Archeologists Work At Ft. Lancaster

At a meeting of the Crockett County Historical Survey Committee on Monday it was learned that archeological work is now underway at the Fort Lancaster historic site. This work is preliminary to the completion of a master plan for the development of the site.

Also, a letter from Paul Schlimper, director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, was received with detailed blueprints for permanent displays in the visitor center. The contract for this work, according to Schlimper's letter, has been let and the displays should be ready for installation later this year.

Fort Lancaster is open from 8:00-5:00 each day if visitors in the next few weeks would enjoy seeing the archeological work in progress. Jake Damron is park superintendent.

Other business of the committee included the reviewing and updating of the list of historic sites in Crockett County which will be, in time, marked with historical markers. Such markers are awarded after extensive research and investigation by the local marker committee and approval by the Texas Historical Commission in Austin. To be considered for marking, a site, or other historical items, must be at least 30 years old. Marshall Montgomery is marker committee chairman and would be interested in any suggestions for such

SECURITY IN DANGER

The House Committee on Internal Security is in peril. Enemies of the Committee, who have, for many years, unsuccessfully endeavored to abolish the Committee or to hamstring its operations through budget cuts, have come up with a slick maneuver designed to accomplish, in an underhanded way, what they have not been able to accomplish openly. The plotters are backing a proposal, sponsored by the "Select Committee on Committees" of the House of Representatives, to transfer jurisdiction of internal security to the House Government Operations Committee. However, under the proposed maneuver there would be no transfer of mandate, files, or personnel; the AUSTIN, Tex. - It's show House Committee on Internal Security would, in fact, cease to and tell time for political exist.

With subversion and revolutionary activities in the United States at an all-time high this Committee must be retained intact with its investigatory authority, its files and its staff. Indeed. rather than abolish the Committee its mandate should be broadened to cover all organizations advocating force, violence and terrorism, including "political" kidnappings.

Following a special study, the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitutional Government of the United States (a branch of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, Inc., of New York) is urging folks to contact their Representatives in Washington immediately, requesting that they seek an "open rule" for H.R. 988 thus enabling the Internal Security Committee's mandate to be broadened by amendment, and that they oppose all proposals to transfer the jurisdiction of the Internal Security Committee to any other committee.

WELCOME WELFARE NEWS

One subject which can be relied upon to raise the blood pressure of most taxpayers is that of welfare. The abuses, inequities and waste in the nation's welfare system are legion. Its growth has been as inexorable as the rains of spring.

Now, however, out of Washington comes welcome welfare news: someone appears to be getting a handle on who all that money is going to. During 1973, the rolls of the nation's largest welfare program dipped for the first time in 20 years. Some ing of about $60,000 in his 255,000 persons were removed from the program of Aid to Democratic race, and Hugh Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), which is jointly funded by the Federal Government and the states. A total 10.8 million Americans remained on the AFDC rolls as of December.

The Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Caspar Weinberger, credited the states with tightening their management practices to begin the decline.

"This long overdue reform has permitted 25 states to increase their welfare payments to the truly needy and fully eligible, utilizing the money saved by weeding out the ineligible, correcting the payments, and adopting practices preventing further ineligibles from getting onto the welfare rolls in the first place," said the Secretary.

"We have not only stopped the rate of welfare growth, we are starting, at last, to turn back the ever-increasing welfare rolls which had become a tragic way of life for far too many Americans," he added.

We applaud this major effort which has already saved the Treasury an estimated $800 million. Few Americans would deny help to the truly needy. But none of us wants to subsidize the welfare cheater.

DEATH OF A PRESIDENT

When a U.S. President becomes seriously ill, the whole world knows about it. Medical bulletins covering every detail are issued periodically; the press is fully briefed; and the consequences to the nation of incapacitation or death are exhaustively examined.

Not so in the case of Georges Pompidou, President of France. When he died suddenly of cancer on April 2, the country was

Although Pompidou was in visibly failing health for over a year, the French people were kept in the dark concerning his true condition. Those who did know, including some journalists, kept the secret. The frequent cancellations of official functions were passed off as bouts with the "grippe" or "hemorrhoids." Hardly more than a month before he died, Pompidou made a visit to the Soviet Union. He carried out his duties as best he could almost to to voters. the hour of his death.

As an exercise in physical courage and stamina, President Pompidou's performance was admirable, and perhaps personally understandable. He wished to die in office with his political effectiveness still intact.

Even so, we think the U.S. practice of full disclosure is much to be preferred. If the nation's leader is dying, or likely to die, it is far better that the people know it, so that the transition can be prepared in advance. In France such disclosure might have avoided the unseemly scramble for power that began even before Pompidou was decently in his grave.

fund-raising efforts. Gov. Dolph Briscoe ran second to Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Granberry in campaign spending up to March 25, according to the first contribution-spending reports filed with the secretary of state.

Granberry reported contributions and loans of $171,425 (including $22,500 of his own money) and spending of $171,425 since last summer when he began his race.

Briscoe's spending - including a $120,000 loan of his own money - was pegged at $153,754.

Frances "Sissy" Farenthold reported some $40,865 in expenditures and debts.

The effort is far below that of 1972 when Briscoe spent nearly $1.6 million in the primaries, and Mrs. Farenthold spent $672,441.

Comptroller Candidate Bob Bullock has reported spend-Edubrg said he has outlays of about $12,900.

COURTS SPEAK - Power of city governments to regulate extended area telephone rates was approved by the State

Supreme Court. The High Court turned down a Houston woman's appeal in a lawsuit in which she has unsuccessfully claimed $635,000 in damages against a doctor due to an unusuallylarge appendectomy scar.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a San Saba murder conviction because the jury didn't decide a sanity question.

Murder confiction of a Dallas man who set fire to car in another asphyxiated lost an appeal from a life sentence.

Attorneys for former House Speaker Gus Mutscher, appealing a conviction for bribery conspiracy, argued before the Court of Criminal Appeals that no conspiracy was ever proved and the principal witness was not asked about it.

FAMILIES NOTIFIED - A new state program offering toll-free telephone service has contacted 861 families, relaying messages on runaway children, Governor Briscoe reported.

Since last September, Briscoe said, the program, "Operation Peace of Mind," has received 1,890 calls from runaways in 42 states. The national hotline enables the runaways to relay messages to their parents from a round-the clock, volunteer-manned center in Houston.

"PRIVATE" SUPERPORT ENDORSED - A Senate committee endorsed private ownership of a Texas superport, but two coastal area senators objected.

The Committee report said it is not "the responsibility of state government to underwrite this kind of risk when private enterprise is ready and willing to accept the challenge." Sens. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur and Bob Gammage of Houston said 1965 through special programs. state ownership of the proposed offshore unloading terminal for oil tankers is in the best public interest.

A new federal bureau, supposed to represent consumers, was approved in the House last week. Given rigid enforcement powers, the new agency is to safeguard consumer interests, such as "price, quality, purity, safety, dependability, performance, effectiveness, durability, " etc. It will involve the new bureau in a vast array of future court actions.

This will be but one addition to a series of agencies created in recent years, many spawned by the influence of high powered and well paid lobbyists, such as Ralph Nader and John Gardner.

Another is the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), supposed to stop air and water pollution. Manned by empire builders, it has imposed extreme and costly controls on business enterprises, individuals, and on entire communities-far more in many instances than common sense and necessity requires.

Only a few days ago the House expended minimum wage American Bar Association and coverage and upped the minimum to $2.30 per hour. ### Telltale Gamma Rays

Police scientists, working on an assault case, checked the gamma rays emanating from a bit of dirt taken from the victim's sweater. Then they checked the gamma rays from dirt on the suspect's trousers.

The rays matched—and the evidence later helped to send the man to prison. The case illustrates a potent new weapon ("neutron activation analysis") in the fight against crime. Gamma rays, under proper conditions, can reveal whether any two objects—no matter how small -came from the same source. The gamma rays are brought into action by "charging" the objects with radioactivity.

Already, the method has been used to track down the source of everything from paint to pipe fittings, from oats to heroin, from hair to moonshine

Nevertheless, like any new technique, it must be used with appropriate caution in order to qualify the findings as legal evidence.

Thus, in a murder case, comparisons of blood made with gamma rays were held not admissible because technical difficulties made these particular tests less than convincing. The court warned A good example of this rash, against "the misleading aura of of new agencies is the Occupa- certainty which often envelopes a new scientific process."

In one unusual case a taxpayer, claiming a refund from the government, staked everything on a scribbled notation in the margin of his checkbook. The government retorted that he might easily have inserted the notation years after the date of the original entries.

To settle the matter, scientists compared gamma rays from the ink in the notation with gamma rays from the ink in the regular entries. The similarity of the rays convinced the government that the taxpayer was indeed telling the Result: he collected his refund

Definition: American Ivy.

Several years ago I heard a sermon entitled, "Will God Always Bless America?" and in the sermon the preacher quoted Alexis de Tocqueville, the 19th century French political theorist: "When America ceases to be good, it will cease to be great." In this statement we are reminded that the greatness of a nation does not rest in its military power, technological advancements, or its national wealth. A nation's greatness is in the quotient of its goodness. Solomon said, "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a disgrace to any people." (Proverbs 14:34)

Theodore Roosevelt warned, "The things that will destroy America are prosperity at any price, safety first instead of duty first, the love of soft living and the get-rich-quick theory of life. " Has this day arrived? To a great extent our objectives have become success, status, and security. These are followed closely by self-indulgence, pleasure and comfort. Our permissive society turns freedom into license, rights into riots, and science above the Saviour.

If you are truly concerned about America, if you earnestly want God to bless her, Then Live A Life In Harmony With The Will Of God. Only then does one have a right to truthfully sing:

"God bless America, land that I love. Stand beside her, and guide her through the night with the light from above. From the mountains to the prairies, to the oceans white with foam, God bless America, my home, sweet home." "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord--." (Psalms

John is a person who can stand the heat when it gets hot in the kitchen and he does not have to take orders or be subjected to undue pressure from any group of so called 'Kingmakers' in San Antonio,

I Will Appreciate Your Vote In The Democratic Primary May 4, 1974

For almost 100 years, my family has lived, ranched, and been in public service in Val Verde County. My ties to this area's past are strong, but my ties to its future are even stronger. I look forward to our children growing up and living in this region.

My sincere interest in the needs and concerns of the 70th District, coupled with my life-long exposure to them, help qualify me to serve as your next State Representative

Skiles Is Feature Historical Speaker

by Ted White
Guy Skiles will be our featured speaker for the regular Spring Historical Society Meeting on April 22 at the Civic Center. Guy is a colorful and interesting fellow who, like Will Rogers, met the Mayflower. He is seventy-five years old and has spent about twice that many years in and around Langtry, Texas. He is steeped in the Judge Roy Bean tradition, and has spent many years prowling up and down the Guy and Vashti are as much a part of the history as are the towering bluffs and muddy waters that hold silent vigil over a thousand untold stories.
