HUNTSVILLE MEETS CROCKETT FRIDAY

Crockett suffered her second defeat of the season Friday at the hands of Jacksonville. It was a muddy battle, and fast play was impossible, yet good football was in evidence and the best team won. One touchdown was made by Jarret returning a partially blocked punt. A successful pass netted the seventh point. In the third quarter, forward passes carried the ball to Crockett's four-yard line. At the beginning of the fourth quarter, three backs lost ground, but a pass made the touchdown and another pass added the extra point, making the final score 14 to 0. For Jacksonville Barber and Dodge played an excellent game.

Crockett's most consistent players were Starling and Captain King in the backfield and Milliken, Mainer and George Halyard in the line. George Halyard is probably the best center in east Texas high school football. Smith, Self and Pratt, ends; Hail and Routledge halves, and Sam Halyard at tackle show-up well. No Crockett man failed to play good football, but the boys just had a better team to contend with. The Crockett boys are improving and more good men are showing up every week.

Huntsville, after a scoreless tie with Conroe, will come to Crockett tomorrow to play the local eleven. Huntsville has been defeated only once this season, that by Livingston. So a great game is looked for as neither team is anxious to lose. The Crockett boys do not intend for Mayes, Mayfield, McAdams, or any one else to be the hero of a Huntsville triumph on November 9. So be at the fair grounds and root for the blue and white.

Editor Courier:

School is progressing nicely. Little Taylor Manville, age 6, was seriously hurt one day last week by a lumber wagon. One arm was broken and his head badly bruised, but he is recovering nicely.

The school planned a carnival for November 3, but on account of bad weather they postponed it until November 10th. Every one is invited to come.

Mr. Ball, the principal of our school, was a week-end visitor at his home in Maydelle.

J. B. Mulligan, from Atlanta, Ga., is visiting his uncle, Mr. A. B. Mulligan.

Miss Lola Belle Anderson, one of our teachers, was a week-end visitor at her home in Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Brister have moved back to their home. We are glad to have them.

The young ladies organized a Baptist Missionary Society October 28. The first regular meeting would have been November 10, but on account of preparing for the school carnival we will postpone it until November 17. We ask all of the young ladies and women to meet us at the Baptist church on the said date.

President, Miss Amanda Stell; vice president, Miss Anderson; secretary and treasurer, Miss Effie Cook.

Campaign for Educational Institutions.

I have read with considerable interest the announcement in the press that the Southern Presbyterians in this state have launched a campaign for $1,350,000 for their educational institutions. The announcement is particularly pleasing to the former students of Austin College at Sherman, one of the beneficiaries. I understand that Austin College will receive at least $300,000 for endowment and equipment in addition to a sum sufficient to pay all indebtedness.

Austin College has a wonderful history. It is one of the oldest institutions of learning in Texas and next year it will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee. It was founded at a time when the Presbyterians were very weak in Texas. There were less than 1,000 members and yet with wisdom and courage the pioneers of the Lone Star State decided that the great need of Texas was a Christian College. It has turned out leaders in the State and Nation, Christian leaders not only among the Presbyterians but in other denominations. All Texas is proud of Austin College and all who are interested in Christian education should support this great campaign, regardless of denomination.

Yours very truly,
A. A. Aldrich.

JUST A WORD WITH OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Due to the bad weather of last week, the Courier's list of subscription renewals is not as large as last week's list. Any falling off in the list is always due to bad weather—any increase, to a good newspaper, always. Let us hope for good weather and work for a better newspaper.

Off to the Pen.

A penitentiary transfer agent stopped over in Crockett Sunday and escorted the following prisoners to Huntsville: Tom Davis, 99 years for murder; Jim Stubblefield, a term for moonshining, and Jim Williams, a term for bootlegging. Davis and Stubblefield are white and Williams is a negro. The penitentiary agent handcuffed the negro to his hand satchel and told him to carry it. He took no chances with Davis, but held on to his cuff chain. Stubblefield was permitted to buy his own ticket and go without handcuffs or fetters of any kind. It is said that Stubblefield wished to pay his own way and deliver himself to the penitentiary officials without being in the custody of an officer.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

The criminal docket of the Houston county district court shows transaction of business in that court during the last week as follows:

Jim Stubblefield, manufacturing whisky; case affirmed in the higher court and the defendant gone to the penitentiary.

Will Coburn, transporting whisky; case affirmed in the higher court.

Jim Williams, negro, selling whisky; case affirmed in the higher court and the defendant taken to the penitentiary.

Will Love, murder; verdict of not guilty.

Jesse B. Allen, murder; verdict of not guilty.

The defendants above named are negroes and were tried for killing other negroes in the Trinity river country.

Tom Davis, murder; sentenced to the penitentiary for 99 years and transferred Sunday by prison officer.

Only non-jury civil cases are being tried in the district court this week.

Serious Accident.

At the beginning of the football game Friday afternoon, one of the players on the Jacksonville team, Arch Adams Jr., met with a serious accident in which he sustained a broken leg. The accident occurred during the first scrimmage of the game. The young man was taken to the operating room of Drs. Stokes & Wootters where it was found that the bone was badly fractured above the knee. After the fractured leg had been dressed and bandaged by the doctors, the injured football player was taken to the residence of J. L. Jordan where he remained until Saturday when his father, Mr. Arch Adams of Jacksonville, came and returned home with him. It was announced that the young man would be placed in a hospital until his leg has fully recovered. It is needless to say that the accident was a most regrettable one.

Will Drill Deeper.

Col. T. E. Otis, since his return from California, has announced that the Driskell well will be cleaned out and drilled deeper. This well has a stuck drill stem at a depth of 4000 feet. Cleaning the well will be started immediately and preparations for deeper drilling are being made. Col. Otis is of the belief that the oil indications justify the expense of cleaning the well and going deeper. He believes that his company will yet be rewarded with a good oil well. A contract for cleaning the well has been made and fuel for deeper drilling is being placed on the ground.

Married at Mt. Pleasant.

H. F. Moore Jr., accompanied by his father, Mr. H. F. Moore, left Sunday for Mt. Pleasant where H. F. Moore Jr. was married on Tuesday of this week to Miss Margaret King of Winfield. The bride is one of north Texas' most popular young ladies, talented and pretty. A recent graduate of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, she is popular with students of that university from all sections. The bridegroom is the second son of Mr. H. F. Moore. Crockett is the place of his birth and Crockett has been his home always, with the exception of three years in the army during the world war and a period following with a Mt. Pleasant bank. He is now connected in an official capacity with the First National Bank of Crockett, and is in the enjoyment of a large acquaintance and friendship. Mr. and Mrs. Moore left Mt. Pleasant Tuesday for St. Louis on their bridal trip, after which they will be at home in Crockett to receive the congratulations and best wishes of our people.

HOUSTON COUNTY GINNERS' REPORT

The department of commerce at Washington, through the bureau of the census, announces the preliminary report on cotton ginned by Texas counties from the crops of 1923 and 1922. The total for the state was made public at 10 a. m., Thursday, October 25, and was for cotton ginned prior to October 18. The totals for Texas were: 3,217,816 prior to October 18, 1923, and 2,641,318 prior to the same date in 1922. The totals for Houston county are 28,760 prior to date, 1923, and 20,695 prior to date, 1922. The Houston county crop this year is almost three for every two last year. Of the east Texas counties Houston county is the second largest producer of cotton, being exceeded only by Smith county, which had ginned 29,994 bales prior to October 18 this year. Of our neighboring counties, Cherokee comes second to Houston county with a report of 22,080 bales. Anderson follows Cherokee with 20,625 bales, Leon next with 18,069 bales, Madison with 11,024 bales, then Walker with 8,466 bales, Trinity with 5,538 bales and Angelina with 5,087 bales. Ellis county leads the state with a report of 98,845 and is followed by Williamson with 95,756. Thirty-five counties in Texas have more cotton than Houston county and 135 report less. Counties in Houston county's class as to cotton production are: DeWitt, Hopkins and Robertson.

BALDHEADS IN POLITICS.

The Richmond News Leader finds that most of the dictators of Europe today are bald-headed and is inclined to attach significance to it.

But, "laying all jokes to one side," as Ring Lardner would say, it isn't hair or the lack of it that signifies mental power—it's the arrangement of brain cells within the head that counts.

It isn't the size of the body, either, that signifies brain power or lack of it. Lloyd George and Foch are conspicuously small; Clemenceau is by no means a large man; Woodrow Wilson is above the average in height, but is sparebuilt. The biggest thing about the late Henrik Ibsen, great dramatist, was his head.

An uncontrolled pituitary gland makes physical monstrosities, like circus giants, whose heads are bigger than the heads of anybody else, yet their mental powers may be low. We have seen dullards with bulging high foreheads, and marked intellectuality in heads with sloping foreheads.

A well developed neck is more indicative of physical vigor than of mental power, as every professional wrestler knows, but contrary to the belief of many.—Montgomery Advertiser.

WHY NOT GET THAT HIGHWAY AID?

The people of the Belott-Weches road district are fortunate in that they are situated on a highway designated to receive both national and state aid. The amount of highway aid they will receive depends on the type of road to be constructed. If the road is of the highest type, they will receive three-fourths the cost of construction. They will receive three dollars for every dollar voted in bonds. If constructed of another type, they will receive two dollars for every dollar voted in bonds. If constructed of still another type, they will receive dollar for dollar for their bond tax money. In view of the fact that they are going to have the only bad piece of road left on the San Antonio road between the Louisiana line and Bryan, Texas, if their bond issue does not carry, the Courier does not see why the bond issue now proposed should not receive the favorable consideration of the taxpayers of the Belott, Creath and Weches district. You people out there stand for progress in your community affairs, and your public roads are inseparably linked with your churches, schools and lodges. A point not to be overlooked is that all roads are to be maintained by the state highway department when once constructed.

CUISINE.

The imagination can work wonders. A lady at one of the picture shows the other night asked her husband to take her home when a cooking scene in the picture showed a woman cooking hash. The lady said the smell of onions always made her sick.—Palestine Herald.

The lady in question certainly had a delicate sense of olfaction. But why should any exhibitor in his right mind show a cooking scene to a mixed audience? It would seem that everybody by this time would know that when a lady goes to a picture show, or any other diversion, she wants to erase from her mind all culinary memories, especially hash. The whole tendency of our social organism at this time is away from the kitchen. We are building "apartments" with kitchens too small to accommodate any utensil larger than a can opener. The modern kitchen is called a kitchenette, which means an alcove in the corner of the room where a toy stove and a doll's table are kept for exhibition purposes. The occupants of the kitchenette apartment live on bananas all week with the exception of Sunday dinner, which they take in a public restaurant where they meet other kitchenettes. There is one good feature about the modern way of living, however. When the wedded pair get their divorce it doesn't take them two minutes to divide the community property. When State Press becomes king he will make it hard on the kitchenettes. He will allow only one family under one roof, and make the husband bring home the bacon and the wife cook it. When S. P. becomes king he won't stand for any foolishness. We will permit no compromise between a regular home and a perch to roost on.—State Press in Dallas News.

Our Roads the Worst.

Mr. Sam Tufner and party have returned from their automobile trip to Texarkana. Mr. Turner said he found the worst roads on his whole trip to be in Houston county. Mr. Turner says we have too good a county to not have any better roads.

Horse Sense.

A Kansas school teacher was drilling her composition class in the relative value of words and phrases, says an exchange. The phrase "horse sense" was discussed, and she told one of the boys to write a sentence containing that phrase. The boy labored for ten minutes, and produced this: "My father didn't lock the barn door, and he ain't seen the horse sense."

A Buick for Business

With its roadsters for 1924, Buick has again created a new standard of roadster utility and attractiveness. Nor can the appearance of this four-cylinder two-passenger model convey in full its story. ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines, thus enters upon a wider field of popularity,—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.— (Adv.) 13t.

NEWSPAPER COURAGE.

In few lines of human endeavor is real courage so necessary as in that of running a small newspaper. There are various kinds of courage—moral courage, business courage, and physical courage—and our profession at one time or another requires them all.

Moral courage is required in deciding what to print, and sometimes it is equally necessary in deciding what not to print. Physical courage is occasionally necessary to defend what we have printed, but such instances are nowadays, due to more temperate expression on the part of the press, as well as to the modern tendency to accept moderate criticism without feeling the urge to "lick the editor."

Moral and physical courage, however, are characteristic of many newspaper men in whom the element of business courage is needed every day of our lives if we are to maintain respect as business men.

We fear to charge a fair price; fear to offend an unreasonable customer; fear to maintain consistent business policies regardless of immediate consequences.

Through weak and vacillating concessions for sake of expediency, we accept business on many terms the customer may dictate—often at an actual loss—thus assuring our own financial ruin, or at best a precarious hand-to-mouth existence.

While other business men unhesitatingly raise prices whenever costs make such a course necessary, many publishers of small newspapers accept unprofitable rates year in and year out, for fear of losing a little gross business.

Fear that some merchant may cut out his advertising hangs over them like nightmare. They toil on, hoping that some miracle may save them from ruin, knowing full well that the miracle will not occur. Yet a little courage might bring success.

There are but three reasons, ordinarily, for a newspaper failure—incompetency, lack of courage or an impossible field.

Incompetency may be overcome by experience and hard work; a poor field may usually be developed—but without courage, especially business courage, a newspaper man is foredoomed to grief, and the sooner he gets out of the game the better for all concerned.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

"HELPING THE FARMERS."

It is a matter of common knowledge that some classes of farmers are very hard up. This is especially true of some wheat growers of the Middle West and some fruit growers of California. It appears that some farm products have been exported which are not being paid for by foreign buyers. The latest proposal is that Government shall buy these claims against foreigners for cash and try and collect them. The President is said to be considering it. Maybe the cotton growers and wool growers would buy the accounts. They are well fixed.

Most of the talk about the distress of farmers is political bunk in bidding for votes. Doubtless, however, there are cases of real distress. Why not give us details? If we had even two or three hundred statements fairly distributed we should understand the trouble. Essential items would be such as would show whether the cause of trouble is, or is not, foolish prices paid for property which cannot earn interest, or foolish rental agreements, wages or a standard of living which farming cannot support, production in excess of possible markets, or what the trouble is.

If it was the fault of speculative investments or engagements by individuals, farmers, like others in similar situations, must expect to bear the loss as individuals. If otherwise the facts should be shown.—San Francisco Chronicle.

CITY JUDGE SAYS NO MORE LENIENCY

Palentine, Texas, Oct. 27.—City Judge Guy T. Robinson made an announcement from the bench this morning, during the holding of the usual session of the corporation court, that in future people brought before him for trial on charges of violating traffic laws would be tried, and pleas of guilty or defense action would be required. The judge said he felt that sufficient warnings and notice had been given auto drivers, and that in future there would be no excuses on claims of not knowing the law.

Here are some simple rules of law:

It is a violation to stop your car, for even a minute, in the street. If you are stopping for any purpose drive your car to the curb, except on Spring street, where the parking is in the center of street.

It is a violation to stop your car within fifteen feet or less of a corner at intersection of streets or fire hydrants.

It is a violation of law to drive to the left of the markers at street intersections.

It is a violation of law to speed.

It is a violation to drive a car at night without the required number of lights.

It is a violation of law to leave your car even temporarily with the motor running.

These are simple rules, easily remembered, and they are necessary for the safety of traffic.

The work has the unanimous endorsement of the Synod of Texas and the support of the ministers throughout the state. Headquarters have been established in Dallas and a canvass will be made of the entire state within the next nine months.

MADISON COUNTY VOTES HUGE GOOD ROADS BOND ISSUE

$300,000 WILL BE SPENT IMPROVING SAN ANTONIO LINK.

Nacogdoches, Texas, Oct. 30.—The "Camino Real" or Old San Antonio road, extending from Natchitoches, La., to San Antonio and points beyond, will receive a new link of 36 miles of hard-surfaced highway as a result of the decisive vote of Madison county where a bond issue of $300,000 was authorized for this purpose, according to a phone message from Judge P. Ferguson, county judge of Madison county, to the Nacogdoches chamber of commerce.

Judge Ferguson stated that as a result of the authorized bond issue, his county would spend approximately $13,500 per mile in building the road across Madison county from Clapps Ferry on the Trinity to the Democrat crossing on the Navasota river, and that Madison and Houston counties had assurances from the State highway commission that a steel bridge costing approximately $140,000 would be built across the Trinity at Clapps Ferry. County Judge LeRoy Moore of Houston county confirmed this statement, and stated that Houston county lacked only one mile of having the road built from Crockett west to Clapps Ferry. Also, Judge Moore stated that an order for a bond issue of $80,000 for extending this road east from Crockett to the Cherokee county line would be ordered this week. The San Antonio road enters Texas at Old Pendleton, on the Sabine river, and is the main highway to the west for Sabine, San Augustine, Nacogdoches, Cherokee, Houston and Madison counties. This road is now hard-surfaced through the first four counties, and the prospect of getting the 18-mile gap in Houston county and the entire distance through Madison county hard-surfaced is of great interest and concern to the people living east of the Brazos on this historic road. Judge Horace Ferguson of Brazos county states that his people will meet the Madison county highway on the east, and will construct a hard-surfaced road through Brazos county by way of Bryan to the Caldwell county line.

The Lone Star Trail, an ocean-to-ocean highway, enters Texas from the east at Old Pendleton, and will follow the old San Antonio road as far as Altq, Cherokee county.

Kasch Cotton Seed

I have been looking ahead for sometime to get better seed for you and have been successful in obtaining a car of the celebrated Kasch variety at a price that should be an inducement for every farmer in the county to raise them another year. A better yield, a better turn out, a better lint, about 10 days earlier than the earliest.

This car was raised by a seed breeder in San Patricio county, near the Corpus Christi bay coast. Get them now while you can get them at the right price. Delay means pay more.

They can be had from R. L. Shivers, Moore & Shivers or at my place.

THE BIG ANIMAL SHOW IS COMING

Steaming this way on their own special train enlarged to five times its former size, on a coast to coast tour, including Canada, playing every city of importance in North America, offering all that is new, novel and up-to-date in the presentation of trained wild beast performances, Christy Brothers' Four-Ring Wild Animal Exposition will exhibit in Crockett Monday, November 12, giving two performances only, afternoon at two and evening at eight o'clock.

Hundreds of wild and domestic animals, all highly educated and finished actors, presenting their performance with clocklike precision. Among the feature of the animal numbers are Christy Brothers' $10,000 group of performing Black-Maned African Lions. A group of performing Black Bears showing almost human intelligence in the presentation of their many displays. The World-Famous Mixed Group of performing elephants, zebras, horses and dogs, a combination never before successfully trained exhibited; and the marvelous performance by pretty dancing ponies, beautiful high school and menage horses, aerial monkeys, riding dogs, goats and sheep are but a few of the many nevelties offered.

For the kids from six to sixty, Christy Brothers have mobilized all the nobility of Clownland into one vast army of fun makers, and the skits, sketches and travesties offered by these famous gloom chasers create an endless chain of real health-giving laughter of the better sort. Scores of famous aerial stars present a series of daring and sensational evolutions in mid-air, combined with the skillful performances of wire walkers, acrobats, and up-side down performers, round out a program of sterling worth never before offered by any traveling organization. In addition to the wonderful acts and displays presented by the animals, that department offers a most complete study in zoology which is a valuable asset to the children's schooling and adult's knowledge.

Competent lecturers conduct personal tourists through the animal department, giving the history of each and every specimen and their habits. A monster free attraction takes place on the show grounds preceding the opening of the doors for both the afternoon and evening performances. Every child visiting the afternoon performance will be given a free pony or elephant ride, special attendants caring for the kiddies.

FALLACY OF SINGLE-CROPPING.

During the recent conferences of the International Farm Congress at Kansas City, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told his audience that although farmers in general throughout the United States and Canada were suffering from depressed markets, it was nevertheless true that those farmers who practiced diversification came through the period of stress in best condition. Those who "put all their eggs in one basket," as the wheat growers have done, for instance, were hit the hardest. Wherever farmers practice diversification they at least find a profitable market for something grown on the farm. Also, by growing the things necessary to their own living and by raising the feed for their live stock they find themselves better off than if they had been compelled to buy food and feed.

It is the old lesson, which The Farm News has preached these many years, to be as nearly independent as possible by being in position through good farm management to become independent of the supply merchant, as far as possible. It is an old story and one which some farmers do not care to be told again and again, yet it is the essence of rural security and prosperity.

In the case of the wheat raisers, who continue to raise enormous wheat crops regardless of restricted market demands, it is largely their own fault that they find themselves in trouble. True, wheat is a much simpler crop to raise than cotton or corn, and many farmers have been led into temptation in an effort to make as good a living from a four months' effort a year as from a twelve months' effort, as is demanded by dairy farming or live stock raising.

Among farmers of the Nation the cotton growers are better off at present than almost any other class engaged in a one-crop farming system. But it also is true that cotton farmers, who have their cotton crop as a surplus over their essential food and feed crops, are better off, as a rule, than the one-crop cotton farmers who have to spend their cotton money for necessities which could have been raised at home. As a whole, cotton at present occupies a stronger position in the economic index than any other crop, but this should not induce farmers to quit growing everything else and rush into cotton. To expand the acreage of cotton too greatly will bring about troublous conditions just as surely as the hard times for the wheat raisers were due to their one-sided farming operations.

The man who divides his farming practices into major and minor operations, and who raises some corn and other feed to provide for his work stock and to fatten a few hogs, cattle and sheep, who keeps a flock of productive chickens and a garden from which he draws the major portion of his food for his family, in every way is a better farmer in the last analysis than one who comes to grief because he was led astray by the allurements of what seemed a profitable one-crop.

It is the first business of a farm to make a living for its owner and those who live on it. This includes the animals which work the farm. Highly specialized farming, as a rule, does not pay in the long run. Not even in the famous irrigated sections of the West, where cotton of superior quality was grown year after year with no apparent let-up in demand, have farmers weathered the storm without serious losses. Thousands of acres which have been planted to cotton in recent years in Arizona and California today are back in alfalfa, corn, feed crops and fruits.—Dallas News.

IN THIS AGE OF SHODDY.

Edward Bok has related that once some years ago being anxious to see how college graduates acquitted themselves as letter writers, he wrote to the graduates of the year of six of the leading women's colleges in the country, asking them what, in their opinion, were the advantages that they had derived from a college education. The ability to write a good letter was, Mr. Bok considered, a fundamental of education, and the replies of the college graduates were solicited not so much for the purpose of learning the views of these young women as of obtaining evidence of their power in the art of letter writing.

The first hundred replies received were handed over to a highly qualified teacher of English to grade according to merit, the passing mark to be the high school standard of 70. Three letters only were graded 90 to 100; seventeen were graded 80 to 90; forty-five were graded 70 to 80; thirty-five were below the 70 mark, while not one single letter was wholly correct.

In addition to bad spelling, incorrect punctuation and a most lamentable absence of "style," the writers, in a large proportion of cases, exhibited a complete inability to express their meaning in written words. Here, for example, is the opening sentence of one such letter:

Newton to me, is the one college, because of its Presidents, the many men on the Faculty, the intimate relations into which we come with the Faculty, etc.

Small wonder that the question intruded if indeed the writer had quite so pronounced a taste for male society as her letter would lead one to believe.

And here is another, the punctuation and setting-out being reproduced as written:

I send you a reply but do not know whether it be what you want or not.

College has done for me.

1. Physically—not sick so much.

2. Socially—much the same.

3. Intellectually—Here, oh here is the change—I have been led to view the particular in the light of the universal and thus have gained joy forevermore.

The sentiments of these letters, had their writers only been able to express them, would no doubt be found to be both beautiful and inspiring; but judged merely as letters they are ignoble. Evidently, the young ladies were not in agreement with Voltaire's dictum on the art of writing that "everything that is not equally clear, chaste and simple is worth absolutely nothing;" but at least their letters, coming as they did, from two finished products of the higher education, served to demonstrate that singular deterioration in the art of letter writing which is admitted so frequently and explained so seldom.—New York Times.

Lions Have Visitors.

At the regular noonday luncheon of the Lions' Club Wednesday, the visitors were Messrs. W. D. Granberry, W. G. Darsey and A. H. Luker of Grapeland. Asked to tell the Lions something of Grapeland, they told of their aims in the matter of securing good roads in the Grapeland section and asked Crockett to meet them half way.

The committee appointed to confer with the Shakespeare Club made its report, and it is almost certain that Crockett will have an auditorium and library building, with rest rooms, on the Shakespeare lot in front of the Baptist church. The club is indebted to Miss Nell Beasley for piano music.

"Masters of Men."

An all star cast will be seen in "Masters of Men," the great sea picture which will be shown at the Crockett Theatre here Dec. 16 and 17, headed by Earle Williams, Alice Calhoun, Cullen Landis and Wanda Hawley. These screen favorites are provided with a smashing story, full of sympathetic heart interest and he-man conflict.

"Masters of Men" is pictured by C. Graham Baker from Morgan Robertson's novel of that name. It is a story of a boy's mastery of the primordial instincts with which every male child is born and his development into a real man's man.

RELICS FOUND NEAR ATOY.

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Dallas Times-Herald, above which was a picture of the subjects of the item:

"When Chief Atoy of the Cherokees fought his last battle and started on his trip to the Happy Hunting Ground his squaws and his medicine men, according to the tribal custom, saw to it that he was amply provided with food and drink laid conveniently by his grave.

The washing rains of East Texas wore the soil off the chief's tomb and W. Gates recently plowed up the earthen ware receptacles that had been laid in the grave. Mr. Gates found the Indian graveyard on his farm at Atoy, eight miles southeast of Rusk, in Cherokee County. He brought the specimens here to place them on exhibit at the Fair but arrived too late to find room.

Mr. Gates has lived on the farm where the articles were found sixty years but only during the last year or two has he plowed up any Indian relics. With only a little excavation he unearthed a fine collection of well preserved pottery made by the Cherokees who seemed to be a little farther advanced than most American Indians. It is believed that they learned a few lessons from the more highly civilized Aztecs of Mexico.

The receptacles taken from the picture were found grouped around a skeleton that had been given special attention at burial. One of the arrowheads shown in the picture is probably the largest ever found in Texas. It undoubtedly was used by none other than Chief Atoy himself for whom the modern village of Atoy is named."

Blame It On the Printer.

Hubby: "Of course, dear, it's only a rough idea of mine, but do you think it's possible that there's ever such a thing as a printer's error in that cookery manual of yours?"

OLD STAGE ROUTES OF TEXAS.

Long before the days of automobiles, travelers in Texas were carried over the then existing highways in stages. How important these stages were to the people can be inferred when we read in old records that in the early days of the Republic there were 30 stage lines operating in Texas, of which one ran from San Diego and another from Sherman, Texas, to St. Louis. These stages for a long time were the only means of intercourse between "Texas and the United States," and were valued accordingly.

In the Texas almanac of 1857 we find mention made of the following Stage Lines:

Travelers leaving Galveston can, by steamboat, go to Liberty, and thence, by four-horse coaches, via Smithfield, Livingston, Moscow, and Sumpter to Crockett.

The same point can be arrived at by steamboat to Houston, thence by Central and Houston Railroad to Cypress; thence by four-horse coaches via Rosehill, Montgomery, Huntsville and Cincinnati.

At Crockett four-horse coaches go to Nacogdoches, via Alto and Douglas; also from Crockett, via Palestine and Kickapoo, to Tyler.

From Nacogdoches four-horse coaches, via Mellrose, San Augustine, Milam and Sabine Town, to Alexandria, in Louisiana.

Also from Nacogdoches, to Waco, via Rusk, Palestine, Fairfield, and Springfield.

Also from Nacogdoches, via Crockett, Huntsville, Washington and Independence, to Brenham.

Also from Nacogdoches four-horse coaches, via Mt. Enterprise, Henderson, and Camden, to Marshall, and thence to Shreveport, La.

From Huntsville, two-horse hacks, via Matisonville, Leona, Centerville, Fairfield, and Corsicana, to Waxahachie, striking at this latter point the great Northern Mail from San Antonio to Clarksville.

From Henderson, two-horse hacks, via London, Tyler, Bayet's Ferry, Athens, Corsicana, and Dresden, to Waco, striking then the Great Northern Mail.

From Marshall, four-horse coaches, via Jefferson, Daingerfield and Mount Pleasant, to Clarksville.

From Marshall, also to Tyler. Also, from Shreveport, via Marshall, Henderson and Rusk, to Crockett.

It is worthy of note that these stages ran on regular schedules except when delayed by flooded streams or Indian raids. The stage driver was quite a character, being a skilled driver, a good Indian fighter, a jolly companion and a generally resourceful individual with good judgment and iron nerves. Big Foot Wallace at one time drove a stage between San Antonio and El Paso.

These stage lines had relay stations at which the tired horses were replaced with fresh ones. On the shorter routes there were regular stopping places for meals and for lodging, but on the trips across the plains the stages traveled night and day regardless of sand storms, rains or blizzards, and few were the opportunities to get anything to eat, so travelers generally carried their rations along with them. After a week or two spent on a stage, a traveller became so accustomed to the jolting that he could sleep in his seat. General Anson Mills, who made such a trip from El Paso to Washington, D. C., in 1861, was so tired when he reached California, the terminal at that time of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, that he fell asleep in the station and slept continuously for nearly 24 hours thus missing his train.

THE MAN WHO IS ON TIME.
There is just one thing in life which makes excuses unnecessary, and that is punctuality in appointments and work. The individual who has learned the lesson of punctuality has found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. There is no doubt in his mind as to which end of the rainbow that elusive vessel may always be found.
There is nothing startling about him and unless you observe his habits most carefully you will probably never learn the secret of his success. There is just one trait of this type of human being which stands out above all others and distinguishes him from the common herd. That trait is his habit to be on time—to be always in the neighborhood when the good things are passed around, not trusting to the "luck in leisure," but having faith in the "fortunes of work."—Denison Herald.

A New One on Daniel.

Isabel, aged nine, had just been told the story of Daniel in the lions' den. Then mother asked: "And what do you think Daniel did the very first thing after he was saved from the lions?" Without much hesitation, Isabel replied, "Why, he must have telephoned home to his wife to tell her he was all right."
