Kitty's Korner by Kitty Montgomery

I haven't measured it in hours and minutes, but it does seem to me that Thanksgiving and Christmas are getting closer together. The thought came to me as I was navigating Hwy. 290 early Monday morning on my way to work and saw the sign in the window of the Ozona Boot & Saddlery, "Only 20 shopping days until Christmas." I do hope that's wrong, but I just don't have time to check it out.

I know that Thanksgiving is over, and for this I am most thankful. After spending two days in the kitchen, how could I be otherwise. Although we are able to close on Thursday these days, Thanksgiving never seems like a holiday to me. I take off my editor's thinking cap and put on my kitchen apron and I'm off again. Guess you might call it the "working woman's" syndrome. Men don't seem to have this problem. They just watch football in their easy chairs and await the dinner bell, then it's back to the old football game.

The only way the lady of the house can get even is to serve left-overs every meal after the feast until they're finally used up. The men don't notice that either, "cause they are still busy watching football games and all meals the Friday, Saturday and Sunday following the feast day, are eaten on T-V trays in front of the tube.

I'm toying with the idea of "having dinner with Mr. Held" next Thanksgiving. The only trouble with that, there are no leftovers and the football games will go on just the same.

We enjoyed having Jim home from school for the four days. He brought his laundry, but this time he did it himself (during commercials Friday during the football games). He has discovered 100% cotton. I didn't realize that he grew up entirely during the no-iron fabric period. He is so thrilled over his cotton shirts, starched to board stiffness, I just couldn't tell him that I grew up wearing starched cotton clothes and didn't share his enthusiasm. I remember the pain of being rubbed raw around the neck and other places from my neatly starched dresses, that usually ended in a mass of wrinkles by the end of the day. In our early years, my sister and I wore starched bloomers to match our dresses. When we graduated to cotton underwear we were duly grateful, but when the synthetic fabrics came on the market we were ecstatic. I can't imagine wearing anything but drip-dry blends, and hope to goodness I am never forced to. We do

THE CBS COVERUP Part IV of a series

During the years 1972-73 (and indeed, up to the present time) one of the liveliest public debates in both the private and political spheres has revolved around the subject of USSR-USA relations; detente, the balance of military power, trade with the USSR, etc. Among the views expressed, and duly reported by our nation's newspapers, were the following:

- That the Soviet Union has steadily maintained the objective of world domination;
- That the Soviet Union has become more powerful in military might than the USA;
- That the United States should seek to achieve and maintain military superiority over the Soviet Union;
- That our U.S. defense budget should be substantially increased.

Writes Dr. Ernest W. Lefever, in the book TV and National Defense:

"Such views were privately expressed within the councils of government, privately and publicly voiced by Members of Congress, endorsed by national organizations, advanced by writers in national journals, and expressed by journalists, scholars, statesmen and former military leaders. (These) views were often reported in major newspapers and magazines, as well as in specialized journals like U.S. News and World Report, Aviation Week and Space Technology, Fortune, Orbis, Reader's Digest, and National Review."

To all of this the average reader might well respond: "So what? There is nothing unusual or startling in this."

What is unusual, however — indeed shocking — is the following report, also by Dr. Lefever: "Though views such as these were held by many experts and by millions of Americans, we did not find a single one of them clearly reflected on CBS Evening News."

The "we" mentioned by Dr. Lefever was a team of experts who spent thousands of man-hours in an intense, sentence by sentence study of two solid years of the taped programs of CBS Evening News. And the news stories cited here were not the only ones blacked out by CBS. Many others suffered the same fate because of the mysterious pattern of censorship followed by CBS management.

The television code of the National Association of Broadcasters stipulates that "a television station's news schedule should be adequate and well-balanced" and "news reporting should be factual, fair, and without bias."

The pattern of bias followed by CBS has been well documented. The next move is up to Mr. Salant, President of CBS News. His responsibility to the public cannot be brushed off.

MAJORITY RULE AT THE U.N.

It is sad but no real surprise to see the United Nations acting more like a catalyst for war than an instrument of peace.

That conclusion is difficult to avoid after the spectacle which the world body has made of itself in recent weeks.

First, there is the vendetta waged against South Africa at the very moment when the white government in Pretoria is making a major effort to reach a genuine settlement with Black Africa and thus to avoid a major racial conflagration. On October 23 Prime Minister Vorster made a very conciliatory speech on the question of Rhodesia and South West Africa, and his U.N. delegate promised that South Africa would no longer condone discrimination based on race or color.

Did that help? Not at all. On October 30 only a U.S., British, and French veto in the Security Council prevented the total expulsion of South Africa from the U.N. And a few days later, the General Assembly, in total disregard of the U.N. Charter, suspended South Africa from participating in the current session.

Such irresponsibility by an unbridled majority, many of which, like the Soviet Union, trample on human rights and practice colonialism on other peoples to an extent totally unknown in South Africa, boggles the imagination. It can only make more difficult the search for a peaceful solution to the problems of southern Africa.

Then, in total contrast to this act of ostracism, there was the wild hero's welcome given by the U.N. to the Palestine Liberation Organization chieftain, Yasser Arafat, and to his uncompromising speech demanding the dismantling of the state of Israel. No nation can be expected to acquiesce in its destruction; so Arafat's speech was clearly a commitment to war, and the cheers of the U.N. delegates who heard him were a deathknell to the hopes for peace in the Middle East. The war scare which blew up in the aftermath of Arafat's appearance is an indication of the further damage which his reception at the U.N. has caused.

The once great hopes for the United Nations now lie in ruins. The "majority" rules. The result is a nauseous travesty where gross hypocrisy and the double standard have been enshrined as the highest standards of international behavior.

The best service which the U.S. can render to the U.N. is to give it the back of our hand.

"Well, whoever he is — every time I ring up a dollar he snatches out thirty cents!"

STATE CAPITAL
Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas delegates will be heading for Kansas City, Mo., this week for a new kind of Democratic national convention.

Most of them are just as glad there has never been one like it before and hope that there will never be another.

The "mini-convention" or 1974 Conference on Democratic Policy and Organization was mandated by the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Its job is to produce the first national charter or constitution in history for a major American political party.

It will also serve as a forum for discussion of national issues. Four panels will meet December 6 to discuss four general areas, in identifying the issues of greatest concern to the Democratic party.

The party charter will be adopted after debate by 2,038 delegates December 7, and issue panel moderators will make their reports and addresses December 8.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is chairman of the Texas delegation, which includes as ex-officio members all members of the Democratic congressional delegation.

Texas liberals, unhappy with selection of Briscoe in a telephone poll, named Ms. Billie Carr of Houston, a national Democratic committee member, their chairwoman.

Prospective candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976—including U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas—are expected to make strong bids for attention at the Kansas City sessions.

VOTES CANVASSED—Canvass of the statewide general election vote reconfirmed Atty. Gen. John Hill as the top vote-getting incumbent. He polled 1,170,253 votes to win over Republican Tom Cole, with 379,108 and the Socialist Workers Party nominee, with 30,577.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong came in second in the canvass with 1,136,321, and Agriculture Commissioner John C. White third, with 1,125,577.

All the incumbents scored more than a million votes.

High Republican vote-getter in the canvass was treasurer candidate Robert G. Holt, with 559,402.

Votes for governor and lieutenant governor will not be canvassed until the legislature convenes in January. The House of Representatives takes care of that. The Board of Canvassers canvasses the other races, including legislative, congressional and judicial.

COURTS BUSY — During January-June, 1,716,697 cases were filed in or appealed to county, justice of the peace and municipal courts of the state, according to Texas Civil Judicial Council.

Fifty-three per cent of the county court criminal cases and 38 per cent of the civil cases were dismissed or settled before trial.

Justice of the peace and municipal courts received $26.4 million in revenue during the six-month reporting period.

The council reported 184 of the 254 constitutional county courts have judges who are not attorneys. Only six per cent of 934 justices of the peace are attorneys, and about 65 per cent of the 215 municipal courts (in cities over 5,000) are licensed lawyers.

RATE HIKES OPPOSED — A group backing utility regulation asked Attorney General Hill to investigate allegations of irregularities in rate practices by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

At the same time, the chairman of the Texas Coalition for Utility Regulation said no city council should grant phone rate increases while questions raised in a suit at San Antonio against Southwestern Bell are pending.

The $29.6 million damage suit by a fired Bell executive and the family of a deceased executive alleges the company kept a separate set of books for use in getting rate increases and indirectly channeled money into political campaigns.

State Rep. Roy Blake of Nacogdoches also advised city councils to refrain from rate increases until the charges have been proved or disproved.

Washington
News Letter
by Congressman O. C. Fisher

Alcoholism and cigarettes are being pointed to as two major problems in our society.

Cigarette smoking, when done excessively, may, according to the Surgeon General, produce lung cancer. That fact has been repeatedly confirmed. But despite this finding, cigarette smoking continues to increase. During 1974, 590-billion cigarettes will be smoked in this country, compared with 576-billion the year before.

In the case of alcohol consumption, the picture is even more shocking. From 1960 to 1970, per capita consumption increased 26%.

Government figures reveal that about one in 10 of the 95-million Americans who drink is now either a full-fledged alcoholic or at least a problem drinker (defined as one who drinks enough to cause trouble for himself and society.)

Moreover, after heart disease and cancer, alcoholism is the country's biggest health problem.

As related to crime, half of all murders in the U. S., either the killer or the victim— or both— have been drinking.

The dollar cost of alcoholism may be as much as $15-billion a year, much of it from lost work time in business, industry and the Government.

At least half of each year's 55,000 auto deaths and half of the one million major injuries suffered in auto accidents can be traced to driver or pedestrian "under the influence," according to confirmed figures.

These statistics are shocking—but they are true.

Isn't the time overdue for more education and warning of the dangers and cost inherent in over-indulgence of cigarettes and alcohol? The warning should, of course, be concentrated in the homes, in schools, churches, and in the clubs.

Human lives, health, and happiness are all very directly involved. It's up to the individual to practice restraint and moderation.

Tips For Gardeners
From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Now that gardens are more or less dormant for the winter, maybe there will be time to relax and enjoy your garden library. In December you can take things easier than during almost any month, so it's a good time to make note of your mistakes in planning or growing.

Garden books and subscriptions to garden magazines make good Christmas gifts for friends who are interested in growing, and arranging flowers and plant material. Also, select plants, garden tools, accessories, containers, or many other gifts that they will enjoy.

If you are buying a cut Christmas tree this year, select it as soon as they are available. Cut off the bottom end of the trunk and stand the tree in a bucket of water outside until ready for use.

To care for the favorite plant of the Christmas season, the poinsettia, be sure you get a long-lasting one. Select one with bracts that are large and well colored, and with tiny flowers in the center that are just beginning to open. Flowers with shedding pollen may not hold up through Christmas. Keep the plants adequately watered. Too little water or too much water can cause shedding of leaves. Keep the plants out of drafts to prevent sudden temperature changes.

Dormant spraying to combat scale insects and certain other insects and diseases, may now be given attention. Do not spray if there is danger of the temperature dropping below freezing. When fruit trees have dropped their leaves they may be given a first dormant spray. Also pruning may be started.

Feed pansies liquid manure this month for larger blooms.

If you have stored tulips in the refrigerator, get them into the ground as soon as you remove them, or the effectiveness of the cool treatment will be lost.

Debra Says
by Debra Price HD Agent

The lasting beauty of a Christmas tree depends on careful selection and pre-holiday treatment. Choose a full, dense tree; one that is evenly branched. The branches should be firm and flexible. Shake the branches when selecting to see if the needles fall. Fresh, healthy trees do not drop their needles. Select a tree with a fresh, green color, which indicates that the choice is fresh, has good needle retention, fragrance, fire resistance and longer holiday beauty.

Once the tree is selected, remove the bottom of the trunk. Cut away an inch above the original cut, or severely hack the end of the trunk so as to open the wood tissues. This helps the tree to absorb water which will insure freshness and lasting qualities.

Stand the tree in water in a cool location out-of-doors overnight or for several days. When it's time to trim the tree, place it in a tree stand that holds water and keep it filled during the long holiday.

Place the tree in the coolest location possible indoors, away from the open fireplace, radiators and heaters.

Many Texas plants lend themselves to use in holiday decorations and if properly treated, will hold their beauty out of water for a long time. Greenery should be treated immediately after cutting and prior to bringing indoors. The woody stem should be split with shears, or crushed with a hammer and placed in a deep pail of water for several days. The winter season brings with it many dried plant materials for easy and inexpensive indoor Christmas decorations. Common seedpods and grasses, such as pine cones, okra pods, sweetgum balls, cotton bolls, dried hydrangea blooms, crepe myrtle seedpods and sumac seed heads make interesting arrangements and have lasting quality painted or sprayed for decorative use.

Many seasonal decorations are right at our back door. The fun and joy of collecting and using our native plants cannot be duplicated or obtained in department stores.

Kimble Seeks O. C. Fisher Library Funds

A committee of citizens of Kimble County, chaired by Conrad Holekamp, is soliciting funds for the construction of an addition to the Kimble County Library to house memorabilia of Congressman O. C. Fisher, accumulated during his 32 years of service in the United States Congress.

Congressman Fisher's desk and chair from Washington will be placed in the addition along with many, many other items of historical significance.

This will be a fitting tribute to an outstanding man, who has done so much for the 21st Congressional District and our nation. It is expected that thousands, through the years, will visit this wing of the Kimble Library and view and study his mementoes.

The committee is planning a $25 per plate appreciation dinner for Congressman Fisher on the evening of December 7 in the Texas Tech Center at Junction. Proceeds will be used toward the construction of this facility. If more funds are raised than needed for the building, they will be donated to the Kimble Library.

Anyone who desires to have a part in the building of this addition should write the O. C. Fisher Library Addition Committee, Box 164, Junction, Texas 76849. All contributions are tax deductible.

Current Food Situation Changing Shopping Habits

Except in extraordinary times, shopping habits change slowly. With the current increase in food prices, these are extraordinary times, one authority contended this week.

"Figures for family food expenditures last year show that consumers are changing their shopping habits and food use to meet the times," Mrs. Gwendolyn Glyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported.

"Consumers increased the amount of money they spent on food last year by only 11-12 per cent—but food prices rose 21 per cent for the year.

Mrs. Glyatt said that a Progressive Grocer-Home Testing Institute survey indicated some of the reasons for the slower increase in spending. "Shoppers prepare better now for food buying with lists, planned menus, and consultation with other family members. This shows the importance of supermarket shopping among family financial expenditures."

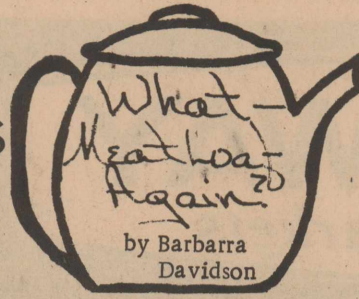

Homemakers have met higher meat prices more often by cutting down on total meat purchases rather than by switching to cheaper cuts.

"Consumers are also buying more alternates such as beans, eggs, cheese and soy products. In fact, the increase in the price of beans is a direct reflection of greater consumer demand," Mrs. Glyatt explained.

The survey also showed that people are eating less food—an average of 1.5 per cent less per person last year, she said.

Another factor in lower food expenditures is the homemaker's reluctance to "shop around" which uses more gasoline. Shoppers now tend to concentrate their food buying in one area—often in only one market, she reported.

"The average number of supermarket trips per household has dropped 25 per cent.

Majesty

Beyond the timber line rises sheer rock, towering above the clouds themselves. Looking at this great giant of nature we marvel at God's creations... and are aware of the comparative insignificance of man.

Yet, man is far from insignificant, save in physical size. For God, after all, made man in His image. And He gave man a brain, and a soul, with a sense of right and wrong. He gave him character and responsibility.

It is man who can progress to heights far greater than this mountain. But he needs help to do it—God's help, through the help of the Church.

You weren't meant to stand alone in this world. Remember that... and go to Church this Sunday.

Javelina Hunt Applications Still Available

By the middle of November, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials had received only 54 applications for public javelina hunts to be held on two department wildlife management areas.

A public drawing will be held Dec. 12 to determine which 150 hunters will take part in a Jan. 11-12 and 25-26, 1975, javelina hunt on the Chaparral Area in South Texas.

Another 150 names will be drawn the same day for a Jan. 18-26 hunt on the Black Gap Area out in the Trans-Pecos. TP&WD officials remind javelina hunters that they have until Dec. 9 to submit their applications to the Austin offices of the department.

Each hunter selected will be allowed to hunt two days with a bag limit of one javelina.

To help defray costs of the hunt, a $3 fee will be charged for each permit issued.

Help For Incorrect Billing

Nobody likes to be billed incorrectly, but there are several steps to take if it happens to you, one expert noted.

She's Lynn Bourland, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Accurate records and a businesslike approach will help you resolve most billing problems," she said.

However, sometimes more specific procedures may be necessary to deal with billing mistakes.

--Check your bill as soon as you receive it. If there is an error, notify the store or credit card issuer immediately.

--Make a note of the date and the name of the person you call. You may need this information later.

--If you write rather than call, send your complaint separate from your bill payment. Remember to include your credit card number and copies of the bill or other documents. Keep the originals yourself, along with a copy of your letter.

--If you have trouble getting a billing error corrected, send a letter relating the problem and what you have done to the credit manager or president of the company.

Also include copies of bills, sales slips or other documents with this letter.

--If this still doesn't bring results, send the details and evidence of your efforts to the local Credit Bureau. Send a copy of that letter to the merchant who has not corrected the billing error.

Ceramic Roads Coming Soon?

A cooperative project of the New York State Thruway Authority and the Carborundum Company of Niagara Falls involving the installation of ceramics at the Hamburg toll booth lanes was recently completed.

Ceramic materials are considered ideal because they are extremely wear and abrasion resistant and offer permanent anti-skid texture. According to Carborundum, areas paved with ceramics should last the planned life of the highway with little or no repair.

According to a spokesman for the Thruway Authority, high traffic points are a major problem in state highway systems because of rapid wear and resulting inconvenience to motorists. And with greater frequency, repairs to areas such as exits and entrances, toll lanes and bridge decks, must be made at night when traffic is slow, which is costly.

Introduction of zero-maintenance materials for heavily traveled road surfaces, even if they cost more initially than conventional materials, is expected to lower total construction and repair costs.

Tex Watson talks about The West Texas Gas Supply

You hear a great deal about the competition for the natural gas in West Texas these days. It is rightfully a matter of interest and concern to every citizen of this area. It has some serious implications.

Natural gas has been an important factor in building West Texas and will continue to be. Most of the businesses and industries in our area depend, directly or indirectly, on a continuing supply of natural gas. A lot of people's jobs depend on it. So, we must see that they have it.

We will have to pay more for it than in the past . . . the competition for gas has never been so fierce. But by working together, and without outside interference, we'll have the gas energy we need today and in the future. Gas will still be your best energy buy.

Crockett County Observes Safe Quiet 4-Day Holiday Period

Crockett County was quiet and safe over the recent 4-day holiday weekend. There were no major traffic accidents and Highway Patrolmen, while busy with heavy traffic, went about routine matters for the most part.

Firemen were called out three times during and immediately following the holiday period. All three alarms were car fires. Wednesday night firemen rushed to a car fire a mile east of Ozona on Hwy. 290 around 10:00 o'clock. Daniel S. Heflin was working on his car engine trying to get it to start when the gas line ignited. There was heavy damage to the engine and the area under the dashboard of the car. Saturday night at 7 o'clock an alarm came in from another car fire located at Carto and Largo streets. A 1969 Pontiac owned by Rudy Moran caught fire and was a total loss, possibly from an engine mis-fire. At 3:30 a.m. Monday firemen were alerted that a car was on fire at the Redwood Motel. However, on their arrival they found that the fire had smothered of its own accord. Apparently a cigarette or a live ash had been locked in the car the night before, and lack of air prevented much damage. The car belonged to a California transit.

Although hunters came in crowds to the county during the holiday period, there were no hunting accidents reported. Freezing weather, which descended on the area Wednesday, cleared leaves from trees and brush, and hunters were more successful than those who came earlier in the season.

Record low temperatures prevailed throughout the period, but there was no ice or freezing rain. A low of 18 degrees was reported here early Friday morning after temperatures had hovered near the freezing mark all day Thursday.

Thanksgiving Day. Bitter cold weather with penetrating wind made it uncomfortable for residents, but the hunters didn't seem to mind even early this week. More deer were taken during the four days than the entire early part of the season when the weather was warm and brush heavy.

Christmas shoppers were busy even before the Thanksgiving holiday and the annual Woman's League Bazaar was almost sold out in the first fifteen minutes of the opening last Tuesday. The cold weather kept shoppers indoors for the most part over the weekend, but Ozona shops and stores were doing a brisk business again by Monday. Residents who were not raking leaves seemed to be shopping in the downtown and village areas of Ozona, all this week, and the recession or depression in other parts of the nation seemed alien to these parts.

Booming construction in homes, Interstate 10 and the oilfields continue to keep the economy up in Crockett County and unemployment is a great deal below the national average.

CRAFTY IDEAS

IT'S WHAT'S OUTSIDE THAT COUNTS

"The manner of giving shows the character of the gift giver, more than the gift itself," said an 18th century philosopher. And you know for yourself that a present wrapped in bows and fancy paper—the gift-giver's crafty creation—inspires special warm feelings.

Here are some essential tips about wrapping a circular or oval gift, from experts at the Gift Wrappings and Tying Association.

For round or oval boxes, trace the top and bottom of the box and cut out two circles. Wrap the box, trimming the overlap so it can be turned under slightly. The paper should extend over the top and bottom of the box slightly. Snip the ends of the wrapping paper even with the edges of the box. Secure with paste or tape. Attach the circles to the top and bottom with paste or concealed tape.

A well-wrapped gift with coordinated paper and bows can make a present almost as nice to receive as it is to open.
