Cox Motor Co. in this city, and Chrysler dealers all over the country will hold their first showings of the "Silver Anniversary" models Friday, March 11, and the public will have a chance to see what this company has achieved by way of celebrating the completion of a quarter-century of business. Yet it is shorter overall, narrower and lower than its immediate predecessor. There are more than 50 engineering advances, including a higher-compression engine that increases horsepower and torque while promoting gasoline economy.

Many dealers will stage elaborate programs in introducing the new line, including decoration of their show-rooms in a motif appropriate to the silver anniversary. The new Plymouth car, which also is sold by all Chrysler dealers, is scheduled to be introduced next week.

Thornton Will Be Commencement at Texas Tech College

Thornton, graduate of school and former student with in the fields of and private be the principal colleges com- on May 30. gins, Tech presi- last week that accepted an invi- at the exercises, p.m. on Monday

May 30, in Jones stadium. The acceptance was made in a Texas-California telephone conversation between Dr. Wiggins and Thornton.

Thornton whose military career during World War II was particularly outstanding, now is an executive with the Howard Hughes Aircraft Corporation in California.

Born in Knox county and reared in Haskell, he attended Tech during the 1931-33 academic years.

Later, he attended George Washington University in Washington, D. C., and received his bachelors degree there.

During his more recent service as a top supply officer in the U.S. Army and as a high-ranking official with Ford Motor Company and the Hughes corporation, he has spoken on numerous occasions before university student groups, including appearances at Harvard, Notre Dame, and California Institute of Technology.

At present, Thornton and his family live in Westford, Calif., in the Los Angeles area, where he is chairman and vice-president of the executive committee of the Howard Hughes Aircraft corporation. He is also general superintendent of the firm.

He joined the Hughes organization last June, after serving in an executive capacity in Ford Motor Company's expansion program.

Thornton's career was one of the most spectacular in the armed forces during World War II.

He was employed in a civilian branch of government service in Washington, D. C., when war broke out. The nation's most critical need pertained to all phases of supply—including enormously increased production within a seemingly impossible short period of time.

To try to solve this problem, a small and highly specialized group was created within the armed forces. Thornton was among those called into uniform for this service.

He was second lieutenant in the reserve when he entered active service. Four months later he was a full colonel. His advancement was said to have been the most rapid of any individual in the armed forces during the war. At the time of receiving his commission, he was the youngest colonel in the Army. He was on a list recommended for promotion to brigadier general on V-E day. He received several decorations.

The special section to which Thornton was attached devised many new and revolutionary techniques which were applied to increasing the production and movement of critical supplies. His duties required travel to most parts of the world. They involved intimate associations with the very highest command-

Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. H. H. Arnold of the air force among many others.

As the end of his military service approached, Thornton received many offers from private industry. He accepted one from the Ford Motor Co. which gave him a key of responsibility in designing a $550 million improvement and expansion program.

A few months later, however, Gen. Marshall became secretary of state and appointed Robert A. Lovett, of New York, as under-secretary. Thornton had been closely associated with Lovett during the war.

Lovett appealed directly to Henry Ford III, to grant Thornton a leave for special duties in the State department. The request was granted immediately and Thornton returned to Washington. The specific nature of his duties was not revealed except that they pertained to top-level departmental reorganization.

This assignment completed after a few months, Thornton returned to the Ford plant in Detroit, later joining the Hughes corporation.

His wife is the former Miss Flora Laney, also an ex-Tech student. The couple has two sons. Thornton's mother, Mrs. A. J. Lewis, now resides at 2008 Ave. V in Lubbock.

Look That Farm House Over—Then Remodel

Before you get too deep into plans for remodeling an old house make sure first that the house was well built and is still sound, says Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension specialist in home management of Texas A&M College.

Do some checking before you decide to remodel, advises Mrs. Claytor. Examine the house from foundation to roof and estimate the needed repairs and their cost. Check the location from a standpoint of good drainage, protection from cold winds which make a house hard to heat, protection from flooding during heavy rains, good sewerage disposal and convenience to the highway. Do not forget the water supply. Water should be plentiful and tested for safety.

If the house and its site pass inspection, and remodeling seems a wise investment, USDA housing specialists say it is wise to give as much thought to remodeling plans as you would to planning for a new house. Mrs. Claytor points out.

She suggests that careful attention be given to the following points: Plan for enough rooms to take care of your family's needs. Well located doors and windows will help solve the lighting and ventilation problems in the house and do not forget a closet near the back door for the men's work clothes.

Are house entrances conveniently reached from the back door? Are work and living areas free from traffic? Do bedrooms and bath open from a hall and are the halls wide enough to allow for moving furniture?

Kitchen and work areas should be arranged to save labor and unnecessary steps. Allow working space for more than one person. Plan plenty of storage space for supplies and equipment where they are used and a place for the men to wash other than the kitchen sink.

The dining room should be convenient to the kitchen serving area. Be sure there is seating space for everyone regularly served and for company. Provide storage space for dishes, silver and linen.

The living room should be large and comfortable. In it should be equipment and storage for reading, writing, studying, farm business, sewing, games, hobbies and entertainment.

The sleeping space should be sufficient to allow for separate rooms for parents, boys and girls—not more than two persons per room. Is there space for overnight guests or provisions for the aged or ill? Plan plenty of storage space for clothing and bedding.

Is the water supply plentiful and safe? Plan an adequate sewage disposal system. Is there hot and cold running water in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry? Have you planned for enough well-located lighting fixtures, switches and wall plugs?

From the plans you have made, do you think the house will appear pleasing both inside and out? Does it have good proportions and simple lines?

Now that plans are made, will the cost of remodeling be less than a new building?

If you can answer "yes" to most of these questions, says Mrs. Claytor, your planning is good. If you "yes" only a few, try to improve your plans before starting the remodeling job, she concludes.

Spring planting season is just around the corner and farm machinery will be on the move again. Check it carefully and get it in good shape before the work starts. Look for defects in gears, hitches, seats, clutches, wheels, brakes, fuel lines, steering and unguarded gears or shafts.

Two pounds of lead arsenate and three pounds of hydrated lime in 100 gallons of water is recommended for a spray to kill the curculio. Plum and peach trees should be sprayed at the first petal fall.

A perfect compliment for Spring suits is Eisenburg's short sleeved white crepe blouse with round collar, cuffed sleeves and a yoke treatment of insets of stitched tucks and embroidery.

Women Know Their Wants In Cooking Utensils

Women know what they want in cooking utensils.

For the third consecutive year, discussion groups held by women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, home demonstration clubs and similar organizations have cast their votes for the most desirable features in cooking utensils—and they voted for just about the same characteristics each year.

The project sponsored by the American Home Economics Association under the title "The Consumer Speaks," counted the votes of nearly 10,000 homemakers.

Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A&M College, reports on the features the women would like to have in their pots and pans. One of the most attractive assets would be a heat-resistant handle that can be grasped firmly without the bother of using a pot holder, she said.

Other desirable features include a flat bottom, straight sides, rounded edges, bottom without grooves, material that retains heat and heats evenly, heavy weight, good balance to prevent tipping, lips on each side for pouring and durability.

Homemakers would like to see removable handles that won't turn in the hand. Mrs. Claytor said, and some sort of provision

Questions and Answers

Q.—I was honorably discharged from the Army in 1946, but have not applied for readjustment allowance yet. How long will this benefit remain available to me?

A.—Generally, this benefit must be claimed within two years from discharge or release from active service or two years from July 25, 1947, whichever is later.

Q.—As an honorably discharged veteran of World War II, I would like to know to what hospitalization I am entitled?

A.—If you have a service-connected disability, you have top priority for VA hospital care. If you suffer with a non-service-connected disability, you may be hospitalized under existing law if beds are available and you say you cannot afford treatment elsewhere.

Q.—I am at present receiving compensation for 30 percent disability. If I take a job carrying rural mail three hours a day, will my compensation be stopped?

A.—Compensation is not reduced because of your employment. Reduction in compensation is made only if your disability has lessened in degree.

Q.—Early last year I received an adjustment check on my compensation from the VA. Do I have to pay income tax on this payment?

A.—No. By law, all payments made under laws relating to veterans are exempt from Federal income tax payments.

Boys' 4-H Club enrollment for Texas reached an all-time high in 1948 with 42,763 boys enrolled in the program. By way of comparison, only 24,900 were enrolled in 1938.

Early Diagnosis Is Helpful In Curing Pyorrhea

Contrary to the popular belief that pyorrhea is always incurable, this is only true in the most advanced cases, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. His advice to persons who even suspect the presence of pyorrhea is to seek an early diagnosis from their dentist so that proper treatment can be instituted while the disease is still curable.

earliest possible moment. Since the symptoms are often so vague that the patient is unaware of having pyorrhea, Dr. Cox said, regular visits to the family dentist are extremely important in the control of this disease. The treatment of pyorrhea is not an involved procedure. In the average early case one of the main therapeutic features is the proper hygienic care of teeth and gums as outlined by any reputable dentist. Carelessness regarding mouth hygiene is usually the basic cause for the condition. The family dentist casually remove the cause of the trouble. Dr. Cox said, and when this has been done, intelligent routine care of the mouth by the patient will help to effect a fairly quick cure in the majority of early cases.

Mrs. W. J. Bryant of Stamford Speaker at H-D Club Meeting

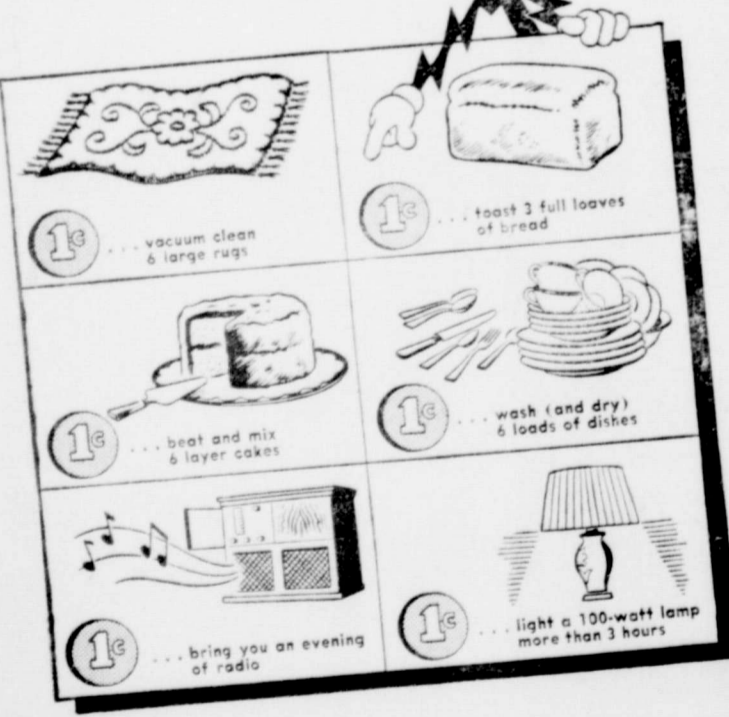

Mrs. R. V. Hagle hosted the Thursday meeting of the Bluebonnet H. D. Club, when Mrs. W. J. Bryant, president of Stamford Garden Club, was guest speaker. Mrs. Bryant, had divided loyalty, between flowers and shrubs, for the yard. She gave new ideas to the Bluebonnet club, when she said, "One of the best hedges is wild plum, during seasons of ripe plum, tie a string on your favorite plum bush, then transplant them in January. Not only do they make good hedges but also they are productive around Christmas. Instead of driving miles for cedar trim, your evergreens can be pointed not blocked. "Roses are long-lived due to extreme weather. March 1 is the best time to prune rose bushes. Prune bushes 12 inches from the ground. "I just love to dig in the ground, and I have found one can grow most anything," Mrs. Bryant emphasized the importance of different soil. Mrs. A. C. Denson, president, presided over a short business session. Mrs. Fred Knipping gave the slick trick. Quoting Mrs. Knipping, "For a preservative for fresh cut flowers, use Geon Latex. This plastic fluid holds the moisture in the flowers and will last days longer." The food demonstrators, Mrs. John Wendeborn and Mrs. Lee Cornelius, will give demonstrations on cakes and never-fail icings. Refreshments were served to Mesdames Raymond Astin, Arthur Williams, Clyde Grice, A. C. Denson, Fred Knipping, John Wendeborn, Lee Cornelius, and two visitors, Mrs. W. J. Bryant and Mrs. J. M. ### Farmlands of Southwest Being Given Plant Cover to Resist Wind Erosion

Soil conservation farmers in Texas and Oklahoma areas that are under threat of Spring blowing are taking advantage of excellent moisture conditions to list and chisel farmlands to reduce the blow threat.

Reports to Louis P. Merrill of Fort Worth, regional Soil Conservation Service head, show that thousands of farmers in the western portions of the two states are getting their land in condition to resist blowing and making plans to get good plant cover on it as quickly as possible.

Field men of the Soil Conservation Service had reported to the regional director that 4,613,200 acres of Texas and Oklahoma lands are still without enough plant cover to prevent wind erosion when drying winds come with sufficient force.

More than 3 million of these unprotected acres are in Texas, 2,873,000 in Plains areas and nearly 200,000 acres in the sandy Cross Timbers.

Oklahoma's total in acres without sufficient protection is 1,561,000 with 1,131,700 acres in Plains lands and 42,000 in Cross Timbers sandy land.

The field reports to Merrill say that the soil surface in many areas is puffed and powdery as a result of the alternate freezing and thawing of recent weeks.

Such lands are in a far more precarious condition than they were in last fall when we had so much wind erosion, Merrill said.

Field headquarters of SCS are encouraging use of emergency measures to prevent immediate blowing and are helping operators in starting long range programs that will furnish continuing protection against the wind. The emergency measures include listing, chiseling, or deep plowing. The longer term program includes the use of crops that will provide good wind resistant stubble or residue, such as grain sorghums, the use of strips or blocks of such crops with a clean-tilled crops such as cotton or peanuts and at all times the practice of leaving plant residue intact until there is moisture in the soil to produce a new crop. Crop rotations are also important in keeping the soil in a wind-breaking condition.

Recent rains and snow have increased the depth of soil moisture from zero to some points to from 18 to 60 inches depths over the entire plains area of Texas and Oklahoma. This gives new life to wheat in dry areas, assuring the success of that crop generally. It further guarantees the opportunity for a long time conservation cropping program when Spring planting time comes.

In some areas where wind erosion has been especially severe, landowners are working hard to get the badly damaged areas in permanent grass cover.

Tours and visits to areas and farms on which blowing has been controlled by soil conservation measures have been extremely convincing to operators who have seen their unprotected fields hummocked and blown out in recent months.

The regional SCS director cited examples of good practices in the hazardous areas:

TEXAS—C. O. Lackey, in the Idalou community in the Lubbock County SCS District, has controlled erosion on moderately heavy and moderately sandy land by rotating cotton with sorghums and wheat and using subsurface tillage on the sorghum and wheat stubble.

O. C. Horne, Lubbock County SCS District cooperators, is controlling wind erosion by rotating cotton with combine sorghums each year and plowing combine sorghum stubble so as to leave it on the surface.

In the Lamesa area, W. T. Suellgrove, a member of board of supervisors of the Dawson County SCS District, successfully used rye as a winter cover on an area that has blown badly in previous years.

Ronald Davis near Stellite in the Hall County SCS District, used a strip crop pattern of rye, grain sorghum and cotton on 160 acres of sand, which had blown badly in past years. This year it was necessary to clean off the highway along other farms in the neighborhood but Davis' farm held.

J. W. Thomas, county agent and district cooperators at Wellington, planted weeping lovegrass on badly blowing sand. The grass was left two years. Cotton was planted on this land in 1948. The old sod has held this land very well. Thomas plans to grow cotton one more year and then plant alfalfa. A rotation of two years of cotton, with two or more of a sod crop, seems to control the deepsand. Thomas got a bale an acre from his land with only 7 inches of rain in 1948.

In the last four years, B. R. Bassel, cooperators with the Hale County SCS District, has switched from row crop farming to alfalfa and improved pasture. This eliminated erosion on his farm. Bassel says his income from the improved pastures is higher per acre than on the alfalfa and that this type of farming is easier as well as more profitable than row crop farming. Bassel seeded one pasture to hubam in the Spring then seeded his grasses in this residue next fall. He obtained an excellent stand.

Ed Jacobson of Adrian, near Amarillo, has excellent cover of sorghum protecting fields near his home. Same fields were damaged by hard winds years ago. Has been no blowing on those fields this year.

G. G. Goss, chairman of the Brown - Mills SCS District board, controlled wind erosion by the combined use of vetch and rye as cover crops, strip cropping and using stubble field with vetch and rye stubble mulch which was kept intact through the summer. He planted vetch and rye again this fall.

C. M. Barr, of the South End conservation group south of Cross Plains this year left all his crop residue including grass and weedy growth undisturbed. As a result, he had no blowing. In addition, he made a fair corn crop. He is a cooperator in the Central Colorado SCS District. Phil Bird of near Vernon, in the Wilbarger-Wichita SCS District, is controlling wind erosion on his sandy land farm with rye, vetch, alfalfa and residue management. He reports not an acre blowing.

W. A. Naples, of near Dublin, has controlled wind erosion on his deep sand farm by applying a balanced conservation program on each acre for 8 years. He uses contour strip crops, vetch and rye cover crops and trashy

Unusual Effects Achieved by Cotton As Floor Covering

An attractive, though rarely executed, decorator effect is achieved through the use of cotton fabrics as a floor or wall covering, the National Cotton Council reports.

The application can be achieved by the average homemaker, according to home fashion experts, at Mallinson fabric house. These recommendations are suggested for applying the fabrics so that it will stand hard wear and traffic for several years.

The floor should be perfectly smooth and clean. If it is uneven, a lining can be applied in much the same manner as first applied before linoleum is laid. The floor surface is then pasted with a good quality warm masticum which will hold the fabric more firmly to the floor. The salvage is trimmed from the fabric and the material is then applied, brushing all the wrinkles out just as wallpaper is applied to a wall.

It is very important that the edge of the fabric be kept perfectly straight. This can be achieved by marking the floor with a chalk line so that the edge of the fabric will be straight to this line. The next strip of fabric is then applied, putting the two points together and matching the patterns. The floor should not be walked on until thoroughly dry, and approximately 12 mulch tillage.

John Campbell, cooperating with Upper West Fork SCS District and member of Avis Group No. 2, has controlled wind erosion by growing vetch and small gains for grazing on blow sand fields. Even though the vetch and grain had not made a complete cover the land did not blow where the land had been in vetch for two years.

OKLAHOMA—Lynn Worrell, near Hollis in the Farm Security SCS District, applied a crop rotation which includes legumes, alfalfa and sweet clovers and sowed his worst blow areas to weeping and sand lovegrass. Several of Worrell's neighbors have asked the SCS district board for help in getting a program such as Worrell's on their farms. Windbreaks, strip cropping, cover crops of rye and vetch, and crop residue management are helping to keep H. N. Montgomery's farm near Blair, Oklahoma, from blowing. Montgomery, supervisor of the Jackson County SCS District, hauled a large quantity of cotton burrs on his land to increase the organic matter content.

Texan Develops New Cotton Picker

W. E. Ramsey, Stanton, Texas, has developed a new type of cotton picker which uses suction to remove cotton from the bolls.

He has been advised by the U. S. Patent Office that from preliminary investigation his machine appears patentable.

The Stanton farmer started work on his machine during the war when he could not get pickers. He has made a number of improvements in the machine, and last season he used it to harvest his cotton crop.

Mr. Ramsey says that his picker can be used to pick up cotton that has fallen to the ground and can be adjusted so that bolls not fully opened will not be affected. The picker can be pulled by a tractor or a pickup, he reports.

HERE ON BUSINESS

A. C. Seago of Rochester was a business visitor in Haskell Monday.

hours should be allowed for drying.

After the floor is dry, it should be given two or three coats of lacquer, depending on the nature of the fabric used. The more porous cotton fabrics will absorb more lacquer, and the more lacquer there is on the surface, the longer the floor treatment will last. After the lacquer is thoroughly dry, the floor can be treated as any other floor and can be waxed or cleaned with a mild solution of soap and water.

It is most important that the fabrics be pre-shrunk, and it is easier to apply a glazed material such as chintz than to apply an unglazed fabric. Extreme care should be taken in choosing a pattern to be used on the floor, so that it is pleasant from all angles.

Wall coverings are applied just as floor covering. A colorful, attractive decorator effect can be accomplished by treating the walls of the room with a cotton fabric covering of a contrasting solid, or striped pattern.

Uncle Sam Says

Ten years can make a big difference. That youngster, now in diapers, will be grown up and ready for college in 10 years. Or you may be ready to tackle that pet project of yours, a new home, retirement, or starting a small business. Yes, 10 years can make a difference in many things. Money, for instance. If you go about it right you can make today's money grow, right along with those plans for the future.

Figure, today, how much you'll need in 10 years. Then put aside the amount in U. S. Savings Bonds each week, enough to equal the total you have in mind, always remembering that for every three dollars you invest today, you will receive four dollars in 10 years. If you are on a payroll, join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. If you are self-employed, enroll for the Bond-a-Month Plan at your own bank.

Attends Meeting of Purina Dealers In Fort Worth

W. P. Trice of Haskell, just returned from Fort Worth, where he attended a conference of several hundred Purina feed dealers. Feed dealers from Texas and Oklahoma were present at the conference where they were told of the newest developments and trends in the feed industry and new ideas in scientific farm management.

L. C. Stevenson of St. Louis, Missouri, Ralston Purina sales manager of the southern region, sounded an optimistic note for farmers as he reviewed the prospects for 1949. He pointed out that feed prices should be lower during the year while the demand and prices for meat, milk, and eggs are expected to remain good. Citing opportunities for feed dealers to serve farmers, he said that a record number of chicks will be hatched and started this year and an increase in the number of pigs farrowed on the nation's farms is expected. To help feed this increased poultry and livestock population and add to the world food supply is the job the feed dealers have ahead of them for 1949.

This feed dealer conference was the first to be held since 1941. Since that time the commercial feed industry is reported to have increased its output from 13 million tons to 30 million tons a year, proof that farmers in this area and throughout the country are giving more attention to a scientific program of feeding, management and sanitation to produce more meat, milk and eggs.

This chipmunk-like animal, anxiously reaching for his dinner of canned dog food, is a Syrian Golden Hamster. He and scores of his relatives are kept to test the effectiveness of various canine rations.

By TOM FARLEY

Although they probably don't know it, and couldn't care less if they did, a group of small, chipmunk-like animals are helping to make Fido's daily dish the last word in canine chow.

Known as the Syrian Golden Hamsters, the little mammals, who look as if they escaped straight from the pages of Peter Rabbit complete with sleek, red fox jackets, are kept to test the effectiveness of formula after formula of prepared dog food. They were chosen for this purpose because they reproduce so rapidly (the female usually produces several litters of a dozen young a year) that the value of a diet can be observed on several generations in a matter of months. If dogs were used it would take years before the results of a specific type of formula became apparent.

Cerebral Palsy Clinic Will Be Held April 4th In Lubbock

A clinic for the examination of Cerebral Palsied children will be held Monday, April 4, at the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center, 1317 Tenth Street, Lubbock.

Orthopedic specialists from Amarillo and Plainview will be present to examine patients.

Cerebral palsy is sometimes referred to as spastic paralysis or birth injury and may be evidenced by the child's inability to sit alone, stand alone, walk or hold objects at the age these things are accomplished by the average child. Research has shown that treatment is most effective if started within the first few months of the child's life, although children respond to the treatment begun at a much later age.

Parents planning to bring children to the clinic are requested to register the children at the Center prior to the date of the clinic. Information regarding the clinic may be obtained by writing Dr. Esther Snell Director, or calling Lubbock 6541.

Lunchrooms In Texas Schools Serve Meals To 293,136 Children Daily, Report Shows

The number of Texas school children taking part in the community school lunch program has jumped 13 per cent above a year ago.

This announcement came today from M. F. Thurmond, school lunch director, State Department of Education.

Latest count shows 293,136 children are eating lunches daily in 2,314 schools. About 72 per cent are served Type A lunch with milk.

In Haskell County, 1,484 children eat lunch daily in nine school lunchrooms, records in the office of the county superintendent show.

Since last July, USDA's Production and Marketing Administration in cooperation with 79 county school superintendents throughout the state have distributed to these schools about 236 carlots of farm products, most of which were brought from farmer's under USDA's price support programs. Major foods are dried eggs, dried and canned fruits and Irish potatoes. In addition, PMA also has purchased other foods which children need for a balanced meal. Included are cheese, dried milk, canned tomatoes, tomato paste and orange juice.

The school lunch program continues to be an ever increasing outlet for a lot of farm products which are not being absorbed through regular trade channels, Thurmond emphasized.

He added that this is one of the reasons for the joint sponsorship of the national school lunch program by USDA and the State Department of Education. It is essentially a community project with the state government matching funds put up by the federal government and looking after foods received from USDA. This partnership makes it possible to shift plentiful foods into areas where these foods are less plentiful. For instance, Texas school children are benefiting from raisins, prunes and peaches grown in other parts of the country, he explained.

Military T-Shirt Goes High Fashion

The T-shirt that once graced the backs of the American servicemen from the halls of the Pentagon Building to the shores of Okinawa has found a more glamorous role. It has gone high-fashion, and style-wise young ladies have adopted the cotton T-shirt as their favorite sportswear this season.

The shirts have undergone a few changes since they were worn by the fighting forces. Now they are designed in colorful stripes, solid shades, and other printed patterns. Some of the cotton T-shirts have an attractive soft sheen.

In addition to the regular T-shirt styles, variations including the sweater blouse, the basque shirt, and boucle blouses, have been inspired by the cotton T-shirt.

Uncle Sam Says

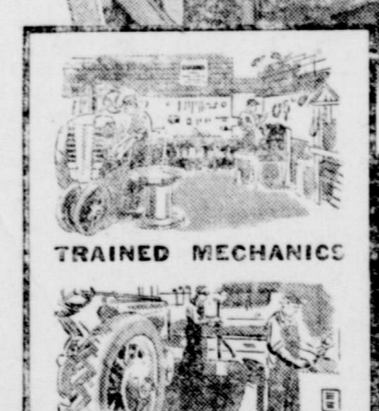

In this day you have to live by the clock. And each 24 hours it ticks off means another day added to your age. Get the clock on your side by signing up now for one of the two safe, automatic plans of savings, the Payroll Savings Plan for the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank.

Uncle Sam Says

In February we observe the birthdays of two very famous Americans, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Practical men, they understood the value of thrift, the necessity for a well-ordered method of saving. They had no ready-made plan such as is now offered by the U. S. Savings Bonds program. You specify the sum to be allotted each payday, where you work. That is the Payroll Savings Plan. If self-employed, use the Bond-a-Month Plan at your bank. And in 10 years, you reap the reward—$4 for every $3 you invest.

Fashion Predicts Color and Rayons For Younger Set

The Spring fabric picture is a bright one this year, particularly for the fashion-minded teen-ager and junior miss. Several new rayon fabrics are available as well as many interesting variations of old favorites.

The over-all fashion is for color and changeable colors, and rayon fabrics, both spun and filament continue in their leading significance in all price ranges.

Rayon faille and rayon bengaline are important Spring fabrics, both for suits and coats. Iridescent failles, which maintain their soft, pliable texture but have the attractive two-color effect, are appearing in small quantities and are expected to be popular for Spring wear. Iridescent faille has a slightly more sophisticated air which pleases the young set.

Novelty spun rayons provide many new fabrics for Spring wear. They range all the way from a soft, loose-weave fabric with a fuzzy texture, to linen-type finishes. Most spun rayons are ideally suited to sub-deb clothes, both casual and dressy, because they are usually washable. Spun rayons may look and feel like fabrics, as well as appearing in many unique fabrics.

Rayon shantung, the "glamour girl" staple is an outstanding fashion leader for Spring in junior clothes. It is being used in the typical rough textured shantung weave in solid colors and prints, as well as in fancy rayon jacquard shantungs.

There is an eye-catching addition to any sub-deb wardrobe in the iridescent rayon shantungs which are brand new and a sure bet for top fashion honors.

Rayon corded fabrics, relative new-comers in fashion, are branching out into suits, tailored dresses, skirts, jackets and coats. They are noted for their firmness and good "hand," and long-wearing qualities.

Rayon tissue faille, which has become a fabric "classic," is perky and pretty in gay prints for Spring. Two-piece dresses, in printed tissue faille are ideal for parties. Some printed tissue failles are also available moired for bouffant evening wear.

All in all, Miss Junior America has a wide selection of fabrics to choose from this year. The question this Spring, is not what fabric she can find, as it was during the war years, but which fabric she wants to choose!

Accessories Take Spotlight In New Fashions

Accessories make the fashion this Spring.

Whether you are going to buy a completely new outfit or want to try new tricks with last Spring's costume, your accessories, a new pair of gloves, a group of scatter pins used a new way, a pretty bracelet, mean the difference between the fashions of this season and last.

Sleeves, this Spring run from short to non-existent.

Many suits have "convertible" sleeves. This sleeve has a long, slit cuff which, turned back, bares the forearm; turned down, it forms a regular full-length sleeve.

Many coats have either elbow-length sleeves or sleeves which can be pushed up to show the elbow. Some coats have only a shoulder cape for sleeves. Most daytime and after-five dresses have either the briefest cap sleeves or no sleeves at all.

Let colored accessories make a high fashion costume out of your good, year-round suit or dress. Try, for instance, avocado green gloves with navy. Avocado is a new warm olive green shade which combines effectively with many colors. Bags and shoes to match are also available in this color.

The casual glove is more important than ever, not only because tweeds are increasingly important but because the simple, casual "no everywhere" dress or suit is gaining great popularity. Typical of the gloves designed to be worn casually is Kislav's hand crocheted back and leather palm glove. This glove can also be lifted completely out of the casual class by fastening a pretty scatter pin on the back.

Many other gloves have been designed to fit particularly into a season in which accessories reign supreme. These gloves range from the briefest of shorties to elegant long, long evening gloves.

Herbert Sandheim, famed New York designer, has chosen Hope Skillman's beautiful satin-striped cotton for one of the season's most sophisticated suits. He fashions the suit with slim, flattering lines for the jacket and skirt and places emphasis on the hip-line with t pocket-like treatment.

Brigance, noted fashion authority, has used bird's-eye pique cleverly in a striking day-into-evening dress. It has a definite princess feeling with a slim midriff and full skirt. The gored, make unpressed pleats in the front and extended up over the shoulders to separate into slots, so they may be worn dropped for extra glamour.

Charles Armour, a master-hand at handling cotton, treats it with great elegance in a gossamer garden party costume of delicate, pale blue voile. Emphasizing femininity, he has skillfully applied filmy white lace on the full skirt.

Coming of Spring Turns Spotlight On Cotton Styles

Old Sol is peering down from the heavens with a glimmer of a smile that promises Spring is on the way.

With the first hint of sunny days to come, the fashion-wise have focused their attention on the season's lovely new costumes designed in cotton—the sunshine fiber.

Cotton—in every color, texture, and pattern—is dominating the 1949 fashion scene. Designers of suits, play clothes, town dresses, and formals all have turned to the wonderful new cottons for inspiration. The collections this season are marked by fresh, original interpretations in cotton fabrics ranging from reavy, wrinkle resistant tweeds to sheer, delicate voiles.

Herbert Sandheim, famed New York designer, has chosen Hope Skillman's beautiful satin-striped cotton for one of the season's most sophisticated suits. He fashions the suit with slim, flattering lines for the jacket and skirt and places emphasis on the hip-line with t pocket-like treatment.

Farmhouse Plans Available In USDA Bulletin

Thirteen up-to-date farmhouse plans, every one designed to give farm families comfortable and efficient surroundings, are pictured and described in a new U. S. Department of Agriculture bulletin, "Farmhouse Plans for the Northeastern States." W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer-buildings of Texas A&M College, says that county home demonstration agents now have the bulletin in their offices.

These 13 houses are adapted to most Texas conditions. Since a farmhouse is a combined home and work center, the designers have seen to it that each house has outstanding features that included are: rooms planned for family work and living; space for eating in the kitchen; a place near the back door for the men to wash up and hang work clothes; indoor traffic routes that do not cross busy work areas, adequate storage space for food and fuel; and ample closet space.

Every house, adds Allen, is designed for runing water and each plan provides for at least one bathroom.

These plans are the product of the Regional Plan Services. This is a cooperative arrangement between the USDA and the states in a region. They work together in developing plans for farm buildings that are suitable for the region. The 13 farmhouse plans for the northeast were developed by three agencies in the department: Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics,

Flowers, Shrubs, Need Protection From Wind

A windbreak to protect the flowers and shrubs about the homesteads is needed in every county in the state.

That is the advice from Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape gardening specialist of Texas A&M College, who explains that the destructive mechanical action of the wind often mars the beauty of shrubs by spoiling their shapes and destroying the blooms.

Besides this, tender plants are hindered in growth or may be killed by the wind. Unless there is a natural windbreak, planting one is the logical first step in landscaping a home, says Miss Hatfield. It will pay special dividends by breaking the force of the wind and modifying the temperature.

There is a combination of trees and shrubs that are well adapted for use in windbreaks, says Miss Hatfield. Among these which have been successfully planted for this purpose are re- sistant willow, tamarix or salt cedars, native pine, western willow pine, red cedar and Arizona cypress. The landscape gardening specialist points out that the plants native to the locality are good ones to use for windbreaks. In areas free of frost, the Chinese elm is a good choice because of its rapid growth and variety of trees, but not a good idea in just one variety.

Where root rot is a problem, walnut, cedar elm and Chinese pistache are grown for windbreaks because of their resistance to root rot, concludes Miss Hatfield.

Home Owners Urged to Check Awning Problems

Spring is about to make its entrance, and now is the time to begin planning how colorful canvas awnings can add comfort to homes during the hot days of summer.

Pre-season consideration of awning problems has a number of advantages, the National Cotton Council points out. First of all, most awning dealers offer lower prices on orders placed now. The homemaker also has more time to study a veritable rainbow of harmonizing fabric samples and plan an attractive exterior color scheme for the home.

Orders placed now will receive priority from the dealer for installation just before the first hot days arrive. Now, too, is the time to check your present awnings. Any small rips or tears can be repaired now at a minimum of expense, and replacements ordered early if needed.

Canvas awnings will reduce the amount of solar heat passing through the windows by as much as 75 per cent, the Council says, basing its statement on research conducted by the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers. An unusual fact uncovered during the Society's investigation is that canvas awnings increase their efficiency each day between the early hours of the morning, when they are needed least, and the afternoon hours, when heat is greatest.

The tests show that cotton awnings prevent half the sun's radiation from passing through windows between 12 and 1 o'clock. From 2 until 5 o'clock, when radiation more than triples, the awnings prevent 88 per cent of the solar heat from passing through windows into a room. Of various types of shading test-canvas awnings proved most effective by a substantial margin.

Other work of the board in the meeting included authorization of a full-time office secretary, naming of a membership committee, preliminary planning of a work program for the new year, and resuming monthly membership breakfasts.

Present plans call for the first membership breakfast to be held in early April at which time the organization will begin its program of work for the new year. Other planned membership meetings will deal with chamber membership, trade extension, and housing.

It is hoped, Spain said, that a final report can be published in the next issue of this newspaper, giving the quotas assigned to each district and the amount raised in each.
