

AWFUL ENTANGLEMENT—OVER THIRTY LIVES LOST, &c. &c. We had an account in our New Orleans exchange, of the sink of one of the most awful steamboat explosions on record, which happened over thirty unsuspecting souls into the dark abyss of eternity, and was not a very rare case.

The steamer St. James, that plyed as a regular packet between this port and Mobile, left her berth at about 12 o'clock, and when but a short distance on the lake, exploded both her boilers, causing the destruction of human life. The bodies of the dead and wounded were brought up to the city the following day. Up to the time of our dates, the number of killed was known to be upwards of thirty, the number of wounded not exactly known, but presumed to be very great.

This unfortunate accident created quite a sensation throughout the city, and cast a gloom over all. Great blame is attached to the officers of the boat, as it is known she was running a race at the time of the explosion with a rival steamer.

The vessel of the Coroner, on the dead bodies was, "that they came to their death by the explosion of the steamer St. James, caused by great negligence and want of skill on the part of the officers of the boat."

The physician, "gives a flat of the illness and wounds. Among the victims of the explosion, was James T. Preston, Judge of the Supreme Court of Louisiana.

Yesterday was almost a hot day, as we have experienced this season at least to the season. The sun made one feel as if it had returned the upper furnaces with fuel, and were showing us poor mortals below, what it could do. At the writing of this, there are some indications of a generous shower, and we are enjoying most deliciously the refreshing shade. The evening breeze is as mysteriously whispering love in our ears, and fanning our ambrosial curls with apparent ecstatic enjoyment. They seem to have come fresh from "the spicy shades of Arabia the Blest," and we are too thankful to refuse them this kisses they seek to give our fragrant lips. In fact we were in such a delightful mood that we feel disposed to exclaim, "Oh that we were the spirit of a rielless sound!" We would like to be the spirit of the gentle breeze, and sigh at the widow where smiling beauty.

At first, a student of law was permitted in their declared that they had no bond or authority for their acts, but finally their leader, William, admitted that they had both, and proceeded to surrender to the Alcade, a written commission, which he stated came from Gen. Avales, and under the hand had been written. It is to be true, and in fact is local very much like to this officer, has been giving a cafe leche to kill, and plunder the property of American citizens that he could.

Things indeed have come to a pretty pass, when a Mexican General can license a gang of desperadoes to rob and murder the citizens of a neighboring country with impunity, and that in the very heart of modern civilization.

Execution of two men at New Orleans. On Saturday, the 2d inst., two men by the name of Anthony DeJesse and Jean Albin, convicted of having murdered the poor girl Mary, in that place some months since, paid the sad penalty which the lawfully demanded. The execution took place before the prison door, and was witnessed by an immense concourse of persons, variously estimated at from six to ten thousand souls.

A gross piece of neglect on the part of the officials entrusted with the execution of the law, occurred on the occasion. It appears that when the unfortunate men were precipitated from the gallows, the rope had not been properly adjusted, and instead of neck cutting the desired end, they were let down on the pavement beneath. This, in a momentary accident, caused a great excitement among the assembled multitude. A few moments after the criminals were carried on the stand, half dead with fear, and from the injuries sustained by the fall, and there extended their cries as the majority of the law demanded.

The programme of the 3d inst., contains an article reflecting in strong terms on the want of foresight and caution on the part of those entrusted to carry out the ends of justice.

The undersigned and Messrs. who was engaged on the 23d inst., the portion of which we published at the time died on the 24th inst.

We received among our New Orleans exchanges, this week, the first number of a new paper just established, called, "The Southern Democrat," and devoted as its name will denote to the propagation of democratic principles. We welcome the stranger amongst us.

We are under obligations to the Honorable Thos. F. Ross, and Volney E. Howard, for important public documents transmitted to us.

The Lighter will leave the wharf tomorrow, at 5 o'clock, P. M. with the mails and passengers for the steamer Mexico, which leaves at 4 o'clock, P. M.

For the Indiana Bulletin. WHAT IS THE REASON? No one will think of disputing the proposition, that all the wealth of the world is the product of the soil, and that the soil is the product of Nature's great gifts, and that the soil must be cultivated by man, the creature of God, to produce the food which sustains the human race. It is a simple law of nature, that the soil, when cultivated, produces the food which sustains the human race. For the Indiana Bulletin. PUBLIC LANDS OF TEXAS. In the July number of that valuable and interesting periodical, "The Daily Commercial and Public Review," published at New Orleans, we find a very excellent article written by A. C. Barber, of Texas, headed "Public Lands of Texas," which we would like to give in full, but as the article is rather lengthy, will have to content ourselves with a few extracts from the same:

"By an estimate made at the General Land Office of the United States at Washington, the present area of Texas is 1,211,885,400 acres, equal to 27,821 square miles. By our last Office it is estimated at 1,211,885,400 acres, equal to 27,821 square miles. By our last Office it is estimated at 1,211,885,400 acres, equal to 27,821 square miles.
