Doggone, Mrs. Spaniel you've got a fortune there!

"Wonder how much, friend Foxhound?"

"I'd say a hundred bucks apiece, charming lady!"

"Stop it-please! My point is that the price of nearly everything has gone way up in the last 20 years. Except electricity. And us dogs don't use electricity. That's unfair. I'm going to raise a howl about it!"

"But we do use electricity in lots of ways. It cooks our food and warms our baths and whisks our spare hairs off the furniture."

"H-m-guess you're right, gorgeous gal. . . . And it'll please you to know that the average family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!"

"Twenty years ago—when Grandpa was a pup—and hamburger was...how much did you say hamburger was?"

"I'll have to scratch up the exact figure for you. But now I must run along and pick up a scent. Electricity and I—forgive me—do a great deal of work for a cent. Yip, yip! Good day, Mrs. Spaniel."

Though this story's all fun, its facts are all true. Many things are scarce and expensive these days, but electricity is plentiful and cheap. One reason it's so cheap is because of your wider use -but another big reason is because America's business-managed electric companies constantly seek and find new ways to keep it so.

Haskell Women Go To School

With new courses of study and new programs of work, Haskell women's clubs are beginning fiscal years. They broaden their knowledge of music, of literature, of social service, of community betterment opportunitiesand at the same time have a happy time in genuine fel-

Various activities planned by the women's organizations offer a thorough and interesting outlet for the personal interests and energies of every woman who seeks to broaden her education and usefulness. Some mothers and business women find it practically impossible to give their time to clubwork. One devoted to her family in caring for little ones is getting a pretty thorough education. Others who must give their time and talents in capacities which demand all their time usually express regret at not being able to participate in club activites.

But to hundreds of Haskell County women who meet regularly to study, work and play is a fuller life because of their association with others who seek a broader outlook on life. May this year's meetings whether spent studying literature or music, sewing or canning, talking or playing, be pleasant and profitable.

"Let Me Live In A House ..."

As we see it housing is the big problem before the nation today. Now more than ever, homes are needed that family life during the difficul readjustment period can be set up on a sound basis. It is disappointing that Congress, before it adjourned, did not leave a definite. clear cut, workable program that would have provided this national necessity.

A nation with the resources to wage a war that America has, should not be any less resourceful in providing a means whereby its citizens, after the war is won, can secure homes. Our family life today is not going to continue to exist under distasteful conditions of inadequate housing and living conditions destructive of the home life to which we, of America, have become accustomed. We have many recovery problems in this country but none of them is more pressing and important to our national welfare than the matter of adequate housing.

It is encouraging to know that Haskell has some forward-looking leaders who have taken definite steps to relieve the local housing situation. Workers are busy erecting veterans' housing units at Rice Spring Park now and some relief for the acute local housing situation is in the offing. But to hundreds of communities all over the nation no such projects have been secured, and local relief could be on a much larger scale if all available surplus army and navy buildings could be salvaged for homes rather than standing to deteriorate before miles of red tape can be overcome.

People of this area who still look to homes as the foundation for American happiness and progress might do well to voice their desires for more materials for homes to congressmen and senators who represent them.

Army Medicine

One hundred and seventy-one years ago a little group of civilian physicians organized themselves into a branch of the Army that has developed through the years into an indispensable life-saving organization in war and peacethe Army Medical Department. It was on July 27, 1775. that a handful of patriotic do tors volunteered their services to the embattled Continuents! Army, then engaged in fighting the British in the a w of Boston. With crude instruments and quaint methods, the volunteer men of mercy treated the wounds of the ragged Continental soldiers and helped to sustain the moral and to strengthen the physical endurance of the forces fighting for American liberty.

It was to such a small and informal beginning that the American Medical Corps looks back today. It has a right to be proud of its record over the long span of years since Revolutionary days. Through all the wars which have brought injury, disease and death of American soldiers, the Army doctors and medical corpsmen have labored courageously and tirelessly with the troops in combat, sharing their dangers, salving their wounds and striving to comfort them mentally as well as physically.

During World War II they performed veritable miracles with plasma, penicillin, sulfa drugs and other medicines and techniques-miracles implicit in the records which show that 96 out of every 100 wounded men admitted to Army hospitals were saved. The death rate from battle wounds dropped from 8.3 per cent in World War I to 4.5 per cent in World War II, and the death rate from disease from 16.5 per cent to only 0.6 per cent.-Washington (D.C.) YOUNG PEOPLE CHURCH

Never in the history of civilization has the Church met with so much opposition as today. Whether this opposition be organized or otherwise, it comes in a multitude of ways. The tremendous increase in birth rate, the almost inconceivable advances in science (many of which lend little inducement to Church activities), and the numerous worldly interests which prey upon the young people of today, challenge the Church to a program of moral education at its best. The public and parochial schools are workshops where the young learn to build words which are the vehicles of expression. In the Church School they learn to express themselves in the language of Jesus. These schools all are alert to their responsibility and are striving to be a lighthouse on the way to a fuller appreciation of the beautiful in the life of

A few of the finer arts, wholesome recreation and an opportunity to participate in them, with the proper kind of trained leadership will go a long way in keeping the interest of our young folk more wholesome. Just so surely as fathers and mothers fail to lead their children to Church for its benedictions regularly—will they fail as parents and the reapings of this neglect will be terrible.
