Carter begins first leg of pilgrimage

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Carter arrived in Cairo today on the first leg of a pilgrimage for peace that both Egypt and Israel hope will lead to a peace treaty between them.

A beaming Egyptian President Anwar Sadat kissed Carter on both cheeks as soon as he got off Air Force One at Cairo airport. He then led Carter to a red-carpet reception as a 21-gun salute boomed out.

Outside the airport, thousands of Egyptians shouted out chants of welcome even before seeing Carter.

Carter, risking his prestige and possibly his political fortunes on his personal peace-making mission, said peace is "within reach" just before he left Washington Wednesday night.

But Carter also insisted that success is "not assured" and White House press secretary Jody Powell told reporters during a refueling stop in the Azores that chances were still "iffy."

As if to underscore that, Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil said today, only hours before Carter's arrival, that Egypt would continue to insist that any peace treaty contain a timetable for setting up Palestinian autonomy in the Israeli-occupied West Bank. The Israelis have consistently opposed such a timetable.

"We have prepared counter-proposals to the American proposals," Khalil said, adding that he had asked to meet with his U.S. counterpart, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, immediately after Carter's arrival.

Nevertheless, officials here were optimistic that the trip would result in a settlement of generation-old differences between the two neighbors. A cartoon in the leading newspaper here showed Air Force One with an angel of peace clinging to its tail.

Tens of thousands of spectators began gathering early along the route of Carter's eight-mile motorcade from the airport to Kubbeh palace. Students rushed to finish a 40-foot high white dove of peace for the procession.

The dove, mounted on a bus chassis, had flapping wings, an olive branch in its beak and 300 live doves inside for release as Egyptian entertainers sang to the roadside crowds about peace.

After trying to convince President Anwar Sadat to settle remaining differences with Israel, Carter will shuttle to Jerusalem on Saturday. There, he will try to convince Prime Minister Menachem Begin to sit down with Sadat and sign a treaty between the two nations.

The pact would end three decades of hostility.

Signs of optimism abounded. Sadat's cabinet studied U.S. suggestions for the treaty. Egyptian officials called Carter's visit "the final sprint to peace." And Begin said, "I am hopeful." While U.S. officials said too many details remain for Carter to complete a treaty for signing, they did not rule out initiating one.

Nonetheless, Carter told about 40 members of Congress who met with him at the White House shortly before he left that he was not sure of success. "He said he had no deal," said Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill.

"The president spoke plainly of the risk to himself — and to the country," said Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif.

In an interview on the eve of Carter's departure, Republican presidential candidate John Connally said Carter might lose his ability to govern if he fails.

Carter said his hopes are "tempered by sober realism."

He told reporters and members of his staff gathered on the south lawn of the White House that negotiations must address "the legitimate needs of all who are affected by the conflict." That was a reference to Palestinians living in Israeli-occupied territory.

"Real peace will not come with a single treaty — important as that would be," Carter said. "But a treaty between Egypt and Israel is an indispensable step toward the broader comprehensive peace we all seek."

However, the president ended on a note of optimism. "For the first time in a generation," he said, "peace in the Middle East has come within reach."

Soviets may face revolt by women

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet women are taking a holiday today from cooking, cleaning and riveting to mark International Women's Day amid signs that a female revolt against overwork is brewing.

It's "Queen for a Day" as men bring chocolates and flowers to their wives, mothers or female colleagues. The nationwide celebration is one of the most important of the year though the holiday goes mostly unnoticed in the West.

President Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and the Communist Party Central Committee congratulated Soviet women and thanked them for their "contribution to the strengthening of internationalistic solidarity" and their work for peace and detente.

But while the Communist regime pats itself on the back for constitutionally guaranteeing its women "real equality," working wives and mothers are rebelling against their lot.

Writing in a recent issue of the magazine Journalist, prominent economist Viktor Perevedentsev denounced the unequal burdens women have along with their equal rights.

"The overwhelming majority of women have literally two work periods a day," he said, "seven to eight hours at their production sites and four to six hours at home. This makes for a very difficult life."

Nadezhda Sidorova, a chief designer at a Moscow watch factory, was recently interviewed by the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya. Described as very "businesslike," she was responsible for the production work of 8,000 employees, one of a select group of Soviet women who occupy high-level management positions.

"You can see it on my boss's desk — my letter of resignation," she told the interviewer.

She asked to return to her old job as section chief of automation, an admitted step back down the career ladder she had been successfully climbing.

"Since I became the chief designer," she explained, "I would come home, switch off the television and shut the windows. During the nights, I could think only about the problems of designing. And in these 2½ years, I've lost my friends."

Mrs. Sidorova said the Soviet Union has reached the stage of emancipation where it is "common sense" for women to want to limit their careers, especially when they have families to care for.

"Look, we already have proved that we can do everything — head factories, make discoveries, fly into space, write laws," she told the interviewer. "And now we should say with pride and confidence that it is in our power to establish limits for ourselves."

A talk with any career-minded university woman student reveals that she realizes the difficulties she faces in taking part in the work force and still shouldering the household chores. For in the Soviet society, it is still "unmasculine" for men to help out in the kitchen or change diapers. Yet a woman is welcomed into the ranks of construction crews or farmwork.

Carter pondering ways to stop rising food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices jumped sharply in February for the second straight month to pace a 1 percent increase in wholesale prices, the Labor Department reported today.

The wholesale price rises were not quite as steep as those recorded in January, but they were high enough to guarantee consumers a further boost in retail prices in coming months.

Wholesale price increases for beef and veal slowed from January, from 13.3 percent to 4.7 percent in February. But vegetables, pork, sugar, fruit and fish showed sharper boosts last month.

Heavy price rises also were recorded for shoes, tires, gasoline and alcoholic beverages.

The latest rise in wholesale prices, involving goods at the stage just before they reach store shelves, compared with a 1.3 percent jump in January, the sharpest one-month increase in four years.

The latest report gave the Carter administration another setback in its efforts to control inflation, which is running above 9 percent a year.

Last year, there was only one month — April — in which wholesale prices rose as much as 1 percent or more. The latest rise in wholesale prices translates into a 12.7 percent annual increase.

Food prices in February jumped 1.6 percent, equal to an annual rate of more than 21 percent. In January, food prices at wholesale rose 1.8 percent.

The report confirmed findings released by the administration Wednesday that farm prices have been rising at an annual clip of 40 percent since November.

In response to the sharp rise in farm prices, which the government concedes will continue for a while, President Carter's chief inflation fighter, Alfred E. Kahn, said Wednesday that officials are considering ways of slowing price hikes at the farm level.

Last month, the Labor Department reported that large price jumps for beef and veal boosted wholesale prices by 1.3 percent in January, the biggest monthly increase in four years. The one-month rise translated into an annual rate of more than 16 percent.

That was followed by a report that retail prices in January jumped 0.9 percent, which would mean an 11.4 percent inflation rate if that trend held all year.

Although administration officials expected another large rise in wholesale prices during February, forecasters at Georgia State University's College of Business Administration predicted February's rise in wholesale prices would be less than that in January, primarily because food prices were rising more slowly.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability reported Wednesday that prices farmers received for their products during November, December and January rose at a 40 percent annual rate "and preliminary data for February indicate continued large increases."

Representative foils theft of Pampan's purse

If State Rep. Anthony Polumbo of Houston ever runs for statewide office, he will no doubt pick up at least one local vote.

Polumbo became something of a hero Tuesday when he foiled a purse-snatching in Austin. The purse belonged to Helen Warner of Pampa.

Mrs. Warner and Jeneane Thornburg, who both teach here, were in the capital this week to attend a Wednesday hearing on Senate Bill 525, concerning pay raises for teachers. Shortly after 11 p.m. Tuesday night, the women were walking to the Stephen F. Austin hotel when crime struck.

A male in his 20s grabbed Mrs. Warner's purse and ran down an alley. A group of men, including Polumbo, were attracted by Warner's screams and pursued the culprit.

After chasing the man for a couple of blocks, Polumbo caught him and retrieved the purse. A patrol car was in the vicinity, and the snatcher was nabbed by the police. The purse was returned to Mrs. Warner.

Peggy Sildeis, administrative assistant for Rep. Foster Whaley of Pampa, said Whaley officially recognized Polumbo on the floor of the House Wednesday for his heroic action.

Rests on space shuttle

Our future in space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The shuttle Columbia is on its way here to change the way America operates in space.

Its stubby delta wings carry the promise of cheaper, far-easier access to space and eventually, perhaps, of orbiting colonies with factories that have almost wearless machinery run by an endless supply of non-polluting energy from the sun.

The immediate goal is to convert new space knowledge into beneficial uses on Earth. The emphasis no longer will be on adventurous exploration and largely scientific quests that marked the previous 31 U.S. manned space flights.

Once the shuttles — each of which can make 100 space flights — are operational in 1981, space will cease to be a remote frontier open only to highly trained astronauts. It will become a highway any man or woman who is healthy and has a purpose may be able to travel.

For the Kennedy Space Center here, that era begins Saturday, when Columbia arrives, riding piggy-back atop a Boeing 747 jet, from the Rockwell International plant in Palmdale, Calif.

Much remains to be done before Columbia is ready for its first trip. That is set for Nov. 9, but center director Lee Scherer said the schedule is a tight one and that a major problem could cause a delay.

After five or six test flights, all manned, Columbia will move into operational launches in 1981, doing a variety of experiments for industry, the military, government and foreign interests.

"I see the shuttle as a true quantum step in space travel," Scherer said in an interview. "It will give us tremendous flexibility to do things out there. The whole concept of a reusable space vehicle will add impetus to how fast we move into a variety of things that space offers."

A fleet of four shuttles has been authorized by Congress, with a fifth a possibility. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, expects each to be capable of 100 or more roundtrips into space, and it is training a pool of astronaut pilots and mission specialists, including women, to handle the traffic, which is expected to reach 50 launches a year by 1985.

After a shuttle returns from space, landing on a 15,000-foot runway here, it will be refurbished in a hangar, ready to go again in two weeks. In 1983, the second shuttle base will be ready at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, mainly for military missions conducted by the Defense Department.

BEFORE DRESS rehearsal, Brad Mathis and another drama student put on their make-up. They and other drama students are travelling today to Portales, N.M., where they will perform

"The Little Foxes," Lillian Helm's one-act play. The presentation will be Pampa's entry in the UIL contest. (Pampa News Photo by Elena Callen)

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam said today that instead of withdrawing its troops, China is strengthening its forces in the frontier area in preparation for more fighting and on Wednesday continued to attack Vietnamese border areas.

"While their leaders talk about withdrawal," said Hanoi's Communist Party newspaper, Nhan Dan, "Chinese troops continue killing, shelling, burning and destroying economic establishments with the aim of paralyzing the Vietnamese economy and forcing it into poverty."

Teacher files for post

An elementary school teacher is running for the second consecutive year for a spot on the Pampa school board.

Carolyn Winingham, who teaches music and motor development at St. Mathews Day Care Center, will face incumbent Al Smith for school trustee from Place 4. Mrs. Winingham ran unsuccessfully last year against Darville Orr for Place 2 representation.

Saying "there's a need to expand representation on the board", Mrs. Winingham cited her experience as a classroom teacher as a major asset in her campaign.

"I think it would help to see things from the other side of the desk," she said. "The board members are all businessmen who move in one circle". Winingham said "teachers tend to look at things in a different way."

"I'd like to see other segments of society brought in for input," she said, noting that the board does not have any woman trustees.

Winingham said she had definite ideas concerning programs and improvements for the school system.

"We need more challenges for gifted students," she said. "The school system has done good work with children with learning disabilities. I think we need to work at the other end of the scale as well. I don't know now exactly how to go about that. But we should be aware of the need to challenge gifted students."

Winingham also said she favored expanding the art programs in the school system—"not just painting pictures but more (expansion) in every way."

Non-teaching tasks assigned to teachers such as bookkeeping and baby sitting should also be reduced, she said. "A program of parent or community volunteers is a possibility. Something that might not cost the city more money."

Winingham said that a "resource center" where in businesses could leave recyclable materials such as paper scraps newspaper rolls would be a worthwhile project, which could save the schools money for such things as art supplies.

Although she said she could not comment on the present school budget, Winingham said there were "perhaps more efficient ways to use the money we now have."

"I'm not for a pay as you go basis and I'm not for wild spending," she said.

Winingham taught in Oklahoma and Missouri schools before moving to Pampa twelve years ago. She has 13½ years of teaching experience, the last 8½ at St. Mathews. She has two children in Pampa schools.

The Place 4 seat is the only contested seat in this year's Pampa school board elections. Incumbent trustee Curt Beck in running unopposed for the Place 5 seat. Terms of the other trustees do not expire this year.

Mark Twain returns to life

With cigar in hand, Mark Twain strolled onto the stage of the Pampa High School Auditorium Wednesday morning to bestow the wisdom of the ages to an audience of juniors.

His all white suit and gray hairs were silhouetted against the drawn green curtains behind him. The figure spoke slowly with a crackle, but the words came out clear to add color to the scene.

After some moralizing, the image of the famous writer said with didactic seriousness, "Take advice of people who are old and wise - like me."

However, the gentlemen under the wig and fake mustache was a 42-year-old Amarillo lawyer, who said he enjoyed the humorous axioms of the author of "Huckleberry Finn", "Tom Sawyer" and many other classic readings.

James Doores, the double, said he had seen Actor Hal Holbrook do an impression of Twain about 10 years ago. He spent the next two years reading the literature of the late nineteenth century writer, whose real name was Samuel Clemens.

The impersonator has performed seven times for Amarillo audiences in the last two years.

A trial lawyer in the firm of Gibson, Ochsner and Adkins - Doores said that he uses selected works from various readings, as well as some of his own additions.

He said that he began by memorizing short selections and gradually extending his repertoire. Fun, he said, is the prime reason for the productions.

"You look after neighbors' morals, instead of your own," echoed the lawyer. "It's easier."

Continual laughing indicated that high schoolers received him and his selections enthusiastically. "Always obey your teachers," he said, then after a slight pause continued, "when they can see you."

Listeners were also advised to avoid immediate revenge when someone is offensive. He suggested that a brick should be thrown later while the offender is looking the other way.

"Be careful about lying," he said, squinting his eyes. "or you should get caught."

He added that a feeble lie lives only two years unless it is gossipy.

Mary Lyn Case, the Pampa High School teacher responsible for the program, was included in the funny-bonin'.

"She (Mrs. Case) reminds me of a girl back home - Oria Widicker," he said.

He said that Oria was generous with everything, including her glass eye. She lent the eye to a friend, who had none. Unfortunately, the eye was the wrong size.

He ended with a sad story, which Twain had told an interviewer. Twain disliked people asking him personal questions.

He said that he and his brother were taking a bath together one day when one of them drowned. The old man said that wondering who died has bothered him awful.

But the dead one did have a mole on his left shoulder, he said, and I think that I am the one who died.

VOE students to attend conference

When 20 of Pampa High School's Vocational Office Education (VOE) students returned from the Office Education Association (OEA) Area Contests Saturday in Lubbock, 10 had made top six finalist.

The following seniors were honored in their selected category: Diane Brown, General Clerical; Jo Johnson, Typing and Related; Melissa Willis, Records Management Clerk and Anita Mariar in Extemporaneous Verbal.

Juniors awarded were: Kathy Kite, Extemporaneous Verbal; Brenda Veach, Information-Communications; Becky Moss, Stenographic; Princess Kilcrease, Job Interview and Nesha Pope in Prepared Verbal.

Kite, Copeland, Brown and Kilcrease will be attending the State OEA Conference in Houston on Mar. 29 under the supervision of OEA Advisor Jane McBride.

Senior Jana Buzzard will join them but will participate in the Everett Suller Scholarship's applicants' interviews.

Borger man arrested on double murder count

BORGER - Willie Menefield, jailed for the slayings of his half-brother and a Borger woman, was transferred Wednesday to the Hutchinson County jail.

Menefield, a 33-year-old laborer, was charged with two counts of murder Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Nadean Spinks, who set bail at $50,000 on each charge.

Tom H. Manley, 50, and Anna Mae Green, 32, were found dead Monday night inside a local residence shared by Manley and Menefield. Each of the victims had been shot once in the upper chest at close range with a shotgun. An autopsy performed Tuesday in Amarillo showed that the two died of the gunshot wounds.

The shooting occurred about 10 p.m., according to police. Officers arrived at the scene at 10:45 p.m. after being called by the Rev.

Luther Grant of Borger, who found the bodies.

Police took Menefield into custody at about 2 a.m. Tuesday for questioning. He was arrested at 12:02 p.m. that day.

Police Chief Arthur Waight said the shootings resulted from "an argument over who was going to pay some minor bills."

"There's not that much of a motive," Waight said. "It was more of a drunken-type shooting."

He said officers recovered a weapon used in the slayings.

Menefield is awaiting a grand jury hearing. The next grand jury in Borger convenes March 20.

Green will be buried Friday in Highland Park Cemetery. Services for Manley, a construction laborer and Army veteran, are pending in Amarillo.

Lefors students presented awards

Eleven Lefors Elementary students were presented awards Tuesday night for special achievement in physical education.

Receiving the President's Physical Fitness Award for scores of 85 percent or better on a nationally organized physical fitness test were Chrystal Kirby and Sheri Stanley.

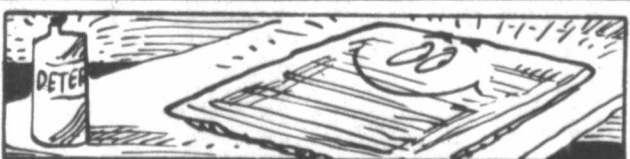

Achievement awards from the American Alliance of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation were presented to Jason Wilson, Leslie Wadley, Debra Stubs, Melody Cady, Brent Cates, Jon Watson, Richard Wilson, Skeeter Gifford, and James Holley. This reward requires achievement of a 50 percent or better score on a standard physical proficiency test.

The awards were presented by teacher and coach Don Parsons during a demonstration of PE activities at the school. The demonstration was part of the school's open house held in observance of National Education Week.

School board members blamed for bill defeat

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Frank Tejeda blames heavy lobbying by school board members for House rejection of his bill requiring elected local officials to disclose their finances.

Tejeda, D-San Antonio, said he might seek reconsideration of the 77-63 vote that tabled his bill Wednesday and might even exempt school board members if that would help the bill.

He said the bill went down because of "a major lobbying effort by school boards."

"With one amendment, we could bring over a whole bunch of people," Tejeda said. The amendment would exempt school boards from the bill.

Tejeda's bill would require city, county and district elected officials to submit the same financial form as state officials and legislators. Assets, debts and sources of income must be listed but not dollar amounts.

He said his sole interest was to heighten public confidence in local government and to smoke out potential conflicts of interests.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, recalled that legislators passed the state disclosure law in 1973 after the Sharpstown scandals left lawmakers and other officials in low public esteem.

"TOO MY KNOWLEDGE, WE ARE LOWER TODAY THAN WE WERE THEN," Kubiak said. "We passed it six years ago, and what have we changed? How has that bettered government or bettered public opinion?"

Rep. Reby Cary, D-Fort Worth, said legislators "are really getting carried away over financial disclosure when we extend it down to small cities."

"Do you feel we should disclose at the state level?" Tejeda asked.

"No," Cary said.

Tejeda was asked by a supporter of the bill why a person might spend $20,000 campaigning for city councilman in a municipality where that is an unpaid job.

In other action Wednesday, House members passed and sent to the Senate bills that would:

—Enable cities to hold their elections on the statewide general election day in November.

—Permit state banks to buy up to 5 percent of the stock in other state banks.

—Require hospitals to report potential child abuse cases on forms prescribed by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Senators refused to debate two controversial measures sponsored by Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

By a 23-7 vote the Senate lacked two votes of taking up a bill that would increase tuition equalization grants to private colleges from $600 per student to 50 percent of the cost of attending a state college or university.

To hunt better paying jobs

Low pay may force teachers to quit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — New Braunfels teacher Kent Scheffler says he eagerly awaited but unplanned new son or daughter might be the final straw that sends him to a better paying district or out of the teaching profession.

"When you're making $8,540 a year, $2,000 is a lot of money," he said of better salary prospects elsewhere.

Scheffler was one of several teachers who appeared Wednesday before the Senate Education Committee as it plunged deeper into its annual task of developing a school finance plan.

More than 500 teachers from as far away as Amarillo and El Paso packed the galleries, offering their loudest applause when they heard peers testify about the difficulties of paying bills on a Texas teacher's salary.

Sen. Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, said a recruiter for California school districts was recently inundated with San Antonio prospects when word spread about that state's minimum starting salary of $16,000 a year.

"Education needs to draw from the best college graduates each year. This is becoming harder to do as the beginning salaries in other fields far outstrip beginning teacher salaries," said Virginia Stacey, president of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Mrs. Stacey said the visiting teachers had paid substitutes themselves so they could attend the hearing.

The TSTA has given its support to a bill sponsored by Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland. The proposal would increase the present state expenditure by about $1.5 billion in the next two years.

A proposal supported by the Texas School Administrators Council, a coalition of administrative groups, carries an estimated price tag of $1.2 billion. Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, is sponsoring the bill.

The education committee heard testimony about both bills as well as a proposal from the Gulf Coast Association of School Boards. Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, is sponsoring the third bill.

The committee had earlier heard a $1.9 billion proposal by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, the committee's chairman. All the bills will be considered further in a subcommittee.

Forrest E. Watson said the administrators' bill is an answer "to both the increased demands on Texas schools and spiraling inflationary costs."

House continues support of superport

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has endorsed continuing efforts to build an offshore port for jumbo oil tankers 26 miles south of Freeport.

It voted 114-26 Wednesday for a $2.4 million appropriation to the Texas Deepwater Port Authority.

The authority will use the money to pay the costs of seeking a federal license for the superport and to administer a $1.2 billion construction bond program.

A final House vote is expected today. That would send the bill (SB126) back to the Senate for action on amendments.

Backers say the superport is needed to assure a continued flow of oil into Gulf Coast refineries and chemical plants when Texas production is no longer sufficient.

"I want those (refinery and chemical) jobs to be in Houston and on the coast when we run out of oil, and that day will come," said Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Salado.

The House changed the Senate bill to allocate the money to the authority in stages. Most of it — $1.6 million — could be spent only if federal authorities license the port and Gov. Bill Clements approves its bonds.

The state appropriation would be repaid from the first proceeds of the bonds.

Oil price fixing charges just beginning

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. Attorney A.J. "Tony" Canales says the 84-count oil-pricing fraud indictment returned against two oil companies and five of their officers is just "the tip of the iceberg."

The indictment handed down Wednesday charged them with participating in a federal crude oil pricing violation scheme that allegedly brought some $3.8 million in excess profits.

"These cases will be going on long after I'm gone from this office," Canales said. "This is just the beginning."

Charged with conspiring to sell lower priced "old" oil as higher priced "new" oil were Uni Oil Inc. of Houston; Uni president, Thomas M. "Mick" Hajecate; Uni secretary-treasurer and director, Thomas H. "Tom" Hajecate; Uni vice presidents, Charles R. Akin and James E. Fisher; Ball Marketing Enterprise of Lafayette, La.; and Charles Goss, a Ball marketing agent.

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue set bonds of $200,000. U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue set bonds of $200,000 apiece for the officials and said they would be released on personal recognizance.

Canales said more indictments can be expected.

The indictment alleges the conspiracy involved the acquisition of "old" oil, selling at about $5 a barrel, then certifying it as "new" oil that sells for more than $12 a barrel under the federal pricing regulations established in 1973.

A federal grand jury has spent about eight months investigating reports that more than 200,000 barrels of "old" oil have been sold as "new" oil, costing consumers millions of dollars by the time the oil reached service stations.

In a related matter Wednesday, Albert B. Alkek — a millionaire Victoria oilman — pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of knowing about the pricing scheme but failing to report it to authorities.

Under a plea-bargaining agreement, Alkek received a three-year suspended sentence and U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor ordered him to pay the government $3.24 million, cooperate fully with the federal investigators, testify at trial if needed and, if necessary, take a lie detector test.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a silent husband. He suddenly quit talking to me and he won't tell me why.

The first time he clammed up we were married only six months. All of a sudden he wasn't speaking to me, and no amount of begging on my part could make him tell me what I had done wrong. He wouldn't look at me or talk to me for three whole days. Then, all of a sudden, he started talking to me just like nothing had happened. I found out four years later that he stopped talking that first time because I used his car and didn't fill up the gas tank!

I could write a book on the different times he clammed up. The record was 13 days, and I still don't know the reason for that one. We have three children, the youngest is 5, so I'm trying to see it through, but it is rough.

What is the matter with a man who acts this way?
SILENT TREATMENT

DEAR TREATMENT: I don't know, but if I were you I would try to find out. He could be immature, sick, or just plain ugly. Your husband sounds as though he has a lot of words stored up which may need to be unloaded in a doctor's office. I recommend counseling. If he won't go, go alone, and learn how to communicate with your silent partner.

DEAR ABBY: If a person wants to be hypnotized to lose weight, quit smoking, eliminate pain during childbirth, surgery or dental work or for any other legitimate reason, where does he find an honest, qualified hypnotist?

I don't want one who hypnotizes people for fun or entertainment. I want a hypnotist with the best credentials who meets the highest professional standards.

INTERESTED IN OHIO

DEAR INTERESTED: Write to: American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, 2400 East Devon Ave., Suite 212, Des Plaines, Ill. 60018. They recommend only the most highly qualified hypnotists.

DEAR ABBY: The lady signed TRAPPED, who discovered that her husband had been unfaithful after 25 years, could have been written by my mother, only she and Dad have been married only 19 years.

About three months ago she caught Dad in a situation like that. She says there will be no divorce, but she has locked him out of their bedroom. Now Dad sleeps with my little brother.

He has begged Mom to give him another chance, but she won't. I am the eldest (16) but I am old enough to know that any woman trapped because she can't forgive, has trapped herself.

SORRY FOR DAD

DEAR SORRY: You may be young, but you are very wise.

DEAR ABBY: Here's how our family decided who should get what after Granny died and left no will. We all got together and cut the cards. High man got the item if more than one of us wanted it.

NO QUIBLING

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am an 83-year-old woman and in good health except for constipation, which I've had most of my life. I take Metamucil for bulk and about one-fourth teaspoon of Senokot. Also, I take mineral oil for lubrication and that seems to help.

I drink lots of water, get exercise and drive my own car. I only weigh 82 pounds and I'm 4 feet 11 inches tall. What is the best time for me to take medicine like I'm taking? Should I take mineral oil at bedtime on an empty stomach? Also, I take Metamucil and the Senokot in a glass of milk. Should this be taken at bedtime too? Kindly get me straight.

DEAR READER - I'm sorry to hear that you're taking so many things for your bowel function. Sometimes it's very difficult to reverse such a pattern, particularly if it is a long-standing habit of many years as seems to be your case.

The bowel usually functions normally in most people if it's not abused.

Mineral oil has a lot of drawbacks and I think the best choice here would be to stop it entirely. People who use mineral oil sometimes make it difficult for their own small intestine to absorb important vitamins and minerals. Besides that, part of the mineral oil is absorbed and is treated as a foreign body inside the organs. Then, of course, it has the unpleasant social problem of sometimes leaking through the rectum. I'm afraid I just can't recommend mineral oil.

The Metamucil, of course, provides bulk. Often that is what a person needs and, hopefully, most people will get it from natural food products. The best ones are the cereal fibers which you can get from whole grain cereals that provide bran. A proper diet that includes a sufficient amount of bulk, an adequate amount of liquids and an exercise program and proper bowel training go a long way toward solving the problems of chronic constipation.

How do you train the bowel? You eat a good breakfast that includes an adequate amount of bran and at least two large glasses of fluids and then go to the bathroom. You make the trip to the bathroom daily, whether or not there is any elimination. You may need to use an enema every three days or so until the reflex action is established. In the course of time, by following this ritual, you can educate the natural reflexes that occur in your body and solve your problem.

You can take your Metamucil any time of the day or even twice a day, if you wish, or you can use foods that contain bulk for breakfast and other meals as well. I would surely like to see you get off the chemical laxative habit and the mineral oil.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY - Verda asked how she could remove cement from glass. Last year while our new house was being built, the brick layer told us to rub mineral oil on such spots and we found it worked very well. I put the oil on a paper towel and rubbed. When a spot remained, I used a razor blade to help it along. After this wash windows as usual. - MILLIE.

DEAR POLLY - While the light-colored carpet in my bathroom is still damp from a scrubbing it usually has to be walked on and gets dirty again. To improve this situation I now lay old heavy bath towels on the damp carpet and they soak up moisture as well as keep the carpet clean until it dries. - JINI.

Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation votes for improvements

The Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation met recently and voted to spend $2500 toward the purchase of playground equipment at Carter Park, north of the Pampa Youth Center.

The Foundation also voted $350 to the Pampa Garden Club for filling the planters in the city parks and at the intersection of Harvester and Duncan Streets. The sum of $100 was voted for further landscaping at Lamar School. The design for a metal park marker for Cuyler Park was approved.

The Foundation went on record in support of an effort to clean the old Darby Foundry area.

Ben Guill was appointed to research the possibilities of planning an out-door theater in the park areas south of M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Thelma Bray gave a report on additional plans regarding seven sculptures to be placed on the grounds of the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Pampa students win in dance competition

Several students of Madeline Graves' School of Dance brought home awards from Dance Masters of America Individual Competition held recently in Lubbock. The dancers compete with students from a five state area and are graded on presentation, talent, and poise.

The contestants are divided by age into the following categories: Petite Miss Dance, ages 8-11; Junior Miss Dance, ages 12-15; and Miss Dance, ages 16-25. The winner of Miss Dance competes in New York City for Miss Dance of America.

Jennifer Graves, nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Graves, was crowned Petite Miss Dance for 1979. Sheri Rogers, the 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rogers, was crowned Junior Miss Dance for 1979. Among the runners-up were Brandi Huff, 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Huff; Lori Crouch, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crouch; and Debbi Lewis, 17-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis.

John Woicikowski - man of music and song

JOHN WOICIKOWSKI is a feather in Pampa's cap.

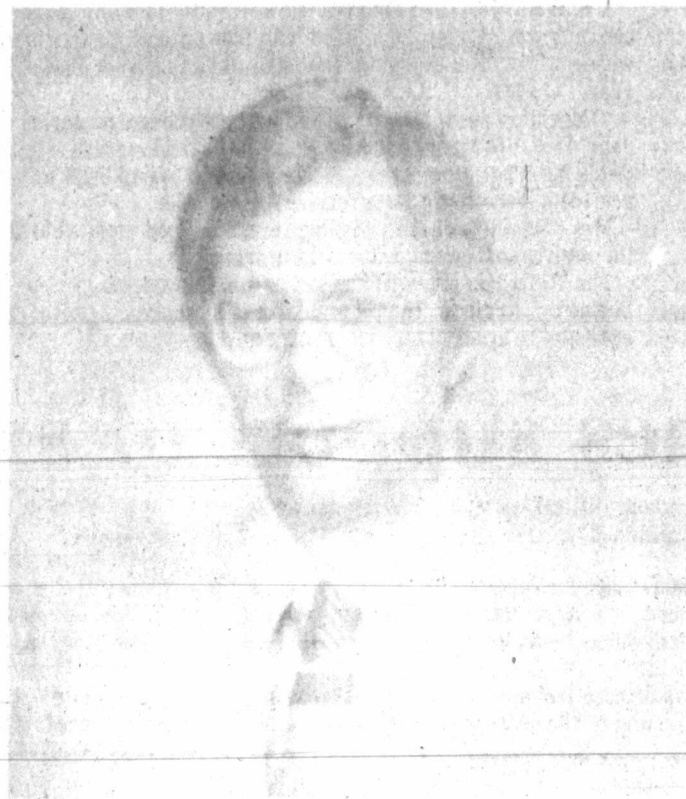

A very civic minded man, Woicikowski has served two terms as president of the Pampa Fine Arts Association and presently serves on the board of the Community Concert Association.

He is vitally interested in furthering the arts. Under his direction during the past seven years, the Pampa High School choirs have soared to new heights. They have received invitations to perform at music festivals in Italy, Austria, Germany, Mexico, and Holland. There are 75 students in the concert choir and 165 students in the whole program, which is about one-fourth of the student body.

On the state level, Woicikowski has been a member of the University Interscholastic League (UIL) of Music Selection Committee, the State Music Advisory Board of UIL, and the State Sight Reading Music Committee. He is on the program committee for Texas Choral Directors Association and is also a charter member of the Texas Music Adjudicator's Association. He is eligible to judge anywhere in Texas.

This summer, Woicikowski will be at the Texas University Longhorn Music Camp in Austin. He is also a faculty member of music camps for West Texas State University, Texas Tech University, and Eastern New Mexico University.

In the meantime, the gentleman referred to as Mr. Y has initiated and is organizing a community chorale. Up to now there are 35 members, consisting of local students and adults. The first rehearsal will be at 7 p.m. on March 15 in the choir room at Pampa High School.

The blue-eyed, red haired senior at Pampa High School has been a member of the French Club, Thespian Club, Student Council, and has won many public speaking honors. Currently she is a member of the National Honor Society and is serving as March Sweetheart for the Pampa Lions Club. Her hobbies are snow and water skiing and ballet dancing. She has been a student of dancing for 10 years and has competed in many individual and group dance contests. Miss Carpenter is a member of a fourth generation Wheeler County family. Pampa may get grant

The Pampa police department could have a special juvenile officer by October if a proposed grant from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission is approved by officials in Austin, according to Melanie Kinderline, criminal justice coordinator for the commission.

The $16,000 grant has already been approved by the 20-member Criminal Justice Advisory Board, which includes Pampa police Lieutenant J. J. Ryzman and Kervin Roper, investigator for the Gray County District Attorney's office.

Kenderline said Wednesday the grant is expected to be budgeted by the commission in June. But final approval for the funds will come from the Texas Criminal Justice Division which administers the largely federal grant.

Two other grants to the police department have also been tentatively approved by the PRPC and the advisory board, including $30,000 for the updating of the computer system and $8000 for police radio equipment.

The grants are funded 90 percent by the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, with 10 percent supplementary money from the Texas Criminal Justice Division.

The police department applied for the grants in February. Kenderline said an officer assigned especially to juvenile cases was considered necessary in Pampa because of the relatively heavy juvenile case load handled by police in recent years. Police detained 161 juveniles in 1978, the largest figure for panhandle cities, including Amarillo.

According to police chief Richard Mills, the detention figure represents about one-sixth of all juveniles who are issued warnings by police and released.

The juvenile officer, said Mills, would follow up on a large percentage of the cases in which juveniles are not detained and formally charged with delinquent conduct.

"The program would be part prevention," Mills said. "We would follow up reports of kids prowling at night, for example, and try to talk with them before they got into serious trouble—before they took the step."

A proposed PRPC plan for phasing in the program permanently calls for approximately 20 percent decreases in state and federal aid over five years until the job is supported entirely by the city.

But Mills said the juvenile officer job "is not a fixed deal yet." "We'll be trying the program for one year and evaluating it," he said. "To see what reaction we get."

The program will be monitored to check rates in the rise or fall of juvenile detention and the juvenile officer would also act as a liaison with school officials.

The juvenile officer would work in the detective unit and all juvenile cases handled by the department would be referred to him.

"We want to have some one who is able to take the necessary time to counsel with these kids," Mills said. "And the officer would be more familiar with the Texas Family Code which governs the legal process for dealing with juveniles."

In reference to the two other proposed grants, Mills said the $30,000 for the upgrading of the computer system would enable police to file and correlate information about the frequency and location of criminal activity in various parts of the city. The proposed $8000 for radio equipment would be used for portable radios or "walkie-talkies" to be used by officers when they are outside patrol cars, Mills said.

Cheetahs to make interesting study

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Captured in human arms, a baby cheetah, even one who has never known a jungle, is unmistakably a wild creature.

He flails his skinny legs. He stiffens his neck hair. He bares his teeth. He hisses. He wants down. He wants the company of his own kind, other baby cheetahs also ignorant of jungle dangers.

"They're appealing little guys," Roger Birkel said. "It is tempting to pick them up and play with them. But we try to avoid handling them. We don't want to affect their natural behavior any more than necessary. It will be interesting to study them."

The cheetahs, four of them, are celebrated residents of the St. Louis Zoo and Roger Birkel is sort of their godfather.

Their mother is Kuzi, Kuzi and her mate, Sly, also were bred in captivity, a rare enough event, and their offspring are celebrities because of the birth of cheetahs two generations removed from the wild is even rarer.

Roger Birkel knows of only two other such litters, one born in a London zoo in 1973 and one in a Cincinnati zoo last June, four months before the blessed event in St. Louis.

"It was some event," he said. "Cheetahs just don't breed well in captivity. We know little of their habits because they are so difficult to study in the wild and so few of them left to study."

THREE PEOPLE WERE INJURED when this car struck a small foreign car Tuesday evening and traveled out of control for over 200 feet before striking a tree. Clifford N. Gage of

Jimmy's White House

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Before the world knew President Carter would be flying here today, Carter had what he supposed was a private telephone conversation with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Was the call as private as Carter imagined? The question arose because White House reporters got first word of the conversation, on Sunday, from a presidential visitor, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill. In fact, some reporters got the definite impression that Percy was present when the call was made.

Informed about this, White House press secretary Jody Powell was incredulous. He insisted Percy could not have been privy to the conversation because he was not with Carter in the Oval Office at the time.

A newsman pointed out that Percy wears a hearing aid. "Maybe that's a more sophisticated device than we thought," grinned Powell.

It is an open secret that Carter and Menachem Begin are not great admirers of each other. But during the Israeli leader's Washington visit, both remembered to smile for the cameras, embrace at least once and shake hands as often as possible.

Begin, an old-school European, even remembered in the high emotions of last Sunday's final scheduled meeting to observe one of the niceties of protocol.

As the two men walked to Begin's waiting limousine behind the Oval Office, the prime minister found himself at Carter's right. Barely breaking stride, and still conversing, Begin deftly shifted to the left side of the president, in a gesture of deference.

Not to be outdone, Carter held an umbrella over the older man's head when Begin came visiting again during a steady drizzle.

Labor says budget cuts would be devastating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor charged today that President Carter's proposed budget cuts for 1980 would be "devastating" to most Americans and would not make a significant dent in the inflation rate.

The AFL-CIO told Congress that Carter, in response to public concerns about accelerating prices and taxes, seems "willing to risk recession, rising unemployment and cutbacks in vital social programs for the appearance of 'fiscal responsibility.'"

If Congress were to accept Carter's cuts in social programs, "a recession would be even more likely and millions of Americans would suffer needlessly," chief AFL-CIO lobbyist

Kenneth Young said in testimony prepared for the House Budget Committee.

"Despite this risk, the impact on this budget on inflation would be negligible," said Young.

"In people terms, the consequences would be direct, immediate and devastating," he added. "The cuts are concentrated in programs that are helping the unemployed, retirees, workers, the poor, children, students, women and minorities."

Carter has proposed a "very austere" budget of $532 billion, which he contends would combat inflation by reducing the budget deficit from a projected $37 billion this year to $29 billion in 1980.

'Farmers not against Carter' Bergland says

WASHINGTON (AP) — This winter's wave of "tractorcades" does not mean farmers are against President Carter, says Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

"In fact, I think the Carter policies are generally regarded in agricultural communities, in rural regions, as a good, sound policy," Bergland said. "Conservative, yes, but a good, sound policy — market-oriented, business-oriented, rational, based on premises within our ability to finance."

Why then, he was asked, did Bergland's home state of Minnesota — also the home state of Vice President Walter F. Mondale — elect two Republicans as U.S. senators, a Republican governor and almost put Republicans in control of the state legislature last year?

"It's what I would call good old-fashioned political cannibalism," Bergland told a National Press Club audience Wednesday. Bergland, a former three-term congressman from Minnesota, said the state's Democrats "engaged in some wild internal disputes" that caused many voters to stay home on election day.

"It was not an anti-Carter vote, it was not an anti-Democratic vote," Bergland said. "It was what happens when a party gets itself all gummed-up in a family fight that it can't settle."

"Besides that, the Republicans deserved to win. ... They ran good candidates, they raised enough money to finance good campaigns, they hired good advertising agencies, they didn't make any mistakes."

Bergland was initially asked: Considering his poor showing in most farm states in 1976 and his problems there since, should Carter realistically write off most of the Midwest and Great Plains states next year?

"You're assuming he runs for re-election," Bergland said. "If I were a candidate for the presidency, I wouldn't write off any group, any place."

Bergland said that some news analysts' predictions that the Democrats would suffer "devastating losses" of congressional seats the last two general elections did not materialize.

"I think the president's policies are going to be generally well received come election 1980," he said. "Of course, I know it's been a long time since Nebraska farmers voted for a Democrat for the presidency — 1964."

With the huge backlog of wheat and other grain, why not use it as a "weapon" in world trade to help offset rising oil prices charged by OPEC countries?

"You either have oil or you don't," Bergland said. "But wheat can be grown in all the moderate climates of the world, about 130 countries or so, and if the price is high enough ... we can grow a lot more than we're growing today."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee has unanimously approved a title change and $7,500 pay raise for Assistant Agriculture Secretary Dale E. Hathaway.

The people's pharmacy

by Joe Graedon

The column on Valium a few weeks back drew a lot of letters from readers. Most were concerned with one burning question: How do you get unhooked?

Doctors rarely mention and patients rarely realize that long-term use of anti-anxiety drugs such as Valium and Librium may produce both physical as well as psychological dependence. Abrupt withdrawal of the medicine can sometimes produce some very unpleasant symptoms.

Roche Laboratories, makers of Valium, warn that "Withdrawal symptoms (similar to those with barbiturates and alcohol) have occurred following abrupt discontinuance (convulsions, tremor, abdominal and muscle cramps, vomiting and sweating)." They have recently added new information to the brochure they send to doctors and pharmacists. It states: "The effectiveness of Valium is long-term use, that is, more than four months, has been assessed by systematic clinical studies. The physician should periodically reassess the usefulness of the drug for the individual patient."

Valium is the number one drug on most doctors' hit parade of prescription medication. Almost 60 million prescriptions are written for this medicine each year. While it can be very helpful in relieving anxiety during a crisis, all too many folks end up taking it for years and years, often with too little supervision.

Here is what one reader, Mrs. A.S., had to say about her experience with Valium. "Before ever accepting this medication I asked many questions and was ever-so-cautious. Never before had I questioned a doctor's prescription so thoroughly - never before or since have I been so fooled, bewildered and befuddled by anything as this Valium.

"Ten years ago I had an auto accident. Whiplash was the pain (problem) - Valium was to be the cure. Well, I'm still on the cure.

"... With 10 years of this drug I could really go on and on with its horrible effects; (it) was to be a harmless nerve relaxer to start with. Now I have cut the dosage on my own - pill by pill, lengthened the time between pills an even gotten off - then in about a week, HELP! I was in real trouble. All hell broke loose. I even called my doctor to ask him to put me in the hospital as I thought I was going crazy - his answer: take your Valium. So I'm still with it and fighting like hell to keep my wits. My question - is there any way to get off this pill?"

The answer is yes, but it may take time. The experience of Mrs. A.S. is not unique. Too-rapid withdrawal from Valium can cause nasty problems including nervousness, trembling, nausea, weakness, agitation, insomnia, severe nightmares and loss of appetite.

If persons with a long history of taking Valium want to wean themselves from this drug they will need plenty of patience. Under a doctor's supervision they should cut back gradually, reducing the total intake of the drug by approximately 50 percent a week for a month or more until they are off the drug entirely.

At the same time the dose of Valium is slowly being reduced, an effort needs to be made to control any insomnia or anxiety that may occur. An increase in daily exercise and outdoor activities may be helpful and if possible a person should try to learn some relaxation techniques. A biofeedback training program can enable people to learn how to relax tense muscles.

In order to get to sleep, it may be helpful to take an amino acid called L-Tryptophan. A dose of two grams taken in the evening with applesauce may help relieve insomnia. And grandmother's old

Area Boy Scouts exhibit their skills

Area Boy Scouts exhibited its skills recently at the Pampa Optimist Club to show what the program is all about.

Younger Scouts did muscle-building exercises to illustrate the importance of physical fitness.

Some of the older members built fires and put them out while others showed how to sharpen and handle axes and knives.

Leather crafts along with other handicrafts were also shown at some of the many booths, which were set up by a representative number of participating Scout units.

In National Invitation Tournament

ACC squads take three

By The Associated Press
The Atlantic Coast Conference likes to think it's the best basketball league in the country... and you can't dispute the claim by Wednesday night's National Invitation Tournament results.

The ACC was a perfect 3-for-3 — by an incredibly slim total of four points — as the 42nd annual NIT got under way with a half-dozen first-round games.

Maryland was the ACC's "big" winner, defeating Rhode Island 67-65 at College Park, Md...but it took the Terrapins three overtimes to do it. Meanwhile, at Lexington, Ky., Clemson ripped Kentucky, the 1978 national champion, 68-67 in just one overtime while Virginia needed only the regulation 40 minutes to dispose of Northeast Louisiana 79-78 at Charlottesville, Va.

Elsewhere, Ohio State trounced St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-66 at Columbus, Ohio, Nevada-Reno outlasted Oregon

State 62-61 at Corvallis, Ore., and Old Dominion shaded Wagner 83-81 at Norfolk, Va.

Tonight's remaining six opening-round contests find Central Michigan (19-8) at 16th-ranked Purdue (23-7), Holy Cross (17-10) at Dayton (18-9), Indiana (18-12) at Texas Tech (19-10), St. Bonaventure (19-8) at Alabama (19-10), Alcorn State (27-0) at Mississippi State (19-8) and Texas A&M (22-8) at New Mexico (19-9).

The 40-team NCAA Tournament begins Friday night.

Wednesday's NIT results also set up two second-round games — Ohio State (18-10) vs. Maryland (19-10) and Old Dominion (22-6) vs. Clemson (19-9). Virginia (19-9) will meet tonight's St. Bonaventure-Alabama winner while Nevada-Reno goes against the Texas A&M-New Mexico survivor.

Kentucky's Wildcats, who missed a chance to defend their NCAA laurels when they were beaten in the finals of the Southeastern Conference tourney by Tennessee, dropped out of the NIT when Clemson's Billy Williams sank two free throws with 12 seconds to go.

Williams topped the Tigers with 16 points while Kentucky's Kyle Macy took game honors with 20.

Clemson used a delay game to kill the last 10 minutes of the first half.

Maryland's Albert King, who sat out the first 27 minutes with a foot injury, scored all four points in the third overtime to give the Terrapins their marathon triumph over Rhode Island. Larry Gibson led the winners with 17 points and King added 15. Jimmy Wright had 20 for Rhode Island, whose ace, Sly Williams, sat out almost 10 minutes and scored only 12 points before fouling out with 13 seconds left in regulation time.

Netters top Dumas

DUMAS — Pampa won nine of 15 tennis matches with Dumas here Tuesday afternoon, and not all the matches were of the normal variety.

Due to a small number of girls on the Demon team, Kris Douglass and Laura Johnson, Pampa's No. 1 and 2 girls singles players, played the top two players on the Dumas boys team. Both Pampa girls won, Douglass by a 6-4, 6-1 count and Johnson by 8-5 in a pro set.

Pampa also won all of its four matches pitting girl against girl. Susan Lane took a 6-0, 6-1 victory, Kathy Wall won 6-2, 6-0. Cheryl Kessel triumphed by a 6-1 6-1 count and Wall won a second match by a 6-0, 6-1 score.

Kurt Krause, Mark Spence and Kevin Gantz won their matches in boys singles play. Krause by a 6-2, 6-1 score, Spence in a 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 comeback and Gantz by 6-4, 6-2. Jack Redus lost a three-set thriller 4-6, 7-6, 5-7. Mark Elliott fell 3-6, 3-6 and Greg Trollinger, who has moved from No. 6 to No. 2 on the boys ladder, dropped a 6-1, 6-0 match.

Our boys have really improved their singles play, especially Trollinger," noted Coach David Martin. "He's jumped from number six to number two and I think he's doing a fantastic job."

No girls doubles games were played, while the boys lost all three of their doubles encounters, two by split sets.

Pampa's next action will come at the Hereford Tournament Friday and Saturday.

Husband-wife duo at tourney

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Joe Lombard commutes from Hale Center to Nazareth in the Texas Panhandle to coach the girls' high school basketball team. Hale Center has a coach — Lombard's wife Babs.

The Lombards have done such a good job this year that both their teams advanced to the 29th annual state tournament.

Nazareth, Class B champions in 1977 and 1978, has won 34 and lost four. Mrs. Lombard's Hale Center girls' team is 28-3 in Class A.

Only once this season have Mr. and Mrs. Lombard found themselves on opposite sides of the court, and the husband's Nazareth team won, 33-32.

The state tournament features three defending state champions — Nazareth, Slaton and Dallas South Oak Cliff.

For the first time in tournament history, the girls will compete with five-player teams, instead of six.

The first game matched Class B semifinalists Avinger and Weatherford Brock, neither of which has ever won a girls' basketball title.

Nazareth, 34-4, was scheduled to meet D'Hanis in the second contest.

Wilson in Hall of Fame

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lewis "Hack" Wilson, who drove in a major league record 190 runs in 1930 and set the National League mark of 56 homers the same year, has been elected to baseball's Hall of Fame posthumously along with former NL President Warren Giles.

Giles, whose entire career was spent organizing and running baseball franchises until he became NL president in 1961, served as general manager of the Syracuse and Rochester minor league teams before moving to Cincinnati as president of the Reds in 1936.

Both rotund men, Wilson and Giles were chosen by the 18-member Veterans Committee, which reviews the careers of players bypassed by the Baseball Writers Association of America during their period of eligibility, as well as executives, umpires and Negro Leaguers.

Wilson, who played for the New York, Chicago, Brooklyn and Philadelphia National League teams, was a heavy drinker who died broke on Nov. 23, 1948, at age 48.

Giles, who served as president of the National League for 18 years, died Feb. 8 at age 82. He is credited with helping develop such managers as George Sisler, Burt Shotton, Billy Southworth, Eddie Dyer and Bill McKechnie.

Wilson and Giles were chosen from a list of 20 players and officials who received votes. As in the regular Hall of Fame balloting conducted by the writers, a 75 percent vote by the committee is needed for election.

Wilson was a standout hitter from the time he entered the majors with the New York Giants in 1923 until he closed his career with the Dodgers and Phillies in 1934.

In his big 1930 season with the Cubs, the hard-hitting outfielder also compiled a .356 batting average. His lifetime mark was .307.

The committee did not disclose the percentage of voting. Others who received votes were Glen Wright, Cyclone Joe Williams, Charlie Grimm, Jimmy Dykes, Lefty O'Doul, Vic Willis, Jake Daubert, Chuck Klein, Johnny Mize, Wilbur Cooper, Biz Mackey, Ray Dandridge, Fred Penney, Freddy Fitzsimmons, Urban Shocker, Babe Herma, Tom Yawkey and Walt Alton.

Blow by blow

by Joe Blobaum, sports editor

Lord, how I love baseball!

There's nothing I'd rather do than take a glass of iced tea, some sunflower seeds and a cigarette or two down to the ballpark on a beautiful Saturday afternoon and watch seven or nine innings of well-played American pastime.

It's one of the things I'll miss most when I change my base of operations from sports to the city desk about a week from now.

Nothing, not even a service ace in tennis, a soft 9-iron or a two-pound bass can give me the satisfaction of seeing a perfect double play or sacrifice bunt. It's the nuances of baseball that intrigue me the most, and it won't be easy for this baseball addict to cut down to perhaps one fix a week.

Baseball requires more of an athlete's attention than any other sport I've played, with the possible exception of chess. Football and basketball have the constant motion that experts used to say would kill the slow-moving antics of baseball, but no athlete has to think more than a baseball player. Still, the game was rumored to be on its deathbed as little as five years ago.

But a few years ago, people started coming back to the ballpark. There were a lot of factors involved, I suppose, and one of them probably wasn't an overwhelming interest in the game's strategies.

Instead, parents found baseball — at least in the bleacher sections — to be a relatively inexpensive diversion compared to other professional sports.

Young people began using baseball games as a dating exercise, something that cost me at least three lady friends when I was in high school and college.

But then, I don't expect any woman — or most men, for that matter — to understand the love affair I've had with the game. Here's no way to describe the backyard games I played with my brothers, sister and the neighborhood gang of kids who would gather in the afternoon for what would become a marathon contest.

Starting as soon as lunch was over, we'd play until it was time for the evening meal. By then, we'd gotten through three innings and had an incredibly close game of 29-28.

So we'd break for supper, come flying back to the field after wolfing down as little food as possible and play until the sun set.

That pattern was repeated for about 10 summers when I was growing up. Dodging the power pole that stood just to the right of second base, retrieving balls that sailed into the creek 20 feet behind home plate and digging out ground-rod doubles that went into the bushes along the third-base line were all a part of playing in my backyard.

I can't expect anyone to understand that memory or the feeling I get when I go home and see the yard that looked so big then and so tiny now. Sometimes I don't quite understand it myself. But that's why I love baseball.
