Sonorans visit Snyder prison Economic Development committee impressed with facility

With economic conditions in Sonora being what they are, the possibility of Sonora obtaining one of the new state prison facilities is becoming more attractive. The benefits from such a facility would not bring immediate relief and would be quite costly at first, however, the long range effects on the local economy would be very beneficial.

Recently seven members of Sonora's Economic Development Committee traveled to Snyder to visit a state prison located there. Chamber of Commerce director, Kathy Davis along with Pete Gildon, Seco Mayfield, Carl Teaff, Kelly Cahill, Father Bill Dubuisson, and Rev. Lewis Allen met with Snyder officials to discuss the impact the prison has had on their community.

Snyder made their own application for a state prison facility without outside assistance and was granted the facility in November of 1989. According to Snyder officials, the town was on an economic decline at the time due to the drop in the oil and gas industry. The prison, though it has been a slow process, has helped the town to stabilize and they are currently attempting to obtain another facility. Officials stated that there were some disgruntled businessmen who were upset because the benefits of the prison were not reaped instantly. When a prison is obtained the process may be slow and the rewards do not come instantly, however, the facility offers future economic stability.

Snyder officials believe that the prison was the salvation of their local hospital. The state pays a set fee per prisoner to the hospital regardless of whether treatment is required or not. In Snyder's case, the hospital draws over $1200 per year for each of the prisoners. Since the state will not contract with a private entity, the hospital would be linked to one of the state health science centers. This arrangement can be beneficial to a small hospital and provide them with a link to other services.

There are three schools in the state that provide the certification program for those who are interested in positions as prison guards. These schools are in Snyder, Huntsville and Gatesville, and the certification requires 200 classroom hours. It takes approximately 6 months to complete the course and once completed there is a 99% employability rate. Once the course is completed the individuals must work in an existing facility for 6 months before they can request a transfer to another facility. At this time Snyder has close to 70% of their own local residents working in the facility. This number will gradually increase as others transfer to their home towns and their own people move back in.

The state requires a school be located in the prison facility to enable each inmate to have at least a G.E.D. by the time they are released. The facility would employ 25-30 full time teachers to teach the classes. Each facility also has some type of industrial base for the employment of the prisoners. This makes the prisoners productive during their incarceration and provides them with a skill that will help them find employment upon their release. Many civilian jobs are also created in through this industrial work plan. There are also approximately 25 civilian jobs located in the facilities health clinic.

Many citizens have been concerned with the possibility of the families moving into town to be near those who are incarcerated. The inmates are allowed 2 hours of visitation a week and are only allowed to visit with a limited number of people who must be listed and cleared with the prison officials. Due to this limited amount of visitation time, it is virtually unheard of for the families to move in, according to Snyder officials.

The deadline for Sonora to apply for a state prison facility is January 15, 1992. Currently the general consensus in Sonora is that if we should apply for a prison, it should be done without the expense of outside assistance. In Snyder's case, a retired individual donated his time to complete the application process. Land would not have to be purchased, however, an option on available land would be necessary before the application is made.

Of the seven that traveled to Snyder last week, all have stated that they believe now that the prison would be very beneficial to our community for long term financial stability. All negative thoughts vanished with the trip to Snyder and the seven members of the Economic Development Team were very impressed with what they saw during their visit to Snyder.

Now is the time for all Sutton County residents to speak up and let their opinions be known. The prison issue will be discussed further during the City Council meeting next Tuesday, October 15 at 9:00 a.m. If you have any question in your mind or wish to learn more about the proposed prison facility be sure and attend this meeting.

1991-92 Homecoming Queen, Laura Chalk, is crowned by last years Queen, April Spiller during halftime Friday evening.

Broncos suffer defeat in Homecoming game against Ballinger

The story of Friday nights game was turnovers. The Broncos turned the ball over three times Friday night. Two of those turnovers led to 12 Bearcat points, which Sonora could not overcome.

On Sonora's first possession of the game, John Villareal intercepted a Brian Faris pass and took it down to the Sonora 15 yard line. Three plays later Ballinger was in the end zone for an early 6-0 lead.

Sonora started it's third possession of the half on it's own 8 yard line. The Broncos drove down to the Ballinger 32 yard line. There Adam Youngblood, who rushed for over 100 yards for the fifth straight week, took a pitch to the right and raced 32 yards for the score. The extra point was good and the Broncos led 7-6.

Ballinger came right back and scored their second touchdown of the half late in the 2nd quarter. Again the Bearcats chose to go to the air as quarterback Will Duggan hit Eric Fritz for a 38 yard touchdown. Ballinger took a 12-7 lead into the half.

Sonora came out in the 2nd half ready to go. The Broncos 2nd possession of the 3rd quarter began on their own 14 yard line. With the running of Danny Mata and Youngblood, combined with a couple of big completion by Faris, the Broncos drove the ball to the Bearcat 18 yard line. There the turnover bug bit the Broncos again. A Bearcat defender stepped in front of a Faris pass and returned it all the way to the Bronco 16 yard line. Only a great effort by Sonora's Robert Gallion prevented the score. Five plays later, with the help of a little trickery, the Bearcats scored their third touchdown of the night.

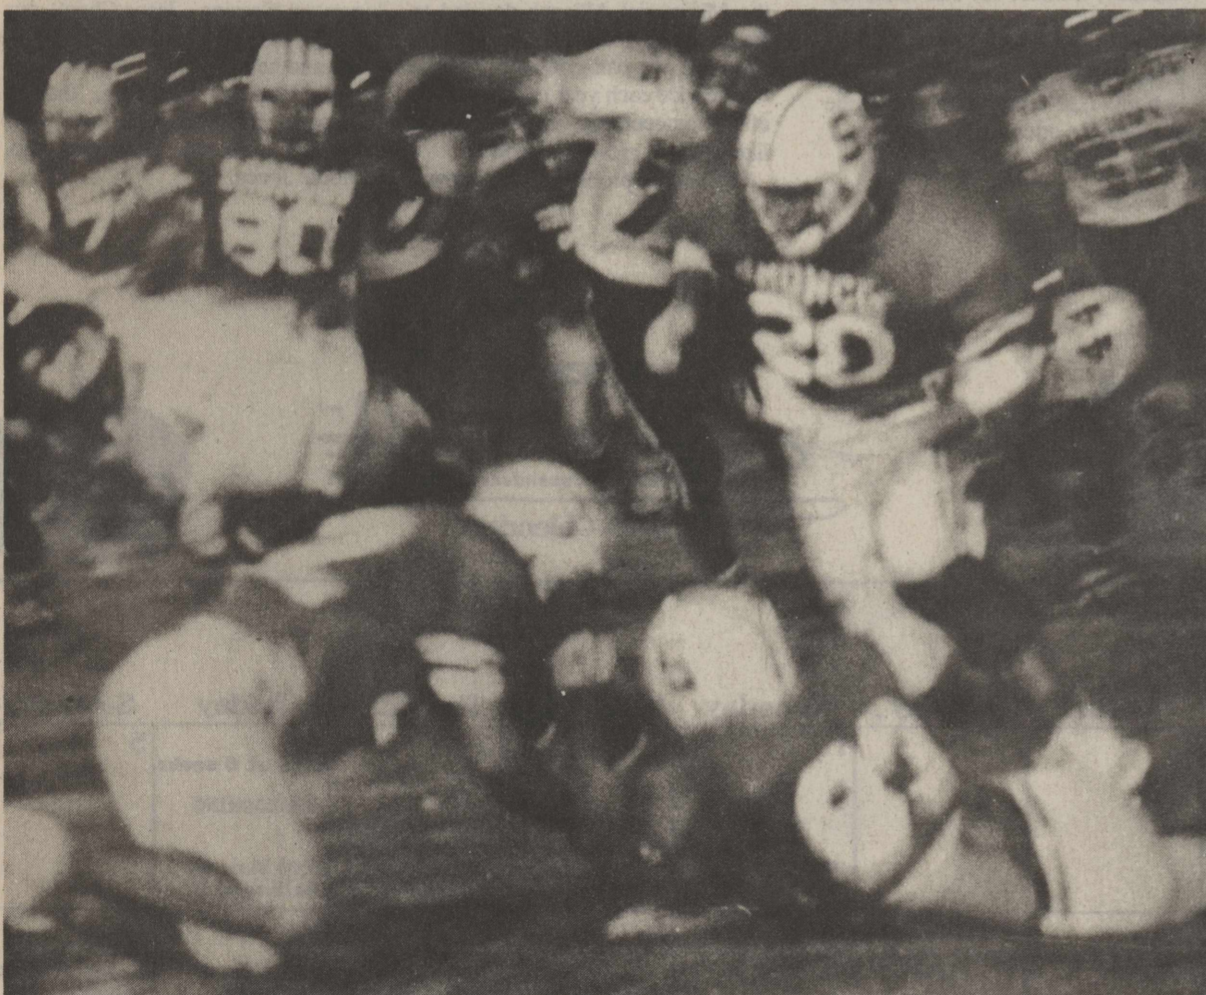

Sonora, however, still had some fight in them. The Bronco defense smothered Ballinger on their next possession and forced the Bearcats to punt. The Broncos took over on the Bearcat 39 yard line. The Broncos promptly marched down to the Bearcats four yard line. Youngblood took the ball into the end zone from there and the Broncos were within a touchdown.

Sonora had one last opportunity, but failed to move the ball and turned it over on downs. All that was left was for Ballinger to run out the clock. The final score was Sonora 13 - Ballinger 18.

Statistically the Broncos were led by Youngbloods 158 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Next week the Broncos will begin district play as they host Kermit at the Bronco Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

A quick scramble for a loose ball in Friday nights game.

Laura Chalk named Homecoming Queen 1991-92

Homecoming festivities were going on strong all weekend, beginning with Friday's game. The Mighty Bronco Band along with the Choir put on quite a show during the pre-game activities. The band presented a plaque to Jimmy Cahill "In recognition and appreciation of loyal and valuable support to the Mighty Bronco Band."

During halftime activities, Laura Chalk, daughter of Luther and Joyce Chalk, was named

Homecoming Queen for 1991. Also during halftime Tony Renfro presented Eddie Sutton with a plaque honoring him as the "Quarterback of the 70's". The honor was in appreciation for leading and guiding Sonora to the State Championship in 1970. During the weekends festivities, Julie Martin won a bear given by the Homecoming Association. The Homecoming Association sold chances on the bear for $1 each to raise funds.

Homecoming festivities continued Saturday and Sunday with a parade, reception, reunions, a dance, and a community church service. There was barely room to walk at the Depot Saturday morning as old friends met. It was a chance to catch up and to remember the good times of days gone by.

Death Notices

Wesley E. Sawyer

Wesley E. Sawyer, Sutton County rancher and businessman, died Saturday, Oct. 5, 1991, in Phoenix, Ariz.

A memorial service will be held Wednesday, Oct. 9, at 3 p.m. at First United Methodist Church of Sonora with the Rev. Clay Hall officiating. Burial will follow in Sonora Cemetery, under the direction of Kerbow Funeral Home.

Wesley was born May 6, 1919, at the family home in Sonora to Mae B. and Edwin E. Sawyer, both native New Englanders. He attended Sonora schools and graduated from the University of Texas in 1940. During World War II, Wesley served in the Army Air Corps in the South Pacific.

He later owned and operated jewelry stores in Sonora and Ozona and served as executive director of T.L.A. Gift and Jewelry Association.

Wesley served as director of the First National Bank of Sonora, Sonora Wool and Mohair

Co. and Texas Sheep and Goats Raisers Association. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Sonora and actively supported civic organizations.

Wesley took pride in the conservation efforts on his ranch. He enjoyed traveling and entertaining his friends from Dallas and San Angelo as well as spending his summers in Maine.

Family members include a sister-in-law, Lura Sawyer; nieces, Claire Powers, Sarah Neely, Jane Davis and Molly Campbell; and nephews, Cleve T. Jones III and Edwin E. Sawyer III.

Wesley was also close to his ranch foreman, Kenneth Hayes and family and his dear friend Sudie Appel of Dallas.

A brother, Edwin Sawyer and a sister, Alice Jones, preceded him in death.

Memorials may be made to a favorite charity.

The Alter (or is that "Alter") Ego's Turn

That Jones feller come in from the Community Worship Service so excited I told him I'd let him have a go at the column this week, so here's what the preacher had to say:

Do you know any other place in the country where nearly every church in town shuts down so people can gather as a community to worship God? I've never seen that happen anywhere but Sonora except at Easter sunrise services. I think everyone who went to the service came away feeling good, even though the football field left something to be desired compared to the courthouse lawn, where we could all be together. I really loved having my fellow ministers sitting with me, singing hymns and praying, and, most important, worshipping the one and only God and His Son Jesus Christ. Moments like that give me real strength and the sense that regardless of how things are with the economy, no matter how sad we may be as so many of us are, with the loss of Emil Prugel and Wesley Sawyer, there is real hope when Christians of diverse denominations worship as the family of God.

At the same time that I was feeling so blessed and uplifted, there was a depressing note. That was the obvious absence of so many people, both church and unchurched, who, only two nights before, had filled the stands brim full. I couldn't help but wonder where they were and what could be more important that what we were doing out there on a Sunday morning. (I must add, parenthetically, that the Episcopal presence that morning was somewhat underwhelming.) How in the world could people pass up such an opportunity?

Last year after the first homecoming community worship service, I heard someone comment, "That's what worship is meant to be, but usually, we who are such good friends and neighbors during the week suddenly go our separate ways on Sunday morning. I think we should do this more often!" That and other comments of a similar nature were the reason we in the Ministerial Alliance decided to try to make this an annual affair. We hope we can continue to have this service each year on the Sunday after homecoming, and we would like to see it grow and grow. The main problem is that there are some churches who won't take part, and that really makes me sad. There is not a Christian church in town that does not believe that Jesus Christ is God's Son who loved us enough to die for us and rise again that we might also have the hope of eternal life and salvation. So what's the big deal if we choose to express those ideas differently in the way we worship? Like it or not, all who believe and strive to follow the teachings of Jesus are going to end up in the same place, so we might as well get in a little "togetherness practice" before we get there. Jesus was the most inclusive person to ever live, and he continually told his disciples how much God loved them and everyone else, and how he prayed that all in His church would be one, even as He and the Father were one. So any time anyone who is a Christian tries to tell someone that his brand of Christianity is the only accepted way, he's missing the point. God is much more concerned that we love and worship Jesus than He is with what denominational title we go by. "Christian" is the common denominator, and everything else leans more to personal taste than to pleasing God.

My intention is not to be fussy, but to express a deep and abiding concern that we love one another and express that love as a whole community ever now and then. After that, I can go back to my Book of Common Prayer and liturgical worship and you can go back to what suits you, and we can both have the joy of having praised God together. What I am trying to say is, "Next year is another opportunity. Don't let it go by unheeded." God will still be God, no matter what we do or say, but I think sound scriptural proof can be garnered to show that men, women, children, families, single folk, Mexicans, African Americans, Asians, Caucasians, green, blue and polka-dot people of all ages and sizes coming together as a family, be it in a community or as a nation, is pleasing to God. Let's make next year's Community Worship Service just that, and try for everyone in town to be there, side by side, warmed by the radiance of God as we share the world's greatest blessing - Jesus Christ, our Lord! In the meantime, pray for one another.

Oh, and by the way, thanks, Biscuits, for letting me use your space. Sincerely, your alter ego, Monte Jones.

Would you be able to handle an emergency?

What would you do if someone was choking? Your child fell from a tree and you think his arm is broke. Could you do what is best for this person with out hurting them more? To learn how to handle these basic emergency's why not take a E.C.A. class you are licensed with the State of Texas. You can then be able to handle the basic emergency's that happen in and around the home or volunteer your time with the local E.M.S. Many people with Sutton Co. E.M.S. started with a E.C.A. class and most were just taking it so they could take care of their family in case of an emergency. The class starts in January, dates will be announced later so ask yourself what would you do in a emergency? For more information call 387-5132 or go by Sutton Co. Blood drive to be held Oct. 22

Shorter days and cooler temperatures signify the onset of winter. But as physicians and hospitals are well aware, this time of year also brings a greater need for blood.

"The need for blood increases during the fall months," said Paula Kenemer, Community Relations Director at United Blood Services, this area's nonprofit community blood provider. "That's because many farmers, ranchers and other people who are unable to take time off during summer often choose the fall and winter months for elective surgeries and hospital stays."

Sonora's next blood drive will be held on Tuesday, October 22 from 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the Sutton County EMS Building, 211

By giving blood, a donor helps replenish a community resource used by a neighbor, relative or friend. The donation gives tomorrow's patient the same recovery opportunity as today's patient, because it assures that blood is on the hospital shelf when it's needed.

Only when a significant number of people donate on a regular basis can a community maintain adequate blood supplies. If everyone waited for an emergency before donating, lives could be jeopardized. Waiting to donate in an emergency only creates emergencies. Blood must be available at all times in sufficient amounts to meet the needs of this community.

Hunters can provide meals for the hungry

AUSTIN--Hunters can provide thousands of meals to hungry people across the state by sharing their deer and antelope with the Hunters for the Hungry program.

With the help of several public and charitable organizations, including the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, hunters can donate freshly killed deer and antelope that will be delivered to one of 18 food banks in the state.

The program is sponsored for the second year by the End Hunger Network-Houston. "This program gives Texas hunters an opportunity to participate in their sport while not wasting food, and provide the hungry in Texas with an excellent source of low-fat red meat," said Mary Keegan, president of End Hunger Network-Houston. Hunters will be asked to contribute $15 (tax deductible) to the meat processor to pay for processing and packaging. Two-pound frozen packages of meat will be picked up by representatives of the food banks around the state and distributed to the needy. More than 170 meat processors have volunteered to accept meat donations this year, up from 70 last year.

Although a late start in 1990 led to only 70 processors participating, 212 deer were donated, providing 7,411 pounds of meat for the program. This meat provided an estimated 22,233 meals for the hungry.

"We hope to do several times that this year," said Sister Francis Klinger, executive director of the End Hunger Network-Houston.

For more information about Hunters for the Hungry write to End Hunger Network-Houston, 1770 St. James Place, Suite 204, Houston, Texas 77056, or call (713) 963-0099.

A message from this newspaper and the Texas Department of Public Safety Hunters should know . . .

Co-Op facilities are never in season

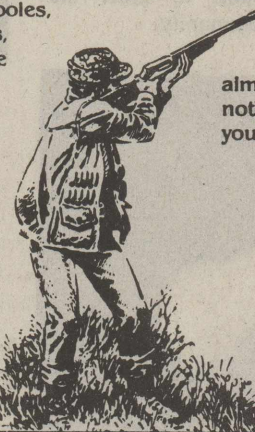

Hunting season is a much anticipated time for many Texans — but often a dreaded time for electric co-op linemen.

Each year hunting season brings with it an increase in vandalism of electric facilities. Whether by accident or intent, insulators, poles, transformers, power lines, meters, and other hardware often become "targets" for hunters.

Not only is the damage expensive to repair, it can also create an extremely dangerous condition. A damaged insulator can cause a power line to fall posing a risk of electrocution and fire. Damaged facilities also present a substantial risk for linemen who must work to repair the damage.

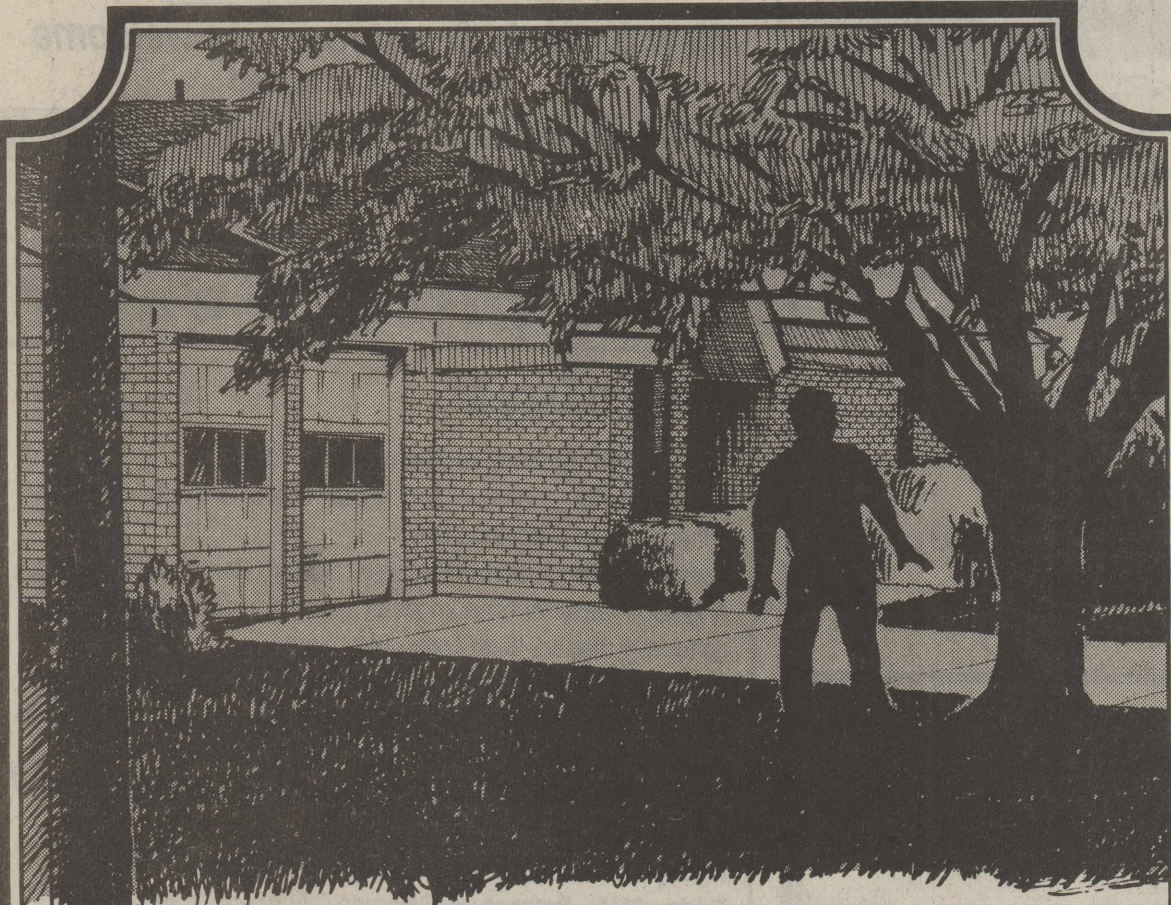

And the danger doesn't stop there. Loss of service to a home with life-support equipment can quickly create a life-threatening situation. An outage can also affect traffic signals and security lighting.

Your Electric Cooperative wants this hunting season to be a good one for you and your Co-Op. So please take careful aim before you shoot and be certain that there is nothing between you and your target — and that your target is in season.

CAR CARE CORNER

Preparing Cars For Colder Weather

After a summer season of heavy driving, cars need some preventive maintenance to keep them humming in colder weather, auto care experts agree.

The motor oil may need changing. Autumn is a good time to switch from heavy summer-weight oil to a lighter oil that will minimize sluggish, gas-wasting startups in cold weather. Keeping a container of starting fluid handy is another way to guard against battery-draining starts.

Because car cooling systems have to work overtime both in hot and cold weather, fall also is the ideal time to flush the cooling system, refilling it with a new 50:50 solution of water and a top-quality product such as Zerex® antifreeze coolant.

In disposing of waste oil and antifreeze, it is important to follow the guidelines set forth by your local municipality. That's one way to show concern for your environment as well as for your car.

Did you know that with the help of the American Cancer Society Cookbook you can become the prime determinant when it comes to maintaining your own good health? Scientists estimate that as much as 80 percent of cancers are caused by environmental and life-style factors and are therefore-theoretically-preventable.

An important protective factor against cancer-along with proper exercise appears to be proper nutrition. The American Cancer Society advocates a diet high in fiber, low in fat and rich in vitamins A and C. The American Cancer Society Cookbook helps you take care of yourself with more than 200 recipes (from appetizers to desserts), assuring you of a delicious healthy feast every meal of the day. Grams of fat and calories per serving as well as fiber rating follow each recipe.

Your copy of the American Cancer Society Cookbook is available for $17.95 (plus $3.14 postage and sales tax) from the Texas Division office. You cannot buy this cookbook through your district or Area offices, but $10.00 per book sold is credited to the purchaser's unit Crusade income. The cookbooks also are available at bookstores, with a portion of the sales contributed to the American Cancer Society. Ask any volunteer.
