HASKELL, TEXAS

Texas Newspaperman Writes Story Of Famed XIT Ranch

The first authoritative account of the biggest ranch in the history of Texas is told in "Cattle Empire", the fabulous story of the 3,000,000 acre XIT, by Lewis Nordyke, scheduled for publication on September 19 by William Morrow and Company, New York.

The story of the XIT began in 1875 when Texans decided they wanted a new State Capitol at Austin—the biggest in the country—and cast about them for a means of paying for it. A resolution was written into the new Constitution being drafted that year, providing for the grant of 3,000,000 undeveloped acres of Panhandle land to whoever would build the Capitol for them. In 1881, the old Capitol having burned meanwhile, they advertised for bids. A group of Chicagoans, figuring they could build the Capitol for $1,500,000, made a successful bid and signed the contract.

The Farwells—Charles B., the politician who later became U. S. Senator from Illinois, and John V., the merchant prince who gave Marshall Field his start—were the master minds. Abner Taylor, builder, promoter, and politician, took charge of building the Capitol. Only after the contract was signed did any of the group see the land, and then they sent out their fourth member, Colonel Amos C. Babcock, on an inspection trip. Wearing a Homburg hat, he rolled into the traditionally Western Panhandle in an Army ambulance, commandeered, through political connections, from Fort Elliott, a military post some hundred miles east of the Capitol Lands.

Babcock inspected the lands thoroughly. They stretched for nearly 200 miles north to south along the New Mexico border and were an average of 27 miles wide. They were in nine separate counties. Many Texans deemed the lands worthless and laughed over how Texas had pulled the wool over the Chicagoans eyes, but Babcock, after his trip of inspection, estimated that his group could make $4,500,000 in five years by raising cattle. There was a lot of wishful thinking in this, because Babcock had little money and had invested it all in the hope of making a quick killing. Taylor was on the same spot. But the Farwells could afford to wait and wanted to, planning to sell the land at a profit when settlement had pushed farther west. Nevertheless, under the pressure of circumstances, they did agree to start a ranching operation.

They started by hiring a colorful personality named Barbecue Campbell to manage it and began at Buffalo Springs, in the northernmost section of the land, by enclosing a sizeable area with fence and driving in 27,000 cattle from Southern Texas. This done they all caught the fever and decided within a year to extend the cattle operation to the entire area, first building some six hundred miles of barbed-wire fence all the way around.

From the first, water was and remained a major problem. There were others. Because of political delays and speculation in materials, the Capitol was costing far more than had been anticipated and the extended ranching operation absorbed money like a sponge. To get fresh capital, the Farwells organized a British syndicate. Wildly enthusiastic at first the members of the syndicate soon became embittered when profits were not forthcoming, and were thorn in the flesh from the first to the last. From the first, also, the XIT outlawed most of the old customs of the West and won enemies thereby. Local politicians also interfered. Each of the nine counties wanted its own organized government, an ambition which the XIT consistently opposed because it meant higher taxes and interference in what it considered its private affairs. Consequently, the ranch was embattled from the start. However, it persevered until vast herds of cattle were strung the whole length of the huge pasture. They were received at the southern end (the Yellow Houses) and were progressively moved northward until after two years they reached Buffalo Springs. Then they were pushed northward on the trail to Montana where the XIT had leased more colossal acreage, on which the steers were fattened before being shipped east to market.

In spite of prairie fires that would sweep in a few days across hundreds of miles of the XIT leveling everything in their path, political enmities, and other human and natural problems, the XIT did succeed in working out a profitable technique. But by that time, history had caught up with it. The trail to Montana had been closed by settlement, and homesteaders moving westward were clamoring for the XIT lands. So John V. Farwell put the map for sale, thus instigating the last of the great land runs in the country. When all the chips were counted, the Farwell heirs still held some 70,000 acres, which they still hold, and the Old West was no more.

Lewis Nordyke, author of "Cattle Empire", was born on a farm near Cottonwood, Texas. He graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism in 1933, and has since worked as a newspaper man throughout Texas, writing for national magazines on the side. Since 1937 (with one year out for an editorial job up North) he has been associated with the Amarillo Globe-News where he now does a daily column as well as special assignments that take him around the country.

As a boy, doing occasional ranch work for a neighbor, Mr. Nordyke heard the wonderful stories seasoned cowpokes had to tell about earlier and more adventuresome days in the Cow Country. That started his interest in Western history and, specifically, the fabulous XIT. In preparing his full-scale account of the ranch, he has gone to the land itself repeatedly, examining some 60,000 documents, and talked with all who had knowledge to share—descendants of the principals and grizzled old-timers who still remember the parts they played in this colorful American drama.

tween 5 and 8 p. m. are the most dangerous for pedestrians in fall and winter months because the going home rush hour for millions of American workers comes during dusk and darkness. As daylight slowly gives way to dusk and darkness during the going home rush hour, millions of persons fail to adjust their habits to the new conditions of poorer visibility, the Council said. Jay-walking and crossing against traffic lights become doubly dangerous because pedestrians do not realize that they can see cars much easier than drivers can see them.

Drivers contribute to the danger by failure to slow down as visibility decreases, according to the Council. They continue to try to drive the same distance in the same amount of time, although darkness may make their speed hazardous.

Pedestrians: Danger Lurks for You In Autumn Months

Whether you were born under Taurus the Bull or Leo the Lion, you may be a dead duck if you walk carelessly between 5 and 8 p. m. during the fall and winter months. The National Safety Council said that regardless of what the stars portend, its statistics cast a horoscope of danger for pedestrians during the evening hours ahead. The safety of pedestrians during this period will not depend as much on the signs of Zodiac as on the sign of the Green Light, the Council believes. Council figures show that almost one-fourth of all pedestrian deaths in street traffic occur during only one-sixteenth of the year—the hours between 5 and 8 p. m. in October through March. The figures emphasize the importance of the fall campaigns in the nationwide "Operation Safety" program, which are devoted to pedestrian safety and night traffic hazards. The three evening hours be-

Newly Crowned 'Miss America'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—"Miss America of 1949", Jacque Mercer of Phoenix, Ariz., receives the first of the major prizes awarded following her triumph in the annual "Miss America" pageant here. The 18-year-old chestnut-haired dramatics student accepts the keys to a new Nash Ambassador sedan from E. M. Christie, eastern sales executive of Nash Motors. Nash is a sponsor of the pageant's $25,000 scholarship fund, $5,000 of which goes to "Miss America" and the rest to 15 runners-up.

Farmers Faced With Prospect of Labor Shortage for Harvesting Prospective Bumper Cotton Crop

Haskell county cotton growers, along with practically all other Texas farmers are now faced with prospects of the most bountiful cotton that the State has produced in a number of years. The acreage is as great as has ever been planted and the yield promises to be one of the greatest harvests in years, this causing a tremendous shortage of cotton pickers and pullers at the present time.

The gathering of the crop is all the more complicated due to the fact that cotton is now ripening through the great central section of the State, from Victoria on the south, Paris on the east, and Lubbock in the western plains section of the State. Due to this fact it is going to be difficult to get sufficient cotton pickers in the various communities as they are needed. Mexican Nationals are available, but there is quite an expense in procuring such labor. There has been several thousand of such pickers brought into the State of Texas, but even with these additional pickers the demand is still greater than the supply and a shortage exists through the greater portion of the central and western sections of the State.

With the support price of cotton the farmers are assured a good price for their cotton. It behooves all available laborers in each community to rally to the support of the farmer and their community in helping to gather the cotton crop. The time has been when local schools and business houses would close early in the afternoon in order that the school children and the help in the stores as well as housewives could go out to the cotton fields. It may be that such means will again have to be resorted to in order to save the present cotton crop.

The Texas Employment Commission through its farm program is directing migratory farm crews, as the crop is harvested in the southern sections of the state, to other localities further north and west as the harvest progresses. In addition to these migratory crews the TEC is recruiting and directing all agricultural laborers to farmers in the various localities through the state.

Individuals and crew leaders should contact the local Texas Employment Commission Farm Representative in their locality or the Texas Employment Commission office if there is such an office in their locality, and the TEC will make effort to refer such people to farmers that need cotton gathered.

The counties of Archer, Baylor, Clay, Haskell, Knox, Throckmorton, and Wichita are handled through the Wichita Falls office. Any cotton pickers or crew leaders that are available for cotton pulling should contact the Wichita Falls office.

The Texas Employment Commission has specially trained placement men that can be contacted at the Chamber of Commerce in Haskell and Knox City. People living in the area of these two towns should contact the Chamber of Commerce office in either of these towns and ask for the TEC Farm Replacement man.

Sponsored by members of the Church of Christ in this city, a shipment of a quantity of serviceable used clothing was shipped this week to Gallup, N. M., to be distributed to Indians living on the government reservations in that section.

During harvest last year, CROP volunteers assembled over 2,000 cartloads of foodstuffs which were shipped to 23 foreign countries. Goals have been increased this year. The campaign is sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service (22 denominations) and Lutheran World Relief.

General Downward Trend Shown In Southwest Farm Markets Past Week

Many southwest farm products sold lower during the past week, while others held steady or showed gain, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

Wheat and oats advanced slightly, as milo dropped 16 cents a hundred pounds and other grains lost 1 to 3 cents a bushel. No. 2 yellow milo closed Monday at $2.05 to $2.10, basis Texas common points. No. 1 hard wheat brought $2.33 to $2.39.

Demand for mixed feeds improved, and some feedstuffs strengthened as others declined. Prairie hay prices moved upward on limited supplies, while alfalfa showed little change. Peanuts held steady, but peanut oil and meal sold lower.

Pork loins dropped $11 to $12 for the week, and most other meats $1 to $4.

Livestock marketings continued about as heavy last week as the week before.

Monday's prices on cattle and calves were steady to $1 higher than a week earlier at Texas and Oklahoma markets, except that all calves lost 50 cents to $1 at San Antonio and stocker calves dropped that amount at Oklahoma City. Cattle and calves registered losses ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 at Denver.

Butcher hogs and sows lost around $1, more or less at all southwest markets during the past week. Pigs shared the loss at Oklahoma City but held steady at Texas markets. Top butchers closed Monday at $20 at Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Season's first cranberries and Northwestern apples brightened produce markets this week. Continued light diggings of sweet potatoes dropped to lower values in light demand in Texas and Louisiana. Good trading at New Orleans moved liberal receipts of most products at unchanged prices. Many prices declined in light trading at Denver. Colorado potatoes, onions and cauliflower found weak markets.

Southwest egg and poultry markets strengthened early last week, and have held firm since. Best candled white eggs sold mostly around 60 cents a dozen, and mixed colors 50 to 55 cents. New Orleans paid 57 to 60. Heavy hens brought 24 to 26 cents in North Texas and 20 to 33 at New Orleans. North Texas markets quoted No. 1 young turkeys from 30 to 35 cents a pound.

Most southwest cotton markets closed Monday 50 cents to $1 a bale lower than a week earlier. Spot middling 15-16 inch sold at 28.95 cents a pound at Dallas, 29.2 at Houston, and 29.75 at New Orleans.

TEXAS TIME

There is no limit to Texas talents... even to watch-making. And no limit to the pride of this pretty Texas miss in her new Timex wrist watch, the first watch ever manufactured in Texas. By establishing a great watch factory in Abilene, The U. S. Time Corporation has chalked up another "first" for the Lone Star State.

South Ward PTA Has First Meeting Of School Year

The Southward P. T. A. met Thursday, Sept. 22, at 3 p. m., in the American Legion Building for the first meeting of the school year. There were several new mothers present.

Mrs. C. D. Pennington, president, called the house to order and introduced Miss Eudora Hawkins who gave a very interesting talk on Safety in the Home. She said that more accidents occur in the home than anywhere else. Then she showed a film on Safety in the Home, which gave some very good ideas on how to be more careful and prevent some of the accidents which happen in the home.

A short business session was held, after which room count was taken. Mrs. Vaughter first grade and Mrs. Nellum's fourth grade tied with having the most mothers present so each room will receive the one dollar award.

The usual type of poultry show at the 1949 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 8-23 will do away with competitive classes and instead will show poultry under simulated farm and backyard conditions.

Using FHA Farm Plan, Oscar T. Corzine Family Clears Debt On Modern Farm and Home Within Span of Seven Years

In 1941 Mr. and Mrs. Oscar T. Corzine of Rt. 1, Rule, made application to the FHA office in Haskell, then known as the FSA, for a loan with which to buy a farm.

At the time Mr. Corzine was 40 years old and had been farming as a tenant for 19 years. He had four children, 2 girls and 2 boys, the oldest boy being 17 years old. At that time the Corzine assets consisted of 1 cow, 12 hogs, 200 hens, a tractor, and a car. His net worth was figured at $2000. It was decided to let Mr. Corzine's application lay over a year to see if he would increase his net worth. This he did to the extent of $4000 in 1942, and by 1943 when Mr. Corzine found a farm that suited him, his net worth had increased to $5233. By this time the Corzines had 300 hens, a sow and 8 pigs, 6 cows and 4 calves, a new John Deere tractor and $730 worth of feed with which to feed the cows and hogs. They also had $500 in cash plus $381 they had put into War Bonds. By this time the oldest boy was serving his country as a member of the U. S. Navy.

The Corzines had selected a 160 acre tract of land west of Rule on the Brazos river just in the edge of Stonewall and Haskell counties. The farm was appraised, and on April 4, 1944 a loan of $10,300 was made to buy and improve the farm. The land cost the Corzines $8050, leaving $2250 to repair the dwelling, smoke house and brooder house and to build a new barn and poultry house. Work on the improvements was begun immediately and the old place began to take on new life.

With Mrs. Corzine acting as bookkeeper and accountant, the Corzines began work on a five year plan which was to put the farm into operation the way they wanted it and pay off the loan within 40 years. Under the changing system the Corzines were working out, the farm produced $4312.74 besides things used by the family the first year, 1944. The family spent the 1944 income in this manner: $1978.68 went for family living and operating the farm; $115.10 went to replace and repair capital goods; $638.96 was put into the bank to increase their $500, last years operating capital; $180 was held back to buy additional capital goods; $1400 was paid on their loan making 3 payments the first year instead of one. According to official records the Corzines increased their net worth $4796 the first year. Accounted for in this figure, of course, is the work done by the family in improving the farm. The year before the farm was valued by a qualified appraiser at $10,300 and a year later valued at $12,035 after the improvements were made. In 1945 the second step in this systematic operation of farm development began. This year, among other things, an orchard was set out and a hog pasture fenced.

When Mrs. Corzine closed her books on 1945, the family had lived better than they had ever lived before, had paid $1600 on their place, and had $2750 in the bank to make the 1946 crop and the 3rd step in their farm development work.

By the end of 1946 the Corzines had increased their net worth to $12,421 and owed only $6100 on the farm; had paid $2272 more on the farm, and still and pay itself out in 40 years. To make a long story short, by October 11, 1948 the Corzines had combined their maize and gathered enough cotton that they were able to burn the mortgage that day.

The Corzine's story is not the only one that can be told. The FHA records in Haskell are full of them just like it. It is one of the many, told to show what can be done with a little planning and a whole lot of work. In 1943 the Corzines were a tenant family, they had moved 7 times since 1923, they didn't know where their children would go to school after mid term or where they would go to church, or where they had $2151.70 in the bank. In 1947 the Corzines plan really began to pay off. Gross income from the place was $6301.39. Prices were good in 1947 and the terracing and soil improvement work done by Mr. Corzine had brought the place from below 1-4 bale of cotton per acre in 1943 to 1-2 bale per acre in 1947, and maize from below 1-2 ton to almost a ton. They had cut the outstanding balance on the land loan over half in 1947 having only $2757 left to go. And they still had more than $2000 in cash reserve and over $600 in U. S. Savings Bonds.

1948 was the last year for the Corzine's 5 year plan. By 1949 Mr. Corzine was to have his farm running in the manner he thought a farm should be run in order to make his family a good living would pay their taxes the next year. Now they are home owners tax payers, church goers, school supporters, etc. They have a heart to work because they know they will be there next year to reap the harvest.

The writer had occasion to be in conversation with another successful farmer at a social gathering one night in 1947. The Corzine family and place came up as a topic of discussion. This farmer said that "I sure hated to see Oscar buy that place and put out all the work and money improving it because I farmed it 5 years one time and went broke." Just goes to show, we think, what a good plan with the right family to work it can do to a farm.

Using FHA Farm Plan, Oscar T. Corzine Family Clears Debt On Modern Farm and Home Within Span of Seven Years

In 1941 Mr. and Mrs. Oscar T. Corzine of Rt. 1, Rule, made application to the FHA office in Haskell, then known as the FSA, for a loan with which to buy a farm.

At the time Mr. Corzine was 40 years old and had been farming as a tenant for 19 years. He had four children, 2 girls and 2 boys, the oldest boy being 17 years old. At that time the Corzine assets consisted of 1 cow, 12 hogs, 200 hens, a tractor, and a car. His net worth was figured at $2000. It was decided to let Mr. Corzine's application lay over a year to see if he would increase his net worth. This he did to the extent of $4000 in 1942, and by 1943 when Mr. Corzine found a farm that suited him, his net worth had increased to $5233. By this time the Corzines had 300 hens, a sow and 3 pigs, 6 cows and 4 calves, a new John Deere tractor and $730 worth of feed with which to feed the cows and hogs. They also had $500 in cash plus $381 they had put into War Bonds. By this time the oldest boy was serving his country as a member of the U. S. Navy.

The Corzines had selected a 160 acre tract of land west of Rule on the Brazos river just in the edge of Stonewall and Haskell counties. The farm was appraised, and on April 4, 1944 a loan of $10,300 was made to buy and improve the farm. The land cost the Corzines $8050, leaving $2250 to repair the dwelling, smoke house and brooder house and to build a new barn and poultry house. Work on the improvements was begun immediately and the old place began to take on new life.

With Mrs. Corzine acting as bookkeeper and accountant, the Corzines began work on a five year plan which was to put the farm into operation the way they wanted it and pay off the loan within 40 years. Under the changing system the Corzines were working out, the farm produced $4312.74 besides things used by the family the first year, 1944. The family spent the 1944 income in this manner: $1978.68 went for family living and operating the farm; $115.10 went to replace and repair capital goods; $638.96 was put into the bank to increase their $500, last years operating capital; $180 was held back to buy additional capital goods; $1400 was paid on their loan making 3 payments the first year instead of one. According to official records the Corzines increased their net worth $4796 the first year. Accounted for in this figure, of course, is the work done by the family in improving the farm. The year before the farm was valued by a qualified appraiser at $10,300 and a year later valued at $12,035 after the improvements were made.

In 1945 the second step in this systematic operation of farm development began. This year, among other things, an orchard was set out and a hog pasture fenced.

When Mrs. Corzine closed her books on 1945, the family had lived better than they had ever lived before, had paid $1600 on their place and had $2750 in the bank to make the 1946 crop and the 3rd step in their farm development work.

By the end of 1946 the Corzines had increased their net worth to $12,421 and owed only $6100 on the farm; had paid $2272 more on the farm, and still and pay itself out in 40 years. To make a long story short, by October 11, 1948 the Corzines had combined their maize and gathered enough cotton that they were able to burn the mortgage that day.

The Corzine's story is not the only one that can be told. The FHA records in Haskell are full of them just like it. It is one of the many, told to show what can be done with a little planning and a whole lot of work. In 1943 the Corzines were a tenant family, they had moved 7 times since 1923, they didn't know where their children would go to school after mid term or where they would go to church, or where they had $2151.70 in the bank. In 1947 the Corzines plan really began to pay off. Gross income from the place was $6301.39. Prices were good in 1947 and the terracing and soil improvement work done by Mr. Corzine had brought the place from below 1-4 bale of cotton per acre in 1943 to 1-2 bale per acre in 1947, and maize from below 1-2 ton to almost a ton. They had cut the outstanding balance on the land loan over half in 1947 having only $2757 left to go. And they still had more than $2000 in cash reserve and over $600 in U. S. Savings Bonds.

1948 was the last year for the Corzine's 5 year plan. By 1949 Mr. Corzine was to have his farm running in the manner he thought a farm should be run in order to make his family a good living would pay their taxes the next year. Now they are home owners, tax payers, church goers, school supporters, etc. They have a heart to work because they know they will be there next year to reap the harvest.

The writer had occasion to be in conversation with another successful farmer at a social gathering one night in 1947. The Corzine family and place came up as a topic of discussion. This farmer said that "I sure hated to see Oscar buy that place and put out all the work and money improving it because I farmed it 5 years one time and went broke." Just goes to show, we think, what a good plan with the right family to work it can do to a farm.

Culprits Break Into Penny Scales, But Leave Money

Culprits who broke into a penny weighing machine on the south side of the square sometime Saturday night evidently were only "practicing" or were frightened away after prizing open the machine.

Several dollars in pennies were left in the machine and scattered on the sidewalk at the base of the scales, the culprits probably not taking any of the money, officers said.

OKLAHOMA-TEXAS WEEKLY COTTON MARKET REVIEW

Mill buying in volume kept spot cotton markets in Oklahoma and Texas fairly busy last week, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

Most of the trading centered at Dallas where 126,845 bales were sold, more than double the sales of the previous week.

Likewise activity at the country's 10 spot markets showed a sudden spurt with sales reaching 344,400 bales compared with only 196,500 a week earlier and 155,700 during the same time last year.

Spot prices from Monday through Friday advanced a dollar per bale at Dallas and 25 cents at Houston and Galveston. Friday's closing quotations on middling 15-16 inch ranged from 29.50 cents per pound at Galveston to 29.32 at Dallas.

Compared to the same day last year, these prices were $8.75 per bale lower at Galveston to $10 lower at Dallas.

Demand continued to be mainly for the better grades for quick shipment. Export demand was about unchanged from a week ago.

Farmers have placed very little cotton in USDA's loan program. Total now stands at 4,500 bales for the season compared with 114,000 bales during the same time last year.

Cottonseed prices f. o. b. the gin ranged from $32 per ton for early ginnings in the Dio Grande Valley to $45 last week.

W. F. Ruge and family, Mrs. C. D. Long, Mrs. T. W. Long and children and Miss Gretta Long and Miss Lillie Wilfong went down on the Clear Fork Tuesday to spend a few days fishing.

R. M. Dickenson returned this week from Kansas where he has been looking after his cattle interests. We understand he made a good sale of beef steers while there.

Protection Against Whooping Cough Advised for Baby

Now is the time to have your baby protected from whooping cough, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. The Texas State Department of Health recommends that vaccination against this disease be administered at three months of age with a booster dose of vaccine when the baby is two years old. There is many a child whose life could have been saved if he had been immunized in infancy, said Dr. Cox.

"Whooping cough", said Dr. Cox, "first masquerades as an ordinary cold with running nose and eyes, followed by a slight cough. These symptoms develop about 1 to 14 days after exposure. Then in about another week the cough develops into a series of continuous attacks, in an effort to expell the troublesome mucous. An attempt to breathe during the choking spell produces the characteristic whooping sound. In mild cases it may be absent. The whooping stage lasts 4 to 6 weeks and may then take another two or three weeks to decline gradually.

"Here are some facts about whooping cough:

1. The disease starts like a common cold, 1 to 14 days after exposure. In about another week the cough develops and the whooping usually begins.
2. It is one of the communicable diseases children often catch at school. After a child has reached the age of five, fatalities occur less frequently. Children may carry this disease home to babies.
3. Most important of all is to see that infants are vaccinated against whooping cough, for most deaths occur among children less than one year of age.
4. Call your family physician at once if you suspect your child has whooping cough and follow his directions in detail."

Willing Workers H. D. Club Elects Officers

The Willing Workers H. D. Club Jud met in regular session Thursday, Sept. 22, at the community center. The club room was decorated with fall garden flowers.

The program was opened with singing "Home On the Range."

Roll call was answered with "The Number of Chairs At Home That Need Re-seating."

ected for the coming year:

Vice President, Mrs. E. E. Burleson;
Sec'y., Treas., Mrs. J. H. Isbell;
Council Delegate, Mrs. C. S. Jetton;

Dennis Chapel H-D Club Elects New Officers

On Friday, Sept. 16, the Dennis Chapel H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. Ben Redwine, with 11 members present.

Officers for the following year were elected as follows:
President, Mrs. Coyt Hix; Vice President, Mrs. Elwood Hackney; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Cecil Hutchinson; Council Delegate, Mrs. Robert Hutchinson; Reporter, Miss Eunice Hutchinson; Parliamentarian, Mrs. Guy Marshall; Correspondence Secretary, Mrs. Charlie Childress.

The club will have an all-day meeting in the home of Mrs. Charlie Childress to get our exhibit ready for the fair.

Club Pals were revealed and we drew names again.

Refreshments were served to 2 new members, Miss Eunice Hutchinson and Mrs. R. L. Cox. Other members were: Mrs. Coyt Hix, Mrs. C. C. Childress, Mrs. Clyde Walker, Mrs. Elwood Hackney, Mrs. G. C. Marshall, Mrs. D. I. White, Mrs. R. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Cecil Hutchinson, and the hostess, Mrs. Redwine.

Future Homemakers Elect Officers

About 50 girls attended the first meeting of the Future Homemakers of America this year when the meeting was called to order by Miss Lucille Watson, Home-making teacher.

Miss Watson presided during the election of officers and discussed some of the plans for the coming year. The following were elected to serve as officers:

President, Virginia Frierson; Vice President, Sue Busby; Secretary, Janoma Linton; Treasurer, Lula Faye Free; Reporter, Flossie Medford; Historian, Betty Redwin; Parliamentarian, Eva Adkins; Song Leader, Jane King.

It was agreed that the club should have both the booth at the fair and a float in the parade. Plans in general were discussed to entertain the parents, Faculty, and Agriculture Boys sometime during the year. We also decided to adopt foreign F. H. A. class.

First and third Monday nights were set aside for meetings and the group are trying to make this the best F.H.A. ever to be in Haskell.

USE FREE PRESS WANT ADS

When you're entertaining and want to be free of pot-watching, serve Hamburger Goulash. It's full of savor, combines nicely with a tossed green salad and suffers no damage if it must stand and wait for late guests' arrival. Fry 4 slices bacon and add 1 lb. cubed beef, 1 lb. cubed pork, 1 cup chopped onion. Brown lightly. Add 4 slices tomatoes, 1/2 tsp. paprika, 1/2 tsp. caraway seed, 1/2 tsp. marjoram, 1 tsp. salt, 2 cups stock. Simmer over low flame until beef is tender (about 2 hrs.). Yield: 8 portions. Place the goulash in a ring of fluffy white rice or mashed potatoes.

Dust and lint in the air collect on the air filters of your gas furnace. Now is an excellent time to replace this inexpensive protection obtainable from your hardware dealer or furnace repairman.

Soup sometimes becomes quite greasy. Drop a few lettuce leaves in it to absorb excess fat, then remove them just before serving.

Any acid foods allowed to remain on porcelain surfaces of sink or gas range will stain them. Wipe up spills at once with a soft paper towel.

Your finest linens will have a smoother finished texture if they are damp-dried in the gas dryer instead of dried out completely. They'll be easier to iron too.

Diced bacon favors hamburgers and helps to keep them moist. Use about 4 slices bacon to 1-lb hamburger.

"Women In Politics" Is Topic for Progressive Study Club Program

The influence of women in politics was the subject of discussion in the Progressive Study club last Thursday evening. Mrs. Eugene Frierson, director of the program, chose Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as the nations', and perhaps the world's, most outstanding female politician. Her ability as a public leader is unparalleled, and is recognized by men and women at home and abroad. As a Democrat and a Protestant, Mrs. Roosevelt's influence reaches far in the realms of politics and religion. In contrast, Mrs. Austin Coburn discussed Clare Booth Luce, Republican and member of the Catholic faith, whose influence is also felt far and near.

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China ranks first among the leading foreign women in politics. Her efforts to help her people and country have made her outstanding throughout the world. Miss Jane Holt brought interesting events of her life and work with the Chinese.

In a short business session, the club voted to be one hundred per cent in subscription to the "Texas Club Woman," a monthly publication of Federation news. To raise the attendance record.

State Ranks High In Poultry Sales

By tailoring their products to consumer preferences, Texas poultrymen produced more than $130,000,000 in poultry products last year to rank fourth among the 48 states in setting up a record-breaking national total of $3,071,000,000 it was pointed out today by Howard C. Pierce, national research director of A. & P. Food Stores.

"Whenever a commodity shows a jump in sales, it is always the result of consumer choice, and poultry is no exception to the rule," said Pierce, "as 90 years of food retaining have repeatedly demonstrated in our company."

"The public definitely wants chickens with more meat in proportion to bone," he said. "We relayed this preference to the poultry industry and since 1946 the A. & P. has backed the Chicken-of-Tomorrow campaign to produce such chickens."

"Now in its fourth year, the drive is producing 12-week-old birds that weigh up to four and five pounds instead of the former two and three—and twenty million of these meatier chickens are going to market this year."

Citing Department of Agriculture figures, Pierce showed that the fastest growing branch of poultry is commercial broiler production which has leaped upward 41 per cent since the drive began in 1946 to produce better broilers.

The extra meat poundage is playing a large part in the growth of over-all poultry income, Pierce added, giving the Department of Agriculture tabulations on top-ranking states.

In millions of dollars, the poultry earnings of the ten leading states last year were as follows: Pennsylvania, $202; California, $196; New York, $162; Texas, $131; Illinois, $130; New Jersey, $99; Virginia, $81; Maryland, $72; Delaware, $67; and Massachusetts, $65.

Liberty H-D Club Meets With Mrs. J. F. Ragsdale

Liberty H. D. Club had regular meeting Sept. 9, in the home of Mrs. J. F. Ragsdale with the president in charge of the program.

The program opened with a song, roll call was answered with a helpful household hint. Reports were given. Plans were completed for our exhibit.

The meeting was adjourned to meet again with Mrs. H. Russell on September 23. Refreshments were served to nine members.

Jud H. D. Club Sponsors "Play Night" Program

Sixty-three youths, adults and small children were registered by Mrs. Eugene Wheeler for play night at the Community Center in Jud, Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 7:30 p. m., sponsored by the Willing Workers H. D. Club.

The youths played outdoor games on a lighted court, supervised by Mrs. J. H. Isbell.

Mrs. E. E. Burlison entertained the small children with toys, colored paper and paste.

The adults played Progressive 42 and dominos.

Soda pop and chewing gum were sold to the crowd by Mrs. S. E. Lewis.

Three different hostesses are named for each monthly meeting.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

1. What do buyers look for in top market broilers?
 The broilers that bring top market prices are those with good fleshing quality, good feathering, low shipping and dressing shrinkage, and absence of breast blisters and deformities.

2. What is a rex rabbit, and is it true that any breed of rabbits can be rexed?
 Rex rabbits are any breed of rabbits that have under fur but no guard fur. A breeder who has one individual rex rabbit can, by proper matings, produce a rex breed in three generations, if a sufficient number of rabbits are produced. When the offspring of a normal-haired rabbit and a rex-appearing animal are bred together, 25% of the litter will be pure rex.

3. Should special attention be given to feeding and handling the herd boar?
 Yes. Records at the Ralston Purina Company's Research Farm indicate that any improper feeding, mishandling, or neglect of the most important single individual in the hog herd, the herd boar will be reflected in smaller litters, lowered production, and less profit.

Sales Slow on Spot Cotton Markets

Trading in Oklahoma and Texas spot cotton markets slowed down last week compared to the flurry of business done the previous week, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cotton merchants reported that inquiries from domestic and export interests were hardly as numerous as they have been in recent weeks. Demand continued to center around the better grades.

Prices at Dallas dropped to the lowest point in several seasons with middling 15-16 inch quotations closing Friday at 28.90 cents per pound, a loss of $1.25 per bale since the preceding Monday. Houston and Galveston prices declined only 25 cents per bale.

Last year at this time, middling 15-16 inch cotton stood around 31 cents per pound and better, and ranged $8.75 to $11.75 per bale higher than current prices at Dallas, Houston and Galveston.

Texas cotton ginned through September 15 averaged lower in grade and slightly longer in staple length than for the same period last year. Oklahoma cotton ginned was lower in grade but unchanged in staple length than that ginned during the same time last year.

Texas wagon lot cottonseed prices at gins averaged $41.50
