We understand that Mr. Charles Osgood, residing on the peninsula, above Decatur's Point, was drowned by the capsizing of a small boat, during one of the late northern

The County Court for probate purposes, was in session in this city Monday and Tuesday, Chief Justice Beaman presiding.

It will be seen in to-day's paper that the schooner Antipe, loaded with lumber, has been lost. The vessel and cargo belonged to Mr. Hayes of Galveston.

Mr. Charles A. Johnson, so long and well known as a merchant in Victoria, has retired in business with Mr. A. French, of this city. Mr. J., we hope and much need desire, will be pleased with his new position, and we wish him the best success.

We hear frequent complaints of the loose manner in which slaves are allowed to conduct themselves in this place. We know, if enforced, are sufficiently stringent to secure good order among them, and strict government is essential to the well being of every slave population.

It is said that Gen. Sam Houston will shortly resign his seat in the United States Senate. We are not disposed to credit the report, but should it prove to be true, much interest would be felt in the selection of his successor, and as Sen. Rusk resides in the extreme east, the west would insist on having the other. In that event, the people of the west, while having plenty of talent, might well unite on Governor Fannin, as one in every sense worthy of their confidence and support for that high position. In the absence of a legislative session, however, the governor would be called upon to appoint a temporary Senator.

During the week past the editorial corps have been well represented in our place. Mr. West, of the Ledger, Gilbert, of the Tribune, and Palmer, of the Advocate, the ugly man who called us base-faced, have been here. It is pleasant occasionally to greet the craft in our acquaintance.

THE MAIL CONTRACTS.

The bids for carrying the mails for four years from the first day of July next, were to be opened at Washington city on the 10th day of April; hence we shall very soon know who have received the various contracts.

According to the published proposals we are to have, first, a tri-weekly four-horse coach route from Indiana to San Antonio, via La Vaca, Victoria, and Sulphur Springs; secondly, a tri-weekly four-horse coach from Victoria to Austin, via Gonzales and Lockhart, besides various smaller routes.

Mr. Harvey Watson, assistant editor of the Union, has left that paper in consequence of its being known that Mr. Forney is about obtaining an interest in it, in violation of pledges given by Messrs. Watters and Nicholson to the Tennessee and other delegations, prior to the election of house printer, that Forney was in no event to become connected with the Union.

INDIAN MURDERS.

By the San Antonio Ledger and Texian, of the 20th, we learn that on the 16th inst., three Indians rode up to the house of Mr. Forster, living near the Fredericksburg road, 15 miles above San Antonio, and called to Mr. F. He went to the door and requested them to leave. The Ledger says:

"He had scarcely ceased speaking when his body was pierced by a rifle ball, and he fell dead at the door. His wife, on seeing him fall, ran out and raised his body from the ground, when finding him quite dead, she laid him down again, and rising was fallen to the ground by a blow from one of the Indians, who by this time had run up to the house. She screamed as she fell, which attracted the children from the house. The Indians, taking them, rushed into the house, leaving her lying on the ground. The immediately started to the house of Mr. Gandy, but the number of his children induced her to return to the house and there a second Indian had been struggling in the hands of two of those scoundrels, while the third seized her daughter, a girl of twelve years, by her hair, and beat her head back, as if about to cut her throat or scalp her. She could no longer witness the heart-rending sight, but fled to the house of her neighbor, where she met a short distance from his house running as he had promised. She related the dreadful affair to him, and begged of him to return with her to rescue her children, if they had not already shared the fate of their father. He said that he had no wife, and that there were three, and perhaps more, Indians in the house, who weighed about a mile each, and, if possible, get more. When they arrived at the house of the next neighbor (a Mexican) they found only one man and boy, and it was determined that they should immediately start to town, on horseback, for assistance.

They arrived at 3 o'clock this morning." The Ledger says: Active measures have been taken to pursue the murderers. A party of twelve men of Lieutenant Stockton's company, under his command, started last night at twelve o'clock, and with thirty-seven of the Zepan Indians as scouts.

Expressmen have been sent in various directions, and to Fort Davis, McNease, Terrell, and also to Austin and Corpus Christi, in order that no measure should be left untried to trace these depredators to their proper nests, and punish the perpetrators of the murderous crime, which are becoming almost daily occurrences on our frontier.

Another party is about to start, consisting of some forty or fifty men, (officers and soldiers)—They will be accompanied by Major Neighbors and G. T. Howard, Indian Agents. Capt. White has also volunteered his services. They will also take with them some Zepans.

These are the facts as they occurred; we will make no comments upon them, but leave every man to draw his own conclusion.

LATEST NEWS.

We have since learned that the day after the murder, Mr. Neighbors, accompanied by Major Neighbors, went out to the residence of Forster to see if they could find or hear anything of the children. When they arrived at the house they found the father shot through the heart and scalped; the two daughters were shot with some arrows and scalped. There was also a son, who was shot and scalped with a bayonet knife. One little boy was found missing, supposed to have been carried off by the Indians.

Major Neighbors in a letter says the Indians were doublets Wichitas; that 30 had started down; the Mormons killed four on the head of the Gundulap; near the settlements they divided into several parties; and this marching party of three had fled to the north after committing the horrid outrage narrated above.

TRIAL OF NEGROES.

We are requested to say that a session of the Collin county court will be held in Indianapolis on next Monday for the trial, among other things, of such negroes as may be brought up on charges against them. It is perhaps not generally known that a law approved February 5, 1852, gives to the county court jurisdiction to try all cases against negroes, except where the penalty is death. Jurors are to be empannelled as in the District court. Section 140 of the law provides:

"That such trials in the county courts shall be on sworn information, or charge in writing certified of record, stating the offense and verified by affidavit, but without a grand jury, or a presentment or indictment."

A court may be held for such purposes on the first Monday in each month and continue until all business is disposed of.

This is an important law and demands the attention of all owing unruly slaves.

THE MUSTANG, ESTRAY AND STOCK DRIVING LAWS.

Complaints are frequently made in this country by owners of horses, on account of persons catching or pretending to have caught their animals from the mustangs and demanding a reward to suit their own notions of the matter. For the information of all, we will publish, and call their attention to the law, by which it will be seen that no man has a right to even run mustangs without a permit from the chief justice or a justice of the peace; and it may as well be understood for once and all, that there is a determination among the people to prosecute those who violate the following law.

Sec. 1. It is enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas, That any individual wishing to chase mustangs shall apply to the chief justice of the county in which he resides for a written passport, which shall include the name and number of self and associates; provided, that applicant is known to said officers as a responsible citizen, otherwise sufficient bond and security shall be demanded before the delivery of the passport.

Sec. 2. That the persons applying for the said passport shall be responsible for the orderly conduct of those associated with him, and that all animals taken shall be presented to the authorities, and such taxes paid on them as may be prescribed by this act.

Sec. 3. That there shall be paid to the County Treasurer of the corresponding county, for the use of said county, a tax of twenty-five cents for each mustang, and two dollars for each male animal presented.

Sec. 4. That the Treasurer shall keep a register of the names of all animals so presented, and the amount of tax tax paid thereon, each of which entries shall be signed by the person so paying the Chief Justice of the county and the Sheriff.

Sec. 5. Estrayed beasts taken in the chase shall be disposed of according to the entry law.

Sec. 6. That the officer issuing the passport above described shall be entitled to receive from the party applying, the sum of fifty cents for each one issued.

Sec. 7. That the Treasurer shall be allowed five per cent, upon all money collected by him in pursuance of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 8. That all violations of this law shall be punished by fine of not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars, or such imprisonment in the jail or Workhouse as the Court may prescribe, not exceeding two months,

Sec. 9. That this act take effect from its passage.

Approved, February 16, 1852.

By the above law it will be seen that all branded animals taken from the mustangs must be estrayed as if taken on the catcher's premises. The estray law requires—1st, public notice in three places in the county giving description of the animal for twenty days;—2d, if no owner comes the animal shall be regularly estrayed before a justice of the peace,—and bonds given. The stray animal cannot be taken out of the country.

In addition to the above we will follow the extraction from the law relating to stock, by which it will be seen that persons are constantly violating a most necessary and wholesome law.

The people are not aware there is such a law and will be glad to aid in enforcing it. Those who are disposed to do wrong in such matters had better look sharp in future.—See Hartley's Digest, page 401, section 13 art. 1260, where the following will be found.

AN IDEA.—On a recent visit to Matagorda, an idea struck me very forcibly, that that dredge boat in the Bay is not at work in the right place—that it should be at work in front of Matagorda instead of attempting to root a channel through Galveston bar.

Now suppose that machine run along in front of mud flat before Matagorda, close by the water edge, and throw a furrow up high and dry on the shore of the mud bank. Then suppose it ran inside of the bank, and throw another furrow out so as to make a ridge with four or five feet of water inside. Then suppose a basin be made up above there a mile or so for the dredge boat turn round in. Then suppose the two round, and come back throwing a furrow on the shore.

Well, then, round up, level off, and till the hollows, and then work in Bermuda grass, and let cows, sheep and goats, or something else, eat it off. It would make a good fat pasture for twenty cows, or two or three hundred sheep.

Then Matagorda would have a beautiful peninsula in front of the most beautiful and healthy village in the South, instead of that nasty mud flat; and the angry waves would not knock it down as they do the mud flats in the Bay.

BRANDING AND MARKING CATTLE.—Stock raisers are now everywhere busy marking and branding their cattle. Stock horses and lariats are in good demand. Now is the time for persons "green from the States" to see the skill of our Texian stock raisers, and Mexicans, in thus wing the lambs, and tangling, spider-like, their stronger victims in their subtle mares.

Here in Western Texas more than a hundred thousand calves are branded and marked every year. All of these are caught, either on the prairie or in pens, with lariats, by the neck and hind feet, and in spite of their kicking, bleating, jumping, and struggling, they are thrown down, banded and ear marked, which shows to "close branders" that they are not lawful plunder. Horses and horses are caught with the same facility, and handled with a roughness in proportion to their resistance.

Nicholas I., Emperor of Russia, was born July 6th, 1796, and is now 58 years old;

TEXANA CORRESPONDENCE.

BY D. DENNETT.

LAVACA RIVER.—There is probably no stream in Texas that contains more lively features, than the Lavaca river. The water that flows over its bed of pure sand is as transparent as the air we breathe, and as undiluted as gold itself. For miles above its junction with the Navidad, the banks rise up boldly from the water's edge to the height of twenty, and in some places forty feet. These banks are generally lined with trees whose extended boughs and thick verdure cast a cool shade upon the pure element below.

The forest that extends back from these banks are surpassingly lovely. The vines that bury both trees beneath their mass of luxuriant foliage, forming a vegetable mount, are beautiful. The coves of bottom prairies, with their mixed and luxuriant grasses, are beautiful. The undulating prairies and woodlands, the islands of trees in spots of prairie, in the rear of the bottoms, the varied scenery on all sides—all is beautiful—that word alone conveys the meaning.

TO A LONE STAR.

In the column of the La Vaca Register of the 20th, inst., I notice an article signed "A Lone Star," in which some pretty hard things are said in relation to myself. The following is a specimen:

"A literary fledgling, (figuring in the Indiana Bulletin,) having assumed the office of 'Gensor Moron,' by virtue of large developments of arrogance, vanity and self-esteem, has made two ineffectual attempts to dignify the order of 'The Lone Star of the West' in the eyes of the world; that is, to have some little of the ordinary courtesy of life as vanity to apply such epithets as those quoted below to a gentleman "above fear and above reproach."

YONI STATE.

You say that I think I was born for some great end, perhaps to be the Addison of America. I didn't know that I had such thoughts before. And if I had such thoughts it would be simply a piece of mere vanity. What there is of me, was self-made. I was not born with a silver spoon in my mouth, nor raised in a hotel. I was born and raised in a land of pine-knots and snow drifts, and have seen some little of the rough side of life in the West and South; but I have always tried to be, like your little self, extremely modest.

You state that I write in the Bulletin under my own signature, that the world may look on and applaud. You intimate that I am a minister of the Gospel. Why, bleed your little soul, I never preached a sermon from a text of scripture in my life, and if I am a preacher of the gospel, I don't know it. To the first clause of the charge I plead guilty—to the last, innocent. The principal object in placing my name there is that Meers, Brown and Brady may not be annoyed by heartless young gentlemen, with fierce countenances, a chivalrous air, and fondness down with implements of war, demanding the author of some offensive article.

I am a preacher of the gospel, I don't know it.

It is said that I might unfortunately write.

I might know that these gentlemen are fond of such epithets as those quoted below to a gentleman "above fear and above reproach."

CAPT. VAN VLIET.—This gallant officer, whose services during the Mexican war were of so important a nature, leaves the city this evening on the steamer Mexico, for Corpus Christi, from whence he will probably land to his post at Fort Brown, on the Rio Grande. Capt. Van Vliet acted as quartermaster on both lines during the war, and was then noted as one of the most efficient and gallant officers in the service. He accompanies a pleasant party on a pleasant mission, and we wish him and them a safe and speedy voyage. We only regret that circumstances prevent our accompanying them.
