We've had several calls about the logo contest for Crockett County's Bicentennial celebration.

I don't think there are any rigid rules, but the Steering Committee does request that the name of the one submitting an entry be clipped to the page and not on the same page as the symbol entered. Also, as many designs may be entered by one person as desired.

When the winning logo is selected by the judges, it will become the official logo for the county and will be used on all correspondence, posters, etc. Beginning in January of 1976 it will appear along side of the Stockman logo on all issues of the paper.

Get busy Ozona artists!

We have something new at our house, a new baby. Baby Siamese kitten that is. She is really darling, but having a baby around takes some getting used to.

All the feline pets I have ever known took readily to the litter box. In our present situation, that's not the case. Just when I'm ready to brag about her accomplishment in that field, we have an accident.

She is only seven weeks old come next Saturday, but she hates outside, and no amount of coaxing can make her enjoy it. She is only quiet when she is being held and petted or when she is asleep under the covers in our bed. She can't jump four inches into the litter box, but she can climb two feet to the top of the bed.

She's very curious, and I think this indicates intelligence despite her dislike of the litter box. She amuses herself by performing and gazing at her reflection in the long mirror in my closet. Tom's snoring irritates her and she promptly investigates. She has found that a slap with the paw stops the noise, but usually gets her shut in the bathroom.

She has an inborn dislike of dogs. The Marley kids brought their pup over to get acquainted and she promptly whacked him in the mouth with a sharp paw. Her hackles are still up about that.

She stalks her shadow, is very interested in television, loves strained baby food and loves to sit in anyone's lap. So all in all I guess she's just a normal ordinary baby, but it is going to take some getting used to.

Don't miss the Chamber of Commerce Banquet next Thursday night. I don't know how entertaining the guest speaker will be, but Mr. Held's chicken cacciatore will be a treat you can't afford to miss.

BLAZING INFERNO at Indian Wells Operating Plant in the early hours Saturday was caused by a bolt of lightning. The 1,000 barrel tank was almost demolished and the three to five hundred barrels of condensate was lost. The plant is located thirty miles down the Pandale Road.

Lightning Is Cause Of Gas Plant Fire

Lightning struck a 1,000 barrel tank at the Indian Wells Operating Plant early Saturday morning, resulting in a spectacular fire. The tank held from 300 to 500 barrels of condensate, a high grade of gasoline, and the lightning bolt immediately ignited vapors. When the fuel caught fire, the terrific explosion blew the top of the heavy steel tank several feet in the air. The heat was so intense the tank was partially melted.

Ozona firemen were on the scene, but were unable to attempt to extinguish the inferno. They kept a watch on surrounding tanks and buildings

Two Hospital Employees At Food School

Two employees of Crockett County Hospital were members of the graduating class of the Food Service Supervisors School Tuesday of last week in San Angelo.

until the fire burned itself out about mid-morning. The alarm was called in shortly before 2 a. m.

Rain fell intermittently, but if anything added fuel to the flame. Roaring flames and billowing smoke lit up the countryside for miles around. The plant is located on the Carson ranch about 30 miles down the Pandale Road.

The thunderstorm was severe in intensity and struck the Ozona area with high winds Saturday morning at 1:30. A rainy weekend followed and drizzle and showers dotted the area until noon Tuesday when bright sunlight made its appearance and dry, but cooler weather moved in. The four-day period produced a total of 1.05 inches of rain with .52 of an inch falling during the early morning thunderstorm Saturday.

GET INVOLVED IN THE BICENTENNIAL

In less than a year and a half, America will celebrate its 200th birthday as an independent country. Whether that milestone will be characterized by bickering and a preoccupation with present problems, or by a renewed determination to make our Nation even greater, is up to us.

Two centuries ago 56 brave men risked their homes, families, livelihoods and very lives to sign the document declaring our freedom. The personal commitment being asked of us to commemorate their commitment is of a far different order. But are we willing to put aside our differences and personal difficulties to make that commitment?

In 1876, the 100th birthday of the country was celebrated by a world's fair in Philadelphia. "In 1976, there will be no single city in which we celebrate our 200th anniversary and no single exhibition of our progress," explained the head of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration in a recent speech. John W. Warner added that, "for a nation of nearly 220 million, no one city would be big enough."

The Bicentennial commission of each state receives $25,000 annually in operating expenses. Up to another $240,000 is also available to states through matching federal grants for worthy Bicentennial projects. According to the ARBA, nearly 2,000 such projects have already received the agency's stamp of approval.

For information on how you and your community can get involved in the Bicentennial, write: American Revolution Bicentennial, 736 Jackson Place N.W., Washington, D.C., 20276.

As John Warner says, the Bicentennial will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for all Americans to "celebrate together the accomplishments which have transformed a handful of weak but determined colonies into the strongest and freest nation in history," and to "unite in a common effort to honor our country on her 200th Anniversary and to improve the quality of life for those who come after us."

WINDS OF CHANGE IN AFRICA

During the last several decades, most European colonial empires have given way to newly independent nations — too often born in strife and bloodshed.

As late as one year ago, however, Portugal still retained firm control, albeit forcibly, over three African countries: Mozambique, Angola, and Guinea-Bissau. Then, in April, a coup in Lisbon toppled Portugal's dictator and brought to power a group of men pledged to halt colonial wars in the three territories and begin steps toward their independence.

Since April, the winds of change have swept across the whole of southern Africa, most of whose countries are distinguished politically and socially by white-ruled regimes operating among a preponderance of black citizens. With impending changes facing these countries, eyes have turned to the bulwark among them, South Africa, and its prime minister, John Vorster. Vorster, facing stiff resistance at home, has met the challenge with uncommon initiative.

The full details of Vorster's secret and unprecedented forays to black-ruled countries to the north may never be known. However, this much is known: after decades of isolation, South Africa is at last making a bid to come to terms with her African neighbors as well as with world opinion.

Mr. Vorster, who reportedly had never before visited a black state, flew quietly to the Ivory Coast in September to meet with the presidents of that country and of Senegal. The following month he flew to Rhodesia and Malawi to continue his "peace offensive."

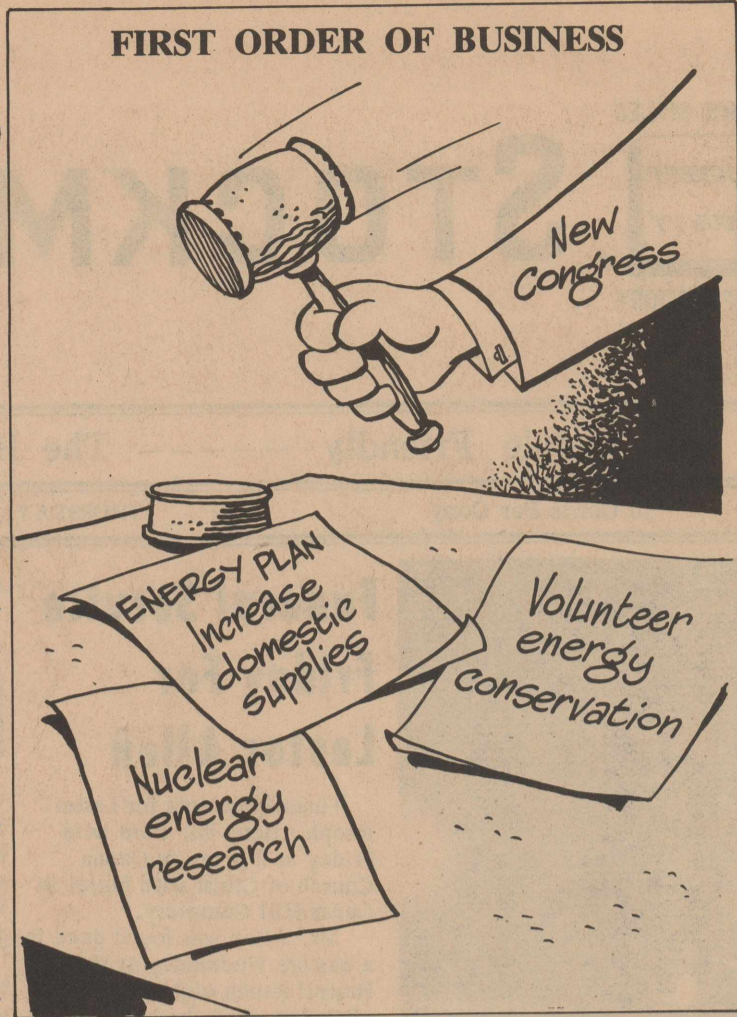

"I believe that Southern Africa has come to the crossroads," Vorster told the South African Senate in October. "I think that Southern Africa has to make a choice. I think that the choice lies between peace on one hand or an escalation of strife on the other." The following day, South Africa's U.N. Ambassador, R. F. Botha, added that "discrimination based solely on the color of a man's skin cannot be defended. And we shall do everything in our power to move away from discrimination based on race or color."

Vorster now finds himself facing powerful opposition from both ends of the political spectrum: conservative factions within his own Nationalist Party, as well as hot-headed black nationalists resisting compromise in Southern Africa. Many elements are now present that could lead either to new, long-term accommodation — or to immense bloodletting. Every person who hates war must hope the voices of reason such as that of Mr. Vorster prevail.

THEY DON'T HAVE TO DIE

An article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association estimates that over 4,000 people in the United States die needlessly each year from a malady which has come to be known as "cafe coronary." The killer in this ailment is simply a piece of food which becomes lodged in the victim's throat, choking him to death. All too often, the hapless sufferer is thought to be having a heart attack — hence the name. If mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is attempted, the food is pushed further into the victim's throat. And by the time an ambulance arrives or the patient is taken to a hospital, it is too late.

However, explains the Journal article, "cafe coronaries" are easily distinguished from heart attacks. If the victim can't speak, is turning blue and collapses, his life can be saved by a means known as Heimlich's maneuver, that pops out the obstructing food like the cork from a champagne bottle, and is simple enough for anyone to learn.

Letters ToThe Editor

Dear Ms. Montgomery:

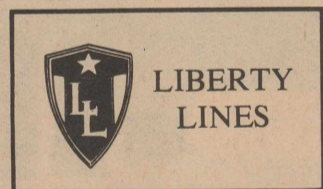

Having recently received my first issue of the Stockman, I was very interested to read your question about changing the name of the Ozona newspaper to the Ozona Stockman. Whether or not your question was meant in jest, I think that some name change should be considered. As an editor and publisher, you are certainly aware of the power of words to shape our thoughts. In a very basic way, the use of the word "man" when we mean "person" limits the meaning of the word by limiting the mental picture we have when we read or hear the word.

Although I do not have census data to confirm this, I would estimate that at least 50% of the Ozona area population is female and I am sure that many of these women read the Ozona newspaper and do own livestock. This large segment of your readership (and potential readership) should not be excluded in your choice of a name for the newspaper.

If Ozona Stockman sounds awkward, I suggest that you look for an entirely new name which would reflect some important aspect of Ozona life and which would not exclude, by inference, any of your readers. (My suggestion: The Ozona Sky.)

I am looking forward to future issues of your newspaper, whatever its name.

Yours truly,
Sara McDaniel

Our Schools and the Red Plague
By Robert M. Bartell

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Liberty Lobby News Service)—This year more than $70 billion will be spent to educate our children.

However, the results raise many questions. Many educators obviously still believe there is nothing wrong with education in America that spending more money won't cure. But with billions of dollars at their disposal, the educationalists are targets of diverse organizations . . . none as insidious as the communists.

Common sense tells us that debauching the youth of America is no accident. The fact that obscene and sacrilegious schoolbooks are increasingly common all over America indicates a conspiracy does exist. Someone, somewhere, has decided that children in America should study witchcraft, sex, and atheism . . . but not the Ten Commandments.

Who would profit from this corruption of morality? Who would profit from youngsters being taught that America is no good . . . and should be destroyed?

Recently my son came home from his first day at high school with all his official school papers and books. Included was an excerpt from a little pocket book called, appropriately enough, the Little Red Schoolbook. Geared for the junior high

Dear Kitty:

After deliberating at length on the most effective way to communicate with my constituency, I have come to the conclusion that a brief monthly report would be the most efficient way to inform the most people about what is going on in Austin.

I anticipate four more reports — one each in March, April, May and June. If you would run them, it would be tremendously appreciated; and I would cooperate with you in any way insofar as length, form, style, etc., are concerned.

Please let me know your thoughts on this. I certainly hope we can work out something.

Sincerely,
Susan McBee

Care for Your Car In Foul Weather

Give your car some extra attention during this season of bad weather and hazardous driving. If you haven't already done so, Pinkerton's, Inc., the private security firm, suggests that you take the following measures:

- Have your brakes adjusted and equalized. Balanced braking is essential on slippery roads.
- Keep lights in good shape and free from dirt and snow.
- Replace defective wipers.
- Check exhaust system for leaks. Always drive with a window partially opened.
- Check battery and ignition systems.

school student, its main theme is "student power" and it looks like Chairman Mao Tse-tung's Little Red Book.

The textbook controversy that erupted in Charleston, W. Va., has spread to other parts of our Nation. Parents are once again taking an active interest in how the educationalists are teaching their children and for good reason. The Little Red Schoolbook, vicious and anti-American as it is, typifies the subversive, hard core filth available in schools all over the country.

The Little Red Schoolbook has 22 pages devoted to means by which students can organize strikes or demonstrations . . . or otherwise protest for their rights. There is a complete section on sex discussed in four-letter garbage-type words. The book is published by a subsidiary of a giant New York publishing house. Many of the publishing companies in America print textbooks . . . for most of them, it represents a significant portion of their profits.

The school board in Prince Georges County, Md., has moved forward on a plan to open new schools with a rigid discipline, parental approval of textbooks and a return to the type of patriotic and character building curriculum reminiscent of schools a generation ago.

Aroused parents can effectively deal with the textbook problem. For example, a book appeared at North Carolina State College with the opening line, "America stinks." The book was thrown out.

It takes action by the school board to buy lewd textbooks . . . and action by the parents to stop it.

Susan Speaks Out

Susan Gurley McBee
State Representative,
District 70

The first three weeks of the 64th Legislative Session have been quiet, yet very interesting. Although not much has been done in the daily sessions, my office has been quite busy with numerous constituent requests and lots of correspondence, most of it dealing with the pay raise for state employees, which will probably have passed by the time you read this.

Several constituents from various parts of the district were in Austin for the governor's inauguration and came by to visit. It's always a pleasure to have visitors; and, if you happen to be in Austin, please stop by my office, G-55-B1, in the Capitol Building.

If you're interested in keeping up with what's happening in detail in the Legislature, stop by your local library and ask to see the House Journals.

They are the "minutes" of each day's session and are being sent by my office to your library in an effort to keep the public informed.

I think you'll be as pleased as I was with my recent committee assignments, I will serve on Agriculture, which is so important to our district and is really the only factor which unites our rather diverse nine counties.

From truck-farming in Zavala to cattle-raising in Brewster, some form of agriculture is a major economic force in every county of District 70. I'll also serve on Elections, which, of course, touches upon all of our lives and will hear lots of important proposed legislation--such as, the presidential primary proposal; revision of the voter registration procedure; broadening the scope of absentee voting; and, of vital concern and importance to our rural counties, reduction of the number of voters required to have a voting precinct. In addition, I was one of two freshman members named to serve on three committees, I will be on the Calendars Committee, which decides when each particular bill will come before the House.

Please write me at Box 2910, Austin, Texas 78767, or call (512) 475-2763 if I can help you in any way or if you want to register an opinion or suggestion.

U. S. Representative
21st District

One of the difficult things to explain about Congress is its procedures and the meaning of some votes. The problem arises because often a Congressman will work for or against a particular item in committee or in party caucus and not prevail. For example, one Congressman worked very hard to maintain the oil depletion allowance in committee. He won the compromise of getting it reduced only slightly. Then when he voted for the Bill in the House, he was criticized for seeming to favor a reduction in the depletion allowance.

Last week I voted in Caucus to retain the House Internal Security Committee in its present form as a separate committee. I was outvoted. Although I would have preferred to keep HISC as a separate committee, its Chairman, Congressman Ichord, moved to transfer the Committee's responsibility for internal security to the Judiciary Committee.

All documents and staff were transferred to the Judiciary and I have been assured by Mr. Ichord that the staff can perform effectively there. After Ichord's motion passed, it became part of a larger package of rules regarding House Legislation. This package was later adopted with 19 of 21 Texas Democrats supporting it, including me.

To have voted against this package at that time would have risked the need to reconsider the whole rules of the House. However, decision to shift responsibility for internal security to the Judiciary would have remained unchanged.

Like Mr. Ichord, I intend to follow the work of the Judiciary Committee to be certain that the internal security needs of the country are maintained. And I hope that in the future Congress will find a way to present bills so that it is easier to understand what is being voted on. It is important that Congress do its work in a way that lets people stay fully informed, and I will do my best to keep you aware of what is happening in Congress and how I am voting.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

This is the big month to prepare for spring plant changes, or to make new beds for the garden—both flowers and vegetables. Also finish planting bare-root roses, fruit, and nut trees while still dormant.

Builders and owners of new houses often tend to crowd woody shrubs around the base of the house facing the street and leave the rest of the landscape to fend for itself. For a few years plants may look all right, but unless careful plant selection is made, the time soon comes when the plants outgrow their space and begin to crowd the house.

This type of planting is referred to as foundation planting, and necessary when houses are built on raised foundations with great expanses of bare substructure to be seen. The plants serve to tie the house to the site, a transition from the high walls of the house to the lawn below. These large shrubs in older planting can be controlled by being kept pruned at this time each year.

But at homes where no large areas of building foundation are exposed, it is desirable to use fewer and lower growing plants and let more of the architectural lines of the house be visible.

As an alternative to an extensive foundation planting, clusters of three, five or even seven trees or large shrubs may be located on the grounds where they will still relate to the house, but draw the landscape feeling out farther into the lawn. This helps to give a more natural, easy mood to the total landscape. The right plants in the proper arrangement can do much to define landscape spaces, create privacy, shape the setting for a house, and eliminate the need for a green mass of plant material around the base of the house itself. Many are using multitrunked trees to fill the landscape void in the lawn and make a visual barrier for privacy. Two of these that grow well and are native to our area are the live oak and youpon. A beautiful specimen of the latter is in the front of an attractive planting of the L. B. Cox, Jr. home on Angus Street.

After poinsettias are through blooming, shorten their stems somewhat and store plants in a dry, cool place to rest. Gradually dry completely, lay on their sides under a bench or in a place where the temperature is 55 or 60 degrees.

Over the past few years, several cooking contests featuring chicken or eggs have been held in Texas. All of these contests were very successful in promoting use of poultry products, in developing community spirit, in teaching the value of poultry and eggs as high in nutrition, low in price, and in developing good public relation for agriculture.

The granddaddy of all these contests is the National Chicken Cooking Contest. San Antonio, our metropolitan neighbor, will host the event this year.

Just as last year, the Texas representative to the National Chicken Cooking Contest finals will be chosen by a state cook-off to be held in May, 1975. All that is required to enter is the submission of a chicken recipe. The rules are simple, the prizes good and anyone over 18 years of age may enter. We encourage as many entries from our county as possible.

For further information concerning this contest, contact your County Extension Office. Last year's $10,000 winning recipe was:

HOT CHINESE CHICKEN SALAD
8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, skinned, boned, cut into one inch cubes
1/2 c. corn oil
1/2 c. corn starch
1/8 tsp. garlic powder
1 large ripe tomato, cut into chunks
1 4-oz. can water chestnuts, drained and sliced

1 4-oz. can sliced mushrooms, drained
1 bunch green onions, coarsely chopped
1 c. slant sliced celery
1 tsp. Ac'cent flavor enhancer
1/2 c. soy sauce
2 c. finely shredded iceberg lettuce

Roll chicken in corn starch. Heat corn oil in fry pan over high heat. Add chicken chunks and quickly brown. Sprinkle with garlic powder. Add tomato, water chestnuts, mushrooms, onion and celery. Stir. Sprinkle with flavor enhancer. Add soy sauce. Stir. Cover, reduce heat to simmer and cook 5 minutes. Lightly toss chicken-vegetable mix with lettuce. Serve hot with rice. Makes 4 servings.

BAROMETER OF LIFE

Would it really help to have an instrument to predict the storms of life?
When the barometer falls it's too late to build a sea wall or to dig a cyclone cellar. Wise men prepare when the wind is calm. A leaking roof must be mended while the sun shines.
The Church does not claim to provide a barometer of life. But it preaches every Sunday the spiritual readiness which climaxed Christ's Sermon on the Mount:
"Whoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man which built his house upon a rock:
"And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house. . . .
"And it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock."

TESTED TIPS TO HELP YOU

The inevitable spills and splatters that occur at the dinner table should be removed as soon as possible and before laundering. Grease and greasy food stains, which are particularly difficult to remove if left to stand, can be quickly and easily treated with corn starch. Cover stain with a layer of corn starch; roll up stained item and let stand. The corn starch will absorb grease. Then launder as usual.

Corn starch is considered an excellent dusting powder. Use a sprinkling of corn starch in rubber dish washing gloves each time they are worn. The gloves will slip on and off more easily and stay free from that clammy feeling. It's a good idea, also, to use a sprinkling of corn starch in boots to absorb moisture.

On those days when everything seems to go wrong, take time for a soothing corn starch bath. Fill the tub with hot water, pour in a cup or two of corn starch and swish it through the water to dissolve. Then spend as many leisurely minutes as possible just soaking. Soap clean and gently pat skin dry. Argo corn starch leaves a silky smooth, invisible film on the skin and helps soothe itchy, irritated skin.

Fur collars, cuffs or hats can be cleaned using a simple household formula. In a well ventilated room, mix 3/4 cup corn starch with 1 tablespoon household dry cleaning solvent in a bowl. Place the fur piece flat on brown paper. Spread on the mixture with fingers, rubbing it into the fur. Let it stand for about 20 minutes, rubbing it occasionally. As mixture absorbs dirt, it will turn grey. Remove dirt with vacuum cleaner, using the upholstery attachment or take the garment outdoors and shake and brush it well until completely clean.

Cost Accounting Vital For Agricultural Producers

With agricultural producers experiencing an ever tightening cost-price squeeze, the need for cost accounting has never been greater.

"The commercial agricultural producer today needs a complete and accurate accounting system and physical production records if he is going to succeed," contends Cecil

Parker, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "It is necessary to know the cost of producing a unit of each enterprise to compare profitability and make management decisions."

Cost accounting is the basis for allocating resources to improve resource efficiency, points out Parker. Management decisions based on cost accounting are much more likely to be profitable than decisions based on impulse or hunch. Other uses of accounting are tax reporting and obtaining necessary credit.

The economist notes that the Extension Service provides two types of accounting systems--the Farm Record System and the Texas Electronic Farm Accounting System (Tel-Fac).

The Farm Record System contains 10 sections which include farm business expense, farm and non-farm income, payroll record, accounts payable and receivable, continuous depreciation schedule, farm inventory, financial and profit and loss statement, hours and per cent of equipment use, enterprise summary and analysis, and field treatment and performance record. Appropriate sections may be combined to fit each particular farm or ranch situation.

The Tel-Fac System has cost accounting as its primary objective. This system has four component parts: financial and production data, inventory and depreciable schedule, profit and loss statement, and enterprise analysis. Financial and production data are processed each month while other parts of the system are processed annually.

According to Parker, the basic difference in the two systems is that the Farm Record System is totally manual while Tel-Fac is computerized. However, the computer does not compensate for incomplete or inaccurate data, emphasizes the economist.

County Extension agents assist producers with either of the two systems.

In addition to these accounting systems, several others are available from lending institutions and commercial concerns. "Which system a producer uses is not important, but some system definitely should be used," believes Parker.

Budget Bonanza
by Ann D. Allen

If you're like most American homemakers, you want to save as much as possible, particularly these days, so here's some food for thought for the next time you go food shopping. Buy in quantity. When the price is favorable get as much as you can safely store, preferably enough to last until the next special. This saves time as well as money.

Consider buying in-house brands as well as name ones on some items. They're usually cheaper, and come in various quantities.

Buy when the price is right. Shop around for the savingest supermarkets.

Buy food you know your family likes--and that you know is good for them. Ice cream, for instance, is one desert that provides all the nutrients of milk: calcium, phosphorus, protein, vitamin A, thiamine and riboflavin, yet about everyone enjoys it as much as less nutritious, higher priced and more caloric sweets.

If you're careful, you'll probably be able to get both good economy and good taste.

M-A Organizational Meeting Draws 48

Forty-eight persons were present Friday night at the Catholic Church Parish Hall to hear Heriberto Gutierrez explain how a proposed Mexican-American Community Organization can get more money from the federal government for local Mexican-Americans.

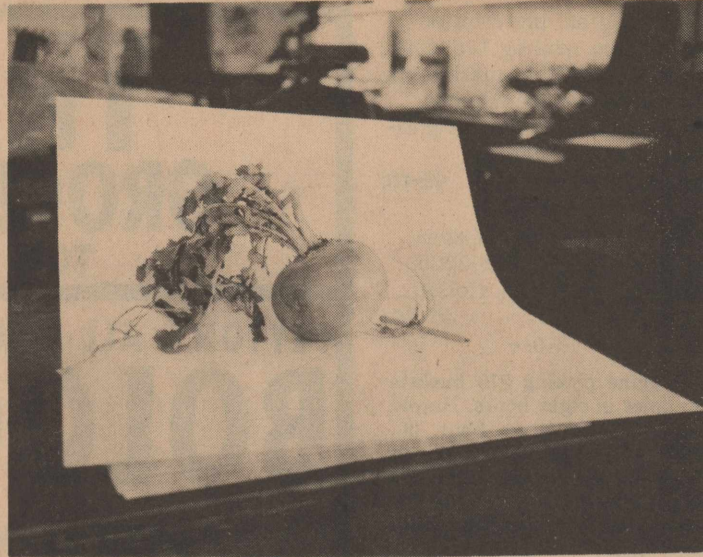

Gutierrez was introduced by Armando Reina, who was acting chairman. Gutierrez explained the objectives of the organization, such as housing, civil rights, social services and education. He said the organization would be incorporated by the state, and the incorporation, according to him, would give the organization the right to request federal funds for the objectives.

In enlarging on the objectives, he said that under "housing" funds can be requested for the remodeling of homes, low income housing projects, even help to those who rent homes. Under social services, funds can be requested for parks, building to house activities for the young, the elderly, etc. Educational funds may be requested for college education, for those who have not finished high school or others in need of education, Gutierrez told the audience.

Another meeting will be held tomorrow, Friday, evening at the Parish Hall to elect officers for the organization. All interested persons are urged to attend.

SOLAR HOME: CLIMATE CONTROL UNDER A COPPER ROOF

Most home owners aren't aware of it yet, but man's oldest source of heat, the sun, is now the newest way to keep a house warm and cool.

For eons before man discovered fire, he only had the sun to warm him. Now that the fossil fuels that have kept us comfortable are running low, man once again is beginning to look to the sun.

The first "practical" home to be fully climate-controlled through solar energy has just been completed in Tucson, Arizona, with nearly 100% of its heating and about 75% of its cooling supplied by the sun.

Called the "Decade 80 Solar House," this home utilizes a copper roof system to collect power from the sun. The copper roof is glass-skinned--for the "greenhouse" effect--and integrated with copper tubing through which circulates water, the home's chief energy transport and storage medium. This is the first totally integrated solar collector-roof system that is commercially available to the building industry, and can be installed in the normal course of construction with the skills of today's tradesmen. Described as long-lasting, maintenance-free, easy-to-install and reasonably priced, this new roofing and energy system can heat water more than 100 degrees F. above the surrounding air temperature. Highly versatile, the combination copper roofing and energy system can be used to cover either the entire house--or a single room such as a new or remodeled family room, for example.

Be fitting its description as the first solar home fulfilling an American family's highest expectations of comfort, convenience, and even luxury, the "Decade 80 Solar House" is an elegant, sprawling desert home complete with swimming pool with sweeping mountain view, a copper-clad master bath, and a guest wing with its own private entrance. Conceived by the Copper Development Association Inc., the Tucson solar home will include a number of furniture pieces fabricated in mirrored copper or brass including a series of cocktail cubes, Parsons tables, pedestals, and reflective walls.

Copper is the quality choice for solar collector panel systems such as used in the Tucson solar house for a number of reasons. For one, copper conducts heat up to eight times better than any other material feasible for solar panels. Also, no other metal that could be used has a higher resistance to corrosion. Copper is in dependable supply too--the U.S. is 95% self-sufficient in copper. In addition, copper is highly recyclable, and easily fulfills plumbing codes.

The "Decade 80 Solar House" also will get energy from the sun through solar cells located on the copper roof, and these will run the family's various TV sets, sound system, stand-by security system, and small kitchen appliances such as the blender.

This kind of house doesn't have to be built in Arizona, either. It needs only a small fraction of the total energy expended by the sun on a given area to provide energy so it can be located almost anywhere.

With the "Decade 80 Solar House" as the proving ground, solar energy seems to be a good idea about to take its place in the sun.

Roy Thompson To Head Up Easter Seals

Roy H. Thompson will lead the 1975 Easter Seal Appeal in Crockett county, it was announced by Thomas N. Jenness, Jr. of Fort Worth, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Residents in the county will receive the traditional Easter Seal Appeal letters beginning February 15. The Easter Seal Appeal is conducted each Spring to provide disabled persons and their families treatment and services. It will continue through Easter Sunday, March 30.

Thompson is one of 234 men and women throughout Texas who serve in this capacity to help meet the cost of the statewide Easter Seal program, which assisted 20,152 handicapped Texans in 1974.

The Texas Easter Seal Society and its statewide network of treatment centers and local volunteers spent $1,410,902, financed by the traditional Spring Easter Seal Appeal and Fall Membership Drive. Over 90 percent of all funds raised remain in Texas to support the growing needs of the disabled in the state.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1975 Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Contact Thompson at Ozona National Bank in Ozona to receive the simple, self-mailing request for service form. A determination of the extent and type of assistance needed, the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance, and arrangements for qualified treatment of other services will be made by the Texas Easter Seal Society.

Loyalty Oath for Teachers?

May a public school teacher be required to take a loyalty oath? Yes, provided that the oath stays within constitutional bounds.

Consider the case of a high school teacher who balked at swearing to uphold the state and federal constitutions.

"I just don't like the whole idea of loyalty oaths," she explained in a court hearing. "They are an infringement upon my freedom of conscience."

But the judge said this kind of an oath was nothing more than is expected of most public officials, up to and including the President. He quoted the following comment from the United States Supreme Court:

"Obviously the framers of the Constitution thought that an affirmation of minimum loyalty to the government was worth the price of whatever deprivation of individual freedom of conscience was involved."

Nevertheless, some oaths have been thrown out by the courts for going too far.

Another case involved a declaration that the teacher had never lent "aid, support, or advice" to the Communist Party. Wouldn't this apply, a court wondered, to everyone who had ever supported any cause that the Communist Party had also happened to support?

The court concluded that it was unconstitutional to require an oath "in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must guess at its meaning."

Also rejected was a requirement that teachers submit an annual list of every organization to which they had either belonged or contributed during the previous five years.

The court felt that such a requirement intruded upon the teacher's right of free association. The court said there were all sorts of outside relationships that "could have no possible bearing upon the teacher's occupational fitness."

CALLING ALL HOMEMAKERS

Brought to you By Lillian Brown

As a general rule, don't let a chair stand by itself in a corner. It can look forlorn that way. You can dress up a corner if you add perhaps a small table and lamp by the chair, or at least a picture or some other decoration in that corner.

One of the most useful pieces of furniture that's missing from many homes is a tea wagon. It can serve so many purposes for not only serving, but also for a nice place to keep things.

Should you buy a carpet with or without a pattern? One rule to keep in mind is that the absence of a pattern in a carpet will give a feeling of more spaciousness in the room; on the other hand, a pattern will help relieve the monotony of space and pep up a room that's too bland.

Here's a little trick that can add sparkle and variety to your home. Change your accessories with the seasons. Use some different accessories around the house in the fall and winter than you did in the spring and summer.

If you'd like to see lots of furniture ideas, you're welcome to come in and browse here--with no pressure and no obligation. And if you have a particular furnishing problem, we'll be happy to discuss it with you. We're at your service.

Tex Watson talks about The Cost of Natural Gas

It's logical that Pioneer customers should ask why they are paying more for the energy they use in their homes. We are eager to have them understand why.

There is a lot of natural gas in West Texas, but we still must buy the gas in competition with other gas users across the country. To assure the people of West Texas that they will have the gas they need, now and in the future, we must pay the going price for new gas. Not only gas for our homes is involved, but most people's jobs depend on gas to run business and industry.

The gas is available, but we must pay the going price to get it. That price is reflected on your gas bill as a "cost of gas adjustment." I'm sure you don't like it. Neither do I. But I'm sure you agree that we must have the gas to run the homes and businesses of West Texas.

All energy will cost more in the future, but be assured that the Natural Energy Home will still be the way to go.
