Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

The annual basketball tournament is over and as far as I know there were no fatalities. It was more of a strain for us this year than usual, as we had two Ozona teams playing instead of one.

Of course, I always root for the Lions and instead of resting up between bouts I stay and root for the underdog in the games between. I got by Thursday in pretty good shape but Friday almost got the best of me and Saturday really did me in.

The Lion B really gave fans something to yell about when they started off Friday morning with a lead over the Wall Hawks. It was anybody's ballgame until the very end and luck was on the side of the Hawks. The young Lions came back Friday afternoon after very little rest and came within four points of beating the Medina Bobcats in another up and down battle. Considering the fact that the Lions started a junior and four sophomores against five senior starters for the other teams, they did very well for themselves and we are very proud of them. Who knows, had it not been for illness in the ranks, they might have ended up with the championship trophy or at least consolation.

The Lion varsity did itself proud too, and they enjoyed big leads every game they played until Saturday. They had a little hard luck playing the San Angelo JV that afternoon. They were playing basketball and their opponents were playing football, at least that's the way it looked to the spectators. Anyway, they lost their only game of the tournament and had to go for third place. I felt pretty confident when they came out on the court to play Iraan that night. It was just our time to win. However, when the Lions feel behind and a lady behind me said, "I just can't believe Ozona ever beat this team," I had to go get a breath of fresh air.

When I returned to my seat, I was pleasantly surprised to find the Lions in the lead and delighted to see them win by 11 big points.

After that one, I was ready to go home. However, I made the mistake of going with Tom and he had no intention of leaving until it was all over but the shouting, and I was too tired to walk.

Tom's company convention is in Miami in March and I am in a quandary. Because of the time element, we will be forced to fly by commercial plane. I am frightened to death of flying, and I don't care about visiting Cuba. With my luck the hijacker would probably shoot the pilot over the open sea and I can't swim.

The company insists that wives accompanying their husbands and I would hate for Tom to miss it. So, if any of you would like to take my place, just for the convention of course, give me a ring.

I didn't realize how much the raise in postal rates affected us until I mailed my friends in Maine 89 cents worth of raw peanuts and it cost me $1.35 for the postage.

After the liberals have run this country for so many years, it will be interesting to see what our new administration of top notch businessmen can do for it. Deals are fine, but I have

T. A. Kincaid, Jr. Honored Today By Santone CofC

T. A. Kincaid, Jr., of Lavernia, Texas, Crockett county ranch owner and native of this county, was honored at a noon luncheon today by the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce for his outstanding community service to agriculture.

The award was to be presented by the Chamber's Farm and Ranch Committee at a banquet to be held in the Ranch House at Joe Freeman Coliseum beginning at 12:15 p. m. today.

An enthusiastic worker on San Antonio Chamber of Commerce committees, Kincaid has continued his record of many years as a leader in the advancement of the interests of Texas agriculture. A Crockett county ranchman (35 miles south of Ozona) since 1928, Kincaid has been a leader in many of the most vital movements for the betterment of the ranch industry. He served two years as president of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association, the only man besides his father, T. A. Kincaid, Sr., ever to serve more than one year in that office. The elder Mr. Kincaid served the organization as its president 11 years.

In Crockett county, T. A. was a moving force in the organization of the Crockett County Soil Conservation District in 1948, and was its first chairman, and prior to that had served on the county ASC committee as a member and chairman. Statewide he has served in numerous

Production From Second Level In Crockett Test

King Resources Co., Midland, No. 1 Continental-Harris, in 14-2-WCR, Crockett County prospect, 20 miles southwest of Big Lake, 1 1/2 miles west-northwest of the one-well Escondido, Northwest (Pennsylvanian detrital and Ellenburger) field, but separated by two Ellenburger failures, and 1/2 mile southeast of the depleted one-well Lula (Devonian) field, has indicated production in another pay with the flowing of 16.7 barrels of oil in one hour on a drillstem test in an unidentified zone.

On the two-hour and 48-minute test taken at 3,939-46 feet, gas surfaced in six minutes, no gauges, and oil in one hour and 40 minutes, flowing the above gauge on a 1-inch choke. Recovery was 24 barrels of oil and some salt water-cut mud. Recovery below the sub was 90 feet of gas-cut mud, flowing pressure was 284-1,506 pounds; one-hour initial shut-in pressure was 3,636 pounds; and three-hour final shut-in pressure, 3,371 pounds.

Lions Drop Pair To Stanton Quint

The Ozona Lions hosted Stanton Tuesday night in a double-header at the high school gym. The varsity lost its third district game 68-49 and the B team was edged 48-42. The Lions have an open date this weekend, but will play Crane there next Tuesday night.

Beto Vargas paced the Lions with 17 points. Marlin Farris hit for 15 and Don Huff swished the nets for 10 points.

Greg Stuart was high-point man for the B with 12 points followed by Arturo Torres with 10. Tuesday night will be the Lions first encounter with the highly touted Crane team. The Lion B lost by one point to the Crane B at the McCamey B team tournament.

Damage Heavy In Three Accidents During Past Week

Highway Patrolman Orvil Perry reported three accidents this week, two in town and one just outside of town. Several hundred dollars worth of damage was reported, but no serious personal injury resulted.

Monday afternoon in front of the administration building at the high school a 1967 Chevrolet pickup driven by Christina Sanchez, backed out from an angle parking position and hit a 1966 Chrysler, belonging to Bud Harrison, which was parallel parked across the street in front of the building. Damage to Chrysler was $150. Damage to the pickup was negligible.

At 6:30 Monday evening on Santa Rosa St., Jose Perez driving north in a 1967 Chevrolet, hit the left rear of a parked 1967 Chevrolet belonging to Rosario Longoria. Damage to the moving car was $300 and to the parked car $150. No personal injuries resulted.

Cherylene Wilber of Maysville, Ark. narrowly missed serious injury Tuesday morning at 1:30 when the 1967 Chevrolet she was driving slammed into a bridge abutment .8 of a mile west of Ozona on Hwy 290. Mrs. Wilber was attempting to pass a truck while approaching a bridge. The truck moved to the left going onto the bridge. Mrs. Wilber lost control of the car and it went into a broadside, hitting the bridge. Mrs. Wilber was treated for an elbow injury and released at Crockett County Hospital. Her husband, who was a passenger in the car, was not injured. Damage to the car amounted to $1,200.

raan. Mertzson downed Rock-springs for the consolation trophy by a score of 57-44.

Fans were surprised to see San Angelo JV jump out ahead of the Big Owls in the championship game. The Bobcats led 20-11 at the end of the first quarter, but the Owls closed the gap and were ahead at the half 33-32.

Joe Barnes paced Big Lake with 20 points and John Watson added 19. Grady Elder was the leading point-maker for San Angelo with 27.

In the Iraan-Ozona game for third place, the Lions came from 10 points behind to lead 31-29 at the half. Playing some of their finest ball, the Lions dominated the second half. David Pagan played outstanding defensive ball for the Lions while Beto Vargas and Marlin Farris hit for 24 and 17 points respectively. David Wilson led the scoring for the Braves with 22 points.

Mertzson led all the way, after early in the first period, in their encounter with Rocksprings for the consolation trophy. David Gentry scored 33 points for the winning Hornets.

Gentry, of the Mertzon Hornets, was named outstanding player of the tournament. He scored 121 points in four games and has been a member of the all-tournament team at the Ozona Tournament two years prior to this tournament. He set a new record this year for free throws with 14.

SENTIMENTAL VISIT

On Monday, January 13, as he entered the final week of his residence in the White House, President Johnson made what was described as a sentimental visit to the AFL-CIO building just across Lafayette Square from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. He did not go empty-handed. He carried with him a polished plaque on which were mounted 100 pens which he had used in signing as many Great Society bills.

"I know of no living single group," said the President, "that I think has been more responsible for the advances that have been made in this field in the last five years than the AFL-CIO headed by George Meany..."

That in itself is a very interesting observation, since it is not a matter of record that any members of the Congress presented themselves to the voters as Labor Party representatives, or candidates of the AFL-CIO.

But even more interesting was President Johnson's observation that he and George Meany, head of the AFL-

CIO, had met a total of 49 times over the past 62 months, either in the President's office or the family living quarters, and that they had further had telephone conversations an additional 82 times. And some of those telephone conversations were, in the President's words, "rather extended."

One wonders how many Cabinet Officers had as many as 131 intimate discussions with the President in the course of the 62 months.

Granted, the Presidency of the United States is the loneliest job in the world, and the Chief Executive has every right to choose his friends and advisors. Still, he is President of all the people, and there must be some businessmen and farmers — the head of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, or the National Association of Manufacturers, or the President of the American Farm Bureau Federation — who will notice in passing how their opinions were heard on the affairs of state somewhat less than 131 times in 62 months.

Government Suit Against Water District Settled On Same Terms As Original Offer 5 Years Ago

Five years of haggling on the part of the U. S. Air Force with the Crockett County Water Control District over disposition of the water system which was installed to supply the former Ozona Air Force Station, five miles east of Ozona, was ended in Federal District Court in San Angelo this week when Judge Joe Estes dismissed the suit after litigants had reached a settlement.

The settlement terms? Just exactly the same as proposed the day after the base was closed in May of 1963. But between then and now, the government had instituted suit against the district for recovery of the full amount of the cost of the base water supply and distribution system, plus interest, even though it had sold the entire base, houses, buildings and all, for $175,000 to private developers.

After the expenditure of considerable money for attorney's fees in defending the suit, the water district's original offer of $5,000 as salvage value of the system and related equipment was finally accepted by the government, but not until Judge Estes had ordered government attorneys to settle the case or face its dismissal.

The Air Force and the water district entered a contract when the base was established whereby the government would up the money and the water district would obtain water rights nearby, drill wells, install and operate a supply system for the base. The payout was to be from monthly receipt for water used at the base.

Of the original investment of $97,000, the water district had returned $9,000 to the government from water receipts. After the base was deactivated and personnel and radar equipment moved, the government put up the property for sale. It was sold to Troy Dutton and associates who converted it into a residential addition. Meanwhile, the only source of water for the base was that being operated by the Crockett County Water District and as an accommodation to the new owners, the district continued the operation.

Negotiations were begun with the Air Force for title to the system and under terms of the contract the district offered to pay $5,000 as salvage value for the system. The matter dragged through the years until finally the government instituted the suit for the full balance due of $88,000 plus $16,000 in interest. The settlement this week was reached by negotiation and directors of the district expressed satisfaction with terms of the settlement.

Hufstedlers Pile Up Record For Longevity

If the record of another branch of the family is any criterion, Ozona is likely to have Hufstedlers around quite a while.

An article in a recent issue of the Hobbs, N. M. Daily News recounts the fact that the Hufstedler family which originated in Randolph County, Arkansas, now consists of seven brothers and sisters combined ages is 622 years. One sister of 97, another 93, a third is 86 and the fourth is 84. Of the brothers the oldest is 91, the next is 86 and the "baby" of the family is 82.

"They are all active, their friends say, and since the election they are a happy family because, to the last man and woman, they are all Republicans," says the article. "Actually the Hufstedlers once was comprised of four more brothers, but died earlier. The oldest was 98 and the youngest 91 at the time of their deaths."

Ross Hufstedler of Ozona received a copy of the article from a relative and a little research through the efforts of an older aunt has ferreted out the fact that the father of the brood was a first cousin of his own grandfather, which would make then some sort of cousins of his. Ross' own father was 84 at the time of his death and his mother is now 84.

Banking on the old adage that "if you want to live to a ripe old age, pick long lived ancestors," Ross and his son, J. G. and the latter's young son, Jay, look forward to making a name in Ozona for quite a spell longer.

Rusty, does Bobby Amthor's new car drive good?
Where there really girls racing Saturday night? How about it Patsy, and Marsha?
This week-end sure was different on all accounts.
Did Terry L. ever do a wheely Saturday nite?
Looks like there are going to be a few people walking for awhile!
Did the Juniors really lose money at the concession stand?
Since Fred Deaton didn't get a deer during hunting season he made up for it this week-end.
Wonder how much that beautiful bracelet of Diana's cost? 10c?
Who won the races?
Do Kirk's and Elizabeth's heads really have holes in them because of the game Saturday nite?
There seems to be a few fights among the students. Hope everybody gets settled down.
What are these "computer pictures" everybody got this week-end?
Were the "cops" thick Saturday night?

"BUT THE GOLDEN EGG?"

CAN YOU TAKE IT ?

By Marsha Moore

Your ability — or inability — to take criticism can affect your health.
Few students react with pleasure when criticized. The resentment often is ballooned far out proportion. But everyone at school gets a certain amount of criticism. Well, that's inevitable. Teachers do criticize.

Still, in a teacher's mind, criticism is nothing more than a piece of instruction, advice, or a suggestion. You may interpret it as an unjustifiable bawling out. Emotion takes command instead of intelligence. Headaches, backaches, chest pains, ulcers, and any of a host of other physical complaints may result.

Worse, an unhealthy mental attitude triggers a pernicious cycle so that a student's value is lessened, which may warrant further criticism.
The next time you are criticized by a teacher, just smile and thank him for the help. Your body and mind will thank you too.
And the teacher will think you're a pretty good student after all.

YOUNG INDEPENDENCE

By Mencha Diaz

Today few young people have heroes or persons whom they look up to. They admire certain individual qualities in people but not the whole person. Influential persons in the lives of young people have admirable characteristics which are soaked up by them. The young practice such qualities without being conscious of it and make them into their own. By developing their own talents or what they admire, young people are more independent in what they can do.

If they are in a situation where they have to make a certain decision, young people think and do what they want to do and not what their parents or advisors tell them. They like to be independent and do their own thing.

your inquiring mind

CHECK THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS THAT YOU MAY HAVE ASKED YOURSELF:

- () Can there be more to life than eating, sleeping, studying, working and playing?
- () What is the purpose of my life?
- () What is prayer for? Does it really work?
- () Does God really exist? Can I know Him personally?

If you checked any of these questions, you're the kind of person who "knows" that life should be more than just living. You have an inquiring mind — one that wants to know what life is all about.

You've asked yourself some pretty important questions. Now follow through. Come to church regularly, and get the answers from God.

IRS Explains Community Property Law And Your Income Tax

(This series of news stories was prepared by the staff of the District Director of Internal Revenue Service in Dallas, and is being published by your paper to help you save dollars and trouble. The tax instructions that you receive in the mail from Internal Revenue Service do not fully explain all of the tax benefits available to you under community property law.)

The Texas community property law is very important to retired Texans if they are married. The law can give your spouse a share of your retirement income credit worth an additional $228.60 on your 1968 tax return. On the other hand, if you are working, your wife's community share of your earned income can cost her $228.60 that she would have been entitled to as a retiree in non-community property states.

First, let's consider an example of earned income eliminating your retirement income credit.

You received a taxable pension of $3,000 in 1968. In 1968 your wife received earned income of $8,000. This constitutes community income and you, therefore, have received $4,000 earned income in 1968. This must be considered in computing your retirement income credit. If you are at least 62 but under 72 years of age 50% of earned income in excess of $1,200 but not in excess of $1,700, plus the total amount over $1,700, must be used to reduce the maximum amount upon which the retirement income credit may be based ($1,524). Thus, the excess earned income (2,550) will eliminate any retirement income credit for you.

Now for the benefit side — retirement income, which is community income, is considered as having been received half by the husband and half by the wife. Half of such income is taken into account in determining to what extent you or your wife may be entitled to retirement income credit. (This could be worth a maximum of $228.60 tax saving for each.) As an example:

You receive a pension under a Public Retirement System. Your wife may consider her share of such community income as retirement income, even though she has not reached 65 years of age. If she is under 65, however, she cannot consider her share of rents, dividends, interest, or annuities not under a Public Retirement System, as retirement income, even though you claim your share of such income as retirement income because you are 65 or older.

A second example is: Your wife is paid a pension not under a Public Retirement System. If she has not reached age 65, her share is not retirement income. You, however, do have retirement income with respect to your share of such pension, if you are 65 or older.

The community property law also has the effect of giving retirement income credit to the wives (many years below the normal retirement age of 65) of some public system retirees (usually military). Public system retirees should check the instructions carefully to determine whether they are entitled to additional or any retirement income credit on this basis.

If you have a problem in determining whether you are entitled to a retirement income credit your local office of the Internal Revenue Service will be glad to help you.

Agricultural Products of Texas To Be Featured In Promotion By Texas Department of Agriculture

A new market development and promotion program was put into year-round action in November by the Texas Department of Agriculture, John C. White, Commissioner, has announced.

The program has been given the name "TAP", for Texas Agricultural Products, and has its focus set for creating an awareness on the part of the consuming public that practically every food product known to the housewife is grown or processed in Texas.

To launch the program, Texans were introduced to the TAP symbol in November and December, 1968, by way of roadside billboards, radio and television announcements, and newspaper articles. The TAP insignia shows a stylized outline of Texas in which the letters T, A, and P, are boldly placed. Around this center, a rectangular border fits to complete the design that reminds the viewer of the face of a ranch-type branding iron.

Individual commodities will be featured through all communications media on a schedule which generally follows their seasonally oriented activity. The Agriculture Department has worked out plans to feature fresh fruits and vegetables and nuts in January and February, 1969; red meats in March and April; May and June will feature poultry and dairy products; July and August, cereal grains; and natural fibers, cotton, wool and mohair are to be spotlighted in September and October.

Sensing The News

By Thurman Sensing
Executive V. P. Southern States Industrial Council

Mr. Nixon's Beginning

What sort of program Mr. Nixon will send to Capital Hill won't be known for a time. Since the election he has been quiet regarding his legislative plans, as he has been largely concerned with the selection of Cabinet and sub-Cabinet officials for the new administration. Indeed it is unlikely that the new President will send any big package to the Hill. The country has been engulfed in new legislation in recent years, and the nation's real need is to sort through what already is on the books and to discard what is unwise or unnecessary.

John Randolph of Roanoke, the great Virginia statesman of the early 19th century, once took notice of the "itch to legislate," saying it was the undoing of many lands. Mr. Nixon seems to have a sensible awareness of this truth. His task, for the time being, will be administrative. In plain language, he will have to get the country out of the mess into which it was plunged by Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

The biggest foreign problem, of course, is the Vietnam war. Like all wars, it has to have an end. Fortunately, Mr. Nixon has a record of realism and tough anti-communism. He is likely to take a hard-line position in diplomatic efforts to end the conflict.

The Nixon administration, moreover, has an opportunity to remind the American people and the world that the only language the communists understand is the language of force. Stiffening of U. S. military pressure against North Vietnam and the Viet Cong is the best way to get them in a more reasonable frame of mind. Indeed if the North Vietnamese persist in their funny-business and propagandizing at Paris, the Nixon administration could quickly bring the Reds to their senses by a renewal of U. S. air and sea bombardment of North Vietnam.

Part of the tragedy of the present situation is that President Johnson halted that bombardment just at the time when it was doing the most good and when the communists were really hunting.

A tough international policy makes sense for Mr. Nixon, if for no other reason than because it is what is wanted by the people who elected him. Mr. Nixon was NOT elected by the "doves" who want a quick withdrawal from Vietnam. He got the "hawk" vote in the presidential campaign, and his supporters expect him to be "hawkish" — realistic, that is, during his tenure in the White House.

On the domestic front, his supporters undoubtedly expect him to take a hard line towards law and order in the streets and on college campuses. The disorders at several "educational" institutions has worsened in recent weeks, especially in California, where anarchists have waged pitched battles with the police. The time has come to use the authority of the federal government to deal with those who are determined to sabotage higher education in the United States.

The people who elected Mr. Nixon are the Americans who are concerned about lawlessness and civil disobedience and want something done to eliminate these evils. A good place to begin is Washington, D. C., where the police have been virtually disarmed as a result of political pressure on the city administration. For example, police no longer may fire at fleeing lawbreakers. Obviously, the hoodlum element is rejoicing.

An excellent proposal to this end already has been submitted by U. S. Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va), a member of the House Committee on crime in the federal district.

Congressman Broyhill recommends that the Speaker of the House and the President name the police commissioner for the District of Columbia. In this way, the post of police commissioner would be insulated from the political pressures inside the district, pressures that benefit the street hoodlum element. If something of this sort is not introduced, Washington, D. C. soon will not be safe for government workers or tourists. Now is the time, therefore, to turn the seat of government into a showcase for law and order.

An enormous range of administrative decisions await Mr. Nixon and his Cabinet. Few are more pressing than action to reform the welfare system that is a haven for parasites. A crackdown is in order against the association and union of so-called "welfare clients." These militant groups think they have a privileged sanctuary from which they can raid the public treasury and abuse productive citizens who provide relief money through their taxes. A federal investigation of the "welfare rights" organizations would be a good beginning for the Nixon administration.

sity 66-61 and Iraan blasted Rocksprings 72-50. In the Friday morning opener the lead changed hands several times before Wall managed to subdue the Lion B. The score was tied 61-61 with a minute to go when Wall hit for 2, got one at the free throw line, got the rebound and hit for 2 more, ending the first really exciting game of the tournament.

Arturo Torres led the scoring for the Lions with 18 points, followed by Will Collett with 15 and Jim Montgomery with 14.

The first game of the afternoon was another cliff hanger with the Ozona junior varsity against the Medina Bobcats. Medina edged the Lion B 57-53, but it was only later a battle. Ozona jumped out to a lead but Medina closed the gap and led 20-16 going into the second period. It was a see-saw battle until the end. Montgomery led the scoring for the Lions with 26 points and Greg Stuart hit for 10. Illness deprived the Lions of two players, Mickey McBroom and Phillip Perner. Had the team been at full strength, it could have been a different tale.

In the other semi-final consolation game Friday afternoon Mertzton had an easy time downing Sanderson 66-48, with David Gentry hitting for 36 points for the winners.

Mertzton and Rocksprings gained the consolation finals Friday morning. Mertzton got past Sonora 60-57 in a real thriller and Rocksprings eased past Medina 51-43.

Big Lake beat Iraan 56-39 in a surprising contest the first afternoon game to make it to the finals.

San Angelo Central junior varsity finally beat the host Lions in the last semi-final game of the afternoon by a score of 69-64. With the lead changing hands momentarily, Ozona fans were on the edges of their seats. Vargas led both teams in the contest in scoring, hitting for 25 points. David Pagan hit for 15 and David Huff added 11.

Kincaid was married to Euleone (Mac) McDonald in Caldwell in 1928. He served four years in the U. S. Army in World War II, discharged in 1946 with the rank of Major. The Kincaids have one son, Tom, who is associated in business with his father.
