Tax relief bill approved

AUSTIN Texas (AP) — The Texas House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, including exemption of two cars per family from property taxes.

Also in the bill is more than $430 million in state reimbursement of school district revenue losses resulting from mandatory property tax cuts.

Next step will be committee hearings in the Senate, which probably will rewrite the bill (HB1060). That would mean a joint conference committee would have the job of drafting a compromise.

The House voted on the bill article-by-article Monday. The closest vote was 78-56 on a provision setting out the formula for state reimbursement of school district revenue losses caused by mandatory property tax cuts.

Passage of the tax relief bill marked the mid-point in the 140-day regular legislative session.

Voters approved the Tax Relief Amendment in November. Its only automatic provision exempted $5,000 of the market value of each owner-occupied house in Texas from school district property taxes.

Major provisions of the bill would:

- Add another $10,000 exemption on homes owned by the disabled and persons 65 and over, and freeze school taxes of the elderly for the rest of their lives.
- Exempt two cars or light trucks per family from property taxes, with the state reimbursing school districts for the revenue loss in the 1979 tax year, estimated at about $17 million.

- Limit state spending increases to the percentage of growth of Texas' total personal income each year.
- Exempt intangible property from taxation, except for intangibles already subject to taxes, mainly bank stock.
- Establish a method for taxing farm, ranch and timber land on its crop-producing ability instead of its market value.
- Omit intangible property from the measurement of school district wealth that is used in determining how much state aid each district will receive — a boon to urban districts where most of the intangibles are concentrated.

The formula for reimbursing school districts covers losses dollar-for-dollar in the coming fiscal year. In 1981, however, the formula would provide only 90 percent of the homestead tax losses of districts whose appraisals are below the statewide average.

State representatives passed to the Senate a bill raising penalties for assault — where no bodily injury occurs — when the victim is a school teacher. Assault includes threats as well as actions.

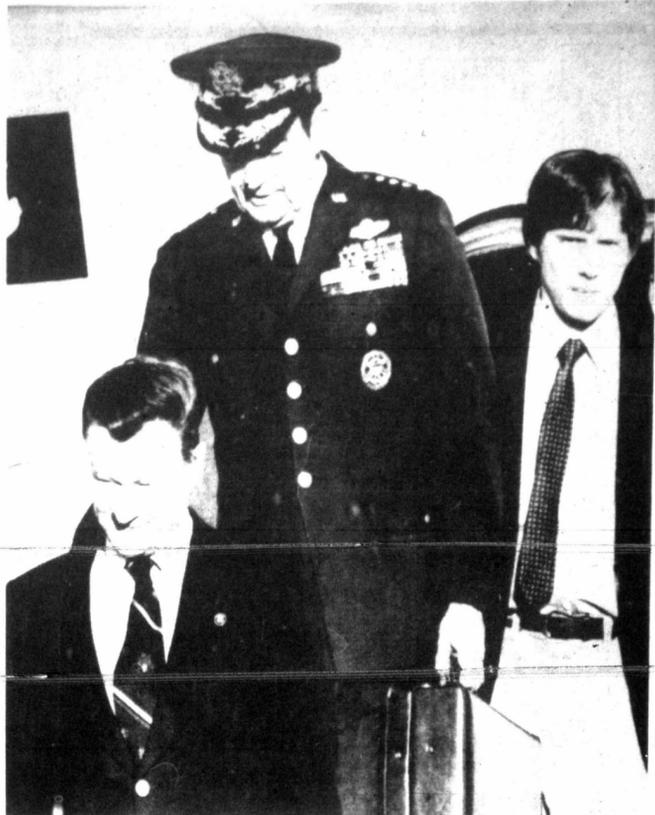

The bill would provide up to 180 days in jail and a $1,000 fine for an assault on a teacher. The usual penalty for assault is a fine of up to $200 but no jail time.

House members passed, 133-0, a $907,000 emergency appropriation for the attorney general's office. The bill returns to the Senate for action on a House rewrite, which itemized the expenditure items, including $300,000 for the Howard Hughes will case and $260,276 for the Ruiz case, which seeks wholesale changes in the operation of the state prison system.

In other action the Senate:

- Approved a bill that would let school districts shorten the terms of school trustees. It's hard to find trustees willing to serve six years on a school board, said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene.
- Approved and sent to the House a bill that would allow state colleges to offer small-size classes if approved by state authorities.

State senator defends presidential primary bill

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

In an interview Monday, a state senator from Houston defended his proposal for a state presidential primary in March 1980, saying it is "designed to help Texas and all Texans."

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, said his presidential primary bill, S.B. 602, is "an attempt to give Texas a bigger voice in national affairs."

Ogg was scheduled to hold a press conference at the Amarillo airport Monday afternoon, but he canceled the appearance because of poor flying conditions in the Austin area.

S.B. 602 would allow a presidential primary on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in March, separate from the general primary in May. The bill originally would have moved the general primary to July and the run-off to May, but Ogg has amended it to retain the present May and June primary and run-off dates.

Ogg said Texas will have more influence in selecting presidential candidates if the presidential primary is held in March. He said the New Hampshire primary, held in February, has an undue amount of influence in presidential politics "just because it's early and it's first."

"If you wait until May to have the primary, the candidates are all promised up," Ogg said. "If you look at the ones who win, you see they get started early in New Hampshire."

He said an early Texas primary would be attractive to candidates because of the state's many electoral votes.

"If you were a candidate, would you rather tromp in the snow for four votes or come down here for 26?" Ogg asked. He said candidates would have to make pledges designed to please Texans.

"In the Northeast candidates talk consumerism and regulation," Ogg said. "If we have presidential candidates who come down here in January and February, they'll have to talk about issues that we're concerned about in Texas. It's a Sun Belt versus Frost Belt type of thing."

Ogg said separating the presidential and general primaries will allow crossover voting and "give Texas voters the independence they want. It will give them the choice to vote in either party's presidential primary, and then vote in either party's general election."

"I strongly feel the majority of Texas people will vote independent, particularly in the Panhandle area."

Ogg's proposal is under fire from leaders of both parties, many of whom favor a combined primary. He said "party people who want to build a strong party" are against his bill.

"We've had pretty good response from the guy in the street," Ogg said. "I sort of expect party people to be opposed to it. I assume some party officials are opposed to it because they feel everyone should be a registered Democrat or Republican."

A combined primary would get more support but it wouldn't do Texas any good, he said.

"You'd have absolutely no political impact and I don't think you'd be a key state in helping to elect a guy," he said.

"Remember, after the election is over, a candidate's natural personal and political inclination is to dance with them that bring you."

Opponents of a separate primary say it would cost taxpayers more than $4 million. Ogg said $2 million is a more realistic figure.

"Split that over a four-year period," he said. "For $500,000 a year, we have a primary that's going to be more effective." He said the objection to cost is "a smoke screen by the party people."

Some Democrats have denounced Ogg's bill as designed to help John Connally, a Republican presidential candidate. Ogg denied the charge.

"You can speculate on all these things," he said. "I've never talked to Gov. Connally about it."

School Board considers teacher salaries Special session next Monday

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

The Pampa Independent School Board will try to conclude a decision on teacher's salaries for 1979-80 at a special session next Monday night after reaching statements on a few of the issues at last night's meeting.

The board reacted to Gov. Bill Clement's proposal to scale wages according to degrees or a merit system.

The present over-scale salary for Pampa teachers is $500 over the amount set by the state. The local district, according to one trustee, dropped the over scale to $700 in 1970.

Trustee Paul Simmons said that several local schools are paying better salaries to teachers.

However, he was uncertain as to the availability of funds for supporting a wage increase.

Trustee Bill Arrington said wages would be unknown to teacher's receiving jobs if the board voted to postpone salary discussions and approved the re-election of teachers — the following item on the agenda.

He suggested the new salary consideration be taken up by the Long Range Committee because the governor's proposal may take a long time to be resolved into a bill.

He said that this problem would be due to the conservatism of Clements and the liberalism of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Arrington also said that he would suggest voting now on the re-election of teachers under the existing salary conditions since the committee would be awaiting the outcome of Clement's proposed bill for an undetermined amount of time.

The Long Range Committee was appointed to weigh the future needs of community schools and direct the board in decision-making, especially in the area of budgeting.

Reconsideration of merit-scaled wages at a special meeting was recommended by board member Alfred Smith, who said he wanted a chance to find out more about it.

Board President Dr. Robert Lyle, said he hoped enough information could be accumulated for a special meeting to make a vote worthwhile.

The board approved unanimously the continued discussion of the issues of salary and re-election of teachers.

However, an executive session was held, and the resignations and retirements of some teachers were accepted.

The resignations were Jimmy Robertson, John Randles, James Hogan, Judy Harris, Andrea Keese, Diana Coleman, and Gary and Jean Abercrombie. Jan Wiens, Doris Price and Bernyce Evans retired.

The recommendations of the Long Range Committee for future expenditures will also be an item on the agenda of the next session.

Smith sketched over some of the plans the committee had covered and those that needed the consideration of the board.

An environmental course, Advanced Chemistry and Exploring the World of Books were new seventh grade courses that the committee listed as possibilities in next year's scheduling.

A Computer Awareness Program and a photography class were additions that were suggested for the eighth grade level.

Smith outlined the costs and needs of possible renovations of facilities, namely the high school auditorium and art room.

The art room, according to the plan, would be enlarged by connecting the present VOE room, which would have to be moved to another location. Venting would be done from one place. The cost of this project was estimated at $20-30,000.

The auditorium is no longer useful, said Smith, and assemblies have to be held in the Field House.

"The appearance of the auditorium is pathetic," he said, and has gotten that way over a period of 30-40 years.

Something must be done about the facilities or the continuation of the drama program will have to be considered, he said.

Renovation of the existing auditorium to provide classrooms on the first and second floors and a seating capacity of 400 was appraised at $195,000.

The costs of updating stage equipment, lighting, sound equipment and new seating would add $61,000 to the total. Some of the equipment, said Smith, is unsafe.

An alternative, renting M.K. Auditorium, would cost about $7-10,000, said Smith.

One of the projects recommended by the committee was the cleaning, waterproofing and point masonry of the walls at Pampa Middle School at an estimated $15,000.

The improvement of 383 of the school's windows, costing $30,000, was also presented favorably by the committee representative.

The landscaping, including sidewalks and parking lots, could be improved for $120,000, according to the report.

Officials disappointed at committee's action

Pampa's mayor and statesenator both expressed disappointment over a senate committee's approval of legislation that would remove from cities the authority to regulate electric utility rates and services.

Senate Bill 312, sponsored by Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, would give all original jurisdiction over electric rates and operations to the state Public Utility Commission (PUC), except when municipally-owned utilities are involved. Electric companies supporting the move say it will cut red tape and reduce costs for consumers.

The Senate Economic Development Committee, after a hearing Monday in Austin, voted 5-2 in favor of the bill to the Senate floor for discussion. Mayor R.D. Wilkerson represented small area cities in testifying against the bill, and Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa, cast one of the two "no" votes.

"I feel like this bill was probably cut and dried before the committee meeting even started," Wilkerson said this morning. "That's the impression I had when I left the hearing."

Price said the committee voted down a compromise measure suggested by Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, before approving the bill. Price criticized the legislation, particularly a provision stating that the PUC will decide how cities can intervene in future rate cases.

"All you're doing is giving these (PUC) commissioners practically sole authority to set any rules or regulations so that the cities and the public will have to kowtow to the commission," Price said. The bill excludes individuals from participating in rate cases, he added.

"It doesn't say anything about individuals airing a complaint," Price said. "It's only a city that can air a complaint."

Wilkerson said he feels sure the Senate will "probably consider it (S.B. 312) favorably" when it comes before a vote. The mayor said he believes the best place to fight for continued local jurisdiction is in the House, where a similar bill is stalled in committee.

"They're more responsive to the voters, apparently, than the Senate is at this time," Wilkerson said.

Good afternoon

Board to consider staff request

A Gray County County Hospital Board will consider a medical staff request to convert six Highland General Hospital rooms into a pediatric patient area in regular session tonight at 6:30 p.m. at Highland General.

In other business, Hospital administrator Guy Hazlett will present financial reports and review the status of hospital operations for February.

Plant care meeting topic

Everett Janne, extension landscape specialist, will present a program dealing with the care of plants in the Texas Panhandle tonight at 7:30 in the courthouse annex meeting room.

In addition to the planned program, Janne will be available for a question and answer session dealing with the problems of growing plants in this region.

The public is invited to attend.

Eleven diamond rings stolen

A male-female team described as "two professionals working together" Monday heisted 11 diamond rings, valued at about $6,000, from Rheams Diamond Shop at 112 W. Foster.

"During working hours we had two pros come in and con us pretty good," said Ken Rheams, owner of the shop. "They knew what they were doing."

The crooked pair were in the store at about 4 p.m. under the pretense of having some rings cleaned, Rheams said. While one diverted the clerk's attention, the other snuck up behind him, opened a display case with a key, and removed the rings.

Police were given descriptions of the culprits, who remain at large.

Girl Scout Council meets tonight

Voting delegates and guests from 10 Panhandle counties will be in Pampa tonight at the First United Methodist Church for the annual meeting of the adult members of the Quivira Girl Scout Council, according to Celia Fowler, executive director.

The featured speaker at the dinner meeting, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the church basement, will be Dr. Thomas M. Cannon, Jr., associate professor of psychology at West Texas State University, Canyon.

A business session will precede the dinner at 6:30 p.m. A highlight of the dinner meeting will be the presentation of three Thank Badges, the highest award an adult can receive in Girl Scouting. Special music will be provided by the Blue Ridge Ramblers, a local bluegrass band.

Canadian youth escapes train's path

CANADIAN — A 16-year-old Canadian youth narrowly escaped death Sunday by jumping 30 feet off a railroad bridge trestle into a muddy marsh next to the Canadian River to avoid being struck by a Sante Fe freight train.

Jack Harold Pierce of 300 Summit St. was walking two dogs along the tracks shortly before sunset when he spotted the west-bound train. Hemphill County Deputy Sheriff Ory Jones said that the train engineer saw Pierce as he entered the trestle and threw on his emergency brakes.

The two dogs were killed just as Pierce leaped to safety. According to deputies, the youth sustained a sprained ankle and gashed elbow.

Some pro-American words would be nice

No matter whether you live in Dallas, Pittsburgh, Pampa or Kalamazoo, it is difficult to hear words favoring the American way of life.

Perhaps it is a form of liberal sophistication emerging among the commentators, but it does seem that if they cannot knock Americanism, they won't mention it. If it's good about our country it is not worthy of comment.

All of us know that our country is not perfect, but it is our country and it is the best on earth, and one turns sick at the stomach upon hearing, day after day, the endless prattle of the "sophisticates" who are knocking our land and our way of life.

J. Kesner Kahn, a columnist, among other callings, for the American Way Features, tells it in a short dissertation titled "Americans Out Here," which follows:

"We are told, Americans own more TV sets, radios and broadcasting stations, but you'd never know it from what is broadcast.

"How long has it been since you've seen a really pro-American program broadcast? One doing justice to Americanism, its goals, its aims and its accomplishments?"

"But can you remember a day or night when Americans and Americanism were not shown in a bad light? When anti-Americanism were not emphasized as the sins and failures of Americanism?"

"And whenever have our friends and allies abroad been shown in a favorable light, our mutual enemies in an unfavorable light?"

"When the broadcasters are called to account and asked to explain, they as much as admit their bias by asking: 'What is Americanism? What are we doing that is not fair to Americans and Americanism?' Or, even worse, they accuse as biased, those Americans who want to see the real and full state of affairs in America and other free world nations treated fully and fairly from an Americanist and freedomist viewpoint.

"What can you do about it? Well, if you ever happen to find a broadcast anywhere anytime that is Patriotic from an Americanist viewpoint, you could let the world and the broadcaster and the sponsors know. It would shock them to know that there still are Americans out there watching and listening who aren't so brainwashed that they still know pro-Americanism when they see it, if they ever see it."

Head in the sand

Warner & Swasey comes up with some of the best ads national magazines publish. Their messages are crisp and clear and they tell us where we are going wrong.

The latest, seen in Business Week and other magazines, was direct and to the point. It was headed with "When you bury your head in the sand, you're up to your neck in trouble." It follows:

Businessmen know that business is in trouble. Everywhere we turn, we are confronted by overzealous regulators and a hostile, uninformed public.

But how easy we find it to bury our heads and do nothing about it.

And, as a result, our image has suffered. Polluter of the air. Exploiter of the land. Payer of bribes. Illegal campaign contributor. Profiteer. Trampler of human dignity. Enemy of the common good.

Yet, what can we expect when we allow both sides of every controversy to be presented by the opposition?

Let us rub the sand from our eyes, open our mouths and carry with candor the cause of free enterprise to the American public. Before we find ourselves not up to our necks, but over our heads in trouble.

What type of vocation

The older generation has traditionally offered golden words of wisdom to its offspring. The elder usually advises the young sprout by laying out footprints or pointers to the light of riches.

However, today's young people have been given a new direction in living, and as a result, are choosing their own routes in career pursuit.

Many parents are dismayed when their children react negatively to advice from the experience of years.

The guidance of parents in the lower level of the economic scale is often regarded as useless because they have no foundation from which to speak.

At the same time, parents in the upper echelon are accused of trying to relive through their children.

Both sets of parents also find opposition in the test of time, which compares past days to today.

In earlier days, men and women were servants to the economy in the most humble sense.

The main concern each day was to subdue growing stomachs and to secure a job to permanently silence the annoying noise of hunger and its worry.

In time, large businesses were stocked with starving geniuses, as well as nincompoops, to administrate and work hard labor.

Today, big companies are reported to have suffered a shortage in talent while the number of private businesses increase.

Job security has evidently become secondary, and the employer is no longer trusted to take care of the worker's needs.

The fluctuating rate of turnover in business is another indication of this new trend in attitude.

Financial security has been replaced with needs, which have been labeled as classier. The current youth are more interested in answering two questions - "Who am I?" and "What type of vocation will satisfy my expectations?"

Young careerists, as a result, have become more independent-minded and are often displacing regular academic activities with vocational ones in order to find a comfortable niche.

James A. Michener's "drifters" have multiplied because youth want to find the type of life that will suit them best.

In Michener's presentation, the new generation was its own critic and guide, as are many youths today.

However, the drifters had to separate reality from dreams in their lives by hard experiences - by suffering the slings and arrows of fortune.

One consultant offers to today's young job seeker some advice, which may help him find his goal with little abrasion.

Patricia Flanagan suggests that the future should be planned on paper to filter ideas as realities and dreams.

Planning in black and white can save a minimum of two years in search time and two months in climbing to the top of the totem pole, she said.

A careerist should dress to match the self-image of his aspirations, she said, and learn how to sell his skills.

This handful of advice may not be much, but should be enough to wet youthful lips.

Oil - rich Mexico's new role

The importance of a continental strategy for the United States has been stressed by this writer for several years. As the United States loses the will and ability to project its power into distant regions, and as America is denied access to energy and strategic minerals, the nation will be compelled to fall back on the resources of North America. The ominous turn of affairs in Iran, one of the West's principal sources of petroleum, underlines the importance of a new continental strategy. Tragic developments in southern Africa, where the Carter administration is hastening the day of a revolutionary takeover of mineral-rich, strategic territories, also illustrates the need for a North American policy.

Fortunately, the United States itself is rich in energy and minerals. While the administration's emphasis is on regulation rather than production, a world crisis would compel authorities to clear away the restrictions which hamper full, speedy development of U.S. resources in the Western states.

The United States also is fortunate in that it has good neighbors possessed of immense resources. Canada is a treasure house of minerals and energy, with important new natural gas finds being made at frequent intervals. Much of this gas already is being moved into the American market.

The most extraordinary developments are taking place in Mexico where oil experts recently concluded that Mexico may conceivably be the world's richest source of oil, surpassing even Saudi Arabia in its total reserves.

Three years ago, according to the New York Times, Mexico's possible oil reserves stood at 30 billion barrels. The director general of Mexico's national oil company recently estimated the reserves at 300 billion barrels.

Oil production in Mexico has doubled within the last two years. Exports to the United States have quadrupled. If the United States develops sound policies with respect to Mexico, American homes and industry will have access to the vast energy resources of our neighbor to the south.

In the past, the United States has neglected Mexico. It has lavished foreign aid and attention on such faraway lands as India, while paying scant attention to the huge problems south of our border. The Carter administration currently is infatuated with playing the "China card," promoting the modernization of Chinese agriculture and industry - with no discernible benefit to the American people. President Carter visited Mexico in February. It is apparent that the enormous oil discoveries in Mexico, plus the crisis in Iran, have persuaded him of the importance of Mexico to the United States.

Other countries will be eyeing Mexican resources. Japan, for example, undoubtedly will turn to Mexico for energy now that its primary source in Iran is imperiled. The vulnerable nations of Europe also will want Mexican oil.

An oil-rich Mexico will have the capacity to solve its immense problems, which are caused by a mushrooming population. With abundant oil money, Mexico should be able to create industries that will offer employment to Mexicans who now seek to enter the United States illegally. Therefore, the United States has much to gain in a variety of ways.

As we look to the 21st century, North America is likely to be a world island in a sea of hostility, with Marxist and hostile Afro-Asian states posing a threat to the New World. If the United States, Canada and Mexico adopt a continental economic and military strategy, they will be able to provide for the security of their peoples in a period of maximum danger.

Cold weather

There's a proverb that says, "You have to plow in the cold to reap in the harvest."

Many of our Northern states which have suffered the most horrendous winter on record would like some reason to believe that snow and cold have at least some compensating value.

Seventy thousand years ago mostly naked nomadic men divided themselves. Many shivering prehistoric hunters fled South, seeking equatorial warmth.

Others remained in Northern lands, responded to the challenge of the glaciation, learned to use fire, learned to wear clothing made of animal pelts. These Stone Age men learned to cook and dry meats and store nuts against storm and blizzard times when hunting was impossible.

Thus they learned skills, developed endurance, devised tools of stone and bone. They grew strong and tall. This pertinacious breed did what they had to do - learned agriculture. Their trial by nature was long and difficult, but they advanced toward civilization in seven-league boots.

On the other hand, those Stone Age men who fled instead to more comfortable tropical climates took it easy, were not fruitful, were not progressive.

Today we see evidence that the enlightened cultures - industrial, artistic, literary - arose in snowy Northern climates.

Dynamism was spawned by the rigorous winters in Western Europe. Similarly, in our hemisphere, the remarkable scientific and technological achievements were first realized in Northern America.

Africa and South America and islands of the South Seas were "too comfortable," lacking in stimulus.

In our own lifetime, in our own country, we have watched the "sleepy Southland" come awake with the development of air conditioning.

Now one can enjoy the best of both worlds, sunshine and shade, temperatures made to order.

Granted, there are other factors influencing the productivity of specific geographical regions; cold weather alone has not been a motivator in the Andes Mountains of South America.

And successive winters rarely follow the same pattern. This year we have witnessed unprecedented snow and cold in southern California, southern Arizona and the Nevada desert.

And yet I watch heretofore hardy Chicagoans, know for their bursts of productive exuberance, historically able to lift themselves from the ashes of fire and the calamities of climate, electing to flee to the Sun Belt.

As one of them I share the exasperation spawned by impassable roads, collapsed roofs, leaky everything.

But as an historian, the quest for creature comfort first, if not a backward step, is not forward either.

IN WASHINGTON

A question of expense

WASHINGTON (NEA) - One major defense contractor sought to charge the taxpayers $12,500 for a film promoting its wares. Another company wanted to use public funds to pay for more than $100,000 worth of entertainment expenses.

A third aerospace firm requested government reimbursement for more than $200,000 worth of employee time devoted to lobbying and entertainment.

Those disclosures come from previously secret documents, reluctantly released by the Defense Department almost 18 months after a request for the materials was submitted under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

The Pentagon's foot-dragging is understandable, because the documents offer evidence that the Washington offices of some of the nation's biggest and best-known military contractors sought federal payments for unauthorized expenses.

When officials of the Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) examined the financial records of the Rockwell International Corp., a Pittsburg-based firm, they challenged more than $350,000 worth of Washington office expense claims submitted during a recent two-year period.

Included in that total was $12,500 for production of a film touting the virtues of Rockwell's controversial and ill-fated B-1 bomber project.

In another case, DCAA auditors disallowed more than $340,000 worth of expenses claimed during the same two-year period by the Washington office of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., of Burbank, Calif.

That included more than $112,000 worth of entertainment costs, as well as more than $38,400 for travel to international air shows in France and Great Britain, first-class air fares for company executives and travel expenses for their wives.

When DCAA auditors checked into the finances of the Washington office of the Boeing Corp., of Seattle, Wash., they questioned almost $274,000 worth of expenses charged to government accounts during a two-year period.

That included almost $202,500 worth of salaries and fringe benefits paid to Boeing's Washington representatives while they were engaged in entertainment and lobbying activities.

Almost $32,400 was spent on fishing trips, hunting expeditions and other unallowable entertainment activities. Another $22,400 went for dues to the Washington Athletic Club and other social organizations, as well as various "social" or "goodwill" activities.

The DCAA audits were designed specifically to reveal not only unallowable contractor entertainment claims but also to discover whether any civilian or military employees of the Defense Department were recipients of that corporate largesse.

Department regulations specifically prohibit that practice, to prevent Pentagon officials from being improperly tempted to return the favor by giving special consideration to their hosts when negotiating and awarding contracts.

But the DCAA auditors invariably were foiled in their efforts to identify the individuals entertained at restaurants, country clubs, hunting lodges and sports stadiums.

In Lockheed's case, for example, the auditors found that company expense vouchers "did not disclose the nature, objective and purpose of the meal, and the names and affiliation of the attendees."

Boeing's instructions for expense expense, accounts "require specific identification of the business relationship of individuals or groups" being entertained, according to the DCAA report.

The auditors found, however, that "these instructions are generally not being followed by any of the Boeing organizations" because expense accounts included only vague references to "business associates" or "business discussion."

Boeing officials claim that company employees are allowed to ignore the expense account instructions. As a result, nobody knows whether the company engaged in prohibited wining and dining of Pentagon officials.

Food stamp recipients may be cut by 1 million

As many as one million persons could be removed from the Food Stamp program nationwide in keeping with reforms which went into effect this month, according to Texas Department of Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman.

The reforms, which implement the Food Stamp Act of 1977, will include tightening eligibility requirements, simplifying program administration, and improving services to households, particularly the elderly and disabled.

Under the new program, the net income eligibility limits for food stamps have been lowered to the poverty level, currently about $6500 annually for a family of four. Under the old rule, the net income limit for a family of four was $7,680 annual income.

Sue Holder, a Gray County caseworker for the Department of Agriculture, which administers the food stamp program here, said Monday that no one has been removed from the program in Gray County through the new regulations.

Holder said she did not expect the reforms to reduce the number of those presently receiving aid through the program in Gray County.

Holder said the new regulations "will not allow nearly as much room for error." Under the new system a standard deduction of $65 is allowed on all earned income.

The new rules fix the monthly deduction for child care and shelter at a maximum of $80. But allowable assets for applying families have been increased from $1,500 to $1,750. In households of two or more persons, one of whom is over 60, allowable assets remain at $3000.

Holder said food stamp recipients with large medical expenses "would probably be hurt most" by the new regulations.

Gray County showed a total of 269 families using food stamps for January, 1979.

Although the Department of Human Resources reports that the number of elderly participating in the program has been historically low, Holder estimates that about 60 percent of those receiving food stamp aid in the county are over 60 years of age.

In a statement released last week, Chapman stressed that the impact of the new rules differs from household to household. "Higher income households will become ineligible," he said, "while some households will have their benefits reduced and still others have their benefits increased."

Cancer Society opens drive

The Pampa chapter of the American Cancer Society kicked off the business portion of its 1979 fund-raising drive at a breakfast meeting this morning.

The target sum to be collected this year from local businesses is $4,000, said Walt McFatrige, chairman of the business drive. Ten drive captains, each working with from two to six people, will solicit the money from about 500 businesses.

"We hope to get it done in two weeks," McFatrige said. "We'll have progress meetings Friday and next week." Mike Keagy, chairman for the entire Gray County drive, said residential fund-raising will begin in April. A bowl-a-thon, tennis tournament and other events will be held this summer. The overall goal of this year's drive is $16,400, Keagy said.

The business drive captains attending the meeting were urged by Dr. Keith Teague, president of the local cancer society chapter, to quickly collect the funds.

Asked why the society hasn't joined the United Fund, Teague replied the society wants to educate the public about cancer as it solicits. Also, Teague said, not all money collected in Pampa is used locally, but is sent to Austin and allocated from there to different Texas agencies.

The national society donates eight cents to Texas to match every dollar raised in the state, Teague said.

"For every dollar we raise, we get to spend $1.08," he said.

Ford planning partial retirement

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Henry Ford II will give up his "executive responsibilities" at Ford Motor Co. before the end of the year, but will keep a hand in the huge business his grandfather founded.

"I do plan to continue my association with the company in other capacities, but I no longer will be serving as chief executive officer," Ford said at a closed meeting of Australian Ford dealers. He said he would step aside "by the end of this year."

Ford has been the company's chief executive officer since 1945 and chairman for the past 19 years.

The remarks were made last Wednesday, detailed Monday in the Australian Financial Review, and confirmed by a Ford spokesman in Dearborn, Mich.

Ford is visiting Australia for the introduction of a new car model.

Whether Ford, 61, will stay on as chairman of the world's fourth-largest manufacturing company isn't certain, and little additional information was forthcoming Monday from Dearborn.

"I'm afraid we really can't elaborate on the statement at this point," said spokesman Roland Williams at Ford headquarters.

The most popular scenario among industry observers has Ford President Philip Caldwell, 59, becoming chief executive, and Henry II's younger brother William Clay Ford, now a vice-president, taking over as chairman.

As long ago as 1977, Ford indicated he didn't plan to remain chief executive until he reached mandatory retirement age in 1982.

William Clay Ford, 54, owner of professional football's Detroit Lions, was named chairman of the Ford board's executive committee last year in a move widely seen as preparatory for Henry's retirement.

police report

Floyd Hamlet of 1007 Darby reported the theft of an AM-FM eight-track stereo, two three-inch tall chrome speakers, dishes, toys, clothes and canned food from his semi-truck trailer Sunday. The trailer was parked at M & D Sales, 817 S. Cuyler. Estimated value of the stolen items is approximately $300.
The police department responded to 34 calls in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

minor accidents

A 1965 Ford driven by Thelma Hodges of Box 494, White Deer, was northbound in the 1300 block of N. Hobart and reportedly ran a red light at the intersection of Hobart and Kentucky, striking a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Omega Browning of 2205 N. Williston. Both persons received minor injuries but refused hospital treatment. Hodges was cited for running a red light.

Michigan man held in shooting death

SHAMROCK — Wheeler County authorities are currently holding a Michigan man in connection with the shooting death of a Stratford man.
Russell Eugene Gaylor, 24, of Utica, Mich. was arrested by officers after the body of Charles William Hulen was found lying beside Interstate 40 an estimated 3 1/2 miles west of here Monday afternoon.
Bill Turnbow of Shamrock told authorities that he saw a bob-tailed truck leaving the scene and within minutes officers stopped a truck matching the description given by Turnbow and arrested Gaylor.
Gaylor reportedly told authorities that he had been on his way to Colorado to deliver the truck he was driving, but made no statement about the shooting.

Subpoenas allowed in narcotics probe

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Subpoenas for the personal and business records of a bail bondsman who put up $400,000 bond for Jimmy Chagra were allowed to stand Monday.
U.S. District Judge William Sessions denied motions to quash the subpoenas, issued as part of a grand jury probe into racketeering.
Chagra, brother of slain narcotics defense lawyer Lee Chagra, was arrested in Las Vegas on narcotics charges and is scheduled to stand trial in Midland in April.
Victor Apodaca Jr. posted the bond, believed to be the highest in El Paso history.
Apodaca's lawyer, Sib Abraham, had said the subpoenas were outside the area of the FBI, which issued them. Abraham said the subpoenas were a "license to conduct a fishing expedition."
The subpoenas called for Apodaca's business records from July 1976 and for personal records dating back 12 years.
The subpoenas included the accounting firm headed by El Paso Mayor Ray Salazar, which handled Apodaca's records during some of the period under investigation.
Salazar said Monday he already had turned the requested records over to the U.S. attorney's office.
Sessions ordered another accounting firm to turn over its records in the case Monday afternoon.
Abraham, Apodaca's lawyer and partner in several business ventures, charged the FBI subpoenas "usher in a new phase of the federal probe."
Abraham's sister is the widow of Lee Chagra.

Walker honored at Canadian

CANADIAN — Buster Walker, a Canadian volunteer fireman for 25 years, was honored with the 1978 Firemen of the Year Award Saturday night during the annual banquet and awards ceremony at Canadian City Hall.

A 20-year service award also went to fireman Frank Guthrie. A special award was presented to Mury Hirschel, who donated a rural fire truck to the department last year.

Canadian Fire Chief Bill Hodges, master of ceremonies for the program, reported that the department had responded to 36 city fires, including seven residential fires, in 1978. The department answered 137 rural fires in 1978, Hodges said.

Fire damage losses were reported at $13,500 for 1978, down from $191,271 in damages for 1977. Hodges said rural fire units have been established in Allison, Mobeetie, Gem City, and Bryan, in hope of providing Hemphill County with better fire fighting services.

Weather

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms drenched much of East, South and Southeast Texas early today, prompting the National Weather Service to extend a flash flood watch through today.

The flash flood watch, meaning that there was the possibility of flash flooding, covered an area of Texas along and 50 miles on either side of a line from Junction to 30 miles northeast of Beaumont.

Heavy thunderstorms were reported early today in East Texas after an evening of violent weather. The violent weather consisted of heavy rain, briefly high wind gusts and heavy thunderstorms. The heavy rain produced some street flooding in the Beaumont area and in North Texas, mainly around Gainesville.

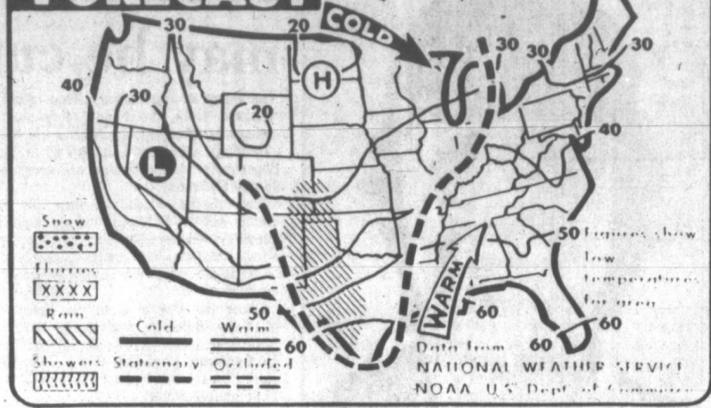

A flash flood warning expired early today in Liberty, Hardin, Jefferson and Orange Counties. Forecasters said heavy rains were causing some flash flooding because the ground was soaked.
Forecasters called for mostly cloudy skies today with widespread showers and thunderstorms. Some of the heaviest rainfall was expected in the Hill Country and in portions of South Central and Southeast Texas.

Dense fog-out-visibility early today around Austin and in the Concho Valley.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle and mountains of Southwest Texas to near 70 along the coast in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Early morning extremes ranged from 33 at Dalhart to 71 at both McAllen and Brownsville.

FORECAST

Until Wednesday

WARM WEATHER is expected for the East in the Tuesday through Wednesday morning forecast period. Cold weather is forecast for the central states and near-normal temperatures for most of the West. Showers are expected from West Texas into the southern plains.

Judge upset by pace of Davis case

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Retired Judge John Barron, up from Bryan to hear the marathon divorce case of Cullen and Priscilla Davis, listened to lawyers argue about their fee prospects Monday, then threatened to return home to hunt rabbits.

Barron said he was upset with the pace of the trial, where huge sums of money have been bandied about freely.

"Don't get me iered up, is all I ask, because I've got a hell of a temper when I do," the 65-year-old jurist said. "If we can't make headway, I'm going to adjourn this case for about 10 days or two weeks ... and I'm going to go back to Bryan and do some rabbit hunting."

Mrs. Davis is seeking the couple's $6 million mansion, plus a huge cash settlement from her multimillionaire husband, whose available funds have been debated during the trial.

Davis was acquitted in the August 1976 shooting death of his step-daughter at the showplace Davis mansion in Fort Worth. Another man died, and Mrs. Davis and a visitor were wounded in the shooting spree.

Bank robbery suspect out on recognizance
BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — One of two men charged in connection with the armed robbery of a Los Fresnos bank has been released on a personal recognizance bond, according to a federal prosecutor.
Assistant U.S. Attorney John Smith said Edward Lee McCameron, 21, was released Monday after being arraigned by U.S. Magistrate William Mallett. Ted Jeffrey Otsuki, 26, was being held in the Cameron County jail on $750,000 bond.
Smith said McCameron was freed because of his cooperation with investigators.

Expert contradicts testimony in trial of Houston policemen

HOUSTON (AP) — A ballistics expert has contradicted the testimony of an earlier witness in the trial of three former Houston policemen charged with violating the civil rights of Randall Webster.
Dr. Irvin C. Stone, Dallas, testified Monday that a gun such as that carried by former officer Danny H. Mays would have caused a powder burn on the body if the gun discharged at close range.

Government witnesses have testified, however, no such powder burns were found on Webster, who was fatally shot Feb. 8, 1977 following a high speed auto chase with policemen.

Mays, 32, Norval W. Holloway, 29 and Paul D. Dillon, 38, are charged in connection with Webster's death.

John T. Olin, a former officer, had testified earlier that he had seen Mays use his pistol to strike Webster, 17, Shreveport, La., and that the weapon accidentally discharged.

Stone with the Institute of Forensic Science in the medical examiner's office at Dallas, said he would expect powder to be on any hair or clothing that might have been in the way of the bullet.

The indictment against the officers also says they conspired to place a gun beside Webster's body to make it appear he was armed when shot.

Prosecution witnesses have traced the alleged throw down gun to the police property room, where it had been reported destroyed.

Oil-pricing case goes on to federal courts

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — As an aftermath to the criminal conviction of four Texas oilmen, the civil phase of the so-called daisy chain oil-pricing case is moving into the federal courts.

U.S. District Judge George C. Carr has scheduled a conference at Tampa on April 6 in the state of Florida's civil suit against Florida Power Corp., seeking to repay Florida Power customers an estimated $8 million in overcharges during 1973-74.

The state and Florida Power have agreed to a $6 million settlement, but it hasn't yet been approved in federal court.

Florida Power, in turn, is suing to get back the money it allegedly was overcharged in a so-called "daisy chain" transfer of oil from company to company, with price increases at each transaction.
The Federal Energy

Administration also is suing Texas oil firms owned by defendants in the criminal prosecution.

In the criminal trial, moved here from Tampa, a jury convicted James R. Clark, 49; John L. Burns, 50; Walter L. Ballard, 59, and Ronald Pruitt, 37, all of Houston, of conspiracy to illegally raise prices of oil going to Florida Power in 1973-74.

FOCUS

Writing All Day Long

If you have trouble sitting down to write a letter or an essay for school, think about Isaac Asimov. Every morning at 7:30, Asimov goes to the typewriter in his New York apartment, and begins to write. Stopping only to eat meals, answer the telephone, and take an afternoon nap, he writes until 10:00 at night. He doesn't like to travel, refuses to fly in airplanes, and never takes a vacation. He follows his day-long writing schedule seven days a week. At 59, Asimov has published 200 books, totalling 15 million words. In his latest book, "In Memory Yet Green," Asimov writes about his life from 1920 to 1954.

DO YOU KNOW — For what field of writing is Isaac Asimov best known?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — Toxicology is the study of poisons.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I just saw you on the Phil Donahue show and I can't believe you were born in 1918. Have you ever had a face-lift? If not, please tell me how to keep from growing old. ANOTHER 1918 MODEL

DEAR MODEL: I've never had a face-lift. And to keep from growing old—die young.

DEAR ABBY: I read with great interest the letter from the lady who couldn't warm up to her daughter-in-law. (She said, "I always felt that my son could have done a lot better." I wonder if she ever realized that he also could have done a lot worse?)

I, too, felt that my son could have done a lot better, but I wasn't very good at concealing my feelings. I always found something to criticize my daughter-in-law for.

I soon noticed that my son would always take her part, and it was then against me. That's when I began to analyze my own feelings and had to admit that the fault was with me—not her.

That was seven years ago. Thank heaven I woke up in time to improve the relationship before it was too late. When I warmed up to her, she quickly warmed up to me. I have two beautiful grandchildren now, and I am closer to my son than I've ever been.

Abby, edit this any way you wish, but please tell mothers-in-law to make the first move in reaching out to their daughters-in-law. They will be pleasantly surprised. JUST IN TIME

DEAR JUST: No editing necessary. You said it very well. Thanks for some horse sense straight from the horse's mouth.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing, but after yesterday's column I felt compelled to do so. My heart goes out to EASY IN ST. LOUIS. Tell her she is not alone in her fight for sexual sanity.

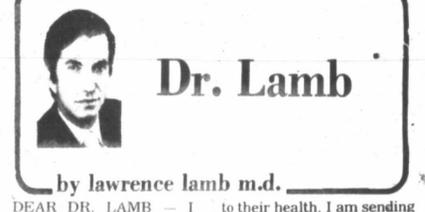

I, too, was raped by a relative when I was a teenager. I spent the next five years searching desperately for love through numerous brief sexual encounters. I felt cheap and dirty and was convinced that no one could love or want me.

Then I met a very special young man who convinced me that God loved me just the way I was, and that I was precious in His sight. I then let go of my burdensome past, and by accepting God's forgiveness, I started on the long road to forgiving myself.

It works. Believe me. Sign me... FREE AND HAPPY

DEAR ABBY: Are birth control pills deductible. FRANNIE

DEAR FRANNIE: Only if they don't work.

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem that I'd like some help with. I've been on a diet and lost about 20 pounds in a year. I'm happy about that but when I lost weight, I also lost my menstrual period. At first I didn't worry and kept right on with the diet and taking water pills. Then I started to worry. I'm only 16 and I've had a period regularly for about a year. Could I still get pregnant?

I've been to doctors and they all say that it will come back soon if I stop worrying about it. I really can't stop worrying. I'm still trying to lose weight, but I did quit taking the pills for a month already. In January, it showed a little but then after that it mysteriously disappeared again. I hope you will give me an honest opinion.

DEAR READER — Your doctors have given you the correct answer. When a girl first starts having menstrual periods, they are often irregular and may disappear for a time. Later on, when she becomes fully matured, they are more apt to be regular. This could happen to you whether or not you had been on a diet. It's just part of the developmental process.

It is true that severe dieting or fad diets which don't give you a balanced diet can cause you to have such a problem. Years ago a study in men at the University of Minnesota showed that when they were on a 1600-calorie balanced diet and lost a lot of weight, they lost their normal interest in sex as well as undergoing a lot of other changes. If you abuse your body, you should not expect it to function normally.

I am all for losing weight, if you need to, but I like to see people do this in a sensible way that's not dangerous to their health. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, because it is a balanced diet plan that you could rely on. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You shouldn't stay on this diet or any other diet that's too restrictive for too long. I think six weeks is about maximum. Then you should be on a maintenance diet that would allow your body to recover and replenish all its needs.

A lot of girls have menstrual difficulties from excessive fad dieting. Some of the worst are the low carbohydrate or no carbohydrate diets that people use. Since you've only lost 20 pounds in a year, you're losing less than half a pound a week and that's a good sensible approach. I wish everyone would be as sensible. If you learn to eat a good balanced diet with a plan you can use the rest of your life, you may be able to avoid obesity for a lifetime.

The other pitfall I'd like to caution you against is some young women overdo dieting. It becomes an obsession with them to the point that they develop anorexia nervosa. This is basically a psychological reaction often related to basic emotional disturbances and an inability to properly assess one's own body image.

A lot of these young girls still think they are fat even after they are as thin as a fugitive from a concentration camp. This is quite serious and parents should guard against this tendency, particularly in young women. It can also occur in boys but it more often occurs in young girls.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY — I received a wallet as a gift but cannot use it because it smells of medicine. I have tried sponging it with soap and airing it but it still smells. Do you have any suggestions. — MRS. W.C.K.

DEAR MRS. W.C.K. — Try stuffing your wallet with crushed newspaper, put in a closed box and leave for a week or two. Hopefully this will eliminate the odor. — POLLY

Around the nation...

BOSTON (AP) — At least 15 persons were injured when a high-speed trolley car slammed into two others waiting for a stalled police car to be removed from the track, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority said.
 An 89-year-old Milton woman with a cerebral concussion and a 31-year-old South Weymouth man with face cuts and a broken nose were admitted in stable condition to Milton Hospital, where 11 others involved in Monday-afternoon's accident were released after treatment.

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts House has given initial approval to a bill that would require investigative reporters to get licenses as private detectives.
 The measure, which advanced in the House on Monday, is one of two dealing with checks on journalists proposed by Sen. Denis L. McKenna, who has had differences with some reporters in the past. McKenna's second bill, pending before the State Administration Committee, would require that reporters covering the Statehouse file full financial disclosure statements.

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — A judge has rejected a motion to allow non-striking miners to carry weapons to and from Jericol Mining Inc.'s Glenbrook operation, where about 100 United Mine Workers have been on strike for 15 months.
 After earlier violence, Harlan Circuit Court Judge Sid Douglass issued an order in September forbidding striking UMW members and working non-union miners from carrying firearms on their way to and from the mine. He let that order stand Monday, but modified it to specify that state police escorting miners to and from the mine include officers "trained in high-powered weaponry."

CHICAGO (AP) — The skeleton of William Carroll, a 16-year-old boy missing since 1976, has been identified as one of 29 skeletons found at the suburban home of John W. Gacy Jr.
 The medical examiner's office said Carroll, whose skeleton was identified Saturday, was the 14th body identified. His identity was disclosed Monday.
 Fifteen skeletons found at Gacy's home remain unidentified.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

March 21, 1979

Goals you may have had trouble accomplishing in the past should be reachable this coming year. Stick with what you've started and put forth the same honest effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Hard work, unselfishly motivated, is the only thing that will pay off for you today. Subdue personal ambitions. Find out more of what lies ahead for you from now until your next birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're in a negative mood today it would be far better to let go and let someone you trust and feel to be competent manage your affairs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The results you hope to obtain may be difficult to achieve, but you'll never realize them with underhanded methods. Keep plugging on the straight and narrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may have to put up with someone who bores you to tears in order to get another's cooperation. The end result will be worth it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your methods today could be quite annoying to co-workers. You probably would be better off tackling large tasks by yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Ask yourself if it's worth alienating friends to get what you want today, before you employ procedures that knock them out of the picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) No matter how trivial something appears, don't discuss family issues with outsiders. A loved one's feelings could be deeply hurt.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is no easy way of doing things today. In fact, you may even have to go back to antiquated ways in order to accomplish your aims.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may have to be firm with yourself in order not to succumb to extravagant impulses today. Though you might not like it, it's the smart thing to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Once you make up your mind there isn't anything you can't accomplish today. However, take care not to step on anyone's toes in your determination to do so.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Discuss things today only with persons involved in your business. Outsiders could confuse the facts and do a good job of messing things up for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) Allow past experience to control your actions today, especially if you're with free spending acquaintances. Do what's best for YOU.

Big Ten dominates NIT

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Purdue University and Indiana University are a mere 120 miles apart and brothers in the Big Ten Conference, but now their basketball teams are even closer than that — right next to each other in the final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

The first NIT championship game between two schools from the same state in 20 years was set up Monday when the 15th-ranked Boilermakers, 27-7, from West Lafayette, Ind., and the unrated Hoosiers, 21-12, from Bloomington, Ind., won semifinal games at Madison Square Garden. They play Wednesday night in the first intrastate NIT final since 1958 when Xavier, Ohio defeated Dayton 78-74 in overtime.

Purdue, led by Joe Barry Carroll's 42 points, destroyed Alabama 87-68 and Indiana, behind Mike Woodson's 20 points and a suffocating defense, beat Big Ten Conference rival Ohio State 64-55 Monday night in the semifinals of the 42nd NIT.

In their two prior meetings this season, Indiana won at home 63-54 and Purdue took the second game on its court 55-48.

"The Big Ten is king in the Midwest, it doesn't worry about the rest of the country," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight.

If the Big Ten is as dominating a conference as Knight suggests, then the individual king in the Midwest is the massive, 7-foot-1, 240-pound Carroll.

In scoring nearly half his team's points and reaching a career high against Alabama, the third-team All-American junior center awed a crowd of 14,632, including many pro scouts, general managers and coaches.

"He's very agile," marveled Ken Norton, the long-time coach at Manhattan and now a member of the NIT Selection Committee. "And what a touch he has."

"He has a real good touch for a big man," observed Butch Beard, assistant coach of the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

The Crimson Tide, 21-11, used three players — Eddie Phillips, Phil Lockett and Reggie King, the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year — in trying to defend Carroll. But none could stop his sweeping right-handed hook shots, his soft layups or his one-handed slam dunks. Phillips and Lockett both fouled out and King was taken off Carroll after getting two quick fouls.

Carroll, a 22.6 scorer during the regular season with a high of 36 against Iowa, hit all eight of his field goals attempts and collected 20 points in the first half when the Boilermakers, Big Ten tri-champions, took a commanding 43-32 lead.

He added 22 points after intermission as the potent and poised Boilermakers broke open the game.

"Joe Barry played a great game, an exceptional game," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose. "But he's played like this all year. I don't think he's played any better, but he has played this well."

"We tried to double up on Carroll," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "but we had trouble because their guards played so well."

Of the Boilermakers' guards, Jerry Sichting scored 20 points and had seven assists, and Brian Walker contributed nine assists.

King and Robert Scott scored 21 points apiece for Alabama, which faces Ohio State in the third-place game preceding the title contest.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking that Carroll is a one-man team," warned Knight. "They (the Boilermakers) have some good guards who can hurt you."

Still, Carroll was awesome against Alabama. His point production equaled the sixth highest total in NIT history — the record is 65 by Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts in 1977. In four NIT games, Carroll has accumulated 112 points, only 17 shy of the all-time record set by Bobby Lloyd of Rutgers in 1967.

Neither is Indiana a one-man team. In addition to Woodson's team-high total against Ohio State, guards Butch Carter and Randy Wittman each scored 12 points and combined for 12 assists, while center Ray Tolbert had 10 points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

Kevin Ransey led Ohio State, 19-11, with 25 points and center Herb Williams scored 14.

But the Buckeyes' inability to get the ball consistently into Williams against Indiana's tight zone defense was costly. The 6-10 Williams, a 19.9 scorer during the season, took only eight shots against the Hoosiers.

"Indiana's defense collapsed on Williams," said Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller. "We had no balanced offense to overcome this. Indiana plays as good a defense as any team in the country."

ALABAMA'S Robert Scott (10) steps on the toes of Jerry Sichting (24) of Purdue as the two players went after a loose ball during action Monday night in the NIT semi-finals in New York. Purdue won, 87-68. (AP Laserphoto)

PHS netters meet Dumas

Pampa High's tennis team, fresh from a good performance at a Lubbock tournament over the weekend, takes on Dumas at the Harvester courts this afternoon for a dual match at 3.

Kris Douglass led the way for Pampa at the Lubbock event, fighting her way from a non-seeded position into the semifinals, where she lost to Vicki Vasicek of Midland, last year's state runner-up.

"What she did was comparable to winning District 3-AAAA," said coach David Martin. "If she would have been seeded she'd have made it to the finals, because she was obviously the second best player at the tournament."

Her trail to the semifinals started with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Eleanor Gibb of Wichita Falls. A three-set win (3-6, 6-4, 7-5) over Karen Byrd of Odessa Permain put her into the semifinals against Miss Vasicek, who took two 6-4 sets before going on to win the tournament.

Martin also gave Kevin Gantz and Mark Elliott credit for improved doubles play, despite the 6-3, 6-3 setback they suffered at the hands of Gibb and Catuogno of Lubbock Coronado. He said his girls doubles teams had also improved their game.

Susan Lane and Laura Johnson dropped a 6-3, 6-4 match to Midland's Codden and Farquhar, while Cheryl Kessel and Kathy Wall fell to Sutherland and Sutherland of Amarillo High, 6-2, 6-3.

In other matches, Kurt Krause lost to Frank Guengerich of Tascosa 6-0, 6-4; the doubles team of Mark Spence and Greg Trollinger dropped a 6-3, 6-3 set to McFarland and Coulter of Lubbock Monterey; Julie Collier lost a 6-0, 6-1 match to Pauline Musil of Lubbock Monterey; Kim Freeman lost an 8-2 pro set to Chris Ethridge of Monterey; Shaun Johnson dropped two 6-2 sets to Steve Starkey of Lubbock High; Tim Kohler fell 6-0, 6-1 to Lubbock High's Edward Hernandez and Randy Pryor dropped consecutive 6-0 sets to Winn Fuqua of Monterey.

Rose misses chance to play against Reds

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Baseball fans mobbed the Philadelphia Phillies' stadium Monday to see Pete Rose play for the first time against his former teammates, the Cincinnati Reds.

But Rose, who performed 16 years for Cincinnati before signing a reported $3.2 million four-year contract with the Phillies, didn't play. He was two miles away taking batting practice and working on his defense at first base.

Fans started lining up outside Jack Russell Stadium well before 9 a.m. And by 10:45, the line outside the stadium encircled three quarters of the ballpark.

Later, the Phillies began informing fans outside the park that Rose would not play. And 20 minutes before the game, the public address announcer in the ballpark announced that Rose would not play.

There was no booing, just a buzzing throughout the crowd, which by that time included fans standing behind ropes in the foul line and outfield area.

Pampa riders place in rodeo

Three Pampa representatives placed in last weekend's McLean rodeo sponsored by the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association.

Lena Stewart took second in goat tying with a time of 12.069. In the bareback bronc riding, Shane Brown of Pampa finished in a tie for third place with Vernon Smith of Pampa and Kenny Otts of Tascosa. All three came in with scores of 53.

The only other Pampa rider to place came in the bull riding. Frankie Watts tied for fourth place with two others. Watts, Plainview's Hobby Thomas and nd Dusty Wilcox of Hereford all came in with identical scores of 53.

IBM announces an "Open House" on small computers IN PAMPA

The IBM 5110 Computing System, with a price that starts at under $18,000, is proving to be what many business firms need to get started with their own small computer.

IBM invites you to an "open house" to see how a small computer can help you manage a growing business. You can drop in whenever you like on the continuous demonstrations and presentations.

You'll discover how the 5110 can handle such jobs as payroll, accounts receivable, inventory control and general ledger; as well as provide timely management reports. And how your own people can learn to run it in just a few days.

Make a note now on your calendar to stop by the 5110 "open house" at a time convenient for you. Or for more information, call us at the number below.

Pitchers gaining recognition

By The Associated Press
Their names are not yet among the pitching stars of the American League. But if their performances this spring are an indication, watch out for a pair of youthful right-handers: Kip Young of Detroit and Mark Clear of California.

Neither has allowed a run this spring.
The 24-year-old Young has pitched 12 pre-season innings, including five in Monday's 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. He struck out seven Expos in his stint, polishing his breaking pitches in preparation for his first full season with the big-league club.

Most of his victims flailed feebly at his curve.
"That makes you feel like you must be doing something right," said Young, who was promoted to the Tigers from the minors midway through last season and managed a 6-7 record with a 2.81 earned run average.

"They're just disgusted," he said of the batters. "It's early in the spring and they're not used to seeing that many breaking balls."

The 22-year-old Clear has been working on his control... successfully. The 6-foot-4, 200-pounder — a nephew of Angels first base coach Bob Clear — has pitched nine spring innings, striking out 16 while allowing just two hits and three walks.

"My uncle and my dad have been doing a lot of work with me," he said after striking out the side twice in three innings Monday as the Angels beat the Chicago Cubs 5-3. "I'm excited about my chances of making the Angels this season. I'd just like to make this club. I think I'm capable of starting, but I'm just happy to get a chance."

In the other exhibition games, the New York Yankees trimmed the Atlanta Braves 2-1, the Houston Astros nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers drubbed the Baltimore Orioles 8-2, the Cincinnati Reds edged in 13 innings, the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Boston Red Sox 10-8 and the Texas Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals 6-2.

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's bested the Cleveland Indians 9-3 in a game shortened to seven innings by rain, the Seattle Mariners drubbed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-3; the San Diego Padres topped the San Francisco Giants 5-3, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped the Chicago White Sox 5-3 and the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4.

fielded lineups of backup players, directed each team to field "representative squads" for exhibition games at which admission is charged.

"I'm not going to kill my club trying to entertain people during spring training," said Lemon. "It's not like a nightclub act. You shouldn't have to play their favorite songs."

"There's no sense bringing the kids to spring training if you're not going to play them," Lemon continued.
Jim Obradovich cracked a ninth-inning single to score Julio Gonzalez with the run that carried the Astros past the Twins.

Davey Lopes had a double and two singles as the Dodgers collected 18 hits off the Orioles and cruised to victory. Baltimore's Jim Palmer gave up 13 hits and all eight Los Angeles runs, six of them earned.

Champ Summers homered with two out in the top of the 13th inning to carry Cincinnati past Philadelphia. The Phillies' Jim Kaat pitched six shutout innings, allowing four hits.

Rick Bosetti's three-run ninth-inning homer carried Toronto past Boston. That was the bad news. The good news for Red Sox manager Don Zimmer was that pitcher Bill Campbell had tossed batting practice for the first time in three weeks and reported no ill effects.

Campbell, the 1977 Fireman of the Year, pitched just 50 innings last season. Monday he pitched to Carlton Fisk and Butch Hobson, who said Campbell "threw better than at any time last year."

Zimmer rejoiced. "I love it! I just love it," he said.
John Ellis drove in three runs as the Rangers took advantage of seven Kansas City errors for their victory over the Royals.

Wayne Gross hit a two-run triple and Joe Wallis added a two-run single as Oakland beat Cleveland before the rains came.

Ruppert Jones drove in three runs, two of them with a first-inning homer, to power Seattle past Milwaukee.

The Cardinals parlayed six walks and three Chicago wild pitches into their victory over the White Sox.
San Diego's Eric Rasmussen pitched six solid innings and doubled home a run as the Padres beat San Francisco.

A two-run pinch homer by Joel Youngblood carried the Mets past the Pirates at San Juan, Puerto Rico. The game was part of a benefit series, the revenues of which are donated to construction of the Roberto Clemente Sports City.

Herzog misses umpires

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Whitey Herzog, manager of the Kansas City Royals, hopes baseball settles its current squabble with the umpires in a hurry because he misses his friends in blue.
Really?
"Sure I miss 'em," Herzog said. "The guys who are filling in are trying hard, but they're just not very good. We had a home plate umpire the other day who must have missed 50 pitches. Most of them were ours because we lost the game 14-0."
Herzog, never shy when it comes to dealing with the ump's, says a manager must know when and how to argue with them. "Last year, George Bamberger led the league in getting bounced," the Royals' manager said of his counterpart with the Milwaukee Brewers. "You know why? He didn't know how to do it. He never managed before. He never was on the coaching lines before. He didn't know how to go about it."
In 1973, when Herzog was fired in September as rookie manager of the Texas Rangers, he left as the league leader in ejections with seven for the season. "At the winter meetings, Earl Weaver (Baltimore's manager) came up yelling in that high-pitched voice of his, 'I tied ya. I tied ya.' He got his seventh thumb in that last month."

Herzog learned about umpire-baiting techniques in that first year as a manager. "You can't yell on every play and every pitch," he said. "And sometimes you holler when you know you won't win because it might give you the edge on the next close call."
Herzog said the strangest argument with an umpire came last season with Ken Kaiser, a former professional wrestler who joined the American League staff in 1977.
"He had been with us in spring training and worked about 10 games," Herzog said. "Now the season starts and he blows a call at first base. I come out and before I can open my mouth, he's all over me, telling me how hard he worked in our spring games and how I had some nerve arguing. I hadn't said a word and he's telling me off."

"What did Herzog do?"
"I turned around and went back to the dugout," he said.
Managers are prohibited from arguing ball-strike calls with umpires but there's nothing that says they can't discuss those calls with their catchers. On one apparent foul tip which was called a ball, Herzog paid a visit to Royals' receiver Darrell Porter.
"I came out and said, 'Darrell, I thought that was a foul tip.' He said, 'It was.' Then I said, 'remember, I'm still talking to my catcher...' I knew his eyes were bad, but I didn't know he couldn't hear either."
The result?
"I was gone."

Coach gets attention

CHICAGO (AP) — In his 37th year as a college coach, Ray Meyer finally has the nation's media hovering at his doorstep — and in his office and his home — but he's anxious to get back to basketball.
"From 7:30 this morning until 5:30 tonight I was being interviewed by either a newspaper or radio or TV station from Boston to California," DePaul's affable coach said Monday night.
He expected more of the same this morning. A local television station planned to spend the day with him and he was to appear on a network show. Even his wife was going to be interviewed.
All because his Blue Demons, unranked almost all season, surprised the nation by making it to the Final Four of the NCAA tournament and a date Saturday with top-ranked and undefeated Indiana State.
But, starting at noon today, Meyer was to declare a moratorium on interviews until practice was over.
He needs time to figure out how to hold All-American Larry Bird to his usual outstanding game and still beat the Sycamores.
