"Although the intensified enforcement has ended, drivers and passengers in this jurisdiction still need to remember the importance of wearing safety belts. Safety belts save lives and prevent serious injuries, and we will continue to watch for people who are violating the state's safety belt and child safety seat laws," he said.

Cowboy artist to lead WHPD parade

Parade Marshal for the annual Wild Horse Prairie Days parade Fri., June 6 is Texas artist Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia.

Dr. Wyatt explains his talent with brush and paint as a 'gift from God.' He sees paintings in his soul and pushes the paint around until it looks like what he sees inside.

A Texan by birth, he grew up in the chalk hill country of Central Texas. He maintains his base studio and home in Tulia with additional studios in Red River, New Mexico and Naples, Florida.

Before stepping before his easel and picking up his brush, he already knows what his masterpiece will be. He paints cowboys, cattle stampedes with streaks of lightning, chuck wagons, broncobusters, windmills, bluebonnets, snow-capped mountains or whatever pleases his art collector.

He also enjoys sculpture and poetry.

His roles in life include author, lecturer, magician, poet and the cowboys say he is the best painter of the horse that every was.

His art graces the walls and home of presidents and queens, Hollywood and television personalities and stars of the music world. Cowboys and waitresses save their tips to buy his prints.

From giant murals to mini sculptures, Kenneth Wyatt is an artist.

Wyatt will lead the downtown parade in Haskell at 5 p.m.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
James E. Rodgers, CPA

IRS TAX UPDATE – JUNE 2008
 Here's a quick review of some recent IRS rulings and news releases.

•Business vehicle depreciation limits. For business cars first placed in service in 2008, the first-year depreciation limit is $10,960 if the car is new and $2,960 if the car is used. The $8,000 difference is due to bonus first-year depreciation on new vehicles provided in the 2008 economic stimulus legislation. For both new and used business cars, the limit for year two is $4,800, for year three $2,850, and for each succeeding year $1,775. For trucks and vans, the first-year limit is $11,160 for new vehicles and $3,160 for used vehicles. Year two depreciation for both new and used trucks and vans purchased in 2008 is $5,100. For year three the limit is $3,050, and for each succeeding year the limit is $1,875.

•The 2008 "Dirty Dozen." The IRS has published its annual list of the most flagrant tax scams being promoted by con artists. Topping the list is "phishing" scheme on the Internet used to trick unsuspecting victims into providing personal and financial information which is then used to access accounts, run up credit card charges, and apply for loans or credit in the victims' names.

Scams related to the economic stimulus payments were also high on the list. In these scams, criminals pose as IRS representatives asking victims for personal financial information, saying this information is needed in order for the individuals to receive their rebate checks. (The IRS reminds taxpayers that it does not contact taxpayers by phone or e-mail about their stimulus payments.)

•Reminder on political activity. The IRS is reminding tax-exempt organizations, such as charities and churches, that it is against the law for them to engage in certain activities 'on behalf of (or in opposition to) any candidate for public office.' As the presidential election nears, the IRS wants 501(c)(3) organizations to be aware that they could lose their tax-exempt status if they engage in prohibited activities. More information on this topic can be found on the IRS Web site (www.irs.gov).

Elder abuse is everyone's business

Most folks will tell you that they love West Texas because of the people—people who care, communities that care.

Being a caring community includes looking out for others—making sure our seniors and disabled citizens are safe; helping seniors and disabled citizens maintain their independence and getting their needs met.

Adult Protective Services has implemented a public awareness campaign entitled "It's Everyone's Business." The campaign is designed to make people aware of the importance of being aware of the needs of the elderly and disabled and be responsible in reporting suspected abuse, neglect, or exploitation.

It is all about partnership. "APS workers can help in so many ways—but it is up to the community—friends, neighbors, family—to let us know who needs help or who is at risk," says local APS supervisor Will McFarland.

The agency is empowered by Chapter 48 of the Human Resource Code to investigate abuse, neglect, and exploitation and to put in place services to alleviate the threat/risk of further maltreatment.

More than half of all cases reported to APS involve neglect—most involve self-neglect.

While situations of abuse and exploitation are commonly understood by the general public, neglect is also a frequent cause for suffering.

Self-neglect occurs when individuals fail to provide themselves with whatever is necessary to prevent physical or emotional harm or pain. The reasons that vulnerable adults neglect their own needs are often complicated, and frequently people are unaware of the severity of their situation.

Neglect often creates a downward spiral toward loss of independence, isolation, depression and even death. Neglect may result in starvation, dehydration, over/under-medication, unsanitary or unsafe living conditions, or lack of heat, running water, electricity, personal hygiene and medical care.

For many, intervention in situations of neglect can prevent hospitalization, nursing home placement, prolonged illness, and/or serious injury.

Self-neglect—neglect without a perpetrator—is common among the elderly and disabled—it is no one's fault—but rather a result of a wide range of physical, mental, social and financial factors.

Through illness or diminished mental capacity, vulnerable adults may no longer be able to provide adequately for their own health and safety. It may be a gradual decline. They may just need a little assistance with meals and other daily activities. They may need help paying bills or balancing their checkbook.

Others may have more severe needs as there home situation has declined to unsanitary conditions or loss of utilities.

There are often many services available to help an elderly or disabled person remain at home. If you know someone who is elderly or disabled and you think they are suffering from neglect, contact the Adult Protective Services Hotline 1-800-252-5400.

Court orders YFZ children returned to families

AUSTIN—Children the state of Texas removed from a polygamist sect's ranch near Eldorado in early April must be returned to their parents, the state's highest court ruled May 29.

Beginning June 2 children were returned to their parents if the parents first presented identification and agreed to take parenting classes and remain in Texas.

The conditional release arrangements were made after the Texas Supreme Court upheld a ruling by the Third Court of Appeals in Austin. The ruling said the state failed to provide evidence warranting the separation of those children from their parents.

The removal of more than 400 children began April 3 after the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services received word that a girl or young woman had called a crisis hotline alleging abuse by an older male resident of the ranch.

The state obtained a court order to enter the ranch owned by the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, a breakaway sect of the Mormon church. Buses transported mothers and children to San Angelo, and from there the state placed children in foster care in homes and facilities across Texas.

In its ruling, the Texas Supreme Court said, "While the district court must vacate the current temporary custody orders as directed by the court of appeals, it need not do so without granting other appropriate relief to protect the children."

So, Tom Green County state District Judge Barbara Walther, whose original order removed the children, now may proceed within her authority to ensure the best interests of each child and that state Family Code is enforced.

The lawsuit seeking relief from the original removal order was brought by 38 Yearning For Zion Ranch mothers with the assistance of the nonprofit group Texas RioGrande Legal Aid Inc. and a private law firm.

Hearing held on cost of college

Texas Commissioner of Higher Education Dr. Raymund Paredes and the chairs of boards of regents at all Texas public university systems testified May 28 at a meeting of the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Higher Education.

The Senate subcommittee is charged with studying the impact of tuition deregulation, passed by the Legislature in 2003, on college participation.

The cost of tuition for a semester at the University of Texas at Austin was $1,975 in 2002. Today it is $4,012.

Paredes estimated that the average public university graduate will owe between $15,000 and $16,000 in student loans.

Paredes said the increase in the cost of a public university education is driving more students to choose community colleges as a place to start.

State Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas, said, "We must find other sources of revenue in order to fund higher education in the state of Texas. It is really important for you guys to start coming up with some ideas. We can't keep taxing the students."

Texans take Cuba trade trip

The United States trade embargo with Cuba has been in effect since 1961. In 2000, Congress passed the Trade Sanctions Reform and Export Enhancement Act, allowing the sale of agricultural and medical products to Cuba.

Now the Lone Star State is thinking about stepping up trade with the Caribbean state.

Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples and a group of business people traveled to Cuba May 27 to 31 to promote trade with Texas. The group of 24 included farmers, ranchers, commodity suppliers and port officials.

"It is only 900 miles between Houston and Havana but for several decades it might well have been a million miles," Staples said. "This is a great occasion for two nations to work together to improve relations and what better way to do that than through food."

Texas to resume death penalty

A Kentucky case that went to the U.S. Supreme Court put the execution of Texas death row inmates on hold last September. The court ruled that the three-injection system used by Texas and other states is not cruel.

This month, Texas will return to administering the death penalty.

Emergency farm loans being accepted

Applications for emergency farm loans for damages and losses caused by severe fires and high winds on Jan. 1, 2008 and continuing are being accepted at the Farm Service Agency (FSA) office located in Haskell, Farm Loan Manager Brand Cude said recently.

Haskell, Stonewall, Throckmorton and Young County along with all area surrounding counties have had various disaster determinations recently named by Secretary of Agriculture. These counties producers are eligible for loans to cover part of actual production and physical losses caused by fires and high winds on Jan. 1, 2008 and continuing.

Cude said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 100% of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue the agricultural business, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 3.75 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FSA emergency loan," Cude said. Farmers participating in the Federal Crop Insurance program will have to consider proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Application for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until Jan. 16, 2009, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing, with possible delays into the new farming season," Cude said.

FSA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who meet U.S. citizenship requirements and to farming partnerships, corporations, or cooperatives in which U.S. citizenship requirements are met by individuals holding a majority interest.

The FSA office in Haskell is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Cotton Market Weekly

By Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

May 29, 2008

The cotton market continues to fluctuate slightly from day to day in uninspired, lethargic trading. There seems to be no news to motivate traders, just the usually slippery slope that has been tilting down rather than up these past few weeks, an observer said.

Fundamentally, the market continues to keep an eye on the developing U.S. cotton crop. Most of the attention focuses on Texas where almost half of the nation's cotton crop could be produced in the 2008-09 marketing year.

According to USDA's drought monitor map for the week ended May 27, soil conditions throughout South Texas were categorized as moderate to severe drought. Squaring is increasing in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and blooms are forming on many of the more mature stands. Farmers are irrigating where possible, but most of the cotton crop is dryland and rain is urgently needed to ease stressful growing conditions.

Severe weather was reported on the Texas High and Rolling Plains this week. Gusty winds up to 70 miles per hour were witnessed in some areas and small to medium sized hailstones fell. Generally, light to moderate rain was received with locally heavy precipitation recorded. Most of the producers in the region feel they are in good shape as they continue planting activities.

Meanwhile, USDA reported net export sales of U.S. cotton totaled 107,800 bales in the week ended May 22. The figure is 28 percent lower than the previous week and a 73 percent decline from the four-week average. With purchases totaling 29,200 bales, China was the major buyer for the week while Thailand, Turkey, Taiwan and Mexico finished out the list of the week's top five buyers. Net sales of 19,100 bales for delivery in 2008-09 were for South Korea and Italy.

Export shipments of 258,800 bales were up one percent from the previous week and 10 percent higher than the four-week average. Primary destinations were China, Mexico, Indonesia and Turkey.

Sales declines were seen in the spot cotton market as well. During a short trading week due to the Memorial Day holiday, online trading by producers in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas totaled only 63 bales compared to 2,421 bales the previous week.

With no immediate solution in sight, a shortage of shipping containers continues to affect the export of U.S. commodities and other products. An article in Shipping Digest said U.S. exporters may lose tens of millions of dollars in potential sales because of shortages of vessel capacity and containers. The publication reported foreign buyers who would like to take advantage of the weak U.S. dollar to purchase goods at bargain prices may turn to other suppliers out of frustration over long delays and unreliable delivery schedules.

"It's impossible to quantify, and exporters are reluctant to admit they have actually lost business, but there are widespread complaints from anguished exporters and forwarders," an industry source said.

Old Glory store holds grand opening

Approximately 120 people came to witness the raising of four American flags by Boy Scout troops from Haskell and Hamlin. This Week's Devotional Message:

YOU NEVER GRADUATE FROM THE SCHOOL OF FAITH

The completion of your education, whether high school or college, brings you literally to the threshold of life. You have now been given all the skills you will need to go out into the 'real' world and face whatever problems and challenges will be thrown in your way. In the same manner, your religious education will prepare you to come grips with life; only there is no 'graduation' from this school. Faith must be continually studied, renewed and practiced, and your education never stops; but the rewards are the confidence and peace of mind which enable you to face any situation that may arise. This knowledge is available to you at the church of your choice every Sunday.

Safety in the hot summer months

Because our bodies adapt to the current environment over time, heat illnesses do not usually occur in people who are accustomed to strenuous activity on hot days, or those who live in areas that routinely suffer high heat and humidity. Danger often occurs when, for example, severe heat affects a geographic area suddenly or at the beginning of sports seasons, when unconditioned athletes begin training in warm weather.

Heat illnesses are preventable with proper precautions. Here are a few ways to protect yourself from heat illnesses:

1. Remain in an air-conditioned environment during hot weather or go to an air-conditioned area if feeling overheated. If air conditioning is not available, using fans can help cool the body.
2. Wear lightweight, loose-fitting and light-colored clothing. This allows heat to escape the body and the light color does not absorb heat.
3. Drink plenty of water and other hydrating liquids throughout the day to help maintain the body's fluid balance.
4. Avoid activity during the middle of the day when the sun is at its highest point.
5. A cool bath or shower will help keep body temperature at a normal level in hot weather.

Thank you, thank you, thank you for the retirement party. It was such fun and great to have so many people wishing us the best. I appreciate so much the fun, food and gifts. Most of all, I appreciate having had the opportunity to work with such a wonderful group of people these past eighteen years. You are all so professional, caring and dedicated to your calling and our school is better because of you. I'll miss you all, but hope to stay in touch. Thank you from the bottom of my heart!
