During a drawing Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17, at the Haskell Model Airport, a "Windspar" Sailplane will be awarded to a lucky spectator at the radio controlled sailplane contest.

The plane has a 78 inch wingspan, and is controlled by a two-channel single stick radio. The radio operates the rudder and elevator to fly the plane.

Anyone attending the two-day Sailplane Contest may register to be eligible to win the plane. It will come ready to fly with radio installed. The Haskell Model Airport is located three miles east of Haskell at the old landfill site.

Junior Justin Coker, injured in the first game of the season, was back in limited action. Making plays on both defense and offense were juniors Matt Arendall, Tony Navarrette and Murray; sophomores Jason Custer, Bobby Flores and Kyle Falkner and freshmen Trey Kittley and Carlos Flores.

Rule travels to Jayton on Fri. night, Oct. 8 for a 7:30 p. m. District 4 Six-Man opener. The Jaybirds are ranked #18 in the state's top six-man teams.

Indians to open District Friday night

Friday night at Indian Field, the Haskell Indians will open District 2-A play when they meet the Olney Cubs. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Coming into district play, Olney supports a 5-0 record while the Indians are 4-1.

Haskell, off to its best start in a few seasons, comes into the game from an open week. Having played their first play date of the season back in August, they had an open date coming into district.

Haskell's rushing game is lead by fullback Jason Trammell, with 72 rushes for 567 yards. Quarterback Casey Riley has 54 rushes for 136 yards; tailback Dustin Threet has 30 rushes for 133 yards; and wingback Micah New has 22 rushes for 116 yards.

Quarterback Riley has thrown for over 300 yards in non-district play. In five games, Haskell has scored 100 points, while holding their opponents to 64 points.

Olney, on the other hand, has scored 195 points while giving up just 43. As one of the pre-season picks in 9-2A, Olney will be one of the best teams the Indians will face in the '99 campaign.

The coaching staff is urging everyone to come out and support the Indians as they begin the district race.

The 7th, 8th and JV teams will play in Olney on Thurs., Oct. 7. Game time there is 4:00 p.m. for the 7th grade game. The 8th and JV game will follow immediately.

Haskell's 7th grade team is undefeated with a 4-0 record. The 8th grade is 1-3, while the JV is 4-

4-H'ers pledge: My Head to clearer thinking: Young people today have numerous career options to choose from, many more than their parents or grandparents did. But today's youth also must be better prepared. The future will belong to those who can think clearly and are prepared to meet the challenge of a changing society and workforce. Programs in 4-H prepare young people to think clearly. Workforce preparation programs expose young people to different career choices and prepare them to enter the workforce with confidence. Camps and conferences provide young people with hands-on learning experience in fun, interactive settings. Judging contests evaluate a young competitor's knowledge, speaking skills and decisionmaking abilities. The world is changing rapidly, but 4-H'ers will be ready to meet the challenge. They have been preparing their heads for clearer thinking to enable loyalty requires commitment, faithfulness, understanding and caring. These are building blocks of a productive, rewarding life. They are also at the center of 4-H programs and activities. In 4-H, young people learn the value of helping others. They learn to become concerned, productive citizens by understanding the history and character of their communities and donating their time to community service projects. They learn to nurture relationships - both human and based on trust, responsibility, respect and understanding. They discover the importance of cooperating with others, sharing experiences, appreciating diversity and setting

My Hands to larger service: Learning how to serve goes right to the heart of valuable life lessons. By pledging their hands to greater service, 4-H members learn marketable skills, responsibility, commitment, teamwork and leadership. They experience the satisfaction of a job well done, the self-esteem that comes from knowing they made a difference, the flush of pride in reviewing a finished project and the warm feeling of camaraderie that comes from working as a team. And My Health to better living: It's difficult growing up today. The health issues youth face go well beyond geographic and social boundaries. Drug and alcohol use/abuse, sexually transmitted diseases, poor nutrition and teen

Young people are also struggling with problems involving stress, gangs, violence and managing money. 4-H health programs take a pro-active approach to these issues and focus on prevention education rather then treatment and intervention. In addition to these programs, 4-H provides teens with opportunities to become effective peer leaders, mentors and positive role models. In 4-H, being healthy means feeling good both inside and out and being in harmony with friends, family, school and community.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — How well would you do if asked to write about the arrival of a spaceship and what you would like to see on public television?

The 2,530 Texas eighth-grade students who took a national writing examination in 1998 wrote about those very things and scored higher on average than eighthgraders nationwide.

Results of the National Assessment of Educational Progress showed the percentage of Texas eighth-graders who scored at or above the "proficient" level — 31 percent — was greater than that of eighth-graders in public schools nationwide, which was 24 percent.

In a state-by-state comparison, eighth-graders in Texas, Connecticut, Maine and Massachusetts demonstrated the highest average writing performance among the 35 states that participated in the writing exam.

Texas' minority and low-income eighth-graders outperformed minority and economically disadvantaged eighth-graders from the rest of the country.

Gov. George W. Bush said he was particularly pleased "that our minority and low-income students are outperforming others throughout the country."

State Education Commissioner Jim Nelson said Texas' school accountability system has "forced schools to pay special attention to those students and to devote additional time and resources to helping those students succeed in school."

Bush Reluctant to Grant Pardons

Two dozen people rallied at the governor's mansion Sept. 27 to ask Gov. Bush to review cases of Texans jailed for nonviolent drug offenses.

They brought up an earlier statement by Bush in which he said he made "mistakes" as a younger man, although Bush never admitted to having used illegal drugs.

They implored Bush to determine whether sentences could be commuted and to pardon those who have served their sentences.

Linda Edwards, the governor's spokeswoman, said Bush is reluctant to grant pardons "because of his basic belief that those who commit crimes should suffer the consequences for those crimes."

The list, in the comptroller's exhibit, includes forgotten bank accounts, uncashed checks, rent and utility deposits, mineral royalties and insurance proceeds. More than $700 million is waiting to be claimed.

At the 1998 State Fair, more than 28,000 people searched the list and claimed more than $270,000.

The list will be published in Texas newspapers on Sunday, Oct. 17 — the last day of the fair.

The list also is available on the Comptroller's Internet site: www.cpa.state.tx.us.

On Sept. 24, a new statue of Martin Luther King Jr. was unveiled on the campus of the University of Texas. It is the first statue of an African-American to be erected on the 116-year-old campus, The Dallas Morning News reported. Martin Luther King III spoke at the dedication attended by more than 2,000 people.

At a public hearing of the Texas Lottery Commission, a dozen Texas Lottery players protested a proposal to increase the number of lottery balls from 50 to 54. Chances of winning the jackpot would be reduced from about one in 16 million to one in 26 million. The worse odds, the fewer the players, the protesters argued.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

In the first book I owned, A Child's Garden of Verses, Robert Louis Stevenson wrote that, "The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings." And so we should be, but we aren't always, are we? We get bored.

Have you ever been in that state when you vaguely wanted something but didn't know what, so you went in the kitchen and ate another cookie? For just a few moments your eyes roll back in sweet communion with Sarah Lee's chocolate chips, but as soon as you get the sweet taste out of your mouth, you are back in the old feeling of restlessness again. No doubt, a lot of people have been bored into obesity by such momentary gratification. And no doubt in perhaps more serious ways, many have found their life in a real nightmare because of their constant need for momentary gratification.

Why are we so impatient if we are not being entertained by life when and how we want it?

In a TV documentary a few years ago, boredom was described as being that condition when you'd rather be somewhere else but don't know how to get there.

In our country we spend a lot of time trying "to get there." We are pretty demanding of life; almost as if we think it owes us happiness as an inalienable right. (Even our constitution offers us only the right to the pursuit of it.) With all the things available in and going on in our modern world, why do we get bored and run out of things to make us happy?

It is interesting that the word "boredom" didn't even appear in the English language until sometime in the 19th century. Before that, I suppose people were just too busy surviving to be bored, except for the very wealthy who took up hunting or went out on crusades.

In our time boredom is a deadly disease that seems to be spreading. A survey taken reported that 40% of American workers say they are bored with their job. In our impatient, quick-fix mentality and short attention span, we constantly look for ways to relieve our boredom. We sometimes work at it harder than we do our regular work.

We even do strange things to cure ourselves of boredom; everything from bungee jumping to collecting string. I hear that people who live in the plains of Nebraska and the Dakotas sometimes go to Iowa for excitement. (That's pretty strange, but there is no accounting for whatever turns us on, I guess.)

Boredom is said to be also a state of the spirit. Experts can't agree on the causes of it but certain insights keep coming up in the studies. When people feel in harmony and in balance with their world, they do not succumb to harmful boredom. When they believe that they are a part of a divine plan they are not easily bored. When we find ourselves terribly bored, maybe we need to assess our goals and ask ourselves if this dream we have (that we think would relieve our boredom) is worth our whole life

If our future seems bleak with nothing to relieve our deadly disease of boredom, perhaps we can find something from the past that we can build on. We certainly could not be where we are standing today if it were not for our past. It is a part of our reason for living today. Its influence is with us in spite of its shortcomings.

Sometimes we are so caught up with what we don't have in our lives that we can't see what we really do have; things that are so much more valuable than the elusive things we keep pursuing but never find.

There is a story told of a serious young man in Japan, who despaired from boredom in his life. He arranged his circumstances so that he was able to spend three years in a monastery studying with a master teacher of the art of Zen. At the end of that time he told his mentor that he was leaving because he had not made any progress in find something that meant anything in

The old man said, "You have been here three years already. Why don't you stay at least three more months?" The young man did and at the end of that time, he said again that there was absolutely nothing in his life.

"Look, you have been here three years and three months, why don't you stay at least three weeks more?" the old teacher said. At the end of three weeks of study the young man said he was leaving, after finding nothing to give him any pleasure or meaning for his

"Here is what you must do," the wise old man said. "Stay just three more days to think about it and if at the end of that time you haven't found any enlightenment for living, commit suicide." With that perspective in mind, toward the end of the second day, the young man suddenly attained enlightenment.

When life goes from merely boring to empty and unbearable, maybe the words of my first little book have more to say than just childish verse. If we honestly look around us, even in Haskell, Texas, the world is indeed full of a number of things that should make us as happy as Robert Louis Stevenson assumed all kings to be.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Haskell Co. Farm Bureau Board of Directors would like to say a big "thank you" to the county schools' Ag. Dept. and sponsors, the 4-H Chapters and sponsors, PALS and sponsors, County Extension Office and personnel, members that brought farm equipment, Judge David Davis for cooking the hamburgers and Dr. Tom Hairgrove for furnishing the hamburger patties and all the folks that helped with "AG in the Classroom Field Day."

We hope this was a learning experience for the fourth grade students of the county and taught them why we promote agricultureour way of life.

Sincerely. Joe Wheatley, Pres. Haskell Co. Farm Bureau and Board of Directors

Dear Editor:

We realize that what we are expressing is merely the feelings of literally thousands of people, but we, none the less, want to pay a final tribute to one of the grandest personalities that Haskell has ever produced.

Raja Hassen was the embodiment of a TRUE gentleman-one of a dying breed. He loved everyone he met and treated each individual with the utmost respect. He not only loved Haskell and worked tirelessly for her betterment, but also was one of her most devoted ambassadors.

Raja was the finest example of a true Christian. The example he set for multitudes is virtually untarnished. His care of his family members was beyond anything that most people can conceive.

There are no words to begin to describe this fine man-but we simply wanted to, one more time, say "thank you, Raja." for blessing our lives-and "Thanks be to God," for sharing him with us. Our loss is definitely Heaven's gain.

Prevent Wildtires!

Fire Prevention Week is October 3-10 and it's the perfect time to learn about fire prevention in and around your home. This year's extremely dry conditions present a need for a focus on wildfire prevention.

HASKELL'S NEWLY COMPLETED GRASS FIRE TRUCK-This grass firefighting truck has recently been completed by Haskell Volunteer Fire Dept. Many man hours were required to convert the basic truck to a grass fire truck. This unit, finished earlier this year, has been used to fight rural wildfires.

Prevent fire danger around your home:

- 1. Control vegetation within 30 feet of your home.
- 2. Keep trees and brush away from power lines.
- 3. Space trees at least 25-30 feet apart.
- 4. Install spark arrester on chimney.
- 5. Keep roof and gutters clean.
- 6. In rural areas, know where existing water sources can be found, such as ponds, that can be used as a source of water for fire trucks.
- 8. Stack firewood away from home.

NEW CONCEPT IN GRASS FIRE EQUIPMENT-This track vehicle, donated by the Texas Forestry Service, was converted by members of the Haskell Fire Dept. and Haskell County Precinct 1 employees to aid in firefighting in the county's rough and rugged areas. It will be painted later this year. This is the department's second track vehicle

HASKELL'S WATER HAULING TANKER-This 5,000 gallon tanker unit has been converted from a fuel tanker by members of the Haskell Fire Dept. to help aid in the transportation of water to remote areas. The unit, donated by the Texas Forestry Service, is complete except for a coat of paint.

Prevent fire danger in your home:

- 1. Have your furnace or heating system checked by a competent service company at least once a year.
- 2. Take special care with fireplaces. Use a spark screen to prevent sparks from flying and be sure the chimney is unblocked and free of excessive creosote accumulation. Fireplace fires are very common.
- 3. Keep combustible items away from all heating units.
- 4. At any sign of electrical trouble, shut off power to the circuit and have it checked by a good electrician.
- 5. Check cords and plugs frequently for signs of broken insulation or frayed wires.
- 6. Keep matches and cigarette lighters away from children.

Practice home fire drills. Know your exits. Check your smoke detectors. Don't wait until it's too late!

Rule buzzes during annual Jubilee

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, things were buzzing in Rule, as they kicked off their annual Chamber of Commerce Rule Jubilee with a parade.

Floats, cars, decorated bicycles and people walking filled the street.

Following the parade, more activities began in Slim Sorrells Park. After the playing of the National Anthem, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts led in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. A cakewalk, bean guessing contest and other booths were set up with something for everyone to enjoy.

Special entertainment was presented by Larry and Susan LeFevre; Ronnie and Lou Landes, Ford Cole and Dickie Greenwood.

At 5:30, a hamburger supper was prepared and served in the Park by the Chamber of Commerce.

Parade winners were as follows: Float Division

1. Luther Meyers Family --"What Happened to the Good Ole

2. Village Primatives -- "Dr. Tate's Traveling Medicine Show." 3. Rule Banking Center.

Youth Division 1. Heather Flannery -- "One to Two Thousand and Beyond."

2. Chandler Roberson--decorated 4-wheeler 3. Kristi Judd --decorated bike.

Glenn R. Brzozowski, County Executive Director of the Haskell County FSA Office, has announced that the next Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general signup will be held a 4-week period from January 18 through February 11,

This will be an opportunity for farmers and landowners to participate in a cost effective, voluntary program to improve their land, water and wildlife resources and lock in a multiyear payment based on local rental rates. It will be an opportunity for participants with contracts expiring next fall to make new contract offers.

UDA will continue to evaluate

and rank eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI), which is based on the potential environmental benefits gained from allowing the land in the CRP. Decisions on the EBI cutoff will be made after signup 20 ends. The EBI cutoff used in previous signups may not be used for this one. The cutoff is decided after analyzing the EBI numbers of all the offers. Those who have met previous signup EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract under signup 20.

"CRP is a highly successful and competitive program," said Brzozowski. "I encourage all landowners to find out about the EBI before the February 11, 2000, deadline and to consult with local USDA experts on steps they can take to maximize EBI points and increase the likelihood that their bid will be accepted."

The EBI in place for the 20th signup is very similar to the EBI used for last year's signup.

The Farm Service Agency is authorized to maintain CRP enrollment up to 36.4 million acres. Approximately 31.5 million acres will be enrolled in CRP contracts as of October 1, 1999. About 400 thousand acres currently subject to CRP contracts will expire on September 30, 2000. The contracts awarded under signup 20 will become effective October 1, Producers can avoid the highly competitive EBI under the general signup by enrolling the most environmentally desirable land under CRP's continuous signup program. Under the continuous signup, relatively small amounts of land serving much larger areas, such as filter strips, riparian buffers and grass waterways, can be enrolled at any time.

Normal eligibility requirements apply, but the competitive nature of the EBI is waived because of the highly environmentally-desirable nature of the practices available.

The CRP is designed to improve the nation's natural resource base. Participants voluntarily enter into contracts with USDA to enroll erodible and other environmentally sensitive land in long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

The program protects millions of acres of American topsoil from erosion. By reducing water runoff and sedimentation, it also protects groundwater and helps improve the condition of lakes, rivers, ponds and streams. Acreage enrolled in the CRP is planted to resourceconserving (vegetative) covers, which make the program the major contributor to increase in wildlife population in many parts of the it's time to realize that the school, for all its importance in teaching your children the basic skills of life, is actually the second stage of their education. The first is in the home, where they should learn manners, unselfishness, the difference between right and wrong, and respect for authority and the rights of others, before they take even the first step out of the house; because the outside world begins right on your doorstep. Moreover, the character they develop during these years will remain with them all through life, so this early training should also include an education in faith, in the Sunday school at the Church of your choice.

As the approaching school season appears on the horizon,

Special activities of the year

Two jury trials held in Haskell

Haskell County Attorney Bill Jones prosecuted two jury trials Thurs., Sept. 30 and both trials resulted in convictions. Haskell County Judge David Davis heard the cases and pronounced sentence in both trials at the request of the defendants.

Henry Lerma was found guilty of burglary of a motor vehicle and Judge Davis sentenced him to one year in Haskell County Jail and ordered him to pay a fine of $4,000.00. This was the maximum sentence. Lerma was represented by Haskell attorney Andrew Ottaway. In the second trail, Samuel Eldridge Wade was found guilty of driving while intoxicated second offense and also found guilty of driving while license invalid. Judge Davis sentenced him to a $2,500.00 fine and one year in Haskell County Jail on the first count, but suspended the sentence for two years. On the driving while license invalid count, he was sentenced to a $500.00 fine and 6 months in Haskell County Jail. Judge Davis suspended the jail sentence only for a period of two years. In both cases, the defendant was ordered to pay court costs and probation fees. Wade was also represented by Ottaway.

Social Security

A representative from the Social Security Administration will be in Haskell at the old City Hall annex, 305 N. 1st, Thurs., Oct. 7 at 9:30 a.m.
