CROCKETT HOLDS DOWN PALESTINE

Friday a very large crowd saw in Palestine what will go down in history as a genuine gridiron classic.

Crockett High School and Palestine High played one of the hardest-fought foot ball games that this part of the state has ever seen to the tune of 0 and 0.

At the opening of the game, when the two teams walked upon the field, it was easy enough to tell the better eleven men. They wore that old familiar blue sweater and had that indescribable "fight to win" expression on their faces.

And from the first whistle to the last the game proved to be a model for sportsmanship. Although there were a few accidents, there was no willfully rough playing or unclean football.

The first three quarters showed the C. H. S. going to be far superior to the enemy and the ball was kept practically in Palestine's territory. But in the last quarter Coach Wilkin's aggregation pressed the Crockett goal with lucky forward passes and our team was forced to play a strictly defensive game until the whistle ending the battle blew. It was here that Smith's ready punting greatly benefited the blue sweatered eleven.

Fifteen men were the outstanding stars of the game and these fifteen men were students of Crockett High School.

Now Coaches Dawson and Nisbet's squad are ready for and anticipate another game equally as hard and their slogan is, "If we can't cross our opponent's goal, the final score will be 0 and 0." Student.

"PLEASE DON'T PUBLISH."

One of the serious drawbacks of the newspaper game is the number of people who "want it kept out of the paper." Sometimes it is from a person charged with some criminal offense, major or minor, who thinks that if he can only keep it from appearing in print his conscience will be quite clear. Again, it is a divorce petition, not infrequently by the very one who filed the action and who could easily have avoided publicity by refraining from instituting the suit. More often still the request comes from those who for no conceivable reason "just don't want it published," even though publication could not possibly affect them one way or the other.

The newspaper's position is a difficult one to maintain. It has an implied contract with each of its subscribers to publish the news as it happens, and the right sort of paper tries hard to do just that. It is not easy to turn down one's friends when to them the request seems so simple; if it were a simple matter, as most of them seem to think, it would be easy. But should a paper accede to one request, as trivial as it may seem to the person concerned, it thereby has established a precedent which will rise again and again to vex and embarrass, because omission of a trivial matter in one case will be urged as a reason for omission of an important similar matter by persons who aren't able to differentiate the degree of importance in things that concern them.

No paper wants wilfully to cause sorrow or embarrassment to anybody. Most publishers dislike exceedingly to do that which they know will antagonize a friend. But the duty of a newspaper is so clear in the premises that it must frequently publish things its publishers would like to omit, that the only way to be fair to all and to carry out its implied obligation to its subscribers is to publish the news as it happens. To do otherwise will lead to establishment of precedents, that if followed to their ultimate conclusion, would prevent the paper from publishing anything to which anybody objects—and that would mean a blank sheet many times a year.—Denton Record Chronicle.

IS IT A CATCH PHRASE?

Oscar W. Underwood will speak at Dallas during the fair. Mr. Underwood is senator from the good old State of Alabama, a State that touches Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia, making a quartette that gave to Texas a majority of her citizenship.

Mr. Underwood is democracy's ablest champion, a democrat of the old school. Since the civil war no Southern man has guided the destinies of the nation, and democracy has feared to risk a Southern man at the head of her ticket. We don't know what the East, North and West will do to a Southern candidate, but we would like to know.

We have been told for years that in our Republic there is "no North and no South, but one grand united country." We would like to know whether that is true or merely a catch phrase for spell binders. Oscar Underwood is democracy's ablest champion. Will democracy offer him to the country as her candidate for president or pass him by merely because his home is south of the Mason and Dixon line? The question will be answered next year.—Honey Grove Signal.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

The grand jury adjourned Friday, October 12, until Monday, November 12. Before adjourning, 21 bills were reported, 19 of which were for felonies and two for misdemeanors. None of these cases had been set for trial on Tuesday of this week, and the names of those indicted did not show on the trial docket for the reason that some had not been arrested.

This might be called divorce week in the district court, although divorces are granted all through the term. About twenty divorces were granted this week, both the white and the black races sharing about equally in the matter of divorcement.

Cases Set.

Two cases were set Wednesday for trial in the Houston county district court and are as follows:

Will Love, murder; set for Tuesday, October 30, and venire of 60 men ordered.

Jesse B. Allen, murder; set for Thursday, November 1, and venire of 60 men ordered.

Both defendants are negroes and are to be tried for killing other negroes.

FOR THE HISTORIC SAN ANTONIO ROAD

It is estimated that $500 will be raised for the improvement of the San Antonio road in the Belott-Weches section. It is said that over $400 has already been promised or pledged and it is believed that $100 more can be raised. This, supplemented with the work promised by the citizenship of the Belott-Weches section, will put the San Antonio road in good, temporary repair through that section. It is hoped that, after repairs have been made and before the road gets in bad shape again, a substantial bond issue will have been voted in that district and a hard-surfaced road constructed. Both federal and state aid are available for the San Antonio road if the bond issue carries. If the people of the Weches section do not take advantage of the offer of federal and state aid by voting the bond issue, this federal and state aid will go to some district that does vote a bond issue. Why not vote the bond issue and get the federal and state aid placed in the Weches section of the San Antonio highway?

COTTON BRINGS 29 CENTS IN CROCKETT

Cotton sold as high as 29 cents in Crockett Wednesday morning of this week. At this time 25 years ago cotton was selling in Crockett at from 4 to 5 cents a pound, we are told.

Pleasant Social Affair.

Unique in plan and charming in appointment, was the opening of Mrs. Robt Allen's studio Thursday afternoon at the K. of P. Club rooms. The hostess received all in her most charming manner, and throughout the evening sweet strains of music, furnished by some of Crockett's most talented singers, was highly appreciated by the large crowd present. The studio was beautiful in cut flowers and ferns. Pink and green were effectively used in all the decorations. The punch bowl was presided over by two of Crockett's prettiest girls as well as talented dancers, Misses Edmiston and Arledge, who so graciously gave a number to the delight of many present. Every one left declaring it one of the most pleasant social affairs of the season.

A Guest.

Primary Teachers' Meeting.

The primary teachers, with Mrs. G. D. McClain as superintendent, held a regular business meeting Friday afternoon of last week with Mrs. A. W. Phillips. Quite a bit of business was transacted and also a Bible study on the book of Revelations.

The home was beautiful with red and yellow roses. A refreshing salad course was served, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Lyman Burton, and little Elizabeth Murray. All reluctantly bade farewell at a very late hour. Reporter.

Soldier and Author.

The homefolks here have received word from Lieutenant Harold D. Hail, U. S. Marines, that another of his stories on Naval Academy life has been accepted by the Saturday Evening Post. The story, "Sail Ho!", will be published in an early issue of the magazine.

Lieutenant Hail at present is stationed at Pensacola, Florida, where he is undergoing a course in aviation training. From there, he probably will be transferred to Haiti, in the West Indies.

Almighty God hath created the mind free; and all attempts to influence it by temporal punishments or burdens, or by civil incapacitations, tend only to beget habits of hypocrisy and meanness, and are a departure from the plan of the holy Author of our religion.—Thomas Jefferson.

NIGHT TRAIN TO BE REINSTATED

President Hamilton of the I. G. N. Railroad Company announced at Houston Saturday that the train service on his road between Houston and Palestine would be improved shortly by the addition of another train. The public has been clamoring for this improvement for some time and will be pleased with this announcement. The Courier has been unable to reach Lovelady, the three rural delivery routes out of Lovelady, Creek and the rural delivery route out of Creek and the other postoffices and routes in the southern part of the county after 9:40 in the morning until 9:40 the next morning. It was for an improved mail service to the south that the Courier has been contending and also to the north for the same reason. The Courier would suggest an earlier morning train to the north and also an early night train as formerly, with the reinstatement of the mid-night train to the south. This would give a morning local mail and express both ways, a fast afternoon passenger both ways and early night trains, in both directions.

DISTILLERY FOUND AND SOME RED ALE

Monday night Sheriff Deb Hale and deputies raided a distillery in the Trinity river bottom and captured seven gallons of red whisky, to say nothing of four barrels of corn and syrup mash and the distillery itself. The distillery consisted of the boiler and the indispensable worm. The outfit was brought to town, along with the prisoners. Three men and two women, all negroes, were arrested by the sheriff and deputies and brought to jail. The names of the men are Cato Woods, Frank Hill and Jim Woods. The names of the women were failed to get. The distillery was found on a farm owned by Lang Smith of Lovelady, but worked by the negroes. The location, if you are interested, was near the lock and dam, but it is too late now, as the sheriff has the whole outfit.

Paving Progress.

Two blocks of Public avenue east of the square are paved and in use, also three blocks of Washington street and one block of Main street. North of the square a block of Houston street is paved and in use. Four additional blocks on Main street, one on Public avenue, one on Houston street and the east and south sides of the court house square have the concrete poured and will be ready for the sand, brick and binder when the weather clears up.

City Park for Crockett.

A city park for Crockett is the talk now. The city owns the fair grounds. A proposition has been submitted which would convert the fair grounds into a park with swimming pool and other amusement devices. Baseball and football games have already been arranged for. If present plans are carried out, Crockett may become the amusement center for not only Houston county, but for the surrounding counties.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines, thus enters upon a wider field of popularity,—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.) 13t.

DEEP DRILLING GREAT FEATURE IN CALIFORNIA

Costs Range From $90,000 to $135,000 Per Well in Southern Fields.

Los Angeles, Oct. 13.—One of the things which contributed largely to the flush oil production, which brought the price of gasoline down, was deep drilling. Prior to the close of the World war, drilling, as a rule, was not carried much beyond 3500 feet, except for exploratory purposes, but when the quest for oil began in dead earnest, during 1919, advancements made in mechanical lines made it possible for drillers to switch over from the oil standard rig, which churned up and down in the hole, to the modern rotary outfit, which works on the principle of the gimlet, and makes faster and more satisfactory progress.

By using the rotary it was soon discovered by energetic operators that there was a second producing sand in the Huntington Beach field, the different formations lying perhaps 1000 feet apart. The deepest of the two was by far the most productive.

Similarly, the operators in the Long Beach field, by carrying their drilling operations to lower levels, found a second sand lying between 4000 and 5000 feet—a sand upward of 3000 feet thick in some places and probably the deepest oil-bearing formation in the United States. At Santa Fe Springs the driller found one productive sand between 3000 and 4000 feet and another between 4000 and 5000 feet.

The intensive drilling which marked the development of all three of the flush fields soon exhausted the upper sands, which were capable of producing from a few hundred to perhaps 3000 barrels per well at the outset, because there was a heavy gas pressure and the oil was forced out rapidly.

As soon as the deeper sands were discovered there was a general movement to drill existing wells deeper and carry others to the second formation without attempting production in the first sands. Deep drilling resulted in the gusher wells of which the world has heard a great deal in recent months.

One well at Signal Hill, in the Long Beach field, yielded 28,000 barrels per day for a while after coming in, and several of them flowed from 15,000 and 24,000 barrels a piece during their first day's run.

Well Down 6000 Feet.

The first well in the world to yield oil from a depth of one mile was drilled at Long Beach by the Shell Company of California. This depth was soon exceeded by the General Petroleum Corporation, and again by the Shell Company, and at the present time the General Petroleum Corporation has another well in the same field down close to the 6000-foot mark and still in the producing sand.

Several of the big operating companies have estimated that their drilling costs in the Huntington Beach and Long Beach fields have ranged somewhere between $90,000 and $135,000 per hole. One company, which drilled fifty holes in the Signal Hill field, says its average expense was $125,000 per well.

YANCY MERIWETHER WRITES OF GERMANY

Washington,
Oct. 10, 1923.

Dear Mr. Aiken:

One whose knowledge of Germany is gleaned from newspapers and magazines alone might possess the idea that conditions there are exaggerated. He probably scoffs at the report that a nation of so industrious, thrifty people is sinking deeper into the mire of national insolvency, starvation and intellectual, scientific and industrial stagnation. But that is Germany today. Once a nation of efficient industries, remarkable institutions and exceptional financial stability, it is now a land of indifferent industries, sluggish institutions and a money system that reminds one of profit-sharing coupons. What it is the result of nobody has been able to truthfully say. It might be the French, it might be caused by the practices of selfish German industrial leaders and financial giants, or it might be the natural product of war on the modern scale. Whatever the cause the condition exists.

Although one who spends but eight days in a foreign country cannot be said to be an authority on the conditions existing in that country, he will, however, come away with impressions that are highly interesting if anything. This is especially so in regard to Germany at the present time. I was fortunate in being included in a group of college men of Washington and New York who signed on as members of the crew of the shipping board steamer George Washington for a trip to Bremen, sailing from New York. We left this country September 1 and after nine days on the water arrived without mishap in Bremerhaven, the seaport of Bremen. We went directly to Berlin, where we spent six days riding about the city in taxis and droschkes in the day and getting quite a look in into the celebrated night life of that wonderful place at night. Our hotel was in a part of the city known as Charlottenburg, and to get into the down town section on and about Unter den Linden we had to drive through the well known Tiergartens and through that section where many old palaces and theaters are found.

Long drives over miles of glass-like streets lined on either side with rows of stately old buildings, the foundations of which must have been laid hundreds of years back; strolls through gardens without equal the whole world over; evenings in old world cabarets and theaters; these are experiences that one is not likely to forget.

Of course conditions there are not at all the same as before 1914 and most of the parks and buildings are not kept up like they were then, yet I don't believe there is another city in the world so beautiful.

With the mark at 100,000,000 to the dollar we lived like millionaires! The larger hotels are demanding American or English money, but we found a small hotel in the suburbs where we had rooms at 15,000,000 mark or 15 cents. You'll have to admit that 15 cents a day is not an extortionate charge. Here are a few of the prices we paid:

Quart of Port wine (1726), M25,000,000 (25c).

Glass of the best beer, M1,000,000 (1c).

Dinner for seven in the best restaurant, Heidelberger, M350,000,000 ($3.50).

A 30-mile ride in two taxis to Potsdam, the Kaiser's palaces, M1,000,000,000 ($10.00).

Even though we lived like princes and were the object of hundreds of curious eyes (there are few Americans there now), still the sight of home looked better to us than all the cabarets and palaces of Germany. America has no Tiergartens, no Potsdam, no saloons and no wine shops, but America has something far better than these—security and real money.

ever and, since Palestine fumbled repeatedly, Crockett soon threatened to score, but the gray and red tightened up and the game resumed its evenness.

The Crockett boys showed lack of condition as the game progressed toward the close, and Palestine hammered time and again only to see Smith punt out of danger. Palestine's kicker chose several times to kick out of bounds rather than risk Captain King's returns. Palestine completed some beautiful passes, but the Crockett boys as often intercepted passes, and Starling and Smith drove her back with long spiral punts. Jack Hail did some great defensive and George Halyard kept the team fighting every minute. Robert King picked up a Palestine fumble and almost made a touch-down. The Palestine forwards blocked one of Smith's punts, but fumbled and Smith recovered. These were the nearest approaches to the goal lines.

Two attempts were made at field goals by each team, but none were successful. Besides those already mentioned, Sam Halyard, Ben Self, John Baker, T. D. Craddock, John R. Mainer, Harry Painter, John Milliken, Dutch Brewton and Ike Daniel did stellar work. In other words, every man Crockett sent in played great football with no grandstand, playing. For Palestine Captain Boggs and Thornall did the most consistent offensive work with their tackle around plays. Martin did some good broken-field running in returning punts. Palestine's defensive was good except in the center of the line. Crockett challenges Palestine to look out for her football laurels hereafter. Her winning streak is broken.

Crockett has a game pending with Madisonville for Friday, October 26 we play at Nacogdoches. The November schedule calls for games at Crockett with Jacksonville, Huntsville, Rusk and Groveton in the order named. So there will be plenty of

CROCKETT BOYS HOLD PALESTINE

Friday the Crockett Hi football team went to Palestine for the annual game—but not for the annual defeat. The boys said, "They shall not pass," and the game ended a scoreless tie.

Bobby Smith received the kick-off and returned the ball to our twenty-yard line. Bucks by Routledge and Starling swept Palestine back and made first down. Smith then drove the ball into Palestine's territory with a beautiful punt. Soon afterward Routledge went around left end for 20 yards. The half continued to be a punting duel, Smith having the edge. In the first half each side made but two first downs, one by Palestine coming after Crockett had drawn a penalty for off-side. Crockett had outplayed Palestine in the first half.

In the second half Starling received and returned the ball to the 40-yard line. The blue and white were just as scrappy as good games and every one is asked to come out and support his home team. Reporter.

HAPPINESS IN A COVERED WAGON.

Driving along down a country lane the other day we focused a picture on the screen of memory that will not blot out. By the roadside, under the shade of a tree, was a covered wagon, and the inmates of this highland schooner were resting at noon time. They were sitting on a bed in the rear of the wagon, clasped in each other's arms, a prattling babe was lying on the bed, kicking up its heels, and they were busily talking and cooing to that babe, oblivious of surroundings and road traffic. Yes, keeping house by the roadside, humble though it was, but it their castle on wheels. To it was hitched a pair of common plug ponies, harnessed with just common ordinary plow gears. On the rear of the wagon was a rocking chair, wash tub and a plain board cradle; underneath the wagon was the chicken coop, well filled with chickens, and of course they had a dog, and a cow and calf were lassoed to the hind gate of the wagon, and we expect that that was the extent of their earthly possessions. To get a better glimpse of this camp and the folks by the road side, we stopped our jitney and let on like there was something the matter with our motor; we raised the hood, fumbled around like we were fixing something, but all the while we were watching that housekeeping in a covered wagon. They never did see us, if so, they never let on. They were wrapped up in their own business, and a babe was the central figure in this canvassed home. We do not know where they were going, but West we expect, as the horses had their heads toward the setting sun. And I say, you fellows who ride in a limousine, live in a big house, have your land and cattle, bank stock and merchandise, do you think that you have all the pleasure in the world? If so, you have made a bad guess, as that house on wheels, out in the big open, camping by the road side, on the banks of a running brook, under the shadow of trees in the wild wood, care free, traveling west. And maybeso, as the years go by, he too, will live in a big house, own stocks and bonds, sit on the bench, go to congress, for out of the loins of the commonality come the rulers of men, the builders of empires and defenders of human liberty in the hour of stress—and so this picture of wedded bliss in a covered wagon on the road side lingers with us.—Albany News.

TAX-EATERS ONLY.

It is costing the taxpayers $3,500,000,000 a year to pay the salaries of 2,700,000 persons found to be on the pay rolls of the national, state and municipal governments of the United States. But this is not the whole or the worst of the story told by the national industrial conference board. It implies that the 2,700,000 officeholders share in the burden of their public employment, and this is not the fact.

Congress, even under the Sixteenth constitutional amendment, which empowers it to tax incomes "from whatever source derived," continues to exempt the salaried incomes of State and municipal employes as "instrumentalities" of local government. It does this by virtue of old decisions of the United States supreme court, which never had any reasonable ground to stand on and which were superseded by the Sixteenth amendment if they had had. At the same time the States and municipalities, by virtue of the same decisions, can not tax Federal government employes on their salaries, as they are "instrumentalities" of another government.

Probably not fewer than 1,700,000 of these 2,700,000 public servants are on the State and municipal pay rolls. All are tax-eaters exclusively as to their official incomes, but this major fraction is far more greatly privileged than the other. It escapes the Federal war and other income taxes which make up the great burden under which the American taxpayers now bend. If the 2,700,000 were taxed in common with citizens who have to pay them their official salaries, this burden would be very perceptibly lightened.

How much longer is congress to permit so glaring an injustice to continue? Congress can not blame the supreme court for it because congress has never given the supreme court a chance to pass on the question squarely, since the adoption of the Sixteenth amendment.—New York World.

THE SLANDERER.

Thou shalt not bear false witness. Thou shalt not lie. Thou shalt not misrepresent thy neighbor. Thou shalt not convey slanderous gossip and reports.

The man who whispers about his neighbor is the most contemptible cur on earth. He is a coward, a cur and a villain of the deepest dye. The man who gossips is a natural born, constitutional liar, and meaner, blacker and nearer the condition of hell than any criminal about whom he may be gossiping. No gossip should ever be believed. A gossiping woman is the biggest liar on God's earth, and a gossiping man is a burning torch from hell. Any one who would believe either of them is such an infamous fool that the board of alienists ought to send him to the asylum at once.

If one is compelled to speak in uncomplimentary terms of another, he should go to that individual and make his remarks to him personally and directly. He should never speak about him behind his back unless he can speak in complimentary and commendatory terms.

The idle gossip has done more to wreck the peace and happiness of good people and bring shame and sorrow to society than any other brute that has ever lived. He is more filthy than a slimy snake. He is more dangerous than the poisonous asp. He is more hellish than Satan wants him to be.

Thousands of innocent girls and pure women have been injured by the tongue of the gossip, by the mouth of the slanderer, by the words of cowards. The gossip, the slanderer, and the bearer of filthy reports should be banished from society, driven from every community, and repudiated by every virtuous man and woman in the world. Away with the slanderer!—Ex.

If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never attempt to force a man into it. If love will not compel him to come, leave him to God, the judge of all.—John Wesley.
