Fuel cuts seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is predicting motorists could find gasoline in short supply this summer due to the Iranian revolution and that it will cost at least three to four cents more a gallon than now.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a House committee Thursday that unless Iranian production is restored speedily, there will be a gasoline shortage of "noticeable but not crippling" severity during the summer driving season.

Meanwhile, Gov. Bill Clements appealed to Texans to join conservation efforts to offset the short supply of Iranian oil.

Schlesinger said the administration may be forced to take mandatory steps to make sure there is enough heating oil for next winter — meaning a reduction in "gasoline availability."

Testifying before the House Budget Committee, Schlesinger said there still has been no word from the new Iranian revolutionary government on when exports may be resumed.

Later in Tehran, Deputy Prime Minister Ebrahim Yazdi said Iran will resume oil exports very soon. But he did not say precisely when that would come or how much oil would be sold to which countries.

The new government in Iran has promised to resume sales to the United States, but officials here have raised the possibility that it could be in curtailed amounts.

Before the cutoff in December, Iran had supplied about 5 percent of total U.S. oil consumption.

In his statement to Texans, Clements said "I am now asking citizens to lower their thermostats, to make use of car pools or public transit, to observe the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit and to take all other appropriate measures to reduce the use of energy."

Estes indicted again

DALLAS (AP) — The legal problems nagging paroled West Texas con man Billie Sol Estes have culminated with four federal grand jury indictments charging he plotted to bilk investors, operate businesses in violation of his parole and conceal assets to avoid paying income taxes.

Estes has been the subject of intensive state and federal investigations for almost two years, and has been in court trying to fend off similar, but slimmed-down charges since October. That month, he signed a plea agreement with prosecutors, but U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon rejected the bargain in January.

The grand jury Thursday returned the lengthy indictments against Estes, two former associates, Raymond K. Horton and M. L. Copenhaver, and his long-time secretary, Sue Goolsby.

Estes' attorney, G. Brackett Irwin of Longview, said later his client would plead innocent at his arraignment March 1.

Estes was convicted in 1963 of building a vast fortune on mortgage loans using non-existent fertilizer tanks as collateral. A similar scheme involving the financing of non-existent oilfield steam cleaners was spelled out in Thursday's indictment.

That indictment details a plot to defraud four leasing companies of more than $589,000 by financing non-existent steam cleaners and using a dummy corporation to sell them to another fake company. According to the indictment, the selling and purchasing companies existed only on paper — created by Estes, Horton and Copenhaver. The legitimate companies unknowingly financed a total of 38 bogus steam cleaners.

Connally tells Panhandle supporters:

U.S. needs strong leadership

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

Former Governor John Connally, kicking off his Panhandle campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, told a large group of area supporters Thursday that he can provide the leadership now lacking in a weakened America.

More than 1400 people, including Pampa Mayor R. D. Wilkerson, attended a luncheon at the Amarillo Civic Center featuring Connally and his wife, Nellie. The Amarillo stop was part of a seven-day tour of 22 Texas communities.

Connally, a former Democrat who switched parties in May 1973, emphasized as his campaign theme the need for national strength and leadership. He spoke of the "inability and impotence" of the Carter Administration in foreign affairs, and said "We've lost prestige, we've lost influence and we've lost the leadership of the free world."

Connally also made it clear that he considers inflation and energy the two most important issues in the 1980 election, although they lack "political sex appeal."

At a news conference before the luncheon, Connally outlined how he plans to distinguish himself from a crowded pack of candidates and gain the Republican nomination.

"I'm going to go out and say what I think and why I think it, and what I believe and why I believe it," he said. "And then I'll let the people decide who they like."

"I'm not going to go around trying to engage in all the nuances of how I can point out some difference between me and (Ronald) Reagan and me and (George) Bush and me and (Howard) Baker and me and (Jack) Kemp. This is a Mickey Mouse approach to politics that I think the American people are sick of."

Asked who he thinks the Democratic candidate for president will be, Connally replied "I would have to come down on the side of Sen. Kennedy. I think he probably will be the most formidable opponent the president could have, if indeed the senator decides to run."

Connally, secretary of the treasury in the Nixon Administration from 1970-72, was tried and acquitted in 1974 on charges of accepting a bribe from a dairy association. When asked if his trial would prejudice voters against him, he said "Your enemies always look for something to talk about, and they'll keep harping about it."

He said his ties with the Nixon Administration should only affect his candidacy favorably.

"I'm certainly not going to subscribe to the doctrine of guilt by association," Connally said. "When I served under President Nixon I thought I was serving my country, and I thought I did it very well. I'm not ashamed of it — I'm proud of it."

He said he gained "invaluable" experience in national and international problems as treasury secretary, "just as service as secretary of the navy under President Kennedy gave me a background in military affairs."

Connally described American dependence on foreign oil as "disastrous" and said past decisions in this country have "almost completely undermined the coal industry in America ... and retarded the development of nuclear power."

"We need an energy policy," he said. "I know of nothing that's more important to the economic well-being and the actual security of this nation than to decrease our reliance on imported energy." He added that while it is fine to research alternative forms of energy, Americans will depend on coal, oil and gas and nuclear power for at least the rest of this century.

Connally said that when he was governor 12 years ago, he realized the Panhandle would eventually face water shortages. At that time, he devised a plan to divert water to Texas from outside the state.

"It was an excellent plan but it got nowhere because the crisis hadn't occurred and we were before our time and we couldn't get the support that was needed," he said. "The plan is still there and it's a good plan. It probably needs to be modified in light of present circumstances."

Referring to farmers, Connally said he is sympathetic with their problems, but is opposed to 100 percent parity. He called farming "the most efficient segment of the country" but said that farmers annually produce too much grain for domestic consumption.

To solve the problems caused by surpluses, Connally advocated opening new international markets and creating "an international storage consortium of some kind."

The candidate expressed concern about the world's image of the U.S., and said that Carter's foreign policy is weak and reflects "an attitude of retrenchment and resignation."

He said the government must stop deficit spending and "insist that we have an equilibrium in our balance of payments."

DAVID BERKOWITZ — SON OF SAM

Son of Sam tells 'truth'

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — For months he stalked a terrified city as the Son of Sam, the 44-caliber killer, eager to satisfy the bloodthirsty desires of his demanding demons and talking dogs.

Now, 1 1/2 years after the last of his brutal attacks in which he killed six persons and wounded seven, a calm, coherent, smiling and polite David Berkowitz says he made it all up.

"I've let people step on me just once too often and now I've had enough. It's time for the truth to come out — not a story about demons, talking dogs and legions of Satan's henchmen," Berkowitz said Thursday in his first prison interview. He said it was also his last interview.

He said the demon story was invented by his "wild imagination so as to find some form of justification for my criminal acts against society."

Berkowitz said he has no substitute reason for the killings, but he added that he no longer has the urge to kill.

Berkowitz said he granted the 66-minute interview to The Associated Press, The New York Times and Newsday after reading — with displeasure — an AP story concerning a book-movie deal about his life being put together by McGraw-Hill Inc.

The 25-year-old curly-haired killer — inmate number 78-A-1976 — said he wanted people to know the truth behind his claim he was commanded to kill by demons who spoke to him through a neighbor's dog. He said people might be discouraged from buying the book or watching the movie once they learned he had lied.

The interview in a small meeting room on the grounds of the New York State Correctional Facility at Attica was casual.

News in brief

CLLOUDY
The weather forecast for Pampa calls for partly cloudy skies today through Saturday. Today's high is predicted to be in the mid-50s while the low should be in the upper 20s. Saturday's high should reach near 50 degrees. Today's winds are expected to blow from the west at 10 - 15 mph, decreasing to 5-10 mph later this afternoon.

Pre-application for grant okayed

Pampa's pre-application for a federal community development block grant was approved by the city commission at a special session this morning. The city is applying for a $15 million, three-year grant. If approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the funds will be used for renovating two neighborhoods in south Pampa. Gary Pitner of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, which has assisted the city in preparing the pre-application, told the commission that HUD should make its decision known by May 1.

Federal gas act brings hardships

Recently enacted federal requirements provide special hardships for oil and gas producers in the Panhandle, says an assistant special counsel to the Texas Railroad Commission.

James Grove explained the filing requirements for oil and gas wells at Thursday night's monthly meeting of the American Petroleum Institute (API). The meeting was held at the Pampa Country Club.

Grove said the National Gas Policy Act of 1978 particularly affects "stripper wells."

Stripper wells are those that produce a maximum of 60 thousand cubic feet per day. In addition, a well must produce no more than three barrels of oil a day along with the gas to be classified as a stripper.

Explanation of the filing requirements is important to local producers because many area wells are classified as strippers, Grove said.

"Many Panhandle wells will be affected by the National Gas Policy Act," he said. "There's a lot of paperwork involved in filing."

Producers must ask the Railroad Commission to classify their wells according to categories defined by the act. After the commission makes its determinations, it has to send them to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) for approval.

Several producers at the meeting complained that the paperwork is difficult to understand and complete, and that the federal officials who designed the act know little about the oil and gas business.

In November, shortly before the act became effective, the Railroad Commission issued a set of emergency procedures for determination of well categories under the act. The commission is now seeking public input on the procedures and will soon replace the emergency rules with modified permanent procedures.

The commission wants to simplify the process but finds itself limited by the FERC, he said.

"We can't guarantee what the railroad commission says will satisfy the FERC," Grove said. It often takes FERC several months just to approve the commission's well determinations, he added.

Grove asked that producers applying for well determinations be patient with the commission for the next few days. During the last 12 days, he said, it has received about 12,000 category determination requests.

To your health

Accusing the Federal Drug Administration (FDA) commissioner of a "slanted, if not dishonest presentation of the facts," an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association voices the anger of many physicians. Doctors complain that the latest study linking estrogens with cancer is inconclusive and could cause an unnecessary scare among women taking the artificial hormones.

The physicians are also angry that the FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy asserted the study "should dispel controversy" over cancer danger of estrogens, which are used as contraceptives and given to many women during and after menopause.

Physicians who treat the estimated one-quarter of women who need medical help during menopause say that patients are afraid to use estrogens, even for valid complaints.

"It's a shame for women who need treatment not to have it. They get so upset about the danger of cancer they won't take it," said Dr. Georgeanna S. Jones, chief of endocrine reproduction at Eastern Virginia Medical School at Norfolk, VA.

Two Yale medical professors have questioned the statistical methods of estrogen studies. One said he regarded the cancer link as still unproved, adding, "It certainly does not warrant any kind of federal decision."

Dr. Richard Landau said that the FDA should not have acted until the scientific debate was resolved.

This and past actions of the FDA have indicated that any controversy is resolved whenever they say it is. There is nothing to indicate that this over-bearing agency will back down on its stand, premature though it may be.

There are calculated risks in the use of all drugs and doctors are trained to evaluate risks on the basis of the individual's medical needs taking into account some risk in relation to the benefit to be derived.

The FDA or no other federal agency is capable of making shotgun - decisions that will meet the needs of each and every patient. If aspirin had just now appeared on the market, it is highly possible that the FDA would never allow it to be dispensed on prescription much less sold as an over-the-counter drug. Aspirin makes many people sick. Millions of people can take aspirin for the relief of pain with no side effects.

It is fast getting to the point where nearly everything we take as medicine, eat or drink for food and breathe or touch has become suspect as cancer-producing.

The "protectors" of our health in the federal bureaucracy may yet become the greatest hazard to our well-being if they continue to be allowed to overrule our physicians with their regulations.

Even though right now they cannot force a doctor to stop prescribing estrogen, the effect is the same when they scare his patients into not using what he prescribes.

People making these studies are only human and their careers may depend on projects moving forwards. Even the most sincere can be diverted from complete objective study by misplaced zeal to help humanity.

We suggest that the medical profession and its patients would be far better off if studies, regulations and controls be taken out of the hands of careerists guided by the bureaucracy and paid out of tax money. In the long run the health of the people of this nation will gain much and lose little.

The Silver lining

We have mentioned before that silver seems to offer the family of moderate means a better hedge against inflation than does gold. The one thing that is lacking right now is the opportunity to buy silver in a form and size near the gold Krugerrands and with near the same percentage of price increase above day-to-day-bullion price.

The Krugerrands and a new gold piece being minted in the U.S. can be purchased at a percentage above the spot gold price which varies from six to eight percent. Silver offerings have been more in the nature of commemorative pieces which have been priced way above the spot metal price. The Harwood Gold Piece, produced by the Gold Standard Corporation, is being offered in several cities and, like the Krugerrand, contains one ounce of pure gold.

Ordinary U.S. silver coins of pre-1965 mintage are difficult to come by unless purchased in $1,000 face value bags and those would cost about $6,200 per bag plus delivery charges. So there is no equivalent way to buy small amounts of silver at a price near the spot price of metal. Perhaps some enterprising company will come up with an offering which will make the "poor man's goodie" more readily available.

If this would happen we can look for silver to out-perform gold as a good hedge against inflation. For the past decade the production of silver has been less than the consumption world-wide. The metal is in wide demand in industry and its use is growing.

In the past there have been large amounts of above-ground silver available to satisfy the market. When the United States and other nations quit using silver in ordinary coinage, large stocks were made available and these took up the slack between supply and demand.

These stocks have been shrinking and it now appears silver offers the biggest upside potential of all the precious metals.

Henry Jarecky, chairman of the Mocatia Metals Corp., said Americans are rediscovering that gold isn't all that glitters. Silver does too. "Americans had fallen out of love with silver because of their love affair with gold. But that mood is changing. Indeed, in the past two days (Jan. 15-16) silver has been leading gold in futures markets," Jarecky said.

Market analysts now seem agreed that silver is entering a new period of popularity. If so, it will be reflected in the futures markets. For the individual who wants the metal in some form easily exchanged there is nothing as yet to meet his wants. The futures markets will not meet the needs and wants of many people in order to hold a stake in precious metals.

The Krugerrand and the Harwood gold piece has provided a place for those who can afford to own and hold gold. If a silver piece should be made available with the same slight percentage for minting and brokerage, U.S. citizens would have a means of hedging against inflation and something which would be a store of value for exchange at a better date.

The government has a great store of gold which they can sell and cause a temporary drop in value. There is a relatively small amount of silver held in the strategic defense stockpile. This stock is less than one year's shortfall between consumption and production. So in this too silver could be the best of the precious metals to hold.

Silver's one big drawback is the weight of the metal in relation to its value. This makes storage somewhat a problem. But if push went to crunch and people needed something to exchange for their daily needs, silver, in the smaller denominations, might just be the best bet of all.

Social Services and the dollar

There is a very ugly word describing the attitude of leaders of the National Society for the Advancement of Colored People and a few other black leaders who are hurling the epithet "racist" at Mayor Koch of New York City and at President Carter whenever they recommend cuts in government expenditures for social services. The ugly word is blackmail.

NAACP leaders in New York are threatening Koch with "a hot summer" if he cuts municipal hospital services and others affecting "the minorities," though the sorry state of city finances renders such cuts imperative.

There is a fact of life today that all recipients of social services in our nation must face, whether they be black, white, yellow or tan. Americans must try to rescue the paper dollar and reduce inflation. If the response to such an effort is to be "If you cut us, we'll burn it down," then next summer our nation could be in an Iran-type plight with hysterically inflamed mobs running amok in city streets and ruin of our economy.

The date January 16, 1978, marked a turning point internationally in regard to the U.S. dollar, the one in your pocket, dear reader, the one you rely on to make purchases for yourself, your family and business. On that date, our house of money - cards collapsed, the U.S. Treasury's bluff was called and our asinine war on gold resulted in a rout for us America's. Unless some American official with power to address the American people on nationwide TV has guts enough to tell Americans the cold hard truth and rally the public to drastic sacrifices in defense of the dollar, the American dream could turn into a nightmare.

On January 16, the president of the Bundesbank in West Germany warned publicly that international defense of the U.S. dollar could not go on at the 1978 rate of $50 billion. That support is threatening now to wreck the German mark and Swiss franc, if continued at such a rate. On January 16, the U.S. Treasury auction of gold was over - subscribed five times and out gold was sold at record high prices despite the U.S. Treasury's contention that its auctions of gold would keep down the price per ounce. Also on that day, the dollar sagged in value on the international exchanges.

What has all this to do with the NAACP and our American domestic social services situation? Everything. For years, our creditors abroad have been telling us that unless we cut down our deficit spending the value of the U.S. paper dollar cannot be maintained. It is this deficit spending that causes inflation. Any American who doesn't understand this fact deserves whatever he or she gets - nothing but trouble, be he or she black, white, yellow or tan.

There comes a time when first things must come first. Nobody can get blood out of a stone and nobody can get social services of any kind out of a ruined currency - not pensions, welfare, Social Security, interest on savings or meaningful paychecks if the U.S. dollar collapses. This is not an alarmist or hysterical or gloom-and-doom statement it is a basic truth.

If international cooperation to save the dollar were to be abandoned by our friends because they lose confidence in our ability to help ourselves and make the sacrifices necessary to strengthen a dollar weakened by deficit spending, then the dire consequences will be felt acutely by all Americans regardless of race, creed or color.

It is not enough for us to declare that we will balance our budget. Our local, state and federal governments must spend much less money than they take in and start doing it today, not tomorrow or next week or next year.

People like the loud-mouthed Bella Abzug, whom New Yorkers twice got rid of at the polls and whom President Carter had to get rid of after finding out about her hard way, are a menace when they threaten us with civic disturbance rather than accept cuts in government outlays for women or minorities or any other population group. We need a President with guts enough to tell us, "We're broke. We owe everybody and his neighbor more than we can possibly pay. We need to get down to back-breaking work, to scripping and saving and to walking instead of driving a mile to get a pack of cigarettes or a Coke or a can of beans."

The cowards among us are alleging that we can't do what we need to do to rescue the dollar "for fear of political consequences." What they mean is "for fear of racial and civil strife." I am confident that the majority of blacks in our nation do not want to turn it down, and if it comes to a matter of survival, they will put down those leaders among them who urge putting America down.

When the full 1978 figures come out, it is most likely there will be a dollar crisis worse than that which brought on Carter's November first $30 billion rescue attempt. If we don't act realistically to rescue the dollar, we won't be able to afford social services or any other kind of service. Printing more dollars will only make things much worse.

IN WASHINGTON

Unreasonable reticence

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Thanks to federal laws enacted in the 1970s, you can now get a copy of your FBI report. You can see and correct your credit bureau files. And you can obtain your child's school records.

But did you ever ask your doctor to show you what he's been scribbling on your medical record? Or request access to your hospital charts? If so, the reaction probably ranged from polite evasion to outright rebuff.

The medical profession remains one of the last bastions of secrecy in our society, cloaking its customary refusal to allow patients access to their own records under the lofty rubric of "confidentiality."

At first blush, such reticence seems a perfectly reasonable. After all, since the days of the Greek physician Hippocrates, the oath taken by doctors has included a pledge of secrecy regarding "whatever... I see or hear, in the life of men, which ought not be spoken of abroad..."

There's only one flaw in that argument: medical records may be treated as confidential and sacrosanct when a patient asks to see them, but they are by no means safe from the prying eyes of other parties.

In fact, medical record secrecy is a big fat myth, as author Robert Ellis Smith documents in his new book, "Privacy: How to Protect What's Left of It."

"Medicine since Hippocrates had been a two-party affair between doctor and patient," Smith notes. "But a 'third party' now pays the bills directly, whether it's a health insurance company or a government program like Medicare or Medicaid. And whoever pays the bills wants to know what they're paying for."

"The nature of third-party payments nowadays and the proliferation of computer data banks in the insurance and health industries make confidentiality beyond the control of the practicing physician," Smith writes.

So if your insurance company can find out what's in your medical record, why can't they?

The answer is that most doctors and hospital officials simply don't want you to. Explanations would be too time-consuming, they argue. Numerous requests for hospital records might increase administrative costs. Patients might not understand technical medical jargon. Some, upon seeing their records, might decide to treat themselves.

All these excuses - and more - were offered by the medical profession in hearings a couple of years back before the Federal Privacy Protection Study Commission. Yet as that commission ultimately reported, "Not one witness was able to identify an instance where access to records had had an untoward effect on a patient's medical condition."

Indeed, quite the contrary has been true in the limited number of states where patients already enjoy a legal right to see their own medical records, and in other areas where such access has been granted on an experimental basis.

Studies have shown patients have greater confidence in their health care when they know what is in their own records, that they are more careful to follow specific recommendations from their doctors and have a better, overall relationship with their physicians.

The Carter administration, which is developing a whole legislative package related to the privacy issue, is expected to recommend a federal law assuring patients access to their own medical records.

And 14 states now have laws permitting patients to inspect or copy either doctors' records, hospital records or both. Those laws, and techniques for winning access to your records elsewhere, are outlined in a study published last year by Ralph Nader's Health Research Group.

The booklet, entitled "Getting Yours: A Consumer's Guide to Obtaining Your Medical Record," is available for $2 from the Health Research Group, Dept. 220, 2000 P Street N.W., Suite 708, Washington D.C. 20036.

Well-fixed at the top

Not all of us are also-rans in the race with inflation.

In top executive ranks, there generally is more than enough extra in paychecks these days to cover the increasing cost of even high-style living.

The information comes from a Conference Board survey of the highest-paid officers in nearly 1,500 companies. According to the returns, the base salary of your typical chief executive officer in a manufacturing enterprise has gone up some 20 percent in the last two years.

Salary, however, is far from the whole story. Most firms (to take manufacturing again, 82 percent) now pay year-end bonuses to top executives. These also have been rising, in relation to base pay. For our manufacturing man, the typical bonus hit 45 percent of salary last year.

Adding up the odds and ends of income, the median total compensation for manufacturing's top men was $241,000 last year. This is the top of the executive line. Increments during the same period and current income totals for other major business categories were less but still substantial - up 18 percent to $184,000 in retail trade, 18 percent to $125,000 in utilities, 17 percent to $100,000 in commercial banking, for a few additional examples.

The second highest-paid executives are earning between 67 and 82 percent of No. 1, depending upon the type of business, and third-ranking officers between 55 and 63 percent.

Executive rank also frequently entails access to other means of easing the strain on the personal exchequer. An increasingly popular perk is the use of "Stock Appreciation Rights." This can't lose market maneuver permits an executive to relinquish a company stock option, receiving cash equal to the stock's appreciation from the time the option was granted.

In the light of these affluent circumstances, those farther down on company payroll pecking orders where the administration's wage guidelines really pinch may be reinforced in a long-held suspicion about the executive suit: When times get tough, the bucks tend to stop there.

Taking note of working wives

One answer to an inflation-strained household budget is two paychecks, a major factor in the rapidly increasing numbers of working wives in the labor market.

Which may also be a factor in increasing corporate awareness of the working wife.

According to a survey by Merrill Lynch Relocation Management, Inc., more firms are offering job-finding assistance to wives of transferred employees. The aid, reported by 16 percent of 686 major firms surveyed, ranged from providing transferee wives with state and local job listings to paying for employment agency fees, occupational counseling and job-hunting aids.

The aid for wives ranked as one of the two leading steps being taken to overcome employee resistance to transfers, a growing problem for many businesses in recent years.

The other is cost-of-living differentials. Thirty-one percent of the companies surveyed reported such differentials, up steeply from only 12 percent last year.

Such corporate assistance for employees takes on added significance with the increasing volume of transfers, up 5 percent from last year in this particular survey group, drawn from Fortune magazine's top 1,000 industrial firms and up 50 non-industrials.

Under the prevailing inflationary circumstances, this is a fringe benefit that could be increasingly important to a growing category of employees in recovering some of the ground lost to the wage guidelines.

Tax bills being reconsidered

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee seems to be backing away from its decision to attach an income test to a $10,000 homestead exemption from school taxes for old persons. Committee members are expected to decide Monday whether to grant the exemption to all Texans 65 and over or chairman, Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving.

Davis said the panel will miss its target of placing a bill before the House for debate on March 1. He said it will be March 7 at the earliest, and probably March 12, before floor action can begin.

The amendment allows the Legislature to exempt $10,000 of a home's market value from school taxes if the owner is disabled or 65 years old. This would be in addition to a $5,000 mandatory exemption for all homeowners.

An old person's school taxes would be frozen at current levels for his or her lifetime if the Legislature grants the exemption.

Last week, the committee decided to give the $10,000 exemption only to older Texans with incomes below $7,500.

Davis suggested raising that limit to $10,000 Thursday, but several committee members responded there should be no income test at all.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, said local tax offices would face "an administrative nightmare" in applying an income test.

Davis said all it would take would be a simple affidavit, and tax assessors could verify the figures submitted by an old person.

"People don't like to go in and tell other people what they make. They know it would not be confidential and that everybody in the neighborhood would know what they make. A lot of people feel like it is an invasion of privacy to tell folks what they are making," said Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels.

Pot possession brings jail

A Pampa man, found guilty of a marijuana possession charge Thursday, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $1,000 after County Attorney David Martindale told a two-man, four-woman jury "I'm pleading with you for law enforcement".

David Charles Derickson, 22, was charged with possession of less than two ounces of marijuana after a van in which he was a passenger was stopped by Department of Public Safety officers.

Martindale had asked the jury for a 90 day jail sentence and a $500 fine. The maximum penalty for possession of less than two ounces of marijuana, a Class B misdemeanor, is $1,000 fine and three months in jail.

Derickson acted in his own defense but did not testify for himself. Three friends or acquaintances of Derickson were called to testify.

Derickson admitted to being on probation for a marijuana possession violation in Amarillo last November. However, he told the court "he had promised his mother he wouldn't smoke it (marijuana) anymore, and that he hadn't."

During closing arguments, Derickson's tried to tell the jury that he had no knowledge of the marijuana. However, that testimony was overruled by Judge Carl Kennedy on the sustained objection of Martindale. Martindale argued that Derickson had an opportunity to testify on his own behalf.

restrict it to those below a certain income.

The panel also is re-thinking its earlier stance in favor of immediately exempting two cars per family from property taxes. It probably will decide next week whether to delay the exemption for up to two years.

A week ago, the committee thought it had all the big decisions made on its bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, with only details to be ironed out.

"Tax relief is like a ball of yarn. When you think you're getting to the end, it starts to unravel," said the committee

Monitor in use

A sophisticated medical blanket known as a nursery monitor is already in use at Highland General Hospital thanks to a $495 grant from the Gray County Chapter of the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

The monitor is a blanket which contains a warning device which sounds within a few seconds when an infant in contact with the device stops breathing.

The grant was approved at the Feb. 13 meeting of the chapter.

3 men held on drug charges

Three Pampa men are being held in Gray County Jail this morning pending arraignment on charges of possession of marijuana.

Darran Lee Fife and Donald Y'Barbo of the Star Motel and Danny Martin of Box 1445, all 19, were arrested shortly before eight last night after police reportedly spotted a car driven by Y'Barbo weaving from lane to lane.

According to police reports, officers noticed a strong smell of marijuana in the car. A search reportedly revealed an undetermined amount of marijuana in a jig saw puzzle box.

The three were to be arraigned on felony charges, since the amount of marijuana allegedly found was believed to be from 12 to 36 ounces. Possession of marijuana up to two ounces is classed as a misdemeanor in Texas.

Texas boomtown

Burkburnett, Texas, just across the Red River from Oklahoma, was derisively known as Nesterville in the 1870s by cowboys of the huge 6666 Ranch that surrounded the community. Theodore Roosevelt hunted wolves in the area in the early 1900s. And in 1918, strikes of gusher oil wells resulted in a gaudy boom that later became the subject of Hollywood's "Boom Town" movie starring Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable. - Texas Highways Magazine

ERA ratification would end

A concurrent resolution has been introduced in the Texas House of Representatives that would rescind the state's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) on its original expiration date of March 22, 1979.
 The resolution, introduced by Clay Smothers of Dallas, is in opposition to last fall's Congressional action to extend the deadline for nationwide ratification of the amendment to June 30, 1982.
 Smothers' resolution states that "as well as being constitutionally questionable, the expedient action of extending the time limit for ratification substantially alters the terms of the agreement made by the Congress when originally submitting the amendment to the states and is patently and fundamentally unfair."
 Congress presented the ERA on March 22, 1972 for ratification by three-fourths of the states within a seven-year period. It was ratified by the 62nd Texas Legislature on March 30, 1972.

Soviets 'unloading missiles'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Soviet ships unloaded missiles and radar equipment at the Vietnamese port of Haiphong and China launched air strikes deep into Vietnam to destroy the Russian supplies before they could reach the battlefield, Thai intelligence sources said today.
 The sources said Chinese aircraft struck an area northwest of Haiphong on Thursday, shortly after the Soviets ships began their deliveries. The raiders apparently hit outside the city so as not to risk bombing the Russian ships and triggering a Soviet reprisal.
 Heavy fighting was reported, meanwhile, along 100 miles of the eastern Vietnam-China border, with some of the sharpest action in the Lang Son and Cao Bang areas.
 The report came from Kyodo, the Japanese news service, in a dispatch from Peking. It said its information came from a Western military source in the Chinese capital, but there was no other identification of him.
 The report said there was fighting 12 miles inside Vietnamese territory, but it gave no indication how the battles were going.
 Kyodo also said the Peking's People's Daily, the Chinese Communist Party newspaper, reported that men 18 to 35 were being organized into militia units in China's Kwangsi Chuang Autonomous Region, behind the western side of the border.
 The report said the militiamen were being used for transportation, evacuation of wounded and sweeping of mines under fire. Kyodo said some observers in Peking interpreted this to mean the Chinese government was not planning a speedy withdrawal but was determined to continue the invasion it began six days ago.
 Radio Hanoi claimed a "great victory" in the first five days of the invasion, but its battle reports stopped with Wednesday. Peking has not been issuing military communiques, and intelligence sources in Bangkok also had no word of any fighting after Wednesday night.
 A decisive battle was believed shaping up in the Lang Son-Dong Dang area, 70 miles northeast of Hanoi, on a centuries-old Chinese invasion route through the mountains where one Chinese force crossed the border last Saturday.
 The Chinese were entrenched in positions on hills three miles inside Vietnam overlooking Dong Dang, with Vietnamese batteries on the hills facing them on the other side of the village, intelligence sources in Bangkok said Thursday.
 The Chinese put another regiment of reinforcements into the Dong Dang area Wednesday, the sources said. Meanwhile, Vietnamese columns of reinforcements were reported pushing up the highway from Hanoi to Lang Son.

U.S. official to visit China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, embarking on a nine-day trip to China, is carrying instructions from President Carter on what to say to Chinese leaders about their border war with Vietnam.
 Blumenthal, the first top administration official to visit China since the United States established diplomatic relations Jan. 1, scheduled a mid-morning departure from Washington.
 The Blumenthal trip, first intended primarily to discuss economic and trade issues, has taken on added significance with China's weekend invasion of Vietnam.
 The Carter administration has publicly urged that the Chinese withdraw from Vietnam and that the Vietnamese take their troops out of Cambodia. But the Blumenthal trip gives Carter an opportunity to make his wishes known directly to the Chinese leadership.
 "The secretary is carrying instructions from President Carter for meetings with the Chinese leadership on the China-Vietnam situation," said government officials, who requested anonymity.
 They declined to reveal the content of the instructions, or whether they included a specific message from Carter to Chinese leaders.

The officials also cautioned against expecting any spectacular gains from Blumenthal's trade and economic talks with the Chinese. But they said the trip will be important in "laying the groundwork for the normalization of economic relations."
 The feeling here is that the Chinese will need to agree to a settlement of at least 40 cents for each dollar of U.S. claims, or Congress would object.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: Our baby died two weeks after she was born. With the help of wonderful friends and relatives we made it through some rough days. However, we continue to have some upsetting problems.

We still get telephone calls from business people who want to sell us diaper services, insurance, baby furniture and other things for the "new baby." They talk a blue streak before I can get a word in edgewise to let them know that our baby died.

Two days after the funeral, a man with a big smile knocked on our door and gave us a sales pitch about taking pictures of the baby! I became hysterical.

These salespeople might be welcomed with open arms by parents of living children, but it tears people like us apart. It has been four months since we buried our precious angel, and we're still getting calls.

Even if this doesn't make your column, thanks for listening.

BOTHERED, BEREAVED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Thanks for writing. I hope this reminds those who sell baby services to be less eager and more considerate.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a part of the country where it's warm or hot most of the time, and for this reason I often go barefoot.

My parents have a fit when they see me driving without shoes because they think it is unsafe. I can't see where driving shoeless has anything to do with safety. What do you think?

LIKES TO DRIVE

DEAR LIKES: A bare foot is more apt to slip off the pedals than one with a shoe. So, when driving, put your best foot forward—and put a shoe on it!

DEAR ABBY: I go with a man who is never satisfied with the food in a restaurant.

No matter what Stan orders, he usually sends it back. It's either overcooked or undercooked, cold, smells "funny," or he just doesn't like the looks of it. It's embarrassing. He's never satisfied with the table they give us, and if the waiter isn't right there when he wants something, he complains to the manager. If the service isn't perfect, he leaves no tip!

He also carries one of those little battery-operated fans. If someone smokes near him, out comes the fan and blows the smoke back into the smoker's face!

I'm 22 and he's 29. He wants to marry me, but I'm not sure. What do you think?

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: Stan appears demanding, inflexible, quick to criticize and slow to spend. If you marry him, be prepared to give in a lot.

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I love shellfish, crab, shrimp, oysters and clams. I still like lobster but at present prices it is a once in a lifetime treat. Is it dangerous for me to eat shellfish? I've heard they are very high in cholesterol.

DEAR READER — At one time, shellfish as a group were thought to be fairly high in cholesterol. In recent times, the work of Mary H. Thompson, published in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, has helped to straighten that out.

Shrimp and lobster are moderately high in cholesterol, containing about twice as much as you would get per ounce of red meat or poultry. Clams, crab, mussels, oysters and scallops contain about half as much cholesterol and are as good as the other meats in this regard. They are also low in fat.

Fish fat is also about the only dietary source of really highly unsaturated fat. The highly unsaturated fat may have some beneficial effects that are not provided by the polyunsaturated fats commonly found in vegetable oils.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, 83 years old, has a bad case of emphysema and lung cancer. I worry so much that I am in a nervous condition. My doctor tells me to take Sinequan for my nerves. I heard it is a tranquilizer and people tell me it is a habit-forming drug.

Now I am taking vitamin B-6, 100 milligrams three times a day. Is it all right to take that much vitamin B? Please, Dr. Lamb, help me. I have to take care of my ailing husband and I just cannot do it the way I'm feeling.

DEAR READER — I know it is a terrific drain to have a loved one ill with a serious medical problem. That's hard on people who are young and healthy and even more difficult as the years go by.

I'm not really worried about the vitamin B-6 you're taking. It's a water-soluble vitamin and within reason the excess amounts will simply be eliminated through your kidneys. But I am concerned that you elected not to take the medicine your doctor prescribed.

Your friends are trying to help you but I'm sorry to say that they are misinformed. Sinequan is not a tranquilizer and it is not habit-forming. There are no reports of physical dependence or withdrawal symptoms associated with Sinequan. It is used for people who are anxious or depressed and you have good reason for both.

When a person first starts taking Sinequan he may have some drowsiness. This is temporary, if it occurs, but that is why you need to avoid driving a car or being in demanding situations. This does not mean Sinequan is a sedative or tranquilizer.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY — I have ruined several of my T-shirt tops with perspiration odor. Whenever I wear one for an hour or two it starts to smell. Since I use a good deodorant I feel it is the shirt and not me causing the trouble. Is there any way to remove a perspiration odor? — J.K.H.

DEAR J.K.H. — You might try sponging the shirts with rubbing alcohol or a colorless mouthwash or soak in a strong salt water solution. If one does not work try another. Good luck. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I put a safety pin in the top of any stocking that get a run so I can tell at a glance that they are to be worn only with slacks. — G.D.P.

DEAR POLLY — I hope my Pointer will help other wives whose husbands get grease and oil on their pants. My husband does a lot of work on cars so I put waterless hand cleaner all over the greasy places on his pants, rub it in well and then wash them in warm or very hot water. All of the grease comes out and his pants look very nice. — BRENDA

Learn of heart risks

By Gaynor Maddox

Despite intense worry about heart attacks, most people know relatively little about their causes.

According to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, very few people are aware of what can be done to reduce the risk of heart attack.

Medical experts have long agreed that three major factors increase heart attack risk: high cholesterol level, cigarette smoking and high blood pressure. Though other factors are involved, these three are generally recognized by the experts as contributing to heart attacks.

Some 617 Chicago-area residents between the ages of 20 and 59 were asked about the probable causes of heart attack in a Chicago Heart Association survey headed up by Dr. Richard B. Shekelle of the preventive medicine department at the city's Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center.

Half of those questioned were unable to name any of the risk factors. Only 28 percent named cigarette smoking. Only 21 percent named high blood pressure. Only 13 percent named cholesterol or fat in the diet.

The same people were asked if heart attacks can be prevented. Three-quarters believed it is possible. But other than refraining from cigarette smoking, few named any specific behavior that would reduce risk. Blood pressure and cholesterol control got little notice; they were mentioned by fewer than 10 percent.

"With heart disease threatening so many Americans today, the lack of knowledge about its risk factor is alarming," Shekelle warns. He sees a great need for large-scale programs of public education about the prevention of heart disease. Something is being done to fight the ignorance — though not as much as in years past. That is because, for no apparent reason, contributions to the American Heart Association have decreased this year.

American Heart Association chapters around the nation stand ready to supply information. If you think you have symptoms of heart disease, you can call or visit your local Heart Association for advice.

If you need a diet for overweight — a threat to blood pressure and, consequently, to the heart — the American Heart Association has general and specific eating plans. These diets have all been prepared under the supervision of heart professionals. They are free.

Recently, many people have begun to check their blood pressure at drug stores and other non-professional centers. Specialists worry about this trend, fearing many blood pressure devices may not be accurately calibrated. That can give users a false sense of security about their blood pressure readings. So, if you have reason to think your blood pressure is not what it should be, consult a doctor — not a do-it-yourself device.

PUTTING HER PADS ON once more may be Phyllis George (left) who is rumored to be getting ready to suit up again as CBS's 'NFL Today' girl. Word has it that Jayne Kennedy (right), who has been in the CBS booth for two seasons, may be on the way out to make room for Phyllis. It seems that at half-time Phyllis scores better with the boys in the backroom.

The Gray County Courthouse is one of the community's most important buildings—even if you never enter it. In its vaults are stored the vital statistics of our community—the birth certificate containing the community's first recognition that a human life has joined the community; the marriage certificate stating the community's recognition that two people now live as one; the tax records, litigation records, and finally, the death certificate which is the recognition that a life has finally left the community. The funeral is also a public record—sort of a certificate given by the entire community that a person has lived, had worth and meaning, has loved and was loved, and now has died. At Duenkel-Smith Funeral Home, the funeral—the community's death certificate for an individual—is handled with care for the same reasons valuable records are placed in carefully protected vaults.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

February 24, 1978
This coming year you may participate in a venture where you have a minor but rewarding role. Profit in this instance will be more gratifying than the limelight.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your intuition and hunches are enormous valuable assets today. They can provide you with revealing insights your logic may overlook. Find out which signs you are compatible with by sending for your 1978 copy of the all-new Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When dealing with friends today, keep your views as flexible as possible. Should you show evidence of stubbornness, you'll get their hackles up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Substantial achievements are possible today, so concentrate on major goals. Temporarily shelve that which you deem to be less important.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make an effort to broaden your perspectives at this time. The wider your horizons, the greater your possibilities for opportunities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your talents for research, probing or detecting are especially keen today. Investigate situations about which you've been curious.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There are two sides to every story. Keep this in mind today lest you jump erroneous conclusions and offend a companion unnecessarily.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful you don't start something today that's a little too complicated to handle on your own. If you run into trouble there may not be anyone around to help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may experience a bit of group pressure today to go along with something you'd rather not. Be a good sport. Abide by the will of the majority.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll strive to exert the proper effort to neatly tie up loose ends today, because anything left undone will frustrate you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you are likely to be more mentally than physically restless. Seek stimulating companions with whom you can exchange ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An opportunity may present itself today whereby you can lay the foundation for a future accomplishment. Have your trowel and mortar ready.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Appearances are important today, so put on a positive face if you hope to inspire or direct others. It's essential to look like a leader.

The aged and the child

REV. LARRY B. HALL
Associate Pastor

First United Methodist Church
Do the elderly and children have anything in common? Though we intend no offense with our use of terms, we are interested in asking the question of relationship between those at the post retirement age and those below the age of labor force. It does appear that frequently our value as persons is determined by the role we play in the work force of society.

Perhaps this idea will surface later as another installment on the year of the child, however for now we must return to the issue of the relationship and common areas between the aged and the young.

Taken together our friends in these two levels of age comprise more than 30 percent of our total population. Such a large number of persons demands our attention for there is much we might learn from them about our world, and about ourselves.

For example, with both aged persons and children there exists a genuine concern for life - for living in the present. There is a unique blend of patience and curiosity that seems to mold the world they live in. Patience marked by peace and serenity. Have you ever noticed how a small child can spend hours quietly watching grass and butterflies? I've seen the same curious patience in the lives of our elder friends as they use their memory to relive moments of special importance.

Have you ever seen the twinkle in a child's eye when a new discovery is made? I've seen the same twinkle in the eyes of an elderly gentleman who had lived a rich, full and exciting life yet spent his last weeks in our hospital.

The twinkle came because of his life long genuine concern for uniqueness of people, and the excitement of life itself. What can we learn from this patience, curiosity and twinkling eye?

It is very possible that as youth and adults in the middle

Perhaps another facet to this picture is best illustrated by observing another area of commonality between aged persons and children. For both there is also a simplicity to everything. The child has not yet learned that the world is so complex, complicated, and competitive.

The older person possesses a wisdom gained through experience which says that complexity, complication and competition are not the most admirable goals, again simplicity, as for the child, becomes most desirable.

We learn a great deal about life and ourselves by observing the values of others - are the things which are important to children and the aged of value to us? Yes most certainly? Apart from such values and needs as security, comfort, medical care, etc. These very vital portions of our population are able to teach us to be more patient, more curious and more sensitive to life around us. Through these we may gain a twinkling eye.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life:
in thy presence is fulness of Joy..."
PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

★ Make your life have the right ...

Impact

on others

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The carpenter knows that there is a proper way to hold the hammer, and that the nail must be hit from the right direction or the nail will bend. As children of God we need to make the right impact on others. When we attend church we learn how to treat others, and at the same time are setting an example for others. If we remain straight as a well hit nail, then others are less likely to bend.

"For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you."

Moncrief selected top SWC player

DALLAS (AP) — Sidney Moncrief, the leading rebounder and scorer in Arkansas history, has been named The Associated Press 1978-79 Southwest Conference Player of the Year. Typical of Moncrief's performances was the final regular season game of his career against Texas Tech when he hit a jump shot in the final seconds to give the Razorbacks at 66-65 victory and a tie for the title with the University of Texas.

Texas Tech Coach Gerald

Myers said of Moncrief: "I'd have to say that Sidney is the Player of the Year in college basketball." Myers added "He (Moncrief) has been good for Arkansas and the conference but thank goodness we don't have to see him again." The 6-4 Moncrief averaged 22 points a game and Coach Eddie Sutton said "I can't say enough about him. He's one of those rare athletes who has the ability to rise to the occasion."

Baylor's Vinnie Johnson, who averaged 25 points a game and scored 50 against Texas Christian Tuesday night, was runner-up. Both were unanimous choices on The AP All-SWC first team. Texas forward Tyrone Branson, Southern Methodist's Brad Branson and Texas A&M's 6-11 freshman center Rudy Woods were also named to the first team. Branson, who averaged 18 points per game in SWC play and averaged 10.6 rebounds to lead the league, was named

Newcomer of the Year. He came to SMU from Florida where he was a junior college All-American. Woods, a tough defender and rebounder, was The Freshman of the Year out of Bryan, Texas High School. He was 13th in the United States in field goal accuracy. Sutton and Myers shared Coach of the Year honors. The second team was a high-scoring outfit led by guards John Moore and Jim Krivacs, both of Texas. Rice's Elbert Darden, and Texas A&M forwards Rynn Wright and Vernon Smith. Johnson, who along with Moncrief is expected to be a first round draft choice in the National Basketball Association, scored a school record season-high 610 points.

Falcon owner extends pacts

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett and General Manager Eddie LeBaron have been rewarded with new five-year contracts for a two-year effort that placed the Falcons into the National Football League playoffs for the first time. After 11 years of frustration, Atlanta owner Rankin Smith hired both men two years ago. He gave them five-year contracts to rebuild a club which had a 11-31 record for the three previous seasons. At a news conference Thursday at the club's training quarters in Suwanee, 30 miles north of Atlanta, Smith announced the new contracts but did not reveal the terms.

Rebels land 3 on All-District team

STEVE STOUT — All-District second team

Stout, Faggins, Skaggs are Harvester honorees

Tascosa and Amarillo High, the top two finishers in the District 3-AAAA basketball race, proved their mettle by sweeping the first-team choices on the league's all-district basketball team for 1978.

The district champion Rebels placed Nolan Earle, Steve Herrmann and Jay Leverett on the all-senior first team while the Sandies, who dropped the district playoff game to Tascosa, landed Jeff Helton and Henry Crawford on the elite squad.

Earle was awarded the district's Player of the Year prize and his coach, Tascosa's David Camfield, took Coach of the Year honors.

Pampa's Steve Stout was named to the second team after leading the Harvesters in defensive rebounds (171) during the season. The 6-6 senior was also the team's third leading scorer with a 12-point per game average.

Ronnie Faggins, meanwhile, impressed district coaches enough to be honored as Sophomore of the Year. The 6-3 underclassman was Pampa's second leading scorer (12.1 points per game), led the team in field goal shooting percentage (50 percent) and grabbed 108 offensive rebounds to pace the Harvesters in that category.

Doug Skaggs, who accumulated a 69 percent mark from the free-throw line after joining the team midway through the season, was named to the honorable mention list. The six-foot senior also handed out an average of 2.81 assists per game to lead the team in that category.

Stout was joined on the all-district second squad by Kevin Wagner of Amarillo High, Tascosa's Sam Washington, Caprock Longhorn Charles Stuart and Todd Loftis of Palo Duro. Wagner and Loftis are juniors and Washington and Stuart are seniors.

Other names on the honorable mention list included junior Kevin Penning of AHS, Caprock senior James Errington and Ed Shaffer, a Palo Duro junior.

Washington upends top-ranked Bruins

SEATTLE (AP) — Forward Stan Walker's 23-foot basket with three seconds to play Thursday night gave Washington a 69-68 upset victory over top-ranked UCLA in Pacific-10 Conference basketball.

The Bruins, who had taken their first lead of the game with 15 seconds to play on two Brad Holland free throws, had no time outs remaining after Walker's shot. Holland lofted a full-court desperation shot at the buzzer. It was way off the mark.

UCLA now is 20-4 over-all and 12-3 in conference play. Washington improved to 11-13 and 6-9.

Petur Gudmundsson, the Huskie 7-foot-2 sophomore center, hit a short jumper that put Washington ahead 50-38 with 16:34 left in the second half.

Gudmundsson, who led Washington with 17 points, managed only a free throw the rest of the way.

UCLA reeled off eight straight points to close to 50-46 and finally tied the game at 62-62 on Holland's breakaway lay-in that climaxed a six-point run with 3:44 to go.

Washington then sank five of six free throws to build a 67-62 advantage with 1:52 to play. UCLA followed with four straight points on David Greenwood's dunk and Roy Hamilton's steal and lay-in to close to one point at 67-66 with 1:27 left.

After James Woods missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw situation with 36 seconds left, UCLA maneuvered the ball into the front court and Walker fouled Holland, who scored the Bruins final two points.

Greenwood, who fouled out with 36 seconds left, led all scorers with 22 points and had 17 rebounds. He also blocked three shots.

David Spriggs of New Mexico State gained 510 yards by rushing and passing in one game against Southern Illinois in 1978.

The PHS team will return to Pampa for a 10 a.m. dual against Caprock March 3.

Cage tourney results

Utetus gained the championship finals of the 15th Annual Top O' Texas Basketball Tournament by holding off the Pampa News 61-56 at the Pampa Youth and Community Center Thursday night.

Utetus will play the winner of Monday's Saied's-Pampa Office Supply game in the championship tilt Wednesday night. Saied's earned the right to play Pampa Office Supply, last year's champion, by topping the First Baptist Church 70-62 Wednesday night. In losers bracket action, Corner Drug of Perryton eliminated Malcolm Hinkle by a 50-46 count and will play the Pampa Independents for the consolation trophy at 7 Monday night. The Saied's-Office Supply game is set for 8:30.

Wednesday night's games will feature the Pampa News vs. the Saied's-POS loser for third place at 7. The championship game is slated for 8:30.

Regional tourneys begin

Lefors and San Elizario kicked off the action this afternoon at the Region 1-B Boys Basketball Tournament at Levelland. The Pirates, winners over Samnorwood in bi-district play Tuesday night, carried a 26-3 record into the contest. San Elizario was 20-7.

Rockets beat Washington

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Moses Malone, with game highs of 35 points and 23 rebounds for Houston, felt it was time the Rockets handed Washington one of those rare homecourt losses.

Houston, trailing 83-79 late in the third quarter Thursday night, rallied to a 120-110 National Basketball Association victory over Washington. Clevelandbeat Kansas City 111-107 in the only other NBA game.

"Washington is a good team, but we were ready for them tonight," Malone said. "They came from behind to beat us twice at our place. We should be 3-0 against them."

Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said the hot-shooting 6-foot-11 Malone "took charge in the fourth quarter" to help the Rockets deal the Bullets their sixth defeat in 27 home games this season.

"We went with our strong lineup," Nissalke said.

The Rockets used 6-foot-8 Ron Reid at guard along with Calvin Murphy and also employed a large front line of 6-foot-11 Malone, 6-10 Dwight Jones and 6-7 Rudy Tomjanovich.

Malone's 13 points in the first six minutes of the final period pushed the Rockets' lead from 91-86 to 110-92.

"Moses was sensational, but that's nothing new," Nissalke said. "He took charge in the fourth quarter and that was the difference."

Rossman to defend title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "It's going to be a war," says World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Mike Rossman. "I'm going after him from the start," retorts Victor Galindez, who will try to regain the title Saturday.

The first time the two met, it wasn't exactly a waltz.

Galindez, the bullish Argentinian, was the aggressor in the first few rounds of their championship bout in New Orleans last Sept. 15, but Rossman's relentless attack on the champion's cut forehead brought him the title when the fight was stopped in the 13th round.

The two have contrasting styles, with the 5-foot-10 Galindez coming in low and keeping constant pressure on his foe. Rossman, a 22-year-old from Philadelphia, likes to jab and hook his opponent, at least in the early going.

Both, however, hit with good power and both have shown they can take a punch.

Rossman, a 6-footer known as the "Jewish Bomber," has a 36-4-3 record and has won 23 by knockout. He has made one successful title defense, a sixth-round knockout of Italy's Aldo Traversaro last December.

Galindez is 51-64 with 29 knockouts and held the light heavyweight crown since 1974 before Rossman took it away. Galindez took a 15-round decision over Kates in June of 1977.

Galindez also said he considered Rossman only a fair fighter, to which the reigning champ responded. "If I'm not fair, then what does that make him?"

"I beat him, so when he degrades me, he degrades himself. I know he's saying he just had a bad night before."

We'll see Saturday."

Also on the card at Caesars Palace is a 12-round welterweight match between Clinton McKenzie of London and Los Angeles' Bruce Curry; and a 10-round light heavyweight bout between Alvaro Lopez of Los Angeles and Louis Pergaud of Camerouns, Africa.

The card begins at 3:30 p.m. EST, with the nationally televised championship bout expected to begin at approximately 5 p.m.

Martin visits Yankees

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Will the New York Yankees be as friendly to Billy Martin next year as they are now?

Martin, the Yankees' former manager who has been verbally assured by owner George Steinbrenner of being the team's field boss for 1980 and 1981, was in a jovial mood — as were the players — when he visited the Yankees' training camp

Thursday.

"Let's see those legs," Martin quipped upon spotting slender Ron Guidry, the 1978 American League Cy Young Award winner. "Are they skinny!"

"Like yours," replied Guidry. "You're not fooling anybody with those bell bottoms."

"Hey Meat," current Manager Bob Lemon greeted Martin, using a familiar nickname.
