Israel's leader won't go to talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet today rejected an American invitation for Prime Minister Menachem Begin to attend a Camp David summit meeting without President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. Begin said last week's Camp David talks produced no progress and accused the Egyptians of hardening their position.

"The Cabinet decided that the prime minister is not in a position to accept the proposed meeting with Prime Minister (Mustafa) Khalil," Begin said after the Cabinet meeting. The vote against Begin going was 14-2.

Begin said Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan had reported to the Cabinet on President Carter's proposal that Begin and Khalil meet at Camp David with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. Dayan had returned from five days of talks at Camp David with Khalil.

"It is now evident to the Cabinet that in those talks no progress was made toward an Israeli-Egyptian agreement," Begin said.

"On the contrary, a more extreme position was presented by the Egyptian delegation."

In Washington, a U.S. official who asked not to be identified said, "We're waiting to hear the reason or explanation before making a public comment."

Begin said he was still prepared at any time to meet with the president to discuss the peace process and bilateral relations between Israel and the United States.

Begin appeared solemn as he read the Cabinet statement to newsmen.

In a sharp criticism of Egypt, Begin declared: "In addition to the previous Egyptian proposals, which were unacceptable to Israel, new proposals were made which were inconsistent with the Camp David agreement of Sept. 17 and in fact nullified the meaning of the peace treaty between the two countries."

Though Israel made counterproposals, Begin said, "Prime Minister Khalil insisted on the Egyptian proposals."

County had $2.5 million

Gray County coffers had a balance of about $2.5 million dollars for 1978, according to the County Auditor's Annual Report released Monday.

The net 1978 balance for the county is listed at $2,522,089.46 compared with the 1977 net balance of $2,130,063.34.

The county shows the largest increase in general fund balances, $321,727.50 for 1978 compared to $112,803.34 in 1977.

County Auditor A.C. Malone said the increase in the 1978 general fund balance was largely due to the county's loan of $122,000 to Highland General Hospital in 1977, the payment of hospital and airport bonds in 1977, and a slight increase in county tax valuation for last year.

The county also collected $52,555.52 in interest from certificate of deposits made at First National Bank in 1978. The interest figure is down slightly from 1977.

The interest on those certificates, or time deposits, could increase this year because of higher interest rates recently set by the bank.

The interest rate for time deposits was 4.65 to 5.5 percent depending on the duration of the deposit. The new interest rates call for 5 to 8.5 percent depending on the amount and duration of the deposit.

In terms of actual disbursements and actual cash received Highland General Hospital showed a net balance of $150,068.72.

Franchise to be revised

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

The City Commission decided to further develop a proposed new 20-year franchise agreement with Southwestern Public Service Co. (SPS), following a public hearing on the franchise at this morning's regular meeting.

The city and SPS want to revise the agreement's recapture clause, which defines the circumstances under which the city can take over operation of the electric utility franchise.

The commission was asked to take action soon on a request for annexation of property west of Pampa owned by Mrs. Rosa Fields. Mrs. Fields is contracting with industry to locate on the property, known as Country Garden Estates.

David Martindale, attorney for Mrs. Fields, presented an application to the commission requesting a zoning change for the property, from agricultural to light industrial. The request includes three waivers asking the commission to allow production of oil and gas and storage of explosives on the property, allow strip paving rather than curb and gutter paving on the property and defer compliance with the city sewer system until sewer facilities are moved closer to the property.

Mrs. Fields asked that the property be annexed last fall. Action on the request has been delayed because of study by the city planning and zoning commission.

Martindale and Engineer Gene Barber urged the commission to annex the property before Mrs. Fields loses contracts with potential industrial tenants. The commission set a public hearing on the annexation for March 27.

A request by city softball leagues to voluntarily renovate softball fields at Hobart Street Park was approved.

Jay Lambert, representing the Pampa Church League, told commissioners that league members would donate labor and materials for the project. The leagues hope to have the fields sanctioned by the National Softball League, and hold future tournaments at the park.

The leagues were given the nod with the understanding that they would have to share the fields with the rest of the public, and that any improvements added to the fields would become city property.

A plan by the State Highway Department to place signs and pavement markings at public railroad grade crossings within the city was also approved. No city or county funds will be used for the markings.

The commission received bids for the purchase of six police sedans, which will be awarded at the next meeting March 13. Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet bid a total of $39,437 for the sedans, and Pampa Chrysler Dodge bid $35,698.

Monty Gordon was appointed as the new city tax assessor-collector, replacing Aubrey Jones. Gordon has worked in the tax office for more than five years, and since July 1974 has served as deputy assessor-collector.

Pampan charged in stabbing Judge revokes probation

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

One of five brothers charged with the Feb. 17 stabbing death of Pampan Roberto Lira had his probation for a 1975 firearm conviction revoked Monday in 31st District Court.

Marsal Rodriguez, 35, was sentenced by Judge Grainger McIlhenny to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections. McIlhenny ordered that Rodriguez's sentence run concurrently with time he has spent in Gray County Jail charged in connection with the Lira murder.

Rodriguez was convicted in September 1975 of unlawfully carrying a firearm into a business establishment licensed to sell alcoholic beverages. Rodriguez reportedly had carried a handgun into Dottie's Lounge in November 1974.

District Attorney Harold Comer said Rodriguez's presence at the Frontier Lounge, where the Lira stabbing reportedly took place, was a violation of the conditions of his probation.

Probationers are generally prohibited from drinking alcoholic beverages and usually must obtain court permission to enter a place where such beverages are sold.

Marsal and brothers Jose, Victor, Benito, and Guadalupe are each being held in Gray County jail under $50,000 bond.

The 31st District Grand Jury met in special session Monday to begin hearing evidence in the case. The state's presentation should last through today, Comer said.

The state was expected to call 14 witnesses to the brawl at the lounge which left Lira dead and three others injured.

Although all five have been charged with murder, Comer said he was not sure if the grand jury would indict all five on the charge. "It takes a while to sort out one of these barroom fights," Comer said last week.

Additional charges, possibly aggravated assault, would probably be filed, Comer said.

Lira was found dead in an alley near the lounge following a brawl which police say involved as many as a dozen people. Although the cause of the fight has not been revealed, one witness reportedly said it began over a disagreement about a tune played on the jukebox.

Although 14 witnesses will testify about the brawl, Comer said he is not certain if there is an eye witness to the stabbing.

The forecast for Pampa calls for cooler temperatures with a slight chance of thunderstorms today through Thursday. Today's high is expected to reach the mid 50s while the low has been predicted to be in the mid 20s. Wednesday's high should be in the mid 40s. Winds are expected to be from the southwest at 15-25 mph this afternoon. Evening winds should change direction and diminish, coming from the north at 10-15 mph.

Texas jury lays drug charges

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — The brother of slain El Paso lawyer Lee Chagra has been arrested on federal drug charges for alleged activities in Texas, Florida and the Republic of Colombia.

The five-count indictment against Jamel Alexander "Jimmy" Chagra was returned Monday by a federal grand jury in Midland and kept secret until the arrest. Chagra was arrested by Drug Enforcement Administration agents in Las Vegas, Nev., where he moved last year from El Paso.

"This indictment is an outgrowth of an intensive grand jury probe expected to continue for as long as a year or more," U.S. Attorney Jamie C. Boyd said Monday.

Another oil price hike announced

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia announced today it will not raise oil prices during the first quarter of this year, breaking with a series of oil exporters who have raised prices to take advantage of the cutoff of Iranian exports.

However, analysts say due to the flurry of individual oil price hikes by several of its members, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries may be on the verge of an additional increase in general oil prices before its scheduled April 1 hike.

The latest OPEC nation to raise its crude oil price following Iran's oil cutoff is Kuwait, which told customers Monday it was tacking 9 percent onto its current price of $13.35 a barrel, raising it to about $14.55 a barrel.

The Kuwaiti move is said by analysts to be significant because it is one of OPEC's larger members and one of the 13-nation cartel's opinion leaders.

The supply squeeze caused by Iran's oil cutoff has been pushing prices up on the open, or spot, market, and producing nations feel the general market will bear higher prices, according to analysts.

The April 1 OPEC increase is for 3.9 percent. That rise is part of a four-part increase totaling 14.5 percent spread out this year. The first increase, of 5 percent, was Jan. 1.

But OPEC could decide at its scheduled March 26 meeting to speed up the gradual price increases, analysts say.

This would $4.65 to $6.65 more than the current base price of $13.35 a barrel set by OPEC.

HEAVY DAMAGE was reported Monday to the Nitrogen Oil Well Service Co. on Tyng Street after the building caught fire shortly after 6 p.m. Pampa Fire Department officials said the blaze was caused by fumes from a gasoline spill which apparently got into an overhead heater. Heavy damage also was reported to a company truck. (Pampa News photo by Paul Sublett)

A monopoly of excellence

Baseball is big business. If you doubt it, note that Dave Parker's contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates may bring him well over $1 million a year. I say "may" because, in good business fashion, it is predicated on results, basically on how well he plays and how good a drawing card he proves to be.

According to the Chicago Sun-Times, Parker, who last year was named the National League's "most valuable player," is to receive, in addition to his six-digit salary, $100,000 each year he is named the NL's most valuable player, $15,000 each season he gets a Golden Glove award and $150,000 each year the Pittsburgh club draws two million or more people to its home games.

This calls attention to the fact that a professional athlete is not just a game player, but is in the business of entertaining people, and the better he does this the more money he earns. Some think it ridiculous to pay a person a million dollars a year to play ball, but it is not if his playing attracts enough people to the ballpark to increase his employer's income by more than $1 million.

What Parker receives will not be salary alone. Much of it will really be a share in the profits of the Pittsburgh ball club as a business. He is a profit sharer.

His contract also has a feature that indicates economic foresightedness. He will not receive all his pay currently. Each year $350,000 of it will be withheld and invested at 8.5 percent interest, and beginning a decade hence, when Parker will retire at the hoary age of 37, he will get $1 million in a lump sum and $200,000 each year thereafter for 18 years. By then, who knows — maybe he'll own the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A star baseball player commands a high reward for the same reason that a Jascha Heifetz receives a large sum for an evening's performance on the violin, or a Rembrandt bring a huge price at an art auction: monopoly. There is only one of the kind. There is only one Dave Parker; just as there is only one Jascha Heifetz and was only one Rembrandt. They are so good as to be in a class by themselves. They have no competition.

In the political world, monopoly is a bad word. In this country, there are laws against it. The government spends a substantial amount of the taxpayers' money to stamp it out.

When several people organize a corporation which in due time becomes as well managed, large and wealthy that it excels all others in its industry, it is in a class by itself, is "the most valuable player" — and it will be branded as a monopoly and antitrust laws will be invoked to break it up.

International Business Machines is an example. For years the government has made anti-trust law against IBM, with no success as yet. Does this make sense? Isn't excellence to be encouraged?

But, it is said, a company so big it dominates its industry is a menace to society. It can restrict production in that industry, set its own selling prices and so make the consumer's life hard.

This ignores the likelihood that if the firm does so the rate of profit will rise, luring other firms into the industry, and the increased competition will drive the price down. Being aware that this will take place restrains the big firm from taking advantage of its bigness and marking up its price.

IBM is big and does dominate the computer industry. But its selling prices are not excessive, not because it does not desire maximum profit but simply because higher prices would kindle such fiery competition there would be little net profit for any firms in the computer industry.

Why doesn't it work that way in the case of Dave Parker and the baseball industry? Why doesn't that $1 million-plus per year reward to Parker lure competitors? It, of course, does. But baseball, like violin playing, is a field where the skill of the individual rules. It is not easy to become another Dave Parker, another Pete Rose. In fact, it is impossible.

If the anti-trusters in Washington were to bring suit against Dave Parker, it would arouse a scream from the fans that could be heard from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate. Monopoly due to an individual's ability is quite a different matter, the American people think, than corporate monopoly.

Yet, is it so different? Both are based on superiority of performance, which boils down to performance by superior people. IBM holds its dominance by ability. General Motors Corp. has 55 percent of the automobile business because it is and long has been superior to its competitors.

There is really only one other way by which a seller can exercise monopoly and that is by getting power from from government. Public utilities are an example. The gas company has a monopoly on sale of natural gas in my town because the State of Ohio has granted it an exclusive franchise. This means that by law no other firm is permitted to sell gas here.

Government is the only source of actual monopoly. It can set up and operate a pure monopoly such as the delivery of first-class mail or it can empower a private firm to do so. Unlike Dave Parker, the U.S. Post Office is a monopoly of power, not of excellence.

Russians press luck on SALT

Soviet leaders continue to insist that final agreement on a new strategic arms limitation accord with the United States is a top Kremlin priority.

What they don't seem to realize is that their current policies are hardening Senate attitudes against a new SALT treaty. Either the Soviet leadership underestimates the importance of the Senate in the SALT process or it has misjudged the Senate's mood.

Whatever Moscow's failure of perception, President Carter must accept considerable blame for inviting the Soviet belligerence that now jeopardizes Senate ratification of a SALT agreement.

In one of the administration's most serious foreign policy mistakes, Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance have repeatedly said they attach no linkage between SALT and Soviet political and military misconduct outside the arms negotiations.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and his cohorts seem to have taken this stated tolerance at face value. Accordingly, the Soviets feel free to proceed with their designs on the Persian Gulf oil states, to intervene militarily in Africa, to send nuclear-capable MiGs to Cuba and to maintain the full momentum of their arms build up.

In recent months, the Soviet Union also has taken surreptitious steps which pose a significant threat to the ability of the United States to verify compliance with the existing strategic arms limitation agreements as well as any subsequent accord.

By purchasing the operating manual for the top-secret KH-11 photo reconnaissance satellite from a CIA employee since convicted of espionage, the Soviets have presumably enhanced their ability to evade satellite surveillance of their military installations. By proceeding with their killer satellite program, they are fast developing the ability to destroy or blind U.S. satellites without which this country can neither verify arms agreement compliance nor control its own strategic weapons in a crisis.

The Soviets also have resumed encoding the transmission of data from their missile test results, a serious violation of the SALT I agreement. Without access to such data, the United States cannot properly monitor Soviet compliance with either SALT I or the anti-ballistic missile treaty.

When members of the Senate delegation visiting Soviet leaders in Moscow recently raised these and other issues, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told them, in effect, to mind their own business. Moscow is reasserting its axiomatic policy of "what's ours is ours and what's yours is negotiable."

If President Carter and Secretary Vance don't understand that Moscow's bellicose posture is no basis for detente or SALT II, perhaps the Senate does.

Not much to be said for ERA amendment

Equal pay for equal work "Great." Equal opportunities in education. "Certainly."

Equal opportunities in obtaining credit. "Only fair."

Equal job opportunities. "By all means." Equal Rights Amendment. "Forget it!"

An inconsistent editorial stance? We believe not. Favoring equal opportunities for women and yet opposing the Equal Rights Amendment is not as incongruous as perhaps it would appear.

Federal laws already guarantee women those equal opportunities. The 1972 Equal Employment Act prescribes equal job opportunities. The 1972 Equal Employment Act mandates equal facilities in all schools supported with tax funds. And the Banking and Depository Act of 1975 proscribes discrimination by sex on credit matters.

Despite what the ERA activists may claim, ERA will not suddenly provide greater opportunities in those areas than women now enjoy.

While there certainly are instances of discrimination against women in employment now, passage of the controversial amendment will not provide any magical cure.

While not providing solutions, passage of ERA will open a Pandora's Box of problems.

We suggest the prudent approach is not to open the box.

Remember the Civil Rights Act of 1964? Government-sanctioned racial discrimination was wrong and needed correcting. As a result the Civil Rights Act was passed. How many people realized at the time passage would open the door to forced busing of school children?

Suddenly the matter was out of the hands of the people and their representatives and into the hands of the federal judges.

If ERA is passed the same thing will happen with respect to all sex-related matters. Neither the people nor their elected representatives will have any control over the resultant guidelines and interpretations. The federal courts will have a field day as will hungry barristers. After all, the amendment is worded in such a manner that every conceivable instance of alleged discrimination — from women in combat to father-son school picnics — will be decided by decree of federal judges.

As much opposition as forced busing has generated among both white and black people, it is surprising some people are pushing so hard to turn over all sex matters to those same judges.

Our position is that it is preferable to correct inequities with specific local or state legislation rather than all-encompassing constitutional amendments. At least local laws do not run the risk of uncertain federal interpretation and uncontrollable side effects.

No, we don't concur with ERA opponents who contend passage of the act will destroy home and family. Nor do we believe ERA is "Satan-inspired" as some claim.

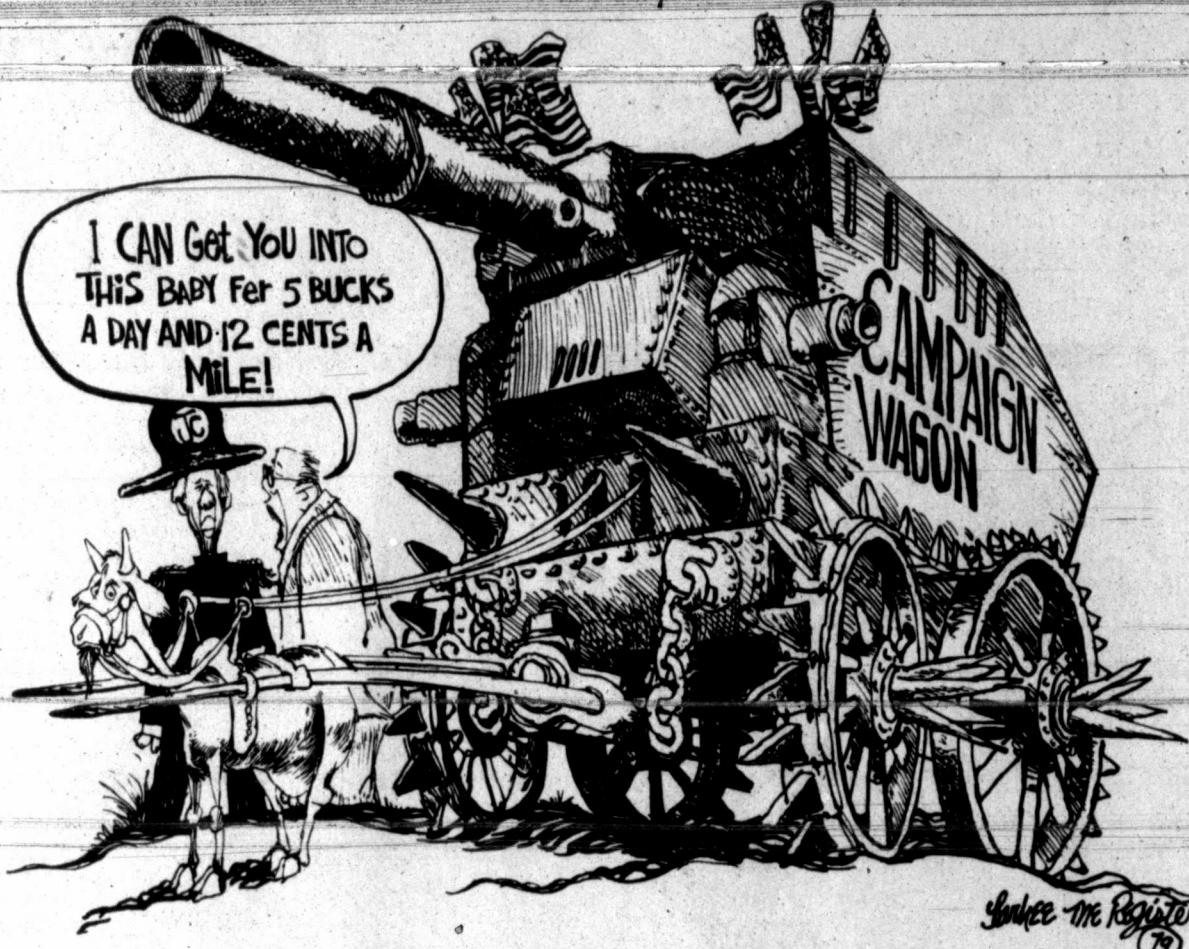

It is, we believe, widely misunderstood by both factions.

We can be fairly sure, however, that passage of ERA will have two significant effects.

First, the hundreds of state laws currently on the books discriminating in favor of women (child support, alimony, custody, sex crime definitions and so on) will be invalidated unless rewritten to treat each sex equally. The net result will be that women will lose some protections they now enjoy.

Second, the people will forfeit all local and state control of sex matters and resign themselves to becoming pawns in the hands of federal judges.

It is ironic that women, who are in the forefront of pushing ERA will suffer most from its enactment. But it is tragic that if ERA is passed, some will realize it too late.

Chicago after the storm

This is Chicago. The worst of the worst ever winter storm is behind us. Damage is incalculable.

The double-barreled storm was so psychologically devastating that courts and hospitals and insurers reflect the impact: one snowplow driver after a dozen 20-hour days went berserk and rammed his road grader indiscriminately into dozens of cars.

Under an unprecedented "yard of snow" everything sprang a leak, shrubbery was squashed and frozen, gaping holes pockmark most every street.

Nobody knows yet how many roofs caved in.

Under the weight of all that wet white garages collapsed in all suburbs. One roof caved in on a showroom full of new cars; the grandstand roof of a racetrack, the roof of a huge new K-Mart discount store.

Illinois Insurance Information Service guesstimates that damage claims will exceed $50 million. State Farm Insurance says the claims are too big to be handled by the company's regular claims department.

At the same time, New England, New York and New Jersey got record rains and much flooding.

This winter is certain to initiate another mass exodus to the sun belt.

Property values there, already out of reason, will go out of sight!

If we were paid in proportion to the "importance" of what we do — my goodness, how it would change things!

Marx tried to take from each according to his ability and give to each according to his need.

Though that policy, rewarding the unproductive, proved unproductive, our nation has been imitating it — thus creating a legion of "professional needy."

What if, instead, each of us was paid in proportion to the real significance of what we do?

High on the list would be some who are now low on the wage scale: pastors and farmers who nourish us; policemen and soldiers who protect us.

If we had to select only one worker deserving of the most reward I have one in mind.

No, I'm afraid news reporters would be very low on the list.

Actors and athletes, now among the highest paid, would be among the lowest.

Close to the top would be the doctor, the electrical engineer and the selfless soldiers of the Salvation Army.

Share your nominee with me if you will.

During the January Chicago snowstorm I gave my vote to the one person whose work is most useful, most significant, most important.

To the one who shovels the snow from the churchhouse steps.

And it's interesting — in our church members take turns performing that chore for nothing.

COMMENTARY

Repeat performance

Well, we've done it again.

The United States closed out 1978 with another all-time record trade deficit — $28.4 billion, up from the previous year's $26.5 billion.

The rough balance, if you can call it that, just reported by the Commerce Department is subject to some further adjustment as dealings with the rest of the world other than direct exchanges of physical goods are figured in. It does not yet, for example, include a wide range of intangible services supplied to foreign customers on which U.S. business continues to show a sizable surplus.

But whatever the changes in the final figure, they will not change the basic fact that the United States is deeper in the hole than ever in its economic relationship with the rest of the world.

The problems are a product inflation, continuing to such foreign goods into the U.S. economy, and are the major factor in the weakness of the dollar in world markets.

So much for the bad news, which we've heard before.

The better news is in government forecasts for a slowing of both inflation and economic growth during the current year in the United States while growth in the country's major trading partners expands. This plus the cheaper dollar, making U.S. goods a bargain should mean more sales abroad and a closing of the trade gap.

But come to think of it, haven't we heard this before, too?

55 foes pick up speed

In numbers there may turn out to be speed as well as strength.

Opposition to the nationwide 55 mile-an-hour speed limit has moved from the highways, where millions of drivers have been ignoring it when patrol cars aren't in sight, into legislatures.

Wyoming's is already well advanced with legislation to raise the limit to 65 and nine other states are readying similar measures.

The move to return legal speeds to pre-energy crisis limits is in defiance of the federal Transportation Department which is authorized to cut off highway aid funds to states not conforming to the 55 limit.

The rebellious states, all western and in which disregard of the 55 limit has been more widespread than anywhere else in the country, are reported counting on their numbers to deter retribution from Washington. The argument is that the bureaucrats would hesitate to tangle with such a sizable and determined bloc of states.

The proof will be in the proceedings once the states complete enactment of the limit-raising legislation. But the situation does point up a real problem.

Statistics indicate that the 55 limit, instituted in 1973, has been both an energy and a life saver. But as memories of the great gasoline shortage have faded, it has become increasingly resented by the driving public and difficult for highway police to enforce.

Whenever an effect of a law is to turn masses of otherwise law-abiding citizens into willing lawbreakers, there is a serious question as to whether the disadvantages may not outweigh its advantages.

Grounded carpets

In curtailing the supply of oil, the Iranian turmoil figuratively has pulled the rug out from under energy-addicted Americans.

It's also doing it literally to a well-heeled few of us. Until the revolutionary dust settles and the weavers go back to their looms, the supply of Persian rugs is expected to dwindle. Importers in major U.S. cities are reported expecting prices, already averaging well into the thousands of dollars per respectable rug, to zoom as competition develops for quality carpets.

One solution to both fuel and floor-covering problems does come to mind — flying carpets. But there has been no indication as yet that the Ayatollah Khomeini is including them in his plans for a return to Islamic basics.

Bill would restore 'balance'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Seven bills making it harder for consumers to collect damages in court from makers of products that injure them whizzed through a Senate committee Monday. Unanimous or near-unanimous votes sent the measures to the Senate floor for further action. It will be at least mid-March before attempts are made to bring the bills up for debate, sponsors say.

Meanwhile the committee also was told that triple damages should not automatically be ordered in cases that come under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act. The Senate Economic Development Committee took less than 90 minutes to hear testimony and vote on the bills, which rank among the top issues of the 66th Legislature. Sen. Ray Farabee,

D-Wichita Falls, said the intent was to restore a balance between consumer and manufacturer interests that Texas court decisions had upset. Because the skyrocketing cost of product liability insurance adds to prices, "this is not simply a problem of business or the insurance industry, but of consumers as well," Farabee said. Jim Sales of the Texas Association of Defense Counsel said the law had evolved to the point where a company can be held liable for money damages even though it had not been negligent and its product had been misused or altered. High product liability awards have pushed businessmen's insurance rates up, Sales said, and this "has increased drastically the price of all kinds of products," including cars and drugs.

Mills Boon of the National Federation of Independent Business told of businessmen whose product liability premiums jumped as high as 28 times in a single year. "In the vast majority of cases, these are businessmen who have never had a claim filed against them," Boon said. Mike Gallagher of Houston, president of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, opposed the bills and said the scales of justice had not tipped too far in favor of injured consumers. Of the 25 product cases that were tried in Houston in 1977, manufacturers won 18 and consumers 7, Gallagher said, while in Dallas courts the score was manufacturers 10, consumers 2. "Until fairly recently, the insurance companies advertised that the number of product liability claims had reached one million a year. Now, however, the insurance companies admit that the correct number is less than one-tenth of that," Ms. Barger said. On action regarding the Trade Practices Act, Austin Attorney Joe Langley told the committee, "I don't want to hold an innocent wrongdoer to triple damages."

Connally wraps up state tour

DALLAS (AP) — John Connally today wraps up a seven-day, 22-city tour of Texas in his drive to win some state support in his drive to capture the Republican presidential nomination.

Connally attracted large and enthusiastic crowds at McAllen, Corpus Christi and Dallas Monday. He was scheduled to visit Tyler, Longview, Port Arthur and Houston today.

In Dallas, more than 3,500 tickets were sold at $25 each for a reception at a motel convention center, and an overflow crowd estimated at 2,000 heard him speak and then swarmed around him later to shake his hand.

Connally, 62, drew repeated applause when he said he plans to do something about a decline in U.S. power abroad, which he blamed on "the malaise of leadership" in this country.

"We are shrinking from the responsibilities of leadership at home and abroad," Connally declared, saying U.S. leadership began to erode in the early 1970s when Congress refused to appropriate money for continued development of the supersonic transport (SST) aircraft.

The former Texas governor also blasted Congress and President Carter for failing to push quickly enough with nuclear power development, including the fast breeder reactor, and for throwing up environmental roadblocks to the mining of coal.

To furnish enough energy for the United States, the country may have to "suspend or set aside some of the environmental restraints for a few years," Connally added.

A former Democrat who shifted allegiance to the Republican Party, Connally said he sees no problems making inroads into the GOP.

"There is good precedent for it," he said, referring to Ronald Reagan.

"He (Reagan) was a Democrat, a very liberal Democrat. He has ingratiated himself with the Republican Party in a very substantial manner, and I think I can do the same."

In McAllen, Connally pointed out that Winston Churchill changed party affiliations without it hurting him.

"He did well. He also said, 'Some people change their principles for their party, and others change their party for their principle,'" Connally said.

Former Dallas Mayor Eric Jonsson and former GOP gubernatorial nominee Paul Eggers introduced Connally to his Dallas audience.

"The people are starving for strong leadership, and John Connally is that man," Eggers said.

Jonsson, now 77, said as a boy in New York City he was an admirer of President Theodore Roosevelt, who was supposed to have "walked softly" but carried "a big stick."

"All I've seen lately is somebody who wants to walk softly, talk softly and say very little," Jonsson said. "I don't want a pussyfoot in there (the White House)."

Rape trial set

The trial of a Pampa man charged with the Feb. 7 rape of a local convenience store attendant has been set for March 12 at 9 a.m.

Wayne Blankenship, 22, was arraigned Monday in 31st District Court Monday and placed on $10,000 bond by Judge Grainger McIlhenny.

Blankenship has been held in Gray County Jail since his arrest under the original bond of $25,000.

According to attorney Mark Buzzard, Blankenship has entered a "not guilty plea at this time" to the charge.

The 19-year-old attendant reportedly identified Blankenship as her assailant after he was brought to the Pampa police station several hours after the alleged assault.

Weather

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
A few light showers fell in the Panhandle overnight, and more scattered thundershowers could fall in the Panhandle and parts of West Texas today.

Gusty southwesterly to westerly winds will whip across West Texas today, kicking up dust on the South Plains.

High clouds drifted over most of the rest of Texas today, and partly cloudy skies were expected to continue over most of the state.

Temperatures dipped below the freezing mark in parts of West Texas and the Panhandle. Marfa reported a reading of 29 degrees and Dalhart reported a temperature of 30.

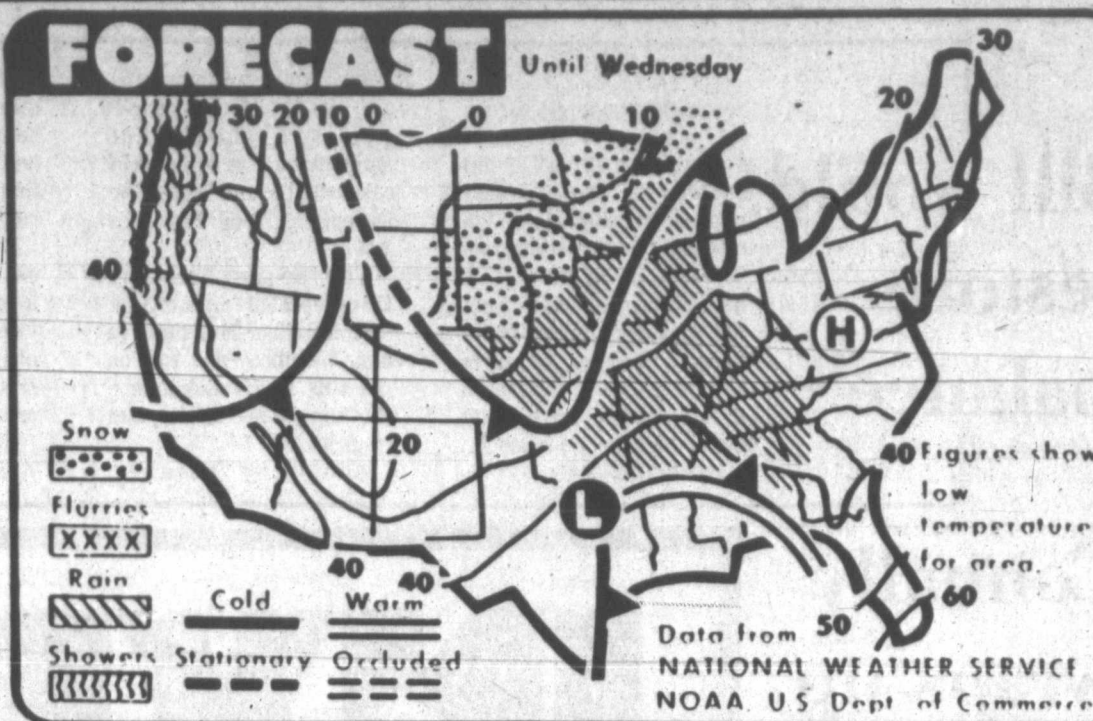

Readings in the Panhandle, South Plains and along the Red River were generally in the mid to upper 30s early today. While temperatures climbed to the low and mid 50s in South Texas.

Highs today will range from the upper 50s in the Panhandle, to the 60s in North Central and Northeast Texas and to the 70s in South Texas.

Texas forecast

South Texas -- Partly cloudy and warmer today and tonight with widely scattered showers and thundershowers in the west and scattered thundershowers in the east. Partly cloudy and a little cooler Wednesday with widely scattered showers in eastern sections. Highs today in the 70s. Lows tonight low 40s in the northwest to the mid 50s in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Highs Wednesday mid 60s to mid 70s.

West Texas -- Partly cloudy today and tonight becoming fair, most sections Wednesday. Windy today with blowing dust in the Panhandle and the South Plains. A little cooler in the north today and in most sections Wednesday.

WEATHER FORECAST by the National Weather Service calls for rain from the Southeast and upper Gulf states into the eastern Plains and Midwest. Snow is forecast from the central Plains to Minnesota. Showers are forecast for the Pacific Northwest coast. Temperatures will be seasonably cool to cold across the nation.

14-year-old charged in shooting death

AZLE, Texas (AP) -- A 14-year-old Azle boy was scheduled for arraignment today before a juvenile court judge on charges he shot a classmate to death Monday on the school ground of Azle Junior High School.

School officials said the victim, 13-year-old Gary Gaines Jr., was "a real good kid... no disciplinary problem at all."

And Azle Police Chief Greg Asikis said the suspect "never had been in trouble, that we know of, even in school."

A disagreement dating back several months to a football game the two eighth grade students played in last year was said to have been the apparent cause of the shooting.

Gaines was shot once in the back of the head with a .22-caliber pistol about 3:20 p.m. Monday between the school's field house and football practice area as other students stood around.

He and the suspect were both members of the junior high football team and had just showered after a physical education class moments before the shooting, school officials said.

Members of the school faculty said there was no apparent argument the day of the shooting.

"All of a sudden, it happened, from some prior arguments stemming to four or five months ago," the chief said.

Four coaches carried Gaines into the field house. He was taken to John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth, where he died about 5:30 p.m.

Other students said the suspect ran after the shooting.

Azle police, aided by Parker and Tarrant County sheriff's deputies, and a Fort Worth police helicopter, arrested the boy an hour later. They found him hiding in a culvert 500 yards from the school playing scene. He had a .22-caliber pistol, believed to be the murder weapon, under his arm, officers said.

Asikis said the shooting scene was "mass confusion" when he arrived at the school moments after it occurred.

"We've talked to a bunch of the kids and can't find any reason at all. Usually when a kid has got something up there (at school) he's not supposed to have, one of the other kids will come up and tell us about it. This time we got no word at all (about the gun)," school principal Don Hufstetler said.

Fierce fighting reported in Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) -- Vietnam reported fierce fighting today in the northwest corridor to Hanoi and said its forces wiped out 2,000-Chinese there from Friday to Monday.

The official Voice of Vietnam said the fighting was concentrated in the Cam Duong area which sits astride the Red River delta corridor which runs from the frontier to the Vietnamese capital.

The broadcast also said two more Chinese companies were decimated in Lang Son province northeast of Hanoi Monday and another 250 Chinese soldiers were killed or wounded in the past two days in Phong Tho district of Lai Chau province.

Phong Tho is 15 miles inside Vietnam and 190 miles northwest of Hanoi.

President Carter called on China to undertake "a speedy withdrawal" from Vietnam, in a message given to top Chinese leaders by Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal who is visiting Peking. It was the bluntest statement to date of American opposition to the war.

But intelligence sources in Bangkok noted that the Chinese showed no signs of a withdrawal after 10 days of fighting and in fact were still reinforcing their troops in some frontier areas, including Lang Son.

Vietnam claimed Monday its troops were holding fast in the Cam Duong area and inflicted heavy casualties on the invaders at the other end of the frontier.

Radio Hanoi said the Vietnamese withstood a Chinese armored and infantry attack from three directions Monday in the Cam Duong area, on the Red River south of the provincial capital of Lao Cai and about 150 miles northwest of Hanoi.

No figures were given, but Hanoi has claimed its troops have killed more than 16,000 Chinese since Peking invaded Feb. 17. Intelligence sources consider the kill count inflated.

Mardi Gras

It's been called Shrove Tuesday, Fat Tuesday, Pancake Tuesday, and Fasching. But in New Orleans, Louisiana, today is Mardi Gras, usually a time for parades, dances and merrymaking before the religious season of Lent. Parades have been a part of Mardi Gras since 1838, when masked horsemen rode through New Orleans throwing fruit and candy to people in the streets. On Mardi Gras, even the spectators who watch the parades get into the act, wearing exotic masks and costumes, and dancing in the streets. This year, a police strike in New Orleans threatened to cancel some of the parades.

DO YOU KNOW -- "Mardi Gras" means "Fat Tuesday" in what language?

MONDAY'S ANSWER -- In "Travels With Charley," Steinbeck describes a journey across America with his dog.

Engineer testifies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -- A former Texas Electric Service Co. engineer now employed at the Public Utility Commission testified today that the company Monday over objections from a consumer group.

Robert T. Sweatman, commission engineering director, participated in the commission's six-month investigation of TESCO and its sister companies. He worked for the Fort Worth-based utility 10 years before joining the commission three years ago.

"His testimony is biased and prejudiced to the public interest," argued Geoffrey Gay, attorney for the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN).

John Bell, commission general counsel, defended Sweatman's ability to investigate and testify about questionable energy transactions by his former employer.

"We will fully admit that Mr. Sweatman used to work for TESCO," Bell said. "But I used to work for the city of Grand Prairie. I think it's completely irrelevant. We need to look to the merits of the testimony."

Commission chairman George Cowden dismissed Gay's objections.

The exchange began the second week of a hearing into energy-related transactions among companies in the Texas Utilities network.

TESCO, Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light are the operating companies in the system, which also has independent fuel, generating, service and research affiliates.

District to pick study group

The Grandview-Hopkins Independent School District will select a Steering Committee for a state mandated study plan at tonight's meeting.

The plan requires schools to pick out its weak and strong points and to work on the shortcomings.

"Every school must go through this study," said Grandview Superintendent T.J. Adkins, "and some have already started."

The board will also hear the superintendent's report on the last month and later vote on the approval of the current bills and invoices for the past fiscal month.

The trustee election date, set by state regulations, will also be considered for approval.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a married man, 24, with questions in mind about my bride of less than six months. We married after a whirlwind courtship of 10 weeks. Our courtship included some heavy romantic sessions, but we never actually went all the way because Marie (not her real name) insisted that she was saving herself for her wedding night.

Marie claims that I am her first lover, but since our marriage her actions have led me to believe otherwise. I have had only three other women in my life, but my bride has taught me more about love-making than I dreamed existed! It just doesn't seem possible that she had no previous experience.

I'm not complaining, but it is hard for me to believe that I am her first.

I don't want to insult her, but I would like to know the truth. How do I find out?

L. IN DENTON, TEXAS

DEAR L: Enjoy your good fortune and quit wondering. Maybe Marie has just done a lot of reading. In bed.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in sales. I know he's good because he's won nearly every sales contest his company has had.

He makes a wonderful living for me and the children, but it doesn't compensate for his absences. He is busy nearly every night entertaining customers and prospects until the wee hours.

Weekends are a nightmare. He's exhausted and sleeps every Saturday morning, plus almost all day Sunday. Meanwhile, I am supposed to keep our youngsters quiet and out of sight while Daddy sleeps.

Sex has long been forgotten. He doesn't have the time or energy for that anymore.

I plan to stay until the youngsters are old enough so that I can leave with a clear conscience. Then I will try to make another life for myself—if I'm still desirable. I see no other alternative. Do you?

MARRIED BUT ALONE

DEAR MARRIED: Yes. Lay your cards on the table and give your husband a chance to respond. Perhaps he isn't aware that in his determination to make a good living he is making a bad life for his family. I recommend marriage counseling. Please give it a try. You've nothing to lose and everything to gain. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: About young girls who ask for brassieres when they have nothing (or very little) to put in them: Years ago, when I visited my daughter at summer camp, she asked me to please send her some brassieres. I told her she really didn't need any.

Then she told me that some of the boys looked through the armholes of the girls' sleeveless summer dresses. I told her the brassieres would be in the mail the next day. And they were!

About two years later my gardener, who has two motherless daughters, told me that his eldest (9) asked him for a brassiere and he laughed at her. I told him my daughter's story. Then he understood.

MRS. D. IN LYNNBROOK, N.Y.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am thinking of starting a weight-lifting program and I have your Health Letter 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. One of the things you said puzzles me. You said you need to consume enough calories each day to meet your daily caloric needs, and if you don't, the body will not build new muscle mass.

I charted my protein and calorie intake and found that I have 104 grams of protein and only 1300 calories. Is this possible? I went over my findings three times and couldn't find any mistakes.

Could you give me a diet that would give me enough protein and calories to gain muscular weight in definition and not gain fat? I'm 17 years old, 5 feet 10, and weigh 140 pounds. Anything you can tell me would be appreciated.

DEAR READER: The statement that has confused you is related to the dual use of proteins. It's true that proteins can be and are used to build new proteins, including muscle proteins.

Proteins are made up of amino acids and these amino acids can be stripped of their nitrogen (amino group) and converted to carbohydrates and fats. That's one of the things people who consume lots of proteins forget.

In your case, this means if you don't provide enough calories (carbohydrate or fat) to meet the basic energy needs of your body each day, that 100-plus grams of protein you're eating will be used for energy. That may not leave enough protein to build new muscle protein. If you're on a starvation diet, as happened with prisoners in concentration camps in World War II, the body will consume its muscles to provide energy to sustain life. The muscle protein is treated like any protein you would eat and is used for energy.

It follows, then, that there are two requirements you must meet to provide adequate protein for your body. The first is adequate, good quality protein and the other is enough calories to be sure that those proteins aren't used for energy.

I'm suspicious that you have not calculated your calories properly. It's possible, though, because foods high in proteins and low in fat may not contain many calories. A good example is lean round steak. A whole pound with all visible fat removed provides about 600 calories, but 98 grams of good quality protein.

In addition to the foods listed in this diet, increase your lean meat, fish or chicken intake to at least two-thirds of a pound a day and add any foods you like to increase your calories. Whole wheat bread would be a good addition. Don't add high-fat foods. Developing such a habit can lead to other problems as you get older.

A good index as to whether you're doing the right thing is whether you're gaining weight and being certain that the weight you're gaining is not fat accumulating under the skin.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY: Some time ago I bought a beautiful spider plant with many "babes" on it. I did not want to put a hook in my ceiling to hang it from so I am using a bird cage stand that has a circlewire top on a long leg with a floor base. It is pretty and useful and is easily moved from one place to another. - Z.M.N.

DEAR POLLY: To clean my dish rack and mat I put them in the bathtub, put in enough water to cover the bottoms well, add little bleach and leave for a couple of hours. All that gunk and the water spots come off leaving it nice and clean and sterilized at the same time. - KATHY.

DEBORAH GATTIS has received superior ratings in the University Interscholastic League solo contests in voice and piano for every year of her junior high and high school career. In all, this amounts to 10 first place ratings. Deborah, an 18-year-old senior at Pampa High School, is a member of the concert choir and the Texas all state choir. Privately she studies piano with Bill Haley and voice with Susie Wilson.

Teacher needs own business to make living

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Patrick Crowe cannot recall how and when he came to the realization that to remain a teacher he had to go into business so he could make a living.

"To become a teacher," Crowe said, "took patience, brains, willingness to learn, hard work, some inspiration, motivation and determination. To stay in teaching required additional income."

Now, Crowe is so successful at both, he has written a book for other teachers about it, "How to Teach School and Make a Living at the Same Time," published this fall in hardcover and paperback.

The idea came about a year ago from his students at Rockhurst High School, where he teaches mathematics. He was discussing a class text at the time. "Why don't you write a book, Mr. Crowe?" one of them asked. He quipped in return "The only thing I know enough to write a book about is how to teach school and make a living at the same time."

The suggestion took root, and last Christmas vacation Crowe sat down to write. He has been a teacher 20 years.

"I guess for a number of years I had the fantasy that I could live on a teacher's salary, and I sort of had a fantasy that some day I'd get some fantastic job offer," Crowe said.

Then came marriage and three children.

A car wash was his first venture, and he has since branched out from Christmas tree lots to more car washes. He says that his yearly income puts him in the top 10 percent of American earners. "That's anyone making over $30,000 a year," he said.

Hughes-Woodward exchange vows

Karen Hughes and Gary Woodward were united in marriage on Feb. 16 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gravley Malone, aunt and uncle of the bride. Mr. Y.A. Knutson performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hughes of Pampa and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Woodward, Skellytown.

The matron of honor was Becky Slavens, Amarillo, sister of the bride. The best man was Eddie Milton, White Deer.

The groom is employed by Brown & Root Construction Co., Pampa.

The couple will make their home in White Deer.

What's up in films?

Imagine "Gone With the Wind" with Jane Fonda and Burt Reynolds. Or "Casablanca" with Clint Eastwood and Diane Keaton.

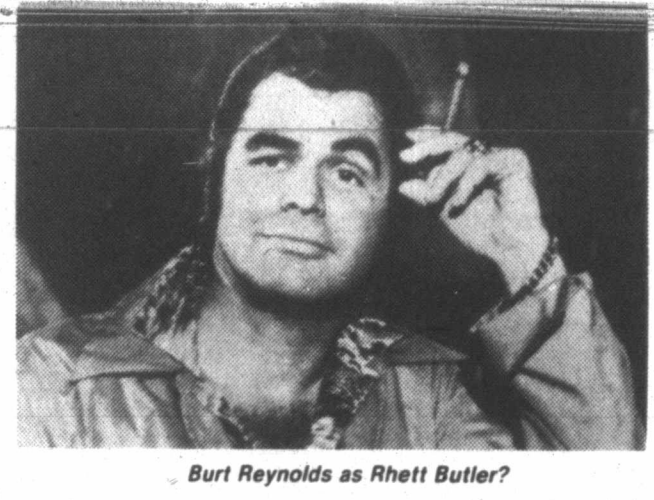

That's what might happen if a big Hollywood producer decided to remake one of those screen favorites with 1979's hottest stars.

According to American Film magazine, these are the screen actors and actresses who are currently in greatest demand, due to their popular appeal and critical acclaim:

- Actresses
- Jill Clayburgh
 - Faye Dunaway
 - Jane Fonda
 - Diane Keaton
 - Marsha Mason
 - Tatum O'Neal
 - Diana Ross
 - Brooke Shields
 - Barbra Streisand
 - Lily Tomlin

Twenty years ago, says American Film, a list of top Hollywood stars would have included: Marion Brand, Doris Day, Cary Grant, Susan Hayward, Audrey Hepburn, Charlton Heston, William Holden, Rock Hudson, Deborah Kerr, Jack Lemmon, Jerry Lewis, Sophia Loren, Shirley MacLaine, Marilyn Monroe, Paul Newman, Kim Novak, Debbie Reynolds, Frank Sinatra, Elizabeth Taylor and John Wayne.

- Actors
- Warren Beatty
 - Robert De Niro
 - Richard Dreyfuss
 - Clint Eastwood
 - Jack Nicholson
 - Nick Nolte
 - Robert Redford
 - Burt Reynolds
 - Sylvester Stallone
 - John Travolta

Burt Reynolds as Rhett Butler?

EULA HARRIS WAS HONORED at a birthday party Feb. 18 in the Fellowship Hall of the Assembly of God Church. Mrs. Harris was born in Kentucky in 1889 and moved to Skellytown from Oklahoma. She has seven children.

Scout Pack 422 holds meeting

Horace Mann Cub Scout Pack 422 held their annual Blue and Gold Banquet Feb. 16 at the National Guard Armory. About 142 people attended the event which celebrated 49 years of cub scouting.

Mr. A.O. Cox was the guest speaker. Entertainment was provided by a puppet show and a hillbilly band.

A plaque was presented to Horace Mann P.T.A. and special recognition went to Donna and Floyd Lott. Awards were presented to 21 boys.

Corrected date for heart drive

The Gray County Heart Fund drive began Feb. 23 and runs through March 1. The dates were incorrectly reported Feb. 25 in the News.

Phillips, Groom snare bi-district wins

By JOE BLOBAUM
Pampa News Sports Editor
Cold shooting and the dominance of All-State Debra Rankin proved too much for Panhandle to overcome here Monday night as the Pantherettes dropped a 30-23 Class A bi-district basketball game to Phillips' Lady Blackhaws.

Earlier, Groom had proven to be entirely too much for Allison to handle as the Tigerettes advanced to Friday's 1-B

Regional in Loveland with an 80-41 victory.

"Panhandle did a good job of moving the ball," Phillips Coach Carl Reed said of the low-scoring second half of the bi-district double header at Harvester Field House. "They're patient, but I thought they were a little too patient."

The Pantherettes dictated the tempo of the game from the start. Working the ball carefully, Panhandle got Lisa Wright and Jo Reining open for good shots, and they sank them for a 4-0 Pantherette lead.

But Miss Rankin, a third-team Parade Magazine All-American, countered with a short jumper to begin her 22-point performance and Tammy Blankenship added a 16-footer to tie the game. From that point, the game turned into something resembling a controlled dogfight.

With a raucous crowd roaring its approval or dismay at every turn, Panhandle kept up its hot first-quarter shooting to finish five for nine from the field — and take a 10-6 lead.

But the second quarter must have seemed like a second Ice Age to Jimmie Adams' Pantherettes.

They missed their first nine shots from the field and didn't score until 12 seconds remained in the half. Reining connected on a three-point play at that point but Phillips, behind Rankin's three field goals and two free throws, had surged into the lead and took a 16-13 cushion into the dressing room.

Defenses played an integral part in the low-scoring contest.

Panhandle used a zone that often surrounded Rankin with three players, while Phillips employed a box-and-one in the early going to contain Linda McReynolds.

Phillips' idea worked better. While Rankin was able to work herself into one-on-one situations from time to time, McReynolds was held scoreless. Panhandle was forced to shoot from the outside and Adams confessed, "We haven't been a very good outside shooting team all year."

Phillips opened up its biggest lead of the game (24-17) midway through the third quarter, and Panhandle never got closer than three points the rest of the way. Still, it was that cold second quarter (in which they were outscored 10-3) that doomed the Pantherettes, who bowed out with a 26-3 record.

Phillips, which qualified for the Region 1-A Tournament for the fifth straight year, will take a 22-6 mark into the Lubbock event this weekend. Groom, meanwhile, had a 20-point explosion from 5-4 guard Connie Crowell in its walk over the Antelopes.

The Tigerette-sparkplug combined breakaway layups with some deadly outside shooting as she doubled Allison's team output in the second quarter. The rest of the Groom team, meanwhile, was adding another eight points as the Tigerettes took a 46-17 halftime lead.

If Allison entertained any thoughts of a miracle comeback in the second half, Groom crushed them quickly at the outset of the third quarter.

With nine points from Karen Kuehler and eight from Crowell, the Pantherettes scored 13 of the second half's first 15 points and took their first of several 40-point leads at 59-19.

Crowell, who exited the game with 43 seconds left in the third quarter, finished with 32 points to lead all scorers. Betsy Krizan added 14 and Kuehler 11 as the Tigerettes placed nine players in the scoring column.

Allison, meanwhile, got some valiant performances from Becky Cornell and Marky Chandler in a losing effort.

Cornell drove her way to 13 points, while Chandler managed 11. The loss dropped Allison's season mark to 19-7.

Now 28-6, Groom will play its first regional contest at 4 Friday afternoon against the winner of the Chillicothe-Motley County game tonight in Childress.

Pro wrestlers please Pampa crowd

By EUGENE LAVCOCK,
Pampa News Staff

Professional wrestlers performed feats of strength, usually enacted on the TV screen, on the stage of M.K. Brown Auditorium Monday night.

Controlled applause between matches were supplanted by perpetual blood-curdling screams coming from the auditorium filled with youngsters and adults, who watched the huge monoliths scurrying acrobatically about the white-padded ring.

Andre The Giant, an incredible human whose 7-foot-4 frame weighs in at 480 pounds, dwarfed the efforts of his two 235-pound opponents, Stan "The Man" Lane of Delray Beach, Florida and Ratamys, a mystery man who is managed by Scandor Akbar.

In the last main event, Andre held his own between his arms and legs, changing the clownish expressions on their faces to grimaces resembling those of the Three Stooges.

After slinging his opponents against the guard rail and sitting on them for a short while, this Goliath reversed the tide of Biblical history, trapping one of the Davids for a three count.

Andre is considered the eighth wonder of the world, as well as a spectacular international wrestling attraction.

Black Jack Mulligan, a 235 pound pure Texan, combined with Merced Solis, an ex-West Texas State football player, in the second main event on the Pampa card — a showdown with two gentlemen from Japan.

The oriental crew lost by a default when Mr. Pogo, who holds fourth degree black belts in several oriental martial arts, threw an illegal karate blow.

Scandor Akbar, the Arabian oil millionaire and manager of the losers, shouted protests of the match to Mulligan and Solis. Mulligan answered these complaints in the grand style of wrestling by challenging Akbar to a dual with $1000 on the line.

Akbar covered off stage twice while the crowd jeered for him to accept the challenge of the Texan who was laying in the middle of the ring, kicking his red, white and blue cowboy boots against the mat in apparent anger.

Manny Fernandez, wearing red, white and green tights, matched his 240 pounds against the 300 of Tank Patton who was booed and hissed through the entire match.

The quickness of Fernandez, a native Californian, enabled him to escape many pins of the former football coach from Tampa, Fla.

Patton, clad in black tights and blue leotards, took his opponent down for a three count before the 15 minute bout had ended, despite the crowd's disapproval.

Grizzly Boone, who strutted around in the early minutes like a wild dog, defeated Haystack Calhoun before the end of a 15-minute time limit in a lively show of brawn.

The men bounced on the mat as if it were a trampoline, and assisted each other in aerobic performances, which were accompanied by the ear-racking noises of bodies slamming on the floor.

One wrestler has found the pains of the sport to be part of a profitable career. Black Jack Mulligan said in an interview after his match said that he was in wrestling for the money and travel.

He has wrestled in Australia, Europe, Japan and many places in the United States.

The wrestler's busy schedule, he said, includes practice matches five times during the week in preparation for the ultimate battles in arenas around the world.

Mulligan said the pro wrestlers were contracted in Pampa because Andre was in the Panhandle area and the auditorium had an open day.

He added that wrestling has not been staged in this city for a long time and the contractor is interested in the reaction of the people.

Andre The Giant was the big attraction, as many youths crowded outside the dressing room to receive his autograph. The giant Frenchmen parted the crowd and sat inside a pickup without saying a word to anyone.

He will be featured this Thursday at the Amarillo Wrestling Arena, where the production is televised.

Dolphins perform well at Odessa

Four of five Pampa Dolphin swimmers entered in an age group meet in Odessa over the weekend brought home first-place awards, according to Coach Mike Eckhart.

He said a lot of hard work had paid off for Russ Rabel and Kipp Lester, both of whom brought home a first place finish.

Clay Douglass, meanwhile, took first place in seven of the eight events he entered, while Kurt Lester accounted for four first place finishes on his own.

Results from the Odessa meet included:

Clay Douglass, senior division: 500 free — 5:41.5, 1st; 200 butterfly — 2:33.3, 1st; A time: 100 free — 59.7, 1st; 100 fly — 1:09.1, 1st; 200 IM — 2:26.3, 1st; 200 back — 2:26.9, 1st; 100

Indiana State recaptures top spot

NEW YORK (AP)—Indiana State, having completed its first undefeated regular season, regained the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll today, easily outdistancing runner-up Notre Dame.

The Sycamores, 26-0 and ranked second last week, collected 51 of 61 first-place ballots and 1,192 points in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters—Indiana State, which beat Drake 76-68 last Tuesday night and crushed Wichita State 109-84 in its first appearance on national television Sunday, was named on all the ballots, although the Sycamores were ranked as low as seventh by one voter.

The Irish, ranked third last week, received seven first-place votes and 1,150 points.

UCLA, top-ranked last week but upset by Washington 69-68 Thursday night and extended to triple overtime in a 110-102 victory over Washington State Saturday, collected two first-place votes and 1,060 points while slipping to No. 3.

The remainder of last week's Top 10 engaged in a game of musical chairs.

Michigan State, No. 7 last week, jumped to No. 4 with the remaining first-place vote and 988 points. The Spartans posted victories over Big Ten Conference rivals Purdue and Illinois last week.

Preseason favorite Duke moved from No. 6 into the No. 5 position with 914 points following a 47-40 victory over North Carolina and a 70-49 loss to Clemson.

Syracuse, eighth last week, jumped two notches to sixth with 897 points—18 more than North Carolina, No. 4 last week.

Louisiana State, upset by Mississippi State last Saturday, dropped from No. 5 to No. 8 with 851 points, while Arkansas and Marquette swapped the final two positions in the Top 10. The Razorbacks moved from No. 10 to No. 9 with 712 points, while the Warriors, No. 9 last week, were 10th this week with 521 points.

Iowa headed the Second 10, followed by Temple, Louisville, Texas, DePaul, Georgetown, Ohio State, Detroit, Purdue and

San Francisco.

San Francisco, making its second appearance in the Top 20 this season, was the only newcomer to the poll this week. The Dons replaced Vanderbilt, which was ranked 19th last week but dropped out after losing to Tennessee and Kentucky.
