Not guilty pleas seen in stabbing

By DAN LACKEY
 Pampa News Staff

Up to a dozen people were involved in several fights at the Frontier Lounge on Tyng Street Saturday night when one man was killed and three others were injured, although the cause of the brawl is not yet known, Pampa police detective R. B. Nichols said Monday.

Roberto Lira, 25, was killed from stab wounds in the chest during the fight which broke out around 11 p.m. Hipolito Montalio, 33, and Mike Durham, 25, were treated and released at Highland General Hospital for stab wounds.

The third injured man, Rodrigo Vasquez, 29, was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Highland General following surgery for abdominal wounds.

The brothers, Marcial, Jose, Victor, Benito, and Guadalupe Rodriguez, all of Pampa, have been charged with murder connection with Lira's death. The five are being held in Gray County Jail under $50,000 bond.

Kenneth Field, attorney for the men, said the five will enter pleas of not guilty.

A 223rd District Grand Jury will meet, Feb. 26 to consider charges against the men, although District Attorney Harold Comer said today he's not certain if the murder charge will be sought for all five. "I think Marcial (Rodriguez) will definitely be charged with murder," Comer said. Additional charges, possibly aggravated assault, will probably be filed, said Comer. "It takes a while to sort out one of these barroom fights," said Comer. "To try to decipher exactly who did what."

Nichols said the brawl involved four or five separate fights involving as many as a dozen individuals and lasting five to seven minutes.

He said the injury stabbings apparently followed the fatal stabbing of Lira. The victim died in an alley near apartment buildings next to the lounge, said Nichols.

Nichols said he believes several people were involved in the killing, although he said only one of the brothers is alleged to have been in possession of a knife.

Nichols said investigators don't have a full picture yet of the events surrounding the murder. None of the suspects has made a statement and the injured victims have been unable to talk so far, said Nichols.

One witness reportedly said the fight began over an argument about a tune played on the lounge juke box.

Helen Cave, manager of the lounge, said "there was no indication there was going to be a fight. No trouble. No arguments, it just all busted out at once."

The tavern has been in business only five months, said Cave.

Victor and Benito Rodriguez were arrested about six blocks from the lounge after reportedly being spotted leaving the scene by Nichols, who was driving an unmarked police car. Marcial and Jose Rodriguez were arrested at a Highway 60 residence after reportedly being identified by witnesses as having been involved in the fight.

Guadalupe Rodriguez was arrested on a murder warrant Monday morning.

Nichols said no more arrests are anticipated.

$3.7 million used by local schools

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
 Pampa News Staff

The Pampa School Board of Trustees unanimously approved Monday a budget status report, indicating that about $3.7 million has been spent for the 1978-79 school year.

District schools were allotted a lump sum of about $7.5 billion for the fiscal year, which began Sept. 1, 1978. Remaining monies amounted to about $3.7 million.

The school has absorbed $3.2 million from its general operating or main budget, which leaves almost $3.9 million to be spent. A monthly revenue of $2.5 million was also reported.

About $227,507 was allocated for four separate budget items for disadvantaged children of which $155,581 has been spent so far.

The Building Trades Home Fund spent about $4,816 over its $35,650 budget. The Building Trades Class uses the money to build a house. Spending for the Educational Handicapped Act (EHA) incurred a debt of $6,880. The report shows no set allocation for EHA.

The school district had a reported $7.1 million as budgeted revenue, of which $4.7 million has been realized.

The bills and invoices for the past fiscal month were unanimously approved with some discussion.

One year extensions for the contracts of Pampa High School Assistant Principal Andy Andrews and Middle School Assistant Principal Scott Dunn were also approved.

Head Coach Ed Lehnick told board members that the filming equipment, which will cost $1,250, will replace A.E. Nooncaster's tools. Nooncaster will be resigning as cameraman for the Harvester football games.

Lehnick also suggested that one of the traveling coaches be taught to use the equipment to save the expense of hiring a cameraman. The marching band spent $320 to have its events filmed this month.

Chalkboards, bulletin boards, and other provisions were provided to three schools for $1,888, which was approved.

The board decided in a 4-2 poll to reject opening bids from sub-contractors for renovation projects on some school's restrooms. The board advised that general contracts were to be voted on at the meeting.

E.P. Taylor General Construction was the only contractor represented. His bid was turned down in an unanimous vote after a comparison of his $95,962 contract with the $60,000 guideline set by Herbert Brasher, the school architect.

The trustees have set March 12 as the tentative date for the reopening of the bids.

In the interim, Superintendent James Trustee and his assistant, Bob Phillips, will meet with Brasher to decide how to advertise for the contracts.

The general renovation project may be dealt with as several sub-contracts to side-step the difficulty of receiving enough bids from general contractors.

News in brief

The weather forecast for Pampa calls for partly cloudy skies today, and mostly fair and a little cooler tonight, with increasing cloudiness on Wednesday. The high today and Wednesday should be near 60, with the low tonight about 30. Northwesterly winds from 15-25 mph are predicted to become variable at 5-10 mph by tonight.

Pampa expects federal funds

The city, having waited since April 1977 to receive federal funds owed for construction of the Pampa wastewater treatment plant, may be getting the money fairly soon. City hall received notice this morning that Pampa is second in line on a statewide priority list of municipal construction projects which will receive Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grants. The EPA owes the city roughly $78,825.

Men paid to free jail

DALLAS (AP) — Texas millionaire H. Ross Perot says he unsuccessfully sought help from the U.S. government before sending his own elite squad of combat-hardened men into Iran to stage a daring rescue of two imprisoned employees of his Dallas-based computer firm.

"We went to the Department of Defense, the State Department, the White House and every other level of our government. But there was nothing, absolutely nothing, they could do," said Perot.

So, the crew - cut tycoon calmly told newsmen Monday, his men paid Iranian revolutionaries in Tehran to storm the Gasre prison Feb. 11, freeing about 11,000 prisoners including two EDS engineers, William Gaylord, and Paul Chiapparoni. Part of Perot's squad of 15 civilian commandos then led Gaylord and Chiapparoni on an exhausting journey 450 miles to the Turkish frontier where they crossed the border to freedom, Perot said.

The leader of the patrol was retired Green Beret Col. Arthur "Bull" Simon, 60, who in 1970 led an Army mission to the outskirts of Hanoi in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue American prisoners of war held by the North Vietnamese. The tall, leathery colonel, wearing a yellow sweater and faded blue jeans, sat next to Perot at the news conference smoking a cigarette.

The other members of the squad were EDS employees with prior military experience. Perot said each man was a volunteer.

20,000 wells later...

By JOHN PRICE
 Pampa News Staff

The board of directors of the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District No. 3, now searching for a new manager, is having a little difficulty handling the transition. The problem is lack of experience. Board members haven't had to fill the position in 22 years.

One man, Felix Ryals, has been manager since the district was founded in 1956 to plan and regulate the extraction and use of the area's precious underground water resources. Ryals is turning 65 in October, and will finally step down at the end of the year.

During his more than 20 years in office, Ryals has outlived four of the five original board members. He estimates he has checked or tested around 20,000 wells. His knowledge of and expertise at his job has grown to the point that he was once referred to by a newspaper editor as "Mr. Panhandle Water."

"That really made my head swell," he said with a laugh.

Not bad for a man who knew little about either the Panhandle or water when he first arrived here.

In effect, Ryals has had two careers during his life. He came to the area from Arkansas, where he had been a coach, high school principal, public school superintendent and superintendent of the state reformatory for white boys (as with everything else in pre-integration days, there were then two reformatories).

He became involved with the groundwater conservation district shortly after it was formed at the initiative of landowners in Gray, Carson, Roberts, Donley, Armstrong and Potter counties. For the first six months of its existence, the district operated with a part-time manager while the board of directors looked for a full-time person.

Enter Ryals. "I just came out for a visit, to see a White Deer coach who was a partner from my coaching days," he said. After his coach friend told the board about Ryals, he was persuaded to take the job in 1956, and the visit became permanent. He and his wife have lived in the same house in White Deer ever since.

When Ryals first came to the Panhandle to live, irrigation was an expensive and relatively new concept, and this area was brown and drought-stricken.

"It was a dreary situation," he said. "At that time, bankers were reluctant to lend people money to bring water up that far from the ground."

The Farmers Home Administration started lending money to farmers, and once bankers noticed the farmers were being successful and repaying the loans, they too began the practice. From 1955-57 there was a rapid changeover from dry farming to irrigation, Ryals said, adding "it became a routine thing after a few years because of technological improvements."

The resulting increase in grain production led to a booming feedlot business, which has paved the way for a growing meat packing industry in the Panhandle. By 1971, Ryals said, Texas had replaced Iowa as the state with the largest number of cattle and feedlots.

Over the years, Ryals observed the progress and wrote about it in a weekly column for The Pampa News from 1963-77. His journalistic excursions were an offshoot of his managerial work.

"A lot of this job has been public relations," he said. "They (the directors) felt this water conservation district needed someone to put it over, public relations-wise. Besides, I was a farm boy myself."

Now Ryals and his wife, who has worked with him in the district office for the last four years, will be returning to that Arkansas farm to retire. The visit that began in 1956 is finally almost over, but the district he helped develop remains, to face the inevitable future water problems of an arid region.

"Nobody is indispensable," he said. "I could have stayed on, but I think that while we can we should make the transition, for their sake and for mine."

Local ex post facto laws.

By BERNARD SIEGAN

I once urged members of a suburban planning commission to reject a proposed zoning change because it would cut the value of the owner's land in half. The commission's chairman was not impressed. "We hear that story all the time. Don't you have better arguments?" he asked. My reply was that I could not conceive of a more persuasive position in a nation dedicated to justice and fair play. The locality was taking away something the owner had purchased several years ago without any inkling that the municipality intended to impair his investment.

Very important principles are involved. Society should not penalize or punish people who have committed no wrong. The innocent should not suffer in a manner intended for wrongdoers. These basic imperatives are compromised when government confiscates valuable possessions of individuals or corporations who have not intentionally inflicted any harm. The credibility of a state's dedication to justice and equity is seriously jeopardized when it does not safeguard the interests, aspirations, and expectations of those who abide by its rules.

Some contend that anyone purchasing land knows full well that the locality may one day rezone it and reduce its value. They say that rezoning is one of the risks a purchaser of land assumes. However, this line of reasoning does not relate to the justice of a society. By the same token, anyone in a totalitarian country should not complain when he or she is deprived of life, limb or freedom since the laws do not prevent such harm. Legislation does not become less harsh because its imposition is possible or predictable. While we may not shed tears for a person who purchases property speculating on future changes in the law, we should condemn rules that subject every owner to the whims and desires of the politicians.

In 1886, the U.S. Supreme Court in the famous case of Yick Wo v. Hopkins said that "the very idea that one may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another" has been thought "intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."

These views would forbid laws which remove or impair vested or other interests acquired under existing laws. As presently interpreted, our Constitution bans criminal but not civil laws that have this impact. Statutes that impose criminal punishment for conduct lawful prior to their enactment, have this effect by removing an existing right. Such laws violate the two clauses of the U.S. Constitution which forbid the federal or state governments from passing ex post facto laws.

However, these ex post facto provisions do not ban the passage of laws that deprive people of property or economic interests as frequently occurs under zoning and most other economic regulations. Yet in terms of the outcome, it makes little difference whether a city council either imposes a criminal fine for a past innocent act or deprives an owner of a lawfully acquired property interest. The fact that one is called a criminal fine and the other a regulation hardly overcomes the loss involved. The legal distinction can be readily abused. For example, a council can punish businessmen it dislikes by rezoning property or passing rent control law.

The language of the ex post facto clauses do not limit them to either criminal or civil matters. However, in 1978, the U.S. Supreme Court in Calder v. Bull concluded that these clauses applied only to criminal legislation. Although it remains the law, this opinion is the subject of much controversy, with some eminent scholars contending that the justices were wrong and the framers of the Constitution intended these clauses to apply to all legislative deprivations of property and economic rights.

Had the Court not confined the ex post facto clauses to criminal laws, their impact on our domestic policy would be enormous. A broadly defined ex post facto clause would prevent government from imposing economic regulations that deprive someone of an existing right to produce and distribute goods and services. Most laws controlling prices, entry into markets and output would be invalid. Nonzoning would be the rule and not the exception. Our world would obviously be quite different.

Did the framers intend the ex post facto clauses to apply to civil interests? The evidence is not clear, but I think it is very persuasive that they so intended. Perhaps the strongest argument comes from the fact that the framers prized property above all other civil rights. Yet there is no provision in the original Constitution directly protecting property rights.

The taking clause of the Fifth Amendment protects ownership, but this amendment was not ratified until two years after the original Constitution was approved. The explanation I find convincing is that the framers inserted the ex post facto clauses to protect property and other existing rights, and therefore the 1978 decision to the contrary was in error.

Balanced budget

Let us suppose for a minute that you are the owner of a business or of a farm. Let us also suppose that the expenses from your business or farm are not equal to the profits, in fact they are quite a bit in excess of your profits.

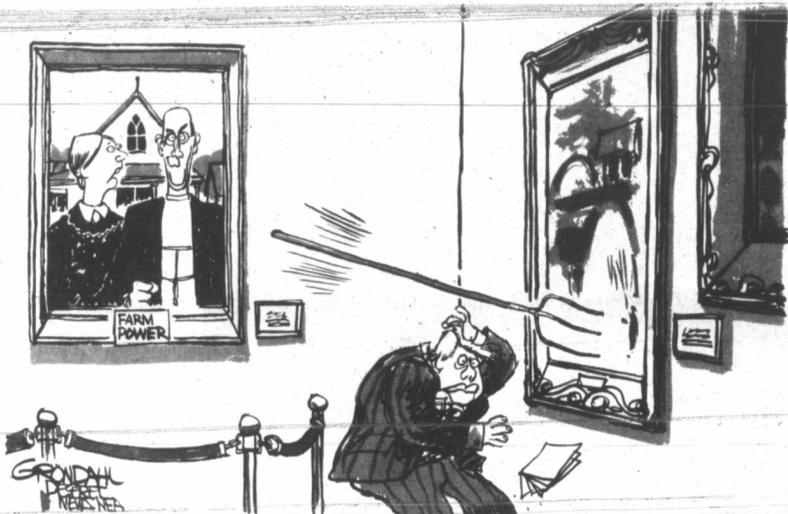

How long could you afford to run a business that doesn't make any money and in fact loses money? And how long do you think it would be before your friendly neighborhood banker was standing at your door asking if you were ignorant, stupid or just plain didn't give a damn.

Our federal government operates at a loss year after year and you can apply any of the bankers questions as to why. There may be hope however as the government's bankers, that's you and me, may have finally had enough.

26 states, including Texas, have passed some sort of resolution demanding a constitutional amendment to ban deficit spending. This is only eight short of the two-thirds majority required to force a constitutional convention. In four other states one house has already passed the resolution and five other states are expected to pass it.

What will happen if two-thirds of the states pass such a resolution? No one really knows. Many expect that the government would ask for so many escape clauses that the final amendment would look like a sieve. But whatever it looks like an amendment is still the only way of obtaining responsible economic management from the congress.

Like a bird dog that has begun to run rabbits, they have to be retrained so that they are useful instead of useless ... so it is with the congress.

Words can be beautiful

If it is true that the demise of a civilization is preceded by the perversion of its language — watch it!

As surely as proper grammar has been neglected in high school curriculae, it has been mongrelized by the electronic media.

The TV interviewee may say, "Oh, that's beautiful!" and mean it either as flattery or derision.

Edwin Newman tried to alert us during our bicentennial year to the absurdity of our colloquialisms, but the Americans who needed to take his admonition seriously either did not choose to — or could not comprehend what he was trying to say.

As any art, a language can be used to make the world more beautiful or more otherwise.

On campus at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan State College is a group of scholars dedicated to the isolation and quarantine of certain overworked, misused and pompous phrases.

These word watchers recommend that we retire immediately and forever the trite phrase, "You know."

They are also weary of the phrase "viable alternative" and "energy crisis" and "social security" which is neither social nor secure.

These scholars conceded that there is probably something basic wrong with our language when "fat chance" and "slim chance" mean the same thing.

Jackson Jimmy Ward says some old phrases necessarily have new meanings, as when a youngster says his mother is "home cooking."

That, says Jimmy, probably means she is in the bedroom under a sunlamp.

Richard Kenin and Justin Wintle have edited a useful reference book called, "The Dictionary of Biographical Quotation of British and Americans Subjects."

Fascinating. Example: "I love Mickey Mouse more than any woman I have ever known." Walt Disney said that.

The thousand-plus quotations range from reverential praise to satire. Shakespeare gets nine pages to himself.

Less well known but altogether as graphic, Tallulah Bankhead said of herself: "I am as pure as driven slush."

Oscar Wilde said: "Every great man has his disciples; usually Jettas is the one who writes his biography."

Athro Louisa May Alcott described her private life as, "a vortex of debts, dishpans and despondency."

Alexander Wolcott, a master of words sharp enough to draw blood, wrote these lines in describing Michael Arlen: "He is every other inch a gentleman."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning proposed as her epitaph: "The greatest novel reader in the world."

Bertrand Russell said, "I'm drunk as a lord, but then I am one so what does it matter?"

Calvin Coolidge said, "I think the American people want a solemn ass as President and I think I'll go along with them."

Paul Harvey describes his own profession as: "A professional parade watcher, standing at the curbside calling out to anyone who is interested — those things which interest me."

And this did.

'Cheap' carrier costs too much

If Congress and the White House are to fund construction of one last aircraft carrier for the Navy, it could at least be one whose capabilities justify its considerable cost. That won't be the case if Congress buys the undersized, overpriced hybrid proposed by President Carter.

Since taking office, Carter has resisted the Navy's plan for a fourth, nuclear-powered 90,000-ton Nimitz-class carrier. The president even vetoed last year's defense authorization bill, partly because it contained funds for another Nimitz.

As a compromise, Defense Secretary Harold Brown recommended construction of another 85,000-ton, oilburning, Kennedy-class carrier. The president has said no to this also.

What Carter and his budget advisers propose is design and construction of a scaled-down oil-burner of between 50,000 and 60,000 tons. This one-of-a-kind ship would carry only 50 aircraft — half the number aboard a Nimitz-class carrier and two-thirds the complement of a Kennedy-class ship. The proposed 50,000-ton carrier would also be markedly less efficient and far more prone to incapacitating battle damage than larger, sturdier carriers like the Nimitz.

Even so, the smaller carrier might be justified if its cost reflected its vastly reduced striking power and survivability. Not so.

The White House has budgeted Carter's carrier at $1.6 billion, a figure that reflects the added expense of designing a new ship type from scratch. Normally, design costs are recouped by repeated use of the same plans for additional ships in the class. The White House, however, proposes to build only one 50,000-ton carrier.

Add to the $1.6 billion in capital costs the estimated $650 million in fuel oil, fuel storage and tanker operations that would be required during the ship's first 13 years and the total — $2.2 billion — tops the $1.9 billion for capital and fuel costs of another, bigger nuclear-powered carrier.

Granted, the smaller carrier would save perhaps $300 million in the fiscal year 1980 budget, which, we assume, is why the president and his budget advisers favor it. But the smaller carrier is still a classic example of false economy.

The government should either build no new carrier period, or go with the Navy's Nimitz-class request.

Believe it or not

In its unquenchable thirst for knowledge, the federal government has funded the following studies:

— $2,500 for a study showing that fat people would rather dine at all-you-can-eat smorgasbords than order from a menu. (Dr. Albert Stunkard of the University of Pennsylvania; funded by the National Institute of Mental Health.)

— $2,360 to probe the sex life of female Costa Rican crickets. Explained grant recipient Christine Boake of Cornell University: "Well, if you apply human values to them, crickets are quite sexy little things. The males fight with each other and the one who comes out on top is the one that gets to mate the most. Male crickets often far outnumber receptive females. Under such circumstances, it's possible to speak of a female choice and ask what characteristics of the male are important in determining his chances of mating."

— $100,000 to study why hermit crabs pick one seashell over another to live in. The experiment includes crushing the shells the crabs inhabit and then forcing each creature to choose a new shell. (Dr. Kenneth van der Laan, University of California at Santa Barbara; funded by the National Science Foundation.)

RR's campaign boss

Ronald Reagan's 1976 campaign manager John Sears, was one of several political consultants prowling the halls at the Republican governor's conference, listening to the talk and sharing intelligence.

It is not yet clear, however, that Sears will be at the helm of a 1980 Reagan campaign. Here is a power struggle going on within the Reagan camp that could lead both Sears and another key 1976 Reagan aide, Charles Black, new political director of the Republican National Committee, to bolt to another candidate.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nevada, is expected to repeat his 1976 role as titular leader of the Reagan team, but it is not certain who will serve as campaign manager. Besides Sears and Black, at least two other Reagan associates are jockeying for position in the coming campaign. They are press spokesman Lyn Nofziger and public relations advisor Mike Deaver.

Sears, it is understood, will remain with Reagan only if given clear-cut authority to call the shots — as he did in 1976. A number of other candidates, including 1976 vice presidential nominee Robert Dole, are bidding for Sears' services, and if he can't run the Reagan operation he's likely to take charge of someone else's campaign.

COMMENTARY

The price is not right

by don graff

How does 75 cents for one orange sound? If not sufficiently outrageous, how about peaches at $1 per, melons at $8 and up, steaks at $10 a pound and up and up?

This does not happen to be the nightmarish shape of things to come in the American inflationary spiral, but the existing price structure in Japanese supermarkets.

It represents a problem in personal finances only incidentally for Americans, with their deflated dollars, and other foreign residents. These prices in yen equivalents must also be paid by Japanese homemakers who, although the national economy may be bloated with wealth, are generally no more flush individually than their counterparts in other industrial democracies.

There is at least a partial solution at hand to Japan's super-inflated food prices: Increased imports of U.S. agricultural products. The Japanese are not buying, however, at least not in the quantities desired by U.S. trade negotiators.

Very politely, mind you, but very firmly they continue to reject arguments for the lowering of long-standing barriers against agricultural imports which would have a moderating effect on both domestic food prices and the U.S. trade deficit.

The reason, in a word, is protectionism. If Japan's export-obsessed industries are zealously shielded from foreign competition in the home market — and they most definitely are — its agriculture is even more so. It is a situation which would appear to contradict the geographic and economic facts of the country.

Japanese numbering half the U.S. population are crowded into an area smaller than the state of Montana. Only 16 percent of their land is arable, which works out to about one-tenth of a productive acre per Japanese. Homegrown foodstuffs are thus a precious and high-priced commodity.

Logic would appear to dictate that Japan be a major food importer, paying the bill with proceeds from its massive industrial exports. But farming in Japan, as in other industrial nations, still makes for potent politics. Successive governments during the postwar decades in which Japan built itself into an industrial powerhouse have found it prudent to shelter domestic food producers, high-cost and less efficient though they may be.

It's also possible that giving the public a taste of foreign comestibles at decent prices could unleash a demand difficult to control. There is no doubt as to the popularity of U.S. products in the Japanese market. Recent shipments of Pacific Northwest cherries sold out at prices which would have shocked American shoppers, and the Japanese would have taken much more if entry had been allowed. Which is was not.

Tokyo limits food imports by an elaborate combination of quotas, distribution formalities involving a succession of middlemen and price markups. A bushel of U.S. wheat more than doubles in price as soon as it is unloaded in Japan.

Despite the barriers, Japan has long been a leading market for U.S. agriculture. Sales in 1977 came to $3.8 billion and should hit $4 billion this year. It could be much more.

But although consuming Japan may be willing, official Japan is still not buying.

Late students 'detained'

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

If Hansel and Gretel were to eat a gingerbread house in Pampa today, they would get detention hall as well as a belly-ache and a bad complexion.

Detention hall is one of the first steps taken in disciplining a student, according to Pampa High School Principal Paul Payne.

Discipline can start as a simple warning and progress to detention hall then to expulsion, which can vary in length.

Detention requires a student to spend an hour before or after the regular class schedule in a study-hall for a designated number of days. The number of days is decided according to the violation, which can vary from tardiness to disrupting classes.

Assistant Principal Andy Andrews has been given the power to determine the number of days that a student will spend in detention hall.

Payne said that the assistant principal tries to handle each case individually to be fair and consistent.

Detention hall is given after the student is late for the fourth time. Every tardy brings one more day of detention, except for habitual violators, said Payne.

He said that many students would deny that they deserve detention hall and could easily rationalize an excuse.

One student said that a cast on his leg slowed him down and caused him to be late.

A senior said that he had to stay for the study hall because of tardies caused by slow driving when snow and ice were on the roads.

One woman said that she talked a lot in class, and probably deserved detention hall.

Another student complained that people who have parking spaces can end up with detention hall. When a student finds someone in his space, he said, a choice of reporting the problem and possibly being late has to be weighed against parking in an empty space only to face being reported for that violation. He said a day in the study hall is given for those who park in another person's designated space.

A senior reported that she had never had detention hall. A young man, who said he has detention hall often, said that a teacher's mood resulted in some punishment.

Mr. Andrews said that he has no written guidelines for cases, except those involving tardies, because each situation is a little different.

He added that a prejudice in his decisions would be hard to find.

Mr. Payne said that Andrews has his job because he is dependable as well as open-minded. He said that he believes Mr. Andrews has done the best job possible.

One teacher said that Mr. Andrews improved the environment at the beginning of the first quarter while one student went as far as to say that detention hall is used as a weapon.

Utility refunds possible

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Energy sales involving a partially completed power plant in East Texas could cause three Texas electric companies to refund almost $20 million to their customers.

The three companies — Texas Electric Service Co., Texas Power & Light and Dallas Power & Light — contend the transactions between them over the Martin Lake plant near Henderson were in their customers' best interest.

The Texas Public Utility Commission staff says affiliate deals surrounding the lignite plant resulted in improper overcharges to some customers.

Company officials begin defending their action today in a commission hearing that could last several weeks.

The three companies are subsidiaries in the Texas Utilities Co. system. They provide electricity to approximately 4 million persons in North, Central, East and West Texas, including the cities of Fort Worth, Dallas, Arlington, Midland, Odessa, Wichita Falls and Big Spring.

Almost all transactions between the three companies and other affiliates were studied by the commission staff. Commissioners ordered an unprecedented investigation in October after staff attorneys and a hearing examiner said TESCO and TP&L acted improperly over the Martin Lake project.

TESCO sold electricity generated from its cheapest natural gas supply to TP&L. In exchange, TESCO acquired part ownership in the Martin Lake lignite plant near Henderson.

DP&L also bought an interest in the plant and lignite reserves from TP&L, but not in exchange for electricity. The first of four plant units are in operation. A third goes begins commercial generation this year and a fourth is scheduled to start in 1985.

John Bell, commission general counsel, says utility commission law on affiliate transactions requires that payments to one company cannot be higher than prices charged another.

Refinery walkout goes on

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) —

A six-week walkout continued here today at the Gulf Oil Co. refinery despite settlement of a contract between the company and striking office workers.

The latest picket lines were made up of members of the International Association of Machinists.

Office workers represented by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union went on strike Jan. 8, and their picket lines were honored by the 3,000 union workers at the refinery.

An agreement between the office workers and Gulf was reached Sunday, and the 150 members ratified it unanimously Monday afternoon.

Beer sizes could change

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas beer lovers would have three more can sizes from which to drink under a bill approved by the Senate on Monday.

Senators voted 29-1 to authorize the sale of beer in 7-ounce, 8-ounce and 16-ounce cans, which are now prohibited.

If the measure is approved by the House, it would take effect Jan. 1, 1980.

Sen. Gene Jones, the sponsor, told reporters Texas is one of only two states that don't allow beer to be sold in cans under 12 ounces.

"Some people like small beers," said Jones, D-Houston.

The bill also was written, he said, "to keep wholesalers from competing with retailers."

He noted, too, that an amendment had been accepted to exempt Shiner Beer, a small South Texas brewery, from a provision prohibiting "dock sales." In such sales, distributors sell beer by the keg from their warehouses. Shiner still could sell beer by the keg at the brewery.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, said this was an important part of Shiner's business.

An analysis of the bill shows it also would: —Prohibit manufacturers from selling directly to retailers.

—Require that beer in the new sizes be sold only in "retail packages" — such as 6-packs or 8-packs.

—Lock distributors into assigned territories.

—Allow retail beer sellers to acquire their supplies from any distributor in the state.

—Repeal the law that allows manufacturers to sell beer to private clubs.

In other action, the Senate approved and sent to the House bills that would:

—extend until Dec. 31, 1982, the time for the state to trade public school land for land of equal value.

—exempt the holder of a mixed beverage permit from posting bond if the permit holder has paid all taxes and fees on time for the previous 24 months.

—increase the fee for replacing lost license plates from $1 to $5, with half the money going to the county and half to the state.

—exempt non-profit water supply districts from the jurisdiction of the Public Utility Commission.

—abolish the Board of Landscape Architects and merge it with the Board of Architectural Examiners, which would increase its membership from six to nine.

Jury returns 9 indictments

Burglary, theft by check, and a rape charge, were three of the nine indictments returned by the 31st District Grand Jury which met Monday in the Gray County Courthouse.

Michael Dupre was charged with theft by check in the Dec. 12 purchase of a stereo from White's Auto. He was indicted, pleaded guilty in open court, and was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections by 31st District Court Judge Grainger McIlhenny. Dupre had reportedly been convicted of an earlier theft by check charge.

Charles Ballew and Dale Glenn Collins were indicted for the Jan. 23 burglary of a Rosewood Street residence.

Michael Dean Whisenhut, Jimmy Dale Kelley and Steven Timothy Wallin were indicted for a Feb. 5 burglary.

Brady Orval Helms and James Jackie Brown were indicted on charges of forgery for allegedly passing a bad check for $200.77.

Warren K. Mauney was indicted for theft by check of property from Pampa Travel for $250.

Wayne Blankenship was indicted on charges of rape in the alleged Feb. 7 aggravated assault of a female Pampa convenience store attendant.

Donald Ray Mason was indicted for robbery in the theft of cash from the person of Mrs. Marlene Myles.

Bill Craven was indicted for attempting to sell .033 ounces of marijuana on Feb. 5.

Houston Duane Woods was indicted for theft by taking in the fraudulent cashing of a check worth $200.77.

Survivors include her husband, Jack, of the home; two sons, Floyd Vance Robertson of Borger and Kelley Steiner of Irving; one sister, Beatrice Mart of Iowa; two brothers, Dawrell Rice of Fritch and Lawrence Rice of Fritch; and four grandsons.
 Memorials may be made to the Cancer Society.

Tisons on trial

YUMA, ARIZ. (AP) — Raymond and Ricky Tison face trial today, charged with first-degree murder, kidnapping, armed robbery and auto theft in the shotgun slayings of a Yuma Marine, his wife, infant son and niece.
 Raymond, 20, and Ricky, 19, already face 34-year sentences for breaking their father, Gary Tison, out of the Arizona State Prison on July 30, along with Randy Greenawalt.
 Greenawalt, 29, of Thornton, Colo., was convicted Friday of first-degree murder, kidnapping, robbery and car-theft in the killings of John F. Lyons, 24, his wife, Donelda, 24, their son, Christopher, 22 months, and niece, Teresa Tyson, 15, of Las Vegas, Nev.
 The victims were traveling from Yuma to visit relatives in Omaha, Neb., when they were ambushed Aug. 1 by the Tison gang near Quartzsite in southwest Arizona, investigators said.

 The gang allegedly fled in Lyons' car, which was abandoned near Flagstaff. The escape trail also includes Pagosa Springs, Colo., where the bodies of James and Margene Judge were found in November. The Amarillo, Texas, honeymooners apparently were shot for their van, and the surviving gang members face murder charges in connection with their deaths.
 The van was recovered Aug. 11 when the Tison gang attempted to run a roadblock near Casa Grande. Greenawalt and Raymond and Ricky Tison were captured but their brother, Donald, 20, was killed in a shootout with sheriff's deputies.
 Gary Tison, 42, fled into the desert but was found dead of exposure.

Washington gets help from farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protecting farmers, who have been blamed for more than $2 million in damage to the nation's capital, helped Washington through one of the worst snowstorms in the city's history.
 Farmers and their tractors assisted city police and hospitals in making emergency calls most of Monday.
 "We didn't do it because of all the damage they blamed us for," said Pacucah farmer David W. Sweeney. "We're doing it just because we're good people."
 Sweeney said farmers have driven their tractors to aid doctors and nurses to and from hospitals, delivered medical supplies and helped a pregnant woman reach the hospital and helped free a snowbound U.S. marshal.

 Washington was blanketed by a 22-inch snowfall Sunday night, the worst snowstorm since 1922.
 "We're just trying to help the city get through," added Herschel Wilson, a Dimmitt farmer, who added that the American Agriculture Movement headquarters have been getting calls for help "every minute to a minute and a half."

Oil group to meet

The Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Pampa County Club.
 James P. Grove IV, Assistant Specifications Counsel to the Railroad Commission of Texas, will discuss procedures for filing well classification requests under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.
 Special emphasis will be directed to stripper oil and gas wells which make up the bulk of the wells in the Panhandle field.

Police report

Mark Lehnick of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, 600 S. Russell St., reported the theft of 40 American flags from the building. Someone apparently gained entrance by breaking out a window.
 Police answered 49 calls in the 24 hour period ending at seven this morning.

Drug arrests made

Pampa police reported two drug related arrests last week in connection with the unlawful delivery of marijuana.
 William Craven of Perryton and Clay C. McMasters of Room 9, Best Western Motel, Pampa, were arrested for an alleged exchange of 033 ounces of marijuana.
 The sale allegedly took place Feb. 5.
 McMasters has been released under $1000 bond, charged with possession of a controlled substance. Craven, who was arrested in Perryton, was indicted Monday by the 31st District Grand Jury on a charge of unlawfully delivering a controlled substance.
 Craven is free under $2500 bond.

Motorcycle stolen

A Kawasaki motorcycle valued at $1400 was reported stolen from the residence of a Pampa man Monday evening.
 Robert Lindsey Curtis of 1035 N. Wells St. told police that someone evidently removed the doors to a metal shield behind

Weather Texas weather

By The Associated Press
 Drizzle and rain fell over most of the eastern half of Texas today as a Pacific cool front moved its way across the state.
 The cool front was expected to take the drizzle and rain eastward and out of the state by nightfall. Forecasts called for drizzle and rain and possibly some thunderstorm activity extending northward from the Lower Rio Grande Valley along the coastal bend and into Southeast Texas and into portions of East Texas.
 It was mostly clear in the western half of the state. Highs were expected to be in the 50s and 60s with a few readings in extreme Southwest Texas expected to reach into the 70s.
 Some mostly light rain fell during the night in southern sections of the state. Brownsville had the most, only .29 of an inch.
 Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 30s and 40s. Extremes ranged from 31 at Childress to 52 at El Paso.

National

Surprised by a fast-moving storm that dumped up to 2 feet of snow, the East today awaited an equally sudden thaw with temperatures that promised to feel positively sunny after weeks in the deep freeze.
 The aftermath of the storm, which approached blizzard conditions in some places as it raged from Virginia to Connecticut after burying the South on Sunday, was sometimes grim.
 Looters were arrested in Baltimore, Washington's Birthday sales were canceled, schools were closed, mass transit was paralyzed and major airports in Richmond, Washington, Philadelphia and New York were shut down for most of Monday.

WEATHER FORECAST by the National Weather Service calls for rain from the eastern Gulf through the Southeast and Midwest. Snow is expected for part of the Midwest and the upper Great Lakes. Rain is forecast from northern California to Washington while snow is expected in the Rockies. Seasonable temperatures are forecast for most areas.

4 more Iranian officers killed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed four more of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's generals by firing squad early today and said it would hound the ruler in exile until he could only find refuge in South Africa or Israel.
 Aides to Khomeini said Gen. Parviz Amin Afshar, former commander of the shah's Imperial Guard; Brig. Gen. Maunuchehr Malek, the infantry commander in Qazvin; Gen. Nematullah Motamedi, military governor of Qazvin, and Gen. Hossein Hamadani, chief of the SAVAK secret police in Kermanshah, were shot at 2 a.m.
 Their deaths brought to eight the number of generals executed by the new Islamic regime, and three more were killed by mobs. Sixteen more ex-officials have been reported condemned to death, and the roundup is continuing.
 Malek and Motamedi were held responsible for the bloody suppression of demonstrations against the shah in Qazvin, 90 miles northwest of Tehran, where scores were killed and tanks were used against the demonstrators.
 Last Thursday a firing squad executed Gen. Nematullah Nassiri, former national head of SAVAK, and three other top military commanders on a rooftop at Khomeini's headquarters.
 In addition to the condemned in the upper echelons, two policemen were executed Monday in the central city of Najafabad for killing demonstrators in anti-shah riots.
 Khomeini was reported to have sent word last week to the shah's host, King Hassan of Morocco, that he would demand the extradition of the monarch to face trial for "crimes against the Iranian people." The king told reporters in Paris he would reject any such request because Morocco and Iran have no extradition treaty.
 The new Foreign Ministry announced today it had sent Hassan a message saying: "We will continue our efforts for the extradition and will force the shah into a situation in which he can go only to Johannesburg or Tel Aviv."
 The shah's father, Reza Shah, died in exile in South Africa, and the son was one of South Africa's chief suppliers of oil. He was also Israel's chief supplier of oil, defying the boycott of his fellow Moslems, the Arabs.
 The last royal government headed by Shahpour Bakhtiari said no more Iranian oil would go to Israel, and on Sunday the new government broke all relations with the Jewish nation and expelled all Israeli officials and government representatives from the country. On Monday, the government turned over the Israeli Embassy to Yasser Arafat, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, who declared it the world's first "embassy of Palestine."
 Khomeini, the 78-year-old Shiite Moslem leader of the year-long revolt that drove the shah from Iran Jan. 16, vowed in a broadcast today to continue his revolution "until the hands of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain are cut from Iran."
 In a radio address on the reopening of schools, he said the people must "strive and water the tree of freedom of the country. You will be liable if you fall short. Today the people of Iran, without any leaning toward left or right, have completed an uprising, and the traitors are waiting to demolish you."
 The U.S. Consulate in Tabriz was set afire on Monday, the radio station in the northwestern city reported. U.S. sources said Michael Metrinko, the only American assigned to the consulate, returned to Tehran on Sunday.

Foster Whaley's Capitol Comments

"No man's life, liberty or property is safe while the legislature is in session," Surrogates Court, New York, 1866.
 This is the thought that hit me this week when I saw on the House Daily Report that the 1,000th House bill had been introduced in this session of the Legislature. Rep. Lanell Cofer, District 33-0, introduced the 1,000th bill. The total number has now risen to 1,050 bills. It is estimated that 4,000 bills will be introduced before the session ends.
 In spite of all the bad bills that are dropped in the hopper there is some good legislation that is introduced. There are a number of bills that deal with the matter of foreign investments in our agricultural land. Most of these bills will come before the Agriculture Committee of which I am a member. Our problem will be selecting the bills that will best accomplish the objective of keeping foreign interests from buying up all of our prime land. Our trade deficits have run over $25 billion during the last two or three years. As these billions build up in foreign countries, they create a situation whereby the foreigners are looking for good investments in land. So the result is good land is being bought up as a result of our trade deficit.
 Few people realize that the government of Japan buys our wheat for an initial cost of around $3 per bushel after the expense of transporting it comes to $9 per bushel. The farmer that produced the wheat had a loss while the Government of Japan made a huge profit. And the U.S. is suffering seven to eight billion dollar trade deficits with Japan.
 There is an import duty on wheat going into the European Common Market of over $3.50 a bushel. This represents 120 percent of the initial cost of what the U.S. Farmer received for the bushel. Yet, we have an import duty on one of their Volkswagens of only 3 percent of the wholesale cost on the other side of the ocean.
 After looking at these figures, it isn't hard to see why they are buying up our prime land.
 I'm willing to do whatever can be done to help market Texas products in foreign markets. But this problem is pretty much in the hands of the Federal Government since it is the one that does the trade negotiation. This country needs to work on getting the price up a great deal more than increasing the volume of trade.
 The government organization committee deals with the Sunset Legislation. We have 27 state agencies and boards to act on this session. The State Bar is the first one we have heard testimony from. This will be before the entire committee, then to the floor of the House. Here is where the work is done. A vote in committee is worth as much as 25 votes on the House floor. A lot of lawmakers that seldom get on the floor to debate the merits of the bill quietly bury what they think are bad bills and let those that they think are good ones proceed through the committee system to the House floor.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I was to meet a friend in a store so we could shop together. I got there a little early and walked around checking prices. I had been in the store often, and even paid my utility bills there. My friend was late, so I walked out to see if perhaps she had misunderstood and was waiting for me outside.

To my surprise, the store manager followed me and made me go back into the store and empty my purse out on the counter! My knees started to shake and my heart was pounding and I started to cry. It was the most humiliating experience of my life.

After the manager saw that I had taken nothing, he just said, "Sorry." Then he walked away.

It still brings a tear to my eye and a lump to my throat when I think of it. I'm a six-time grandma in my 50s and it hurt me to be taken for a thief.

My neighbor tells me that if a person is searched for shoplifting and is found to be innocent, she can sue the store for false arrest. Is that right?

MINNEAPOLIS STAR READER

DEAR READER: You can't sue for false arrest unless you've been arrested. But if you're wrongfully accused of shoplifting you should see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is of a highly confidential nature, and I would feel much more comfortable writing to you in care of a post office box than my hometown newspaper.

If this can be done, will you kindly publish your P.O. Box number? Thank you

SMALL TOWN MAN WITH BIG PROBLEMS

DEAR MAN: Yes. It's P.O. Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently taken a job which requires me to work very close to a dentist. (Sometimes our faces are only a few inches apart, and that's close!)

My first day on the job I noticed that my boss must have had onions or garlic for breakfast. Whew! I figured, "Well, that can happen to anybody once in a while."

After lunch there was no improvement. In fact, it was worse! I don't know where he goes for lunch, but he comes back smelling like a delicatessen.

This dentist's offices are in one of the best professional buildings in town and his patients are well-to-do and very particular. I can't understand why one of them doesn't tell him. If I were a patient, I surely would, but I only work here.

Any suggestions? I don't know how much longer I can take this. And I'd look awfully silly working with a gas mask, or a clothespin on my nose.

DENTIST'S ASSISTANT

DEAR ASSISTANT: Speak up! He may appreciate it. (P.S. If he doesn't, your next job has got to be better!)

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it necessary for middle-aged women to get big stomachs and all out of shape? I am 50 years old and have begun to notice how women my age look. I am 5 foot 3 and weigh 130 pounds. I am small-boned and think I'm about 15 pounds overweight. I have been trying but it seems impossible to lose these pounds.

I had a gall bladder operation five months ago. I walk about two miles a day, but I'm afraid to try any other exercise. I have heard women gain weight during and after the menopause. Is this true?

DEAR READER — I'm afraid it's true that women do tend to gain at the time of the menopause and thereafter, but that doesn't mean that you have to. Of course, having recently had abdominal surgery and not having been able to do any abdominal exercises since then would cause you difficulty in keeping your waist measurements down.

I'm pleased to see that you realize that whether a person has excess fat depends upon both how many calories he eats and how many he uses. That's why I like to see a sensible diet combined with a sensible exercise program to lose fat.

Walking two miles a day, for a woman of your weight, uses less than 120 calories, but if you multiply those times 365 days a year, that's equivalent to the calories in 12 pounds of fat a year.

I'm reluctant to tell you you should start doing abdominal exercises to tighten up your abdominal muscles, because I don't know about the status of your recovery. However, I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle.

Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue includes exercises that could be used to help reduce the girth.

You might discuss this with your family doctor who is familiar with your surgery. At the very least, I'm sure that he will agree that you can lie on your back and voluntarily contract your abdominal muscles, lower and upper. Contracting and relaxing will work the abdominal muscles without putting them under excess load. This is another way people with back trouble can also help to strengthen their abdominal muscles.

If you're permitted to do leg lift exercises, which are the ones that work for the lower abdomen, you might lie on your back, bend your knees as you draw your heels toward the buttocks, at the same time lifting your knees up so you are literally shortening the length of your legs. Then push your feet up and out as you straighten your knees. As you do this, be sure to contract the lower abdominal muscles. This way you don't have any jerky leverage against the spine or abdominal muscles while working the lower muscles that contribute to the "lower pot."

Try to increase your walking. Take advantage of every opportunity you have to be physically active. It's the accumulation of repeated submaximal exercises that helps to use calories during the day.

DEAR POLLY — Thank you for the newspaper clipper and it could not have come at a better time. I was letting the hems down on some drapes and had misplaced the gadget I usually use for ripping and there on the table was the clipper. I figured that if it could cut paper why not thread and found it did a better job than the gadget made for such use.

Student examines teen pregnancy

(Editor's note: What do teenagers themselves think about the soaring pregnancy rate in their segment of the population?)

By Jean LaSalle

Do you think teen-age pregnancies are a rarity? If you do, think again.

It is estimated that more than one million American teen-agers will become pregnant this year.

result in pregnancy, yet the majority of teen-agers remain sexually active. There are many reasons for their behavior.

In 1976, nearly 64,000 teen-agers became pregnant in New York State alone. Of them, 43 percent had their babies out of wedlock.

Many people - especially distraught parents - are asking, "Why?" As a teen-ager myself - though not a pregnant one - I think I can answer this question.

Most teen-agers realize that sexual intercourse may have a baby? Oh, I know I'm not married, but who needs to be these days? My 'old man' was a bit upset at first, but as soon as my parents saw Joshua they decided to adopt him themselves.

I wondered what would happen when Joshua grew up and found out his "sister" was really his mother. But I'll never find out because Joshua died when he was about a month old. His young mother doesn't know why. Did it have anything to do with the fact that she was only 16 when she had him?

After the funeral, she came back to school much sobered. Why did it take her son's death to make her realize what she had done? Before the year is over, there will probably be many more Joshuas.

Teen-age pregnancies are a reality, not a rarity. They shouldn't be. As much as I wish for a solution to this problem, I don't think there is just one solution that would work for all girls. A little more love, respect and attention at home might help some, but not others.

Perhaps there will be fewer teen mothers only when more girls realize what it means to bring a child into the world. Until then, I can only feel sorry for all the little Joshuas.

Facts about teen pregnancy

Half of all U.S. teen-agers are sexually active. More than 1 million girls under 30 get pregnant each year. Some are only in the fifth grade.

Six out of 10 pregnant girls carry their babies to delivery; that adds up to 600,000 babies born annually to girls under 20. The rest have abortions or miscarriages.

The teen-agers who will become parents in the next 24 hours would fill an average high school.

One out of five deliveries in the United States today is to a teen-ager. Most teen-agers say they are not ready for parenthood. Yet only one out of five teens who does not want to become pregnant uses any method of birth control.

Pregnancy is the most common reason for girls dropping out of school. They then become less likely than their peers to get jobs and more likely to become dependent on welfare.

If pregnant teen-agers marry the fathers of their children, they run a 25-percent risk of ending up in the divorce courts.

Teen-age mothers and their babies have more medical problems than the average.

As I write, a song called "Macho Man" is playing on the radio. The song has probably not caused too many pregnancies by itself, but the ideas behind it - and behind many other songs, movies and television shows - have.

"Macho" is the thing now. I asked several guys what "macho" means to them. They never gave a clear answer, but sex was always involved.

Sex is no longer hushed up. In fact, I know quite a few kids who are downright proud to talk of "what I got last night." And they're not all guys.

Most of these kids think having sex with a girlfriend or boyfriend will raise their status with their peers. They also know it will upset their parents.

I know one girl who got pregnant for exactly that reason.

"My mother's too strict," she told me. "She still thinks I'm nine years old. I'll show her I'm a woman!"

She got pregnant - just like a woman. But I think it was more than she - and so many other teen-age girls - bargained for. Shortly after she found she was pregnant, she began to realize the enormity of what she had done. She decided to have the baby aborted.

It would be nice to be able to say that it worked out fine and that now she is back to being a happy, normal teen-ager. But I can't. There were no physical ill-effects, but emotionally this girl has suffered tremendously. Her relationship with her mother has not improved.

There is something else about this girl: She was the third unwed pregnant teen-ager in her family. You'd think this would tell her parents something, but it obviously has not.

This girl and many others like her do not get the love and respect they need at home. They go out to get substitutes for it - any way they can. Being wanted sexually by a boy is their mistaken idea of "love" and "respect."

Another reason for increased teen-age pregnancy is that some kids do not see anything wrong with it.

A girl in one of my classes last year seemed to be gaining weight at an alarming rate. Within a short time, she came right out and admitted to all and sundry that she was going to have a baby.

A few months later, she was missing from class for a week or so. She came back beautifully slender and equipped with all sorts of information about "my son." A little while later, there were even pictures to pass around.

I asked her if she was embarrassed. Her answer shows how a lot of girls feel: "Good heavens, why? What's embarrassing about

Youth walks to safety after light plane crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 11-year-old boy with a broken hand trudged two miles to safety through waist-deep snow and ice after surviving a plane crash in the rugged San Gabriel Mountains, authorities said.

A female survivor — who tried to make the trek but fell and was unable to continue — later died, authorities said.

The boy, Norman Ollestad Jr. of Malibu, walked into the Chapman Ranch Monday afternoon and said he believed his father, Norman Sr., was dead in the snowbound wreckage of a single-engine Cessna 172, along with flying instructor Bob Arnold, 27, of Mar Vista.

"He just walked in," said Mount Baldy Fire Department spokesman Dale Barwick.

"The plane must be about 2,000 feet above and three-quarters of a mile away from the ranch the way the crow flies, but on foot it's at least two miles. Some of those rock faces are sheer cliffs."

Young Ollestad told authorities that the woman, tentatively identified as Sandra Ollestad, also survived the crash but slipped on an ice chute and was unable to continue.

"He (the boy) said he had to abandon her, so he covered her with leaves and twigs in an attempt to keep her from freezing to death," said San Bernardino County Sheriff's Sgt. Pat Klootwyk. Officials said she may have died of exposure in the 30-degree temperatures.

Rescuers found the woman's body but still had not located the plane in the San Gabriel Mountains, 45 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. The search was to resume today.

The boy was in good condition after treatment, said nursing supervisor Joanne Tarbell at the San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

"He has a broken hand and contusions and abrasions here, there and everywhere, but he's doing fine," she said. "His mother is here, and he's not in shock — not in medical terms, but maybe emotionally."

A commercial airline pilot flying north of Palm Springs picked up emergency signals from the downed plane, said Col. Steward Hall of the Civil Air Patrol. He said the plane, which was equipped with a radar transponder, disappeared from radar screens at 7:40 a.m.

The plane was bound for Big Bear — 50 miles east of the crash site.

Mengden's allies won't back removal proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Walter Mengden found Monday that even his legislative allies would not back his proposal to give Texas governors the power to remove appointees to state commissions.

"As a long-standing backer of Mengden bills, this one worries me a little bit," Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, told Mengden, R-Houston.

Traeger and members of the Senate State Affairs Committee sent Mengden's proposal (SJR) to a subcommittee.

"Right now the governor's appointees to state boards and commissions serve six-year terms, once they are confirmed," Mengden said. "They function autonomously and do not answer to the governor, the Legislature or anyone else."

He said he has introduced similar legislation the past two lawmaking sessions and that the constitutional amendment would not affect current appointees. Republican Gov. Bill Clement's favors such removal powers.

"Would this be called a patronage bill?" Traeger asked.

"No," the sponsor said.

Chairman Bill Moore, D-Bryan, asked what would happen if a Democrat were elected.

"We might have a Democratic governor in Texas one day and the Democrat might fire the appointees of Gov. Clement's," Moore said.

"The reason this safeguard (against removal) was put in the 1876 state Constitution was to protect us from that sort of situation," Moore added. "I think you're treading on dangerous grounds."

Gubernatorial appointees usually serve six-year terms upon Senate confirmation and cannot be removed. Governors serving four-year terms can affect state board policies for six years after leaving office by making "eleventh hour" appointments.

"Is it going to be sent to the subcommittee, or to a subcommittee to be worked on for Senate review?" Mengden asked.

"We don't have a standing subcommittee," Moore said. "I could let you name the subcommittee, but the result would be the same."

Traeger and Sens. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, and Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, were named to the subcommittee.

In other matters, the committee sent to the Senate a bill to retain the Board of Barber Examiners. The Texas Sunset Advisory Commission has recommended the board be abolished.

"This was written by the cosmetologists and the barber board," said Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso. "I think we need a barber board. I think the consumers of Texas need a barber board."

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, a member of the commission, said he would oppose the bill on the Senate floor.

Doggett won approval for his bill to raise the mandatory state retirement age from 65 to 70, to comply with federal law. The bill was amended to exclude state colleges and universities.

"The island of the hopeless"

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The 30,000 refugees who fled Vietnam and resettled on Pulau Bidong call the Malaysia island Cu Lao Vo Vong — "the island of the hopeless."

In a copyright story Monday in the Minneapolis Star, Stormi Greener reported what she saw and heard and photographed during a six-day assignment in Pulau Bidong last month.

The photojournalist, who prefers use of her first name only, wrote that the refugees on Pulau Bidong are among thousands who fled their homeland in boats. Those who survive the journey often are settled on Malaysian islands, 250 miles from the Vietnamese coast.

Malaysians look on the Vietnamese as illegal immigrants and don't want them in their country. Prime Minister Datuk Hussein Onn has said his government already has more than 50,000 refugees and no other "boat people" can come ashore.

A baby lay on a piece of cardboard atop a bed which had no mattress. His mother spooned sugar water into his mouth. The baby, about a year old, was so weak he couldn't lift his arms or move his head. His mother said he had come down with diarrhea three days after arriving on the island.

The baby died the next morning and his parents buried him on a small hill. After filling the shallow grave they gave a little bow, their hands cupped in front of their faces.

On another bed in the same tent where the baby died lay a youth, about 19. He was too weak to hold his head up. His skin hung in folds. His ribs and stomach were sunken, his arms like a skeleton. A brother said the young man had meningitis and could be "cured" only in the United States.

The photographer had traveled by boat to Pulau Bidong, 18 miles off the Malaysian coast. The island, one mile wide and just a bit longer, was uninhabited until last July. It is so steep and rocky that all 30,000 refugees live on 85 acres near the beaches.

The first refugees to come to the island built huts surrounding the beach. Those who arrived later were forced onto high ground and use the hill above them as an open sewer. When it rains, human waste drains downhill in troughs, through the living areas and past the huts of the first arrivals.

Implant operation goes well

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A Missouri man who received a new heart in an implant operation three days ago is sore but well, according to officials at Groote Schuur Hospital.

Hospital officials said Rick Anderson, 26, of Smithville, Mo., was progressing well.

Anderson was told more than a year ago he had 18 months to live. His long wait for a donor ended Friday night when the family of a suicide victim donated a heart. Dr. Christiana Barnard placed the heart next to Anderson's diseased heart in what is known as a "piggyback operation."

Mrs. Cathy Anderson said her husband had pains where the incision was made but otherwise was in good health and eating. She spent four hours at the hospital Sunday watching him through a glass window and talking with him through an intercom.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is requiring Clorox Co. to put new warning labels on Soft Scrub cleanser, saying the product might scratch surfaces.

The Oakland, Calif., company said Monday the FTC's action will not cause substantial changes in a warning that already appears on the product.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have what it takes to get your points across today. Unfortunately, you may waste your pitch on the wrong person.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's nice to help out people in need. However, don't do so at the expense of breaking a promise SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A misunderstanding could put a damper on what otherwise would be a good day. Be extra-careful what you say and to whom you say it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'd be wise today to concentrate on areas you can play solo, or pals may draw you into activities that overtax your finances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have the ability today to turn little into much. Be extremely careful, however, that you don't attempt to do so by being too domineering.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's an excellent day for projects that pique your imagination. Inviting another aboard, however, will mess things up.

Sycamores displaced by No. 1 UCLA

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Three months ago, Bill Hodges of Indiana State would have jumped at being the No. 2 college basketball team in the country, but now he's having second thoughts — like being No. 1 again.
Hodges, the first-year coach who has guided Indiana State to a 24-0 record this season and

No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press poll last week, saw his Sycamores fall to No. 2 Monday, trailing frontrunner UCLA by only five points.
"If you asked me before the season if I'd have taken the No. 2 ranking now, I would have said: 'Super, I'll take it,'" Hodges said from Des Moines, Iowa, where his team is scheduled to meet Drake tonight.
But Hodges wasn't singing the same tune Monday.

UCLA, runner-up by six points last week, outpooled Indiana State 1,151 points to 1,146 and took over the No. 1 spot Monday. The Sycamores held a 37-23 first-place vote edge in balloting by a national panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters.
"The polls are good in that they get in the newspapers day after day and increase fan appeal but more weight should be placed on the number of No. 1 votes," Hodges said.

"There's no way a team should be No. 2 after getting almost twice as many first-place votes. I'm not saying I'm not happy under the present situation. We've got a good schedule and you don't win 24 straight without deserving a high ranking."
Although it may be one place too low for Bill Hodges.

UCLA, 20-3, and Indiana State were named on all of the ballots. The Bruins, who nipped Arizona State 85-83 and crushed Arizona 110-86 last week, were tabbed no lower than fourth. The Sycamores, who blasted West Texas State 100-75 and struggled past Southern Illinois 69-68, were ranked as low as seventh by one voter.
Notre Dame and North Carolina maintained the No.

and No. 4 positions after easy victories. The Irish, 19-3, collected 1,073 points following triumphs over Manhattan and West Virginia last week, while the Tar Heels, 20-4, received 978 points after beating William & Mary and Virginia.
Southeastern Conference leader Louisiana State, 886 points, moved up one spot into fifth place, ahead of Duke. The Blue Devils, No. 5 last week, received 865 points following impressive victories over North Carolina State and Louisville and a 70-68 setback to Maryland.

Michigan State, 842 points, jumped into the No. 7 position, up one place, ahead of Syracuse, which fell from seventh to No. 8 with 814 points.
Marquette, No. 10 last week, moved into ninth place with 586 points while Arkansas rounded out the Top 10 with 601 points — one more point than Southwest Conference rival Texas.

Iowa, No. 14 last week, jumped to 12th, followed by Louisville, Ohio State, Temple, Detroit, Georgetown, Purdue, Vanderbilt and DePaul, the only newcomers to the Top 20.
Alabama, No. 20 last week, was the only team to drop out of the Top 20.

Snow stops events

By The Associated Press
College basketball, hockey, horse racing, track soccer, tennis and boxing were all affected by Monday's storm that left much of the Eastern seaboard under a foot or more of snow.

The storm forced the postponement of the scheduled basketball game between 15th-ranked Temple and Rider at Lawrenceville, N.J. Other contests affected included Furman at VMI, Catholic U. at Seton Hall and Randolph-Macon at Navy.

In addition, tonight's Atlantic Coast Conference game between Maryland and Wake Forest at Greensboro, N.C., was put off until Wednesday night.

Aqueduct, Bowie, Keystone, Penn National and Waterford Park all canceled Monday's racing cards. Bowie and Keystone will also be shut down today.

Bowie's track and parking lots were buried under two feet of snow, forcing cancellation of the $35,000 General George Stakes for the first time.

Also wiped out was Monday night's harness card at Roosevelt Raceway in the New York City suburb of Westbury.

The American Hockey League had to postpone Monday night's scheduled game between the Maine Mariners and Hershey Bears in Portland when the Bears were unable to get out of Pennsylvania.

The Metropolitan Intercollegiate Track and Field Championships at Princeton University were put off until today and the Philadelphia Fever postponed Monday night's Major Indoor Soccer League game with the New York Arrows.

The semifinals of a national indoor junior tennis tournament at Port Washington, N.Y., were put off until today and today's press conference for World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes at a New York hotel was pushed back until Friday.

The weather problems were not confined to the eastern U.S. All scheduled English Cup soccer games were postponed because of ice and snow while in Scotland, the Scottish Cup game between Inverness Thistle and Falkirk was put off — for the 27th time.

And Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog spent 25 hours on planes and in airports traveling from Kansas City to the Royals' spring training camp in Fort Myers, Fla.

Miles named player of week

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mercer's Robert Miles has been named the Trans America Athletic Conference's basketball player of the week for his 59-point, 33-rebound effort in three games.

Miles, a 6-foot-8 center, hit 26 of 44 field goal shots and seven of 12 free throws as Mercer beat Southern Mississippi 101-78 and Georgia Southern 84-78 and lost to Middle Tennessee 62-61.

The Bears are 17-5 for the season. The far-flung conference's team of the week for the fourth time is Northeast Louisiana, which has a 19-4 record, including 16 straight victories.

Haesle wins at Amarillo

AMARILLO — David Haesle of Pampa won the men's novice division at the Fourth Annual Top O' Texas Racquetball Classic held over the weekend at the Amarillo YMCA. Haesle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Haesle of Pampa and a senior at Pampa High School, defeated a contestant from Altus, Okla., in the championship match.

A pair of ladies from Pampa also brought home trophies from the tournament. Marilyn Trolinger finished second in the women's B division, while Candy Smith took the consolation prize in women's B play.

Bi-districts here Monday

Panhandle and Phillips have joined Groom and Allison to make Monday night a double header in girls bi-district playoff action at Harvester Field House.

Pampa High Athletic Director Ed Lehnick said Wednesday the Pantherettes and Lady Blackhaws have decided to settle their bi-district quarrel at 8:30 Monday in Pampa. Groom and Allison have moved their game up to a 7 p.m. starting time, instead of 7:30 as originally planned.

SPECTACULAR BID, with Ronnie Franklin in the saddle, breezed to an 8½-length win in the $59,800 Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park Monday. The 3-year-old colt, the early Kentucky Derby favorite, was an overwhelming favorite of the betting crowd, paying only $2.20 to win. (AP Laserphoto)

Spectacular bid odds-on favorite

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Spectacular Bid has his sights set on the Florida Derby March 6 and later the Kentucky Derby after handily winning the $59,800 Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park.

The 3-year-old grey colt showed Monday why he is an odds-on favorite to win the Triple Crown this year after finishing 8½ lengths in front of runner-up Lot O'Gold.

"It was real easy," said jockey Ronnie Franklin, who guided his mount over 11-16 miles in 1:41.1-5 — one second off the track record. "The further he goes, the better he gets."

As a 2-year-old, Spectacular Bid was the 1978 champion and his first time out as a 3-year-old he took the Hutcheson Stakes at Gulfstream earlier this month.

Lot O'Gold also finished second in that seven-furlong race, by 3¾ lengths. Bishop's Choice was third, one length behind Lot O'Gold, with Rivalero another length back in the six-horse Fountain of Youth field of 3-year-olds. Then came Duke of Gansvoort and Medaille D'Or, Canada's 2-year-old champion last year, a distant last.

The winner was such a betting favorite with the crowd of 20,463 that there was a minus place pool of $20,602. There was no show betting. Spectacular Bid paid $2.20 and $2.10. Lot O'Gold returned $2.10 to place.

Owned by the Hawksworth Farm, Spectacular Bid is the son of Bold Bidder. He has won seven in a row, two this year, and all of them stakes.

TCU's basketball coach resigns

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Under fire from several of his own players who claimed he was too strict and doomed to the Southwest Conference cellar for the second straight year, Texas Christian basketball coach Tim Somerville resigned Monday.

Somerville had a record of 10-40 during two seasons at TCU. He was promoted from assistant coach to take over the program in 1977 when former coach Johnny Swaim resigned four days before the 1977-78 season opened.

A university spokesman who asked not to be identified said Somerville, 32, resigned because "He felt in two short years here he was not able to recruit the type of players he wanted for his highly disciplined type of situation. He was looking for the very disciplined type individual."

TCU Athletic Director Frank

Windegger offered only a one-year contract, and Somerville, whose record this year so far is 6-18 overall and 1-13 against Southwest Conference opponents, wanted more, according to a TCU spokesman. By contrast, TCU's football coach, F.A. Dry, recently won a five-year contract.

The basketball coach became embroiled in disputes with some of his players, who took various grievances, mainly involving disciplinary policies, to local newspapers two weeks ago. However, Somerville and the players said later the problems were resolved, and TCU was doing better in recent games.

TCU will begin a search for a new basketball coach as soon as the current season ends, Windigger said.

Somerville has indicated he wanted to stay in coaching, but did not have a specific job lined up, a school official said. Somerville attended a sports media luncheon Monday but gave no hint of his impending resignation.

In the 1977-78 season, Somerville's team posted a 4-22 record during the 1977-78 season, an improvement over the previous season, when the Horned Frogs were 3-23.

Title IX could weaken football

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Government anti-sex-discrimination guidelines could lead to the disbanding or reduction of college football programs, says Barbara S. Uehling, chancellor of the University of Missouri.

Though the preamble to HEW Secretary Joseph Califano's interpretation of the anti-discrimination law hints at an exemption for football, Uehling said no specific exemption is spelled out.

When the Health, Education and Welfare secretary's interpretations were announced in December, they were widely believed to create an exemption for football from the equal-spending rules.

"Some people have interpreted it that way, but it doesn't read that way to me," Uehling said Monday night. "I can tell you that the NCAA is not interpreting it that way. And my contacts at other Big Eight institutions have suggested the same thing."

Uehling, the first woman chancellor of the University of Missouri, said she expected other college leaders to issue statements attacking the guidelines.

"I think others are concerned about this too. They just haven't gotten mobilized yet," Uehling said.

Uehling sent a letter Monday to David S. Tadel, director of HEW's civil rights office in Washington, complaining that the federal agency's most recent interpretation of the law, known as Title IX, remains an "unwarranted burden" that "is not in the best interests of either men or women."

HEW only suggests in its interpretation of the law that consideration might be given in determining whether a school has complied to differences in expenditures in men's and women's sports.

"It does not specifically, within the body of the guidelines, exclude revenue from the sports," Uehling said. "Revenue-producing sports are not specifically spelled out. The criteria by which exceptions are to be made are not very specifically spelled out. The interpretations would be left to teams which would visit campuses," she said.

"It's a possibility football would not be exempted by a particular team at a particular site."

Uehling sent copies of the HEW letter to Missouri's congressional delegation, asking for its support. She suggested HEW adopt an earlier interpretation which granted football specific exemption from the equal funding guidelines.

"This institution is committed to the goal of providing equal opportunities for its women students in all of its educational programs," she wrote. "But it strenuously protests the unwarranted burden of equalizing expenditures for men and women in intercollegiate athletics on either a per capita or aggregate basis."

The chancellor said it will cost the University of Missouri's Columbia campus $400,000 in direct costs to comply with the guidelines if football is not exempted. Even with an exemption, the cost would be between $250,000 and $300,000 a year, she said. The school budgeted $500,000 for women's athletics this year, up from $15,000 just five years ago.

The dragon that swallowed the sun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next Monday, over North America, a giant dragon will seize the sun in its colossal jaws and try to devour it in a mighty battle across the sky.

That, at least, is what the ancient Chinese thought was happening in an eclipse of the sun — a struggle between light and darkness.

They banged gongs, shouted, shot off rockets and firecrackers, and generally raised a big commotion to scare the beast away.

And it worked. The dragon always released its bite on the sun.

Although there may not be a lot of gong clanging this time, the latest eclipse should attract some attention as sunlight fades and a subdued hue settles across the land.

The event takes on added significance because it is the last total eclipse visible in North America this century. It will be 2017 before the moon's shadow again totally blocks view of the sun from this continent.

Solar eclipses occur when the moon lines up between the Earth and the sun on the same plane. The moon blocks out some sunlight and casts shadows upon the earth.

To those in the deepest shadow, the moon seems to cover the sun. Actually, the sun's diameter is 400 times greater than the moon's, but the moon is far closer — producing the illusion.

Practically all of North America will experience at least a partial eclipse, with a portion of the sun's disk covered over. And over parts of the Northwest and Canada, the whole sun will be obscured because they lie along the narrow path the moon's shadow will follow.

The closer a person is to this path of totality, the greater the portion of the sun that will be covered at maximum eclipse. For example, in Bismarck, N.D., 99 percent of the sun will be hidden, compared with 61 percent in New York City and 32 percent in Miami.

The eclipse will begin at about sunrise on the West Coast and about mid-morning in the East. It should last about two and one-half hours.

The moon's shadow, about 170 miles wide, will race eastward at 1,700 miles per hour from northern Oregon and southern Washington across northern Idaho and central Montana. It then will swing northeastward across northwestern North Dakota, into Canada and onward through Greenland.

A potential hazard posed by this and any eclipse is eye damage from staring directly at the sun. The American Medical Association, the American Association of Ophthalmology (AAO) and others concerned with eye problems are warning people to be careful.

All warn against viewing the eclipse with the naked eye. And it also is not safe to use sunglasses, smoked glass, photographic film or negatives, camera filters or other devices, even in combination.

Those who have used such things in the past and escaped injury were just plain lucky.

says AAO President Dr. Whitney G. Sampson, of Houston.

Sampson says that when a person looks at the sun, the eye focuses light on the retina, the sensitive layer of cells in the back of the eyeball. These intense rays "cook" part of the retina, causing permanent, incurable damage. And because the retina is insensitive to pain, a person can't tell when the damage is taking place.

The experts say the best way to watch the eclipse is indirectly, using a simple pinhole projector.

A projector is made using a shoe box or two sheets of stiff, white paper. Poke a pin or pencil hole in one end of the box or one sheet of paper.

Standing with your back to the sun, focus light through the hole onto the other end of the box or other sheet of paper. When using papers, the size and focus of the image may be changed by altering the distance between the sheets.

Scientists using much more sophisticated devices than these also will be observing the eclipse. The National Science Foundation is coordinating the work of hundreds of researchers, including those from 20 universities, who will position themselves along the path of totality.

With the glare of the sun blocked out by the moon, scientists can study the sun's corona, or outermost atmosphere, mapping its density, cataloging composition and looking at radio emissions. This eclipse will not imperil these scientists as the earliest recorded one did the royal Chinese astronomers, Hi and Ho.

According to historical accounts, the eclipse on Oct. 22, 2137 B.C. undid Hi and Ho when they drank too much wine and failed to perform their duties of beating drums and shooting arrows to drive the dragon away.

Because of the confusion that prevailed, Emperor Chung K'ang ordered Hi and Ho beheaded.

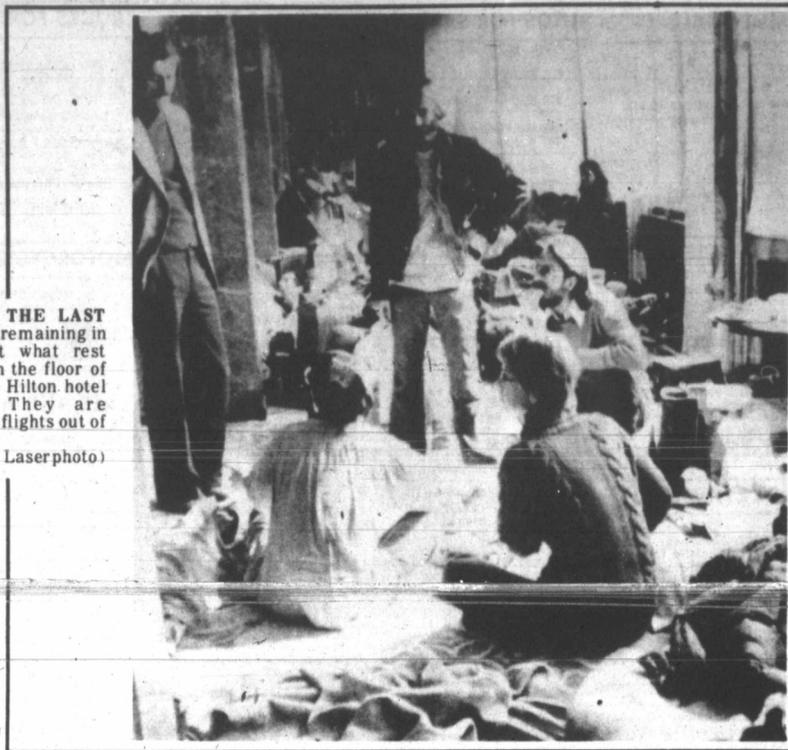

The following is a list of cities and the maximum amount sun that will be covered at each location. Other communities in each general vicinity will see a similar partial eclipse.

Juneau, Alaska, 86 percent; Eugene, Ore., 99; San Francisco, 86; Los Angeles, 78; Boise, Idaho, 98; Salt Lake City, 92; Phoenix, Ariz., 75; Cheyenne, Wyo., 90; Denver, 88; Albuquerque, N.M., 78; Sioux Falls, S.D., 90 percent; Omaha, Neb., 85; Tulsa, Okla., 74; Houston, 58; Minneapolis, Minn., 91; St. Louis, 75; New Orleans, 54; Milwaukee, Wis., 82; Chicago, 79; Detroit, 75; Memphis, 66; Mobile, Ala., 53; Cleveland, Ohio, 72; Buffalo, N.Y., 72; Portland, Maine, 63; Boston, 61; Philadelphia, 60; Washington, D.C., 60; Charlotte, N.C., 56; Atlanta, 57; and Tallahassee, Fla., 48.

In 1971, the United States announced a decision to resume the sale of F-4 Phantom warplanes to Israel.

SOME OF THE LAST Americans remaining in Tehran get what rest they can on the floor of the Tehran Hilton hotel Monday. They are waiting for flights out of Iran.

Davis divorce begins today

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The long-delayed divorce trial of Cullen Davis and his estranged wife Priscilla begins today with millions of dollars at stake.

Mrs. Davis, 37, says her community property in the marriage amounts to $75 million to $80 million. Davis says the most it could be is $4 million.

The court of retired District Judge John M. Barron of Bryan must settle the case, which has been dragging on for five years and was delayed by two criminal trials involving Davis. The millionaire was acquitted in an Amarillo trial of charges he killed his 12-year-old stepdaughter, and charges accusing him of trying to hire the murder of the original judge in the divorce case. Joe Eidsen, ended in a mistrial in Houston. Eidsen has removed himself from the case.

The main point Barron's court has been asked to decide is not who is at fault in the broken marriage, but simply, the division of property.
