Savage acts face Iran's new head

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's new revolutionary government reported today that all resistance to it by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's armed forces has ended, but it was having trouble controlling its own supporters.

Thousands of armed youths roamed Tehran threatening symbols of the monarchy and its foreign allies as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini appealed to his followers for order and the surrender of thousands of looted weapons.

Two generals were reported slain. Komeini condemned "arson, destruction and cruelty" and said those indulging in such "savage acts" were "disobeying Allah's orders and are traitors to the Islamic movement."

The "provisional operational staff of the revolution" in a broadcast on Radio Tehran said "all Iranian armed forces have laid down their arms and declared their total solidarity with the revolution. There is not the slightest resistance by the armed forces."

The announcement called on the revolution's supporters "to stop surrounding barracks and government centers and not to use their weapons, except against the enemy."

An army spokesman said Gen. Abdul-Ali Badrei, a former commander of the Imperial Guard, was shot and killed as he tried to talk with a group of insurgents who surrounded the guard's barracks.

Gen. Bokrat Jafarian, the military governor of Khuzestan Province, was killed when his helicopter was shot down near Ahwaz, the spokesman said. He said he did not know who fired on the aircraft.

Meanwhile, the new government's armed guerillas, rushed to threatened sites all over the capital, trying to maintain order and ward off attacks.

They took up positions around the 13-story Intercontinental Hotel.

Gunfire crackles in air as victory is proclaimed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Armed men and speeding automobiles filled the streets of Tehran, and gunfire crackled in the air after the army and police withdrew to their barracks and left Iran's capital to the revolutionary forces of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Vigilantes loyal to the Moslem religious leader appeared to control the entire city Sunday night. Heavily armed groups of 10 to 50 gathered at intersections, still edged by sandbag barricades thrown up during the rioting of recent days.

Khomeini supporters, many waving automatic rifles and shouting in victory, sped up and down the streets in automobiles and in captured army jeeps, trucks and armored personnel carriers. Many vehicles were overloaded with armed men clinging to their roofs and fenders.

Some said they were heading to trouble spots where diehard troops still loyal to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and Prime Minister Shapour Bakhtiar's government were reported holding out. Most of the gunfire, however, seemed to come from exuberant Khomeini men testing their weapons.

headquarters in the squalor of South Tehran, the streets looked like a military camp. A score of captured army vehicles were lined up and men unloaded thousands of weapons from them. The arms were carried into the shabby Moslem schoolhouse that has become the command center of Khomeini's revolution.

Men and youths climbed over armored personnel carriers and a tank, studying their inner compartments.

Floodlights lit the scene, and announcements crackled over loudspeakers.

Ordinary folk celebrating Khomeini's victory had cleared off the streets by about 8 p.m., leaving them to the vigilantes.

A taxi driver taking a Western reporter through the city paused to pick up several armed men rushing to a reported trouble spot. Two of them, in their 20s, said the revolution was being waged by "Marxist-Leninists" as well as Khomeini's Shiite Moslem supporters.

"For the moment, we must all fight together," one said.

Members of the outlawed Communist Party joined ranks with Khomeini's forces in the fight against the shah's authoritarian rule, but in recent weeks there have been reports of clashes between the Communists and the Moslems.

In contrast to recent nights, there were no fires or barricades blocking the streets. But debris from the fighting of the past three nights was everywhere.

Local convenience store robbed

A man carrying a small caliber automatic pistol robbed Allsup's convenience store at 201 E. Brown St. of an unknown amount of cash shortly before midnight Saturday.

According to the attendant on duty, Ruby Megason, the man shoved her aside when she appeared to be getting money from the cash register too slowly. The man also took a box of money orders. Megason was not injured.

Public hearing on grant set

A public hearing concerning Pampa's pre-application for Community Development Block Grant funds will top a lengthy agenda scheduled for the regular city commission meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Ordinances adopting new rates negotiated between the city and Pioneer Natural Gas Co. will be considered on first reading at the meeting. The ordinances also define the company's obligation to extend main lines to new customers.

Commissioners will hear a Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation request to place a sculpture on the grounds of M.K. Brown Auditorium. A resolution calling for the April 7 election of city officials will also be considered by the commission.

In addition, the commission will award bids for the purchase of vehicles for the city, and will consider authorizing the sale of a surplus fire truck to the county.

Air Force helps actor make films

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For actor Will Walker, already backed by an impressive list of film credits, a four-year Air Force stint was a short cut to becoming a Hollywood film producer — but he hadn't counted on wearing an apron and banging pots and pans.

"I saw my orders and almost died," the blond-haired, 22-year-old Walker said with a grin. "That was kind of a shock."

Walker, in the traditional skinhead trainee haircut and blue uniform, is headed for an Air Force audio-visual job near Los Angeles. But he almost ended up a cook.

He completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base last week, where Air Force officials at first assigned him to cook school. But after reviewing his film credentials, the military reconsidered.

Walker says the Van Nuys, Calif., recruiter "was honest. There was no guarantee of a job in Air Force films. I had to take my chances."

"I had a gut feeling I would get a fair shake. I hoped they would listen and presented my case. Things worked out."

Walker wandered into a recruiting station late last year to discuss a USO show. He had just finished filming George C. Scott's new movie, "Hardcore," in which Walker plays the role of a man who lures Scott's movie daughter into a pornographic movie career.

He said he was "impressed by the quality" of an Air Force information film put out by the audio-visual service.

"A lot of people I respect a lot started in military films," he said. "I am impressed by the things I have seen, especially now when they are making so many contemporary films with real appeal."

Walker thinks his Air Force experience will "probably save me about 10 years" in his goal of breaking into Hollywood film production.

Walker intends to continue his movie career during the Air Force hitch — even if he has to use leave time to do it. He said he is scheduled next month to shoot an episode of television's "Starky and Hutch," and is involved in the upcoming movie, "American Gigolo."

His movie credits include "Towering Inferno," "White Buffalo," "The Driver," "Deathsport," and "Black Sunday."

Mideast peace talks set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next round of Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty talks will begin Feb. 21 at Camp David, Md. It could be the last American attempt at driving the two sides into removing obstacles to completing their historic agreement.

Acceptances to invitations have been received from Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be host for the talks at the snow-capped Camp David site where President Carter and leaders of the two Middle East nations last September hammered out two framework agreements.

With the negotiations deadlocked over the Palestinian and other issues, Carter has suggested that unless a treaty is quickly completed, U.S. diplomatic efforts will shift to other world trouble spots. This could mean tossing the conflict into the lap of the United Nations or trying to set up a broader peace conference involving other Arab countries and possibly the Soviet Union.

American officials, disclosing the starting date, could not predict how long this round of negotiations would last. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Sunday there would be a recess so Dayan and Khalil can consult their governments, indicating the talks would last longer than the three or four days originally planned.

Special U.S. Ambassador Alfred L. Atherton Jr., late last month undertook an apparently unsuccessful shuttle mission between Jerusalem and Cairo. Previous efforts by Vance and U.S. diplomats here and in the Middle East failed to resolve the outstanding differences.

Egypt wants to link the treaty with Israel to concrete steps establishing Palestinian self-rule on the west bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip. Israel has resisted, while insisting that Egypt allow the treaty to take precedence over its military ties with other Arab countries.

Fire engulfs big refinery

WHITING, Ind. (AP) — A half-dozen explosions shook this small industrial town early today as a mammoth fire engulfed a Standard Oil Co. refinery, spewing flames 100 feet into the air and forcing about 1,500 nearby residents from their homes, police said.

No injuries were immediately reported, but police said communications with the sprawling facility were severed by the blaze.

Fire Capt. Edward Hrabovsky said about 2,000 persons worked at the refinery, once the largest in the nation, but he did not know how many were at the plant at the time of the blast.

The Whiting Fire Department reported no requests for ambulances, which it provides for the refinery.

Whiting is a town of 7,500 just across the Illinois-Indiana border from Chicago.

Fire units from the refinery fought the blaze early this morning, but some 100 firefighters from Whiting and surrounding municipalities were stationed outside the refinery in case the fire spread beyond the plant, said Whiting Fire Capt. John Hatczel.

The fire followed a series of blasts that ripped through pipelines and storage tanks about 11:45 p.m. EST Sunday and was reported contained in the area where it originated by 4 a.m. EST today, according to Hatczel. He would not say, however, that the fire was under control.

Frank Murzyn, a refinery electrician, said there was danger of flaming fuel spilling from the retaining wall of the ultra-former No. 4 unit where the fire apparently started.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Lack of gumption in fiscal restraints

The first glimmering of determination to subdue inflation seems to be showing itself in Washington. Will it last? Or will it flicker out at the first real gust of political pressure to continue the ways of big spending and big government that generated the problem in the first place?

The inflation we suffer from today is a testament to the large dose of economic ignorance and the even larger dose of waffling and political cowardice that have marked government policy for years. We've simply lacked the gumption to use fiscal and monetary restraints needed to keep the lid on inflation. So we have had:

— Government overspending. Ten years ago, federal expenditures were $185 billion and the government ran a small budget surplus. Even then, the spending figure was considered enormous. Today, expenditures are at half a trillion dollars and the deficit adds up to around a billion dollars a week. Go back 30 years, to the height of the Fair Deal, and you find total outlays about one-fourteenth what they are now.

That budget surplus 10 years ago, incidentally, was a fluke. The pattern since the 1950s has been red, not black ink — only two small surpluses in 20 years. The interest payment alone on the mushrooming federal debt created by deficits is, like the current deficit, also a billion dollars a week.

— Overtaxation. The average taxpayer works from Jan. 1 to May 4 each year, more than a third of the work year, just to pay for taxes at all levels — income, property, sales, Social Security. Taxes have increased much faster than personal income over the past decade and are now the largest single item in most family budgets. In 1976, the latest year for which we have hard figures, Americans paid $486 billion in taxes — federal, state and local. To put that in perspective, we spent $17 billion less than that on food, clothes and housing combined.

In addition to socking individuals, the heavy tax bite on businesses has a direct economic effect in that the tax code tends to penalize companies that save up to expand and create more jobs.

— Overregulation. The cost of regulation at all levels of government is estimated at a whopping $100 billion a year. This includes salaries at agencies charged with making regulations, and the "opportunity" costs, i.e., an estimate of the new products that didn't get produced and the jobs that didn't get created because of the time, money and energy detoured into regulatory compliance. Firms that pay out for regulation ultimately have to pass the costs along to consumers in the form of prices.

— Overblown bureaucracy. As government has swollen, so has the army of bureaucrats. The federal payroll has risen from 2 million in 1950 to about 2.8 million today. State and local government growth is even greater — from 4 million to nearly 13 million. This, of course, means increased outlays and the risk of deficits.

So big government translates into big inflation, and that spells trouble for us all. Nobody escapes inflation.

But there are hopeful signs, too. Although there are holdouts, a majority in Congress and the White House now label inflation the number one domestic problem. The president is talking about government restraint and is catching flak from the big spenders.

If the unfortunate wage-price focus is matched by a determination to implement wiser, more prudent fiscal and monetary policies — which are the only answer to curbing inflation — then the battle may be joined. If not, we are headed for a dark economic future.

Putting cart before horse

While presidents rarely read their own mail, the White House received one letter recently that should be brought to Jimmy Carter's personal attention. The letter deals with the president's voluntary wage and price guidelines and it suggests how Washington itself may inadvertently sabotage compliance.

The letter was occasioned by Carter's written request for assurances from the heads of the nation's 500 largest corporations that they would abide by the suggested limits on wage and price increases.

M.O. Lee, chairman of the board of VF Corp., a women's apparel manufacturer in Reading, Pa., began by stating his willingness to conform to the wage and price guidelines "as best we can." And then Lee proceeded to cite some of the ways in which Congress and the administration were subverting the anti-inflation campaign.

"We are confronted with minimum wage increases."

"We are confronted with a substantial increase in our pension costs due to what our actuaries say is the result of the new social security program."

"We are saddled and burdened with the endless reports and government regulations, all of which add to the cost of doing business."

"Our legal and accounting costs to comply with government rules and regulations are rising at an alarming rate."

Lee went on to suggest, bluntly, that the government get its own house in order as the necessary first step in controlling inflation.

Counsel on oranges

Robert Mundeheim, general counsel of the U.S. Treasury Department, sent the following memo to senior Treasury officials.

When an ordinary man wants to give an orange to another he would merely say, "I give you this orange." But when a lawyer does it, he says it this way:

"Know all men by these presents that I hereby give, grant, bargain, sell, release, convey, transfer, and quitclaim all my right, title, interest, benefit and use whatever in, of, and concerning this chattel, otherwise known as an orange, or citrus orantium, together with all the appurtenances thereto of skin, pulp, pip, rind, seeds and juice for his own use and behoof, to himself and his heirs in fee simple forever, free from all liens, encumbrances, easements, limitations, restraints, or conditions whatsoever, any and all prior deeds, transfers or other documents whatsoever, now or anywhere made to the contrary notwithstanding, with full power to bite, cut, suck or otherwise eat the said orange or to give away the same, with or without its skin, pulp, pip, rind, seeds, or juice."

Failure of anti-discrimination

By BERNARD SIEGAN

One problem with government programs is that they are very difficult to turn off. People become dependent upon them and understandably fight efforts of curtailment. Thus the strongest opponents of airline deregulation were most of the major carriers. They have geared their operations to the will of the government regulators and fear the prospects of unrestricted competition.

Currently civil rights organizations are experiencing the problem. Their leaders decry President Carter's budget restraints, having become accustomed to federal welfareism and accepted it as the only solution. They find it difficult to agree that the control of the budget deficit is in the interests of the poor. The current public dedication to less spending and less government ought to cause civil rights groups to rethink and reappraise their situation.

"To control inflation is the best thing I can do for those with relatively poor income," Carter recently told a press conference, and a great many economists agree. However, inflationary spending and deficits are not the only cause for concern — the New Deal package is filled with thorns for the poor. The programs that many civil rights leaders favor have had a very poor track record. Thus, numerous studies indicate that the quickest way to end the huge black youth unemployment that Urban League president Vernon Jordan considers the single most serious problem of black Americans is to repeal all minimum wage laws. But in most liberal quarters, any such proposal is sacrilegious.

Study after study reveals that government regulation is a major enemy of the poor. No matter how well intended and desirable in theory, government regulation in practice generally fails this group. Regrettably, the examples keep piling up. Thus a recent study shows that the federal program to increase the employment of blacks — a basic civil rights effort — is not achieving its purpose.

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of race, color, sex or national origin. Its coverage is extensive. Prior to 1972, this law applied to firms with 25 or more employees; in that year it was amended to apply to those with 15 or more employees. The statute seeks to eliminate discrimination in the labor market by controlling both a firm's employment and wage practices. The law's provision relating to employment bans hiring practices that limit the access of minorities to firms and occupations. Its wage provisions declares illegal all pay differences based on race.

In the current issue of the Journal of Law and Economics, Andrea H. Beller of the Institute for Independent Studies of Radcliffe College writes that an inherent conflict exists between these two provisions. On the one hand, by increasing black wages relative to white wages, the wage provision induces firms to decrease black employment. On the other hand, the employment provision requires firms to increase their black to white employment ratio and therefore to hire more black workers.

The wage provision requires firms to pay blacks and whites equally for the same work. An integrated firm that pays blacks less, must increase their wages. Beller asserts that this increase in labor costs leads to substituting white workers and/or causes firms to contract the size of their operations, thereby also reducing black employment.

According to Ms. Beller, an analysis of the law's results during the 1960s show that the wage provisions counteracted the benefits of the employment provisions so that Title VII was not helping minorities. Beller suggests that enforcing these laws actually may make the minority group worse off. She found that the effects of the wage provisions were stronger than those of the employment requirements leading to a small reduction in relative black employment and wages. The researcher concludes, therefore, that the enforcement of Title VII as a means to combat discrimination, "must be characterized as unsuccessful during the sixties."

Nevertheless, this law has probably caused significant upheaval in industrial practices in this country as firms seek to avoid the extra costs imposed by the law. A company might alter its operations and even its location to minimize the law's impact. Beller explains that the employment provisions require covered firms to attain certain proportions of black to white workers, depending on location and occupation. To offset the increased cost that the law causes, firms might migrate into states or counties with lower proportions of blacks in the labor force, substitute machinery for workers, or change the mix of occupations to favor those with relatively few blacks. In making such changes, firms risk being penalized for violating the law.

All of this maneuvering is likely to raise the cost of doing business and therefore the price of products. Any increase in prices is most harmful to those with the least amount of spendable income. Thus, Title VII joins the long list of government programs whose principal accomplishment is the imposition of higher prices and the acceleration of inflation.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Feb. 12, the 43rd day of 1979. There are 322 days left in the year. This is Lincoln's Birthday.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1912, China became a republic as the Manchu Dynasty was overthrown by forces led by Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

On this date:
In 1554, Lady Jane Grey, who had been queen of England for 10 days, was beheaded after being charged with treason.
In 1733, English colonist led by James Oglethorpe landed at what is now Savannah, Ga.

In 1809, Abraham Lincoln was born in what was then Hardin County, Ky.

In 1914, ground was broken for the Lincoln Memorial in Washington.

In 1966, Vice President Hubert Humphrey wound up a visit to South Vietnam and predicted victory over the communists and over poverty, disease and illiteracy in the country.

In 1971, eight U.S. helicopters were shot down while on missions over Laos.

Ten years ago: Black civil rights leader James Farmer was named assistant secretary of welfare.

Five years ago: A 13-nation conference in Washington on the energy crisis failed to reach agreement because of sharp differences between France and the eight other European Common Market over U.S. proposals.

One year ago: The United States denied that it had endorsed Israel's maintaining settlements in the Sinai if the occupied territory were returned to Egypt.

Today's birthdays: Gen. Omar Bradley is 86. Actor Lorne Greene is 64. Former basketball star and coach William Russell is 45.

Thought for today: No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent — Abraham Lincoln.

Public Opinion

Dear Editor:

The Constitution of the United States, at one time, guaranteed the freedom of men and made the court system responsible for protecting this precious gift. The system, however, appears to be suffering from a fatal disease called Liberalism. All the wrong values are stressed and major interpretations are distorted in order to yield to the Far Left faction interests. The American who considers himself a patriot (if such a person truly still exists) can hardly stand for such utter nonsense. We have let the Constitution be explained and amended away. This affects us in a variety of ways, but let us look at a situation of great importance: our children.

At one time a man and his wife could have their child educated in an atmosphere conducive to the parents' philosophies of life without interference from the state. Now it seems we have had our burden taken from us by an overzealous state. If the state's views on education and our own don't agree, we are, in many areas of America, forced to concede to the will of the government. To oppose that will means either one or both of these consequences:

1. We lose our child to a state home
2. We lose our freedom and become convicts

Noted Briefly

Nice bosses finish first
If you've got a nice guy for a boss, it's more than just your good luck. It's also likely to be his.

It may be a sign that he's cut out for big things in the business world.
At least this is the conclusion of a Texas-based research organization, Teleometrics International, whose study of some 16,000 executive profiles was recently noted in The Wall Street Journal.

High achievers among executives are interested in more than profits, the study indicated. They are also concerned about and take a positive attitude toward the people who work for them.

Low achievers, on the other hand, are likely to have little interest in or communication with their subordinates. They are preoccupied with their own security and tend to be left behind in the climb to the top rungs of the corporate ladder.

In the business world at least, it apparently is not the case that nice guys finish last.

Better than money
It verges on heresy to admit it in this era of ERA and job equality, but there does appear to be a difference between the working man and the working woman.

It's more basic than salary differential or individual capabilities, according to the findings of a Minnesota firm reported in the Journal of Applied Psychology. Analyzing more than 50,000 job applications received

Every day parents lose ground to the government concerning care, education and spiritual guidance that our children deserve.

In Ohio, a pastor refused to send his children to public schools because of deep convictions on the subject matter taught there. The children were being educated by the pastor himself and were well able to keep up with their peers. The state ruled that the pastor be sentenced to jail and the children be made wards of the court.

In Utah, a man viewed the public school system as immoral. He refused to send his children and the state moved in. The man barricaded his home and fired warning shots to discourage intruders. Later, as the man went to check his mailbox, he was gunned down by law officers. The children he loved, who also loved him, are in the hands of strangers.

In Massachusetts, a three-year-old boy suffered from leukemia. His parents wanted the child to continue Laetrile treatments due to serious side effects of chemo-therapy. The courts ruled that the parents did not have the right to decide what treatment should be given to their child. Not only were chemo-therapy treatments ordered but the parents would become kidnapers if they attempted to leave Massachusetts with their son.

Happily, they ended up in Mexico and will continue with the Laetrile treatments.

But let us not forget how well a liberal system can work for a child who is truly abused. Recently, a child was found that could neither walk, talk, nor perform at her age level mentally. This small child was nine years old and had the mind of a three-year-old. She had been raised in a closet in a large California city. The child was abused, starved and left to lie in urine for weeks at a time. Her parents received a prison term of three years. Sadly, however, the kind-hearted state could recommend a period of psychiatric care in order to rehabilitate these misunderstood people. Rehabilitation, not punishment.

Sir, where are the minds of the American people? Are they so numb that they would allow such a foolish standard override their freedom and duty? There are many things we can do. We can use our hands to write letters and start petitions for the benefit of our congressmen. We can use our hands to write speeches to influence our fellow citizens. We can use our hands to prepare and enforce the Constitution as the Hamiltonians intended. The question is really this:

Are we the same kind of men our forefathers were?
—Thank you very much.

Interest hike would be 'ripoff'

AUSTIN (AP) — Proposals to raise the maximum legal interest permitted on home loans by 2 percent are a "disastrous ripoff of Texas home buyers," says the Texas AFL-CIO.

The labor organization scheduled a rally at the Capitol today to dramatize its opposition to bills that would raise the maximum amount of interest allowable on home loans from 10 percent to 12 percent.

"Stop the billion-dollar lobby," is the theme of the AFL-CIO's campaign against the proposals.

State AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard said at a Friday news conference that savings and loan associations have, in effect, gone on strike by withholding loan money until the Legislature raises the interest rate.

He said the legislative sponsors of the bill — Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, and Rep. Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville — each have received campaign contributions from supporters of the bill.

He said Meier received $21,300 in 1978 and Donaldson approximately $1,700.

"Mr. Hubbard is attempting to stir up the politics of this measure rather than debate the obvious merits it has, especially to the many thousands of workers he purportedly represents that will lose their jobs if this bill doesn't pass," countered Meier.

Asked if higher rates might lead to more loans and more jobs, Hubbard said, "It's not true if history repeats itself."

Lending institutions, which often borrow the money they lend to homebuyers, contend that in periods of "tight money," they cannot profitably lend money at the current ceiling rate of 10 percent. There is no indication, however, loan rates would rise to 12 percent.

A Democratic-Republican election controversy also was surfacing, with arguments over a 1980 presidential primary and proposals to move party primary elections from May and June to July and August or later.

Four bills pending in the House Elections Committee would set party elections later than present law, which calls for the first primary the first Saturday in May, followed by runoff four weeks later.

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, plans to introduce a presidential primary bill Tuesday that was drafted for Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Democrat. It is opposed, at least in part, by Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

The bill schedules a presidential primary for the second Tuesday in March to elect delegates to national party conventions on the basis of their support of presidential candidates.

Hobby said the early date would give the Texas primary more national influence.

The Senate bill also would move the May and June primaries to July and August. The political filing deadline would be changed from the first Monday in February to the first Monday in April.

Clements opposes holding the primaries later in the year and says he could not have built the momentum and name identification he needed to win the general election had the 1978 Republican primary been held any later than it was.

The people's pharmacy

by Joe Graedon

Q I am a tense person and have been taking Valium (Diazepam) off and on for a couple of years to calm my nerves. Recently, my husband and I have considered starting a family. I really like the idea of having kids, but I am a little anxious about becoming pregnant. Will there be any problem in taking Valium once I have conceived?

A From what you say, you are a high-strung individual and are afraid that pregnancy may make you more so. Valium helps relieve your anxiety but it is considered potentially dangerous to the fetus.

The manufacturers of Valium include the following warning in their literature for doctors: "Use of minor tranquilizers during the first trimester should almost always be avoided because of increased risk of congenital malformations, as suggested in several studies. Consider possibility of pregnancy when instituting therapy; advise patients to discuss therapy if they intend to or do become pregnant."

Minor tranquilizers like Valium, Librium (Chlordiazepoxide) and Miltown (Meprobamate) are not the only drugs a woman contemplating pregnancy should be careful of. Just about all medications should be avoided unless they are absolutely necessary and have been recommended by a doctor who is fully aware of potential complications. And that includes non-prescription agents as well, such as aspirin, alcohol and large doses of vitamins A and D. The fewer chemicals the fetus is exposed to the better.

As far as resolving your anxiety is concerned, there are some alternatives to drugs. It is sometimes helpful to try and establish contact with friends or groups that can give you lots of support.

If you have a religious affiliation you might want to start there. Seek a doctor or clinic that provides classes for women throughout the pregnancy. Nurse practitioners also provide excellent pre-natal teaching and excellent support.

Meeting regularly with other people in your situation can be very good for relieving some of the anxiety. There are also many books available that assist in learning how to reduce tension. One of the best is "The Relaxation Response," by Dr. Herbert Benson.

You may also want to consider professional counseling. With a little help you may make it through the pregnancy without the Valium.

Q I tried to give my cold to Contac. A stuffy nose and a sore throat had pretty much put me out of commission, but I didn't want to take any time from work. I figured that the tiny time pills would keep me going. Unfortunately, they made me feel really drowsy and sluggish. I felt bad on the job and had trouble driving my car. Could it be the Contac?

A It's too bad you didn't read the warning on the label of the Contac package. It says "Do not drive or operate machinery as this preparation may cause drowsiness."

The makers of the "tiny time pills" advertise "Relief all day while you work... all night while you sleep." The sleeping part is okay — you can't get into much trouble then. But I wonder how they expect people to get to their jobs if they aren't supposed to drive. Public transportation is not always convenient or available. And if they do make it in one piece, how are they supposed to work efficiently if the medicine causes drowsiness? As far as I am concerned, the advertising doesn't match the warning on the label.

Antihistamines are the real culprit in cold remedies. They're found in practically every cold product. According to the medical advisers of Consumer's Union, antihistamines have proved of no value against a common cold; furthermore, they produce in many users such side effects as drowsiness, dizziness, and headache.

The most respected pharmacology textbook in the United States states quite emphatically that "Despite early claims and persistent popular belief, antihistamines are of little value in combating the common cold." Nevertheless, most drug manufacturers insist upon adding the ingredient to their products.

Next time you come down with a cold you would probably be better off staying at home in bed. There's no cure for the common cold in the first place so you can't give it away, though you may spread it around if you go back to work.

El Paso, Mexican city looked at as one

First of a Series
EL PASO (AP) — El Paso exists in splendid isolation, more than 250 miles from the nearest major American city, Albuquerque, N.M.

A fence separates it from the largest Mexican border city of Ciudad Juarez, and the two sport a combined population of 1½ million people.

So dependent are the sister cities on each other that they must be considered one entity to explain why things are going so well in El Paso.

Promoters call it "Sun City," and they use the lure of the weather and the action in Juarez to gain new money, be it from tourism or new industry. Industry seems to be taking the bait, with 12 companies scheduled to move in by 1980, providing 6,000 new jobs.

To quite an extent, a concept begun by RCA in 1969 is responsible for much of the growth.

Damned by some and praised by others, the concept is called "twin plants" by most. One who doesn't like the name is Bill Mitchell, marketing director for an industrial park in Juarez and considered the liaison man for the "twin plants" that he prefers to call "in-bond" industry.

El Paso Mayor Ray Salazar

says there are 99 "in-bond" plants in Juarez, employing 33,000 workers and pumping an annual $300 million into the El Paso economy.

The roll call of "in-bond" industries is impressive: Westinghouse, Sylvania, American Hospital Supply, Ampex and AMP are among the companies taking part. General Motors and General Electric joined the ranks in the past two years, and Chrysler is involved in opening an operation.

The promise is simple: The American companies farm certain work to a related plant in Mexico. The product is resented to the United States and duty is paid only on value added, taking advantage of cheaper labor in Mexico. A bond is posted with the Mexican government and used to offset any impact the product might have should it appear on the Mexican market.

Critics say the concept keeps jobs away from Americans, but Mitchell says it just isn't so.

Citing a recent survey among the "in-bond" industries, Mitchell said that if the operations were shut down, 60 percent of the companies involved would remain, but would order raw materials from outside the United States. He said the other 40 percent would move from the El Paso-Juarez area.

The "in-bond" plants on the American side employ about 2,000 workers.

Proponents argue that the border operations keep industries active in the United States — industries that would otherwise surface in Taiwan or other countries where labor is even cheaper and entire plants are proliferating.

That the "in-bond" concept benefits the Mexico economy is without question. Jobs are provided, and those who look to the future see even more benefits.

Many would like to see the Mexican portion of "in-bond" industry penetrate into Mexico's interior, and Mitchell says some Juarez operations are ready to spin off into more plants deeper in the heart of Mexico.

"The people working at the plants in Juarez are gaining the experience and expertise to run other plants," Mitchell said. "The United States could make money available for development in the interior. This would also help to keep down the numbers of illegal aliens."

Always, there is one opponent that "in-bond" operations can count on — big labor. "The unions apply heat every year," Mitchell says. "They spend lots of money."

The concept, though, seems solidly entrenched along the border.

If El Paso itself is an example, its success seems ensured.
NEXT: Why El Paso?

One Texas rep. keeps bill short

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas delegation notes:

Freshman Rep. Phil Gramm learned that brevity has its advantages with fellow congressmen. The former Texas A&M economics professor was one of nine House members to introduce a resolution calling for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

Gramm gained 11 cosponsors — including five Texans — for his effort that would prohibit federal deficit spending except during war or national emergency.

Gramm's resolution is 22 lines long, by far the shortest of the nine similar resolutions sent to the House Judiciary Committee

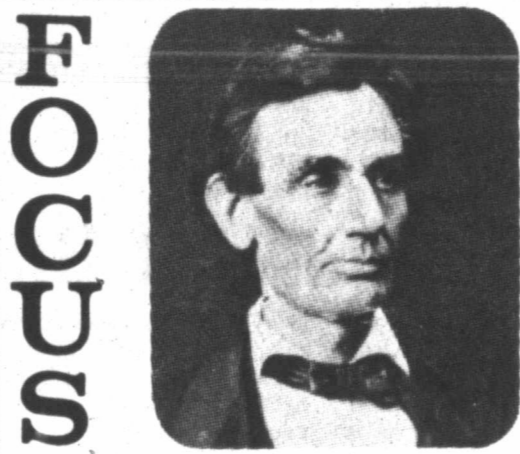

"This resolution in the same way acknowledges the reality that the Republic of China is the government of Taiwan. The resolution calls for an official two-China policy."

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth predicted the House will "create a mechanism" that will allow the United States to continue relations with Taiwan — including the sale of "defensive military weapons."

"In fact, do everything we've been doing, just as though our embassy still were there. We won't call it an 'embassy.' We'll call it something else. But the end result will be the same."

Wright, who along with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen will accompany President Carter to Mexico City later this week, has been a staunch advocate of improving relations with our neighbor to the South. Both Wright and Bentsen want the U.S. to buy Mexican oil and gas as soon as possible.

In 1937, the United States presidential inauguration was held in January instead of March for the first time.

FOCUS

Lincoln's Defeats

Abraham Lincoln, who was born in Kentucky 170 years ago today, is generally considered one of America's greatest presidents. But Lincoln's political career had its share of ups and downs, before "Honest Abe" reached the White House in 1861. Lincoln first ran for public office in 1832, as a candidate for the Illinois state legislature. He lost. In 1849, after serving one term in the House of Representatives, Lincoln decided not to run again, because he knew he was too unpopular to be re-elected. He later lost two campaigns for the Senate, and was an unsuccessful contender for the Republican vice presidential nomination in 1856.

DO YOU KNOW — Who became president after Lincoln's death in 1865?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — The Soviet Union won the most speed skating gold medals at the 1976 Olympics.

for consideration. "The concept of requiring the federal government to live within its means is a simple one... and should be short and to the point," said Gramm.

The five Texas cosponsors are Democrats Martin Frost, Joe Wyatt, Marvin Leath and Kent Hance and Republican Jim Collins.

Democrat Jim Mattox of Dallas was named by House Budget Committee Chairman Robert N. Giamo, D-Conn., to head the committee's task force on National Defense and International Affairs.

Mattox will be walking a tightrope between House members wanting a strong defense at any cost and those more concerned with trimming the federal deficit.

"My objective," said Mattox, "is to make sure that we have a lean, tight and tough defense budget."

Mattox also said he wants to bring the task force to Dallas for hearings so that "some of the people in Dallas who are involved in defense can, when possible, put their points of view on the record."

The 96th Congress passed its first law last week. It set a later date for the president to send his economic report to Capitol Hill.

The continuing saga of Red China and Taiwan was addressed by a couple of Texans last week.

Leath introduced a resolution calling on the United States to recognize the Republic of China as the sovereign of Taiwan.

"When the United States officially recognized the Peoples Republic of China, it was said that we were just giving formal recognition of conditions on the mainland of China," said the freshman from Marlin.

Elderly need help with tax forms

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Millions of elderly Americans pay more federal income tax than the law requires, and older people preparing their returns may need special help to cope with the Internal Revenue Service rules and regulations.

Overpayments often stem from a lack of understanding. Many men and women over 65 file returns when they don't need to; others fail to take credits they are entitled to.

The "Tax Aide" program run jointly by the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association is designed to clear up some of the confusion.

"Tax Aide" is a free counseling service available at more than 3,000 locations throughout the country. The advice is provided by 8,500 retirees, trained by the Internal Revenue Service in the areas of tax law which apply to people over 65.

Most of the "Tax Aide" counseling is done at places like senior citizen centers, libraries, shopping malls and churches; a few of the volunteers even make house calls.

Weather

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Mild, springlike weather enjoyed by most Texans during the weekend continued throughout most of the state today, and the forecast called for more of the same. Slightly cooler temperatures were predicted for North Central Texas.

But otherwise, forecasters were calling for continued mild to warm conditions with clouds in southern and eastern sections and sunshine elsewhere.

Temperatures dipped below freezing in the state's northwest corner early today, but rose into the 60s along the coast. Predawn readings ranged from 29 at Dalhart to 63 in Brownsville. Pockets of fog formed over some southeastern sections.

Here are some conditions at 6 a.m.: Lufkin 52 with fog, Wichita Falls 38 and clear, Texarkana 52 and cloudy, Midland-Odessa 35 and clear, Amarillo 34 and clear, Abilene 45 and clear, and Dallas-Fort Worth 44 and clear.

National

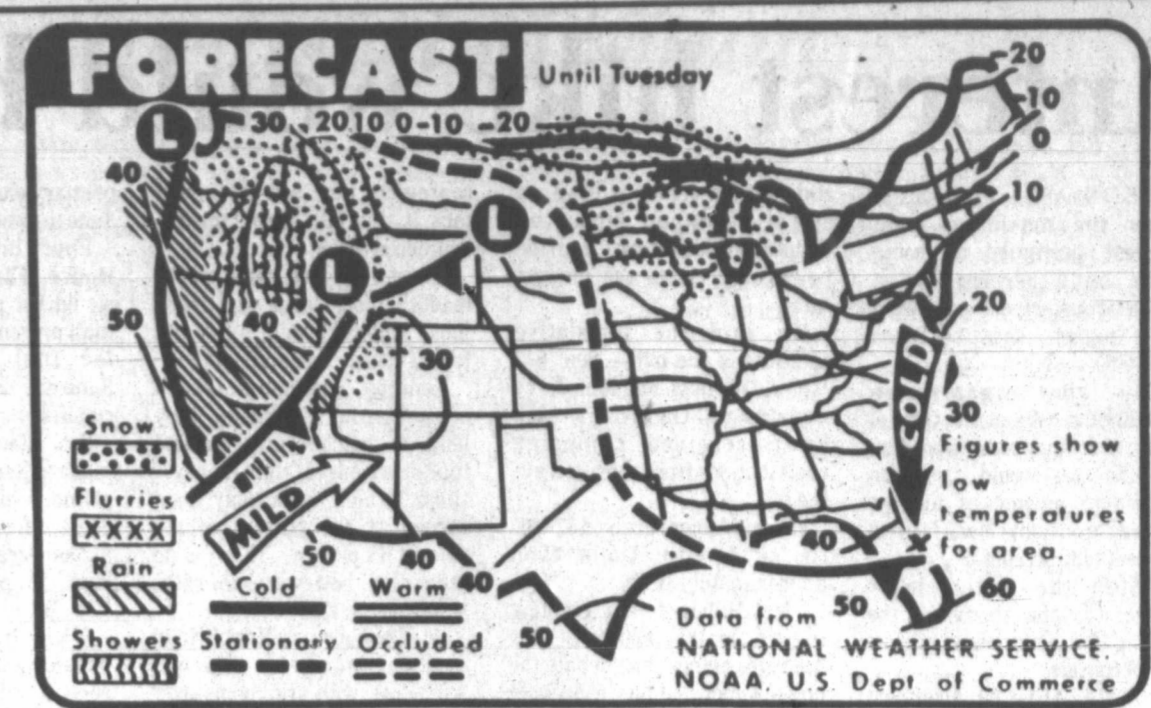

A band of heavy snowfall from North Dakota to Minneapolis prompted a rash of travel advisories today as some airports reported snow.

Up to 4 inches of new snow were expected in portions of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana today, and forecasters say the snow will spread to the southeast, blanketing West Virginia and all but the coastal sections of Virginia.

Very cold weather kept a grasp on the Northeast from New England through Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York with early morning temperatures ranging from -20 in the northern portions to just above zero to the south.

WEATHER FORECAST by the National Weather Service calls for rain and snow for most of the West while snow is also expected from the northern Plains to upper Great Lakes. Mild temperatures are forecast from southern California to Texas while cold temperatures are predicted for the Atlantic coast states.

Farm lobby shows few results

WASHINGTON (AP) - Protecting farmers, now in the second week of 1979 lobbying for higher grain support prices, have been working long days in the congressional field. Pickin's are mighty slim.

Protest leaders are still hopeful, however, saying acceptance of their ideas is wider than expected.

The legislation the American Agriculture Movement is backing this year is a resolution urging the Carter administration to raise the supports and basic market prices to 90 percent of parity.

One hundred percent parity theoretically would give farmers a return on crops comparable to that received by growers in the 1910-14 period. But that sounds too much like a "guaranteed profit" they know they can't sell, leaders say.

A boost to 90 percent would mean, using January prices and costs, a government-backed support price for wheat of $5.05 a bushel compared with the 1978 support of $2.35 and an average selling price of $3.02. For corn, the support would go from $2 to at least $3.53 a bushel, compared with an average price of $2.10 last month.

A fundamental problem with the legislation is that other federal laws don't permit such a hike under today's economic conditions.

Minimum supports were fixed in 1977. And since they are the effective market floors for grains and cotton, supports cannot be raised if the higher level would overprice U.S. crops in world markets, which now have heavy supplies of the commodities involved.

A national emergency in which farmers would need to be encouraged to produce more, even with today's overflowing bins, is the only exception to that condition.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, emerging last week from meetings in remote offices with small groups of protesters, said each time: "We plan no changes in basic farm policy."

President Carter has proposed no new price-support legislation.

Pakistan would 'lose' if Bhutto dies

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - A manuscript smuggled from the death row cell of former Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto says if he is executed, Pakistan will be the loser.

"More than my life is at stake. Make no mistake about it, the future of Pakistan is at stake," wrote the condemned leader.

"I was born to make a nation, to serve a people, I was not born to wither away in a death cell."

Bhutto wrote that he had embedded himself "too deep in the hearts of the poor of this land for others to comprehend this phenomenon," and the people of Pakistan will suffer if he is executed.

"It may sound a rotten cliché if I say that I am a household word in every home and under every roof that leaks in the rain," he wrote. "I belong to the sweat and sorrow of this land. I have an eternal bond with the people which armies cannot break."

The 80,000-word document was addressed to the Pakistani Supreme Court which upheld his conviction for conspiring to murder a political opponent and the death sentence given him. It was smuggled out of the Rawalpindi Central Jail and published as a book in New Delhi after Pakistan's military government blocked publication there.

1 pilot dies other lives

BRYANS CORNER, Okla. (AP) - Pilot Erich Ulmer, 31, of Plainview, Texas, was killed Sunday, while another pilot whose aircraft was involved in a mid-air collision with Ulmer's craft remarkably survived the incident near here.

Ulmer's plane was found in Oklahoma's Panhandle near this small community. Before the crash Ulmer and three other pilots were flying in formation from the Bellanca aircraft factory in Alexandria, Minnesota to Plainview, Texas.

The Federal Aviation Agency flight service team supervisor Ron Lacy, in Amarillo, Texas, said the pilot of the other aircraft involved in the collision landed safely at Borger, Texas.

The pilot, Scotty Hailey, also of Plainview, was concerned about getting his landing gear down. Lacy said, but he landed safely and the plane received only minor damage.

Lacy said the two remaining planes circled the crash site while Highway Patrol units located it. Then the other planes also landed at Borger.

The collision was reported about a 3 p.m. The accident site is reported to be four miles north and three miles east of here on U.S. Highway 83.

The pilots were employed by the Miller Flying Service Inc. of Plainview and were flying four new single-engine Bellanca Viking aircraft from Minnesota to Plainview.

A dealership spokesman, Bill Anderson, said Ulmer "apparently lost control of his aircraft" and collided with the other aircraft.

2 hospitalized

McINTOSH, Ga. (AP) - Two persons remained hospitalized today after a New York-to-Florida Amtrak passenger train jumped the tracks, sending 38 persons to the hospital.

Amtrak spokesman Jim Bryant said the Silver Star was traveling at about 80 miles an hour early Sunday when a loose wheel sent 13 cars of the 15-car train skidding from the elevated track bed.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: Referring to the letter from a Florida CPA: He amended your advice to the woman who asked about the seriousness of her husband's practice of pocketing part of his daily income.

The CPA quotes you as saying it was indeed a serious offense, and her husband could be fined or jailed or both. Then he goes on to say that you, Dear Abby, didn't go far enough—you should have advised her that if she and her husband signed a joint federal tax return, she is equally guilty of fraud, and therefore subject to the same penalty.

Your comment: "Leave it to a CPA to catch the omission."

Well, the CPA is correct up to a point; however he didn't go far enough either! Had he read Section 6013 (e) of the Internal Revenue Code, he would know that the spouse is relieved of liability under certain conditions.

On omitted income, it reads: "The other spouse establishes that in signing the return he or she did not know of, and had no reason to know of, such omission."

— M.B.M.

DEAR C.J.S.: Leave it to a California tax consultant to find a loophole that was overlooked by a CPA.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to complain about barbers who charge bald-headed men and those with full heads of hair the same price for haircuts. She thought the baldies should pay half price.

You replied, "So how much should the barber charge the man with long hair that requires twice as much time for a haircut? Sorry, it all evens out. Anyone who feels that the trimming he's getting isn't worth the trimming he's getting should stay out of barber shops."

Gotcha, Abby! At my barber shop, in addition to the already inflated prices, they charge a minimum of $2 extra for long hair. And no discounts for baldies.

— M.B.M.

DEAR M.B.M.: Your barber shop sounds like a clip joint.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has developed the habit of taking long naps (from one to three hours) almost every night when he gets home from work.

I think he is anti-social and uses these naps to avoid people.

He usually wakes up about the time most normal people are ready for bed. Then he stays up and reads, eats, watches TV, etc. He goes to sleep for the night about 1 o'clock and sleeps like a baby until it's time to get up for work. On weekends he sleeps most of the day and all night, too.

I told him I thought he ought to see a doctor, but he says there's nothing wrong with him. We're both in our early 50s.

Do you think he's just being anti-social? Or is there something wrong with a person who can't seem to get enough sleep?

— SLEEPER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband appears to be sleeping far too much for a normal, healthy person. Insist that he see a physician for a thorough examination.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 12 years old and I am writing to you about my dad. A couple of weeks ago I found out my father has emphysema from cigarette smoking. The doctor told him to stop smoking. Otherwise, he's eventually going to die. Now my father is only 30 years old and I am frightened of what is going to happen to him. I've told him not to smoke, but he won't listen. What should I do?

DEAR READER — I wish there was a good answer to your question. People are responsible for their own health. Doctors can't make a smoker stop smoking cigarettes and, unfortunately, neither can the person's family.

The individual has to decide himself that he wants to stop smoking. You might be a very significant factor in helping your father to decide to do this. Why don't you just tell him that it's important to you that he live a long life, that you'd like for him to be around when you grow up and have children of your own. Tell him you don't want to grow up without a father. If he knows you love him and that it's important to you, it may be just the push he needs to help him kick the habit.

Your father's health problem should be a good warning to you. Smoking parents are often the biggest reason children smoke. I'm sure your father wouldn't like for you to grow up and develop emphysema and other complications from cigarette smoking.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there anything a woman can do to make her breasts larger? My husband and I went to three doctors and all they did was laugh and tell my husband that I was pretty and very healthy. Do the breast developers advertised really work? Are they safe to use?

DEAR READER — It's no laughing matter, but don't expect much help from those highly advertised products that you have seen. They don't actually increase the size of the breasts. Some of the exercises that go along with such plans develop and strengthen the muscles behind the breast, and it is the enlargement of those muscles, not the breast itself, that may improve a woman's appearance.

Good posture helps too. Keeping the shoulders back and the chest forward improves the bustline. Of course, if a woman gains weight, she may add a little fat tissue to the breast and this makes some changes too. Unfortunately, the addition of fat isn't limited to the breast and the net results may not be so pleasing.

It depends upon how severe the problem is. If a woman has a real problem, she may be helped with implants. They are about the only real thing that will actually enlarge a breast. Implants, of course, are done by plastic surgeons who do cosmetic surgery. If it is really that important to you, why not consult such a physician about what he has available for your particular case.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I find that any of those sheets we put in the dryer as a softener or to control static cling are excellent to use for removing lint from the filter screen after clothes have dried. — KAY

DEAR POLLY — I can tell Anna what to do with those plastic rings that come around the cans in six-packs of soda. It is funny but true. The residents of a retirement home put a 12-inch stick on one end of a ring. They then paint cute flowers on them and write "German fly swatter" or Norwegian or whatever on them and give as a gift for laughs, as a booby prize or as a gift for that person who has everything. — ELDA

Beauty improvement plan

by josephine lowman

Firm your arms

This exercise will help firm your arms. Stand tall with your abdominal muscles pulled in and your feet comfortably separated. Hold a large ball between your hands. Lean forward a little and push the ball forward out in front of you until your elbows are straight. Hold for a few seconds. This time bend from the waist and thrust the ball down toward the floor. Hold for a few seconds. Raise trunk and continue for eight times in each direction.

DON'T BE A LATE RAIDER

(This is the thirteenth in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman, author of "Why Grow Old?" and leading authority on health and beauty, tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. You may want to save these menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.)

The eye can become accustomed to anything! Remember how worried you were when you noticed the first small pad of fat on your tummy or the first little roll over your girdle? Remember when you noticed the first shallow wrinkles? You thought, "I'll do something about that!"

The bulges became larger and the lines deeper and you were so busy! The change was so gradual that your eyes adapted to it until you were shocked by the results of accumulated neglect. We can't stop aging but we do not have to look older than we are.

I am so enthusiastic about helping women lose weight, not only because of the health values, but because I know from thousands and thousands of reader letters how dramatically it can affect happiness and outlook. Why not let time work FOR you instead of AGAINST you during the next eight weeks? By following the Beauty Improvement Plan (BIP), you can lose from 15 to 20 pounds during that period.

Today let's think about two more calorie traps. I have already written about the sweet tooth. It is important to recognize traps so that you can avoid them, brace yourself against them, or learn how to conquer them. Often just admitting them to yourself is enough. Many overweights indulge in night-time overeating.

Have you been puzzled by fat people who seem to eat very little? You never see them eat much, but they are overweight. These usually are night eaters. When the sun goes down, their salivary glands begin to flow and they begin to prowl—to the refrigerator. There are several different types: those who overeat at dinner, snack during the evening or attack the refrigerator during the late night or early morning hours.

The solution to the heavy dinner is easy. These folks usually starve themselves during the day or skip a meal and more than make up for it at dinner because they are so ravenous. Adequate breakfasts and lunches are the cure.

The one who snacks during the evening usually eats a light dinner. The person may have had a good breakfast and lunch but very little at dinner. Divide your calories more equally and prepare some low-calorie snacks ahead of temptation-time. Carrots, celery, mushrooms, cauliflower buds and a low-calorie dip, or a cup of bouillon (15 calories), club soda with lemon juice, one cup of LIGHTLY buttered popcorn are some favorable items. Do not eat dinner too early in the evening.

The late raider usually is lonely or worried or has not eaten properly during the day. If this is habitual, he or she may require psychological aid.

Weekends are traps for many people. There is more social life and the family is at home. Continue counting calories and add more exercise at these times to compensate for an increase of 200 or 300 additional calories. On several sheets of paper, in big red letters, record the number of pounds you have lost. Place one sheet in the kitchen and another wherever you spend a lot of time. If you are going away for the weekend, take a sheet and your calorie chart with you and increase your physical activity.

It is not too late to join BIP. If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks to get ready for spring clothes, send for the BIP kit. The kit gives you all of the instructions necessary.

14 full days of NEW and delicious calorie-counted menus, a calorie chart, highly effective spot-reducing exercises and a wall chart on which to plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. For your kit, send $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the BIP kit to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Invite Your Valentine To Dinner

- Want to make Valentine's Day a date to remember? Invite that "someone special" to a romantic dinner for two at home. If "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," then this is the perfect occasion to feed your fancy.
- Provide flowers, candlelight, soft music and a graceful table setting. Chill a couple of bottles of Reine Pedaque Macon "Le Grand Cristal" dry white wine. 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. 1 lemon, cut in wedges for garnish.
- In large skillet, melt butter. When butter foams, add steaks, tomatoes, fennel, thyme, garlic, pepper, salt and saffron. Add wine and bring to a boil, covered. Reduce heat and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes at the touch of a fork. Decorate with chopped parsley and serve with lemon wedges. Serves 6.
- FISH STEAKS COTE D'AZUR
- 2 1/2 tablespoons butter or olive oil
6 fish steaks, such as salmon, swordfish or tuna
- 4 tomatoes, peeled and quartered
1/4 teaspoon fennel
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon saffron, optional
1 cup Reine Pedaque Macon "Le Grand Cristal" dry white wine
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 lemon, cut in wedges for garnish

Tulips—a symbol of love and natural spring valentine

If everything followed the dictates of reason, Valentine's Day, the holiday of love, would be celebrated during the season of love, spring.

And, if reason prevailed, spring flowers would not bloom in mid-winter.

But, thank heaven for irrationality!

Beautiful abundance

Spring tulips are abundantly available at florists now as potted plants and cut flowers ready to open in radiant crimsons, yellows, mauves, oranges and assorted bicolors. Their early arrival—in time for Valentine's Day—is actually very fitting, because tulips are traditional symbols of love.

Legends of love

Valentine's Day has been traced to the ancient Roman feast of Iupercal, a winter holiday celebrated by young sweethearts with gift-giving and merriment.

Another story attributes the creation of the lovers' holiday to St. Valentine.

But recognition of the tulip as a symbol of love is older than either of these legends.

In ancient Persia, the love-sick young man, Ferhad, was getting nowhere with the woman of his dreams. Dejected beyond consolation, he wandered into the desert and wept.

Curiously enough, each tear that dropped onto the scorching sand gave rise to a fiery red tulip.

Lavish display

With all its implications of love and sensuality, the tulip made its way into ancient Turkish harem festivals where the women danced among thousands of these magnificent spring flowers. The women who showed the most love for the tulips gained the favors of the Sultan.

Whether your passion is for cut tulip flowers or potted tulip plants, you should select them when their buds are just beginning to open.

That way, their lucky recipient can watch daily for more and more color to unfurl, and revel in their Valentine's sentiment for days and weeks after the holiday has passed.

Proud tulips in pots are the easiest house plants to keep. Leave them in a cool, lighted area away from radiator heat and direct sunlight.

Watering them moderately, every day or two, will maintain their springtime luxuriance while winter winds howl outdoors.

Kept out of warm or cold drafts and away from direct sunlight, a tulip bouquet needs only to have its water replenished daily.

To prolong their life, cut a quarter of an inch from the tulip stems. Make the cuts on a slant with a sharp knife.

Don't use scissors because they will pinch stems and possibly block water intake.

Then, wrap the tulips—buds and stems—in wax paper and soak them in a bucket of tepid water for three to six hours.

Tulips are so versatile that they can be arranged in clusters alone or mixed with baby's breath, greens and other flowers in a springtime bouquet that declares unabashedly, "I am hopelessly head over heels in love."

Bruins whip Notre Dame

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Tyren Naulls is a fiery freshman with a senior's icy instincts.

He was definitely the wrong man for the Notre Dame basketball team to foul in a crucial situation Sunday.

"He's a confident individual," confirms UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham.

Only a 64 percent foul shooter, Naulls was just perfect when he had to be — converting four free shots in the final 13 seconds as the fourth-ranked Bruins defeated the top-ranked Irish 56-52.

"In many ways, he reminds me of myself when I was a freshman," noted UCLA's cool senior guard Brad Holland after watching Naulls' pressure-proof performance in the face of passionate Notre Dame fans at the Irish Athletic Convocation Center in South Bend, Ind.

Naulls appeared not to be bothered by the legion of Notre Dame fans waving wildly behind the basket in an attempt to distract him at the foul line. During his preshot meditations, he looked only at the floor before shooting.

"We fouled him because we thought he wasn't in his rhythm," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps. "Our other choice was (James) Wilkes. But he had hit two-of-two earlier."

Naulls wasn't the only reason the Irish lost, of course. Their inconsistent offense was another.

"We missed too many easy shots when we had the lead at the start of the second half," said Phelps. "They took advantage of our mistakes. Defensively we played well, but not offensively."

Notre Dame's loss came one day after some upsets shook the Top Twenty. Third-ranked Duke lost a 71-69 shocker at home to Pittsburgh; No. 11 Texas A&M was beaten on the road by Texas Tech 67-63 and No. 16 Alabama dropped an 80-71 decision to Kentucky.

Elsewhere, No. 2 Indiana State beat Bradley 91-72. No. 9 Marquette trimmed No. 5 Louisville 71-55; No. 6 North Carolina whipped Providence 89-55; No. 7 Syracuse defeated St. Bonaventure 74-69; No. 8 Louisiana State beat Florida 88-82 in overtime and No. 10 Michigan State routed No. 13 Ohio State 73-55.

Also, No. 14 Arkansas routed TCU 108-65; No. 15 Iowa beat Wisconsin 79-65; No. 17 Vanderbilt turned back Mississippi State 70-68 in overtime; No. 18 Georgetown whipped Seton Hall 87-62; No. 19 Temple crushed La Salle 97-81 and No. 20 Illinois edged Minnesota 59-57.

UCLA had trailed Notre Dame in the nationally televised game by 28-25 at halftime, but went in front in the second half by as many as six points before the Irish closed within two on a tip-in by Bruce Flowers with 21 seconds to go.

The Irish then fouled Naulls, who sank the first pair of free throws. A basket by Tracy Jackson with seven seconds left pulled Notre Dame back within 54-52 before Naulls hit the final two free throws with six seconds left.

Roy Hamilton led UCLA with 12 points. Jackson and Kelly Tripucka paced the Irish with 11 points apiece.

Cubans prove boxing prowess

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro opened the show between Cuban and U.S. boxers with a rousing entrance and Teofilo Stevenson closed it as he has closed so many boxing programs — with a smashing victory.

Stevenson, the two-time Olympic and two-time world champion, called the Cuban team the best amateur squad in the world. And it probably is. Certainly the U.S. team that fought here Sunday was no match for it.

The Americans, with most of their talent and experience in the lower classes, opened a 3-2 lead but then the Cubans won the last seven fights for a 9-3 margin. They have now won all four dual meets between the two teams.

A crowd of about 20,000 jammed into Sports City, an indoor arena, with a banner near its ceiling that read, "Sports Is The Right Of The People." One of those on hand was Castro.

The Cuban president strode onto the main floor, drawing thunderous applause which turned into a chant of "Fidel, Fidel, Fidel."

Israel Acosta of Milwaukee dampened the crowd's enthusiasm a bit with an unpopular decision over Omar Santiesteban at 106 pounds.

But the Cubans were in full throat by the time Stevenson closed the show 11 fights later with a unanimous decision over Phil Brown of New Orleans. Stevenson had to chase Brown for most of the fight and finally caught him in the third round to knock him down with his famed right hand. But Stevenson couldn't finish him.

The other American winners were Jackie Beard of Jackson, Tenn., and Johnny Bumphus of Nashville, Tenn. Beard looked impressive in overpowering Genova Grinan at 119. Bumphus overcame Adolfo Horga, by simply outpunching the Cuban at 132.

Four bouts failed to go the distance in the program that was televised live to the United States by ABC. Unfortunately, for the Americans, none of their victories were seen on television.

Jose Aguilar got the Cubans even at 3-3 by knocking down DuJuan Johnson of Detroit and stopping him in the first round. Andres Aidama put the Cubans ahead by stopping Dan Bowers of Jackson, Tenn. in the second round at 147.

The other two bouts that failed to go the limit also were stopped in the second round — Jose Gomez beating Monte Oswald of Bay City, Mich., at 165 and Angel Milian beating Ali Allen of Patterson, N.J. in another heavyweight bout.

In other bouts, Jorge Hernandez outpointed Jerome Coffee, Nashville, 112. Jesus Sollet outpointed Danny Tipwell, Jackson, at 125, and Luis Martinez outpointed Jeff Stouderme, Cleveland, at 156.

District swimming meet at Amarillo this week

The District 3-AAAA swimming meet heads a light schedule of Pampa High School sports activities this week.

Coach Mike Eckhart's tankers will be at the Maverick Boys Club in Amarillo Tuesday to vie with Amarillo High, Tascosa, Palo Duro and Caprock for the right to send swimmers to the Regional Meet in Lubbock March 23.

Amarillo High is a solid favorite to capture the boys crown, with Tascosa and the Sandies expected to battle it out for the girls championship.

The Harvesters, meanwhile, stand a chance of taking second place in the boys division and should finish no lower than third in the girls portion of the meet.

The boys lost a 78-73 December dual with Tascosa that went down to the wire, which should mean a close battle for second place Tuesday.

Both Pampa teams defeated Caprock and Palo Duro handily Jan. 26, leaving little room for speculation on the final team standings in Tuesday's meet.

In other sports action, the boys golf team will get its first taste of spring competition at the Odessa Invitational Thursday and Friday.

The girls golf squad, which was left idle last weekend when the Plainview Invitational was canceled, will try to open its season at the Lubbock Invitational Friday.

The girls varsity basketball team, with two games in Amarillo left on its schedule, plays at Caprock Friday night. The Lady Harvesters dropped a 58-56 overtime decision to the Longhorn girls Jan. 29 at Harvester Field House.

This week's schedule:

TUESDAY
Swimming — District 3-AAAA meet, Maverick Boys Club, Amarillo.

THURSDAY
Golf — Boys varsity at Odessa Invitational.

FRIDAY
Basketball — Girls junior varsity and varsity at Caprock, 6 and 7:45 p.m.
Golf — Boys varsity at Odessa Invitational; Girls varsity at Lubbock Invitational.

SATURDAY
Tennis — Pampa vs. Palo Duro, PHS courts, 10 a.m.

Soviets whip NHL

NEW YORK (AP) — When it was over, after the Soviet National team had dismantled the National Hockey League's attack piece by piece and won the Challenge Cup, the Madison Square Garden work crew took down the boards that border the playing surface — piece by piece.

At one end of the abandoned arena, the cover was taken off a rectangular pit which would swallow up the melted ice the way the Soviet defense had swallowed up the NHL attack — and the hopes the North American players would back up their claim on hockey supremacy.

The sullen fans had long since filed out, leaving sullen NHL players to explain the 6-0 Soviet triumph that gave the visitors a 2-1 victory in the three-game series.

"We gave it all we had," said Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin. "We played pretty well. We worked our butts off and played hard, but they had a system, and any team with a system is going to beat the team that doesn't have one."

The Soviet system was executed by workmen in different clothes, veteran Boris Mikhailov was their foreman. The Nationals cut off the NHL, passing lanes the way a boxer cuts off the ring on his opponent. They negated Guy Lafleur, despite the exhortations of 17,545 voices crying "Guy, Guy, Guy" every time he handled the puck. "I didn't hear them," said Lafleur, who started Thursday night's 4-2 NHL triumph with a goal at the 16-second mark.

He was powerless to please them, even if he had heard. The Soviets controlled his magic, withstood the bruising NHL body attack — not all of it legal — and got 24 saves from goalie Vladimir Myshkin to win the prize they came 4,665 air miles to claim.

The NHL survived a late letdown in its opening-game triumph, blew a 4-2 lead in Saturday's 5-4 loss, and virtually never was in the decisive third match.

Mikhailov, at 34 the graybeard of the Soviet squad, scored his third goal of the series at 5:47 of the second period. Alexander Golikov intercepted a Bob Gainey pass at the NHL blue line and fed Mikhailov — playing in his 233rd international contest — who sped up right wing and used Colorado's Barry Beck to screen his 25-foot shot.

Victor Zhlukov made it 2-0 on a power play just 1:57 later.

LA group backs Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles is certain to be the host of the 1984 Summer Olympics, but weekend activities which made it a certainty didn't cause much hoopla.

An agreement between a group of business and political leaders and the U.S. Olympic Committee had been 10 months in coming. Leaders of both groups were content after signing a contract Saturday, but also relieved.

"It was necessary, but I'm glad it's behind us," said John Argue, leader of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, a group that stepped in to take financial responsibility for the 23rd Olympiad when the city itself refused.

"I think it's a fair and equitable agreement," said USC President Robert Knight. The USC and the Los Angeles committee agreed that the Los Angeles group would form a $50 million trust fund to protect against a possible deficit from the staging of the Games. The city, whose officials were wary of irritable taxpayers and the $1.2 billion deficit incurred by Montreal in the 1976 Games, will not bear any financial responsibility. Mayor Tom Bradley has agreed that the city will provide essential services, such as police and fire protection and sanitation, at terms to be worked out later.

The Los Angeles committee, which will grow from a seven-member body to a 62-member board of directors, will hold its first planning meeting Thursday.

Borg puts No. 1 rumors to rest

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Bjorn Borg didn't buy all that chauvinistic U.S. talk about the battle for tennis domination between Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe.

Borg gave a convincing demonstration of his skepticism Sunday with a surprisingly easy 6-2, 6-3 victory over Connors in the championship of the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis tournament, his third straight victory over Connors in the finals of the special event here.

The 22-year-old Swede established control by staying back at the baseline and waiting for Connors, who totaled 34 unforced errors, to make a mistake. He broke Connors' serve five times, and scored with his passing shots when Connors rushed the net in the second set.

Connors had won their last two meetings, including the finals of the U.S. Open, and while Borg took a six-week layoff, the resurgent Connors — and the fast-rising 19-year-old McEnroe sparked discussions about a new rivalry for No. 1.

"That always happens in the U.S. I think it's all different opinions, especially in the world might have different opinions," said Borg, who last week ended his layoff with a tournament victory in Richmond, Va., that included a semifinal triumph over McEnroe.

Borg's thorough victory over Connors was overshadowed Sunday by announcement of a compromise agreement between tennis' top five male players and the governing Men's International Professional Tennis Council.

The five — Borg, Connors, McEnroe, Guillermo Vilas and Vitas Gerulaitis — were angered when new rules were introduced that limited for the first time the number of exhibitions and required their participation in six designated tournaments.

When the rules were announced, the five threatened to boycott the Grand Prix circuit.

While advocates said the new rules would give tennis the same order and continuity of other sports and also protect tournament sponsors, the players said they wanted the freedom to choose their own events.

Green wins at Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Hubert Green talked of a scene that took place on the practice putting green early last week as he prepared for a defense of his title in the Hawaiian Open golf tournament.

"My putting had been terrible all year.

"I was lost.

"Ben Crenshaw was out there helping. Hell, my wife was helping me.

"I was struggling, lost. People were laughing at me."

So, he said, he went to "my putting stance No. 4-25-WB."

It worked.

It produced a relatively easy 3-stroke victory with a 21-under-par total of 267. He closed it out in a howling tropical squall with a 69, and no one got closer than the final margin over the last round. He made only one bogey for the week.

"I worked on it," said Green, who now has won at least one tournament each of the last seven years and has 15 titles for his nine-year career.

"Like any vocation, or avocation, you have to work at it to hope to do it well. I worked hard at it," he said and flashed his peculiar grin.

"And it paid off."

With a 4-shot lead, he birdied three holes in a row at the soaked and soggy Wai'alae Country Club. He started the string with an 18-footer on the sixth hole, followed with a 25-foot putt and then scored from six feet.

That lifted his lead to 6 shots, gave him the margin he needed and sent wife Karen scurrying in search of an umbrella. Her timing was right. Moments later the misty rain turned into a storm with 40 mph gusts.

Fuzzy Zoeller made the biggest — perhaps only — move of the stormy day. Zoeller played his back nine in 31, including birdies on the last two holes, for a 65 that put him alone at second with 270. He collected $32,400 from the total purse and, with his recent victory at San Diego, became the year's leading money-winner at $82,444. Green won $54,000.

Larry Nelson shot a 67 and claimed third at 272. The trio of Texans at 273 were rookie Lindy Miller, 47-year-old veteran Miller Barber and former Masters champion Charles Coody. Coody and Barber had 69, Miller 70.

Tom Watson, Player of the Year and the leading money-winner for the last two seasons, never really got in the hunt. He had a closing 72 and was far back at 281.

McAdoo on trading block

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Celtics have agreed to acquire three-time National Basketball Association scoring champion Bob McAdoo from the New York Knicks in exchange for three 1979 first-round draft picks and 6-foot-11 center Tom Barker, Celtics President Red Auerbach confirmed early Monday morning.

"Harry Mangurian and John Y. Brown, the owners of the Celtics, and Sonny Werblin of the Knicks discussed it, and it looks like the deal has been made," Auerbach said from his home in Washington.

"As far as I know it's a deal," added Auerbach. "Nothing is a deal until the league okay's it, but I don't know why they wouldn't."

Every National Basketball Association player transaction requires approval of the league office before it becomes official.

Asked whether he was happy with a trade for McAdoo, Auerbach said, "Sure, otherwise I wouldn't have okayed it."

According to a story by basketball writer Sam Goldaper in Monday's editions of the New York Times, the trade was agreed upon by Brown and Werblin after the teams played at New York Saturday night. The clubs then traveled to Boston for a game Sunday, won by the Celtics 107-103 in which McAdoo scored 32 points for New York.

Neither Werblin nor Brown could be reached for confirmation of the trade.

According to the Times report, the trade was to be announced Monday.

McAdoo, 27, is a 6-foot-10 forward with a career scoring average of 27.8 points per game. He spent 4½ years with the Buffalo Braves, averaging 18.0 points per game in his rookie season and then leading the NBA in scoring from 1974 through 1976 with averages of 30.6, 34.5 and 31.1.

He was traded to New York along with Tom McMillen for $3 million and John Gianelli on Dec. 9, 1976 by Buffalo owner Paul Snyder. Ironically, Snyder at that time was in the process of selling the Buffalo team to Brown.

CARD OF THANKS

AUDIE M. GIESLER

"Fear thou not; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yes, I will help thee; Yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." I saith 41:10.

Truly, we, as a family have claimed this promise above; for through this time of sorrow God has been especially near to strengthen and help us in the loss of one so dear. May we express our deepest love and appreciation for every prayer made in our behalf when we lost our loved one recently. Thanks, too, for the many telephone calls, cards, flowers and food sent our way. May God bless and keep each one who shared our loss.

BASEBALL

CHICAGO — A published report says major league umpires have been told by top baseball officials that unless they have signed their 1979 contracts, they will be barred from spring training and may be replaced.

Chicago Sun-Times baseball writer Jerome Holtzman reported in Sunday's editions that all 52 major league umpires received identical letters from American League President Lee MacPhail and National League President Charles Feeney.

BOWLING

ST. LOUIS — Mark Roth rolled nine strikes in a row in the championship game of the $100,000 Pro Bowlers Association tournament to defeat Marshall Holman 279-227 and take the $15,000 first prize.

OLYMPICS

NEW YORK — The U.S. Olympic Committee and a private organizing group signed a contract, effectively clearing the last hurdle to bring the 1984 Summer Olympics to Los Angeles.

BOXING

HAVANA, Cuba — President Fidel Castro and about 20,000 other Cubans watched their national boxing team, led by heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson, score a 9-3 victory over the United States at trailing 3-2.

SWIMMING

PARIS — Jim Montgomery of Madison, Wis., won the men's 100-meter freestyle event, leading the American team to victory on the final day of the Arena Meeting international swimming competition.
