Robbery cash recovered

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Two men and two women were charged today in connection with the $1.8 million robbery of a Purolator Security Inc. branch office in which three security guards were brutally slain. Police said they believed they recovered all of the stolen cash and valuables.

Police said murder charges were filed against Lawrence Pelletier, 36, of Waterbury; Donald Couture, 26, and Donna Couture, 26, both of Wallingford; and Evelyn Vega, 26, of Waterbury.

Plastic garbage bags full of cash stolen in the robbery were hauled into police headquarters but authorities said they did not know how much of the $1.8 million in cash, food stamps, jewelry and checks had been recovered.

The robbery, in a shootout that killed the three guards early Monday at Purolator's branch office in Waterbury, was one of the nation's largest.

"Did you ever see so much money in your life?" exclaimed one detective as he handed bags of money from a police van.

Grocery carts were used to haul the loot through the lobby of police headquarters.

"This is all cash," said a policeman as he lifted a green bag out of the van. Showing through one torn bag were packages of bills in denominations of $1, $10 and $20.

Authorities said the crime had been carefully planned.

The perpetrators were waiting in ambush for the people inside the (armored) car. Chief Inspector John T. Griffin of the Waterbury Police Department said Monday at a news conference.

The robbers sprayed a local Purolator office with automatic-rifle fire when they ambushed the guards, then got away with $1 million in cash, some $700,000 in canceled checks, $65,000 worth of jewelry and a quantity of food stamps, said John Connelly, police legal adviser.

The victims, all from Connecticut, were identified as William West, 52, of Cromwell; Leslie Clark, 36, of Plymouth; and Hartford policeman Edward T. Cody, 46, a Vernon resident who had authorization to hold the off-duty guard job.

Griffin said two guards had driven the armored car, carrying money destined for New York banks, and entered the one-story office's garage.

After the third guard helped open the vehicle's back door for unloading, the robbers broke a window in an overhead garage door at the rear of the building and began firing, killing the guards, he said.

Israel's guns shell guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli guns were reported pounding Palestinian guerrillas in southern Lebanon today after a guerrilla raid across the border during the night in which the Israelis said all six raiders were killed.

An army spokesman said an Israeli soldier was also killed and six others were wounded in the battle when the six Palestinians were intercepted about 11 p.m. Monday near Zarit, an Israeli border village 12 miles east of the Mediterranean coast.

It was the second attempt by Palestinian guerrillas to infiltrate into Israel within 48 hours. An army patrol on Easter morning killed four guerrillas from Jordan who crossed the Jordan River and were intercepted about 50 miles north of Jerusalem. No Israeli casualties were reported in that clash.

Another terrorist attempt was reported in Jerusalem, where a bomb exploded on a municipal bus about noon. But a passenger spotted the parcel, everyone got off just before the explosion, and no one was hurt. The bus was damaged.

Lebanese officials in Sidon, the provincial capital of south Lebanon, said Israeli artillery and rockets opened up this morning and pounded Palestinian along a 30-mile front, from Tyre on the coast to the foothills of Mount Hermon.

The Israeli military command did not confirm the shelling, but Deputy Defense Minister Mordechai Zippori warned that Israel would step up its actions against the Palestinian guerrillas in neighboring Lebanon and Jordan.

"It's clear they have intensified or are trying to intensify their action," he said in a radio interview. "We will have to intensify our punishments. It has to be clear to every state that if they permit infiltration of our borders, we will take care of the matters."

The Israeli command has reported a total of 17 Palestinian infiltrators killed since the beginning of the year, including three on Jan. 3 and four on March 10. The military command also announced on April 2 that the navy intercepted a Palestinian ship in the Mediterranean and arrested six guerrillas who admitted they were preparing to land for a raid.

The Israeli soldier killed Monday night was the first Israeli soldier reported killed in action since last June 9, when two commandos died during an amphibious raid on a Palestinian training base on the Lebanese coast.

Decision expected Friday for Davis

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for Cullen Davis say the millionaire's estranged wife, Priscilla, and her attorneys have an "insatiable greed" in asking $50 million in a divorce settlement.

Davis says his wife should get no more than $400,000, her personal possessions and her Lincoln Continental Mark IV automobile.

District Judge Clyde Ashworth, who heard four hours of final arguments Monday, said he now expects to have a final decision in the 5-year-old case by Friday — several days earlier than his previous estimate.

Davis and his wife sat five feet apart on a front bench inside the courtroom railing, they did not look at each other — a pattern they have followed since the trial began Feb. 20.

Jerry Loftin, an attorney for Mrs. Davis, said Davis "is worth probably anywhere from $300 million up," and "in my opinion, the value she is entitled to is $50 million."

But Davis' lawyers said the case represents "an attempt by a voracious woman and her two opportunistic lawyers blinded to principle by the dollar signs in their eyes to set themselves up for life out of one man's inheritance — to which none of them is entitled."

"In a word," they concluded in their brief, "the name of the game is 'Skin Cullen.' Rape of another human being, whether carnal or economic, is not acceptable," Davis' lawyers said.

They labeled as "legalized robbery" the request of Aultman and Loftin that Ashworth award them $3 million in attorney fees for their work in the divorce case. The two lawyers are asking that Davis be ordered to pay the fees.

Man shot in Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The police officer who shot and killed a curfew violator has been placed on "limited duty" and will face a grand jury, according to Police Chief Curtis Harrellson.

Authorities were trying today to identify the slain suspect, shot in the back as he ran from police before dawn Monday in the downtown area.

The officer who fired the fatal shot, Jay L. Wright, stopped the suspect for violating a curfew established to discourage looting after a tornado wrecked thousands of buildings in this North Texas city a week ago.

The downtown area escaped the twister that devastated eight square miles, killed 44 persons and caused more than $200 million in property damage. But an 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was in effect citywide.

Wright said the suspect got out of a car, shoved him and ran. The officer said he chased the suspect and fired when the victim turned and reached into his pocket. Wright, and his partner, John J. Bailey, said in their police report they believed the suspect was reaching for a gun.

But no firearm was found on the body. The suspect was killed by a single shot from Wright's .357-caliber Magnum revolver.

Harrellson did not elaborate on what "limited duty" Wright has been assigned to. He said a Wichita County grand jury will interview the rookie police officer Wednesday.

The chief also ordered an internal investigation, and one of the investigating officers, Sgt. James Shelton, said Wright and Bailey ordered the victim to halt "several times" before the suspect put his right hand into his right pants pocket and started to turn toward the officers.

Shelton said friends of the victim, who was in his mid-20s, said he did not speak English.

After the shooting, two other officers arrived and administered cardio-pulmonary resuscitation without success.

It was the first shot fired by officers since the curfew was imposed, Harrellson said. Since the tornado struck, 32 persons have been arrested for violating the curfew.

Arbor Day approaching

Concern for trees and environment are to be evoked as Arbor Day approaches April 27 to inspire conservation, recreation, beautification and reforestation programs.

The Pampa Garden Club has revered the day with a program on stubbing trees, emphasizing the correct procedure as written by John Baumgardt in his book "How to Prune Almost Everything."

Stubbing, the incorrect way, was said to be the lazy man's pruning — making five or six cuts that jeopardized the life of the tree.

The stubbed tree would grow thickets of sappy water sprouts, which were labeled as weak and unsightly.

The spring was suggested as a good time to observe the condition of trees and to correct any bad pruning.

The local club will also send six letters of commendation to owners of "Pampa's Trees of Distinction for 1979." The club said care of the trees has contributed to the appearance of the city.

The Scotch Pine, pictured on the left, will be one tree receiving praise from the club. It is located at 1101 Mary Ellen, the residence of E.L. Green.

The bare multi-structure on the right is an unbloomed Chinese Elm found in the back yard of H.H. Boyton of 1035 S. Hobart. It too will be commended for its appearance.

An American Elm on 1700 N. Russell will be one of the recognized trees, as will be two Honey Locusts standing in front of the White Deer Land Museum on Cuyler.

The center front tree at 321 N. West, the home of John B. Hines, is a Loblolly Pine to be labeled as another of Pampa's natural adornments.

What's inside

Weather

The forecast for today calls for partly cloudy skies with a slight chance of showers or thundershowers this evening. The high is expected in the upper 70s with the low tonight in the mid 50s. Winds will be out of the south at 15 to 25 mph this afternoon, becoming 15 to 20 mph tonight. Wind warnings are in effect on area lakes today. The high Monday was 87 and the overnight low was 57.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covering Commandment.

Libertarian sees good in humanity

What is a Libertarian?

That is the general reaction of most people when told that the Pampa News is a Libertarian newspaper - as opposed to either Democratic Republican or something else.

To explain the editorial philosophy of this and other Freedom Newspapers in depth would take much too long for the limited amount of space available here.

However, a much briefer definition can be formulated and, to aid our readers in understanding why the editorials run on this page say what they do, we will attempt to define that term as simply as possible.

Many local residents have heard the term "little government is good government." But in the libertarian frame of things, that quotations would be extended as follows:

"Little government is good government and no government is better."

Now before the screams of "anarchy" begin, allow us to explain further.

The Libertarian philosophy to which we subscribe is a very positive philosophy. We believe that mankind is generally good and, like a vine, will climb to the highest possible realm if not obstructed in any way.

To achieve that high realm, we believe that man must be allowed to meet the challenges of making a better world without controls.

Government, in the eyes of the true Libertarian, is control.

It is a pseudo - security; a false notion spread by politicians seeking power that, since man is innately harmful, government is needed to control that more mischievous side.

Perhaps a better way to describe this philosophy would be to use Freud's concept of the id, ego and superego, the id being the childlike, pleasure - seeking side, the ego being the logical, conscious, reasoning side and the superego being the conscience.

Using this theory, because the id presents a threat by its very being, government, according to the politicians, is needed to "protect" man from himself.

The Libertarian believes, however, that the id, if left unattended, being a pleasure - seeking entity, will derive the highest standard of living at the least costs.

The superego (conscience) will guide the id to the greatest material gains with the least cost.

The Libertarian believes this, knowing that, yes, some will get hurt in the process, but this happens in any system; however, he also believes the benefits of total freedom outweigh any "benefits" of the "best" government.

Enter the free market system.

The Libertarian also believes that, instead of government, the free market system should be allowed to take care of man's needs through the basic law of supply and demand WITHOUT government interference as we have today.

Being a profit - seeker by nature, man, if unencumbered by government controls, will find the easiest, least expensive solution to any problem quicker than any barrel of bureaucrats could ever hope to, no matter how benevolent their intentions might be.

Like any other type of "political" philosophy, Democratic, Republican, Socialist or Communist, the Libertarian outlook also has its drawbacks the major one being an unwillingness by most human beings to trust in the basic overall good of their own race.

Freedom Newspapers was so named because its founder, the late R.C. Hoiles, being a Libertarian, loved freedom and all it stood for above everything else.

He had an ideal; a goal of total freedom for all mankind so that the human plateau, however high it should be, if it indeed has an end, might someday become reality.

Hoiles based that ideal on the foundations of freedom and the News, like the other newspapers in the Freedom family, remains editorially dedicated to his goal.

Nations Press Battle of the bumpers

Wall Street Journal

You might think that the decision whether to make car bumpers out of steel or aluminum would be made by auto executives looking at costs, prices and consumer preferences. Not so. The decision will be made by the winner of a political fight between two Senate heavies: Majority Leader Robert Byrd representing steel and Appropriations Committee Chairman Warren Magnuson representing aluminum.

Steel, it seems, was half knocked out by federal regulations before Sen. Byrd stepped into the ring. Back in 1976 the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration decreed the five - mile - per - hour crash standard for car bumpers.

This, of course, requires steel bumpers to be heavier. But the government - mandated fuel economy standards require that cars lose weight rather than gain it. The result is to disadvantage steel and make aluminum more attractive - in effect, the government has created a subsidy for aluminum by decreasing regulations.

It is far from certain that these regulations benefit the consumer in whose name they are issued. According to Sen. Byrd, a Department of Transportation study shows that a less stringent bumper crash standard would save consumers close to a billion dollars every model year. But in 1975 when DOT proposed a 2.5 mile - per - hour standard on the grounds that the 5 mile - per - hour standard was not cost beneficial to motorists, it ran up against Sen. Magnuson.

A great deal of aluminum is produced in Sen. Magnuson's home state of Washington, and the producers see the 5 mile - per - hour standard as a boon. The Senator has let the regulators know that the standard is very important to the economy of his state.

On the other hand, Sen. Byrd's home state of West Virginia is a leading producer of steel bumpers, and the regulations are anything but a boon to his state.

So far Sen. Byrd has got a study out of DOT that questions the 5 mile - per - hour standard. Sen. Magnuson, however, has got DOT to say that more studies are necessary before the standard can be changed. Obviously, the bureaucrats in DOT are going to get as much out of this fight as they can, and it will be a lot more than consumers get out of it.

There is no way consumers can benefit once decisions about the products they buy are taken out of the market place where they can affect them. Today the production of automobiles is governed by whichever political heavy can most help or harm a regulatory agency. We have come a long way in the wrong direction when ordinary, even minor, business decisions are determined by whichever Senator can out - slug the other.

Is it smart to be politically ignorant

By DWIGHT R. LEE

(Dr. Lee is Professor of Economics at the University of Colorado and visiting professor at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.)

If asked to name the two U.S. Senators from your state and tell how they voted on at least two pieces of legislation in the last congress, could you do it? If so you are, according to surveys, unusually well informed politically. If not, you are probably expecting to be criticized for contributing to the widespread political apathy we have heard so much about.

Perhaps you will be, but if you have a good eye for praise there is actually a bit of a compliment here for the politically apathetic. It is unfortunately true that those who choose to remain politically uninformed are often behaving quite rationally. The reason for this is no real mystery. Exercising your power of choice in the political arena is unlikely to have any impact on the eventual outcome.

Despite the fact that we have been told since we were children that our individual vote is important, and most of us ritually repeat this as if we believed it, few of us actually do. Most of us are fully aware of the simple probability that our vote is not likely to affect a political decision, and therefore see little to be gained by spending a lot of time and effort becoming well informed on the issues and candidates. For most people it is simply smart to be ignorant when it comes to politics.

It is worth noticing how different the situation is when it comes to the choices we face in the market place. When you go to the supermarket, the used car lot, or the department store there is a rather obvious connection between the decisions you make and the outcomes you live with. Because of this it makes sense to find out about the products being considered and to shop carefully.

If you want a used car, for example, you are not likely to give a neighbor $1000 and ask him to go pick one out for you. You are going to shop around and kick some tires for yourself.

Your motivation to be a careful shopper for used car probably contrasts sharply with your interest in, and knowledge of, the decisions affecting your local school system. If you own property and have children, these decisions surely take more of your money and exert a bigger impact on the well being of your family than a decision on a used car. But if you are like most, you will be more knowledgeable in your used car selection than in the choice of a school board member. Most of you effectively give your neighbor your property tax dollars and hope they make a good decision on the schools.

Why do you behave this way? Not because you are irrational, or calloused toward the welfare of your family. In fact behaving this way is usually quite rational if you have the best interests of your family in mind. You will generally do more for your family by devoting time informing yourself on those options where your decision has an impact than in acquiring knowledge about choices which will be little influenced by your input.

Possibly this is all a bit consoling to those of you who have felt occasional pangs of guilt about your political inertia. But this is really not intended as a pat on the back for the politically ignorant. For what it is worth, I do not approve of this situation. If more people were informed and politically active, they would surely be more in agreement with me and more of the policies I favor would be enacted. And this is not meant to be completely facetious. Are not we all better off when political decisions are guided by an informed public?

But it has to be recognized, our sincere wishes notwithstanding, that people will rarely be as concerned with their political choices as their market choices. Having recognized this it becomes rather obvious that decision making will be less responsive to those paying the bill when it occurs within the government than when it takes place in private markets. It is this which explains the waste and inefficiencies that are the constant companions of government programs.

When those who pay have the control over whether or not to buy, and from whom to buy, remaining in business requires quick and efficient responses. Remove this control by transferring the supply decisions from the private sector to government and the pressure to be efficient will quickly evaporate.

As long as the mail service for example, is solely provided by the government, no matter how many Presidential commissions conduct blue ribbon studies of the situation, or how many times the Postal Service is reorganized, it will remain inefficient. And what is true of the Postal Service is no less true of Amtrak, Medi - Care or urban - renewal.

The response this situation calls for is conspicuously clear. We need to resist stoutly the constant pressures for government either to take over or heavily regulate activities which can be performed in the private sector. But despite the obviousness of the appropriate response, we find ourselves with a very difficult problem. It is the political apathy that makes it so inadvisable to transfer activities from the private to the public sector which explains why we have been moving increasingly in that direction. There is always a special interest group which will benefit if the government takes over or regulates some activity. The bureaucrats whose power and income will be augmented by the expanded government role make up on such interest group. In the case of regulation, it is often the industry to be regulated that makes up another such group, since regulation commonly protects existing firms against competition (witness the opposition of the airline and trucking industries to attempts at deregulation). The losers in all this are those paying the bill and who make up the general public. But with the general public being politically apathetic and political process responds to the special interests and ignores the larger interest.

It has to be concluded that while it may be individually rational to be politically apathetic, it is collectively irresponsible, and those who are politically uninvolved deserve anything but a pat on the back. A boot a bit lower down would be more appropriate. The benefits from living in a free and prosperous society carry with them certain obligations which do not find their justification in the calculus of individual self interest. One of these obligations is to promote and protect the larger community interest against the constant threat of special interest politics by being politically informed and active. There may be reasons for doubting that we will be entirely successful, but none what - so - ever for not making the effort.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 17, the 107th day of 1979. There are 258 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1521, the Diet at Worms, Germany, excommunicated Martin Luther from the Catholic Church after the former monk refused to plead guilty to charges of heresy.

On this date: In 1790, Benjamin Franklin died in Philadelphia at the age of 84.

In 1861, Virginia seceded from the Union as the Civil War was beginning.

In 1941, Yugoslavia surrendered to Germany in World War II, but partisan forces continued to wage guerrilla warfare.

In 1943, U.S. bombers hit Palermo, Sicily.

In 1945, the United States announced that Japan had lost more than 200 planes in a single day of suicide attacks in the Battle of Okinawa.

In 1964, Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, became the first woman to make a solo flight around the world as she landed her plane at Columbus.

Ten years ago: Jordanian immigrant Sirhan Sirhan was convicted of first - degree murder by a Los Angeles County jury in the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Five years ago: The U.S. Supreme Court opened the way for damage suits against Ohio officials in the 1970 killings at Kent State University.

One year ago: Huge purchases of stock by foreign investors helped push trading on the New York Stock Exchange to a record volume for one day of 63.5 million shares.

Today's birthdays: Newscaster Harry Reasoner is 56. Photographer, painter and writer Eliot Elisofon is 68. Film and theater director Lindsay Anderson is 56.

Thought for today: There is no more lovely, friendly and charming relationship, communion or company than a good marriage - Martin Luther, 1483-1546.

Why not draft postal workers

Those who propose reviving the military draft argue that "the military is not getting enough of the right kind of personnel."

Who is? If that is the criterion, then we should draft postal workers.

Indeed, it can be argued that our entire civil service system is lacking in the number and quality of workers Congress might prefer.

Shall we undertake conscription of all federal employees?

William Meckling is former executive director of the President's Commission on an All - Volunteer Armed Force.

He dares to suggest that if our military forces are not attracting enough of the right kind of volunteers, then something is wrong with the military.

And to pass the buck to our sons and daughters - to make them pay when we should be doing the paying - is a selfish copout.

Mr. Meckling says that if Americans are not volunteering for military service, then a nation which professes "freedom" should get busy making military service more attractive.

In the first place, the masses - of - marching - men concept is three wars out of date.

What our nation requires to manpower its technological deterrent force are technicians.

And they are going to cost us more money.

More than 200 years ago, before our country was a country, it was proposed that merchant seamen should be drafted.

It was Benjamin Franklin who went straight to the heart of the issue by arguing that if you draft the sailor to serve for what was then 25 shillings a month, you are robbing him of the money he could be making in civilian employment and you rob the country of the taxes he could be paying. Franklin recommended attracting volunteer merchant seamen by raising the pay to what was then 3 pounds, 15 shillings,

Thus, instead of punishing them for serving their country they are rewarded.

And instead of a dead weight burden on the budget, they become taxpayers.

For the record, all four of our military services have been able to meet quotas - despite modest levels of compensation. The only trouble they've had is in getting enough specialists in medicine and enough talent in the reserves.

As for the quality of manpower, during the draft 68 percent of recruits were high school graduates; today 69 percent are.

Even though a new recruit's pay today is 33 cents an hour less than the national minimum wage.

If the defense of our country is going to cost more, let's pay it - not our kids.

High-rent habitat

President Carter's penny pinching approach to government apparently doesn't apply to his re - election campaign.

The newly formed Carter campaign committee has set up shop just a block and a half away from the White House, in the heart of Washington's high - rent district.

The prime location is the envy of Carter's would - be Republican challengers, most of whom have been driven to the suburbs for headquarters by the sky - high costs of office space in downtown Washington.

The Carter committee is paying $14.50 per square foot for a year's lease on the three - story townhouse it is using as a temporary campaign headquarters housing some 20 to 25 political workers.

That is actually a bargain rate for the choice location, considering the fact that rents in nearby buildings can run as high as $18 to $20 per square foot. But the Carter headquarters is nowhere near as large or lavish as the offices occupied a few years back by President Nixon's infamous Committee to re - elect the President (CREEP).

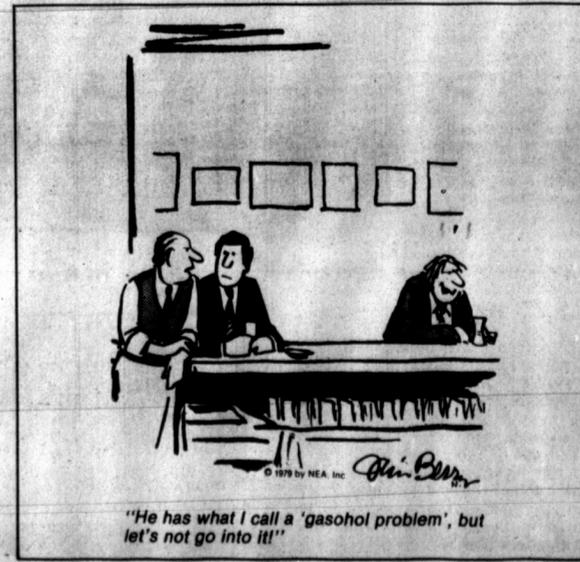

Republicans Ronald Reagan, John Connally, George Bush and Phil Crane have all set up campaign offices out in the Virginia suburbs of Arlington and Alexandria, where office space is considerably cheaper. They are paying rents ranging from about $6 per square foot (Reagan) to $8.50 per square foot (Crane and Bush).

Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., got a bargain - basement price of $5.50 per square foot for his campaign headquarters, which is in Washington not far from Capitol Hill. That's because the location is in a rather rough, high - crime neighborhood.

The Carter headquarters is only temporary. Campaign officials say they will sub - let the building and move to larger offices once the campaign heats up.

All the candidates must pay the rent from political contributions at this stage, since federal matching funds won't become available until Jan. 1, 1980. And Carter, as an incumbent president, has a decided fund - raising edge over his GOP challengers.

Berry's World

Clements rejects raising mortgage interest rate

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements shut off legislative efforts Monday to raise mortgage interest rates by threatening to veto higher charges, but said a special session may be needed on the subject.

The governor's announcement killed hopes of the savings and loan industry to up the state's usury limit this session from 10 percent to 12 percent.

"Too many Texans now cannot afford home loans, not because money is tight but because interest rates already are too high," Clements told a news conference. "If rates are allowed to go even higher, the number of people able to buy homes will drop accordingly."

If housing starts decline drastically, Clements said he will consider calling a special legislative session on the issue.

After three months of considering both sides, the governor apparently rejected arguments by Sen. Bill Meier, a sponsor of 12 percent interest rate legislation.

"I told him I was disappointed, that I thought he made the wrong decision," said Meier, D-Eules, who talked with Clements before the governor's news conference.

Meier said he has scrapped his bill for this session but predicted an emergency will develop soon in the housing industry and prompt a special session.

"But special sessions are kind of risky and you never know how all that would work," Meier said in a phone interview from his Eules office. "I would have preferred that we deal with the economic facts of life in this session."

Both the Meier bill and a House version are pending in subcommittees.

Savings and loan officials have claimed they cannot compete for money on national markets with the state's low usury limit. They have threatened to invest money out of state unless the Legislature allows them to charge higher interest rates.

Clements chastised the industry for demanding higher rates.

"Savings and loan institutions are reporting record high profits," he said, "and it takes a certain amount of audacity on their part to come to the Legislature to ask for more money at a time when the average Texan is fighting to keep his head above water financially."

Clements said he favors placing limits and requiring reports on the amount of Texas money savings and loan institutions can invest out of state.

On separate legislation, the governor said he had used his veto power for the first time to kill a bill favored by the trucking industry. The measure would have shielded truckers from federal antitrust lawsuits by allowing rate bureaus to apply for industry-wide fee schedules.

"It exempts these rate bureaus from antitrust laws of this state, which I feel is and of itself is bad public policy," Clements said. "This is nothing more or less than a lobbying effort by the intrastate motor carriers who feel the breath of the antitrust division of the attorney general's office breathing on them."

Sen. Ray Farabee, sponsor of the trucking bill, said Clements misunderstood the legislation.

"This bill would allow the continuation of an efficient system that is used in most large states and is authorized on the federal level," said Farabee.

D-Wichita Falls.

Farabee, in Austin for a committee meeting, said he has not decided whether to fight for the two-thirds vote needed to override Clements veto.

A longtime opponent of higher interest rates termed Clements' decision an "act of courage."

"I think it is the single greatest act of courage I've seen since I've been in the Legislature," said Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, an 18-year legislative veteran.

Ohio family narrowly escaped killer tornado

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The Hendels are hoo again. But June Hendel is sure that she and her family would never have made it back if they hadn't lingered at her father's shop the day that a tornado hit Wichita Falls, Texas.

The delay kept them from being in the path of the monster twister which killed 44 people and caused millions of dollars damage in Wichita Falls April 10.

The Hendels were in Wichita Falls last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hendel's grandmother.

Mrs. Hendel had just returned to her parents' home after warning her father that a tornado had been spotted at a town about 10 miles away.

"Our intentions were that afternoon to go bowling and we were going to go to the mall and have the baby's picture taken with the Easter Bunny," she said.

"We would have been at the mall, which was one of the worst hit places, or at the bowling alley, which is right across from the mall and was also hit."

"The only reason we weren't there and caught in the middle of it that time was because my dad had called and wanted us to come down to the shop again. He really wanted to see us and see the baby... Only my dad's phone call stopped us from being at the mall, or we would have been hit then."

After returning from the repair shop, the Hendels heard sirens.

"I ran outside to the back yard and saw the neighbor pointing and he said, 'there is it,'" she said. "I looked where he was pointing — and I'm not kidding — it was the biggest tornado I have ever seen.

"It was heading right at us. It just kept getting bigger and blacker and closer the whole time. The whole sky was getting black. Trash cans were starting to fly all over, and the hail was like golf balls."

Her father came home and urged the family to get in the car and drive to safety.

"He started driving and he said the car was lifting," Mrs. Hendel said. "You could feel it moving. We drove about two miles and of course we were praying."

Suddenly, she said the tornado reversed its path, going back over the area it had already hit.

Mrs. Hendel's parents' home was not damaged although the tornado passed within a mile and a half of it.

Red Cross update

Red Cross volunteers at Wichita Falls have requested no more household items or clothing for tornado victims, according to Joyce Roberts of the Gray County Red Cross.

Storage space for household goods and clothing is running low at the site of last week's killer tornado, she said, but money contributions are still welcome. Pampa residents may contribute to the relief funds at First National and Citizen's Banks.

Grand jury indicts couples

The 31st District grand jury Monday returned criminal mischief indictments against two couples charged with nearly $800 of damage to a Roberta Street residence they were renting at the time of the alleged vandalism.

Carl and Brenda Cooper and Gordon and Lanay Purcell were indicted for allegedly damaging floors, walls, and the ceiling in the residence in the amount of $798.78.

A kitchen stove was also damaged in the Feb. 15 incident, according to the indictment.

Brady Orval Helms and James Jackie Brown were reindicted for forgery in connection with the alleged passing of a $200 paycheck at the Booze n' Brew liquor store on Jan. 12.

An earlier indictment was thrown out by Judge Grainger McIlhenny because it did not include a photostat of the reverse side of the check.

The payroll check was reportedly stolen from a wallet at the Pampa Youth Center. Helms and Brown were arrested in connection with the alleged forgery on Jan. 28. A third man pleaded guilty to the theft charge earlier.

Indictments were returned against five persons, including Demetrio Martinez, charged in connection with a felony driving while intoxicated incident.

The grand jury also upheld the homicide - suicide ruling of then Justice of the Peace Venora Cole in the October 22 gunshot death of Alfred Richard Parker Jr. and the shooting injury of his wife, Michelle Parker.

Parker reportedly died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the stomach after shooting his wife following an argument in the couple's residence.

The grand jury reviewed testimony of 10 witnesses, according to District Attorney Harold Comer. Comer said that "from the physical facts and the testimony of the witnesses" there was no basis for a criminal indictment.

An autopsy report reviewed by the grand jury on the cause of death of Pampan Lorraine Mitchell, who was found dead in her home March 6, revealed that Mrs. Mitchell had died of an alcohol overdose, Comer said.

Early news reports of the incident suggested that Mitchell might have died as the result of a possible beating.

police report

Don Cole of Rt. 3, Box 5 reported the theft of a 1970 green Chevrolet, license plate no. APW 628, while the car was parked in the 100 block of E. Decatur.

Police responded to 30 calls in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

minor accidents

An eastbound vehicle driven by Steven Bradford of 2237 Dogwood was stopped in the center lane in the 100 block of Decatur when another vehicle, driven by Donald Snow of 1012 Crane, attempted to pass on the right. At the same time a passenger in the Bradford vehicle opened a right-hand door, which was then reportedly struck by the Snow vehicle.

A 1977 Pontiac driven by Tina Horton-Ramey of 514 Sumner was in collision at Alcock and Davis with a 1979 Ford driven by Richard Rodgers Igau of 2570 Beech.

Flooding in Mississippi new record

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Record floodwaters poured over sections of the Pearl River levee today, turning more parking lots, front lawns and open fields into lakes and more Jackson residents into refugees.

"All my life I've heard about refugees, but I never believed I'd be one," said Robert C. Travis, a Jackson attorney forced to flee his northeast Jackson home.

President Carter designated the state a disaster area Monday, making 25 Mississippi counties and thousands of flood victims eligible for federal assistance.

Jackson city officials estimate 17,200 persons have been evacuated from their homes since Friday.

The National Weather Service said the Pearl River's record rise slowed today, standing at just over 43 feet — 25 feet above flood stage. Officials said they expected a crest of 43.1 feet later in the day. But they said the water, which was roof-deep on the city's northeast side, probably would not subside for several days.

At least four deaths were attributed to the flooding, authorities said.

In Alabama, record floodwaters raced down the state's two major rivers — the Tombigbee and the Alabama — after 12 inches of rain drenched parts of the state over the weekend and left at least six persons dead.

"We have survived these trying days and we will continue to survive the trying days ahead," Mayor Dale Danks said.

Danks said reports that the Ross Barnett Reservoir north of town had broken were not true.

"The dam at the reservoir is not breaking, I repeat — not breaking, and it is not being dynamited," Danks said.

CPR class tonight

The Gray County chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class tonight at 6:30 in its offices in city hall. Entrance to the building will be through the north doors.

Roloff to consolidate operations

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff, facing a possible showdown with state authorities over licensing, is consolidating most of his operations at a 440-acre campus in Corpus Christi, the Austin American-Statesman reported today.

The former Air Force base already houses Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls, his church, private home and airstrip.

The American-Statesman quoted Willie Cameron, director of the Rebekah Home, as saying about 40 adult alcoholics and narcotic addicts have been moved to the Corpus Christi location from Roloff's City of Refuge Home in Culloden, Ga.

By next fall, Cameron was quoted as saying, about 60 teen-age boys from Roloff's Anchor Home for Boys near Zapata also will be living at the Corpus Christi location.

Relocating the boys' home will require new construction at Corpus Christi but consolidation still would "reduce the expenses involved in operating widely separate facilities," Cameron said.

Roloff said in January that he would use about $5 million in the consolidation effort.

Weather

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms prompted the National Weather Service to issue a flash flood watch early today for a large portion of South Texas.

The flash flood watch covered all of South Texas along and south of a line from Victoria to Junction.

Heavy thunderstorms were also reported during the night in some portions of West Texas. Some street and roadway flooding was reported, mainly in the counties just west of Lubbock.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for most of Texas today. The heaviest activity was expected in South Texas.

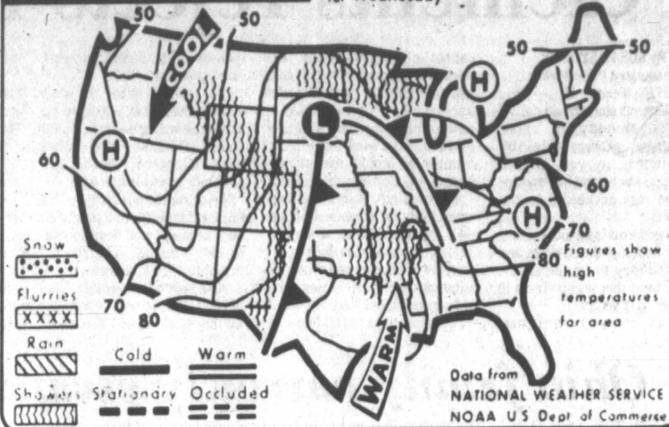

Afternoon highs were to be mostly in the lower 80s. The thunderstorm activity was triggered by a combination of abundant moisture from the Gulf of Mexico and an upper level disturbance.

Most of the state had clear to partly cloudy skies early today.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s with temperatures ranging from the 50s in the Panhandle and mountain valleys of Southwest Texas to the lower 70s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 52 at Marfa to 73 at San Antonio.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and have a year-old girl. Her father liked to sleep with me but didn't like the responsibility of being a father, so he left.

I swore I'd never get involved with another man like him again.

Now I have a man who is just the opposite. He wants the responsibility of being a father but doesn't like to sleep with me.

He's a businessman who says he's got business on his mind constantly and never thinks about making love.

We've been living together for a year and he's slept with me only twice. He told me he doesn't think we will ever sleep together again. He's loyal, stays home most of the time, doesn't drink, and is a good man. We work together in his store.

Do you think we will make it together?

CONFUSED IN MASS.

DEAR CONFUSED: All that's necessary for two people to "make it together" is for each to need the other. If you can live happily without sleeping with him, and he can live happily with things the way they are, there's no reason why you can't make it.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know the correct way to wear my wedding ring set. Which ring goes on first—the engagement ring or the wedding band? And what is the reason for it?

MRS. W.W.

DEAR MRS. W.: The wedding band goes on first. I don't know the reason for it, but I like to think that the wedding ring is closer to the heart.

DEAR ABBY: When Randy first started to date, he'd say: "The girl has no curfew, and I have to be in before SHE does. It's embarrassing."

Randy is our 16-year-old son, and I'd like to know what the parents of teen-age girls are thinking of.

We're not unreasonable, Abby. We ask Randy to leave the girl's house at 10 p.m. on school nights and 1 a.m. on weekends. If he's going to be held up for any reason, all we ask is a phone call.

This girl he has been seeing a lot of lately has just turned 16. She is under no restrictions on dating. Even when nothing special is planned, she asks Randy to come over and just sit around. Needless to say, we are in a constant state of worry. Our son has had a good upbringing, but even nice kids fall in love and get carried away. I'm afraid they're playing with fire. If Randy came to us and said he wanted to get married before he finished his education, we'd be heartsick.

Abby, please, please tell parents of girls to help parents of boys by curbing those dates and long hours! We love our children, and their well-being is the responsibility of both sets of parents. If this is too long to print, maybe you can shorten it and say it better.

RANDY'S WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I couldn't have said it any better, and I'm printing every word.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several years ago my husband had a liver biopsy and it was determined that he had a fatty liver. No cause was determined or treatment given. The reason for my present concern is that he often looks pale and is occasionally jaundiced. Is the condition permanent, recurring or correctable? Is there a specific regimen he should follow to prevent recurrence if it is correctable?

DEAR READER — Fatty liver literally means the accumulation of fat inside the liver structure. It can be caused by a variety of different forms of liver disease. One cause is a starvation diet or a severe low-carbohydrate diet.

When a person is depending on fat for most of his energy, the liver's normal fat processing ability is overwhelmed. In starvation the fat deposits in the body are mobilized and taken to the liver to be processed to release energy. Normally, the liver also uses carbohydrates and even proteins as sources of energy and there is a limit to how much fat it can process.

Fatty liver has also been noted in individuals with protein deficient diets. Beyond this, the fat deposits in the liver can occur with a number of diseases including diabetes. Any poison that damages the liver may result in fat deposits also. Although there are a number of chemicals that can do this, the most common cause is the excess use of alcohol.

In many instances, fat deposits in the liver are reversible. For example, if a person is on a protein-deficient diet, going on a balanced diet will help. The same thing is true if you're on a starvation diet and return to a sensible, well-balanced diet, the problem may disappear.

If it's related to diabetes, if diabetic problems can be adequately controlled, that may minimize the difficulty. When fatty liver is associated with the excess use of alcohol, elimination of the alcohol habit can result in reversal of the process.

I might also point out that cirrhosis of the liver, scarring and contraction of the liver after damage, is one of the 10 most common causes of death in the American population. In fact, it is the fourth most common cause in middle-aged American males.

About 60 percent of these are caused by excessive use of alcohol. Let me point out at once that this means that there are 40 percent that are associated with other diseases that affect the liver. Just because a person has cirrhosis of the liver doesn't mean that he or she is hitting the bottle.

Once a person has cirrhosis of the liver or liver damage of any type it is important that he not use alcohol in any form. Alcohol is toxic to the liver and can lead to further and significant damage.

FLYING A KITE is a breeze when you can roll along with the wind on a pair of skates. At least, that's what one youngster thinks as he celebrates the first day of spring and kite-flying weather.

Recipe for fun: 'Go fly a kite'

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Flying kites, says Ron Moss, is more fun than fishing because you can see what's on the string.

Then he tells about once playing out six miles of string for a kite that went so high he couldn't see it.

Because kite flying is fun, Moss got out of the automobile service-station business and into the kite-selling business.

He says he's got the only kite shop in Dayton and maybe the biggest one in the country.

"Kite flying has become respectable again," he said. "Time was when people saw a grown man out flying a kite, they just figured he was some kind of kook. Well, people don't feel that way any more."

Moss' store is filled to the ceiling with kites — at least 360 varieties in all sizes, colors and shapes: birds, insects, airplanes and sailing ships.

Prices range from 45 cents to $600 for his fanciest model. One that was handmade in China and has real gold embroidery sells for $190. Another is a miniature replica of the 1903 Wright Flyer airplane.

"This shop has a kind of hypnotic effect on people," said his wife, Pat Moss. "So many of them walk in, stop, look around and say, 'Wow! That's the kind of reaction we like to get from customers.'"

DEAR POLLY — I do hope you or some of the readers can tell me how to remove stains from my white polyester uniforms. I have tried several things and nothing worked and I do hate to have to throw them away. — Z.F.

DEAR Z.F. — Since your uniforms are white I suggest that you use a commercial color remover. Follow the directions carefully and check to be sure your uniforms are made of the right fabric for it. — POLLY

"Kite flying is a very stimulating hobby that always keeps you looking up," Moss mused. "It's just as much fun as fishing. And when you are flying a kite, you don't have to sit around waiting for something to get on your line."

"It used to be that all kites were made of paper," he said. "Now, new designs have been made possible by advances in aerodynamics. Kite flying, in turn, has become a very popular sport."

Moss, 45, said he became fascinated with kites when he was 4 years old and figures he has flown all kinds since then — like the one that used more than six miles of line.

"I figured she was up there 12,000, maybe 15,000 feet," he said. "I know one thing. I couldn't see the kite."

Recollections of flying a kite when things got slow at his service station brought a chuckle from Moss.

"A lot of times I had two or three kites up in the air behind the station," he said. "I'd tie them to the bumper of my car or to the wrecker. Customers would come in and ask, 'Who the heck is flying the kites?'"

"It's a nice hobby because it doesn't take a lot of time or a great deal of skill. It's a nice way to spend your lunch hour. It's, well, very relaxing."

Steambath moving from health club into the private bathroom

By BARBARA BASLER
AP Newsfeatures

Today, more and more Americans seem to believe that a pleasant experience, like an entertaining friend, should be invited into the home.

And in an age when more people are willing to spend more money to please and pamper themselves, the steambath — often the last stop after an afternoon of tennis, swimming or exercises — is moving out of the health club and into the bathrooms of thousands of American homes.

Moreover, manufacturers say we can find today's steambaths in modest homes and apartments, and not just in mansions.

Yet it was only 20 years ago that a plumbing contractor in New Jersey got what he considered a most unusual request — to install a steambath in an apartment 20 stories up. It was a lengthy, complicated, costly procedure and the total bill for that steambath came to $10,000.

Today, a steambath can be installed in most apartments and homes for about $1,000," says Richard Altman, vice-president of the firm his father — that New Jersey plumber — founded.

A professional home steambath can be assembled in several hours now, without damage to walls or floors. The bathtub or shower area is completely enclosed, and water lines are connected to a small, compact generator.

The generator, which is a bit larger than a breadbox, can be installed in a basement, attic or even in a bathroom vanity or closet.

The home steambath industry is still in its infancy, but it has been growing at a healthy rate.

"We've had the technology for more than 15 years, but now, with the emphasis on health and physical fitness, we have a product with mass appeal," says Neil White, president of Steamist Co., Inc., a steambath manufacturer.

There are steambaths in some 100,000 homes across the country, and in the next five years or so some industry observers expect to see them in half a million homes.

Altman says his firm, ThermaSol Ltd., estimates its business will increase 50 percent this year.

Of course, these projected growth rates fly in the face of the energy-conservation ethic. Obviously, installing a steambath will not help conserve energy or lower fuel bills.

But manufacturers say that a private steambath requires about the same amount of energy as a hot shower.

The average steambath runs about 20 minutes, and manufacturers estimate the cost per bath at 7 cents to 10 cents, depending on local utility rates.

Anyone interested in purchasing a steambath unit, however, should get the generator specifications and then check rates and costs with the consumer office of his local utility.

The steambath is both hot and "wet," with temperatures ranging from 100 to 130 degrees, and humidity close to 100 percent.

Some producers, advertisers and just plain devotees of the steambath claim it produces a "healthy, cleansing sweat," and helps improve everything from an acne condition to rheumatism.

One ad claimed a person could lose weight just by sitting in a steambath. But Dr. John Downey, a specialist in rehabilitation medicine at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, smiles at such claims.

"Normal sweating is necessary to maintain proper body temperature, but there is no particular virtue in massive sweating," Downey says.

Yes, he says, the heat of a steambath can help relieve general aches and pains and relax muscles. And the steam heat does help clean the skin. "But you can achieve the same effects by soaking in a hot tub of water and putting a hot washcloth on your face," he adds.

You're starting to plan your summer vacation, you may know a getaway spot that intrigues you, but while your budget can manage the plane fares, how can you stretch your dollars to cover the accommodations?

What you really would like is a vacation retreat in which you can meet the local people and learn about the area in depth. But how? Perhaps the Vacation Exchange Club is the answer you seek, for this is the unique organization that arranges for home exchanges in the U.S. and around the world for its members.

You list your own home for short-term occupancy by a member of the club. In turn, the organization's World Home Exchange Service supplies you with a directory listing homes on a temporary swap basis in such appealing vacation areas as Colorado, New England, the Northwest, Mexico, Canada, Europe and the Caribbean, among others.

A typical listing: "Switzerland: New chalet in village near Geneva... quiet, panoramic view; four bedrooms; three baths; skiing, riding, indoor tennis close by available during the summer and Christmas holidays. Owner prefers an exchange in Europe, the Mediterranean, or the Caribbean... Or, how about this? Exchange house on a wooded San Francisco hillside with a sunny garden and a view of the Bay area; parks nearby; beached, close to the wine country... Or Washington state Ranch. Farming country. Haul hay, feed cows, hike."

In addition to the comfort and economy of living in a home, the program has added advantages. There are no caretaker expenses for the home or garden. Members may even elect to exchange automobiles as part of their home-and-home stay, thereby eliminating car rental fees. Frequently, pets can be taken for the duration of the trip.

Council members take office oath

SHAMROCK - New city council officers were sworn into their positions Monday night during the regular monthly meeting of the board.

Dale Graig, a short term incumbent was reelected on the council while incumbent Lloyd "Butch" Cogburn was defeated by Jerry Berten for the second council seat.

"It was a general law election the two highest vote getters were awarded the seats," City Manager Kevin Evans said. "We had two incumbents running against two newcomers. One incumbent won and one lost."

The council took up two measures of business after the new members took their oath of office.

An audit report for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1978 was submitted to the council.

Payment for the audit was approved but not before some questions were raised about the amount of the auditors bill.

Stanley to speak during Wayne Copeland Crusade

The step-brother of the late singer Elvis Presley will be the featured speaker Wednesday night during the Wayne Copeland Crusade being held at the First Baptist Church.

Stanley will be giving his personal testimony during the crusade that begins nightly at 7:30 except Saturday.

Stanley was a personal bodyguard and aide to the late singer. According to Stanley he was probably one of the closest people to Presley.

The crusade will continue each evening this week with Rev. Copeland of Fort Worth speaking.

Copeland's wife, Judy, a ventriloquist, will also speak during the crusade.

Julie Warren will be a guest soloist during the nightly sessions and will be giving her personal testimony after singing.

The crusade will conclude with the Sunday morning service.

For more information about the crusade contact the First Baptist Church at 203 N. West.

"We reviewed the bill and felt that it was extremely high for a city of this size," Evans said. "The bill was for $9,639."

"We are looking at appointing other auditors for the city," Evans added. "In my opinion the bill was just too high."

A request was made to the council that a half block area in the 800 block of Main Street by rezoned from residential to convenience commercial.

The planning and zoning commission approved the request and submitted it to the board.

The board gave it's approval after hearing the land would not be developed immediately.

"The guy is just looking at the possibilities now," Evans said. "He has no plans to build on the land in the near future."

The board met in executive session after finishing the regular business meeting to discuss real estate.

"We aren't going to buy anything now we can't afford it," Evans said. "We were just looking at what is available to us."

Competency trial to be held for murder suspect

WHEELER - Officials will conduct a competency hearing Wednesday for a Michigan man believed to be the person that shot and killed a Los Angeles man near Shamrock on March 19.

Russell Eugene Galer, 24 of Utica, Michigan, was indicted for first degree murder by a grand jury of the 31st District Court in the shooting death of Charles William Hulén, 24.

Hulén was found about three miles west of Shamrock with a gunshot wound to the head after a motorist driving on a highway frontage road reported seeing a man roll what appeared to be a body off the side of the road.

District Clerk Paul Topper explained that the hearing was not a sanity hearing.

"The hearing is to see if he is competent to stand trial," Topper said.

Officials said Galer has undergone psychiatric examination in Amarillo.

Galer was arrested by Department of Public Safety officers about seven miles west of where Hulén's body was found. He was driving a army tank truck which reportedly was seen by motorist Bill Turnbow.

Galer reportedly had a loaded automatic pistol in his possession at the time of his arrest. Officers believe the pistol was the weapon used in the Hulén slaying.

Hulén was reportedly riding with Galer at the time of the shooting having asked the defendant for a ride in western Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma.

The slaying suspect has been held in the Wheeler County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

In Shamrock City offices nearing completion

By GREG HARDIN
Pampa News Managing Editor

SHAMROCK - All it takes is a little time, a little money and a lot of elbow grease. That's what Shamrock and Wheeler County officials are saying about the remodeling of Shamrock City offices.

The Wheeler County Commissioner's Court voted last October to allocate money in the 1979 budget to remodel the Shamrock police station, Department of Public Safety dispatcher's office, the Shamrock Fire Department, the Justice of the Peace offices, the offices of the constable and the deputy sheriff.

"There had been no major renovation to these facilities since the day we moved into them in 1959," Wheeler County Judge Wendell Morgan said. "It became necessary to do major remodeling in order to provide a facility to handle the needs of the residents."

Morgan said the remodeling included new lower ceilings, paneling in all the offices, the roof of the structure replaced, a new heating and air conditioning unit for the facilities.

Shamrock Police Chief George Hooten said the most modern design available was used in the remodeling.

"We did everything we could to save money," Hooten said. "We closed in a major portion of the windows in the structure in order to save energy."

The Wheeler County commissioners began the project by accepting bids for the construction and for local labor.

The anticipated cost of the project is between $ 5,000 and $18,000.

"We don't have a firm figure yet. There are several small items that need to be taken care of before the remodeling can be completed, but the money is already in the budget," Morgan said stressing that no adjustment to the 1979 budget was required for the remodeling.

The judge said that some court members had wanted to build a new structure but it was decided that the remodeling would be in the best interest of the public.

"The idea was to keep the county owned building where the public would have easy access to them on the occasions they need to use them," Morgan said. "Sometimes people wonder why the Commissioner's Court just didn't build a new building. Well, the building itself was sound and it cost a lot less to remodel than to build a new building to house all these facilities."

"I think that it will more than pay for itself (the remodeling)," the judge added.

Morgan said that the court was interested in providing what services were needed without dipping into the taxpayers pockets.

"We are here to provide a basic service that is required," Morgan said. "We are going to do that with the least amount of programs."

Officials said the renovation was started now simply because the funds were available.

"The money just wasn't here before," Morgan said. "It has been 20 years since those offices have been touched. The money came available so we used it for the project."

by Gil Phetteplace

Our family made the trip to Lawton, Oklahoma for the Easter Pageant. I was most surprised at some of the prayers overheard.

Lord, I never mean to break the commandments but sometimes when I'm experimenting with how far they'll stretch, they suddenly snap.

Oh Lord, couldn't You have told me that at the end of the tunnel was another tunnel.

When I look back on the dreadful sins of my youth, Lord, and try to repent of them, I always end up feeling envious.

I even overheard myself asking, "Lord, what do I say to my youngest son when he asks, 'Why did God quit making dinosaurs?'"

Lord, Thank you for all you have given us here at Phetteplace Shoes. We needed that!

You'll have many opportunities this coming year for making quick gains, but consider partnership arrangements because they could double your luck.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are quick to respond today and you'll have no trouble staying one step ahead of the competition. However, tread lightly when dealing with friends. How to get along with others is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that starts with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make judgments based on your first reactions today, because you have a tendency to over-analyze things and distort the facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friend may offer some tempting diversions today, but you'd better care for your responsibilities first or you could find yourself in hot water.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take advantage of the little breaks in your routine today to have a little fun. Feeling too tied down will make you fretful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do what needs to be done as each job pops up, and your day will run smooth. Excuses that cause delays will create a mess you didn't bargain for.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can have fun and enjoy yourself today without spending a bundle. Check out prices before you get involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're apt to be more generous toward others than toward yourself today. You deserve equal treatment, so don't be hard on yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is nothing wrong with your ideas today, but your negative attitude might cancel any opportunities you might have to put them to use.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Follow your hunches. Don't let some fast-talking salesman convince you that you need something you don't. Buy only what you desire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to keep things on the light side today. If you take work or even play too seriously you'll try too hard and could become pushy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those things that come naturally are the ones that should be pursued today. Leave the clever, new ideas to the other guy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Throw out a lot of ideas or possible solutions, but don't actually get involved in another's affairs. You don't need added problems.

NBA playoff action continues

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The San Antonio Spurs hope to break a playoff pattern tonight when they take on the Philadelphia 76ers in the second game of their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Last year the Spurs won the National Basketball Association's Central Division, got a bye through the first round of the playoffs and then beat a weary Washington team in their series opener. But the Bullets came back to win the second game and eventually take the best-of-seven series en route to the NBA title.

This year the Spurs again won the Central Division and drew a first-round bye. Again they won the opener of the Eastern Conference semifinals, this time beating a tired Philadelphia club 119-106 on Sunday.

The pattern is familiar, and the Spurs are well aware of it. "We were kind of cocky last year. We haven't forgotten that," said Spurs guard George Gervin, the NBA scoring champion the last two years. "This year we've got our confidence, but we're not cocky."

The Spurs are also out to break a string of playoff futility. The Dallas-San Antonio franchise has been in 11 playoff series, but since winning its first set in 1968 it has lost 10 in a row.

In the other East semifinal, the NBA's defending champion Washington Bullets will go for a 2-0 lead tonight when they face the Atlanta Hawks in Landover, Md.

Meanwhile, the two West semifinals get under way tonight in Seattle and Kansas City. The Seattle SuperSonics, who reached the playoff finals a year ago, play host to the Los Angeles Lakers while the Phoenix Suns entertain the Kansas City Kings, surprise winners of the Midwest Division.

Spurs Coach Doug Moe has no intention of letting his team take tonight's game lightly. "We remember what happened last year," said Moe. "Something like that doesn't pop out of your mind. We came out flat that second game. We have got to keep the same enthusiasm. We'll have to find a way to keep each other charged up."

The Sixers, meanwhile, have to find a way to get themselves charged up after a lackluster performance in the series opener, when they fell behind by 18 points at halftime and by 26 points early in the third period and never really threatened.

Coach Billy Cunningham is hoping a day of rest will do the trick. His team finished its first-round series Friday night, then had a long flight Saturday and got little rest prior to Sunday's game. The Spurs, meanwhile, had a week off after receiving a first-round bye.

"There's no question the rest helped the Spurs," said Cunningham. "We were just a step slow. You'll see a different team on Tuesday."

Atlanta battled Washington on even terms through most of their series opener before the Bullets pulled away with an 18-4 burst at the end. The Hawks managed just one basket and a pair of free throws in the final 5:22, and their shot selection did not please Coach Hubie Brown.

"I was happy with our physical effort, but we played dumb basketball," said Brown. "You can't do that against a team like Washington and expect to win."

But Brown was buoyed by the draw first-round byes. Washington and San Antonio, won their series openers with ease.

Seattle finished the season as the league's top defensive team, allowing 103.9 points per game. The Suns' starting guards, Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams, are particularly adept at applying defensive pressure.

Los Angeles got by Denver 112-111 in the final game of their first-round series on Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's sky-hook basket with 12 seconds remaining. "It was just great that Kareem made that last shot," said Lakers Coach Jerry West.

IS INFLATION OUR REAL PROBLEM?

AN OPINION AS WE SEE IT.

IS INFLATION OUR REAL PROBLEM? NO, IT ISN'T. Our inflation is just the inevitable and result of our follies. What then are the real causes of our national situation? HERE THEY ARE

1. Spending exorbitant sums of taxpayers' money unwisely by our government.
2. Inhibiting the initiatives of the people with frustrating bureaucratic regulations.
3. Taxing savings and capital formation to death.
4. Government programs which have created critical shortages of essential materials and energy.
5. Giving away billions of dollars to foreign governments.
6. Wasting untold money on foreign wars.
7. Tinkering with the economic machinery with unsound panaceas.
8. Forsaking our religious heritage, not only in our schools, but everywhere; thus, accentuating crime, immorality, greed and selfishness.

Indy 500 expected to be exciting

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Speeds might not come anywhere near Tom Sneva's record of more than 202 mph at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year, but the defending U.S. Auto Club national champion says it still should be an exciting show.

"You take 95 percent of the spectators, they don't know what kind of car you're running. They just know if the race is close and competitive," says Sneva.

The lower speeds are anticipated because of a recent USAC rule change which reduced the manifold pressure for 8-cylinder engines.

That change was one of the major objections voiced by Championship Auto Racing Teams, a group of car owners and drivers who broke with USAC last year, then threatened to boycott the May 27 Indy 500 unless it was given more control.

Sneva, whose car owner Jerry O'Connell is aligned with the rebel group, said the question of boost was not one of his big concerns.

"I think in the past we've seen that as we've restricted horsepower we've had better racing," Sneva said Monday in a telephone interview from his home at Spokane, WASH. "And we've got to be entertaining. That's got to be our prime concern."

"If the boost was unlimited, it would be a poor show, even though speeds would be higher. But obviously people's ideas differ on that respect, so you have the problem you have now," Sneva said.

Sneva won the pole position last year at an average speed of 202.156 mph. He finished second in the race to Al Unser.

Sneva said the feud between CART and USAC must be resolved for the good of the sport.

"What you have now is both sides unwilling to compromise," he said. "But the way to get things done is to work together. Now, it's the spectator who's getting hurt."

CART, whose drivers include former Indy winners Al and Bobby Unser, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock, threatened to stage its own $1 million race on the same day as Indy unless USAC raised the boost and gave CART an equal voice in technical inspection of the cars.

USAC refused to budge, and CART finally submitted 44 entries late last week, although CART President Pat Patrick said that was done only to meet Sunday's entry deadline. He said the group would continue to press its demands.

The Speedway said Monday a record 100 cars had been nominated for the 33-car starting field. The lineup will be determined in two weekends of time trials May 12-13 and May 19-20.

Hayes begins prison term

DALLAS (AP) — Olympic gold medalist and former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Bob Hayes has started serving a five year prison term following his conviction on a charge of selling cocaine to an undercover officer.

Prosecutors said Hayes, 36, could be free in 10 months on good behavior.

Hayes pleaded guilty last month to selling cocaine in March of 1978 to an undercover police officer, and elected to have his sentence set by the judge.

State District Judge Richard Mays sentenced Hayes on March 23 to five years each on two counts of selling cocaine, with sentences to run concurrently.

Running results

AMARILLO—Two Pampa runners placed in competition over the weekend in the running of the West Texas Running Club. The competition took place in Amarillo.

Jim Hogan of Pampa finished third in the men's open division with a time of 28:02. That course was one that covered five miles.

Also, Don Braswell of Pampa took fifth in the same event with a clocking of 29:52. Winning first in the five-mile event was Cliff McCurdy of Lubbock with a time of 26:34. Hogan and Braswell were the only Pampans that placed in the competition.

Meeting set

The F.I.R. slow-pitch league of Pampa will have its final organizational meeting Monday night, April 23 at 701 E. 14th at 7 p.m. All new teams and players are urged to attend. For more information, contact Danny Strawn at 665-4430.

Rodgers wins Boston Marathon

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Hometown boy Bill Rodgers, the superstar marathoner with a fiery will to win, has renewed his claim to the elusive title as the world's top runner of the grueling road race.

"I could taste that third win," the 31-year-old former school teacher said Monday after wearing down Japan's Toshihiko Seko to set an American record in winning the 83rd Boston Marathon. "I didn't want someone to take it away."

The 5-foot-9, 128-pounder from Melrose, Mass., ran away from Seko on the famed "Heartbreak Hill" to win his third Boston event in 2 hours, 9 minutes, 27 seconds. It broke the U.S. record he set in 1975, winning his first Boston race in 2:09.55.

The victory Monday, by 45 seconds over Seko, was a near-breeze down the homestretch through cold rain. Rodgers won the 1978 race in 2:10.13 by only two seconds over Jeff Wells of Dallas in the closest 26-mile, 385-yard event on record.

Seko, a 23-year-old college student in Japan, and the winner of the Fukuoka International Marathon in his homeland last December, ran with Rodgers for 20 miles before his legs went numb on the third of a brutal series of hills in Newton, Mass.

Rodgers, who has won the Fukuoka race along with back-to-back victories in New York City's young but prestigious marathon, was beaten by Seko last December.

On the run from rustic Hopkinton to Boston, Rodgers said athletes tend to get overconfident, explaining, "You have to restrain yourself. And you have to make your move at the right time."

For the victorious Connecticut native, now operator of a running store located along the Boston Marathon route, that charge came as Seko was struggling uphill.

Rodgers blasted 15 yards ahead on the big incline and widened his lead. Police escort motorcycles had to move quickly to stay ahead of the hard-driving champion, whose goal is to win an Olympic gold medal at the Moscow Olympics.

Seko finished 200 yards behind in 2:10.12, followed by Robert Hodge, a Greater Boston Track Club stablemate of Rodgers, in 2:12.30. Veteran Tom Fleming of Bloomfield, N.J., a two-time Boston runnerup, was the early pacesetter in the record field of more than 7,800 qualified entrants, but he faded to fourth.

Gary Bjorklund of Minneapolis was fifth in 2:13.14, as a remarkable 54 runners finished the race in under 2:20—a time that would have been good enough to win the Boston race three years ago.

Routing out the top 10: New Zealand's Kevin Ryan, 2:13.57; Bobby Doyle, Central Falls, R.I., 2:14.04; Randy Thomas of Wellesley, Mass., and the Greater Boston Track Club, 2:14.42; Herman Atkins, Everett, Wash., 2:14.17; and Richard Mahoney, Weymouth, Mass., 2:14.36.

Joan Benoit, a Bowdoin College senior from Brunswick, Maine, won the women's division race, setting a record in dominating a field of more than 500 in 2:35.15. In a special wheelchair race for 20 handicapped persons, Ken Archer, 30, of Akron, Ohio, won in 2:38.59 over the regulation course.

Canada's Jerome Drayton, who won the Boston race in 2:14.46 two years ago, settled for 11th place—one second slower than in 1977. And 1972 Olympic gold medalist Frank Shorter from Boulder, Colo., finished 79th in 2:21.56.

Harrah pilots Indian victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

While Fred Lynn continues to crack pitches, Toby Harrah is just happy to break the ice.

"I've been hitting the ball hard all year and coming up with nothing," said the Cleveland Indian third baseman after finally seeing one of his shots turn into something.

Harrah hit a two-run homer Monday to help the Indians take a 4-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

"It was just a matter of time," added Harrah, who incidentally accounted for his team's first homer of the year as well.

The same might have been said of Rick Wise, who won his first game of the year after two losses.

"It's been a long time for that win," noted Wise. "It just feels gratifying."

Lynn, meanwhile, continued his home run assault, hitting his fifth of the young season—all of them off Cleveland pitching.

In other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Kansas City Royals 10-4; the Chicago White Sox stopped the Toronto Blue Jays 9-4 and the Oakland A's trimmed the Seattle Mariners 4-2.

Harrah's two-run shot keyed a three-run fifth that provided the Indians with their winning margin. Wise surrendered six hits before getting relief help from Sid Monge in the seventh.

Tigers 10, Blue Jays 4
Steve Kemp, Aurelio Rodriguez and Alan Trammell drove in two runs each to lead Detroit over Kansas City. Kemp had a two-run single in the second inning and later added a double and a single. Rodriguez singled in a run in the third and knocked in a run in the seventh with a grounder. Trammell singled in two runs in the seventh.

Kemp's 3-for-5 performance improved his batting average to a lustrous .467.

White Sox 8, Blue Jays 4
Alan Bannister, Lamar Johnson and Bill Nahorodny each smacked two-run doubles as Chicago exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to beat Toronto. Rookie Randy Scarberry picked up the victory in relief in his major league debut.

A's 4, Mariners 2

Rob Picciolo got his first two hits of the season, including a game-winning triple in the fourth inning, as Oakland beat Seattle. Picciolo, the A's shortstop, was 0-for-22 before he singled in the second inning. In the fourth, his triple to right-center scored Mike Edwards from third base, breaking a 1-1 tie, and Picciolo came home on a passed ball by catcher Bob Stinson.

Ted Hendry joins striking ump's

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "It was the easiest decision of my life," said American League umpire

Ted Hendry, who has filed notice that he is terminating his contract to join his 51 non-working colleagues.

Hendry, a rookie umpire, had signed a contract with the AL before the current contract dispute began and was advised by the Major League Umpires Association to honor his agreement. He did until last weekend, when he decided to submit his resignation.

"I want to be with my brothers," said Hendry, who was greeted warmly by about a dozen umpires who attended a press conference called by attorney Richie Phillips.

Hendry said he was embarrassed by the level of officiating he had seen during the two weeks he had worked.

"I've been so humiliated," he said. "Most of the guys who are working don't want to work. They're scared. After one game, one of the ump's I worked with, I don't know his name, told me a player had cursed him out and called him a homer." I said, "Why didn't you run him?" He said, "You think I should have?" Hey, I've missed some in my time, but that one's easy."

Hendry worked last weekend in Oakland and said the ball and strike calls in Sunday's game between the A's and California Angels "were embarrassing."

Hendry and Paul Pryor were the only umpires to sign 1979 contracts and begin the season on duty. Pryor submitted his resignation the first week of the season. After a 10-day termination period, he completed his contractual obligations over the weekend. Hendry will work 10 days and then join the other umpires in the dispute.
