To the Citizens of Haskell County:

The year which was being fought during more than half of my term of office, and the attendant high prices and scarcity of material which have continued even during the period of adjustment and reconstruction have contributed toward making County government and management very difficult, and I know that at times I have erred in my decisions but I have always done what I thought at the time was best for the county as a whole. And I am profoundly grateful to the people of Haskell County for being so patient and understanding at all times and for making my work so much easier by giving me such wholehearted cooperation.

When I go out of office I shall not leave the county but intend to remain in Haskell and I shall ever have the interest of Haskell County at heart and be ready to assist in any way I can to promote the interests of said county and aid in every way possible in its further development and prosperity.

Women Work for Peace Play Important Roles in U. N. Setup

By HELEN BECKWITH
(Guest columnist for Kathleen Norris.)
Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Additional evidence of the progress being made by women in world affairs is offered in the role being played by women in the United Nations setup.

Main achievement, insofar as women are concerned, was the establishment of the commission on the status of women. The group was created as a result of the demand by prominent feminists that the new international agency should give recognition to women's interests.

The United States representative on the commission is Miss Dorothy Kenyon, New York attorney and former municipal court judge. Long active in women's organizations, Miss Kenyon served as a member of the League of Nations committee on the legal status of women voters.

The movement for U. N. recognition of women was launched at the San Francisco conference, when they succeeded in getting the principle of equal rights incorporated in the U. N. charter.

They also got the proposal for a commission for women put on the agenda for the London meeting in the winter of 1946. At this meeting the economic and social council set up a sub-commission on the status of women in the commission on human rights, of which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is the chairman.

The commission outlined a program calling for civil, political, educational and social equality for women. They asked that an executive office on women's affairs should be set up as a part of the United Nations secretariat. They recommended expansion into a larger independent commission. The economic and social council approved the suggestion and authorized establishment of a separate commission. At their meeting in New York in October, 1946, the council designated the countries to be represented on the new commission.

Work in Secretariat.
Although they seldom appear before the public eye, another group of women is playing an important role in telling the United Nations story to the world. This group is comprised of members of the U. N. secretariat, who accomplish a major mission even if their work is principally behind the scenes.

Among members of the secretariat are many of the new twentieth century women who have risen from the ashes of war. At first glance these girls look like smart young women you could see almost anywhere—pretty North Americans in flower-scented sweaters and blouses, slender Chinese in short skirted versions of Oriental dress, olive-skinned South Americans with liquid Latin eyes. Lipstick, smart hats and all that.

But watch them awhile and you will find they are different. There is less party talk and drinking, more hard work for a purpose. Not that they are any less interested in men than women always were; they simply seem to think and talk about them less. These women hold what is probably the world's largest feminine collection of university degrees.

Many speak from two to five languages and can translate or take shorthand in several. Others are wizards with paintbrushes. Yet many are working for far less money than they have made before on a heavy schedule that sometimes extends to 10 or 12 hours a day, six or seven days a week, with a three hour daily commutation added to that. During the general assembly they were "soaked in a bath of work" that left virtually no time for shopping, hairdresser, friends or play.

Why do they do it?
Let Marion Dix tell you. Miss Dix, a former scenario writer, turned down $1,000 a week in Hollywood to work for $100 a week in the United Nations as chief of the film and television section, which is producing a film on the functions, purpose and goal of the United Nations.

Dix says succinctly:
"If the United Nations fails, there is no world. It must succeed. To help it succeed is the best way we can have right now—and no one seems too hard."
Miss Rhodes adds a few words to that. Miss Rhodes is an English girl who studied at the Paris Sorbonne, worked for the ILO in Geneva and now is secretary to Andrew Cordier, right hand man to Trygve Lie. Says Miss Rhodes:
"Satisfaction in Effort."

"This kind of work gets in your blood, once you've done it. It's fascinating meeting people of all nationalities. It would bore me now."

AID PEACE MOVEMENT

Women are taking their share of the load in furthering the movement for peace, as exemplified by the United Nations, it is pointed out by Miss Beckwith in the accompanying article, a substitute for Kathleen Norris' regular feature.

Women hold high places in the U. N. setup while still another group, although shorn of publicity and notoriety, quietly do their bit for peace by serving in the secretariat. The story of these women should provide inspiration for all working girls and women.

to work in an office filled only with English. And then—I don't want to sound too high minded—but there's a great satisfaction in working for peace. After every difficult time, we seem to have made a little progress and it makes you feel good to think you have had even a small part.

Dynamic Mrs. Trudy Veit, Austrian born art editor of the visual information service, directs the production of posters, exhibits and charts, some of which are produced in 16 languages. British born Mrs. Audrey Langston, mother of seven-year-old twins, as U. N. photo liaison officer, directs a photographic staff which snaps pictures for U. N. posters and exhibits.

One of the toughest U. N. jobs is held by French born Lucie de Vienne Blanc, head of a four language typing pool of 200 girls, most of whom came from Europe. Mme. de Vienne Blanc, who used to be a concert singer, keeps harmony and clockwork order while English, French, Spanish and Russian documents pass from translator to stenographer to reviser to typist to reviser, etc. She says the girls love America, like American men better than Europeans because they treat them better, are fascinated by New York shops and rejoice in pretty clothes at relatively low cost.

Among the girls working hard for peace is a large quota headed toward interesting personal careers. Take Mary Ronay, University of Michigan graduate, who is credentials officer in charge of press accreditation cards and seating arrangements. She worked in a Detroit bookstore to earn $200 to come to New York, and now is working and saving to study music in Paris.

Then there is Senorita Orellana of Chile, Spanish translator, who holds a Ph. D. degree from Columbia university, taught three years at Smith college, and now is headed toward a career in Chile's diplomatic service. Doreen Feng, daughter of the Chinese ambassador to Mexico, pores over paintbox and pencils, making U. N. posters and charts, but some day she hopes to be a great painter.

Mother Goes to Jail

To Save Children's Dog

EAST DETROIT.—Butch, a one-year-old white Spitz, is still romping with the Whittis children at their home in East Detroit. Mrs. Iletta Whittis, 36, their mother, went to Macomb county jail for what may be a 10-day term rather than surrender the family pet to police.

The jail records show her cited for contempt of court after Justice John McPherson convicted her of violating a city ordinance forbidding dogs to run without control.

In her first court appearance, Mrs. Whittis drew a suspended fine of $3 and agreed that she would allow a policeman to pick up the dog.

At home she found three of her children: Phyllis, 13; William, 12; and Everett, 10, heartbroken at the thought of losing Butch.

She refused to give up Butch or pay any fine when Patrolman William McGowan called.

Police Matron Rose Bambrugger and two stalwart officers called at the Whittis home and escorted the determined mother back to court.

The sentence: Three days in jail, $3 fine and $7.50 matron costs, and seven extra days if the cash isn't forthcoming.

"I'll stay here in jail the full 10 days rather than surrender my children's pet," Mrs. Whittis said at the jail.

Predicted Nylons

LONDON.—Although synthetic textiles are comparatively new, an English philosopher predicted their use nearly 300 years ago. In 1694 when silk, newly introduced from the East, was a scientific wonder, Robert Hooke wrote in a book called "Micrographia": "I have often thought that probably there might be a way found out to make an artificial glutinous composition much resembling, if not fully as good, nay better than the excrement out of which the silkworm spins his silk."

LATEST IN TOE-NAIL ART . . . Plying his art atop a London building is Stanley Burchett, Grenadier Guards sergeant of last war and currently a painter of some of the smallest landscapes in existence. Although he does all of his water colors with an ordinary hair paint brush and has never used a magnifying glass, none of his paintings is bigger than a postage stamp. Queen Mary of England has purchased several of his landscapes, one of them now hanging in the famous Royal Dolly's house in London. Here, Burchett is at work on a "toe-nail landscape." Owner of the toe is Heather Maxwell, film actress. At right may be seen a closeup of the finished painting.

LARGEST VESSEL BUILT INLAND . . . largest vessel ever to be built on the inland rivers of America was launched on the Ohio River near Pittsburgh, Pa. The vessel is the ARD-33, a floating drydock designed by the navy for use of the bureau of ships. This shiplifting giant is 448 feet long by 97 feet wide and 45 feet high. When it is completely outfitted it will leave the Dravo yards at Pittsburgh under special tow and be taken 2,000 miles by water through the locks of the Ohio River and down the Mississippi.

UPHOLDING THE ELEPHANT . . . Circuit Judge McCarthy, who won the Republican nomination for the U. S. senate over Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., is shown campaigning for the election. This photograph would indicate that he is capable of upholding the GOP in Wisconsin as well as in the senate, if he is elected. This will be the first time in 40 years that a LaFollette was not a member of the U. S. senate. McCarthy is a World War II vet.

ARCHITECTS WIN CONTEST . . . Pulling their victory cigars, Charles Du Bose and his cousin, Robert Du Bose Burbank point to the sketch which won them first prize in an international architectural competition which they entered as a "shot in the dark" for spare time work while they were putting in fifty-four hours a week on warplant commitments. The design will be the Republic of Ecuador now legislative palace. The winners received $2,500.

DOG THAT ACTUALLY TALKS . . . This is not a shaggy dog story. Ben, a 6-year-old black and white terrier has amazed scientists and reporters by enunciating words and sentences clearly. Dr. W. R. Woodrige, left, one of Britain's leading veterinary surgeons, watches and listens as owner Brissenden puts Ben through his paces at his home at Royston, England. The dog is saying, "I want one." Offer of $2,000 has been made for the dog.

BABY LUNG . . . Use of portable automatic baby lung developed by army air forces is demonstrated by Capt. Hurley L. Motley. The light-weight lung, it is believed, will replace the cumbersome iron lung in cases of infantile paralysis.

HAS THREE TEETH . . . When 27-day-old Donna Jeanne Greene yawned she revealed three teeth to her startled mother, Mrs. Karl K. Greene, Los Angeles. Capt. Graham Covert, USN, the baby's grandfather, was summoned to witness the rarity. Baby Donna yawned obligingly for the cameraman, but the tiny teeth didn't quite get into the picture. Usual signs of appearing teeth were absent in this case, which caused them to be overlooked until they were out.

PAINT WAY TO CALIFORNIA . . . Climaxing a 5,200-mile cross-country painting tour that had three 17-year-old high school students painting everything from frying pans to movie actress, left to right, the three teen-agers, Dick Jahnke, Morris Parker, Wolf Drevves, arrived in Hollywood, where they used lipstick and finger-nail polish on actress Martha Vickers. The boys bought a model A Ford, painted barns, fences and anything for expense money from Salsburg, N. Y.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS CIO Girds for New Wage Drive; U.N. Closes Meet in Harmony; More Rental Units Planned

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Elected to head interim French government, 74-year-old Leon Blum receives traditional embrace from Vincent Auriol, president of national assembly.

LABOR: New Wage Pattern Hardly had the hub-bub occasioned by the CIO's adoption of Economist Robert Nathan's formula for higher wages within current price levels. Although Nathan said that the unions should negotiate new scales with different companies and industries on the basis of their abilities to pay, he averred that the manufacturing industry can grant a 21 per cent boost without raising prices and still make double the profits of the 1936-'39 period.

UAW Demands In subscribing to Nathan's theory that industry can hike wages without boosting prices, UAW chieftain Walter Reuther declared that corporation profits are running at a rate of 15 billion dollars a year in comparison with 10 billion during the war and 5 billion in the prewar period. While business profits have been rising, consumer purchasing power has been diminishing, Reuther said. During 1946, living costs have climbed another 18 per cent, necessitating the 23 1/2 cents an hour wage raise for the 900,000 UAW members to maintain their "take-home" pay. At present, the average wage in the industry is $1.33 an hour.

FRANCE: Blum Comes Back Leon Blum, whose Popular Front government in the middle '30's threw France into a turmoil, returned to head the new French interim government as the compromise choice of the left and right parties of the nation. Though Blum's Socialist party commands only 100 seats in the 600 odd national assembly, the dominant Communist and Popular Republican parties agreed on his leadership after failure to work out a satisfactory deal between themselves for sharing the government. Ranting over the failure of achieving a coalition cabinet, Communist Representative Duclos accused the rightist Popular Republicans of "renewing the class struggle."

RELIGION: Donations Lag Although the U. S. public's church donations have scored a new high by passing the billion-dollar-a-year mark, they still trail behind consumer outlays for movie and theater tickets, amount to one-third of the nation's annual bill for tobacco, and one-eighth of its outlay for alcoholic beverages, according to Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

FOOD: Full Tables

After counting the bountiful yields of 1946 farm production, the department of agriculture told Americans that they would eat well again in 1947.

By intensive tillage of substantially smaller acreage than prevailed in the '20's, farmers produced record crops of wheat, corn, rice, potatoes, soybeans, tobacco and garden vegetables; near record yields of grapes, peanuts and oats, and better than average harvests of sweet apricots, sugar cane, sugar beets, dry peas, sorghum and hay.

Production Pattern

The department's final estimate of 1946 farm output suggested the shifting pattern of production within the past decade. While such old American agricultural standbys as wheat, corn, potatoes and tobacco showed appreciable increases in 1946 over the 1935-'44 average, rye was down to 18,685,000 bushels from 42,356,000, and cotton dropped to 8,482,000 bales from 12,553,000.

SPORT: Gambling Menace

In the early 1800's, American youth held up the statesman as a tin god; in the late 1800's, it was the empire builder, and since the early 1900's, it has been the athlete. Most touching example of the faith that the average American boy put in his athletic hero involved the young kid who clutched at "Shoelless Joe" Jackson's sleeve when that great outfielder emerged from questioning over his part in the Black Sox baseball scandal of 1919. With tears in his eyes, the kid pleaded: "Say it isn't so, Joe, say it isn't so."

HOUSING: New Emphasis

In line with findings that most home-seekers are looking for rental rather than purchasable dwellings, the administration's new housing program places emphasis upon construction of rental property.

INDIA: Troubles, Troubles Mother India, long sorrowing for freedom, could see nothing but trouble ahead as she planned the achievement of her independence after centuries of British domination. For freedom seemed to mean different things to the powerful political factions within the country: To the majority Congress party chiefy embracing the Hindus, independence represented a unified nation; to the minority Moslem league, it stood for "pakistan" or self-rule of Mohammedan provinces.

INDIA: Troubles, Troubles

TOURIST TRADE: Booming Again Total tourist expenditures this year will exceed the six billion dollars of 1946 despite limited production of automobiles, a study of the tourist trade by American Road Builders' association reveals. The season just closed saw travel-hungry Americans taking to the highways. Up to September 30, a record number of 21,682,782 tourists had visited the 27 parks and 142 other areas operated by National Park service.

Washington Digest Constructive GOP Congress Depends on Party Harmony

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Now that the senate has settled its first problem—naming of the committee chairmen—the next big question is whether the Republicans are going to be able to develop a leadership able to ride herd and establish the party discipline necessary for iron-handed control. The Republican majority is very slim and there are a number of restive members who will be as hard to get into the corral, come roll-call time, as the "sons of the wild jackasses" used to be.

Baukhage

It isn't the lack of a leader so much as a surplus of them that worries Republican politicians—that and the danger that the leaders may start leading in different directions.

Another factor not calculated to further unity is the flock of presidential bees crawling all over the inside of the capitol dome. In his December poll, Gallup listed four senators as possibilities in the following order: Vandenberg, 9 per cent; Bricker 8 per cent; Taft, 2 per cent, and Saltonstall, 1 per cent.

Nation Clings To Old Reforms

Harold Laski, the British left-wing labor leader, would have us believe that there is a "return to reaction" in America. He says in a recent article under that title that "in abandoning the Roosevelt heritage Mr. Truman made the shaping of the postwar economic policy of America the concern of business and not of congress." Mr. Truman would be the first to deny that he deserted the New Deal heritage whether he was personally inclined to support all of its tenets or not. And I can see the hackles of congress rise, even on the leftish side, at the suggestion that "the initiative was returning to the hands" of National Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Truman was removed by the election from a number of restraints and pressures from groups which favored courses he personally disliked but he has not been party to any move to sacrifice past "social gains," and I cannot see congress allowing the few reactionaries in either party or in the house of senate to set back the clock.

As the Beards point out in their "Basic History of the United States," the Republicans despite their landslide victory over Wilson in 1920 did not or could not, "stamp out the spirit of progressive or radical insurgency, old in American tradition and yet ever new in its application to changing conditions."

Harding's "normalcy" and Coolidge's conservatism temporarily did end our internationalism. But their next choice was Herbert Hoover, who had been speaking with continuing concern over conditions affecting the less privileged. In 1923, for example, he had called on the insurance companies to study unemployment insurance; he had endorsed an amendment abolishing child labor; he had frightened the reactionaries to death when he proposed the inheritance tax to "redistribute overvalued fortunes."

Going further back into history, we note that after three successive victories, the Republicans, even when they had majorities in both houses, did not repeal so-called "reform" measures passed up to 1900. When they returned to power in 1921, although attempts were made to do so, such measures as the income and inheritance taxes were not abolished, or reduced to an empty gesture. Yesterday's radical is tomorrow's conservative.

Senator Works For His State Many people fail to realize the many factors which contribute to individualism in the senate. In the first place, each senator is, and so considers himself, an ambassador from a state—it is his business to serve that state to the best of his ability and his ability can be greatly supplemented by the prestige he acquires. Indeed, prestige, if acquired by nothing but seniority can go a long way toward making up for lack of ability.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

It is said 30 per cent of the people have had mumps without knowing. What a shame that their best friends didn't tell them! The nation spent over a half billion dollars on candy during the first 10 months of this year. Now the reducing will begin again. How are our children going to get the laugh from our modern bathing girls that we do from the gay ninety bathers? Let's hope we leave more to their sense of humor than we have to their imagination.

STALIN'S HEALTH WASHINGTON.—Diplomatic dispatches from Moscow indicate definitely that Marshal Stalin's health has had another setback. He suffered a heart attack some time in November and now is resting in the Crimea.

This fact has been made the subject of an official report to the state department. This last heart attack is the second suffered by the man who has ruled Russia so long. Last winter he also had to go to the Crimea to recuperate from an illness. Stalin is now 67 years old, but has crammed more diversified life and hardship into those years than any other world leader.

Stalin was imprisoned and exiled to Siberia eight times, and the years have taken their toll. He was not playing-acting when he held Churchill and Truman by staying in bed one day at Potsdam. It is generally expected that Foreign Minister Molotov will succeed Stalin.

THE REAL-ESTATE LOBBY

Next major lobbying drive in Washington will be against rent control, only control measure which survived President Truman's sweeping OPA decontrol order. The President has decided to eliminate OPA completely, and has on his desk an executive order transferring rent control to the department of commerce.

The real-estate lobbyists know they can't get even a Republican congress to repeal rent control. So they've decided on a new tactic. The lobby is drawing up a bill which would transfer rent control from the federal government to the states.

This will be advanced as a "states' rights" and "economy" measure. The result, however, will be the same. Twelve states now have no rent control, and in other states most control laws are elastic.

LAME DUCKS PLAY INDIANS

Twice in recent weeks, President Truman has been visited by congressmen who asked him to appoint friends on the new Indian claims commission. Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming urged the appointment of Louis O'Marr, attorney general of Wyoming, while Representative Bill Stigler of Oklahoma brought along his candidate—Justice Earl Welch of the Oklahoma Supreme court, who is part Chickasaw himself.

The President made no commitment beyond saying he intends to announce the make-up of the new commission soon. He did apologize to Stigler, however, for the delay in making the appointments.

What Truman did not explain was that he also had been urged to wait to see whether any worthy Democrats, defeated in the election, might want the job. The names of lame-duck congressman Will Robinson of Utah, an excellent man, and Ted Johnson of Oklahoma, who lost out on a chance to be a custom court judge, now have been suggested.

The commission is one which will require a tight staff, since it will have to pass judgment on all Indian claims which have not gone into the courts. There is absolutely no statutory limit on the age of the claims—which means that if an Indian tribe wants to claim that it has legal right to the entire territory of the State of Utah, the commission may have to hear the argument.

NEXT GOP CONVENTION

Although the Republican national convention is two years off, several cities already are pressing GOP moguls for the privilege of helping nominate the man they figure will be the next president of the U. S. Rep. George Bender, Ohio congressman-at-large and head of the Cleveland Republican committee, appeared before the national committee to propose Cleveland as the convention site. As soon as Eender proposed Cleveland for the convention site, Committeeman Werner Schroeder of Illinois asked, "Isn't it true that Ohio has a couple of candidates for the nomination? Don't you think it might be better to meet on neutral territory?"

"Is there a state that doesn't have a candidate?" asked Bender. "If you're going to rule out states with candidates, about the only place we could hold the 1948 GOP convention is Miami."

POSTMASTER JIM MEAD? The White House is afraid that if Bob Hannegan resigns both as postmaster general and Democratic national chairman the Republican senate may refuse to confirm anyone who is to serve in both jobs. One man the senate would confirm, however, is Sen. Jim Mead of New York, who lost out in his bid for governor of New York. The senate rarely questions the appointment of any senator or former senator to an official post. Moreover, Mead is considered a postal authority.

Mrs. Ada Couch, et vir, Plaintiffs, Vs.
Mrs. Alene Wall, et vir, et al, Defendants.
A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: Trespass to try title. Plaintiffs allege that on January 1, 1946, they were the owners in fee simple and entitled to the possession of 2680 acres of land, more or less, situated in Haskell County, Texas,

SECOND TRACT: The P. L. Smith Survey No. 75, Abstract No. 376, containing 320 acres, more or less; Patent No. 382, Vol. 30, dated August 27, 1860, recorded in Book 1, page 475, Patent Records of said County.

THIRD TRACT: The John Williams Survey No. 76, Abstract No. 416, containing 320 acres, more or less; Patent No. 415, Vol. 32, dated April 12, 1861, recorded in Book 1, page 347, Patent Records of said County.

SEVENTH TRACT: The S. P. Ford Survey No. 80, Abstract No. 139, containing 320 acres, more or less; Patent No. 138, Vol. 9, dated December 17, 1858, recorded in Book 1, page 101, Patent Records of said County.

EIGHTH TRACT: The B. Hoffman Survey No. 81, Abstract No. 167, containing 320 acres, more or less; Patent No. 537, Vol. 17, dated April 16, 1858, recorded in Book 1, page 45, Patent Records of said County.

NINTH TRACT: The William Maxwell Survey No. 82, Abstract No. 315, containing 320 acres, more or less; Patent No. 4, Vol. 19, dated April 27, 1858, recorded in Book 1, page 48, Patent Records of said County.

That, subsequently on said date, Defendants unlawfully entered upon said property and dispossessed Plaintiffs and have since such date unlawfully withheld from Plaintiffs the possession thereof to their damages in the sum of Fifty Thousand and No-100 ($50,000.00) Dollars.

Plaintiffs pray that they have judgment for title and possession of the above described land, and for general and special relief in law and in equity.
As is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

MRS. ADAY

Sunday, December 29, at 12:30 p. m. The double ring ceremony was read by D. L. Ashley, Church of Christ minister of Stamford.

The bride wore a grey wool dress with an orchid corsage, a black hat with grey feather trim and black accessories. Jane Bishop of Fort Worth was her only attendant. She wore a rose wool suit, white carnation corsage and black accessories.

Clifton Cobb, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Cobb of Haskell. She is a graduate of Luaders High School and attended Abilene Christian College.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Aday of Waxahachie. After graduation from Waxahachie High School he attended North Texas Agricultural College, Arlington. At present he is employed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Cobb Jr. Punch and wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom were served from a lace covered table.

After the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to San Antonio and Monterrey, Mexico. For a going away dress the bride wore a two-piece cinnamon strutter cloth dress with black accessories.

Attest: (Seal) Horace Gneal, Clerk, District Court, Haskell County, Texas.

The bride was dressed in blue and gray with black accessories with white carnations. Those attending the couple were Lavell Wolfe and Ray Brundige of Grand Prairie.

A wedding dinner was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin K. Pitman of Grand Prairie, formerly of this city. A large wedding cake was presented by the bride's mother. Thirty people attended the dinner.

Rainbow Club Has Christmas Party

The Rainbow Sewing Club held their Christmas Party in the home of Mrs. John Tinkle December 18. The house was beautifully decorated in the Christmas motif. The lovely Christmas tree with all the gifts surrounding it made a beautiful setting for the program.

With Mrs. Johnson in charge the program opened by singing Joy to the World. The origin of some of the Christmas songs was given while sung by the group, including Silent Night by Mrs. Adkins; O Little Town of Bethlehem, by Mrs. Bass; It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, by Mrs. O. W. Tooley; Hark, the Herald Angels Sing, by Mrs. Patterson; God Rest You Merry Gentlemen, by Mrs. Whittaker. A solo, by Mrs. Eula Crow; reading, A Jolly Christmas.

The group closed with a reading, A Jolly Christmas.

Now that the Holiday season is over, let us pause to reflect on the value of these and other pleasant holidays to civilization. Holidays—you know—were originally, and still remain, days to be set apart for exemption from hard labor. And there is where Reddy Kilowatt shines—freeing housewives everywhere from many hard tasks. A few of Reddy's holiday contributions to the homemaker are:

- Washing machines instead of the wash board
- Refrigerators replacing window milk boxes
- Ranges in the place of smoking hot cook stoves
- Air conditioners supplanting palmetto fans
- Blankets superseding the mountains of fatigue producing bed covering

Reddy Kilowatt's electric service is available to make every day a holiday—by lessening the housewife's hard tasks.

The Force that Holds Up the "Goblet of Venus"...

OIL-PLATES Your Engine!

Strange phenomenon of nature is the "Goblet of Venus"! Stranger still is the tremendous force of molecular attraction that enables the stem to support the huge bowl!

Utilizing this mighty force of molecular attraction, a special ingredient in Conoco Nth motor oil is attracted to working surfaces of your engine. In fact, so strong is this attraction that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED.

And because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs... prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight... you get these benefits:

- added protection during the vital periods when you first start your engine
- added protection from corrosive action when your engine is not in use
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

That's why you'd be safer to OIL-PLATE your engine now... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. Look for the red triangle. Continental Oil Company

HUSH MONEY
Mrs. Jones—They say it cost the Newrich a thousand dollars to have their family tree looked up.
Mr. Jones—In a way, yes—it cost them a hundred to have it looked up and nine hundred to have it hushed up.

EASY TO SATISFY
Nit—I've got to buy my girl a birthday present. What'll I get her?
Wit—Does she like you?
Nit—Oh, yes.
Wit—If she likes you, she'll like anything.

Vicious Circle
"Well, Harry, what are you doing these days?" asked the long-absent friend.
"Advertising," Harry replied with a wry smile. "Still engaged in perpetual motion."
"Perpetual motion?"
"Yes, I make my money writing advertisements for women's stores; and then my wife and daughters read the advertisements and I have to give them the money so they can buy the things I advertise."

Life Is Fleeting

Radio Breakfast Programs Of History
(King Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn.)
Anne—Good morning, Henry.
Henry—Good morning, dear. Where's my bicarbonate?
Anne—Oh, come now, it isn't time for that commercial yet.
Henry (studying the script)—Ah, what a lovely morning. Isn't it wonderful just to be alive?
Anne (with a shudder)—I'll bet that's what you say to all your wives!

Henry—Let's start off with the weather. It's clear and warm here in the castle, with possible storms by afternoon.
Anne—With you, honey, life is one storm after another. What's the official temperature from the weather bureau?
Henry—Have you forgotten? The weather man gave me the wrong thermometer reading at yesterday's breakfast and I had him executed.
Anne—Aren't you a little hasty with your executions?
Henry—Coming from a wife of mine it is a natural question, sweet, but by my troth I shall decline to answer. By the way, did you notice that stunning girl at the new pageant last night?
Anne—Every time you see Jane Seymour at an opening you ask me that.
Henry (humming)—If you see Seymour like I see Seymour. . . .
Anne—No singing commercial, please!
Henry—Oh, come on, let's eat! How are my dozen eggs on beef coming? And remember 12 slices of buttered toast will do for breakfast today. I'm not myself.
Anne—Aren't food prices awful, Henry. I paid four shillings for that roast stag you had for lunch yesterday, and that was with the feet off.
Henry—Were the feet off? I didn't notice. Here's where a commercial comes in. Is your appetite weak? Are you finicky at the table? Take Squeeper's Stomach Bitters—the ones in the green bottle and you will have the appetite of a king.
Anne—Come, Henry, don't exaggerate.

Henry—Anne, my dear, you have a very pretty neck. And that's the cue for another commercial.
Anne—The secret of a pretty neck, I hope you all know, is Perth's Tissue Builder, the Cream of Royalty. A woman who uses this need never worry about her neck.
Henry—That's what you think!
Anne—Always joking, aren't you, Henry?
Henry—Am I?
Anne—I certainly hope so. Let's get off the subject of necks.

Henry—By the way, why aren't our canaries twittering this morning?
Anne—You know very well why. You ate their bird seed. Dear me, you eat everything.
Henry—Odds bodkins, you are getting flip. Stick to the script.
Anne—Oh, Henry!
Henry—Go ahead with the puff, but if I catch the fellow who named that candy bar after me I'll send him to the Tower. He'll pay for it with his head.
Anne—You're always making people pay with their heads. Do you think it funny?
Henry—You'll find out. And now, folks, it's time for our guest star.

Anne—Who are our guest stars today, Henry?
Henry—Two charming girls, Anne of Cleves and Catherine Howard.
Anne—Over my dead body!
Henry—Okay, if that's the way you want it!

Almanacs Long-Lived in U. S.; One in 250th Year
Among the oldest publications in the United States are the local almanacs the contents of which appeal chiefly to farmers, says Collier's.
For example, Gruber's Hagerstown Almanac is now in its 149th year, the Old Farmer's Almanac in its 154th, Daboll's New England Almanac in its 174th and Foulsham's Almanack in its 250th year.

Sublime to Ridiculous
A slightly tipsy gentleman walked into the telegraph office, took a pencil, spent three or four minutes in deep thought, and wrote this message to a friend in St. Louis:
"Tra la, tra la, tra la, tra la." He signed it and presented it to the lady behind the counter.
After checking it, she said: "That will be 64 cents."
The gentleman paid her and she said: "You used only eight words."
"What would you suggest adding?" he finally asked.
"Well, how about just adding 'tra la,'" she said.
"No," he said firmly, "that would just make it sound silly."

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Julia McFarlane's husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, leaving her with two children. She and her father-in-law, John I. McFarlane, have tried in vain to find some trace of Richard. Twenty-five years later, Ric is 27 and serving in the army of World War II, while Jill, 26, professes an interest in Spang Gordon, a young lieutenant. Julia is worried about Ric, who has "swashed out" in the air corps, and about Jill, who she is afraid might become an army wife, subject to the same grief she has endured. She confides these worries to Dave Patterson, a family friend who loves Julia but has never told her of his loyalty to Richard. Spang and Jill go to a dance.

CHAPTER III

Julia's lips quivered; the color came into her face and then receded, leaving it aged a little and filled with patience. "He was the children's father, Dave. Jill's father. He's more hers than ever now that it's war again. She wears his memory like a decoration. I can't destroy him for Jill. She admires me now. I want her to keep on admiring me. That's selfish, I suppose. But for people with forthright minds like Jill's, the world is pretty well filled with people who have to be despised. And of course there's Ric. He worries me. John I says I've spoiled him, but right now I'm afraid to take anything away from Ric, anything that strengthens him, even a little."

"But they know that their father is dead. That's why he's heroic to them, because he's a splendid idea that never had any substance. If he had come back—well, I won't talk about that. Dooley. But you know that we all grew up together—I know the kind of life you had with Richard—"

"Yes, I know. There are things I can't forget, too, Dave. Unpleasant things. John I has been at me for years to have Richard declared legally dead. But somehow the idea is horrible to me, like opening a grave."

"I can't talk to you about it, of course, Dooley. Not that—or anything else that's in my mind—so long as you are Richard McFarlane's wife." Dave said quietly, leaning forward, his long slender hands dangling between his knees. "But I can't agree with you. Your attitude doesn't make sense."

"I know. But most of the really important things in life don't make sense." Dave walked the length of the room, his hands thrust into his pockets. "The dead are dead, Dooley. The decent thing is to bury them and keep your memories. Tell me one thing. Is there any love left in your heart for Richard McFarlane?"

She put her hands to her throat with a young, wistful gesture. "That's unfair of you, Dave. That's a question I haven't dared to ask myself, all these years. I did love him terribly once, and then, after time went on, when there was no word, no record, nothing at all, something bitter that I've fought, with all my soul and all my strength, began to grow in me. I battle it at night, and it's like fighting a shadow, but a shadow with a steely, strangling grip, something you can't touch or see or feel, but can't defeat."

"Dooley, you were a child and you fell in love with a boy. All this morbid stuff—a psychiatrist could explain it; I can't. If you were to meet Richard now, suddenly—impossible, of course, just a figure of speech—but if he were to come back into your life you might be sick with disillusion. You'd discover that you had grown, you'd know that young love of yours was merely one of those wild and pretty fancies that flame up before the age of reason and then die."

The Girls They Leave Behind

"To ashes? That's what you were going to say, isn't it? And sometimes the ashes are very dark and very bitter. Actually, I'm not cherishing ashes though, Dave. I don't know just what it is I'm keeping, exactly—an ember, maybe, that refuses to burn out. Of course, if Richard were to come back now I'd probably realize that I've been harboring something unworthy. It would change everything. Don't despise me for being a fool, please. And don't desert me."

He put his hand on her head and roughed her hair gently. "I won't desert you, Dooley. But it doesn't make me happy, seeing you beat your head against a stone wall forever. I'd better go now. I rode over, and it's five miles back."

She said, "Good-by, Dave. John I. will be sorry to have missed you. He likes you a lot." And she pressed his hand.

Dave went out, his head thrust forward a little, as men walk who love the land best though they may not serve it. He closed the screen door without a sound. The horse nickered softly as Dave opened the gate, closed it behind him, and slid into the saddle.

heavy and dark and sour in his breast. There was so much that he remembered. Julia McFarlane, a dancing, copper-headed scrap of fire—Julia, seventeen years old and as full of laughter as the little streams that tumbled down the hills recklessly into the river. He had been in love with her then. But Richard McFarlane had had a red-wheeled buggy, and the glamour of sophistication had invested him. He had had some kind of unimportant job in Washington then, but Dave had known that he was a swash-buckler and a gambler and a liar, even then.

Dave Patterson tensed his hands on the reins, so that his horse raised his head and snorted.

Jill McFarlane, christened Julia, was dizzily, ecstatically happy.

The station-wagon was full of rattles and lumbered along at a discreet thirty miles an hour. Jill nursed a brief hope that her dress wouldn't be ruined by grease or something before she had a chance to dance in it; but this small shadow upon the beauty of the night she put out of her mind, because she

"No," Jill took up the conversation again, wishing they hadn't glimpsed those traveling troops, wishing Spang would not look back at them. "No, I don't know that he was decorated. My grandfather investigated when the war was over, when we didn't hear anything from my father—but he couldn't find anything at all. But they were all heroes, weren't they?"

"Yes, they were all heroes." A dead soldier was always a hero, he was thinking to himself, a trifle bitterly. "And so are you—and all those boys back there! War is all those boys' business."

"War's a job to do," Spang demurred, "a dirty job that takes men to do it. So we go and do it. We don't like it and we growl and gripe, and the enlisted men cuss the officers and the officers cuss the politicians, but we wouldn't miss it, not any of us. But we'll be glad when it's ended and we can go home."

"Let's not talk about the war. Through—" Jill shivered a little, "there doesn't seem to be very much else to talk about."

"Let's talk about you," Spang suggested. "I know you're Ric McFarlane's sister, but that's all I do know about you, except that you're red-headed and like military bands and dancing."

"That's all there is, really. I went off to school, and I wasn't terribly bright, though I finally did grab an A.B. And then I came home crazy to drive an ambulance or join the WAC or something, anything with brass buttons attached. But my grandfather sat on that idea. You met him—old John I. He's a unique character. He adores my mother, though he and my father didn't appreciate each other exactly. I understand, one of those family things. He lectured me like a top sergeant and said that Mother had had a tough life, and now she needed me around to keep things merry and bright because, of course, Ric would go into the service, so there I am—just a home girl. If they keep on taking our men off the place I'll end up hoeing corn and feeding pigs and things."

Love Catches Up With Jill

"Well, the army eats a lot of bacon. And the navy—all those tramps get too fat to waddle off their ships."

"You turn here," Jill said, "and that building on the hill with all the lights is the club. Don't laugh at it; it's a funny little place but the people are grand, and we have fun in it. I'll bet I'm the only female dragging an officer. I'll bet I have to fight off mobs to get even one dance."

"Don't try to tell me a lieutenant rates that high! Think this bus will make the hill?"

"It always has. But the big car has practically no rubber, and I put mine up because I felt it was the patriotic thing to do, though Grandfather says the deterioration goes right on."

"Plenty of cars around here." "People walk for weeks to save enough gas for a party. That's a keen band, but probably half-way through the dance the leader will dash off and enlist in the coast guard."

It couldn't be, but oh, how wonderful if it were true that Spang liked her, too! Dooley had tried to put caution into her head. "There's a lot of emotion seething in the air in wartime, Jill. Some of it is wonderful and fine, and some of it is a passing fever, a sort of recklessness that leads men to say things they don't really mean and women to believe them. So keep your head, no matter how your heart goes."

"I was raised in the military tradition," she told Spang. "My brother and I were utterly different, but even in those stodge years when everybody was pacifist and soldiers were tramps in khaki who weren't admitted to theaters or good hotels, Ric and I always marched to military music. It was because our father was a kind of special glory that we had, and we hated anything that detracted from his splendor. It's a wonderful thing for a child to have something like that to live up to."

"Was he decorated or something?" Spang asked, steering the slow vehicle around a halted bus. The bus was full of soldiers hanging heads and shoulders out of the windows, and some of them grinned and some of them saluted, laughingly, and Spang snapped a salute in return. "Some of our boys," he told Jill. "On their way. Destination unknown."

"No," Jill took up the conversation again, wishing they hadn't glimpsed those traveling troops, wishing Spang would not look back at them. "No, I don't know that he was decorated. My grandfather investigated when the war was over, when we didn't hear anything from my father—but he couldn't find anything at all. But they were all heroes, weren't they?"

Glorify Vegetables to Whet Appetites (See recipes below)

Vegetable Trickery

It seems only yesterday that winter vegetables were allowed to lie in storage almost indefinitely, and when served, it was done with an apology. Yet these winter members of the vegetable kingdom have not only good nourishment but excellent appetite appeal to offer.

Carrots and sweet potatoes are rich sources of vitamin A which we need for building resistance to colds. Rutabaga is also rich in this vitamin. For vitamin B2 you can concentrate on such things as turnip greens, beet greens, green lima beans and dried peas. Green peppers, which are easily available as well as brussels sprouts, are good sources of vitamin C. Green beans, broccoli and cabbage supply calcium, phosphorus and iron.

Fortunately for advances made in cooking techniques, none of the winter vegetables need wear a humidrum air when they come to the dinner table. Dress them up and give them a bit of seasoning and glamor and the family will relish them.

LYNN SAYS: Remove Food Stains From Your Linens

After the holidays, you're certain to find a lot of your linens stained by various foods you have served. Before you throw them in the laundry in the hopes they will come out clean, sort them out and give them much needed attention so you won't have permanent stains left on the linens.

Powdered pepsin which is sold at pharmacies may be used for removing chocolate ice cream stains.

For meat stains, which are primarily greasy in origin, try using ammonia. Place this in a shallow pan and let the cloth remain in it for several minutes, several hours or even overnight. The fumes from the ammonia help to loosen the grease in the stain. Soak wine stains with alcohol, or apply one of the fruit stain removers. Cover a fresh stain of red wine with salt, as chlorine produced by the action of acid on the salt will bleach out the mark.
