SOMETHING BESIDES WATERGATE

Is it permissible to criticize the President for something besides "Watergate?"

We refer to the Associated Press dispatch which declares, "President Nixon plans to abolish the Attorney General's list of so-called subversive organizations, a product of the 1950s Red scare era, administration sources say."

The news story went on to say that the White House has drafted an executive order which would do away with the list, and Mr. Nixon plans to sign it – according, as the saying goes, to "reliable sources."

This appears to be a strange move on the part of the President, when evidence being produced by Senate Internal Security Committee and the House Committee on Internal Security has been publishing, at regular intervals, reports of investigations which show that not only have the subversive activities - and by subversive, we mean actions and programs in the interests of an enemy foreign power, and against the security of the United States - been continued by a number of organizations, but several new groups have joined forces.

For example, as late as in April of this year, the Congressional Committee published a 203-page document detailing the violence-oriented activities of an organization itself, the group promotes several of its own "front" organizations. The Workers World Party declares that it is "an independent communist party that follows the ideas of Marx, Engles, and Lenin and is oriented toward the development of a democratic centralist combat party based on the working class in the United States."

The purpose of the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations is - or has been - to prevent members of such groups from occupying positions of trust in government or sensitive positions vital to the defense and security of the United

If the subversive list is abolished, what is to keep members of this new Marxist-Leninist group, and others, from moving into the United States government itself?

DEMILITARIZE SUEZ CANAL

One of the world's more notable ironies lies in the benefits which will come to the Soviet Navy from the U.S. operation to reopen the Suez Canal.

Currently, U.S. personnel are busy clearing the Canal of mines and sunken ships so that it can be opened again to traffic which has been blocked since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The trouble is, unless it is also demilitarized by international agreement, the Soviets will gain a huge new advantage in their ability to exert military power in the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean areas. Their Mediterranean and Black Sea fleets will be able to move quickly into those areas via the Suez Canal instead of having to make the long transit around Africa or else come all the way from the Far East.

If it came to actual hostilities, of course, the Canal could be quickly closed again by military action. But barring that extremity, the Soviets will be able to greatly increase their influence on the oil-rich Arab states by their ability to quickly move and supply substantial naval forces through the Canal from their nearby bases.

Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr. summed it up in a White House briefing:

"It will shorten their lines of supply. It will in a great many ways enhance their position. There is no question about this whatsoever. So if I were to look around the world and pick out who would have the most enthusiasm about opening that canal, I'd have to say I believe Russia will be the most enthusiastic."

Since so many fears have been expressed about a naval race in the Indian Ocean, it seems logical to press for an international agreement to ban transit through the Canal by naval vessels of all major powers. United States diplomacy won agreement to open the Canal in the first place, so we should take the initiative toward limiting its use to peaceful purposes.

AUSTIN, Tex. - Constitutional Convention delegates approved a new approach to state revenue raising and sent delegates' hopes rising for a painless tax source.

The Convention authorized the legislature to levy a petroleum products manufacturing tax that will not (like three-fourths of gasoline taxes) go into highway build-

Sen. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur already is preparing for introduction next year a bill to impose a two cents per gallon gasoline tax at the refinery level.

At the same time, Harrington will propose reduction of the gasoline tax at the pump from five to three cents a gallon if the new constitution is approved.

Since 75 per cent of Texasrefined gasoline is sold out of state, proponents of the tax claim the two cent levy would raise $686 million in additional revenue without increasing the burden on Texans.

Although such a tax probably could be levied now, most of the money would go to highways instead of general revenue.

The convention went into its windup stages this week. Delegates began voting on the entire revision package, including proposed separate submissions of five alterna-

But the amendment was adopted by a narrow margin of 190 to 182. It was attached to the big multi-billion-dollar HEW-Labor appropriation bill, and will soon be considered by the Senate where in the past Labor-oriented pro-OSHA sentiment has predominated. Therefore, it appears quite likely that our achievement in the House will be short lived.

OSHA was enacted in 1971 under the sponsorship of AFL-CIO. In Texas, which had an on-going health and safety law, mom and pop establishments. the federal law was totally unnecessary. I was one of those who voted against it, and during the three years that followed, my judgment has been more than vindicated.

This law has become a bureaucratic monster. It gives the agency (Labor Department) virtual life-or-death control over those covered. While many can satisfy OSHA's hundreds of safety and health regulations, many find it next to impossible due to excessive conversion costs. And the Congress gave OSHA inspectors the right to invade premises,

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club Mrs. Bailey Post

July and August are perhaps the two most difficult months for successful gardening in our area. Especially when there is the absence of rainfall for so long. We in Ozona are very fortunate to have plenty of good water available to keep our yards and gardens growing

An ideal summer bloomer is the common geranium, for the heat and dry weather do not affect its growth and blooms. They require very little care, a light, not too rich soil, and not as much water as some other plants, but plenty of sunshine. Geraniums are used for both border and mass plantings, potted plants and window boxes. They are available in many varieties and colors.

Cannas are another one of the most versatile and popular plants used in our gardens for blooms and beautiful foliage. The leaves are attractive before they unfurl and give a tropical feeling to any planting or arrangement. Also, the leaves dry beautifully for dried arrangements. Place between newspaper flat as possible and put under a heavy rug or flat object for several weeks. Hang upside down, if you want curves, in a dry, protected place until dry.

Because of their ease in growing and their exotic blooms decorator at the bakery in my gardeners are becoming more daughter, Jan. Come by and interested in them. New varie- see her beautiful work. ties are being developed which are superior in color and size been tints and shades of yellow, orange and red. Now, they may be had in all of pink tones, cream, whites and two-toned varieties. The Humbert varieties produce bronzy foliage which gives an effective accent. Their range in height is from dwarf to tall for background and screening. The height is easily governed by the amount of food and water they receive. The dwarfs make attractive clumps of color in the perennial border in hot weather. Cannas will get along with what they have, but they reward you with greater beauty for the care you give them. If they have a ragged appearance in the summer after flowers have faded, cut the stalk off even with the ground. Soon a new stalk will replace the old one. This will keep your plants neat and fresh looking. If you see varieties that you like in this

Take the Adamses, for example. They aren't youngsters, to be sure, but they are very much in step with the times, and their home is a haven for teenagers. Mr. Adams is a lawyer, who works with kids who have been in trouble. Mrs. Adams is on the local school committee and also helps the Girl Scouts.

The Adamses like to walk to church each Sunday and to discuss the sermon on the way home. Their minister is "with it" too—he strives to counsel his parishoners on the dilemmas that confront Christians today. The Adamses, their minister, their church—all a part of today.
