Funerals begin today

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Families of 44 tornado victims spent a somber Good Friday preparing for 17 funerals in the midst of massive cleanup operations.

But the killer storm that splintered more than 7,800 dwellings, leaving Red Cross estimates of 8,600 families homeless, continued to disrupt the last-minute funeral proceedings.

"We have one service today at Rosemont Cemetery, right where the tornado hit," said Delbert Gandy of Hampton-Vaughan funeral home. "I just hope we can get it Tombstones are thrown everywhere and all our tents are at the command post."

Disaster relief teams from all over the country continued to pour into the area as the net of security around the stricken site was pulled tighter. Officials prohibited entrance to the area without special passes issued to several hundred residents this morning.

Pampans can help tornado victims

The "Gray County" Chapter of the American Red Cross has launched an emergency appeal for relief funds for the disaster victims of the devastating tornadoes in Wichita Falls, Vernon, Lawton and other damaged communities. Donations will be taken at Citizens Bank by Bill Kindle, at the First National Bank by Glenda Anderson and at the Red Cross office in the basement of City Hall. The funds will be channeled into the affected areas through the Red Cross to meet the immediate needs of families. Usable clothing and household items, as well as commercial canned goods, can be taken to the National Guard Armory on Highway 60. A directive from Gov. Bill Clements earlier today assigned National Guard armories throughout the state as distribution centers for emergency supplies.

Wilkerson bids farewell

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff
AMARILLO — R.D. "Jimmy" Wilkerson, bidding farewell to his former colleagues in Texas Municipal League (TML) Region II, stepped down as their president Thursday night at the quarterly Region II meeting in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Wilkerson, mayor of Pampa for the last four years, automatically resigned as president when he chose not to run again in Saturday's city election. He was elected to head Region II, which consists of the 26 Panhandle counties, in January. Amarillo Mayor Jerry Hodge replaces Wilkerson as president.

In his last address to the mayors, city managers and city commissioners attending Thursday's meeting, Wilkerson advised them on "the importance of elected officials participating in politics at the state level. I'm talking about lobbying."

The former mayor had become something of an expert on the subject during his last few months in office, when he repeatedly traveled to Austin to fight against legislation that would remove local jurisdiction over utility rate cases.

Nuclear officials confused

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear technicians and officials groped through the crisis at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island atomic powerplant "in the blind" for days, uncertain exactly what was wrong or what to do about it, transcripts of their meetings reveal.

The transcripts of tape-recorded meetings, filling more than 700 pages, were made public Thursday. Two full days after the accident began March 28, Nuclear Regulatory Commission Chairman Joseph M. Hendrie complained, "I don't have the impression that they have a good grip on it. We are operating totally in the blind."

Then, referring to requests from Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh for advice about the possibility of a mass evacuation, Hendrie went on: "His information is ambiguous. Mine is nonexistent, and — I don't know — it's like a couple of blind men staggering around, making decisions."

The five-member NRC met with staff members daily to follow developments in the Three Mile Island incident, which they have called the most serious accident in the history of commercial nuclear powerplants in this country.

The transcripts reveal no major information which was not quickly reported to the public at the time, but they convey vividly the worry and frustration of the officials as they tried to make sense out of fragments of information about a kind of accident they had never imagined.

In a meeting March 31, Roger J. Mattson, NRC director of systems safety, told the commissioners bluntly: "No plant has ever been in this condition, no plant has ever been tested in this condition, no plant has ever been analyzed in this condition in the history of this program."

Mattson was one of at least three staff members who, on March 30, were urging a precautionary evacuation of the area downwind from Three Mile Island, some 10 miles south of Harrisburg, Pa.

But the commission did not recommend it, partly because the wind was shifting erratically and nobody could be sure which way "downwind" would be when people moved out.

By March 31 Mattson had gained more confidence that the reactor could be controlled, and he changed his mind about evacuation.

The transcripts show that NRC officials also complained that plant operators and the plant builders, Babcock and Wilcox, were slow to recognize how seriously their reactor was damaged and to relay important information to the NRC.

Mattson said on March 30 the reactor core was severely damaged and might even have suffered some fuel melting. But the NRC had trouble convincing Babcock and Wilcox representatives of that severity until some 40 hours after the accident, he said.

Heat sensors in the reactor showed high readings that hinted at core damage, he said, but the sensors were suspected of being wrong.

Mattson said an apparent hydrogen explosion in the reactor building about ten hours after the accident began March 28 was not reported to the NRC until March 30.

Smith elected board president

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

Alfred Smith was unanimously elected president of the Pampa Independent School Board as officers were chosen for a new term at Thursday's meeting.

The board unanimously approved Darville Orr and Buddy Epperson for the positions of vice president and secretary, respectively.

The work of the Long Range

Committee will continue for two months — or however long it is needed with the services of Darville Orr and Paul Simmons, said Smith, who had been a member.

Judge Carl Kennedy swore in the re-elected board members. Curt Beck and Smith. A canvass of the elections showed 652 votes were cast, and Beck received 558 in an uncontested race for Place 5.

Smith won the race for Place 4 with 461 votes against Carolyn Wingham, who had 185 to lose a second consecutive race for a trustee position.

Before swearing in the members, Kennedy submitted two observations of students who appear in court.

Students do not understand the seriousness of the Driving While Intoxicated (DWI) offense, Kennedy said, although they are embarrassed and humiliated at their court appearances.

"The State takes a dim view," he said in reference to the DWI offense, which carries a jail term of three days to six months and a fine of $50 to $500.

He suggested a preview of the law system for younger students to possibly abort future offenses of any kind.

A disrespect for adults, individuals in the law system and personal property were evident, said Kennedy.

Students must be disciplined to respect their surroundings if they receive none at home, said Kennedy, who said he believes discipline should begin at home.

Before closing the meeting to the public for executive session, the board unanimously approved to continue meeting on the first and third Monday of the month.

Smith announced the next meeting on April 26 will be an exception to the regular sessions. The board will then discuss renovation business.

Principal Allen Jenkins said, the policy would cause no drastic changes, but would initiate some updating.

The renewed contract with Thomas Y. Pickens & Co., Inc., will add itemized charges to a base price for computer tax roll, said principal Allen Jenkins.

Superintendent Gerrel Julian swore in newly elected trustees James Ray and Earl Tarbet, who will serve three - year terms, and Neal Cates, who will complete the last two years of resigned member Garrell Roberson's term.

When the whip comes down

Remember the opposition's hysteria during the Proposition 13 campaign? Sure you do. It was outrageous, foolhardy. And the most ill-considered tactics were conducted by those on the taxrolls.

Everywhere government employees used — nay, misused — their positions to raise the level of alarmism once they faced the prospect of Californians enjoying control of their own pocketbooks. Teachers used the classroom to propagandize to youngsters — who would, they hoped, speed home with dire tales about how the tax limitation initiative would "spoil education."

If this kind of blatantly political behavior violated the rules for public personnel, it was simply too widespread to be prosecuted. Which is not to say justice did not have its day. On June 2 the people who turned Prop. 13 into a resounding victory were animated as much by their fury at these improprieties, probably, as by their appetite for tax-slashing.

The politicians may never learn how to staunch such a backlash. Prop. 13 is now a nationwide crusade, its latest manifestation the plan to balance the federal budget by constitutional amendment. And Congress is showing all the symptoms that first fatally gripped California's bureaucrats.

Take Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn. As chairman of the House Budget Committee, Rep. Giaimo sent out a four-page, 8 1/2 x 14 press release reporting a survey of professional economists conducted by former presidential economics adviser Gardner Ackley seeking professional opinions on the balanced budget.

Ackley found that more than 400 economists, including some Nobel Prize winners, opposed the balanced budget amendment idea. So Congressman Giaimo, quick as a bunny, sent out a press release, naming prominent economists who showed thumbs down on the amendment and listed universities with which they are associated.

The congressman wrote: "Everyone is for a balanced budget when economic conditions warrant. The Congress is moving emphatically toward a balanced budget. But to mandate a balanced budget under virtually all circumstances is a simplistic approach that would put policy makers in a straitjacket and could cause serious economic harm to the nation."

Uh huh. The Congress, the congressman's solemn words should be translated to read, is doing everything but moving emphatically toward a balanced budget. And one of the best evidences of its insincerity is the willingness some of its members have of using taxpayers' money to send out frivolous and disingenuous press releases.

Not only is the Giaimo press release a prize example of the kinds of expenses congressmen frivolously undertake, it also raises the question of fairness. Rep. Giaimo is enlisting our tax dollars to make partisan points with the national media.

We find it encouraging. It's a pretty strong indication that on Capitol Hill they haven't learned the lessons from California's public employees — who were the pioneers in arranging a public lashing of their own backs.

High speed spendthrifts

If any private business sought and obtained investors' money for a scheme even close to the misuse of taxpayers' money spent for a railway, the government would come down on the perpetrators with all the fury at its command. The magazine U.S. News and World Report said of an Amtrak project, "Congress wanted to turn the Boston-Washington line into the best railway 1.75 billions dollars could buy. But results are far short of dreams."

The article said that on May 1, 1977, Transportation Secretary Brock Adams turned the first symbolic spadeful of dirt to mark the official start of the most ambitious project for high-speed passenger trains this country has ever seen.

Depending on how "ambitious" is defined, it may have been the "most ambitious" but in the past we have had many passenger services which deserved the term "high-speed" and brought excellent service to customers without being operated by a government agency. Many factors entered into the demise of these trains, but it was not any lack of comfortable high-speed service.

Greater use of airlines coupled with governmental restrictive devices and increased costs brought about by union activities, spelled doom for the private carriers. Featherbedding just about reached its apex in the operation of those high-speed trains.

Now this government plan for a Northeast corridor fast-rail service is two to three years off target and is costing hundreds of millions of dollars more than expected.

According to USNWR, when Congress got around to authorizing the work in 1976, President Ford threatened to veto even a much less expensive project. A last minute compromise put the cost at $1.75 billion and trimmed the trip-time goals to reflect the smaller price tag. The Department of Transportation "came up with a new estimate very hastily to justify that figure. Faced with a veto, the thought was expressed, 'We better agree on the $1.75 billion, and take another look later.'"

Here is a prime example of how our "public servants" can lay fast and loose with our tax money. The only difference we can see in this and the antics of a carnival con artist is the tremendous amount of money involved when government stoops to such practice.

How anyone in the administration or the Congress could believe that such a project could succeed is beyond our ken. From the start, top-heavy administrative structure (always to be expected in any government project), inexperienced designers, untrained workers, inept supervision and unrealistic production schedules were in evidence.

In short, the magazine states, the federal government's Northeast Corridor Project "has turned into a textbook example of how not to build a railroad." Now Secretary Adams is asking Congress to extend the official completion time of the project from 1981 to 1984 and to increase funding to $2.5 billion.

We suggest that by 1984 another article will be written which will make present revelations of mismanagement and waste pale into insignificance. Before the project is ever completed we feel certain that the political promulgators will be back to Congress for more funding again and again.

After completion, operation of this federal monstrosity will continue to put a drain on all citizens and only a relative few will benefit even if the trains ever provide the service promised.

Like a victim of the con artist, it would be far better for us to stop the game, take a loss and chalk it up to experience. Stopping the game will take some doing, for when government decides to try its hand at preempting the private sector, it goes ahead in spite of all evidence of inevitable failure which history provides.

All government risks, in business ventures, is taxpayers' pockets. Since Washington has not yet found the bottom to those pockets, it appears to think there is none.

Does modern capitalism have a future

First of 2 parts
By PAUL JOHNSON

Let me begin by defining my terms. By "capitalism" I mean large-scale industrial capitalism, in which privately financed, publicly quoted corporations, operating in a free market environment, and with the backup of the private enterprise money market, constitute the core of national economies. This is a pretty broad definition, but I think it will do.

Now the first thing to be noted is that this phenomenon is pretty recent. I would date it, in its earliest phase in England, only from the 1780s. It is thus less than 200 years old anywhere. As a widely spread phenomenon, it is barely 100 years old. Seen against the grand perspective of history, capitalism is a newcomer. We now possess some knowledge of economic systems going back to the early centuries of the third millennium B.C. I could give you, for instance, an outline account of the economic structure of Egypt under the Old Kingdom, about 2700 B.C. Our knowledge of how civilized societies have organized their economic activities thus covers a stretch of more than 4,600 years.

And in only about 200 of those years has industrial capitalism existed. Now the next point to note is the remarkable correlation between the emergence of industrial capitalism and the beginnings of really rapid economic growth.

Throughout most of history, growth rates, when we have the statistical evidence to measure them, have been low, nil or minus. A century of slow growth might be followed by a century of decline. Societies tended to get caught in the Malthusian Trap: That is, a period of slow growth led to an increase in population, the stripping of food supplies, followed by a demographic catastrophe, and the beginning of a new cycle.

There were at least three economic "Dark Ages" in history, in which a sudden collapse of the wealth-making process led to the extinction, or virtual extinction, of civilized living, and the process of recovery was very slow and painful.

The last of these three Dark Ages extinguished Roman civilization in Western Europe, in the 5th century A.D. It was not until the 13th century that equivalent living standards were again achieved — the recovery thus took 800 years. Society again fell into a Malthusian trap in the 14th century and again recovery was slow, though more sure this time, as intermediate technology spread more widely, and the methods of handling and employing money became more sophisticated. Even by the first half of the 18th century, however, it was rare even for the most advanced economies, those of England and Holland, to achieve one percent growth in any year. And there is a possibility (I myself would put it higher) that mankind would again have fallen into a Malthusian trap towards the end of the 18th century if industrial capitalism had not made its dramatic appearance.

And it was dramatic. By the beginning of the 1780s, in England, an unprecedented annual growth rate of 2 percent had been achieved. During that decade, the 2 percent was raised to 4 percent. This was the great historic "liftoff," and a 4 percent annual compound growth rate was sustained for the next 50 years, on average. Since this English, and also Scottish, performance was accompanied by the export of capital, patents, machine tools and skilled manpower to several other advanced nations, the phenomenon soon became international.

Phenomenal Growth

I don't want to overburden you with figures, but some are necessary to indicate the magnitude of the change that industrial capitalism brought to human society. In Britain, for instance, in the 19th century, the size of the working population multiplied fourfold. Real wages doubled in the half-century 1800-1850, and doubled again, 1850-1900. This meant there was a 1,600 percent increase in the production and consumption of wage-goods during the century. Nothing like this had happened anywhere before, in the whole of history. From the 1850s onward, in Belgium, France, Austria-Hungary, above all in Germany and the United States, even higher growth rates were obtained; and feudal empires like Japan and Russia were able to telescope a development process which in Britain had stretched over centuries into a mere generation or two.

The growth rates of 12 leading countries averaged 2.7 percent a year over the whole 50-year period up to World War I. There was, it is true, a much more mixed performance between the wars. The United States, for instance, which in the 44 years up to 1914 had averaged a phenomenal 4.3 percent growth rate, and which in the seven years up to 1929 had increased its national income by a staggering 40 percent, then saw its national income fall 38 percent in the mere four years 1929-32.

Sad state of metric program

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Like so many endeavors of the federal government, the Metric Education Program presents the facade of a sensible and reasonable undertaking, designed to advance the common good at a relatively reasonable cost.

But the program typifies virtually everything that's wrong with government - including spineless decision-making by Congress, mindless administration by bureaucrats and shameless hustling for federal money by the nation's citizens.

Metric education merits a close examination not because it's especially scandalous but because it unfortunately represents the failings of thousands of other programs operated by the 2.4 million civilian employees of the government at a current annual cost to the taxpayers of $493.4 billion.

Since Colonial times, this country has relied upon the "English customary" system - derived from ancient Babylonian, Egyptian, Roman and Anglo-Saxon civilizations - of measuring in inches and feet, ounces and pounds, pints and quarts.

In 1875, the United States became signatory to the Metric Convention, a treaty endorsing the voluntary use of meters, liters and grams as standards of measurement.

Among the powers of Congress specifically enumerated in the Constitution is the authority to "fix the standard of weights and measures." But because a mandatory shift to the metric system would be controversial, Congress repeatedly has avoided resolution of the issue.

As a result, the United States today is the only major industrialized nation on the face of the globe still relying upon the antiquated "English customary" system. The world's only other non-metric countries are Brunei, Burma, Liberia and Yemen.

The indecisive Congress did, however, pass a 1974 law authorizing the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to make annual grants "to encourage education agencies and institutions to prepare students to use the metric system."

Slightly more than $2 million has been distributed by HEW this year to 66 organizations, most of them either public school systems or universities using the money to train teachers in metric instruction.

But when HEW announced the grants, top billing went to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, which will use almost $66,000 to convert to the metric system in the "Special Olympics" it sponsors each year for handicapped youngsters.

The Kennedy Foundation hardly needs the money, however. It's a well-endowed philanthropic institution with assets of more than $22 million, and its principal business is distributing $2 million annually in charitable gifts.

Dr. Floyd A. Davis, director of HEW's Metric Education Program, defends that expenditure of public funds on the grounds that federal regulations do not allow wealth to be considered when evaluating applications for grants.

Yet Davis allowed school districts in California and Arkansas to evade the firm ceiling, contained in the same regulations, on the percentage of the federal grant that can be used to purchase equipment. His explanation: "What the heck."

In another case, Davis noted that the budget for teaching personnel proposed by a California school district "would mean that the project aides would be receiving a salary of $114.28 per hour." He caustically noted "this is terrific."

The federal grant was approved, with the personnel budget only slightly reduced, after the applicant blamed the inflated salaries on a confusing request for funds.

Finally, there's the serious question of whether the federal government has any business being involved in metric training, because education - metric or otherwise - traditionally has been a function of state and local government.

Governors, legislators, education commissioners and state boards have committed virtually every state in the union to metric education. Yet hundreds of local school boards annually seek federal assistance rather than accept the responsibility of financing their own programs.

Town braces for violence

Onion strikers divided

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
RAYMONDVILLE, Texas (AP) — Officials in this South Texas town braced today for possible violence as some onion field workers who walked off the job last week decided they wanted to go back to work.

"We need to work, that's all," said Juan Guerrero, who said he fears for his safety.

Texas farm workers union members walked off the onion fields last week in a strike aimed at higher wages and collective bargaining rights.

"Yes, I anticipate trouble," Willacy County Sheriff Oscar Correa said.

"A whole bunch of it, but I don't know when."

Tempers fueled by a hot afternoon sun almost spilled over into violence later in the day Thursday. Strikers, upset when a grower replaced them with workers who said they were from Mexico, tried to convince the strike breakers to leave a western Willacy County field.

"We thought everything had stopped here," said strike leader Jesus Moya.

A busload of Texas Farm Workers Union members headed for the field after hearing reports that workers were back at work. By the time the bus arrived, the strikers found that about 1,500 sacks of onions had been clipped and sacked.

The workers said they were getting paid 25 cents per bag and had been bused in from Reynosa, Mexico.

The Texas Farm Workers Union is asking for a dollar per bag.

The strikers swarmed the field and asked the workers to join the strike. A man identifying himself as a field hand for Griffin and Brand Produce of McAllen told the strikers they were trespassing.

The man left, and sheriff's deputies and other law enforcement officials arrived within 30 minutes.

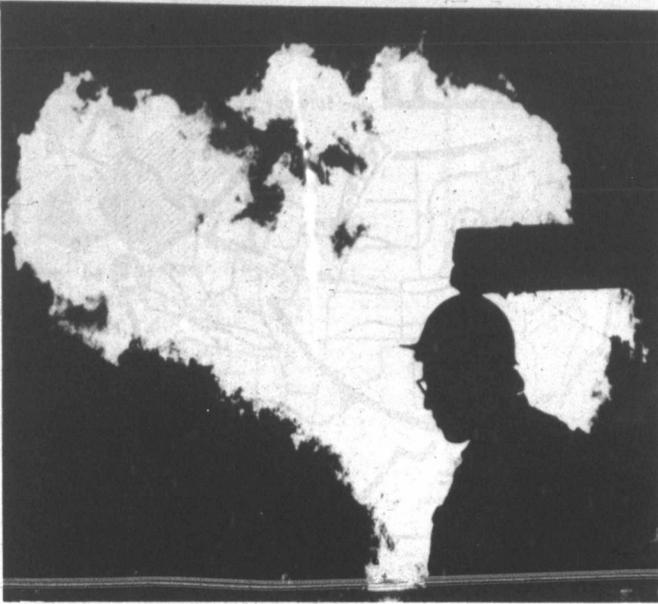

The union members retreated to a nearby public road when the officers lined the field. However, when the workers went back to work the TFWU members again headed into the fields.

"We're going to try everything not to arrest them," Correa said as the strikers again tried to talk the workers out of the field.

Marciel Silva of San Juan, a strike leader, said the TFWU members were willing to be arrested. However, the deputies made no arrests at the scene and the strikers left the field when the workers boarded the bus and left.

Moya said the field was owned by Charles Wetegrove of Raymondville, the target of the strike, when the workers walked off last week. But Correa said the field is now owned by Griffin and Brand. A camera crew from the company took videotape accounts of the incident.

Adair crew in Sarita

SARITA, Texas (AP) — A crew from Red Adair's well firefighters battled a fiery gas well in this tiny South Texas coastal town today.

Heat from the blaze was so intense it blistered the paint on several small frame houses 100 yards away. About 150 residents in the area left their homes and sought shelter in nearby motels, according to Kenedy County Deputy Sheriff Clark Slater.

No one has been reported hurt since the well blew out before dawn Thursday.

An Exxon official at the site, who asked not to be identified, called the fire a "premature blowout." He said firefighters were trying to dig a diagonal hole that will enable them to flood the fire. The tedious operation could last four to five days, he said.

However, Slater said he was told it could take up to 12 days.

Firemen from surrounding communities helped in showering the nearby frame homes with water to keep them cool, but despite the curtain of water, the heat damaged the paint on the homes.

Authorities said about 20 homes in the danger area were evacuated.

The digging crew had drilled to about 2,200 feet when the well, located on the northeastern edge of town, blew out and caught on fire.

Runaway hotline numbers available

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

Immediate advice or a sympathetic ear for runaway children is as near as the closest telephone, thanks to a nationwide toll free number which has been in operation since September 1973.

"Operation Peace of Mind", with switchboard headquarters in Houston, serves as a thread of communication between parents and runaway children and as a referral center. The center, which answers calls from anywhere in the United States, is on standby 24 hours a day.

The toll number (1-800-392-3352) will be a familiar bit of "official graffiti" in Pampa Monday when members of the Pampa Board of Realtors begin placing "Operation Peace of Mind" stickers on public phones in the city as well as in such spots as public restrooms and the Pampa Youth Center.

The effort is part of week long series of events and community service projects sponsored by the Pampa Board of Realtors in commemoration of Private Property Week.

"The problem of runaway children is so much in the news these days," said Irvine Mitchell, chairperson for the Private Property Week. "We thought it would be a good community service project. Even if the numbers aren't used immediately it might make kids aware that there is help available."

About 300 cities have been chosen for the numbers. Mrs. Mitchell said the board members hope to cover at least half of them on Monday.

The service is funded by the state but phones are monitored largely by volunteers.

"Operation Peace of Mind" spokespersons reported receiving about 5,000 calls in March alone. The service took over 80,000 calls from runaways and over 40,000 calls from parents in 1978.

"We operate on strict confidentiality," one volunteer worker said. "We function as a medium between parents and children. The important thing is that the parents know the children are alright and that the children know the parents know."

While one volunteer described a child's decision to return home as "the most wonderful thing that could happen, this is our hope," she said "We don't preach to them. We don't urge them to go home. A lot of children leave home because their parents don't want them."

Another worker said, "We try to stay neutral. For some it's almost better that they have gone. We're not set up for counselling. But if they don't want to go home and have no place to stay and no money, we try to refer them to someplace that can help them locally and try to get them to call their parents collect."

The worker said that the Operation will call one message to parents of runaway children but will not call the home without the child's consent.

"Operation Peace of Mind" now refers any callers from the Pampa area to either the crisis unit of the Regional Mental Health and Retardation office in Amarillo or the Genesis House in Pampa. But the two places report few calls so far through the program.

Mrs. Lois Still of Genesis House, which serves as a half way home for children, most of whom have been runaways, said she cannot accept children for lodging unless custody has been granted through the courts.

"But I would talk with them, and try to counsel them," she said. "I would hope that they would call."

A staff worker for crises intervention at the Amarillo Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation office said workers could provide counseling over the phone. The office also offers referrals to such RMH&MR programs as Operation Drug Alert, Suicide Prevention Center, and Crisis Intervention.

The workers are staffed both with volunteers and staff members which are trained psychologists. And the service is monitored by a PhD psychologist and a resident psychiatrist.

The worker said that counseling by phone "has its advantages and disadvantages."

"People are often more willing to be real if you don't know who they are," he said. "It gives them a certain control, they don't feel threatened, because they can always hang up."

North Texas fundraising probed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A few hours after resigning as president of North Texas State University, C.C. "Jitter" Nolen appeared Thursday before a House committee investigating alleged mishandling of funds at the Denton campus.

The House General Investigating Committee heard testimony in closed session on the school's relationship to the NTSU Education Foundation, Inc., a private fundraising organization.

Eggs and Issues breakfast April 20

State Sen. Bob Price and Rep. Foster Whaley will discuss key issues facing this session of the Texas Legislature at an "Eggs and Issues" breakfast April 20 at the Pampa Country Club. The public is invited.

Price is vice chairman of the Texas Senate Subcommittee on Water, and serves on the Economic Development, Human Resources and Natural Resources Committees of the Senate. Whaley is a member of both the Agriculture and Livestock Committee and the Government Organization Committee of the House of Representatives.

Cost of the breakfast will be $4.25 per person. Those attending will have a chance to ask questions of Price and Whaley. The buffet line will open at 6:45 a.m.

Persons wishing to attend the breakfast, which is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Legislative Affairs Committee, should make reservations by calling the chamber office at 669-3241 before 5 p.m. April 19.

Subpoenaed with Nolen were James A. Reid, foundation executive director; Jane G. Smith, university vice president for student affairs; and university regent E.E. Stuessy of Austin.

Earlier in the day, the regents accepted Nolen's resignation in an emergency meeting here. John L. Carter, vice president for fiscal affairs, was named acting president.

Nolen became NTSU president in 1971 and promised to increase private contributions to the fourth-largest state-supported university. The foundation was chartered in 1972 and contributions have risen from about $85,000 that year to $700,000 in 1978.

"My intention always has been to serve the university to the best of my ability and with the best interest of the university in mind," Nolen said after resigning. "It is unfortunate when innocent individuals are involved needlessly when their only desire is to serve the university."

Carter has said that checks originally made out to the university have been altered to make them payable to the foundation. Reid says the donors agreed to the change, but Carter disputes that.

Rep. Richard Slack, chairman of the investigating committee, did not say when it would issue a report on the North Texas State situation.

Slack, D-Pecos, said the committee has been studying the situation for two weeks with information coming from several sources. Rep. Frank Gaston, R-Dallas, started an independent probe and has cooperated with the committee. Slack added.

Speaker Bill Clayton said he did not know if other witnesses would be subpoenaed.

Clayton earlier admonished the five committee members about the seriousness of the investigation.

Schoolgirl killed

DALLAS (AP) — A 16-year-old high school sophomore died Thursday in Dallas when the school bus on which she was riding brushed against a utility pole while she had her head out the window.

Officials said Debra Lynn

Tramel suffered a broken neck and died instantly.

The bus driver said a car was parked directly in front of him, and he had to steer sharply to the left to pull out around it.

Electric rates bill sidetracked

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A parliamentary ruling by Speaker Bill Clayton sidetracked a House bill Thursday that would strip city councils of their authority to set electric rates.

Electric utility companies sought passage of the bill because it would enable them to present rate increase requests directly to the Texas Public Utility Commission.

City officials opposed the measure.

In recent years, city councils have tended to reject rate increases. Electric companies have appealed to the commission, but their old rates remained in effect while they awaited a decision.

Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, raised a point of order that the House State Affairs Committee had violated House rules by rewriting the bill to make it reach far beyond the original intent.

Clayton upheld the point of order, sending the bill back to the House Calendars Committee.

Davis trial heads home

HOUSTON (AP) — The murder-for-hire trial of Cullen Davis is headed back to Fort Worth, the place of his birth, sent there by a frustrated state district judge in Houston tired of hassling with it.

Despite prosecution objections, District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore returned the case Thursday to the Tarrant County presiding judge, who will have the jurisdiction to try it or move it somewhere else.

Moore had tried to grant the defense request to move the case out of Harris County due to the large amount of publicity received by the first three-month trial, which ended in January with the jury deadlocked at 8-4 for conviction.

Davis was being tried for hiring someone to kill the judge presiding over his divorce trial.

But judges in Austin and El Paso wouldn't take it, citing time and space restrictions. District Judge George Hamilton in Corpus Christi agreed to preside in the case, but attorneys for both sides ruled it out.

"That judicial district has had three cases of notoriety moved there in recent months, and we felt that adding this one would overload the system," said Jack Strickland, assistant district attorney in Tarrant County.

Strickland wanted Moore to hold Davis' retrial in Harris County.

During a hearing before Moore Thursday, he introduced as evidence the county's voter list of almost 1 million people, saying the court should be able to find at least 12 unbiased jurors among them to hear the case.

To buttress his argument, Strickland called as a witness Tom Moran of the Houston Chronicle, a reporter who covered the trial.

So says defense attorney

TDC knew about Cuevas escape try

HOUSTON (AP) — The defense attorney for Ignacio Cuevas says Texas Department of Corrections officials knew in advance of a 1974 prison escape attempt in which two inmates and two hostages were killed.

Attorney Will Gray Thursday introduced a copy of a letter dated March 28, 1974 from the U.S. Department of Justice Drug Enforcement Administration regional office in Dallas to TDC Director Jim Estelle.

The letter said information had been received from four extremely reliable informants that the escape attempt would be made at the Huntsville prison in the near future.

Inmates Fred Gomez Carrasco, Rudolpho Dominguez and two hostages died Aug. 3, 1974 when they tried to break out of the prison library using the hostages as shields.

Cuevas survived the escape attempt and was convicted of causing the death of hostage Julia Standley but a state Court of Appeals ordered a new trial, saying the trial judge failed to disqualify a juror.

The Rev. Joseph O'Brien, one of the hostages, testified he had been made aware of the letter and its contents when he talked to the prison official in charge of such records.

O'Brien, shot during the escape attempt, was asked about statements made by two previous witnesses who quoted the chaplain as saying Cuevas shot him.

The chaplain said he remembers making the statement, but added that he was seriously wounded at the time and in a state of shock, and actually he does not know who shot him.

TDC official Bobby Maggard testified he took possession of the hand guns of the three convicts and their ammunition.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm divorced and miserable. Even though I was the one who asked for the divorce, it was a terrible mistake.

I know there must be thousands of divorced people (men as well as women) who would give anything to get back with No. 1 but they don't know how to go about it.

Abby, will you please ask readers who were divorced, regretted it and got back with No. 1 again to write and tell you how they accomplished it?

I'll do anything!

SORRY IN ST. JO, MO.

DEAR SORRY: All right. Readers? And please let me know how it was the second time around with No. 1.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old daughter has graduated from high school and has steady employment, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home (free), but she doesn't care what anybody thinks about her actions.

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. to 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boyfriend's apartment to watch TV for an evening she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girlfriends. Of course she is trying to assert her independence, but we think she's overdoing it. Please give us bewildered parents some guidelines.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out exactly how "independent" she is. Advise her that when she is able to support herself entirely—and that means pay for her room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist, and insurance—then she may live where she chooses, and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been making an issue out of our 3-year-old grandson's choice of toys. He enjoys playing with his sister's dolls and his mother's shoes.

My husband says this is an indication that the boy has homosexual tendencies.

Could my husband's suspicions about his grandson be a reflection of his OWN repressed homosexual desires? I wonder because he seems to hate women—particularly me. He attacks sex as though it were a contest. When it's over, he is surly and mean. No love, no tenderness or closeness. I submit but I don't enjoy it.

I am not worried about my grandson, but I am worried about my husband.

Am I justified?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Only a trained psychotherapist would be able to determine whether your husband is projecting his own "homosexual tendencies" to his grandson.

His attitude about women and lovemaking is no more conclusive proof of homosexual tendencies than your grandson's choice of toys.

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to have your Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers, Duodenal, Stomach. I have been plagued with a duodenal ulcer for years. I also have colitis and diverticulosis. One seems to work against the other. If I eat non-acid forming foods, it bothers the colon and the food that soothes the colon forms more acid.

I'm also under a great deal of stress. I have a 93-year-old mother who requires so much care and this causes a great deal of frustration. I have had X rays just recently and they show no further complications. I tried Tagamet and it helped greatly for a time but the relief seemed to wear off. I don't smoke and I don't use alcohol or drink coffee. Thank you for any advice you might have.

DEAR READER — As you requested I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-5. You've already put the finger on your basic problem—the stress associated with your life. It seems to be chronic stress and frustration that's more important in forming ulcers than some sudden acute stress which is of shorter duration.

At one time men were far more prone to have ulcers than women, possibly because many of them were in work situations which resulted in long term frustration with no good solution in sight. This is discussed in The Health Letter I'm sending you. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Interestingly enough, ulcers are disappearing. We don't see as many of them as we did and no one knows why. Perhaps many people in our society are not under the same degree of stress that they have been in the past. Who knows.

The one thing you might do to help your colon while still eating in a way that will soothe your ulcer is to use an inert bulk expander. One of these is Metamucil. The inert substance swells and traps water providing moisture and improving function of your colon. This substance will not disturb your ulcer.

Some people do very well by using bran which behaves much in the same way but if it does appear to bother your ulcer, you might be well off to use one of the inert bulk expanders.

Most of the methods used to treat ulcers are of limited value if you're subjected to long term chronic stress and frustration. The ideal approach is to try to eliminate that problem and sometimes that's not easy.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — We all know what unsightly stains both tea and coffee can leave on plastic cups. Such stains will wipe away like magic with a soft cloth that has a little clear liquid bleach on it. — P.M.

DEAR POLLY — Recently one of the readers asked how to remove black marks from her dinnerware. I had a similar problem with my beautiful pottery and wrote to the manufacturer for help. I was told to use a rectangular plastic scouring pad with a paste made of scouring powder and water. This worked but since then I have discovered that a widely advertised new liquid scouring product works just as well and seems less likely to scratch the finish on my dinnerware. — RACHEL

Phone etiquette applies to home as well as office

By CAROL-FAYE ASHCRAFT
Alabama Journal

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The key to controlling a telephone conversation is to ask a question, according to one businesswoman who has learned telephone etiquette through experience.

Barbara Arnberg, owner of a Montgomery real-estate firm, says, "Telephoning is the life-line of our business."

But, she adds, "everyone is in the selling business. You are either selling or buying. If you don't use the telephone correctly, you are being offensive."

She says proper telephone techniques apply in the home as well as in the office.

Mrs. Arnberg, who counsels real-estate agents and is developing a telephone etiquette course for Toastmistress clubs, says the first thing to find out is who is calling and why.

Mrs. Arnberg says even children can master the technique of asking questions without giving away information. This protects the family, particularly when there is not a man at home, she says.

"Whoever is asking the question is in control of the conversation," she says. "Be sure that you are the questioner as much as the answerer."

She says safety demands that children and parents alike hedge on the telephone. For example, if a caller asks, "Is your mother at home?" a child may answer, "May I ask who is calling? I'll have my mother return the call in a few minutes."

"Answer the question with another question," Mrs. Arnberg advises.

She adds that another trick for staying in control of the conversation is to remain polite. "People react to you the way you react to them," she cautions.

If a caller asks, "Who is this?" respond with, "May I ask whom you are calling?" or "May I ask what number you were dialing?"

People who call a wrong number usually realize right away that they have made a mistake. "They're in a hurry, they're embarrassed," she says. And they tend to be abrupt. A person who dials a wrong number, however, is obligated to give information, too, she says.

Even people who call with a sales pitch can be handled nicely, Mrs. Arnberg says. If you can get a word in, let them know that you are not interested. A reply of "I know your time is valuable. I don't want to waste your valuable time," may cut them off.

Mrs. Arnberg says playing their game helps, too. "You can't imagine how quickly you can get rid of someone if you offer to sell them something."

She says she may throw a salesman off by asking him where he lives and if he is interested in buying a house.

If a caller is angry or you feel you have lost control of the conversation, Mrs. Arnberg advises that you fall back and return the call in a few minutes.

Another bridge is saying "thank you," she suggests. If you are at a loss for words or ideas, thank the person for answering a question.

She says the main things to remember when talking on the telephone, in general, are to lower your voice, slow down the conversation and have a mental picture of the person to whom you are talking. This helps to make a conversation personal, she says.

It all comes back to being courteous, according to Mrs. Arnberg. "You'd be surprised how well people respond to intelligent conversation," she comments.

A mother who smokes during pregnancy increases the risk of miscarriage, fetal distress, premature birth and low birthweight, according to the National Foundation-March of Dimes. Low birthweight is twice as common when a mother smokes during pregnancy as among non-smokers.

Mort knocks on Woody

Humorist Mort Sahl is no longer limiting his stalking to the political arena; now other comedians have become fair prey.

In a March Penthouse interview, Sahl tackles Woody Allen and Mel Brooks with the kind of zest he usually reserves for the Republican party.

"I think guys like Woody Allen and Mel Brooks are Xeroxes," he says, "and very pale ones, because you see, I think every idea has an audience. I further think that when you have an audience, you've got to say something to them. Something. I don't think they do that. "First of all Woody Allen is still locked into the '50s, mean, whining about not making out is really out of date. The loser syndrome of the Jewish guy who can't get the girl is very dated.

"Brooks also shows his age in his comedy. Mel still doing nonsensical syllables," scorns Mort.

The French Connection

The glamorous French cradlephone has been reborn in America, where it's known as Antique Gold. Its carved gold-colored figures and rich ivory trim make it the last word in period-style decor.

And, because it's genuine Bell, you know you're getting top quality. You never have to worry about repairs, either, because the Bell System retains ownership of your phone's working components and repairs them without additional charge anytime there's a problem.

Make your French Connection at your nearest PhoneCenter Store, where you can also choose from a variety of other colorful and attractive styles. Or call your local Southwestern Bell business office. Choose a phone that's genuinely you and genuine Bell.

The Antique Gold. $24 a month for five months or a one-time charge of $120. Prices do not include taxes or, if applicable, installation and recurring charges. If necessary, hearing aid adapters are available from your telephone company.

Earth slipping away

RANCHO PALOS VERDES, Calif. (AP) — The road along Portuguese Bend winds gently past wispy pepper trees and rambling ocean-view homes, its slightly cracked surface the only hint of a slow-motion disaster residents say is "tearing everybody up."

More than 30 fashionable homes in the Abalone Cove neighborhood on this affluent Los Angeles suburb are splitting and cracking inch by inch, victims of a creeping landslide that began last spring.

"When I noticed iraks in the ceiling last April, I thought I needed to paint again," said resident Jacqueline Moxley. Now, as the cracks slowly riddle her home from kitchen to back bedroom, Mrs. Moxley says "it just breaks your heart."

Shifting real estate is no stranger to Portuguese Bend. Some 150 homes not far from Abalone Cove were either destroyed or damaged between 1956 and 1958. But until last year, homes in the Cove section had remained untouched.

"It's amazing to watch," Mrs. Moxley said. "Monetarily and emotionally, it's tearing everybody up."

The once-choice homes are now impossible to sell at their pre-slide worth, and banks will not make loans to prospective buyers, according to residents.

"We're losing something we paid a lot of money for and worked for," said Maureen Griffin, a homeowner. "We're losing our biggest asset."

Melvyn Lewin said his $210,000 home is now "practically worthless." He said the four-to six-inch cracks in his floors "look like caverns" and open wider with each new rainfall.

Just next door, Lawrence Horan cut his slowly sliding garage away from his house to keep the rest of the building intact. But a few weeks ago the home began "pivoting around the fireplace," Horan said.

"I have a contractor coming out to cut another portion of my house off," he said. "The thing is moving very erratically."

Nearby, a two-acre palm-studded waterfront estate once used to film the comedy "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," has suffered cracking throughout the grounds.

The owner, Mrs. Betty Hardin, put it up for sale last year for $875,000. "It's still on the market and I can't sell it," she said.

While the slide has turned most homeowners against the caprice of nature, it also has pitted some residents against local government.

Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Moxley said the city and county should have warned residents about a slide possibility after a sewage pumping station nearby was damaged by ground movement three years ago.

"If only we had known, we could have done something about it before it got like this," Mrs. Moxley said. "It's a real stab in the back."

But Mayor Ken Dyda of Rancho Palos Verdes said the city "had no privileged knowledge" that the homeowners didn't have.

"It's just like earthquakes," he said. "When you live in California and you haven't had one in awhile, you tend to forget about them."

Lewin said the city has dragged its feet on a geologist's report that said the slide might be stopped by pumping out ground water from heavy rains. Geologists think the extra water caused the slide.

However, Dyda said the city has "done the only thing you can do." It proclaimed Abalone Cove a disaster area.

The county recently agreed with the city in confirming the disaster rating. If the state follows suit, low interest loans for repairing damage would be made available to homeowners.

But because Abalone Cove is a private area with private roads, funds for halting the slide will have to come from residents, Dyda said.

FOCUS

Trying Again

A funny thing happened the last time Victor Galindez and Mike Rossman were scheduled to fight for the World Boxing Association light heavyweight championship. There wasn't any fight. The bout was set for Las Vegas on February 24. But when the WBA and the Nevada Athletic Commission failed to agree on who the referee and judges should be, the fight had to be called off. Tomorrow the two fighters are scheduled to meet for the title again. And this time, if everyone can agree on the officials, the fight may actually take place. Rossman beat Galindez when they fought for the first time five months ago.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the WBA light heavyweight champion?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER — The U.S. Naval Academy is in Annapolis, Maryland.

Religion in the news

by the associated press

by GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
Christians this Sunday celebrate their faith in a strange paradox — that the world washes true goodness, yet it completely endures. That is the anomaly of Easter, considered the one clear warranty in all history that right finally wins over wrong. It is "a beam of light in vast darkness," says the Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. "Phone forth in love of people." They are "drawn to it in hope."

by a spurning, errant mankind. Total goodness was killed, it appeared, stamped out by human wrongness.

That was the surface evidence, that injustice had prevailed, and this remains an immediate impression in much that happens in the oppressions and abuses of the modern world.

It seems a depressing state — the strong trampling the weak, the corrupt exploiting the innocent, the tyrants victimizing the brave, children going hungry.

But "they will not win in the end," says the Rev. Dr. Carl E. Braaten of the Chicago Divinity School, adding that the guarantee that it won't be proclaimed in the resurrection.

As believers see it, Jesus, the truly good and true person, straining within humanity the giving love and generosity of God himself, was cut down

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life, in thy presence is fullness of Joy..."
PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

EASTER DAY OF TRIUMPH

"He is not here: for he is risen, as he said."

Thus, on the third day our Lord rose and conquered death, fulfilling his promise. There are many other promises of wonderful things that our Lord has made to us. These are given to us in the Holy Bible. Enter his house this week, on the day set aside for celebrating his triumph, and hear the full story of this great victory. Make this a new beginning in your life too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

THE RULES ALLOW YOU 14 CLUBS. SELECT THEM TO MATCH YOUR PERSONAL ABILITIES. NOT SOME THEORETICAL IDEAL. FOR EXAMPLE, I CARRY A DRIVER, 3 WOODS, IRONS 1 THROUGH 9, PITCHING WEDGE, MODERATELY-FLANGED SAND WEDGE, AND PUTTER. THAT'S A MIX PERHAPS SUITABLE FOR ANYONE WHO SHOOT'S 75 OR BETTER.

IF YOU SCORE MORE THAN A FEW SHOTS HIGHER THAN THAT, HOWEVER, YOU NEED AN "EASIER" SET — SUCH AS, FOR EXAMPLE, — DRIVER, 3, 4, AND 6- (OR 6-) WOODS, IRONS 3 THROUGH 9, PITCHING WEDGE, DEEP-FLANGED SAND WEDGE, AND PUTTER.

DON'T LET EGO PREVENT YOU FROM CARRYING CLUBS THAT YOU CAN ACTUALLY PLAY BETTER THAN ONES THAT SIMPLY LOOK GOOD IN THE BAG.

Bruce Lietzke leads Masters tourney

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bruce Lietzke was amazed.

"It's very surprising," he said Thursday after becoming a reluctant leader in the opening round of the 43rd Masters Golf Tournament with a 5-under-par 67.

"I don't have the confidence in my shots to win the tournament," Lietzke said. "I don't know where the shots came from today, but maybe it's the start of the confidence I need."

The 27-year-old Tucson Open winner confessed to being in a trance when he put together four straight birdies on the back side of the picturesque 7,040-yard, par-72 Augusta National Golf Club course to forge ahead of the select international field of 72 players.

"I was in a trance until the 17th hole," he said. "I had a 5-foot putt there to break it. If I had made it, I very well could have birdied the 18th."

Instead, he settled for a par at 17 and then got his only bogey of the day at 18. It left him little daylight, looking over his shoulder at two of the top shot-makers in the game — Tom Watson, the favorite and Player of the Year in 1977 and 1978, and Jack Nicklaus, showing signs of overcoming perhaps the worst slump of his career.

Watson, leading money winner this season, was tied at 68 with three unexpected first-round contenders — Leonard Thompson, Joe Inman and Ed Sneed.

"There were seven holes today where if you put the ball on the wrong side of the hole, you could putt it right off the green," the five-time Masters champion said. "My putting was okay. I just didn't make much.

The 69 left Nicklaus in a tie with former U.S. Open winner Lou Graham, young pros Andy Bean and Craig Stadler and the 1970 Masters champ, Billy Casper, who at 47 said he "struck a blow for the old folks."

Veteran Rod Laver, who surprisingly tied for second here last year, and Ray Floyd, winner of last week's Greater Greensboro Open, were in a group at 70. South African Gary Player, the defending champion, was one of eight players in at 1-under 71.

NBA playoffs resume action tonight

By The Associated Press
The Phoenix Suns may walk into their dressing room and find track shoes instead of sneakers before they try to sweep their best-of-three National Basketball Association playoff series from the Portland Trail Blazers.

"A three-game series is like a 100-yard dash," explained Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "Any time you have a chance to finish a series, you better do it."

The Suns have a chance to finish the Trail Blazers Friday night, since they took the opener 107-103 at Phoenix Tuesday night.

Portland isn't the only team needing a fast finish to stay alive as first-round action continues. The New Jersey Nets, Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers all faced do-or-die situations.

The Trail Blazers will have the homecourt advantage for their last-ditch attempt, but the Suns may well have the confidence advantage.

"We won 50 games this year," said MacLeod. "Those weren't gifts. Teams didn't just lie down and let us run over them."

The Philadelphia 76ers' fast break ran over the Nets in Tuesday night's rough 122-114 victory, and New Jersey knows it can't afford to let that happen again.

"They just got too many points on the break," said Nets Coach Kevin Loughery, noting the 76ers converted 31 breaks into 29 points. "If we can contain the break, we can beat them. If we can't, we won't beat them."

The Nets — especially Loughery — might also do well to control their tempers. Loughery was ejected from the opener after drawing his second technical foul, and so was guard John Williamson, who led New Jersey with 38 points.

"It's a matter of principle," said Loughery. "Some of the calls were outrageous. We're just looking to get fair calls. If that happens, our chances are as good as any."

The Atlanta Hawks' chances of sweeping their series with Houston seem better than average, since they won

Tuesday night's opener 109-106 on the road and can clinch the set with a triumph at their home arena, the Omni.

Texas cagers lose

HOUSTON (AP) — It wasn't until the fourth quarter that Sidney Green, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Billy Varner, New Kensington, Pa., decided it was time to put an end to the pesky Texas All-Stars.

Green and Varner fueled an early fourth quarter surge that finally allowed the United States All-Stars to break away from the Texans and hold on for a 107-104 victory Thursday night in the second annual schoolboy Roundball Basketball Classic in the Summit.

The upset minded Texans, led by Houston Milby passing and shooting wizard Robert Williams, led by 37-27 at one point in the second quarter and trailed by only one point, 54-53 at halftime.

The talented U.S. team spurred early in the third period but Claude Riley of Crockett, Texas hit 12 of his 23 points in the last six minutes of the third quarter to narrow the U.S. lead to 80-79 going into the final quarter.

That's when Green, voted the most valuable U.S. player, and Varner, who finished with 12 points, went to work. Green hit seven points and Varner scored six in the first half of the final quarter when the U.S. took a 98-86 lead.

The Texans, who lost a 91-82 decision in the inaugural classic last year, then narrowed the gap to 105-102 with 57 seconds to play on two free throws by clutch player Ronnie Blake, who led Lufkin to the Texas state Class 4A championship last season.

Williams, headed for the University of Houston, was voted the most valuable Texas All-Star and finished with 23 points.

George Turner of Hitchcock, who will attend Southern University, added 17 points for the Texans and Blake, the smallest man on the floor at 5-7, scored 12.

Green hit 20 points to lead the U.S. team while Charles Hurt, Shelbyville, Ky., hit 17 and Tony Bruin, New York, scored 14.

Entries made for Indy 500

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indianapolis 500 without most of the top drivers might cut attendance somewhat, but the race will almost certainly be run and even more certainly infuriate the sponsors who pay thousands of dollars to paste their decals on the world's fastest billboards.

"For a sponsor, it's a cold, hard business decision," said one U.S. Auto Club spokesman. "Sponsors don't care about the infighting between USAC and Championship Auto Racing Teams." If they build a program around a car driving in the 500, and then the car isn't even in the race, I would think they'd be throughly honked off.

CART, which had threatened to boycott the May 27 Indy 500 and stage its own $1 million race on the same day, submitted 44 entries to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Thursday.

But CART President Patrick emphasized the entries were made only to meet Sunday's deadline and avoid technical disqualification, implying there is still no guarantee the CART drivers would be in the race.

He said CART would continue to press its demands for more control, and he said he has asked CART's attorney to advise him of possible options should the dispute with USAC and the Speedway not be resolved to CART's satisfaction.

"I think what they (CART) are doing is drawing attention to themselves," said the USAC spokesman, who asked not to be identified. "I don't think it's any more than a publicity stunt. If they don't (drive at Indy), I know a lot of their sponsorship is going to go down the drain."

The 44 CART entries pushed the total to 83.

The CART entries were delivered by Jim Melvin, president of Michigan

International Speedway and executive director of the breakaway organization.

Before Thursday's announcement, four-time winner A.J. Foyt, an original director of CART who had defected back to the USAC, was the only big-name driver entered in the race.

Women's bowling
AUSTIN—Katherine Smith and Betty Monk of Borger held on to third place in the Class B doubles standings at the conclusion of the second week of play in the Texas Women's Bowling Association's 42nd annual Championship Tournament.

Their total of 1,087 pins was a scant 48 pins behind leaders Otila Garza and Jean Esquivel of McAllen.

Emily Connors of Perryton, with a second-place Class E singles total of 486 pins, was the only other area competitor listed in the standings. She is six pins behind leader Anglina Sparks of San Antonio.

Braves stop LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barry Bonnell drove in four runs with a home run and a double to back the four-hit pitching of Larry McWilliams as the Atlanta Braves routed Los Angeles 10-2 Thursday night.

McWilliams, 1-1, allowed the Dodgers only a two-run homer in the first inning by Steve Garvey. The loss was Los Angeles' third straight following four consecutive victories.

After Garvey's homer, Bonnell hit a two-run shot in the second inning off loser Andy Messersmith, 1-1. It was the third home run in seven games for Bonnell. Dale Murphy hit a bases-empty homer in the fourth and the Braves added three runs in the seventh.

Rangers race past Cleveland

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

There was Toby Harrah playing third base for the Cleveland Indians... and there was Buddy Bell at bat wearing the red, white and blue of the Texas Rangers.

And then there was Harrah later wearing a red face.

"You can see why I'm glad to be out of Dallas," said Harrah after being charged with a costly error that handed the Rangers a 5-3 victory over his Indians Thursday night. "I don't know who the scorer was — but he missed the play. The ball hit the heel of my glove. It was a hit, not an error."

Ironically, Harrah's bases-loaded error in the third inning that opened the gates for three Cleveland runs was made off a ground ball hit by Bell, the very player that he was traded for.

"I thought I hit the ball pretty good," said Bell, perhaps trying to lift the goat's mantle off Harrah's shoulders. "You have to have some sympathy for any player who makes an error. Toby's a good player, though. It won't affect him."

In other American League games, the California Angels stopped the Minnesota Twins 7-1; the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-0; the Boston Red Sox stopped the Milwaukee Brewers 12-10; the Toronto Blue Jays outscored the Chicago White Sox 9-7 and the Seattle Mariners edged the Oakland A's 4-3.

The Rangers loaded the bases in the third on walks to Bump Wills and Billy Sample and an infield single by Al Oliver. Then Harrah let Bell's grounder roll through his legs, scoring two runs.

John Ellis followed with an RBI single for Texas' final run of the inning. Sample drilled an RBI single in the fourth for the final run off starter and loser Rick Waits. Texas scored an insurance run in the eighth on a home run by Oscar Gamble off reliever Victor Cruz.

Angels 7, Twins 1
Willie Mays Aikens drove in three runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly, and Chris Knapp scattered four hits to lead California over Minnesota.

In the second inning, Don Baylor doubled and was caught in a rundown on Joe Rudi's fielder's choice grounder before Aikens hit his first major league homer, a blast over the right field fence off Roger Erikson. In the fourth, Aikens doubled and scored on a double by Bobby Grich. And in the fifth, after former Twin Rod Carew drew a walk and took third on another double by Baylor, Aikens hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Jeff Holly.

Yankees 5, Orioles 0
Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss cracked successive home runs to ignite a five-run New York burst in the second inning and Tommy John pitched a three-hitter as the Yankees defeated Baltimore.

Nettles, who went 6-for-13 in the three-game series at Baltimore with six RBIs, connected off Mike Flanagan after a leadoff single by Reggie Jackson. Two pitches later Chambliss homered.

John allowed only one hit after easing out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and recorded 18 outs on grounders.

Red Sox 12, Brewers 10
Jim Dwyer's first American League hit, a two-run pinch single with two outs in the ninth inning, led Boston over Milwaukee. Loser Reggie Cleveland walked Jim Rice to start the ninth and Carl Yastrzemski, who hit a grand slam homer in the seventh, followed with a single off Jerry Augustine.

George Scott then bunted past pitcher Bill Castro and beat it out to load the bases with none out. Jack Brohamer then grounded to Castro, who started a double play by way of home plate. Dwight Evans was walked intentionally to reload the bases, and Dwyer followed with a line single to left.

Blue Jays 9, White Sox 6
Rick Cerone's three-run homer capped a six-run, eighth-inning rally to lead Toronto over Chicago. A leadoff homer by Rico Carty and a two-run single by Roy Howell preceded Cerone's big hit.

Mariners 4, A's 3
Pinch-runner Joe Simpson scored on a passed ball in the eighth inning as Seattle rallied to edge Oakland. Simpson ran for Bruce Bochte, who reached on first baseman Jeff Newman's error which let Seattle's Dan Meyer score the tying run.

Pirates turn back Cardinals

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

For Don Robinson, it's a matter of control. For John Milner, it's a matter of self-control.

Robinson, whose wildness cost him a chance at a victor last weekend, was razor-sharp on the mound for Pittsburgh Thursday night.

And Milner, once an unhappy starter on the mediocre New York Mets but now a satisfied reserve with the Pirates, made the most of a rare opportunity.

Those two performances helped the Pirates halt a three-game tailspin and turn back the previously unbeaten St. Louis Cardinals 3-1.

In the rest of the National League, the Mets shaded Philadelphia 3-2, Atlanta blottered Los Angeles 10-2 and San Francisco edged San Diego 4-3.

"Giving up no walks is a lot more gratifying than getting nine strikeouts," said Robinson, who did both against the Cards. "I gave up seven hits and if I walked a couple it would have been like giving them nine."

"The walks cost me a chance for a win last Saturday," when he was gone before the Pirates edged Montreal 7-6. "I walked some guys and I hit one with a pitch. You can't do that. You have to keep them off the bases."

Mets 3, Phillies 2
The Phils had plenty of punch against Pat Zachry, but not when it counted. The Mets' slender right-hander survived a 12-hit barrage by squeezing out of one jam after another. His biggest feat was getting Pete Rose out four times with Phils in scoring position.

"I have no special feelings about Pete Rose. I was just out there trying to get him out," said Zachry.

Last year he showed more than enough feeling. When he gave up a single during Rose's hitting streak, he took out his frustration by kicking a dugout step and kicking himself right out of the second half of the season with a broken bone in his right foot.

The most damaging hit off Zachry was Garry Maddox's home run. The most damaging off loser Randy Lerch was Lee Mazzilli's fifth-inning double. Mazzilli stole third and came home with the winning run on Kelvin Chapman's sacrifice fly.

Giants 4, Padres 3
San Diego pitcher Eric Rasmussen breezed through the first seven hitters he faced, then ran headlong into trouble. Before he got out of it he'd given up a San Francisco run in the third and three in the fourth, two on Darrell Evans' homer.

Dave Winfield hit a two-run homer for the Padres.

Flames face frustration

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Atlanta Flames started the season with so much promise. Now they face a summer of doubt and frustration.

The 12-game unbeaten string that began their campaign is so much water under the bridge. Far more significant, much more aggravating, is the 12 losses in the 13 games of their playoff history and their fifth straight first-round series-loss.

The Toronto Maple Leafs blasted the Flames 7-4 Thursday night to sweep their best-of-three preliminary round in the National Hockey League playoffs. The New York Rangers, on an overtime goal by Phil Esposito, edged the Los Angeles Kings 2-1 to take their first-round series.

House defeats minority banking measure, 75-48

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has reversed itself and defeated, 75-48, a bill opponents called an attempt by bankers and savings and loan associations to head off minority competition.

Thursday's vote meant two dozen representatives had changed their minds since the bill won tentative approval the day before, 79-49. A black legislator called the bill the most "despicable" thing he had seen in more than six years in the House.

The measure would have prohibited ownership of bank or savings and loan stock by non-profit organizations that receive state or federal money.

"The bill is just saying you can't go to the federal government and get your dollars and my dollars and invest them for this particular purpose," said Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, the sponsor.

Rep. John Wilson, D-LaGrange, observed that the only witness for the bill when it was heard in committee was from the Texas Savings and Loan League.

"We don't have to compete with those folks' is what they are really thinking," said Wilson, a moderate to conservative legislator. "It's all right to talk about job opportunities as long as it's job opportunities with a shovel. ... But God forbid they would own a bank," Wilson said.

Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, said the bill would prevent organizations from using economic development money from the U.S. Community Services Administration to buy banks.

Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, said such a bank might make home improvement loans in rundown neighborhoods that other lending institutions have "redlined."

Salinas said he thought a group of blacks in Lubbock was trying to obtain a federal grant to start a savings and loan association.

Presnal said he knew of no groups that have used federal grants to buy bank or savings and loan stock so far, "and I hope they never do."

"I don't want anybody using federal money to buy a bank. They can get out and work for a living just like I do," said Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline.

"You are not stopping the grants, Mr. Hollowell, but you are stopping the opportunity of people to make it in this world. ... I have been in the House six years and I have never seen anything as despicable as this," said Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston.

Both chambers of the Legislature were off today, and only the House worked on Thursday. The Senate began its Easter break a day earlier than the House.
