attorney for the retarded Seguin youth. Wester added that he doesn't want to block the operation. "I feel the operation would be of extreme benefit to Steve," he said.

"There is no constitutional authority, no statutory authority in Texas which would permit the procedure requested," Wester told the appeals court Wednesday.

"It came as quite a shock," said Anne and Steve's mother, Margaret, who added that she and her husband, Thomas, really don't understand the need for the appeal.

"That just doesn't have anything to do with Anne's rights," she said.

Doctors, meanwhile, refuse to perform the transplant without a court order.

Steve's kidney problems began at birth. One kidney never fully developed and was removed with him as 5. The remaining kidney has now virtually ceased to function and he is surviving through artificial kidney dialysis three times per week.

Steve hasn't grown in size or weight in three years, said W.C. Kirkendall, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas.

Doctors have said Steve can expect to live two more years without a transplant. There is a 95 percent chance of success for a transplant from Anne and the new kidney would give Steve a very good chance for a normal life, they added.

Of his parents and six brothers and sisters, Anne is the only one doctors say can provide a completely acceptable kidney.

The doctors have stated that if Steve doesn't get the operation within six months, he may very well not get it at all," said the father.

"There is a very good possibility Steve will die in the very near future if the operation is not permitted," Kirkendall told the court.

Anne, who has Down's syndrome or mongolism, wants to act as a kidney donor for her brother even though she does not fully comprehend what that involves, the parents said.

A psychiatrist who examined her reported, "She is quite devoted to Steve and wants him to be healthy."

"I think he (Steve) is very frustrated by the appeal," said Mrs. Little.

Defense Secretary Brown: Soviets installing missiles

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown told Congress today the Soviet Union is installing new missiles with more warheads and improving their accuracy "more rapidly than we had expected a year ago."

The Russians, Brown said, added about 1,000 strategic nuclear warheads in 1978 — twice the increase he had forecast last year.

The growth in the Soviet military effort is potentially very dangerous to us," Brown said in surveying the U.S.-Soviet balance in nuclear and conventional strength.

But he stressed that, "despite their increased efforts, the Soviets have not achieved anything that resembles overwhelming military power," which he said the United States is acting to prevent.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. David Jones, said adverse trends cited by U.S. military leaders for at least a decade "have edged us another year closer to a potentially unstable and acutely dangerous imbalance."

There was an undercurrent of deepening concern — as well as an acknowledgement of an intelligence underestimate — in reports Brown and Jones prepared for the opening of Senate Arms Services Committee hearings on the Carter administration's record $122.7 billion defense budget for fiscal 1980, which starts Oct. 1.

Brown said the Soviets' faster-than-expected deployment of new and more accurate versions of big SS-18 and SS-19 missiles may be speeding up the time in the early 1980s when U.S. Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles, poised in underground launch bases, could be destroyed in a surprise attack.

For this reason, he said, the United States must move ahead with development of a new mobile ICBM and a new "survivable basing system." He implied the leading candidate is a missile that could be launched from cargo-type planes able to use short landing strips.

The Carter administration is asking Congress for $935 million this year and next to accelerate mobile missile development, although final technical decisions have not yet been made on the project, which ultimately could cost $30 billion.

Pampan in band

Imagine, if you will, what it must be like to be one of only 20 flute players in Texas to perform in the 1979 All-State Band. Why, there are more than 20 flutists in the Pampa High School band alone.

It's easy to see why Alice Gilbert is excited. Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Gilbert of Pampa, is one of about 200 band students throughout Texas who will play in the state band Feb. 7-11 in Fort Worth.

The 16-year-old junior is the first chair flutist in the high school symphonic band, and a member of the 4-A All-Region Band that will meet Friday and Saturday in Canyon. She started band while in the fifth grade at Austin Elementary School.

The All-State Band is composed of students who advance through competitions in four state areas. Pampa is included in an area consisting of the Panhandle and the Midland-Odessa and El Paso regions.

Alice's performance in a local competition Dec. 9 in Canyon qualified her for area try-outs last weekend in Lubbock, which resulted in her placement in the All-State Band. While in Fort Worth she will compete for a chair position in the band.

An average of one Pampa High School band member plays in the All-State Band each year, according to Band Director Jeff Doughten. Although no Pampa students were included in the state band last year, two qualified for the 1976-77 band.

Davis trial judge says jury was 'misinformed'

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The state district judge who presided over the 13-week Cullen Davis murder-conspiracy trial believes the jury was "completely misinformed on at least one point that was vital to the case."

Wallace "Pete" Moore, in an interview Wednesday, said the jury also may have been led astray on another point. He refused to elaborate but said, "If you give wrong information, then, just like a computer, you'll get out wrong information in the future."

Moore said the trial was "the biggest strain on me since I've been a judge. It was the worst experience I have ever had."

Asked if he was sensitive to comments from the public as to his handling of the case, Moore said, "Yes, I live in a glass house and I don't throw rocks."

Moore, tired and still somewhat angry, said he wanted to get away from it all now.

"It was an abuse of the system and I am not over it yet. I don't think the attorneys are over it and I am sure the jurors aren't over it. You just can't throw a switch and say it is off," he said.

Moore, 55, had sat on the bench for 13 weeks of one of the most expensive and sensational trials in Texas history.

It ended in a hung jury — eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

Davis, a millionaire industrialist from Fort Worth, was accused of plotting the murder of Judge Joe Eidson who had presided over the defendant's bitter divorce trial with his estranged wife, Priscilla.

In an interview in the Houston lawyers' club, Moore said 12 jurors were "kept from their work, and from their homes and from everything else for 13 weeks. When I talk about abuse of the system, I am talking about flesh and blood."

Those 12 people got $5 a day and that wouldn't even pay their parking or noon meal. It should not have taken that length of time."

Moore, dressed in open-neck red sport shirt and a gray jacket, sipped a bourbon and water, with his ever-present cigarette in hand, and said defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes did "a fantastic job, taking a set of facts like this, when his man was in the hole all the way, an uphill fight and he pulled it out."

"This was a victory for him, but he could have done this one faster."

Moore, an easy-going man who likes to sail and shoot the bull with his lawyer friends and his World War II buddies, said,

"This trial was the biggest physical strain I have ever had. There was the mental strain of it, too, with that group of defense attorneys, possibly the best in the United States."

"They tried to keep this judge on his toes and they kept me almost off my feet. I was reaching for the ground every minute of every trial day."

"But, I didn't give them any ground for a trial error."

Pot haul probe goes on

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff
State and federal law enforcement agencies are continuing their investigation of the largest drug bust in Pampa history, but no arrests have been made.

State narcotics agents were in Pampa Wednesday afternoon, seeking information that might lead to the apprehension of persons involved in the attempted drop-off in a light airplane of 450 pounds of marijuana at Perry Lefors Airport Sunday night.

Three men were questioned and released in connection with the case, and the marijuana and plane were confiscated by U.S. customs agents. The pilot remains at large.

"I would say there will be some arrests and some charges filed after the pilot is apprehended," said Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan, who talked with Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) officials Tuesday afternoon. "After he is caught and indicted, then some information will come out."

"I personally don't think it will be any problem to apprehend him. It may take two or three weeks."

Jordan said he is certain the pilot left Pampa Sunday night.

"I feel like this man intended to come back and get the ship after the contraband had been unloaded, and fly it out of here, but then the case broke," the sheriff said. "I think that he blew out of here right away."

Contrary to earlier news reports, which stated that one or all of the three suspects questioned at the airport were taken to Lubbock in custody, Jordan confirmed that all three were released here on personal recognizance.

"Of course, (the DEA) got all the information they want, and they know where to get them — they're in the Austin area," said Jordan of the three men.

A DEA official declined to say this morning whether any arrests will soon be made in connection with the case.

"We're just following all possible leads," said W.D. Groseclose of the agency.

Asked if the DEA plans to take any action against the owner of the plane, Bob Oba Bryant of Palm Springs, Calif., the spokesman replied "I couldn't tell you that now."

Bryant has told reporters the plane was rented over the weekend.

The amount of marijuana originally confiscated was 430 pounds, but another 20 pound bag was later found in the locked fuselage of the plane, Jordan said.

The sheriff has valued the marijuana at $100,000, or about $25 a pound, which some authorities have questioned as being too conservative.

"I would like to be conservative," Jordan responded. "I don't want to blow it up. I still feel like I was pretty close to right on the valuation."

Good afternoon

News in brief

SNOW
The forecast for Pampa is for heavy snow today with blowing and drifting snow tonight and Friday. The low tonight will be in the mid 20s with the high Friday in the mid 30s. Thunder storms may accompany the snow with possible heavy rains.

Local house rental scene tight

The only unanimous consensus about the housing situation in Pampa is that it's almost impossible to find a house to rent.

"The rental situation here is really critical," said one realtor Wednesday. "Finding a house to rent is almost sheer luck. We get as many as 20 calls a week for rentals, a lot of people call."

Another realtor said that her office rarely had more than two houses available for rent.

"A lot of (rental) is done by word of mouth. Someone hears that someone is moving out and they contact that person," the realtor said.

Most realtors said they referred rentals as a service without charge.

Houses are generally renting for $200 to $300, depending on the property.

One realtor contacted said she doesn't expect the house rental situation to improve. "With the economy the way it is, people are not going to build houses that size," she said. "It just isn't a sound investment. People aren't investing in rental property right now. Maintenance is important and something like a plumbing bill can wipe out a month's rent."

The established wisdom is that if you're planning to stay in town, your best bet is to buy if you can make the down payment. "You'll be paying about as much for rent as you will for house payments," said one realtor. "And when you rent a house, you're not getting anything back for your investment."

Three Texas officials jailed

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — The second-ranking officer in the Oaredo police department, an Austin attorney and a private investigator were charged with obstruction of justice Wednesday and jailed on $30,000 bond each.

The three men are accused of attempting to bribe a police officer to change sworn testimony.

Capt. Jose Campos Davila, 66, was accused of being the middle man in the alleged bribery attempt. The 35-year police veteran was suspended pending disposition of the charges.

Congress sows seeds of agency growth

The lead paragraph in a story out of Washington read, "In a move to save taxpayers $3 billion a year, President Carter announced a plan to simplify eligibility requirements for welfare recipients."

Nothing in the story revealed that any programs were to be cut, but the indication was that three billion dollars could be saved through cutting red tape, reducing inefficiencies and obvious fraud.

If there is that much waste and fraud in the single area of welfare, just what might be found in the entire bureaucracy? Granted, the welfare agencies account for a lion's share of funds dispensed by the federal government; but $3 billion going down the drain for no purpose boggles the mind.

We doubt that fraud is the major source of the loss. We would guess that waste and the attempts to prevent fraud take up most of the loss to taxpayers.

Carter told a Health, Education and Welfare conference on fraud, abuse and error in federal programs that cutting red tape will make it easier for needy Americans to receive welfare and easier for government watchdogs to control waste. He ordered those concerned to "head a major effort to streamline the hundreds of complex eligibility requirements."

"We will move to simplify these procedures where it really counts; at the state and local level," Carter said. "Today, the welfare system of one state eats up three billion pieces of paper each year and a thousand different forms. A woman seeking aid in another state had to spend 300 hours in one year filling out paperwork documenting her need."

Georgia Gov. George Busbee said that the basic problem in government aid is not so much thievery by poor benefactors and white collar administrators of federal programs. "The great problem lies in layer upon layer of bureaucracy," he said.

The governor termed the federally supported student loan program as the worst of all complexities, saying, "The federal government now provides some form of financial support to seven different loan programs." He asked for more leeway for states in administering such programs.

Busbee's stand is well taken but it is not in the best interest of careerists in federal agencies. They thrive on duplication between agencies and overlapping activities within an agency. This is where the potential for growth in bureaucracy resides. The Congress sows the seeds for much of this overlapping by tacking amendments on bills for more functions. These amendments become law with little or no real support from the members of Congress.

In fact, most of these "minor" amendments go through without debate and little or no notice. But here is the seedbed for future growth and expansion of federal agencies. Many of the most costly and useless measures today were planted years ago in these "minor" amendments which went through Congress without notice.

We cannot put all the blame for a bumper crop on the harvesters, if the seeds of unneeded legislation have been planted by our so-called representatives.

Given the seed and the climate to nurture agency growth, the resultant proliferation can only be expected.

Even as we write of this, we can be assured that the every-ready pressure groups are grinding out much more of the same sort of seed for future bureaucratic expansion.

Tiffany takes a stand

In one of the political journals recently a writer complained, partly because of the void left by his kindred liberal intellectuals, that this had become the era of the Mobil ad.

He was thinking of those little essays, explaining the oral basis of democratic capitalism, which one of the major oil companies had been displaying in an advertisement. They are "Mobil ads."

They may be soon joined by "Tiffany ads."

One day recently there appeared in the Wall Street Journal a two-column display ad taken out by one of the most prestigious jewelers in the country. It addressed the question, formulated by professional public opinion samplers, "Is Inflation The Real Problem?"

The Tiffany ad is something of an event in itself, a fresh enunciation of basic truths. Here then, is inflation the real problem? "No," says Tiffany & Co. San Francisco, Beverly Hills. "It is not. Inflation is simply the inevitable, final result of our follies. What, then, are the real causes of this national calamity?"

HERE THEY ARE:

1. Spending exorbitant sums of taxpayers' money unwisely by our government.

2. Inhibiting the initiatives of the people with frustrating bureaucratic regulations.

3. Taxing savings and capital formation to death.

4. Government programs which have created critical shortages of essential materials and energy.

5. Giving away billions of dollars to foreign governments.

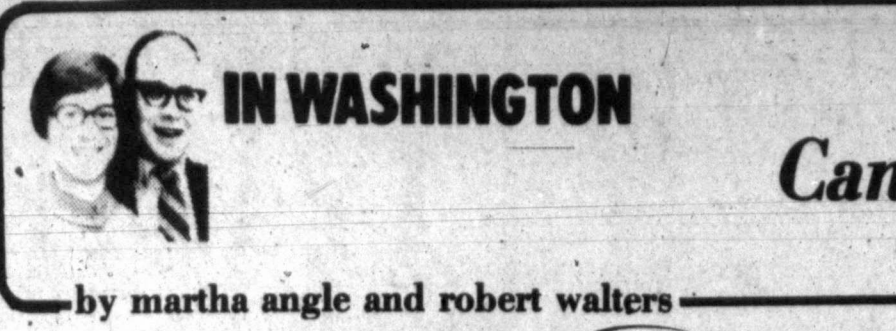

6. Wasting untold money on foreign wars.

7. Tinkering with the economic machinery with unsound panaceas.

8. Forsaking our religious heritage, not only in our schools, but everywhere; thus, accentuating crime, immorality, greed and selfishness.

The Press loves to divine sinister motives for such things, especially if they go against the grain of conventional liberal assumptions. We can hear the cries (ignoring Tiffany's arguments): Tiffany must be facing government impediments as it rapes the earth to find gems only the rich can enjoy! Tiffany is acting in self-interest!

Of course it is. The survival of our free economic institutions is at stake; as is democratic capitalism itself. Tiffany needn't apologize for (a) creating jobs all the way from the mines to the shop windows, and (b) adding its exquisite touch to American life. It is a delight to see its participation in the Great Debate, exciting to see democratic capitalism go on the offensive again.

IN WASHINGTON

Can Carter get results?

by martha angle and robert walters

GRANLUND THE SOUTH MIDDLESEX NEWS BY NEA

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Carter is moving into the final two years of his term determined to avoid the procedural and political bangles that dogged his dealings with Congress throughout most of 1977-78.

Carter has learned, the hard way, that he cannot expect to reap political credit for good ideas alone, no matter how carefully prepared or cogently argued. What counts is his won - lost record on Capitol Hill.

Other presidents — John F. Kennedy comes to mind — have occasionally been able to sustain their own popularity despite setbacks on Capitol Hill through personal charisma and inspirational leadership.

But Carter has all the charisma of a corner lamppost. He couldn't inspire a drowning man to grab a life preserver; more likely the poor fellow would simply sink from the sedative effects of a Carter speech.

Therefore, the president must produce results — or the appearance of same, at any rate — if he wants to persuade the electorate to grant him a second term in 1980.

Administration sources readily concede that Carter and his green White House staff overloaded the 95th Congress with program initiatives, many of which had not even been completely thought out before going to Capitol Hill.

"We'll have a much more modest package this time, and we're trying to pace things better," one key White House adviser said. "Most of what we send up will have a realistic chance of being passed in 1979."

Vice President Walter Mondale is in charge of drawing up the administration agenda and timetable for legislative action this year. And while the final decisions have not yet been reached, the top priorities are already determined.

Numbers one and two, obviously, are the Carter anti - inflation package and a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT II). Everything else gets second billing behind these objectives.

Almost as important will be legislation to implement the multi - national trade agreements now being wrapped up in Geneva after five years of hard bargaining; a renewed drive for hospital cost containment; and — perhaps surprisingly — some form of national health insurance, assuming internal administration fights about its shape and scope can be resolved.

There are about a dozen other proposals in the mill, many of them left over from the last Congress — such as Alaska lands legislation, creation of a Department of Education, establishment of a National Urban Development Bank and a scaled-down welfare reform plan.

The first big trouble looms with Carter's real wage insurance proposal, the heart of his anti - inflation package, which has received a decidedly cool welcome in the House Ways and Means Committee, which must approve it. Treasury Department lobbyists are already quietly trying to sell the plan to key committee members, but are making little headway.

Carter may do better pressing his proposed budget cuts, even though they are politically painful. White House lobbyists plan to ride herd on appropriations decisions at every stage of the legislative process instead of waiting, as they did previously, until bills hit the House and Senate floors.

A SULT II treaty faces rough going in the Senate, but the White House is applying the same full - court press it used for the Panama Canal pacts — and it is starting far earlier.

White House lobbyists and those for the Cabinet departments have learned a good deal over the last two years about the care and feeding of congressional egos. They still make mistakes on occasion, but nothing like as often as they used to.

Carter will never be a Lyndon Johnson, anymore than he is another JFK. But if he and his team can get results from Congress in their own rather methodical fashion, no one will carp about the style. For this president, it's the bottom line that counts.

Uncle Sam, tax dodger

by paul harvey

Mayor Kucinich of Cleveland is pleading for help. Seeking desperately to rescue his city from bankruptcy, he asked his city council to sell some city property.

For reasons which may be more partisan than practical, the council refused.

But when the mayor was protesting that the city could bail itself out by selling property, I began to wonder how much of my home base city - and yours - is owned by the city.

Good gracious! In Cook County, Ill. - mostly Chicago - it may be that 40 percent of all real estate is not paying taxes.

Can you imagine how much it would relieve the burden on taxpayers if even some of this property were taxable?

There are legitimate exemptions - religious, charitable and educational institutions. But the Oak Park Tennis Club has paid no taxes for 54 years on Forest Preserve property it uses.

Medinah Temple, for no reason at all, is exempt from paying property taxes. And three Little League baseball fields and three college fraternity houses and three suburban women's clubs and a theater in Western Springs.

At last count there were 54,403 parcels of property in Chicagoland which pay no taxes.

Also in destitute New York City, which has been borrowing money from the rest of us, I understand that, on approximately 40 percent of all property, nobody is paying any tax.

Obviously, the citizens of each city should examine their own records and determine whether the tax load is distributed fairly, or whether in years past somebody's political clout or administrative oversight created inequities.

On almost half of all the land in the United States nobody pays taxes.

Only 58.2 percent of the United States is owned by taxpayers.

Land owned by federal, state or local government amounts to 41.8 percent of the total.

There are valid arguments for keeping parks as parks. Most of us appreciate and applaud our government's efforts to preserve some wilderness areas.

But our government continues to acquire more and more "public lands" on which no taxes are paid and which must be maintained at taxpayer expense.

A time to change your life

Editors note: This article was written by Jim Cronis, publisher of the Bucyrus, Ohio, Telegraph - Forum. We thought it was worth passing along.

Now that the New Year's resolutions that were weakly made have been broken and we're back to a pack a day and Dr. Pepper for breakfast, it is a time to look at what we are really doing with our lives and our futures.

Are we as individuals going to make a genuine effort to clean up our act and get accountable instead of comfortable?

Are we going to settle back into routine knowing we can get by? Or are we going to strike out against all that hurts us and our families to make our lives better and life in general better for those around us?

We can have a positive year, a so - so year, or we can even have a downhill year, pretty much at will. I am a firm believer in if "you think you can, you probably will," forsaking ill health or other conditions beyond your control.

The other night I heard a nice man say that we must increase our efforts step by step, plateau by plateau, in the way we are able. I say, set your goals slightly higher than you can possibly reach. If we go step by step, we are saying in effect, "I'm going to do a little better, but I'm not going to put myself out to do it." If we set a goal that is almost reachable, we are saying, "I'm going to give it all I have and then some." Is this not the attitude of our winning teams?

I know people who love a challenge and live to meet the next one. Corrine Boryczka used to say, "I love competition, a good fight makes us do better." I also know people who fear the next new thing like the plague. By their own design, the person seeking out a challenge will fare better than the one who fears. Life is a series of conflicts and challenges that make us want to live on!

Most of our problems are clear but what is the solution and who will try it? Are you willing to dedicate yourself to the real excitement of 1979, or will you sit behind your TV set and recline another year away?

Americans are giving away their freedoms at a record rate and as welfare soars, Americans productivity drops.

The erosion of freedom in the world today would have been an anathema to Patrick Henry. The erosion of our money through taxation to lower - income people, many of whom won't work, through huge governmental agencies in return for votes by social pressure groups. Schools telling us to approve our levy or else they'll be back at the polls every time they can, and even again when they do get the nod. These groups don't ask for money, they demand it, and in huge amounts. We can ignore them in 1979 or we can, in a small way, do big things by getting off our duffs and bringing an end to all that pits friend against friend. Little things add up for the citizens who stand for freedom!

Even in Bucyrus we may have to ask for a little less and put out a little more, or watch the Yankee dollar melt to the size of a pre - war deutschmark. There is a big world of new enterprisers out there and they've found out what free enterprise has taught us. The one big thing we still have over many areas of the world is our freedom. They've got our technology, their people work or go hungry. They're building new factories and improving on products we invented.

When people take money they didn't earn, food they didn't help produce or benefits they're not entitled to, somebody must pay the bill. Nobody can have some if there isn't any!

It is time to take positive action and be counted. It is time to accept the good life in view of the way we come to get it. It is time to get up from behind our TV set and spend some time securing our little freedoms.

Our defenses are weakening, and each one of us must work here in Bucyrus and in Crawford County to shore them up.

As I step down off my soapbox I wonder how many people will take me seriously and enrich their own personal lives through a little extra effort at work, at home, in church and at play in 1979?

"Hey, that's a good one - you're looking for FULFILLING work!"

The pay law controversy

The bid by President Carter to repeal or curb the Bacon - Davis Act will need all the clout of his office as well as the urgency of the anti - inflation fight to be successful.

The 1931 legislation, requiring contractors on federal construction jobs to pay their employees wages prevailing in the area where the work was performed, has been the center of controversy ever since it was signed by President Hoover.

Critics questioned the authority and the capability of the secretary of labor to make the determination of the prevailing wage — which has in practice over the years been accepted as the highest union scale.

And Congress periodically has expanded the law to apply to all projects in which the federal government is even remotely involved through funding insurance or other aid programs. In 1964, the act was amended to include fringe benefits in the prevailing wage determinations.

The effect has been virtually to eliminate real cost competition in construction contracts, leading to a steady spiral in construction costs.

The General Accounting Office, in a report to the White House, has called the Davis - Bacon Act outdated, unnecessary and inflationary.

We don't know what the president will propose. But the Carter effort probably will have reform rather than repeal as its goal. That is too bad. This ill - conceived law is a bread - and - butter issue that takes money from every American consumer.

Connally gets support for race

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Big" John Connally shoved his storied past aside and shouldered into the ring of Republican presidential candidates with promises to deliver America from a "fourth major period of crisis."

The former three-term Democratic governor of Texas turned Republican and joined the Nixon Administration in 1973 only to be immersed in a Watergate-related bribery trial two years later.

"I was tried by a jury of 10 blacks and two whites. They gave the answer for all times and hopefully for all reasonable people and that was simply not guilty," Connally said Wednesday after officially announcing his candidacy during a speech at the National Press Club.

Connally's announcement brought an immediate endorsement from Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and welcoming comments from expected opponents. He has had his trials and his difficulties, but he will be one whale of a candidate for the Republican nomination," said Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who is expected to announce his plans this summer.

"He's in the fray now," commented Ronald Reagan, noting he had known "Big John" when both were governors.

Connally rated Reagan as the current "front runner...and I don't necessarily envy him in that position at this point."

In response to another Reagan-related question, Connally said he felt age was not going to be a factor in the GOP race.

Reagan is 68. The silver-haired Connally is 61.

Connally is the fourth candidate to officially enter the GOP race. The others are Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, Los Angeles businessman Benjamin Fernandez and Harold Stassen, a former governor of Minnesota.

Texas George Bush, a former party chairman who also served as CIA director and U.S. representative in Peking, is expected to eventually join the list of official candidates.

High rents could change Capitol

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Capitol of the future might be likened to a sun surrounded by planets.

The high cost of rent or construction to match the granite-and-marble style of Capitol complex buildings has caused planners to look elsewhere in Austin for other Capitol complexes.

Chairman Charles Coates of the State Board of Control said the state's rent payments rose from $1.5 million in 1970 to $6.1 million in 1978, and that figure is expected to jump to $8.1 million by 1984.

Coates told the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday a $28 million state building with 381,000 square feet has been authorized, and "it will not meet our total needs but it will certainly help."

"Couldn't you get out of the Capitol complex?" Homer Foerster, the board's executive director, was asked.

"We're thinking of many (Capitol) complexes," Foerster said.

"Mini or many?" asked finance chairman Grant Jones, D-Abilene.

"Many," replied Foerster — "especially on land the state already owns."

He said the state's newest building is costing approximately $8 a square foot, and that could be cut $7-$8 by building in other neighborhoods.

Already, a number of major agencies are housed miles from the Capitol in either rented or state-owned quarters. The new State Parks and Wildlife Department building is a 20-minute drive, by freeway, from the Capitol.

"Could you use the Law Center?" asked Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz, referring to the controversial assessments levied by the State Bar of Texas to pay for the $8 million building, which is three blocks from the Capitol.

"We certainly could," replied Foerster.

"It would be useful office space?" asked Schwartz, D-Galveston.

"Oh, definitely," replied Foerster.

Schwartz said he was serious.

EMTs try to save lives

Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) have completed a comprehensive study on how to handle many emergency situations.

Local training will continue when Dr. Adolf Orina addresses the Top O' Texas branch of the Emergency Medical Technicians Association at the next meeting on Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Orina, an area physician, will discuss emergency medicine and information that a doctor needs to know about patients who arrive at hospitals.

EMTs are trained to analyze and treat emergency patients while en route to hospitals. They take 90 hours of class training and 40 hours of hospital instruction with two practice emergency runs.

An EMT is state certified after completing 130 hours of training, taking a 100 page written test and showing practical knowledge in the five specifically taught areas — cardiopulmonary resuscitation, vital signs, bandaging and splinting, traction splinting and mechanical aids to breathing.

The association's local chapter began in August 1978, according to its president, Tom Leggins. He is now giving the EMT course at Clarendon College Pampa Center.

"We want to serve the people," said Leggins.

EMT has set up emergency stations at carnivals and rodeos held in Pampa, said Leggins, and will continue to do so.

The local chapter, under the direction of Stephen Dewey, is combining with Civil Defense, headed by Charles Buzzard, to adopt some procedures for disaster situations.

Leggins said that he was pleased with the results of a simulated disaster, which checked the speed of area EMTs. He said that about 11 technicians arrived in 15 minutes.

The EMTs meetings, which are usually learning sessions, are open to the public.

4-H Club places at show

Gray County 4-H was well represented at the 1979 Amarillo Stock Show and Rodeo held Jan. 16-22 in Amarillo. Nineteen Gray County 4-H members exhibited their animals in the Junior Livestock Show.

Barrow exhibitors receiving high placings were: Brock Parker - 2nd Heavy Chester; Scott Vanderburg - 8th heavy Duroc and 22nd Light Duroc; Mindy Romines - 12th Heavy Hampshire; and Elson Rice - 13th Light Spot.

Other exhibitors showing their barrows included Dough Smith, Treca George, Rebel Fulton, Jerod Cambren, Lynley Cambren and Dane Reeves.

In the lamb show, Amie Greene and Jamie Greene exhibited their lambs.

Individuals placing with their steers included: Jem Ann Rice - 2nd Light Angus; John Mark Baggerman - 5th Light Cross; Elson Rice - 5th Junior Hereford Heifer; Susie Billingsley - 9th light Cross; and Rhonda Woods - 16th Light Cross.

Other 4-H members showing steers included: Stephen McAnear, Teresa Woods, and Candi Carpenter.

Susie Billingsley was selected during the steer judging to return for competition for the Showmanship Award.

President Andrew Johnson pardoned all Civil War rebels in 1868.

Lawmakers short of bills

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Because they are short of bills to work on, Texas legislators have spent time urging federal action against Iranian student demonstrators and inviting President Carter and Vice President Mondale to come and speak.

House members passed one bill (SB133) Wednesday — a $467,118 emergency appropriation to finance expansion of three courts of civil appeals in Dallas and Houston from three to six members.

The bill — the first to pass both houses since the legislative session began Jan. 9 — now goes to Gov. Bill Clements for signature.

Senators had several bills on their calendar — including one to protect children from hazardous toys — but no move was made to bring any of them up for debate.

Without discussion, senators approved a House resolution inviting Carter and Mondale to address a joint session of the Legislature at their convenience.

Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, House sponsor of the measure, has said Carter and Mondale deserved a chance to justify administration policies in a state where they often are criticized.

A House vote of 115-14 sent the Senate a resolution by Rep. City Smothers, D-Dallas, urging "swift and sure action" against Iranian students — and any other foreigners — "who destroy property or violate laws and statutes of this country."

Smothers' resolution adds that "this action should include deportation as the law allows."

"Here in Texas we have been directly affected by some of these demonstrations by Iranian students," said Smothers.

He mentioned demonstrations in Houston and in Beville, where a number of Iranians attend junior college.

"Do you really think this is the United Nations or is it the Texas Legislature?" asked Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels.

College enrollment high

Clarendon College—Pampa Center is nearing the end of its first registration in its new location at 900 N. Frost with an unexpected enrollment of about 325.

"The response is tremendous and above expectations," said Loyd Waters, Dean of the Pampa Center. "We had hoped for 300 students but felt that a good opening enrollment for the spring semester would be between 200-250 students."

Registration for classes closes Jan. 31. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The total number represents 275 students enrolled in academic courses and 50 others in short courses, such as slimmastics, watercolor painting, pottery and Emergency Medical Technicians training.

The college has about 27 night classes, making up the largest part of the enrollment and nine day classes.

More short courses and adult continuing education programs are in the planning stages, and enrollment dates will be announced.

Weather

Texas forecasts

By The Associated Press
Texas weather was windy, warmer and wet today. The wind was not expected to approach the velocity recorded earlier in the week when a cold front roared through the state. Temperatures were expected to be slightly warmer with highs expected to range from the 50s in the northern half of the state to the 60s in the southern half.

Widely scattered showers were expected statewide, but rainfall amounts were expected to be light. Some light rain fell in southern portions of the state during the night with most of it moving northwestward out of South Texas in the direction of the Pecos River Valley. El Paso reported some scattered snow showers during the night. Slightly warmer temperatures were reported over most of the state today during the pre-dawn hours.

National

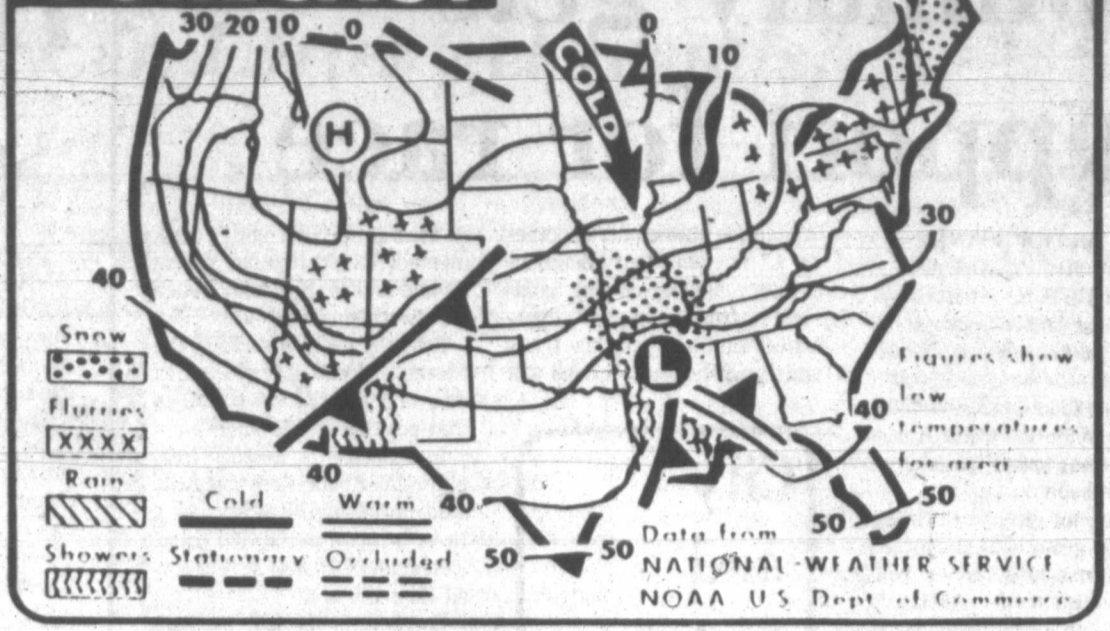

By The Associated Press
Snow gripped the storm-weary Midwest in a stranglehold today, while heavy rains soaked a wide area of the Northeast, already soggy from a major rainstorm earlier in the week.

The second major snowstorm in less than two weeks left 7 inches of new snow Wednesday on Chicago, still trying to recover from the 20 inches that fell there 12 days ago.

"It's bad news," moaned John Burke, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Transportation, who called travel in the northern half of the state "impossible."

The storm closed many roads, schools and factories in Illinois and Wisconsin. Chicago public school officials said today's closings would permit inspection of snow-laden roofs on school buildings.

FORECAST

WEATHER FORECAST by the National Weather Service calls for snow flurries and snow for the Great Lakes and Northeast. Showers are expected in the central Gulf changing to snow over the eastern Plains and lower Midwest. Showers are expected in the Southwest while snow flurries could extend to the western Plains. Most areas will be cold. (AP Laserphoto)

Inflation must be 'top priority'

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter told Congress today that reducing inflation must be the nation's "top economic priority" because the worsening price spiral threatens to erode jobs and income gains of the last two years and plunge the nation into a recession.

plunge the nation into a recession.

"Inflation does pose a serious threat to the nation's continued economic health. We must act forcefully and effectively to combat inflation, and we must persist until the battle is won," Carter said in his annual economic report to the Congress. The president and his economic advisers said for the first time that the rapid decline in unemployment since 1976 to a low of 5.8 percent may have contributed to worsening inflation in 1978, when prices increased by 9 percent, the worst in four years.

While the drop in the level of joblessness from 7.7 percent in 1976 was not a chief cause,

"pressures associated with the speed of the decline in unemployment were an important source of increased wage inflation," the president's report said. It also said that "the danger of accelerating wages begins to mount as the rate of unemployment falls significantly below 6 percent."

The administration forecast a rise in unemployment to 6.25 percent both this year and next, warning that a continued decline would not be helpful in the fight against inflation.

But separately, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said he doesn't think the forecast for a higher jobless rate is the final word on the subject.

Shah's opponent delays return

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today delayed his return to Iran until Sunday, but he brushed aside a request by Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar to wait at least three weeks to give the army time to "calm down." Khomeini, the exiled religious leader who heads the fight to overthrow Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, announced postponement of his flight to Tehran, previously scheduled for Friday, after the military closed Iran's airports for three days.

Air France said it would not supply a plane to take the 78-year-old Moslem holy-man home from Paris until it was assured the flight could run normally.

Khomeini wants to abolish the monarchy, establish an Islamic republic and replace the Bakhtiar government with one controlled by him.

Thousands of people of all ages and occupations rallied in Tehran today in support of the Iranian constitution and the Bakhtiar government, and some attacked stores and cars bearing portraits of Khomeini.

The demonstration appeared to be part of a growing backlash to Khomeini. Some Iranian reporters estimated the crowd at perhaps 100,000, but several Western reporters placed the figure at no more than about 20,000.

"We don't want another dictatorship. We don't want Khomeini," one demonstrator, a 31-year-old oil technician, told a reporter.

Pope goes to Mexico

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Pope John Paul II left today for the Dominican Republic and Mexico on a "pilgrimage of faith" to Latin America's 330 million Roman Catholics and their bishops.

Making his first trip outside Italy since his election Oct. 16, the first non-Italian pope in 455 years told a crowd that cheered him at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport that he was a "messenger of the Gospels."

The pope was seen off by Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti. Latin America's ambassadors to the Vatican and a crowd of several hundred in the airport terminal.

John Paul traveled aboard a crucifix-embellished Alitalia jumbo jet on the 5,064-mile non-stop flight to Santo Domingo, the Dominican capital. He will be the first pope to set foot on the Caribbean island where the first Mass in the New World was celebrated by Christopher Columbus in 1493.

The pontiff will celebrate Mass in the oldest Catholic cathedral in the hemisphere, tour the capital and spend the night, then fly Friday to Mexico City.

The pope will attempt to balance differing viewpoints that emerged from the 1968 gathering. It produced a document criticizing "institutionalized violence" and "present structures that violate human rights."

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, but this is my first letter to you. I'm glad I can put this in a letter because I could never ask anyone face to face what I need to know.

I'm 18, and can't count all the guys I've gone all the way with. Why am I such a no-good? Is something wrong with me? I was raped by my cousin when I was 11, and from then on it's been one guy after another. Some of them I didn't feel a thing for. All a guy has to do is sweet-talk me a little and he can get anything he wants.

I'm not real cool, and I'm not stacked or anything, but guys seem to dig me because I'm friendly. I don't do drugs, and alcohol makes me sick. I'm all screwed up about sex. It doesn't mean anything special to me. It's just a way to get acquainted.

Is there any hope for me, Abby? I'd like to be respectable, but I don't have any money for a shrink. What can I do?

EASY IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR EASY: Call the mental health clinic nearest you. It is listed in your telephone book. Tell them Abby suggested that you go there for counseling. (It's free for those without money.) You will not be put down or judged for your past behavior. Instead, through counseling you will learn to understand why you became so permissive and casual about sex. You will also learn how to build your self-esteem and change the course of your life. Please, please, seek their help. Then write to me again and let me know of your progress. I care.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our 40s. We have three children. Larry is busy with his business and I am busy with my house and the kids.

Lately Larry has been getting up at 5 a.m. He doesn't have to be at work until 8:30 and he has only a 20-minute drive to get there. Well, he rushes around getting showered, shaved and dressed and runs out of the house like he is going to be late for something. When I ask him where he is going so early, he says, "Nowhere—I just like to ride around." I am getting suspicious and would like to know where this guy goes until 8:30. Should I follow him?

MYRTLE

DEAR MYRTLE: No. Ask him what he would think if YOU did the same thing for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: A dear friend of mine is an attractive young divorcee with three small children. Lately she's been spending her weekends out of town with her boss, who is married.

Here's the problem: She has been leaving her children at her mother's on weekends, and telling her mother that she's spending the weekend with us.

I realize this is wrong. My husband says he has covered up for her for the last time, and if I don't tell her she can no longer use us as a coverup. HE will tell her.

I can't tell her, Abby. It would be like the pot calling the kettle black because I was no better than she is before I was married. What should I do?

ARIES

DEAR ARIES: Your friend "the kettle" could be brewing up an explosive mixture of evidence which could cost her custody of her children and bring much unhappiness to the family of her married boyfriend. You're not a "pot" anymore, so tell her, without sitting in judgment, that you'll no longer be a party to this game.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Recently my doctor gave me Lanoxin to take daily and Nitrostat to carry when my chest aches. I had a heart tracing before he prescribed these drugs. I was having an ache in my chest and it was very hard to breathe after slight exertion. I still have this problem when I overdo. I also take Enduron for high blood pressure which is under control.

My question is, how serious is my condition? My doctor didn't tell me much and didn't restrict my activities so I feel that I am not as ill as my family keeps telling me. I am a 54-year-old woman. I am 5 feet 2 and weigh 125 pounds.

DEAR READER: Any time a person has sufficient heart trouble to require medicine, he has an important medical problem. I would not like to say exactly how severe your case is since I don't know all the facts.

You are taking Lanoxin because your doctor thinks you had heart failure. The difficulty you have in breathing is undoubtedly associated with the accumulation of fluid in your lungs secondary to failure of the left side of the heart. That is what breathlessness often is in a patient who has heart disease.

The left side of your heart has probably been overworked from high blood pressure. Some of the other medicines you are taking control your pressure level. The chest pain that you develop when you overdo is related to insufficient blood flow to your left heart muscle.

In all it sounds like your doctor is taking a vigorous and interested approach to your problem for which you should be thankful.

Your doctor probably doesn't think you would be doing a lot of physical activity in view of the difficulties you have experienced. Under the present circumstances, it would probably be unwise to overdo physical activity.

If you read my column often, you know I'm an advocate of good, sensible exercise. I like to put the emphasis on sensible. When individuals have heart disease severe enough to have pain with exertion or shortness of breath that limits his ability, that's not the time to be pushing physical activity.

You would be wise to limit the salt in your diet, if you are not already doing so. You might want to know more about salt and your body so I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-12, Salt: Your Vital Sodium and Potassium Balance. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

I notice that you weigh 125 pounds and for your height that suggests to me that you might benefit from losing some weight. This would help your heart problem in two ways.

First, it's important to lose all the excess body fat that you might have because it will help to decrease your high blood pressure. That, in turn, will decrease the work the heart has to do.

Second, if you weigh less, your physical activity such as ordinary walking will be easier for you to do. To put it plainly, there will be fewer pounds to move around. That also will ease the workload on your heart. In addition, I suspect there are changes that occur in the circulation and possibly some improvement in opening of the arteries that can be achieved in people who really make a total effort to eliminate excess body fat. Token efforts don't do so much.

Meanwhile, I would recommend that you follow your doctor's advice very carefully because you have a serious medical problem that demands careful attention.

Women urged to take time just for themselves

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Shirley Conran says too many women today are trying to live up to "idiotically unrealistic" standards set by television commercials, magazines, mothers-in-law and "lying friends."

Every woman should set her own standards, Mrs. Conran says, because no woman can be perfect and do everything just right and, therefore, she shouldn't even try.

"Interwoman competition can be as cruel, as grueling, and as unnecessary as any of the competition in the traditional male rat race," she said.

Mrs. Conran also believes that women should devote more time to themselves.

"It took me years to acquire the discipline, control and iron will that was necessary in order to stop doing things for other people and start doing things for myself. At first I told myself that I didn't have the time. But then I figured even if you work a regulation 40-hour week and sleep eight hours a day, you still have 72 hours a week left over in which to do something stimulating and rewarding, or at least just something," she said.

Mrs. Conran was 23 years old when she married Terence Conran, the British designer. When her marriage collapsed eight years later, she was left with two young children and a part-time job with a newspaper in London, England.

Since her divorce, Mrs. Conran has held various journalistic positions with several London publications. Her book, "Superwoman," a how-to and how-not-to book on housework, was on the London best seller list for 44 weeks, and has recently been published in this country.

Mrs. Conran says the title of her book is ironic because no one woman can accomplish all the work that a traditional housewife is supposed to do.

"A Superwoman isn't a woman who can do anything, but a woman who avoids doing too much," she said. "She knows her limitations and sticks happily with them. She realizes that life is untidy and so are the children in it."

Mrs. Conran's motto is: "Life is too short to stuff a mushroom." She also believes that a home is one never-ending cleaning job that nobody notices unless you don't do it.

"If you want to devote your life to housework, I think it's a very unworthy aim. I mean, God didn't put you on this earth to scrub floors. And I think, as Betty Friedan said, if God had intended you to stay in the kitchen all the time, he would have given you a million hands," she said.

But Mrs. Conran also recognizes that there will always be housework for someone to do.

"What I've tried to do in my life is minimize it. Even those ladies sitting out there saying they like to do housework can't complain about that," she said.

Mrs. Conran has a farmhouse in France, which she takes care of without any outside help. A woman comes in for two hours a week to help her with cleaning her home in London. But that two hours a week is all the time that is spent on housecleaning.

"Everybody should have help in the home," Mrs. Conran said, "and generally the help in the home should be given by the people who make the work, the people who are living in the home. I think it's very important for a woman to realize that she isn't a battalion of soldiers, she's the field marshal, and the whole family is the battalion of soldiers."

Mrs. Conran's book offers tips on everything from supermarket survival to non-spring housecleaning to setting up household or business budgets and eliminating home hazards.

Some of her suggestions might be considered a little offbeat.

For example, she suggests doing housework in a bikini, "because there's less of you to get dirty." But she admits "this is probably not the universally popular method."

Mrs. Conran's tips can save money, energy and time. She even suggests what to do with all the time that is saved. Things like making yourself more beautiful, enjoying some physical activity, preparing for a new career or helping somebody who needs help.

Cary Grant's lost love

Cary Grant, Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti have been keeping a secret from the world for 22 years. The secret? That Cary was so smitten with Sophia and wooed her so well that she almost dumped her then live-in lover, Ponti, to marry him.

Grant didn't win, but thanks to his efforts Ponti was pressured into leaving his wife and kids to marry Sophia himself.

Sophia breaks the seal of secrecy in her autobiography in McCall's. All of these romantic doings took place during the filming of Stanley Kramer's epic, "The Pride and the Passion."

The Gray County Courthouse is one of the community's most important buildings—even if you never enter it. In its vaults are stored the vital statistics of our community—the birth certificate containing the community's first recognition that a human life has joined the community; the marriage certificate stating the community's recognition that two people now live as one; the tax records, litigation records, and finally, the death certificate which is the recognition that a life has finally left the community. The funeral is also a public record—sort of a certificate given by the entire community that a person has lived, had worth and meaning, has loved and was loved, and now has died. At Duenkel-Smith Funeral Home, the funeral—the community's death certificate for an individual—is handled with care for the same reasons valuable records are placed in carefully protected vaults.

After harvest losses major problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Huge losses of grain and other commodities after they are harvested is a major reason for hunger in much of the world, says a Cornell University expert.

Malcolm C. Bourne, professor of food science and technology at the Geneva, N.Y., university, told a presidential panel Tuesday that the losses are most acute in the poor, developing countries where the lack of food is most acute.

Citing National Academy of Sciences figures, Bourne said overall losses in world cereal grain production are estimated in the range of 10 percent to 20 percent annually, for example.

The losses stem primarily from molds, insects and rodents that destroy or contaminate the grain.

Bourne said a projection of the present trends points to further increases in post-harvest losses unless the system is greatly strengthened.

"The increased production of food that most developing countries are trying to obtain will be fed into a weak and inadequate post-harvest system, causing greater losses than occur at present," he said.

Bourne's remarks were made at a meeting of a subcommittee of the Presidential Commission on World Hunger. The commission was established by President Carter last year and told to have a report on the situation by this June 30.

The United Nations General Assembly in September 1975 called for a 50 percent reduction in post-harvest food losses by 1985. Bourne said he believed this to be "a reasonable and achievable objective."

This would have a number of benefits, he said.

"On an individual basis, there will be a saving in nutrients for people who are malnourished, an economic benefit to people who are poor, and an incentive for farmers to increase production when they know that the increased production can be marketed instead of rotting away," Bourne said.

Nationally, a country will benefit from reduced food waste by having a "healthier, more energetic population, a decrease in the quantity of imported food — with a favorable effect on overseas currency reserves — less strain on the environment and less need for expensive agricultural inputs such as fertilizer and pesticides," he said.

However, Bourne said that more money will have to be spent if the goal of cutting food waste in half by 1985 is to be realized.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outbreaks of cattle scabies, a skin disease caused by tiny mites, have increased with the advent of winter but so far are running below year-ago levels, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Tuesday that 42 outbreaks were reported in 12 states in December, raising the total since Oct. 1 to 67. A year earlier, 83 outbreaks of scabies had been reported.

The December outbreaks occurred in California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota and Texas, the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.

Infestations of the mites that cause the disease can be eliminated by dipping cattle in solutions of pesticide approved for the purpose.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm commodity shipments to eligible foreign countries under Food for Peace assistance are expected to remain about the same next fiscal year, according to Agriculture Department budget experts.

Total spending is expected to be down about $61.7 million in the fiscal year that will begin Oct. 1, but that reflects net cash outlays for the program, not the amount of grain and other commodities planned for shipment.

According to USDA budget officials, some 5.1 million metric tons of farm products, mostly grain, are earmarked for shipment under Title I of Food for Peace, the long-term credit part of the program.

Inspection to be held Saturday

Pampa Commandery No. 97 K.T. will hold their annual inspection Saturday January 27, 1979. A dinner will be held at 6:00 P.M. in the Sportsman Club on South Barnes. The Pampa Shrine will serve the dinner. All members and their wives are invited and visiting Sir Knights will be welcomed.

Sir Knight R.A. (Bob) Melton, E. Grand Standard Bearer, of the Grand Commandery Knights Temple of Texas will be the inspector for the 8th District, which includes Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo, Dalhart, Borger, Perryton, Pampa, Memphis, and Childress, Texas. R.A. (Bob) Melton resides in Sequine, Texas.

The inspection will be held in Pampa Lodge No. 966 A.F.&M. 420 W. Kingsmill at 7:30 P.M.

All Knights Templar in the United States endeavor to assist in eye care for all deserving people.

Year of the Sheep

If this sheep seems to be in a hurry, it could be for a very good reason. The lunar new year begins on Sunday, and according to the 3,000-year-old Oriental Zodiac, 1979 is — you guessed it — the Year of the Sheep. According to oriental tradition, the sheep was one of 12 animals who came to visit Buddha as he was dying. The others were the rat, ox, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake, horse, monkey, rooster, dog, and boar. In a 12-year cycle, each year takes the name of a different animal. People born during the Year of the Sheep are said to be gentle and wise, but at times stubborn and pessimistic.

DO YOU KNOW — 1978 was the year of what animal?

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — The Constitution requires the president to present a State of the Union message.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

January 26, 1979

Several unusual opportunities will pop up this coming year that could bring unexpected and unplanned-for achievements. Be ready to take advantage of the situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're much too negative today and could allow self-doubts to hinder you from achieving your goals. Spontaneous activity might be your answer. Find out which signs you are compatible with by sending for your copy of the all-new Astro-Graph Letter for 1979. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Let sleeping dogs lie. Forget what may have occurred in the past. You can get off to a fresh start today with a new philosophy that is revealed to you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your eagerness to gain your ends today you could go after them too forcefully. Walk a little softer so you don't alienate your allies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll accomplish your work today, but you have a tendency to make what you do far more complicated than it should have been.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It isn't likely others will come through and offer you small loans today, so don't waste your time asking. Surprisingly, however, a way will open up for you to meet your own needs. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't push people who your spouse doesn't like on him or her today. You'll have a much better time if everyone is compatible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your thinking cap isn't on home today. Chances are you'll be outside and want to get out. Fortunately for you, however, a member of your family has the answers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you might want to give those you love everything, sometimes you just can't afford it. They understand, so relax and loosen up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Better not try to entertain at home today. Chances are you'll be outside and want to get out. Friends will sense they're not wanted and feel hurt.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If at all possible, leave your schedule open today. Things done on the spur of the moment will turn out to be far more fun than those that are planned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're not careful this weekend, you're going to spend much more on frivolous outside interests than you intended. Watch your budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Go along with what the group wishes to do today, even if at first it doesn't sound like fun to you. That's where all the excitement will be.

Free throws help Longhorns

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer
If you ask Texas coach Abe Lemons, he'll tell you that a lot of fouls weren't called in Texas' key 77-76 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Baylor Wednesday night.
But some of the fouls that were called helped the No. 17 ranked Longhorns to a pressure-packed victory as Jim Krivacs sank two free throws with eight seconds remaining to insure the victory.
Earlier in the final minute, Phillip Stroud hit four charity tosses to help Texas to victory and keep the 17th-ranked Longhorns one game ahead of Texas

A&M in the SWC standings.
In other SWC games, No. 14 Texas A&M took a 57-43 victory over stalling Texas Christian. 15th-ranked Arkansas rolled to an easy 79-67 victory over Southern Methodist and Texas Tech took a 70-68 victory over Houston with a pair of free throws in the final six seconds.
Tyrone Branyon had 25 points and Krivacs had 23 for Texas. Baylor's Vinnie Johnson led all scorers with 27 points.
Speaking of the hard-fought victory over Baylor, Lemons said "It was a rough game, a lot rougher than our game Monday night with A&M. There were a lot of hacking fouls that weren't called."

"Baylor for some reason always gets fired up when they play Texas. They always play us like they're mad at us," Lemons continued.
"We out-rebounded and out-shot Texas and we easily could have won tonight. Texas is in the driver's seat as far as the conference race is concerned," Baylor Coach Jim Haller said.
Sidney Moncrief, who hit 29 points in leading Arkansas to victory over SMU, believes that the Razorbacks are back in the SWC race to stay and he credited Monday night's loss to Baylor as the reason.

"Baylor shook us up. In all the years I have been at Arkansas that was the most shocking loss we've ever had," Moncrief said. "The players got together and we decided we had to come out strong...ready to play...and that is what we did tonight."
The Aggies kept winning striking distance of Texas by overcoming Texas Christian's stall game. The Frogs stalled most of the game and kept the Aggies deadlocked, 18-18, at half-time. But the Aggies outscored TCU 21-8 in the first 10 minutes of the second half and moved out to a comfortable lead.
Mark Nickens of TCU had 16 points and freshman Rudy Woods had 13 points and 11 rebounds for the Aggies.

A&M coach Shelby Metcalf, who called the slow-down game "a good lesson in patience and discipline," praised the Aggies' spurt at the outset of the second half. He said it was "the best we've looked for awhile."
It took two pressure-packed free throws by Geoff Huston in the final six seconds to give Texas Tech a 70-68 victory over Houston.
Kent Williams had 17 points for Tech and Houston's George Walker had 16 points for the Cougars.

Swann studied dancing for 14 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lynn Swann, whose seven receptions for 124 yards and a touchdown helped Pittsburgh defeat Dallas in Super Bowl XIII last Sunday, isn't graceful by accident. He's had years of practice.
Swann, acknowledged as one of the National Football League's finest wide receivers, has developed more moves than John Travolta in a Fred Astaire-like fashion.
"I studied dance for 14 years, from the fourth grade through my years at Southern California," said Swann. "That training helps me a great deal in catching passes. I learned the total (body) extension I use."

Swann hopes to use some of that extension to help the American Football Conference defeat the National Conference in next Monday night's Pro Bowl at the Coliseum.
"I studied tap dance, ballet," he said. "All the strength and balance needed to execute a pirouette comes into play on a football field. Dancing increases your timing and coordination."
"I got my jumping ability from track and gymnastic training, but also from dance lessons."
Obviously, it takes more than pretty moves to become one of the NFL's top wide receivers.

"The key is the homework I do going into a game," said Swann, who has helped the Steelers to three Super Bowl victories during his six-year pro career. "There are a lot of talented guys in the league who are all great."
"The preparation they do sets them apart," he continued. "You just have to know what to do with all this talent when you take the field."
"In a crowd, I just concentrate on the ball. If you're going to get hit, you may as well come away with something. I just want to do a good job. When you're being paid an exorbitant salary to catch the football, you'd better catch in on third-and-long with people all around you."

Swann doesn't feel that playing in the Pro Bowl following the Steelers' exciting Super Bowl victory is a letdown.
"It's a great feeling being here," he said. "It's a privilege. It's up to us to show people what the best talent in the NFL looks like. I'm out to represent the rest of the receivers, my peers, in the NFL."

Blow by blow

Catching up on the past week's events
Green Towel Night: Wasn't it great to see so many Pampa High students screaming their heads off and waving their green towels with a frenzy? It was probably the largest crowd at Harvester Field House this year, and the sea of green helped keep the Amarillo Sandies scoreless for the first 5 1/2 minutes of the second half, when Pampa built up its lead.
I hope the student body keeps showing up in such strong numbers for the Harvies two remaining home games — and I hope the girls get better attendance at their last five home dates. Discount admission or not, keep bringing your green towels, people, and keep waving them like maniacs in support of the Harvesters. And also keep your miniature basketballs and tins of Skoal and Copenhagen on your own side of the court. Pampa High's guests deserve better than being bombarded by such objects.
On the Harvesters: While Tuesday night's win over the Sandies was an upset and a lot of fun besides, it only gave Pampa a second-place finish in the first half of District 3-AAAA play. Tascosa, 3-0, with wins over the Harvies, Amarillo High and Palo Duro, has a lock on the title and will play a meaningless — and probably boring — game against Caprock Friday night. Give the Longhorns 30 points and you might be able to establish some betting odds.

Steve Stout's 20-point performance against AHS was his second straight. He did the same thing against Palo Duro Friday night. On top of that, the whole Harvester team has been playing a hustling, scrappy defense since the loss at Tascosa. A large crowd at the Green Pit Feb. 2 would give the Harvies a fighting chance against the Rebs.
On Danny Palmer: If you haven't met the new PHS football coach, get ready to be impressed. He's knowledgeable, enthusiastic and very likable. He's 29 years old, married, and has two daughters — one of whom was one week old Wednesday.
The football field house will get a minor facelift in the next few months. Another slab of concrete will be added to the weight-lifting area in the "barn" on the north end of the facility. Some more weights will be added — Palmer's a firm believer in strength — some painting will probably be done, and long-range plans include laying down some all-weather carpet in the locker room area.
He (Palmer) thoroughly appreciates our facilities," said Athletic Director Ed Lehnick, who was up with the chickens Wednesday morning to get Palmer on his plane back to Waco. "One of the best ways to let athletes know there's been a change is to change the surroundings, and it's no problem and not very expensive to buy a few buckets of paint and do some painting."

"The amazing thing is, you can't afford to have a second-rate program," Lehnick continued. "It costs very little more to do things right, and I know Pampa will support anything that's successful. We're just trying to spruce things up."
On the Cowboys and the Super Bowl: I firmly believe that if the Cowboys had simply kept giving the ball to Dorsett on their opening series, they would have scored easily and set a completely different tempo for the game. Instead, they tried some trickery that resulted in a fumble, a Steeler recovery and, ultimately, a Pittsburgh touchdown.
In any case, the first half was one of the best I've seen. The second half was pretty mundane until the Cowboys came back in the final minutes, but it was a heck of a lot better than most of the previous 12 Super Bowls.
Deano Shipley, whose undying loyalty to the Cowboys was chronicled in Sunday's News, said "Monday was terrible. Some of them (who came into their place of business in Skellytown) sympathized. There's always next year, right Deano?"

San Antonio creams Kings

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Kansas City Kings were among four National Basketball Association clubs the San Antonio Spurs had not beaten this year.
Make that three teams, now. The Spurs, behind 49 percent shooting from the field, clobbered the Kings 124-95 Wednesday night before an Arena crowd of 11,903.
San Antonio, the NBA Central Division leader, averaged a 115-113 loss four days ago in Kansas City, which leads the NBA Midwest Division.
The Spurs' dominance was obvious from the start as San Antonio led 13-2 after the first 3 1/2 minutes.

"The Spurs controlled the game from the opening tip," said Kansas City Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "We never were in the game and I knew it was all over by the third quarter."
The Spurs, who led 99-48 at halftime, were on top 93-72 after three periods.
Kansas City shot only 28 percent in the second quarter, as compared to 64 percent by San Antonio. The Kings could muster a scant 31 percent effort in the next period.
"We put ourselves in a hole in the first three minutes and it was too far to dig out," said King guard Phil Ford, who finished with 18 points.

The Kings now have lost three in a row on the road which marks their longest losing streak of the year.
Meanwhile, the Spurs terminated a two-game losing streak behind a 20-point George Gervin display and 13 blocked shots which tied the club's seasonal high.
"When we are aggressive and get after it early, we're usually in pretty good shape," said Spurs Coach Doug Moe. "We knew by the way we started out we could blow them out."

Why isn't Enos in Hall?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Enos "Country" Slaughter, still leather-tough and active at age 62, hauls himself in from a hard day's work on his 200-acre tobacco farm, settles in a soft chair and thumbs through the baseball record book.
"Why?" he asks himself over and over again. "Why? Why? Why?"
Then he'll turn to his wife or another member of his family and read off some figures.
"Look," he'll say. "My record is better than any of these. What have they got against me? I wish I knew."
The Slaughter's modest household was funereal when word came out of New York Tuesday that Willie Mays alone had been elected to baseball's Hall of Fame and the name of Enos Slaughter — as had been the case year after year in recent balloting — had again fallen short of election.
Now the rugged, strong-hitting outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals in the period before and after World War II, has passed the milepost of eligibility by the baseball writers and he must wait five years for special consideration by the Veterans Committee.

Slaughter feels he has been done an injustice — and he has. He deserved a better fate.
"I think I may still get in someday, but it's not the same," he said bitterly. "It takes the cream off the coffee now to be picked by the writers. Now maybe I will be dead when I am picked. That's not much consolation for my family."
In a vote of 432 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Slaughter failed to gain the 75 percent required for election, missing by only 27 votes. Last year, he missed by 24.
"I gave my lifeblood for baseball — 19 years of it. My record is better than a lot of the guys who got in. Nobody played the game harder than I did. Few had a better all-around record. The hurt is deep."
Slaughter said he believed the Hall of Fame is dominated by writers in the East, who put more emphasis on home runs and glamor than on ability.

"There's more to playing baseball than hitting home runs," he said. "Ask anybody who remembers. I could run and throw. I hit 148 triples, 413 doubles, 169 home runs. I batted .300 and knocked in 1,304 runs. I picked them up when they counted."
"I think my record is better than that of Ralph Kiner, Roy Campanella, Eddie Mathews and some of the others. Take Kiner. He played only 10 years. He had just 39 triples and 216 doubles. He hit 369 homers, but batted only .279. The woods are full of people like him."
"I think one reason I didn't make it is that I never played on the West Coast. The writers out there don't know me. I played before expansion."
Slaughter, who joined the Cardinals in 1938, and finished with the Milwaukee Braves in 1959 with three years in military service, said he considered the 1942 Cardinals the greatest team he ever saw, even superior to the Yankees of that period. He said he doesn't regret having played before the current era of million dollar salaries.

Brownbuilder Johnny Dominguez: working in Pampa, building Texas

Johnny Dominguez, from Pampa, is one of more than 35,000 Texas Brownbuilders — men and women of Brown & Root, Inc. — currently at work across the state.
Johnny signed on with Brown & Root in 1977 as a Laborer, and has since risen to Concrete Finisher Helper working on a major new industrial project here in Pampa.
Texas Brownbuilders like Johnny are proud of the part they are playing in our state's industrial and economic growth. Brownbuilders are also a great source of pride to us. Their loyalty and dedication are our most important assets.
Brown & Root's operations are worldwide in scope. A significant factor in our growth has been a long-standing policy of recognizing supervisory and management capabilities from within the ranks of Brownbuilders, offering each individual the opportunity to advance according to his or her ability and merit.

New tax forms must be filed

Beginning with the tax year 1978, employers are to file W-2 forms with the Social Security Administration. These 1978 reports are due by the last day of February.

Annual reporting will eliminate the need for filing of quarterly detailed reports with the Internal Revenue Service by employers. However, employers will still have to file quarterly summary reports with the IRS. People who employ domestic workers will still have to file Form 942 on a quarterly basis.

The requirements for these people have not changed.

Most employers will have to send their Forms W-2 to the Social Security Administration on paper forms. The form that will be used, will be the revised Form W-2 or W-2P Copy A. This copy of the Form W-2 will be sent to the Federal Government for screening and scanning operations prior to each individual's work record being credited with the reported amount of wages.

Lettering becomes art form

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Linda Lowenthal had a direct hand in the licensing of more than 4,000 lawyers, dentists, dental hygienists and psychologists last year.

In the age of the photocopying machine, the Austin commercial artist hand-lettered names of the licensees on their professional certificates.

The 32-year-old woman specializes in calligraphy, the art of hand lettering, and has added the personal touch to numerous state certificates since 1970.

"It's really more economical than typeset printing," she said during an interview in her northwest Austin home. "It's more flexible to have someone letter it."

She also has done work for the University of Texas and former President Lyndon Johnson.

The California native learned calligraphy at Hollywood's Immaculate Heart High School. The art teacher, Sister Corita, has since established her own reputation for commercial illustration.

"The only art course I've ever had was in the ninth grade, mixed media," Mrs. Lowenthal said. "After it, I still couldn't draw or paint, but I could letter."

After obtaining a bachelor's degree in English from Pomona College, she spent a summer on a Colorado ranch.

"Then I read an article in Time magazine that said Austin had the lowest cost-of-living and the university had a graduate school," she said.

Moving to Austin proved a good decision, she said, but graduate school was terrible.

She quit the University of Texas and started working at a downtown art supply store. When business was slow, she doodled stylized lettering on a note pad. Customers soon noticed.

"I made up a portfolio and went to state offices, advertising agencies, department stores, university offices," the artist said "and then just waited for business."

A friend told her the Texas Supreme Court was redesigning lawyer certificates, and that's where her state business began.

She met President Johnson while working at the art supply shop, which was near the Johnson family's television station.

Mrs. Lowenthal saw him standing outside the store, gathered her nerve and rushed outside to introduce herself and give him a business card.

"A week later I got a call from his secretary," she remembered. "It was right after Eisenhower died and he wanted several copies of a memorial statement hand-lettered."

LBJ again called her to execute several hundred name badges for dignitaries when his presidential library opened in Austin on May 22, 1971.

"I had to go down to the federal building and sit in the same room with the Secret Service watching, I guess so I wouldn't add any names," she said.

Mrs. Lowenthal has no ambition to broaden her work.

"We Bake Cakes For All Occasions"

THE GOLDEN ARCHES have gone up, as can be seen by the shadow in the background, but an opening date has yet to be set for the new McDonald's on Hobart Street. "We've had a few problems with the construction over there," said Geraldine McCormick of McCormick Advertising of Amarillo, the firm handling McDonald's account. "It's not working out just exactly like we wanted it to. We've had to work the kinks out — that's what the delay is all about." Wednesday afternoon, workers were apparently tearing up cement that had already been poured.

The people's pharmacy

by Joe Graedon

President Carter has hemorrhoids. The word from the White House is that he's been hurting and hurting bad. Well, he isn't the only one. Many Americans suffer the same fate. To give you some idea of the magnitude of the pile problem, over $50 million is spent on more than 200 different brands of hemorrhoidal suppositories and ointments each year.

Hemorrhoids are not nice. First, they can hurt like the devil, and second, they are not considered a subject for polite company. Most people are easily embarrassed about "sensitive" body areas and hate to visit a doctor about such a problem, especially since hemorrhoid operations have a painful reputation.

As much as the victims would probably prefer to suffer (or obtain help) in silence, that is practically impossible since the makers of the most popular pile product, Preparation H, broadcast and publish their now familiar promise with great regularity: "Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues... gives prompt, temporary relief in many cases from pain and itching." Millions of sufferers use this product occasionally or daily.

What's so special about Preparation H? Well, the ingredients are unique. There is shark liver oil, live yeast cell derivative and phenylmercuric nitrate. Is the leading preparation for hemorrhoids all its cracked up to be? A paucity of solid research makes it hard to draw conclusions, but according to the "Medical Letter on Drugs and Therapeutics," a highly reputable medical journal, "There is no acceptable evidence that any of these ingredients, alone or combined in Preparation H, can reduce inflammation, cure infection, or shrink hemorrhoids."

When I called Whitehall Labs, makers of Preparation H, to get their side, I was told that the "Medical Letter" quote was "probably correct." A spokesman confessed that there was "virtually no acceptable evidence," and that they "have had good clinical studies on Preparation H."

Other hemorrhoidal products contain all sorts of goodies, including astringents, local anesthetics and vasoconstrictors. An authority for the American Pharmaceutical Association has stated that "Unfortunately, no documented evidence is available regarding the effectiveness of these drugs, alone or in combination, in relieving the symptoms of anorectal disease." Local anesthetics such as benzocaine or dibucaine may set up a sensitivity reaction that can irritate already tender tissue. There is no medication available that can truly cure hemorrhoids and some brands may cause more harm than good.

So what should the sufferer do? Perhaps the single most important consideration should be directed toward proper bathroom habits. Using the john as a library a la Archie Bunker can do nothing but aggravate the condition. Huffers and pushers get themselves into trouble because straining to defecate increases pressure within blood vessels and causes congestion.

Hard stools may also be a major contributor to the problem. Our highly processed low-fiber food may lead to constipation and hard bowel movements. A diet that is high in roughage and bran will go a long way toward preventing hemorrhoids in the first place. Oatmeal, whole wheat, prunes, raw fruit, vegetables and bran cereals are often recommended. Lots of liquids can also be helpful.

For the immediate pain and itch a hot tub bath three or four times a day often works wonders. It can reduce irritation and facilitate the retraction of protruding piles. Serious cases require professional treatment.

New steel shot zones proposed for shotguns

The Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposed zones where waterfowl hunters would be required to use nontoxic steel shot during the 1979 fall hunting season and invited the public to comment on the proposals.

At the same time, the Service also published a final regulation which requires that steel shot be used in all gauges of guns in steel shot zones beginning in the fall of 1980. Waterfowl hunters will be required to use steel shot only in 12-gauge guns when hunting in the zones during the 1979 fall hunting season.

The purpose of requiring waterfowl hunters to use steel shot is to reduce the incidence of lead poisoning in waterfowl. About 2 million waterfowl die of lead poisoning in the United States annually after eating spent lead shot, which the birds mistake for seeds or grit. Steel shot is not toxic to waterfowl.

In Texas, the proposed steel shot zone is the J.D. Murphree Management Area and the Sea Rim State Park in Jefferson County.
