All donors will receive a tshirt and another gift. To schedule an appointment, call 1-877-340-8777 or visit yourbloodinstitute.org.

The Friona ISD Construction Project provides for new security entrances for the four schools. For some readers of the Star, this includes a new concrete walk at the entrance of the Junior High building. For other readers, it means a new walk at the entrance of the old High School building.

Producers with deep soil moisture see potential for boom year

Good rains last fall filled soil moisture profiles for much of the state and set up a good yield potential for Texas farmers, according to a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service expert.

Calvin Trostle, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension agronomist, Lubbock, said lines between areas with plenty of good soil moisture and those dealing with drought were distinct. Big rains in the fall delivered deep soil moisture throughout the "root zone" for most areas, while much of South Texas and along the Gulf Coast continue to struggle with drought.

The difference in good soil moisture - 4-5 feet down can make a big impact on harvest yields, he said.

"The place you want to be is to have your soil holding as much moisture as it can hold going into the cropping season," he said.

"Deep soil moisture and regular rains through summer could bump yields of corn, sorghum and cotton up 10%-20%, and even more if you're a West Texas dryland farmer. That moisture makes a huge difference."

Soil moisture makes the

The High Plains and Rolling Plains from Midland to Big Spring up to the top of the Panhandle and along Interstate 20 from Abilene to Wichita Falls received good fall and winter moisture. Those rains brought much of those areas out of drought and created a deep soil moisture profile.

"The difference between soil holding 5 inches of rain compared to 2 inches of rain at 5 feet deep is big," he said. "That 3 inches of moisture translates into 1,000 pounds per acre for a sorghum producer. It's around 150-200 pounds of lint per acre for cotton producers. That's huge."

Trostle said dryland farmers in the High Plains who receive average summer rain could see up to 480 pound lint yields, or 1 bale, per acre with the combination of moisture and improved cotton varieties. A typical year yields around 250 to 300 pounds of lint per acre.

"Farmers are eager to plant this season," he said.

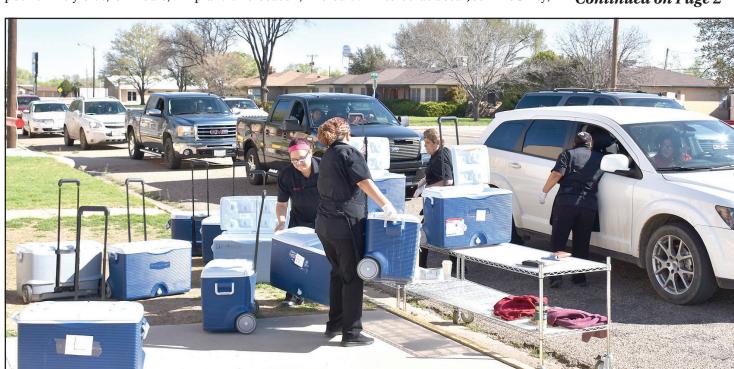

"They see a nice opportunity to maximize their peracre yields."

Little to no rain

In the southern half of the state, rains have been scattered at best. Josh McGinty, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension agronomist, Corpus Christi, said most of the region was in D2 stage drought, or severe drought, according to the U.S. drought monitor.

in time, everything will go back to normal. The future is bright as long as we as citizens do our part.

At this moment we all need social distancing from people other than those in our house hold. It is highly recommended not to congregate to keep other people safe. Only for essential services should you be out and about. If you are out in public, it is recommended that you do wear a mask. Any kind of fabric or bandana around your mouth and nose area will work. Make your own masks; be creative. It could be fun project for kids after they complete their school work. Make some for other people, you could save someone's life just by doing your part. We appreciate the efforts of each and every church choosing to have online/ remote services. You are choosing to protect your congregations while still giving our community a means of worship. We have to flatten the curve to help reduce the number of people getting infected with this deadly virus. At this Easter time, I ask that you all count your blessings, and help each other out. It does not cost anything to be kind and to be grateful.

"A week ago, muchneeded rains fell across some of the more inland counties but missed those of us along the coast," he said. "Corn and grain sorghum fields have emerged to good stands in most areas but there are some inconsistent skimpy stands where soil moisture was marginal."

McGinty said timely rains would have helped even those fields but have not developed so far. Most producers were finishing cotton planting and were hoping chances of rain in the forecast will materialize.

AgriLife Extension agent reports from other southern parts of the state reported spotty crop emergence, failed germination and delayed plantings due to severe to extreme drought.

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summaries:

SOUTH PLAINS

Subsoil and topsoil moisture levels were good. Winter wheat and rangeland were in fair condition. Some farmers were planting oats and others were spraying wheat to get ready for cotton planting. Pastures were in good condition with the recent rains. Cattle were reported to be in good condition.

PANHANDLE

Subsoil and topsoil moisture levels were adequate.

Pastures and rangelands were fair and slowly beginning to green up with warmer temperatures. Winter wheat conditions were fair to excellent. Some wheat streak mosaic and rust were reported in various fields. Stocker cattle were being moved from wheat-for-grain fields to graze out wheat. The central Panhandle reported adequate topsoil moisture and adequate subsoil moisture. Pastures and rangelands were poor to fair.

The terms "distance learning" and "social distancing" have recently become ubiquitous. However, these terms are not really new. Back in the late 1970s B.C. (before coronavirus), we practiced those same skills. Most of the students I knew tried to stay as far away from any textbook as they possibly could. Now that is true distance learning. Also, one Saturday night a group of ten of us guys decided to go bowling in Clovis. Names have been left out to protect the guilty and I only heard this story second hand from an unnamed whistleblower. Anyway, after we struck out at the lanes we ventured over to the McDonalds just off of the south end of the drag. For reasons unknown, as we got our trays the first two guys sat at different tables and then the next two at different tables and then, you guessed it, ten guys at ten tables. Social distancing at its finest. It's sweet when an unplanned plan comes together. Fortunately for the other customers, it only took us about a minute to eat our happy meals and hit the road for other adventures. Now, go look up the meaning of ubiquitous and call it a day. #### Xcel Energy Texas bills to drop with lower fuel costs

Low natural gas prices, new wind farms help slash fuel costs in half since 2017

The cost of electricity for thousands of customers in the Texas

Panhandle and South Plains will drop April 1 when Xcel Energy lowers its monthly fuel cost factor to reflect historically low natural gas prices and the increased use of low-cost wind energy.

Fuel costs across all customer classes are being reduced. For Texas residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month, the total bill will decrease by $4.35, or 4.3%. The lower fuel costs are being implemented on an interim basis pending final approval by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

"Natural gas is as cheap as it has been in decades, and this is good for our customers because it fuels about half our annual supply of electricity," said David Hudson, president, Xcel Energy - Texas. "And the new Hale Wind Project near Plainview uses the power of the free and abundant wind to make electricity, further driving these savings."

In addition to the lower fuel costs, Xcel Energy is moving ahead with its plan to refund $39.4 million to Texas customers in June - the third time Xcel Energy has refunded fuel costs since January 2019.

The fuel cost factor collects the pass-through costs of coal and natural gas that fuel area power plants, as well as the cost of electricity imported into the area from other suppliers. The factor was last changed in July 2019, resulting in a 5% drop in typical residential bills.

The 2019 fuel cost reduction was put in place after the Hale Wind Project began supplying electricity from its 239 turbines in Hale County. Since then, construction started on Xcel Energy's Sagamore Wind Project near Portales, New Mexico, in Roosevelt County. Wind energy from Sagamore will benefit both New Mexico and Texas customers and reduce fuel costs even further in 2021.

New transmission lines are also helping to lower fuel costs by building efficiencies into the regional grid and creating additional pathways for the import of less expensive energy from the wider power market outside the area.

Additional Detail:

• Fuel costs currently make up about 17% of a typical residential bill and are passed through dollarfor-dollar to customers with no profit to Xcel Energy. Base rate charges account for the remaining share of a monthly bill, and a separate proposal to increase base rates to cover grid enhancements is pending with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

- From 2017 through 2019, the Texas average residential rate per kilowatt-hour declined 7.6% because of lower fuel costs.
- Xcel Energy's business and industrial customers in Texas also will see lower bills related to the April 1 change in fuel cost factors.
- The fuel cost factor in Texas can be adjusted up to three times per year to reflect changing market conditions.
- Fuel costs for New Mexico customers and wholesale customers such as electric cooperatives and municipal utilities are adjusted monthly, and already reflect the savings that will reduce Texas bills.

- Xcel Energy passes along 100 percent of the wind energy federal production tax credits generated by the Hale Wind Project to customers through the fuel cost factor, further enhancing savings from using more wind en-
- Both the Hale and Sagamore wind energy plants will play large roles in helping Xcel Energy reduce carbon emissions by 80 percent by
- Preliminary analysis shows that Xcel Energy's Texas-New Mexico generating mix in 2019 was 47% natural gas, 25% coal, 26% wind and 2% solar.

Llamados a Conocerle Friona Para Cristo

By Pastors Aurelio & Cynthia Silva

Beloved it has been a while. But with all that has been and is going on I just have to declare what 2 Chronicles 7:13-15 says. Sometimes we just focus on the forgiving of our sins and healing our lands. But there is so much more at stake than what we can see on the surface. We are in Holy week right now. When we celebrate the death and resurrection of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, what better time for us to realize the times we are living in. We are seeing prophecy fulfilled right before our eyes. Let us therefore truly HUMBLE ourselves, PRAY and SEEK HIS FACE, and TURN FROM OUR EVIL WAYS and REPENT. Then GOD will hear from heaven, forgive our sins and heal our Lands. Let us remember the reason we Celebrate. Because JESUS CHRIST HAS RIS-EN. GOD BLESS.!!!!

Amados a cido un largo tiempo. Con todo lo que ah pasado y lo que esta pasando tengo que declarer lo que dice la biblia en 2 de Cronicas 7: 13-15. Hay veces que en focamos en el perdon de nuestros pecados y la sanidad de nuestra tierra. Pero ay mucho mas que eso de lo que esta pasando. Estamos en la semana Santa. Donde celebramos la muerte y Resurecion de Nuestro Salvador y Senor Jesucristo. Que major tiempo de saber los tiempos que estamos viviendo. Estamos siendo testigos del cumplimiento de lo profetico. Entonces dejanos HUMILLARNOS, ORAR, BUSCAR SU ROSTRO,Y CONVERTIRNOS DE NUESTROS MALOS CAMINOS Y AREPENTIR-NOS.. para que entonces Dios oira de los cielos y perdonare nuestros pecados y sanara nuestra tierra. Y recordamos la razon por lo cual que Celebramos!!!! QUE JESUSCRISTO A RESUCITA-DO!!!! Bendiciones a todos.!!

By Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

Jesus' reminder throughout his ministry was crystal clear. He would be betrayed, tried, crucified and he would rise again. Matthew 26:31-32 was the most recent reminder just hours after the Last Supper, yet when Christ was crucified and his body was dead in the tomb, the grief of the tragic events induced a plague of amnesia in Jesus' followers, where they forgot that the cross and the occupied tomb were not the

Although Jesus' devotees were forgetful, they were dedicated, especially the women disciples who were closest to him. They were the last ones to leave the cross, they ensured his body was buried as properly as possible along with Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea, and they were the ones first to the tomb three days after Jesus was crucified. Their plans to grieve over his body and anoint it with more spices were upended when the stone was rolled away and fearsome angels greeted them. The angel of the Lord gave comfort, not condemnation, as he called them to see that Jesus had risen indeed. The next directive was to share the wonderful news with the other disciples, and in the process of leaving the tomb, Matthew 28:8 says they were filled with "fear and great joy." Imagine that, an empty tomb led to full joy, because Jesus did what he said he would do! In fact, in their exciting errand to relay the news, they met the risen Lord himself. Worship was their immediate response, adoring their king who conquered death, hell and the grave.

We Can Change

By Teena Hughs

Do you believe people can change? I mean a person who goes from being pretty sorry to one who is respected and upstanding? We studied Genesis 43-44 today in Community Bible Study, and I was interested in Judah's changed

Judah was Jacob's fourth son, and it was Judah who suggested that he and his brothers sell their brother Joseph to the Ishmaelites rather than kill him.

Judah had three sons. Tamar married the first two, but God killed them. Based on tradition and culture, she was supposed to marry the third son. Judah said he was too young for Tamar to marry, but when he was old enough, he would send for her. When that didn't happen, she pretended to be a prostitute and became pregnant by Judah. Nothing is said about his relationship with his twin sons she bore him.

All in all, Judah and his brothers had no use for their brother Joseph. They knew he was their father's favorite; they didn't like him telling them their dreams; they didn't like his attitude. They also never got over the guilt of what they did to him.

Later on, a famine hits the lands, and thanks to Joseph, there was grain for everyone, including Jacob and his family. When Joseph wanted to see his younger brother Benjamin, he found out that Judah had indeed changed. After testing the brothers, Judah was the brother who was willing to change places with Benjamin so he could go home and be with his father. He went from selling a brother to exchanging himself for a brother.

Now, that is the "Cliffs-Notes" version of one of the greatest stories in the Bible, and much can be learned.

Time, maturity, experience, and wisdom all help us grow up and become the person God created us to be. So does a man who gave His life for each and every one of us, Jesus Christ. Without His sacrifice, His forgiveness, His love, His Word, and His salvation, we would be absolutely lost. Some days we all wonder why He doesn't come back when we look at the world, but just imagine how terrible things really would be if He hadn't died on a cross for us.

Jesus wants us to be like Him. Do you have the desire to be like Jesus? Are you willing to let Him do what He needs to do so that you can become the person He desires you to be? Are you willing to sacrifice some of the things you have, or do, or say to become more like Jesus?

Jesus made the greatest sacrifice for you and me...He gave His life. He is not asking us to sacrifice our lives for Him, just be willing to listen to Him and make the changes He says we need to make! It is our choice, but hopefully you do want to be more like Jesus. Happy Easter!!! He is Risen!!!

A Prayer For Our Nation

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

What a time to be alive. Who could have imagined a virus so small could make a world practically stop for any period of time much less the amount of time it has been and likely the amount of time left to overcome this great trial and struggle for all of us. It is important that believers remain steadfast in hope and seek opportunities in love during such times and especially pray for each other.

Father God, Creator and Master of all we thank you for today. Like many days of recent Lord, we beseech You asking for safety, wisdom and guidance as we navigate these uncharted waters in our time.

God, we pray for our nation and all those within its borders that we would seek what is common and overcome what divides us that we may find purpose in our common plight. We ask that You would be with our leaders, the President, Vice-President, the House of Representatives and the Senate. Give them wisdom to make decisions that will help in protecting us all during this time. We ask, Lord, for you to be with our state governors and governments too as they make decisions that impact each of us that they will seek Your counsel in guiding us. Father, there has been much life lost not just in this pandemic, but for many reasons and we pray that we see how precious and fragile life truly is today knowing there are no guarantees living in the world tomorrow.

Lord, we thank you that although thousands have died millions have survived. For those who have lost loved ones we pray for comfort as their normal processes of mourning have been disrupted during this time of quarantine.

We ask, God, for strength for the road ahead that we may keep our eyes on Jesus and do His will in this time in history that others may find hope. We do thank you for Jesus who DOES give us the victory even over death, may we cling to this as our journey unfolds before us. Help us to help those You put before us that their lives may be eased in someway of the burden they carry. We ask for Your forgiveness where we have failed that we may be renewed in our efforts to serve You and our fellow

Thank you for this community and help us to use this time well and to know that this too will pass. It is in Christ Jesus we pray, Amen

Abbott calls on Texans to help limit spread of coronavirus

AUSTIN — Gov. Greg Abbott on April 1 posted an online video message seeking Texans' individual and collective help to reduce the spread of the deadly new coronavirus, COVID-19.

In the message, Abbott requires all Texans to stay home unless they are participating in an essential service or activity, such as going to a grocery store. "Now I know this is a great sacrifice and we must respond to this challenge with strength and with resolve. By following social distancing practices, we will slow the spread of COVID-19. We will save lives. And we will make it through this challenge together. Thank you and God bless you all," he said.

On April 3, Abbott joined other high-ranking state officials in a news conference, saying that hospital bed availability in Texas had increased by more than 140% since March 18. Every Texan who needs a hospital bed will have access to one, Abbott said.

On April 4, Abbott called Dr. Anthony Fauci of the White House Coronavirus Task Force and discussed the importance of adhering to federal guidelines to mitigate the spread of COVID-19. Abbott talked about "a uniform standard among Texans" to stay home unless performing an essential service or activity as well as other actions the state of Texas has taken to combat the virus. The two also discussed the trajectory of COVID-19 in Texas, the importance of continued social distancing through April 30 and the expansion of COVID-19 testing in Texas.

Abbott issued earlier executive orders to:

—Expand hospital bed capacity, directing all licensed health care professionals and facilities to postpone all surgeries and procedures that are not immediately, medically necessary to correct a serious medical condition or to preserve the life of a patient;

—Suspend regulations to allow for increased occupancy of hospital rooms;

—Suspend regulations to increase the number of emergency medical services personnel;

—Require hospitals to submit daily reports of hospital bed capacity to the Texas Department of State Health Services; and —Waive certain hospital licensing rules.

On March 29, Abbott announced a joint effort of the state, the Texas Military Department and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to identify and equip additional locations to serve as health care facilities if hospital capacity is exhausted. Abbott announced the Kay Bailey Hutchison Convention Center in Dallas as the first of such sites.

According to figures posted by the state health department at noon on April 5, some 6,182 people in Texas had been diagnosed with COVID-19 and 127 deaths resulting from the disease had been confirmed.

Revenue increases in March

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on April 2 announced state sales tax revenue totaled $2.69 billion in March, 2.9% more than the amount reported in March 2019.

The modest growth in state sales tax revenue was led by collections from the retail trade sector, while collections from oil- and gas-related sectors declined from a year ago, Hegar said.

"While some businesses may have begun to experience slowing traffic in late February, formal social distancing measures in response to the coronavirus pandemic were not adopted until well into March and the impact of those measures would not be reflected in this month's sales tax collections based on February sales," he said.

Hegar added that he expects future sales tax revenue would be "drastically affected because much of the economy has been shut down to combat the coronavirus pandemic and because of the negative impact of a global oil price war."

Worshippers get consideration

Gov. Abbott and Attorney General Ken Paxton on April 1 issued joint guidance regarding the effect of Abbott's Executive Order GA-14 on religious services.

Under the order, houses of worship must, whenever possible, conduct their activities from home or through remote audio or video services.

"For example," according to the official guidance, "a church may hold Easter services in its parking lot, with attendees remaining in their cars (windows down), parked in every other parking spot, with the minister using amplification to preach. Or because Executive Order GA 14 permits drive-thrus to operate, then a house of worship may, according to their faith practices, provide communion or a blessing through a similar drive-up service. Or pastors with smaller congregations may consider conducting multiple services of 10 people or fewer in their sanctuaries, so long as they maintain appropriate social distancing, properly sanitize the building between each service, and provide hand sanitizer."

"All Texans must work together to stop the spread of COVID-19 and houses of worship face a particular challenge as we work to combat this pandemic," said Paxton. "This guidance provides clear direction for houses of worship to protect the health and safety of Texans as they continue to hold religious services, exercise their religious liberty and serve their faith communities."

Unemployment 'bot' debuts

The Texas Workforce Commission on April 1 announced its launch of an automated virtual assistant to help answer Texans' questions on the unemployment insurance process and relieve pressure on the agency relating to the steep increase in unemployment claims as the COVID-19 crisis accelerates.

The artificial intelligence-enabled chatbot named "Larry" can instantly answer many of the most common questions about the process, the agency said.

Texas State Parks Temporarily Close to the Public

At the direction of Gov. Greg Abbott, Texas State Parks will be closed to the public effective at the close of business Tuesday, April 7 in order to maintain the safest environment for visitors, volunteers and staff. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) will continue to stay current with the latest public health recommendations and will announce when a definite reopening date has been determined.

"Given the myriad of challenges and heightened risks of operating the parks at this time, we believe this is the best course of action right now in order to meet the health and safety expectations the state has set out for the citizens of Texas," said Carter Smith, Executive Director of TPWD. "All state parks will remain temporarily closed until public health and safety conditions improve. During the closure, staff will continue to steward and care for the parks to ensure they can be immediately reopened to visitors at the appropriate time."

Outdoor recreational opportunities such as hunting, fishing, biking, jogging, walking, hiking, wildlife viewing, and the like are essential activities for Texas citizens. TPWD will continue to do its part to actively encourage and promote these opportunities in ways that are safe and close to home, said Smith.

Through this trying time, TPWD has worked diligently to facilitate access to the outdoors across the state, including in the state park system, which hosted nearly 740,000 day and overnight visitors throughout the month of March.

Despite the implementation of increasingly restrictive visitor use measures to help minimize the transmission of COVID-19 at parks, TPWD has reached a point where public safety considerations of those in the parks, and in the surrounding communities, must take precedence over continued operations. Difficulty in ensuring compliance with social distancing, problems in maintaining adequate supplies and keeping park facilities sufficiently sanitized are only a few of the challenges encountered by state park staff.

While parks are closed to the public, staff will be working to help maintain the standard upkeep, maintenance, stewardship, and continued regular cleaning of site facilities.

The Texas State Parks Customer Service Center is currently working toward contacting customers with upcoming overnight reservations to reimburse stays booked through the reservation system. Group and facility reservations have been cancelled until April 30. Cancelled reservations will not be charged normal administrative fees.

Day passes purchased through the reservation system, not associated to the Texas State Parks Pass, will also be refunded without penalties. The Texas State Parks Customer Service Center will automatically process cancellations of both overnight and dayuse reservations. If your reservation is impacted by a facility or park closure, a Customer Service Center agent will contact you - you do not need to contact us. We are contacting customers in order of arrival date and appreciate your patience.

Questions regarding state park reservations can be emailed to customer. service@tpwd.texas.gov and general park information can be found at Texas-StateParks.org.

By Sue Jane Sullivan

Sue Jane Sullivan is a freelance writer residing in Austin, Texas. She retired after teaching 41 years, all in the same public school district in Borden County (Gail, Texas).

"I have written this to tell you my worrying secret. Now don't cry when you read it because it is neither yours nor my fault. I suppose I will have to tell it now without any nonsense. To begin with, I was not meant to be an athlete. I was meant to be a composer and will be I'm sure. I'll ask you one more thing. --Don't ask me to try to forget this unpleasant thing and go play football." Letters of Note, composer Samuel Barber at the age of nine, writing to his mother in 1919

Barber wrote his first piece at age seven and attempted his first opera at age 10. Adagio for Strings has become "one of the most recognizable and beloved compositions" both in concerts and films (Platoon, The Elephant Man, Outlander). This classical composition could be considered our country's unofficial mourning song, played at services after the death of President Franklin Roosevelt and the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The gifted.

They are our reminders on earth that God can indeed do remarkable things with mere humans. How else can a boy write a composition at age seven or attempt to compose at opera at 10? Samuel Barber is our country's version of Mozart. The letter he wrote to his mother reveals that Barber knew his talent lay in something he must do whether he wanted to or not-because Barber saw himself as a steward of his gift.

His church of choice or his faith I do not know. I do know that music such as his can only come from the Giver of the gifts.

Your endowment may not be as pronounced. We may not profit financially or become famous for our talents; nonetheless, something has been placed inside all of us to use wisely.

The word "gifted" is not an adjective to describe a person. It is a verb--an action verb, no less--that reveals what the Almighty has one for us and to us. And empathize to sing to liste done for us and to us. And in turn, it is an instructive word on what we can do for others.

We have been gifted with the ability to be genuinely kind, to smile at just the right time, to sew, to cook, to play sports, to love purely, to be sensitive, to write, to draw, to comfort, to laugh and make others laugh, to take photographs and capture moments, to organize, to paint, to use technology, to teach toddlers or teenagers, to be devoted to those we love, to be patient, to empathize, to sing, to listen without gossiping, to write letters, to visit the sick, to search for knowledge and dispense it thoughtfully, to make a phone call, to pray earnestly, to love those hard to love, to be nice to telemarketers, to care for the elderly, or to simply care

You may not compose a beautiful adagio, but you can share your best qualities so that the people with whom you come in contact will be left humming a melody they won't soon forget.

Review by the ARB

If you cannot resolve your problem informally with the CAD, you file a notice of protest requesting to have your case heard by the ARB.

The ARB is an independent board of citizens that hears and determines protests regarding property appraisals or other concerns listed above. It has the power to order the CAD to make the necessary changes based on evidence heard during the ARB hearing.

If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (notice of protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing and send you written notice of the time, date and place of the hearing. If necessary, you may request a hearing in the evening or on a Saturday or Sunday. You may use Comptroller Form 50-132, Property Appraisal - Notice of Protest, to file your written request for an ARB hearing.

Prior to your hearing, you may ask to review the evidence the CAD plans to introduce at the hearing to establish any matter at issue. Before a hearing on a protest or immediately after the hearing begins, you or your agent and the CAD are required to provide each other with a copy of any materials (evidence) intended to be offered or submitted to the ARB at the hearing. Evidence may be submitted for any hearing type either in paper or on a small portable electronic device (such as a CD, USB flash drive or thumb drive) which will be kept by the ARB. Do NOT bring evidence on a smart phone. The ARB's hearing procedures regarding all the requirements to properly submit evidence on a small portable electronic device must be reviewed.

To the greatest extent practicable, the hearing will be informal. You or a designated agent may appear in person or you may by telephone conference call or submission of written affidavit to present your evidence, facts and argument. If you decide to participate by telephone conference call, you must provide your evidence to the ARB with a written affidavit before the ARB hearing begins. You may use Comptroller Form 50-283, Property Owner's Affidavit of Evidence to the Appraisal Review Board, to submit evidence for your telephone conference call hearing or for hearing by affidavit.

You and the CAD representative have the opportunity to present evidence about your case. You may cross-examine the CAD representative. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented by both parties. In most cases, the CAD has the burden of establishing the property's value by a preponderance of the evidence presented.

In certain protests, the chief appraiser has the burden of proving the property's value by clear and convincing evidence. You should review ARB hearing procedures to learn more about evidence and

You should not try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing. ARB members are required to sign an affidavit saying that they have not talked about your case before the ARB hears it.

Review by the District Court, an Arbitrator or SOAH

After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you are not satisfied with the ARB's decision, you have the right to appeal to district court. As an alternative to district court, you may appeal through binding arbitration or the State Office of Administrative Hearings (SOAH) if you meet the qualifying criteria.

If you choose to go to district court, you must start the process by filing a petition with the district court within 60 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If you chose to appeal through binding arbitration, you must file a request for binding arbitration with the CAD not later than the 45th day after you receive notice of the ARB order. If you chose to appeal to the SOAH, you must file an appeal with the CAD not later than the 30th day after you receive notice of the ARB's order. Appeals to district court, binding arbitration or SOAH all require payment of certain fees or deposits.

Tax Payment

You must pay the amount of taxes due on the portion of the taxable value not in dispute, the amount of taxes due on the property under the order from which the appeal is taken or the amount of taxes due in the previous year.

More Information

You can get more information by contacting your CAD at (insert CAD name, address, telephone number).

Parmer County Appraisal District 305 3rd Street/PO Box 56 Bovina, Texas 79009 (806) 251-1405

You can get Comptroller forms and additional information on how to prepare a protest from the Comptroller's website at comptroller. texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/.

Deadline for Filing Protests with the ARB***

Usual Deadline

Not later than May 15 (or within 30 days after a notice of appraised value was mailed to you, whichever is later).

Late protests are allowed for good cause if you miss the usual deadline. The ARB decides whether you have good cause. Late protests are not allowed after the ARB approves the appraisal records for the year.

Special Deadlines

For change of use (the CAD informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land), the deadline is not later than the 30th day after the notice of the determination was delivered to you.

For ARB changes (the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change did not result from a protest you filed), the deadline is not later than the 30th day after the notice of the change was delivered to you. (You may insert deadline for protests concerning omitted

(You may insert deadline for protests concerning omitted property if doing so would avoid taxpayer confusion.)

If you believe the CAD or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually Feb. 1) or no later than the 125th day after the date you claim you received a tax bill from one or more of the taxing units that tax your property. The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

* The deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or legal, state or national holiday.

Texas WIC Expands Eligible Foods, Launches Updated App

AUSTIN – Texas Health and Human Services announces Texas WIC, the special supplemental nutrition program for women, infants, and children, is expanding the number of food items eligible for purchase through the program. It is also updating the MyTexasWIC app to ensure Texans who need access to nutritious food will be able to find it in their local grocery stores.

"Grocers assure us they can meet this increased demand and have supply chains ready to respond," said Dee Budgewater, HHS deputy executive commissioner for Health Developmental and Independence Services. "The Texas WIC team is working around the clock to ensure families have access to healthy food, which is one of the best ways to support mothers and growing children and help them achieve a greater sense of health and well-being."

Effective immediately, there are additional options for certain food items WIC participants can buy. These food items include more options for milk, bread, rice, pasta and eggs. In addition, Texas WIC is permanently adding canned fruits and vegetables to the food package. Items at the grocery store with a pink sticker that says "WIC Approved" are products eligible for shoppers to purchase using WIC.

WIC participants can find detailed information on the Texas WIC website. WIC participants can also download the latest version of the MyTexasWIC shopping app on the Google Play Store or Apple App Store, which informs families what the allowable food items are on their benefit package.

Texas WIC is operating under modified services throughout the state to help keep clients and staff safe. Families may call their local WIC clinics to learn more about how they can receive services. Visit the Texas WIC website or call 800-942-3678 to find how your local clinic is handling local services.

Many have modified their services and applicants are encouraged to start their applications online to protect office workers and practice social distancing precautions.

About WIC

WIC, or the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children, is a U.S. Department of Agriculture program that is available to qualified pregnant women, new moms, and children younger than 5. Administered in Texas by HHSC, the program provides nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion and support, referrals and nutritious foods. Texas WIC helps approximately 678,000 clients on average each month with infant, child and prenatal nutrition and breastfeeding support

State Sales Tax Revenue Totaled $2.7 Billion in March

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar said state sales tax revenue totaled $2.69 billion in March, 2.9 percent more than in March 2019. "The modest growth in state sales tax revenue was led by collections from the retail trade sector, while collections from oil- and gas-related sectors declined from a year ago," Hegar

Hegar continued, "While some businesses may have begun to experience slowing traffic in late February, formal social distancing measures in response to the coronavirus pandemic were not adopted until well into March, and the impact of those measures would not be reflected in this month's sales tax collections based on February sales."

The majority of March sales tax revenue is based on sales made in February and remitted to the agency in March. Total sales tax revenue in fiscal year 2020 through March 2020 was up 5 percent compared to the same period a year ago. The Comptroller's Certification Revenue Estimate released last October had projected a 4.8 percent increase in sales tax revenue in fiscal year 2020.

"We expect that future sales tax revenue will be drastically affected because much of the economy has been shut down to combat the coronavirus pandemic and because of the negative impact of a global oil price war," Hegar said.

Sales tax is the largest source of state funding for the state budget, accounting for 57 percent of all tax collections. In March 2020, Texas collected the following revenue from other major taxes: (1) motor vehicle sales and rental taxes — $388.5 million, down 2.6 percent from March 2019; (2) motor fuel taxes — $293 million, up 2.6 percent from March 2019; (3) natural gas production taxes — $101.6 million, down 30.1 percent from March 2019; and (4) oil production taxes — $305.5 million, up 10.5 percent from March 2019.

Jams and Jelly

Last week we celebrated peanut butter and jelly day with a look at peanut butter. But the combination isn't complete without the jelly. So this week let's explore the history of jelly.

Jams and jelly evolved from man's quest to find a way to make fresh food last longer. Historically food has been preserved by drying, smoking, salting, cooking with sugar, or storing vegetables and grain in dark, dry cellars. However, the modernization of preserving food began in 1785 when Napoleon Bonaparte wanted a way to feed his armies that was safe and reliable. After much experimenting, chef Nicolas Appert developed a method of heating food and sealing it in air-tight containers that revolutionized food preservation. He went on to discover that different foods must be processed at different temperatures depending on their acid content.

Recipes exist from the early first century showing how to make fruit preserves. One method involves using honey, but the best methods involve sugar. However, Europeans did not discover sugar until after the crusades in the 11th Century when soldiers brought it back home with them along with a process to preserve fruit. Since sugar was hard to come by and a luxury for the wealthy, preserved fruit was also a food for the rich, especially royalty. Marmalade is said to have been created by a physician in 1561 for Mary, Queen of Scots to keep her from being seasick.

From there the process of making gelatin was developed and was added to the fruit and sugar for preservation and texture. Gelatin was made by boiling animal and fish bones and connective tissues. This was added to the fruit for a "jelly" like texture. Aspic, made from meat and fish stock, was one of the first recipes to use the gelatin with fruit. It was first seen in Egyptian paintings but fell out of use until the 1400's in France where it gained popularity again. Powdered gelatin was invented in 1682 by Denis Pepin, a French physicist, mathematician, and inventor. From there a variety of fruit-based spreads were created.

Jelly in the United States began in the early 1800's when Jerome Smucker and his wife began to make apple butter and sell it in individual jars. Then around 1869, Dr. Thomas Branwell Welch used the newly developed Concord grape to launch his grape juice company, and continued on to make his first jam product, Grapelade. In 1918, the U.S. army bought the entire inventory of the jam for the soldiers battling in WWI. When the soldiers returned home, they were hungry for Welch's grape jam. After WWII, food scientists developed a method of canning that heated the food and the jar separately. This led to the many varieties of jams and jellies we see on the market today.

Have you ever wondered about the difference between jam and jelly? Below is a quick summary of the different types of fruit spreads.

Jam - made from crushed or chopped fruit cooked with sugar, pectin, and lemon juice; does not contain chunks of fruit

Jelly - sweetened and jelled fruit juice made by cooking fruit juice, and sugar with pectin; usually contains no pieces of fruit

Preserves - large or whole pieces of fruit are cooked with sugar to the point that the fruit is suspended in a syrup base Chutney - a spiced condiment made of fruit or vegetable; usually served as accompaniment, not a spread; can range from mild to hot, and have the consistency from a fine relish to a preserve or conserve

Conserve - a mixture of more than one fruit often with nuts and raisins that is cooked until it becomes thick

Curd - a creamy spread made with sugar, eggs, butter and flavored with citrus juice and zest Fruit butter - Fruit puree or pulp combined with sugar, lemon juice and spices slowly cooked down to a soft smooth consistency; the "butter" refers its smooth, spreadable

Marmalade - soft jelly, often citrus based that contains the flesh and often the peel of the

Easy Instant Pot Blueberry Jam {just 2 ingredients!}

By Haniya Cherry

Ingredients

2 pounds blueberries fresh or frozen 1 pound raw honey local

Instructions

Add blueberries to inner pot of pressure cooker. Pour in honey. Put pressure cooker on low heat (Keep Warm function if using Instant Pot or other electric cooker) until honey melts. If using frozen berries, this part may take a while, but don't worry. It's worth it! Stir. occasionally. When melted, turn pressure cooker to high heat (Sauté function on Instant Pot) until honey boils. There will be white-pink bubbles all around the blueberries. When it boils, quickly put on the lid of your cooker, checking that the seals and all components are in good shape, including being in the sealing position. If using an electric cooker, hit the Cancel button, then set to high for 2 minutes. If using a stovetop cooker, bring to high pressure and maintain pressure for a cook time of 2 minutes. When cooking time is over, if using an electric cooker, hit the Cancel button to turn off the heat, and unplug. With a stovetop cooker, remove from heat. Let depressurize naturally. When depressurized, remove lid and turn pressure cooker back on to high heat (Sauté function on Instant Pot). Let boil until some of the water has evaporated off, and the jam is nice and gelled when dripped off a spoon. Make sure to scrape the bottom frequently to ensure even gelling. Pour jam into clean half-pint jars. Store in the refrigerator. Servings: 3 half pint jars

Recipe Notes

*If adapting this recipe to another fruit, keep in mind whether it will need to be cut into smaller pieces, de-stemmed, or peeled.

*If freezing fruit to use for jam later on, make sure to freeze it ready-for-use, or else it'll be a hassle later on! *If fruit has been frozen into bigger chunks

(such as peaches), simply pressure cook for 3 minutes instead of 2, and then mash with a potato masher to get a smoother consistency.

*Also, feel free to play with the timing of the final boiling step. If your fruit is more watery (such as peaches), let the liquid reduce for longer.

*The beauty of this recipe is its versatility! Tweak the type of fruit, the size of your fruit chunks/slices, or how long you boil the jam at the end. Combine fruits for a unique jam combo. The possibilities are endless. Enjoy!

April through June is normally the wettest season for much of Texas, but the National Weather Service (NWS) does not expect much drought relief for Texas in that time period for this year.
