Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

The "Big O Theatre" should be some relief from the summer doldrums Ozonans suffer. I haven't really gotten the official "word," but rumor has it that it will open this weekend.

It will be nice in that you may sit in your car and watch a family movie or go into the auditorium which has fancy rocking seats like the city cinemas. Also, they will feature a fancy snack bar where you can take the whole family for supper before the show. You can't beat that for family entertainment. I might even take up movie-going again.

I haven't frequented the movies in so many years that the late shows on television seem new to me.

Bryan Montgomery will read for the part which is being written into Bonanza as a replacement for Hoss. The tragic death of Dan Blocker made the transition necessary.

We have no word as yet on how the audition came out, but we are keeping our fingers crossed for Bryan. It would be a big break for him and we certainly wouldn't object to watching a local boy on the telly every week.

By next week we should be able to report the results. If he does get the part, filming will begin right away for the fall series.

Tom and I went down to Austin a couple of weekends ago to movie Jim, our son, home for the summer. We were driving along and Tom was telling me the story again (I've only heard it about 100 times) about last fall when he and Ray Boyd went to Austin for the Texas-TCU football game and saw a white deer. All my life I've heard people tell about seeing a white or albino deer, and I've rather been under the impression that they were either under the influence or seeing an optical illusion caused by the sun or something.

Anyway, he was pointing out the place where they saw the deer and declaring that it was true, when I do behold I saw a white deer, big as life and right at the fence. It was a cloudy day and I had not been imbibing. We slowed down and got a good look at the snow white animal with his antlers still in the velvet.

Tom was so delighted that he had proved the truth of his story, that he kept on about it until I grew out of my state of amazement and began to doubt my own eyesight. We saw it to the right of the highway after we had passed Junction and taken the road to Austin. It wasn't there on our way back the next day, so I'm not really sure it was ever there at all. However, if you travel down that road and happen to see a big white buck on your right between Junction and Harper, don't be a bit surprised.

I noticed in the daily paper Tuesday that Mrs. Philip Hart, wife of the senator, would refuse to pay income tax on her extensive holdings due to the resumption of the bombing in Vietnam. It made the front page.

For years I have wanted to get out of paying income tax on the grounds that I need the money for my own welfare, but have never been successful. I have found that if you don't send it in, they will send someone after it.

However, I much prefer to think that my tax money is going for bombs to protect our boys and allies in Vietnam than to think it is going to some welfare chisler who is just as able to work as I.

I am not the least bit liberal about tax money. I honestly believe in welfare for those who need it, but I am very much against it for those who make it a way of life when they could be gainfully employed.

His Name Goes on Ballot --

Court Upholds Marley Contention His Legal Residence Is In Prect. 1

A petition to have Jesse Marley's name barred from the June 3 primary ballot was denied after a hearing in 112th District Court here Tuesday morning, clearing the way for the run-off election for Commissioner of Precinct 1 between Marley, the incumbent, and Armando Reina.

The suit, filed on behalf of Reina, by Richard C. Abalos, attorney for the Odessa firm of Warren Burnett Associated, was based on an interpretation of the election laws covering residency. The petition contended that Marley did not actually live in Precinct 1 and therefore was not eligible to serve in the Commissioner's post in that precinct.

Marley's attorneys, Griffiths and Griffiths of San Angelo, filed an answer to the suit which claimed that Marley was indeed a resident of Precinct 1, had been all his life with the exception of his years in college, in spite of his maintaining a home in Precinct 2 for the purpose of educating his children.

Abalos called only two witnesses for the petitioner before making his summation to the judge, the petitioner himself, Reina, and Mrs. Jesse Marley. The respondent, Marley, was the only witness called by his lawyers. The judge, C. E. (Pat) Patterson, 83rd District Judge from Alpine denied the injunction shortly after the summation by the respondent's attorney, Don Griffiths.

In his response filed in answer to the suit by Reina, Marley stated that he owns two and one-half sections of land in Precinct No. 1. The ranch house and six hundred acres located in Precinct 1 is his homestead and has been the homestead of the Marley family ever since his grandfather built the ranch in 1937.

Under the "Statement of Facts" in the response, it was brought out that the ranch house was extensively remodeled in 1971, and respondent had no plan to abandon it. The property located in town has never been rendered as a homestead in spite of the fact (Continued on last page)

Demos Combine Boxes For Run-Off Election

Crockett County Democratic Chairman Bud Coates announced this week that in the June 3 run-off primary voters in all precincts with the exception of Precinct 1, and the Powell Field and Power Plant boxes will cast their ballots at the Civic Center.

Precinct 1 voters will vote at the courthouse. Those who vote at the Power Plant and at the Powell Field boxes will cast ballots at their regular polling places, while all other voters in Precincts 2, 3, and 4 will vote at the center.

Coates said had it not been for the run-off race in Precinct 1 for Commissioner, all Ozona voters would have cast ballots at the courthouse. The action was taken, he said, in order to cut expenses for the party.

Absentee voting began yesterday in the county clerk's office and voters may vote absentee through next Tuesday, May 30.

Polls will open at 8 a.m., and close at 7 p.m., as in the first primary.

The only local race is in Precinct 1, where incumbent Jesse Marley will be in a run-off with Armando Reina. Marley topped the ticket in the first primary with a vote total of 223 while Reina had 186. Two other opponents in the race polled 121 votes together to throw the election into the (Continued on last page)

J. EDGAR HOOVER—R.I.P.

There is no question but that J. Edgar Hoover will go down in history as one of the greatest public servants this nation has ever had.

Seldom mentioned is perhaps the greatest, and largely unrecognized, contribution by Mr. Hoover to the people of this country; that of not only developing and building the FBI into a model of what a Federal Agency should be, but more important, his iron determination that the powers and authority of the FBI should be restricted and limited.

Mr. Hoover's death is a sad loss to every American. But his life was a blessing to all of us.

HAPPINESS IS PAYROLL SAVING

Notes From a Newcomer

OZONA, THE CLEAN CITY

What's clean in Ozona?

The streets, for one thing. Almost all of them are paved, and they are cleaned frequently by a big, yellow, oversized vacuum cleaner which could do your living room in five seconds flat, if you could get it in through the door.

The water, for another thing. We have in Ozona some of the cleanest, best tasting water in the world. If you don't believe me, just drive west to Fort Stockton some afternoon and have a glass of water. You'll head back for Ozona pretty fast.

The air is clean, too. We read in the newspapers about air pollution in Chicago, Los Angeles, and Tokyo. People die of lung congestion in London because of smoke and dirt in the air. No problem here. Air pollution is just something that we read about.

Yes, it's a clean city. Maybe that's why some of us who must travel from time to time are in such a hurry to get back to Ozona. We want to get back before we get dirty.

We like the CLEAN CITY

2. All wounds, especially navel of newborn calves and shearing cuts, should be found and treated promptly, whether they are wormy or not.

3. Surgical operations, such as castration, dehorning, docking, should be postponed until cooler weather if at all possible.

4. All animals being shipped from infected areas should be sprayed before being moved. Animals, arriving at ranches from infected areas, should be thoroughly inspected for wormy wounds before being turned out on the range.

5. Samples of all worms found in wounds should be collected and sent immediately to the Mission Screwworm Lab for identification. Sample bottles can be secured from the Lab or from county agents.

"Only we producers can help stop this serious threat to our industry," Allison said. "We have stopped screwworm threats before and we can do it again. We are the ones that have the most at stake."

Screwworm Control Program Faces Threat

Officials of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, noting that screwworms today pose a greater threat to the U. S. livestock industry than at anytime since the eradication program began in 1962, are calling on all Texas livestock producers to check their sheep, goats and cattle more closely to help stop this most serious outbreak.

Sutton Allison of Fort Stockton, TS&GRA president, said temperature and moisture conditions all over the Southwest are ideal now for the rapid increase of screwworm populations that are moving in from Mexico.

"The situation is critical,"

Allison said, noting that more than 1,045 cases of screwworms have been reported for the year through April, compared with only 639 cases for the same period of time during the highest count of any other year since the program started. "Livestock producers in areas that haven't had screwworm cases in years must now take every precaution to protect their animals," Allison said. "They must act now as though there was no eradication program or no sterile fly releases."

Allison said officials of the screwworm eradication program have urged livestock producers to do the following:

'Heroin Hotline' May Be Used To Report Pushers

The Ozona Stockman has been asked by a representative of the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement Office to assist in the nationwide crackdown against heroin trafficking now underway across the country.

On April 7 the President announced establishment of the "Heroin Hotline," a nationwide, toll-free telephone number to provide American citizens with a quick and convenient way to report information on heroin pushers.

The telephone number is (800) 368-5363. Anyone who has information about the sale of heroin may call the number around the clock. The caller need not identify himself and the rights of all callers will be fully protected. The telephones are manned at a center in Washington seven days a week. Trained operators are on duty under the supervision of experienced Federal agents.

This national "turn in a pusher" program has tremendous potential and should have dramatic results if citizens avail themselves of the service.

LET THE PEOPLE SPEAK

My opponent has tried every means, legal and otherwise to gain the office of Commissioner Precinct 1. He has based his campaign on rumors, untruths and technicalities. He has been proven wrong in every case.

My opponent did not file his sworn statement of expenses by April 28, 1972, as required by law. His name could have been kept off the ballot for this reason as well as being subject to a large fine.

Many people urged me to file a lawsuit against him so he would not be on the ballot. I did not want to do this as I do not want to win the election in any way other than by the vote of the people.

I hope that you will all now realize that he is backed by radical, outside organizations and will vote for the best interests of Crockett County.

Absentee voting begins Wednesday, May 24 and continues through May 30.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
By Mrs. Bailey Post

This is the month, especially since the good rains, you can almost see spring to summer transition in your garden. Early bulbs and shrubs have bloomed. Later varieties are coming into flower. Many shrubs are showing new growth, some beginning to harden off. In another month wood will be about right for semi-hardwood cuttings.

May is the month when it's too wet, then too dry, which forces you to be on the alert for best planting opportunities. In most areas soil has warmed enough to plant, but it may be best if you have waited for flowers and vegetables that need warmer nights and days than we have had the last few weeks. I haven't planted amaranthus and red okra, waiting for the weather to warm up.

You can extend the flowering period of annuals by pinching back growing tips. Some of these are ageratum, petunia, zinnia, calendula, phlox, dianthus, snapdragon, verbena. Coleus are grown for their colorful leaves. Pinching out the bloom spike just above the first two leaves promotes stockiness and prevents the plant from going to seed.

Some low-growing flowering plants that can be used at the edge of a low wall are dianthus, verbena, gold dust alyssum, and creeping periwinkle.

If you don't have space or good soil to plant tomatoes, try planting one in a bushel basket. Fill the basket with loamy soil and plant a young plant in it, one just showing flowerbuds. It would be better to dig a hole in the ground in a sunny location to have at least five hours of full sun a day and place the basket in it. As your plant grows, fertilize it every two weeks with a soluble fertilizer such as Ra-Pid-Gro. Use 3 to 4 teaspoons in 1 1/2 gallons of water. When small fruit appears, increase to 5 to 6 teaspoons per 1 1/2 gallons of water. Keep watered thoroughly during periods of no rainfall.

CARD OF THANKS
Words can hardly express the deep appreciation that we feel for the many expressions of kindness and sympathy from all our friends in our recent hours of grief. Clint's untimely passing was a shock not only to us but to everyone who knew him. There were many here who thought nearly as much of him as we did.

Please let us take this opportunity to express our sympathy to you as you have expressed yours to us.
Sincerely,
The Strother Family

Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

Just a beginning

"I'm never going to open another book again!" sighed Pete as he collapsed in my chair following his high school commencement.

But three months later, Pete had changed his tune and was ready for college.

Since then, he's had other graduations—from college, from medical school. Each time Pete has discovered that it isn't all over when you graduate. Something is just beginning.

Some people want to "graduate" from church at a certain age or time. They're just like Pete was when he left high school. They think they've outgrown the Church.

How empty Pete's life would be now if he had stopped at that first graduation. How empty your life would be without the Church.

Maybe it isn't all over for you! The church doors are always open.

Marley—

 that tax money could have been saved. The respondent moved the house onto a lot in precinct 2 which was given to him by his mother-in-law, and furnished it for the sole purpose of educating his daughters. The house in town was moved onto the lot when the Marley's eldest daughter started school.
 In showing his intention and that of his wife and family to maintain the ranch located in Precinct No. 1 as their permanent residence, the document stated: "Jess Marley has lived all of his life in Crockett County except while in college at Texas Tech. He is an only son and his father died in 1962, the same year that he was married and graduated from college and moved back to the ranch in Crockett county to begin ranching. The respondent and his wife lived at the ranch until their eldest daughter reached school age, and they then moved to town during the school terms to educate their children, while maintaining their permanent home at the ranch. Respondent Marley has voted and paid his poll tax, when applicable, from Precinct No. 1 in Crockett County from 1959 through 1971. In 1970 he was elected Democratic Precinct Commissioner for Precinct No. 1.
 "It was not until the Respondent's children reached school age that he considered moving his family to Ozona during the school months because of the inaccessible nature of the location of his ranch. It is ten miles from the nearest highway where the Respondent's children could be picked up by a school bus to be taken into Ozona for school, and then another twenty-five miles from the highway to the Ozona Public Schools."
 In the conclusion, the respondent contended that he has never had any permanent residence other than that of his ranch homestead which is located in Precinct No. 1, Crockett County, Texas. And although the Respondent and his family have a house in Ozona, Texas, which they occupy during the school months for the purposes of education their children, as well as for the added benefit of being closer to medical attention, it is only a temporary dwelling. As the Texas Supreme Court stated in Mills v. Bartlett, Supra, the term "residence" is an elastic one and extremely difficult to define, its meaning depends largely upon the present intention of the individual, and volition, intention and action are all elements to be considered in determining where a person resides."

 The response also cited subsections in Article 5.08 of the Election Code to wit: "Subsection (B) states that for the purpose of voting residence shall be determined in accordance with the common law rules as enunciated by the Courts of this State and the following statutory rules. Subsection (F), which is applicable to the case at bar, states: "For a married man not permanently separated from his wife, the place where his family lives shall be considered his residence, but if it be a temporary establishment for his family, or for transient purposes, it shall not be so considered."

 THE FOCAL POINT

Your living room should be built around a "focal point," as the decorators like to call it. In plain language, this means the room should be built around some very outstanding piece or group of furniture, or some "center of interest," but there should not be more than one focal point.

Your focal point may be an eye-catching mural on a wall (and the colors of the mural could be picked up and used throughout the remainder of the room).

Or, it could be an entire wall grouping of pictures or paintings but two large walls of pictures would be pointless.

A focal point could be an unusual cocktail table, a sofa and chair grouping, a brightly colored large plant, (real or artificial) or a gold carved framed mirror to name just a few.

The important thing to remember is that the focal point must be sufficiently outstanding and attractive to use as the center of interest.

If you'd like some ideas for your living room, come in and talk it over with us. There is no obligation.
