Fish kill reported on Pecos

A fish kill reported on the Pecos River Nov. 28 has the same characteristics of a November 1985 kill according to Game Warden Rod Chalmers. "One day the river was crystal clear and flowing; the next day it was brown and stinks," said Chalmers.

The Game Warden was notified of the kill Friday by rancher Roger Dudley who initially found six dead fish along the bank on his place. Chalmers and Warden Don Jackson of Sheffield investigated Saturday and found no additional dead fish. By Sunday, however, the kill had reached from above Iraan to the Jackie Womack place.

The Joe Chandler Ranch also had dead fish on the Terrell County side of the river.

Bass, catfish and carp are being affected, says Chalmers. Minnows have been seen trying to get to springs for fresh water, just as in 1985.

A chemist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department was expected to arrive early this week to continue the investigation.

The 1985 kill was attributed to a yellow-brown algae which secreted a poisonous toxin. The yellow-brown dinoflagellate identified in 1985 is said to be similar to the red tide algae which caused a fish kill in Florida.

The algae ran out of room in its natural habitat and a change in environmental conditions caused the dinoflagellate to take over a section of the river in 1985 according to chemist Jack Ralph of San Angelo who conducted that investigation.

In 1985 at least 70,000 fish were believed killed with up to 100,000 fish involved.

If the current kill was produced by the same algae, the toxin will die out when the algae dies.

Chalmers tends to agree with the algae theory in this case rather than a chemical dump. "If chemicals were being dumped, they would have diluted and gone on through," says Chalmers.

Night hunting leads game case list

Game Warden Rod Chalmers has filed 29 game cases since Nov. 4 when two subjects from Odessa were charged with hunting deer during closed season and at night with rimfire ammunition. The two were fined $500.

A recent case involved four subjects, also from Odessa, who were arrested after killing a deer on Taylor Box Road. Charges of hunting deer at night and taking wildlife from private property without the consent of the landowner netted the men fines of $1,050 and court costs of $102. They will also have to pay the replacement value of the deer.

Six rifles and a six point buck were seized in the Sunday night arrest. The deer was donated to charity and the rifles are being held as evidence pending final disposition of the case.

Thanksgiving night three Barnhart subjects were arrested and jailed in Crockett County on a charge of hunting at night.

Fines of $600 were assessed. Two of the subjects served three days in jail and a third remained in jail Tuesday.

Two rifles and a four point buck were seized as evidence.

Hunting deer at night and hunting on private property without the consent of the landowner charges were filed Nov. 23 on two adults who were accompanied by two juveniles.

The two men were fined $700 and a rifle and doe were seized as evidence.

An Ozona man was charged with hunting deer at night Nov. 15 and fined $200.

Hunting at night charges were also filed against three subjects from Big Spring Nov. 11. Fines amounted to $600.

Chalmers has filed two cases for possession of fur bearing animals during closed season. A Pecos man was fined $50 Nov. 29 and an Austin man was fined $50 Nov. 22.

FFA commercial sheep show Dec. 13

Results of weeks of work will be judged Dec. 13 when the F.F.A sheep show is held at the 4-H Barn.

There will be two classes of finewool and two classes of crossbred lambs in the show. Ribbons will be given for places 1-15 for each class. Grand champion finewool and grand champion crossbred lambs will receive trophies with reserve champions receiving rosettes. Points will be given for placings to determine prize money for exhibitors.

Finewool and crossbred pairs will each have one class. Ribbons will also be given to places 1-5 in each class. The grand champion finewool pair and grand champion crossbred pair will receive trophies. Reserve champions will be given rosettes.

The outstanding first year feeder will receive a trophy. This award will be based on feed conversion, weight gain, overall care and feeding of lambs, and good record book keeping.

Most outstanding feeder in the program will also receive a trophy. Requirements are the same as those for winner of the first year award.

One member will win the showmanship trophy, which goes to that individual exercising best showmanship during the exhibit.

There are 20 students with entries in this show according to Brent Poole, chapter advisor.

Students in the FFA feeding program are required to feed no less than two lambs and no more than six. Of these six, no more than three crossbreds and no more than three fineweols may be fed. Students are required to keep accurate and precise record books on the lamb enterprise. Exhibitors must feed and care for their lambs under the instructor's guidance.

Citation Production Co. purchases Shell plant

The Sprayberry Trend area fields and gas plant belonging to Shell Western E&P Inc. have been sold. Citation, a production company, was high bidder on the property, and the sale was effective Dec. 1 according to production foreman Ray Pierson.

Citation was high bidder on a package of Shell property out for bids which included parts of New Mexico and West Texas.

Shell Western will continue to operate the plant here until Citation has personnel available to operate, says Pierson. Citation has not owned any plants previously.

Shell Western will retain the J. M. and Brown-Bassett fields, the Midway Lane field in Crockett County and the Thistle field in Pecos County.

Earlier this year, Citation bought other Shell Western companies in North Texas and Oklahoma.

No word has been received regarding local employees, says Pierson. Only three are involved at the plant.

Dec. 4th Immunization Clinic

The Texas Department of Health will be holding an Immunization Clinic Thursday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 12 and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Ozona Civic Center Immunizations available will be DPT, polio, Td, measles, mumps, rubella and tuberculosis skin tests.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany each child.

Cubs tournament Dec. 5-6

The Ozona Lion Cubs and Cubettes will host a basketball tournament Dec. 5 and 6. Teams from Iraan, Reagan County, Irion County, Eldorado, Sonora and McCamey will make up the bracket for the boys' games. Play will begin for the boys when Iraan meets Reagan County at 5:45 Friday in the high school gym.

Eldorado and Sonora will compete at 7 p.m. followed by Irion County and Ozona at 8:15. McCamey drew a bye for the first day of play.

Tournament play for the boys resumes at 10:15 Saturday morning in both the junior high and high school gyms.

Iraan and Sonora B will start the girls' division of the tournament at 4:30 Friday in the high school gym.

Ozona B and Eldorado will be in competition at the same time in the junior high gym.

Sonora and Reagan County will try to advance in the tournament beginning at 5:45 in the junior high gym, and Ozona A meets Irion County at 7 p.m. in the high school gym.

Saturday morning will have girls' games beginning at 9 a.m. in both gyms.

Lions to host tournament Dec. 11-13

By Alison Larisa Schoenhals

The 56th Ozona Basketball Tournament will be played Dec. 11-13. Play will begin for the Lions in the first game of the tournament Thursday at 5:30 p.m. when they take on Reagan Co.

The Lady Lions' first game will also be played Thursday at 7 p.m. when they encounter Junction.

Other boys' teams participating in the tournament include Coahoma, Ft. Hancock, Sonora, Wall, and Brownfield.

The girls' bracket boasts premium powerhouses Crane, Coahoma, and Wall.

The tournament will host girls' teams from as far away as Hillsboro and Ft. Hancock. Rounding out the bill for the girls will be Junction, coached by former Ozona coach, Thomas Hanson, and a Sonora team.

The young Ozona Lady Lion team completes the eight team field and may well be contenders in the tournament's final rounds.

"Our program needs the support of the community and school," girls' Varsity Coach Rhonda Yarbrough said. "We are playing before too many empty seats."

Second quarter sales have slight decline

Gross sales figures recently released by the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock indicate that second quarter sales for Crockett County are down 4.7 percent compared to the same period in 1985. Second quarter 1986 sales for 96 reporting outlets amount to $8,590,818. The 1985 gross sales figure was $9,011,205.

The local decline appears mild compared to that of most neighboring counties for the same two year span. Irion County had 33 reporting outlets with gross sales of $2,440,660 in 1986 and $2,815,244 in 1985 for a 13.3 percent decrease.

Gross sales in Reagan County for the second quarter of 1986 were $10,397,059 compared to $18,727,143 in 1985, a 44.5 percent decline. There were 110 reporting outlets.

A 22.2 percent decline was reported by Schleicher County's 52 outlets. Gross sales for 1986 were $5,195,183 compared to $6,679,607 for the second quarter in 1985.

Second quarter gross sales for Sutton County's 151 reporting outlets were $8,293,751 in 1986 and $12,292,134 in 1985, down 32.5 percent.

Terrell County had 36 outlets reporting $1,811,953 gross sales this year compared to $2,327,765 in the second quarter of 1985, down 22.2 percent.

Jerry Goss killed in hunting accident

Friends of the Jerry Goss family, former Ozona residents, will regret to hear of the death of Gerald Goss Thanksgiving Day. He died in a deer hunting accident. Most will remember his father, Jerry, as a deputy sheriff, and his mother, Judy, as working with Dr. Vannoy.

Goss is also survived by a sister, Patti, and a son, all of Leesburg where burial took place Dec. 1.

Dreaming of a lite Christmas

If you're dreaming of a "lite" Christmas that won't require a New Year's resolution to lose unwanted pounds, nutritionists with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service have the following suggestions:

*Substitute ingredients to reduce fat and calories. Use low-fat dairy products and cut back on the sugar and fat in holiday cooking. Many recipes can be adjusted without a noticeable difference in taste.

Change cooking methods to reduce fat. Start by staying away from fried foods. Steam, bake, boil or broil instead of frying. Use low-calorie, no-stick aerosols or no-stick pans that require no fat for cooking. If you're making gravy for a holiday feast, skim off the fat.

*Eat more fiber. Fiber will satisfy your appetite without adding a lot of calories. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grains and cereals so you won't want to fill up on rich desserts and other high calorie dishes.

*Eat slowly and reduce the size of your portions. Since it takes about 20 minutes before your stomach will feel satisfied, take at least that much time to eat your first helping. Then, perhaps you won't feel the need for seconds or thirds.

*Do some "calorie banking". If you anticipate a big splurge at one meal or party, save up some extra calories by eating nutritious, low-calorie meals for several days in advance. Then treat yourself to the special occasion without worrying about the extra calories.

The Extension nutritionists add that these practices are appropriate year-round and when coupled with regular exercise, can help you stay within a healthful weight range.

Texans want spending cut

When it comes to dealing with the state's budget problem, Texans feel strongest about state spending -- cut it -- and a state income tax -- forget it.

Those are the findings of a survey conducted by the Institute for Communications Research (ICR) at Texas Tech University. Survey participants were given six options for dealing with the state's fiscal problems and more than 75 per cent favored cutting state spending and opposed instituting a state income tax.

Other fiscal options put to the 387 Texas residents in a mail and telephone survey during September and October included cutting college and university spending, increasing sales taxes, instituting a state lottery and initiating legal parimutuel betting.

Participants were given the fiscal options and asked how strongly they agreed or disagreed with them "in order to reduce the state's budget problem."

Of the respondents, 75.3 percent favored cutting state spending. Of those, 50 percent agreed with the option and 25.3 percent strongly agreed. Only 14 percent did not favor state spending cuts while 10.7 percent of those surveyed were unsure.

Though persons making above $20,000 a year were more than twice as likely as persons earning less to favor a cut in state government spending, persons in all income categories approved a spending reduction.

Males and females favored spending cuts in comparable percentages. And, comparison of responses by education level, age and length of residency in Texas shows across the board support for spending reductions.

Initiating a state income tax was rowned on by 75.3 percent of the respondents with 38.2 percent strongly disagreeing and 37.1 percent disagreeing it was a viable option. Only 12.8 percent favored a state income tax while 11.9 percent remained unsure.

While most respondents opposed a state income tax, the older they were, the wealthier they were or the longer they had resided in Texas, the more opposed they were to initiating the tax.

The survey's closest division of opinion was over increasing the state sales tax. On the issue 45.7 percent disagreed with the option. Another 9.2 percent remained unsure.

Responses to increasing the sales tax broke down by age with 26.7

Panthers maul Lions

By Cople Davis

The Ozona J.V. Lion roundball squad traveled to Fort Stockton Nov. 25 for a pre-Thanksgiving shootout against the tough Fort Stockton Panthers. The Lions provided their biggest offensive output this year, but blew an eight point second quarter lead to fall 52-48.

Ozona played within three points of Stockton in the first quarter, and took the lead early in the second as they reeled off six unanswered buckets. With the score 23-15 and 4:00 showing on the clock before the half, the Panthers revived their struggling offense and shot their way to a 32-31 halftime lead. In the third period, the Stockton defense shifted into a tenacious full-court press which rattled the Lions and forced them to turn the ball over. The Panthers converted these turnovers into easy baskets; outscoring Ozona 14-6.

With a nine point deficit to overcome in the fourth quarter, the Lions caused their own turnovers and closed the margin to two points at 50-48 with 00:15 left on the clock. Stockton added a couple of insurance free throws and finally put the Lions away 52-48.

Ozona's leading scorer on the night was again Lalo Rodriguez who percent of those 45 and under opposing it, compared to only 18.7 percent approving. By contrast, 27.2 percent of those 46 and over favored increasing the sales tax, compared to 18.4 percent opposing.

Though participants in the survey favored cutting state spending, they generally felt those cuts should not come at the expense of the state's colleges and universities. Only 17.5 percent of the respondents favored college and university cuts. By contrast, 69 percent were against cuts in higher education. Unsure responses came from 13.5 percent of the participants on the option.

The greater the income, the more likely respondents opposed cutting college spending. Female respondents were more likely to oppose college spending reductions than male survey participants.

On issues related to gambling, about two-thirds of the participants approved of revenues generated by those methods. Some 66.6 percent favored a state lottery and a slightly smaller number, 62.7 percent, liked parimutuel betting to generate funds. Only 21.9 percent of those questioned opposed a lottery and 28.2 percent opposed horse race betting as a way to reduce the state's budget problem.

Men favored the gambling issues more than women. Instituting a lottery drew favorable responses from 70.9 percent of the men and 63.2 percent of the women. Horse betting was favored by 68.2 percent of the men and 58.2 percent of the women.

Survey results were announced by ICR Director H. J. Hsia. The survey had a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percent.

Remembrances of the war years

By Dean Phillips

Editor's Note:

Dean Phillips of Ozona entered the U. S. Air Force May 26, 1941 at Fort Sam Houston. During his years in the service he earned the rank of staff sergeant.

At the time of his separation from the service Oct. 6, 1945, he was acting 1st sergeant of the 329th Fighter Squadron at Sheppard Field in Wichita Falls. His job in the service was in aircraft supply as an inspector.

While stationed in the Aleutians for 18 months, Phillips declares he only saw the sun once in a 16 month period.

As our chaplain said, "Dec. 7th, the day that turned the world over". I was in the guard house as a substitute for a member of the 54th Fighter Squadron. It was a cold, clear day with some breeze off Mt. Hood. Sometime before noon, the radio broadcast news about Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. "This is no practice alert. Considerable damage has been inflicted on military installations in Hawaii."

We were totally unprepared for war. Our squadron had a few old Red Wing Jenny's whose armament was a water cooled machine gun strapped on one wing while the other wing had bags of lead weights to balance the plane.

We had two old, antique B-18's (Boloes) that were very slow, and engines would sometimes ice up at high altitudes. Other armament was a French horse-drawn 75 mm cannon, about 300 old rifles, 1903 or older models, a few World War I water cooled machine guns and a few 12 gauge modern pump or automatic shotguns for guard duty.

Some of the officers had old 1911 Colt pistols so as a Blackfoot Indian described the Great White Father "Great Big Boom, No Bullet".

If possible, the ground forces were in as poor condition as A.F. Our tanks were large trucks with canvas covers painted This is a tank. The infantry had 1903 or older rifles, French horse-drawn 75 mm cannon, World War I water cooled machine guns plus lots of dummy This is a machine gun.

The mortars were mostly pieces of small stove pipe with a base and appropriate letters on them - A mortar.

Our calvary (mounted) seemed armed with similar weapons as in the Civil War. Our trucks and other motor vehicles were modern while we had not one modern combat tank.

Our Navy had been favored except that we had too many obsolete battle ships and old time battle ship admirals.

The destroyers and cruisers were modern and well manned.

Our aircraft carriers were modern, but most all planes were old fabric covered wings - crates and no contest for the 0-1-Zero.

At that time, we had small production of P-40 fighter planes - short range, but equal in most ways to a Zero. P-39 was a highly unreliable plane with little speed and very little range.

The P-38 was our first modern fighter, but was going to England on Lend Lease. Other good combat planes in limited production were the fighter P-47 and later the P-51 (both very good), bombers A20, B25 B26 and the heavier B-17 and B24.

All 1941 and early 1942 were defeats for all allies on all fronts, but as we began getting modern arms, the tide turned.

Macintosh users organize

Are you or anyone you know interested in the Macintosh computer? "We are organizing a Mac Users Group for anyone who has a Macintosh computer or anyone who is interested in learning what the Mac can do for them," says Lane Scott. This is a basic beginners' group that will meet once a month and talk over the programs, problems and interests of those having the Macintosh computer, or those interested.

The group will meet in Ozona Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Heritage Building (old junior high) on the second floor. "Our first meeting will be to discuss hardware and the different ways they can be used," says Scott. Everyone is invited. If you have questions, call Scott at 392-5501.

CROCKETT COUNTY OUTDOORS

by Rod Chalmers

The average deer hunter doesn't know a trophy buck when he sees one. After eight years hearing hunting stories as a Texas Game Warden (and some 20-odd years before that telling a few stories myself, as a hunter), I'm convinced that Texas hunters have their own dictionary, in which you'll find such a word as "bigbuck"...all one word...means any deer with horns.

Most of us don't really need another 12 inch spread seven point rack hanging in the garage for the rats to chew on - we just have this hang-up about driving home with a female deer for a trophy. Now this shouldn't need saying, but take my word for it, a fat doe just "eats" better than a mediocre buck that's been rutting for the last two weeks. And if you're not ready to shell out over $200 for a shoulder mount (and if you don't eat deer horns), you'd be smart to let that seven pointer grow into something you can be proud of next year. If you're still concerned about being labeled a "doe killer", you can quarter that doe and put her in an ice chest (with the proper tags, of course) and your neighbor will be none the wiser.

We're in a good deer year. We've got lots of deer and lots of feed. Makes good meat and impressive antlers. But what happens when we hit a dry year with lots of deer? The nutrition won't be there to make bucks big, assuming we have the same bucks at the end of the season we're seeing now. The best way to keep the population matching the food supply is antlerless deer harvest.

So now that we've agreed to take a doe instead of a run-of-the-mill buck, let's talk awhile about how to decide if a buck is a trophy. That's a relative thing, but there are a few tips to keep in mind when sizing up a buck in the crosshairs. When determining number of points, count the "standing" points on one side of the rack. The typical whitetail will have a main beam (which will make a point on the end) and brow tines, or dog-catchers, if you will (and that's another point). The upright tines on the main beam are what I call standing points. Two standing points will make him an eight pointer, and so on.

The only way I know to measure the spread on a live buck is to get a front view with the buck looking at you, ears forward. The average wing-spread, ear tip to ear tip, on a whitetail in this area is about 15 inches. Remember that you're looking at outside spread. Estimate it, then subtract about two inches on a big buck, and you'll have the correct spread.

Light-colored horns are generally not very heavy and indicate youth, in most cases, and he'll probably shrink from the time he hits the ground and you get over to collect your trophy!

A really mature, older buck will look "frosty" around the gills and have a dark patch on his forehead. From the side view, an ole' mossback will look "roman-nosed". My rule is this: if it looks like the rack belongs to the deer, he's probably not as big as you thought when you saw him fading in and out of the brush.

Let's save our young bucks for another day, make meat from antlerless deer, and hunting will be better as years go by.

Woman's League thanks Ozona

The Ozona Woman's League was busy all day Tuesday, Nov. 25, preparing for the annual bazaar, which was held that afternoon from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Members met at 10 a.m. to decorate the Civic Center and price goods which were to be sold during the bazaar.

This year a wonderful lunch was served members by the Entertainment Committee. Karen Huffman, Sharon Forehand, Lorelei McCullan, Nancy Forehand and Cynthia Berry provided a cheese soup, chili and corn chowder to choose from along with a lovely selection of sweets.

President Cathy Carson conducted a short business meeting beginning with a special thanks to this year's bazaar co-chairmen, Helen Bean and Karen Childress. The group voted to split special funds earned in connection with the bazaar between the firemen's toy fund and liability insurance for the Community Center.

Doors opened that afternoon at 5 p.m. with the excitement of prospective buyers rushing in to view items and collect goodies before all was gone.

Breaks were taken as refreshments were served by Barbara Malone, Lee Allen and Kay Stewart.

This year, as always, members of Ozona Woman's League wish to thank the community for their support and patronage. This support enables the league to provide for the various items, gifts and scholarships it donates each year to many civic organizations and needy people.

All members were present and each want to wish all of Ozona a wonderful holiday season.

Horse club plans hayride

The Crockett County 4-H Horse Program members met at the Shannon Ranch Saturday, Nov. 22.

During a business meeting, plans were made for a hayride on a wagon and a Christmas party during December. Plans were also made for a community service project involving making stick horses for preschool children.

The group then learned and practiced horse grooming and hoof care.

Shane Cooper demonstrated and taught calf-roping techniques. Then members practiced on a roping dummy.

Following a sack lunch, the group rode horses and practiced horsemanship as well as teaching a horse the correct leads.

In the afternoon, some of the members participated in goat roping.

The group enjoyed a Walt Disney movie furnished by Crockett County Public Library called Rodeo Red and the Runaway.

At the conclusion of the meeting, everyone enjoyed a game of stick horse roundup and refreshments.

Members attending were: Crista Chalmers, Mindy Coates, Stacey Grendahl, Bonnie Martin, Martha Mayfield, Todd Sudduth, Tom Martin, Jennifer Evans and Shane Cooper.

Parents and leaders helping were: Patti Coates, Fletcher and Catherine Coates, Ed Martin, Ollie Sudduth, Kathryn Mayfield, Betty Martin, Beverly Evans and Rod Chalmers. Guests were Jim and Will Fredrick and Sarah Mayfield.

The next meeting will be Dec. 13.

4-H lamb showmanship clinic Dec. 4

A 4-H Lamb Showmanship Clinic will be held at the County Show Barn Thursday, Dec. 4, at 7:00 p.m. Preston Faris, County Extension Agent from Sutton County, will provide the training.

All 4-H lamb feeders and their parents are encouraged to attend. 4-H members are also encouraged to bring a lamb to practice showing; however, it is not required.

Lions district governor here Thursday

Leonard Hanson, district governor of LIONS INTERNATIONAL, will speak to the Ozona Lions Club at noon on Dec. 4. Lion Hanson will be coming from Midland where he makes his home and has his business, Arrow Plastics and Supply. He is an excellent humorous speaker and gives hours of his time to many Lions functions. He has served Lions clubs since 1958 and was voted Lion of the Year in Midland six different times.

The only payment Leonard Hanson receives for his efforts as a Lions district governor is the appreciation of club members. The Ozona Lions Club urges its members to show the district governor a warm welcome.

Angie and Victor Olivares of San Antonio and Rosie Rodriguez of San Angelo were here for a Thanksgiving visit with their mother, Manuela Rodriguez, Ten and Julian.

Use Christmas lights safely

In many families, using the same Christmas tree decorations year after year is a tradition. When it comes to Christmas tree lights, however, this could be an unsafe practice, says home safety expert Dr. Peggy Owens.

"When you unpack stored tree lights take the time to check each set," she advises. "Inspect the bulbs to make sure they operate and then remove the plug from the socket and inspect the wires."

The Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist suggests checking the string of lights from one end to the other, looking for cracked insulation or bare and broken wires, especially where the wire enters a light socket.

"If you find cracked insulation, bare wires or cracked sockets, discard the lights, no matter how much you like them," Owens cautions. "They could be a fire hazard."

Also check the plug to make sure the connections are good. She says one way to tell without getting a shock is to plug the set into the add-on connector or a second set of lights and plug that set into the connector of the first set.

The housing specialist explains that all strings of lights are not the same. Lights may be wired in a series or in parallel circuits. If a bulb goes out on a series circuit, all the lights go off. In a two-wire parallel set, the remaining lights continue to burn when one burns out.

If you have miniature Christmas tree lights on a parallel circuit, replace any burned out lamps with a bulb of the proper voltage size. Although the other lamps will continue to work if you don't replace burned out bulbs, Owens says they will be subjected to increased electrical power, shortened life and could become a fire hazard in your home.

When you decorate your tree, don't connect more than 200 miniature lights, or more than 50 large lamps together through one string or cord, advises the specialist.

Large lamp sets should not be connected through miniature lamp sets and indoor lights shouldn't be used outdoors.

Use extension cords that are capable of transmitting the current to the lights without overloading the cord, triggering circuit breakers or blowing protective fuses.

A circuit breaker or fuse which blows when you connect the lights is signaling something is electrically wrong, Owens emphasizes. Don't use that string of lights until you know the extent of the problem and can correct it. If you're in doubt, throw the set away.

If you're buying new miniature Christmas tree lights, she suggests looking for certification on the package, such as an Underwriter's Laboratory or "UL" label, that shows the set meets the performance specifications of an independent testing laboratory. These sets will have passed a series of performance tests designed to eliminate hazards.

"Once you put the lights on the tree, safety precautions are still necessary," Owens remarks. "Remember to always turn the lights off when you leave home or go to bed."

Miss Bell wed to Mr. Sanders

Mr. and Mrs. Bob R. Bell announce the marriage of their daughter, Gayla Lynn, to James D. Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Sanders of Fort Stockton.

The couple married Nov. 21, 1986 in Odessa. Wedding vows were repeated Nov. 29 in First Baptist Church, Ozona, with Rev. Jim Gray officiating.

Gayla is a 1983 graduate of Ozona High School and is now working in First State Bank of Odessa and attending American Business College.

James is employed by H and K Armored Service. The couple will make their home in Odessa.

Play It Safe With Your Holiday Lighting!

Inspect lights before decorating.

Be sure to discard strands of lights with frayed wiring, and burned out bulbs BEFORE you decorate.

Also, never leave your Christmas tree lights or outdoor decorative lights unattended. Be sure to unplug them when you go to bed or leave the house.

Watch for the U.L. seal of approval.

Only buy lights that have been checked for safety. The Underwriter's Laboratory's seal of approval is your guarantee that lights and wiring have been properly safety checked.

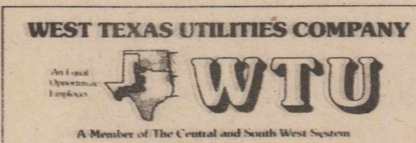

Hang ornaments away from lights.

Make sure paper ornaments and tinsel do not touch light bulbs. Also, never adjust outdoor or tree lights while they are turned on or connected to a power circuit.

Always use a wooden ladder or a metal one with rubber-tipped legs when installing outdoor lights. Be sure to stand on a dry surface.

Make sure you don't overload circuits.

Avoid overloading electrical wiring by using more than one circuit for your tree lights. Use heavy-duty extension cords to run to other circuits.

Woodworking and people make job perfect for White

OHS teacher Jim White instructs his third period Shop I class in a beginning woodworking project.

All classrooms aren't within four walls according to Ozona High School shop teacher Jim White. The youthful instructor spends his summers traveling, usually with an educational goal in view.

White, who has taught shop four years, admits that his first year of teaching high school students left him drained. "I didn't know how to relate to older kids and a new teaching field," said White, who had moved to the secondary level after teaching fifth graders for three years.

"That summer was probably the most refreshing summer I ever had," said White. He put his carpentry skills to work by helping with a church building project in Novia Scotia. He lived with the minister and his family, which included four young children, and left feeling like blood kin.

New England and two separate working schools were White's destination the next summer. A week studying canoe building led to a special classroom demonstration the following year by an instructor from the Brookfield, Conn. school.

Three weeks of classes in Maine at the equivalent of an adult summer camp gave White the opportunity to study under some of the "best craftsmen in the nation" in surroundings that he describes as "incredibly beautiful".

Last summer took White west to the Grand Canyon, Death Valley, Yosemite, the Redwood National Forest and the Tetons. The vacation ended with a week of woodcutting class, again on the east coast.

"This summer I'm going to have to work," says White, who would like to do that work as part of a learning experience in a cabinet shop. The San Angelo native spent a year "working for anyone who would teach me something" after earning a degree in psychology at Angelo State University.

"That was a fabulous year for me," says White. "...a time of searching".

He began working to learn by helping a San Angelo professor put on decking for $1.50 an hour. Later he traveled to East Texas to help a friend remodel a pharmacy.

In East Texas, White boarded with an old couple who lived in the country. "Everything we ate was homegrown. It was quite an education to be around them," says White.

It was there that he learned a lesson which will always stick.

"There were two fellows clearing an opening for a new highway, and they needed someone to pick up sticks. There was no one in the area willing to take the job. When the old man I boarded with suggested I take the job on Saturdays, my first thought was, 'I can't do that; I've got a college degree,'" says White.

He took the job, though, after coming to the conclusion that no one should be so arrogant or prideful that they can refuse to do any sort of work.

His college education began and ended at Angelo State University with a year at the University of Texas and a year in New York between.

"After three years of college, I still didn't know what I wanted," says White. A year in New York working with young ghetto children and teens for a private religious agency possibly laid the groundwork for his teaching career. Here he instructed arts and crafts, tutored students in reading and math, coached basketball and taught Bible class.

After graduation from ASU, White worked in San Angelo for a year as a social worker, then went back to carpentry.

Earning a certificate in elementary education prepared White for the fifth grade classroom which "I enjoyed an awful lot," he says.

A master's degree in industrial arts from Sul Ross State University was the key to a job vacancy in OHS when Bob Wallace became a principal.

"Wallace is a master teacher, and I hated to follow his footsteps," says White.

"I enjoy people and relationships, and I enjoy making things," says White. "I thought this was just the job for me."

Teaching isn't for everyone says the shop teacher whose goal is to continue learning and become a master teacher or woodworker.

Five classes of Shop I, beginning woodworking, give White an opportunity to share his knowledge with 55 students. The first six weeks of the year are devoted to learning leatherwork followed by a week of instruction in measuring and drawing. Safe operation of machinery, use of hand tools and basic woodworking information such as how to convert rough lumber into a finished product, occupy 12 weeks of the school year. The remainder of the year is given to completion of projects chosen by the students.

In the woodworking portion of the class, each student completes a book rack, jewelry box and cutting board. Shop II, taught by Cliff McMullan, is advanced woodworking. About 25 students make up the two Shop II classes this year.

"There is a vast difference between knowing how to teach and how to make something," says White. He believes the OHS shop compares favorably with other schools.

"This is probably the best in the state," he says of the OHS facility.

Shop I training is an asset for a hobby and also provides the basis for beginning a career in construction.

"Woodworking is real frustrating until you get experience. It requires a lot of thinking and concentration in putting a project together," says White.

"I don't want this story to be about me," said White during an interview. The program and the students are the important things according to White who is continually working to increase his knowledge and teaching skills.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS - Ronald Carnes and daughter Rivka of Oklahoma City were seeing the sights of Ozona last week with his father, S. E. Carnes.

Lions lose to Ft. Stockton

by T. C. Tucker

Three times this year the Ozona Lion basketball team has held the lead going into the fourth quarter. Twice they have lost the lead and the game, their latest loss coming at the hands of Ft. Stockton.

"Again we showed our inability to hold the lead," Coach John Curry said. "We looked well in spots, but we'll have to work on our holding the lead."

Ozona jumped out ahead with little trouble, seemingly in control of the game. Mike Morrow led the way with 24 points of his own as the Lions stayed out in front by 10 points at one time.

Ft. Stockton closed the gap in the third quarter to within three. Then they exploded in the fourth quarter, outscoring Ozona 19-11, thus winning 50-45.

Roger Flores and Abel Lara led the Lions with six rebounds each. Lara also led in steals, having three.

With the loss, the Lions drop to 1-2 for the season. This weekend, they will participate in the Crane Tournament.

The annual Ozona Tournament will take place on Dec. 11-13 this year. Due to the length of the tourney, the Ozona coaches would appreciate if any households could serve as housing parents for two or three players. Any such interested persons should contact Coach Curry, Coach Yarborough, or Mrs. Burger at the Ozona High School.

Cubettes trade wins, losses

by T.C. Tucker

The 7th grade Cubettes picked up their first win last Monday, Nov. 24 outscoring Rankin 25-20. However, the 8th grade Cubettes, who won their opening game, fell to Rankin in overtime 29-30.

Kristie Porter and Patricia Hartnett had 13 and 10 points respectively as they led the 7th graders in their first win of the season.

Rankin remained close behind the ever-leading Cubettes. But in the third quarter, Ozona exploded with a nine point spurt while holding Rankin to only two.

Porter had a great night, leading the team not only in scoring, but likewise in rebounds, steals, and free throws. Claudia Avila aided in assists and steals, having two in each.

"We had excellent team effort," Coach Jerry Tucker said. "However, we must improve on cutting the number of turnovers."

Turnovers hurt both the 7th and 8th grade teams. The 8th graders had 49 while the 7th had two less. Bad and intercepted passes were the main cause of the high number of turnovers.

The 8th grade Cubettes went through a long and tough game and came out one basket short of victory.

Ozona held control of the lead through the first half, but Rankin fought back to gain the lead by one toward the end of the third quarter.

When the final quarter buzzer sounded, both teams had 25 points on the board, sending the game into overtime. There, Rankin came out on top by one point, winning 30-29.

The Cubettes controled the boards quite well with 29 rebounds. Tamie Reager, Teena Tambunga, and Misty Fowler had four rebounds each. Christy Cotton led Ozona scorers with six points. Letty Dominguez and Ofie Rios led in steals with four each.

"Every player had the opportunity to play in a very close and exciting situation," Coach Tucker said. "I'm very proud of the girls' hustle and unselfish play."

The 7th grade Cubettes will take to the home courts this weekend in the Ozona Cubs Tournament for 7th grade teams. Two Cubette teams will take part in this event with their first games at 4:30 and 7:00 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5. The Ozona boys team will play in the high school gym at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

Dazzling Christmas ornaments, using pinecones, glitter, glue and metallic bows were made in Monday morning's craft class. The ornaments turned out so pretty the residents decided they would like to make more. Residents attending the class were: Juana Hernandez, Doris Robnett, Moriama Perez, Edna Wallace, Ola Mills, Tomasa Ramos, Theo Burns and Rebekah West.

Monday afternoon residents participated in a short exercise class and game of ring toss. Residents putting their hand and eye coordination to the test were: Sam Martinez, Marcial Rodriguez, Ola Mills, Tomasa Ramos, Lucia Rios, Juana Hernandez, Moriama Perez, Doris Robnett, Edna Wallace, Elzy Bishop and Virginia Hoover.

The weekly beauty shop and visitation took place Tuesday morning. Volunteers for this activity were: Vivian Hughes, Joanne Williamson, Melinda Hokit and Clara Byrd.

Immediately following the beauty shop, Clara entertained residents with good piano music. Residents and visitors joined in a sing-a-long. Everyone had a good time.

Tuesday afternoon gifts from the Salvation Army were presented to the residents. Sharing in the presentation were Ralph Lennon, district representative, and Johnny Childress, chairman of the Crockett County unit. We would like to thank The Salvation Army for their thoughtfulness.

Bingo was played Tuesday afternoon. Winners included Tomasa Ramos, Virginia Hoover, Theo

Burns, Ola Mills, Moriama Perez and Minnie Karr. Volunteers were Dorothy Doll, Mattie Cooper and Jo Davidson.

Marie Pierson was the helpful volunteer for Wednesday's ceramic work shop. Residents attending the shop were: Theo Burns, Tomasa Ramos, Edna Wallace, Ola Mills, Moriama Perez and Juana Hernandez.

A mock turkey shoot was held Wednesday afternoon. Theo Burns was the winner. She knocked down four turkeys in a row during the finals. We asked Theo what her secret was, and she said shoot a little to the left and aim low. It must have worked. Residents testing their aim were: Juana Hernandez, Moriama Perez, Ola Mills, Sam Martinez, Lucia Rios, Edna Wallace, Doris Robnett, Virginia Hoover and Elzy Bishop.

Jim Gray of the First Baptist Church presented a special Thanksgiving message Thanksgiving Day. A short visitation followed.

Friday's bingo winners were: Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramos, Edna Wallace, Theo Burns, Bertha Miller, Rebekah West and Charles Watson. Volunteers assisting were: Dorothy Doll, Mattie Cooper and Lillian Tambunga.

Friday afternoon, residents enjoyed piano music and singing by Robin Wiernecke, granddaughter of Vivian Hughes. We would like to thank Robin for dropping by.

Sunday worship service was presented by Ken Eppler of Calvary Baptist Church.

Parishioners recognized at Eucharistic celebration

Brownwood, Coahoma, Coleman, Crane, Fort Stockton, Iraan, Mereta, Midland, Ozona, Robert Lee, Olfen, Sonora, Wall, Winters and San Angelo to receive participation certificates. Delgado had perfect attendance for the program.

The Most Reverend Michael D. Pfeifer, OMI, Bishop of San Angelo, was the principal celebrant at the presentation. He also conferred the certificates.

Eight members of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church were recognized Nov. 30 at Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo as graduate catechists in the Diocesan Certification Program. Romelia De Hoyos, Sylvia De Hoyos, Herculano Delgado, Rosario Sanchez, Janell Tambunga, Rosario Tambunga, Elena Ybarra and Alicia Perez joined others from churches in Abilene, Ballinger, Big Lake, Big Spring,

Ask for facts

They call offering "the chance of a lifetime" or the opportunity to assist the underprivileged. The telephone solicitor. Is his offer too-good-to-be-true? Is he really helping those less fortunate? If he's asking for your money, ask for answers. The following questions can help you separate schemes from honest appeals.

Ask for the name, address and telephone number of the soliciting organization. If the solicitor can not provide you with all this information, that could be a tip-off to a rip-off.

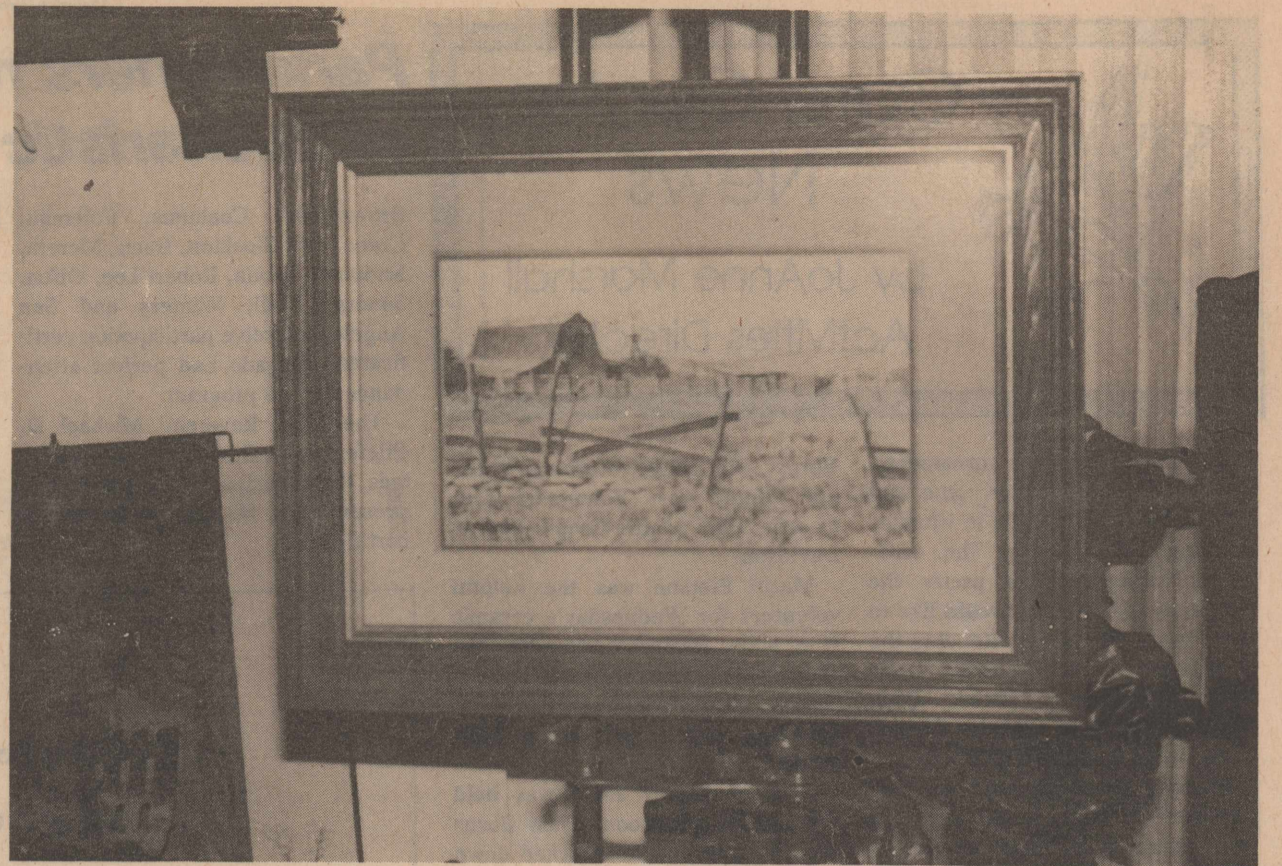

Ask if my donation/purchase will help a charity, what percentage of the proceeds actually go to the charity, and how much will go to pay for the product or fundraising? Also ask for the name, address and telephone number of the benefiting charity so you can check the promotion out with them.

Ask if a donation made to a charity is tax-deductible. If the answer is yes, ask for a copy of the charitable organization's IRS tax ruling stating that donations made to the organization are deductible.

Ask that details of the solicitation be sent to you in writing before you make out your check. This question turns off swindlers for several reasons. They don't want to give you a lot of time to think about the offer. They don't want to run the risk of mail fraud, and they don't want to provide hard evidence that could be used in court.

Ask the solicitor if he would mind calling you back the next day after you've had a chance to check out his promotion with the Better Business Bureau.

Those with an honest appeal will usually be happy to supply you with more information. Make sure you ask the right questions and check out the solicitation with your BBB before making out your check.
