N. Y. WORLD, DAVIS SUPPORTER, STATES COOLIDGE ELECTED

President Leads in New York, Illinois and Other Republican Strongholds.

New York, Nov. 4.—The New York World, which supported the candidacy of John W. Davis, conceded the election of President Coolidge shortly after 9 o'clock tonight. The same newspaper at that hour predicted that Governor Smith would carry New York State by 150,000.

The New York Times, which supported the candidacies of John W. Davis and Governor Smith, conceded shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday night the election of Governor Smith and President Coolidge.

New York, Nov. 4.—On the basis of present returns and unless later figures show a reversal of the trend now established, President Coolidge's election seems assured.

Overwhelming pluralities were reported for the president in New York, Illinois and Ohio, with Davis and La Follette running far behind. In many instances Coolidge is polling as many votes as his two opponents combined.

Returns beginning to come in from New York City districts fail to show enough Davis strength to offset the avalanche which Coolidge swept over him up-State. Latest totals on this up-State vote, covering 353 precincts, give Coolidge 102,000, Davis 40,000, La Follette 35,000. In the metropolitan district, Coolidge even showed a comfortable lead in Queens, where he received 34,000 against 23,000 for Davis and 12,000 for La Follette. At this rate, Coolidge will sweep the State by a big margin.

In Illinois, Coolidge has established a long lead. Even in Cook county, he showed up with 41,000 votes against 17,000 for Davis and 12,000 for La Follette in the first 180 precincts to report. The Chicago Journal, a democratic organ, has already

HEAVY VOTE CAST AND 'MA' IS LEADING

Country Districts Report "Ma" Leading Her Opponent by Good Margin.

Houston, Nov. 5.—At 9 p. m. Mrs. Ferguson was leading Dr. Butte less than 2 to 1, indicating that the democratic nominee had not made the usual runaway race in the general election. Returns at this time were largely from the territory easily approachable to Dallas, from which point the vote is being sent broadcast by the Texas Election bureau. This territory was expected to give Mrs. Ferguson the usual democratic majorities.

At 9 p. m. incomplete returns from 217 towns and cities had been tabulated with the following result:

Coolidge, 18,383; Davis, 72,349; La Follette, 4670.
Butte, 47,870; Ferguson, 73,270.

For amendment, 24,877; against amendment, 9129.

conceded the election of Coolidge, giving the president and the whole republican ticket in Illinois the election.

Coolidge seemed almost certain of Ohio's electoral vote, assuming that the early ratio continued. Scattered returns from Cleveland, Akron, Toledo and other industrial centers showed Coolidge with 18,000; La Follette second with 6606, and Davis with 5250. These are the localities in which the La Follette and Davis votes were expected to pile up heaviest.

In Indiana, the get-away was about the same. In Marion County, which includes Indianapolis, starting off with 10,000 against 6,000 for Davis, Coolidge was running slightly ahead of Jackson, the klan endorsed republican candidate for governor.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

Proceedings in the Houston county district court during the last week have been as follows:

T. J. Maples vs. W. T. Bruton; passed until Monday, November 17.

Booker T. Richardson, rape; special venire excused.

Jim Singletary, murder; two years in penitentiary. Jim Singletary is a negro and was tried for killing a negro.

T. B. Duncan, transporting liquor; three years in penitentiary, motion for new trial overruled and notice of appeal given. Duncan was convicted last week for transporting liquor, which he had in an enclosed Dodge car when arrested by Sheriff Hale in Crockett. He was said to be from Houston.

The grand jury will reconvene Wednesday, November 12, to complete its labors.

HOUSTON COUNTY STILL DEMOCRATIC

Houston county remains in the democratic column. While returns from over the county were not available Wednesday, enough was known to insure democratic victory for those who remained loyal to all nominees. One Crockett box gave a small majority for the republican candidate for governor. That was Crockett voting box No. 1, comprising the northeast portion of the city. In this box there were 267 votes cast, 138 of which were for Dr. Butte and 129 for Mrs. Ferguson, the democratic nominee for governor.

The remaining three Crockett voting boxes gave majorities for Mrs. Ferguson. In box No. 2 the vote was 133 for Mrs. Ferguson and 60 for Dr. Butte. No. 3 proved to be the banner democratic box. In this box Mrs. Ferguson received 219 votes while Dr. Butte received 87. In Crockett voting precinct No. 4, which lies opposite No. 1, Mrs. Ferguson received 126 votes and Dr. Butte 100.

Of the total number of votes cast in the four boxes at Crockett, Dr. Butte received 385 while the democratic nominee, Mrs. Ferguson, received 607 votes, if the Courier has not got its figures mixed.

On account of the election returns not being yet open for inspection or counting, the Courier has made no attempt to give any other vote than that for governor, and has given only the vote cast for the democratic and the republican nominees.

While the returns are not all in and only partially counted, enough is known to insure the election of Mrs. Ferguson by a good, safe, democratic majority. But the national ticket did not fare so well. Coolidge, the republican nominee for president, is re-elected, defeating Davis, democrat, who is running second, and La Follette, independent, running third. That is with reference to the national vote. In Texas Davis led Coolidge with a big majority, and Coolidge has a large lead over La Follette.

While the head of the nation will be republican, the head of Texas remains in the democratic column.

MRS. ROSS LEADING IN WYOMING

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 5.—The election of Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, democrat, widow of the late Governor Ross, to the governorship of Wyoming was conceded Wednesday afternoon by the Wyoming State Tribune. The vote stood Ross 17,772, Sullivan 14,207.

Although Mrs. Ross apparently had carried her party to victory in the fight for the governorship, President Coolidge is leading Davis with a safe margin and carrying all of the senatorial and congressional candidates of his party with him.

Freight Yards Congested.

So much freight is being received and forwarded at Crockett now that the freight yards have become very much congested, so much so that more than ten hours' time was required for switching the yards Wednesday. Thirty-seven carloads of freight were received at the Crockett station Wednesday, and that is no unusual number to be received or forwarded in a single day.

Sang for the Lions.

Mrs. D. O. Kiessling, Miss Clarite Elliott and Miss Eliza McConnell sang at the luncheon of the Lions' Club Wednesday at noon. Following the luncheon a vote of thanks was tendered the musicians for their kindness in adding to the enjoyment of the luncheon. Mrs. Kiessling and Misses Elliott and McConnell were guests of the luncheon club.

No Hard Feelings.

Election day passed off harmoniously in Houston county, and nobody got mad—that we have heard of. That is as it should be and the citizenship is to be congratulated. Our people are too liberal hearted and charitably minded to fall out over political differences.

COOLIDGE LEADS HIS OPPONENTS IN EAST AND OTHER SECTIONS

New York, Nov. 5.—At 2 o'clock this morning President Coolidge was maintaining his advantage in the East and Middle West and had established leads in the country beyond the Mississippi which, if maintained, would give him an overwhelming majority in the electoral college, with a total running over 300 votes.

John W. Davis had to his credit only the states of the ultra-democratic South, but was leading also in Oklahoma, Missouri and Tennessee, all carried by Harding in the 1920 republican landslide. He also had a slight margin in New Mexico, but had surrendered the lead to Coolidge in Kentucky in a nip-and-tuck race.

MORE BUILDINGS FOR CROCKETT

Five new, brick buildings will be erected by Joe Lockey on the lots opposite Mike Younas. Two of these buildings will face West Main street and three will face Tchopitoulas street, which street extends down in front of the jail. These buildings will all be of one story construction, but will be so constructed that another story can be added later if necessary. Mr. Lockey informs us that some of these buildings are already rented and that he expects to have them all rented by the time they are completed. West Main street is having a rapid growth, and its business additions may extend in a few years to the railroad. The town is growing in all directions, the city auditorium being under course of erection on the opposite side of town, and new residences marking additions north and south. The foundation for Mr. Lockey's five new business houses is now being laid.

Ballots Count If Intent of Voter Is Clear.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 4.—Answering inquiries from election judges as to the counting of scratched ballots, Attorney General Keeling Tuesday held that where the intent of the voter can be ascertained the ballot shall be counted.

In some instances voters scratched the entire republican ticket except the name of Dr. George C. Butte for governor, and also wrote his name on the democratic ticket, making the name appear twice. Such a ballot, the attorney general held, should be counted, as the intent of the voter is clear.

Beazley Plantation Changes Hands.

G. L. Murray & Sons have bought the Trinity river plantation of C. H. Beazley, which they have added to their former Trinity river holdings. It is the intention of the purchasers, the Courier is informed, to levy this property, as they have levied their former holdings down the river. Murray & Sons are among the largest planters of the state.

MRS. HAUPTRIEF DIES IN SAN MARCOS CELL PRESERVATION AND CARE OF THE TEETH

Was Awaiting Trial on Charge of Killing Four Step-children.

San Marcos, Texas, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Annie Hauptrief, held in the Hays County jail without bail, charged with poisoning her four stepchildren and attempting to poison her husband, was found dead in her cell at 7 o'clock Friday morning.

Her body, hanging to her cell door by a strip of her underskirt, was found by Jailer Tom McGruder when he went to the jail to give the prisoners their breakfast.

A letter signed by her was found pinned to her dress. It now is in possession of Sheriff Allen of Hays County.

Mrs. Hauptrief was to have been tried in the Hays County District Court next February on charges of murdering her four stepchildren and attempting to murder her husband, William Hauptrief. The case was continued at the October term of court because Mrs. Hauptrief, according to her attorneys, was about to become a mother. Her husband is slowly recovering from the effects of poisoning.

Lydia Hauptrief, 12 years old, was the first of the children to die. She died April 7, 1923. Walter, 14 years old, died April 11, 1923. In May came the death of the youngest, Herbert, 8, and Annie, 10, died Nov. 11, 1923.

Report of Red Cross Nurse to Lovelady Red Cross Branch.

The need of dental education for the public is impressed upon us because we can view the situation from two sides, namely: From the private practice of a dentist and from public examinations.

You will notice from the dental examination of the school children held in Lovelady that 205 children were examined, only 10 per cent had normal teeth; 68 pupils have to have 177 teeth extracted, showing that the temporary teeth should be extracted or the molars are so badly abscessed that extraction is necessary to protect the other teeth; 118 need dental cleaning; 33 had irregular teeth, which in a great many instances may be traceable to the six-year molar, which the mother often thinks is a temporary tooth.

When informed that the six-year molar is a permanent tooth, the mother is willing to go to any means to save the tooth, but the tooth is beyond saving, all because she did not have the proper education on dental subjects. Not only does the loss of this tooth mean the loss of masticating surface, but the tooth also determines to a great extent the relative positions of the other permanent teeth, forming in a manner the key-stone to the dental arch. With its loss the arch collapses to a greater or less degree, marked by modifying the facial symmetry of the developing child. It is of vital importance to remember that the first permanent molar is the sixth tooth back counting from the center. Parents should watch it carefully for beginning dental decay in order that steps may be taken in time for its preservation.

Sixty-eight pupils needed 177 teeth extracted; 128 pupils require 323 cavities to be filled. No cavity is too small to be filled. The neglect of teeth means decay, and a decayed tooth, unless cared for, sooner or later becomes abscessed. An abscessed tooth poisons the entire system and may cause systemic diseases.

Two pupils need X-ray to determine whether the permanent tooth had erupted or not and two had pyorrhoea.

Doubtless you have heard some one speak of the perfect 32, but strangely you have probably never talked of the perfect 32. Still there are just 32 reasons why we should be interested in our teeth, and each one is a tooth.

Chewing proper foods, giving proper daily care and having proper dental service will help you conserve your teeth, and will help your children on the road to a perfect 32. Even if we all can't have a perfect 32, let us conserve the teeth we have, not only for health's sake, but because we can sell our smile, if it is a good one. Red Cross Nurse.

Woman's Missionary Society.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Crockett Christian church was organized three years ago with seven members.

We have also had a good financial year, dues and offerings amounting to $49.80, besides a special offering of $50.00, making a total of $99.80.

Soil Improvement Campaign.

The soil improvement meeting or fertilizer school which will be held on Jim McCelvy's farm November 10 and in Crockett November 11 is being planned primarily for the purpose of bringing about a better understanding as to the composition of the soils of this section, their needs and how to handle them so as to get the largest possible crop from them. The program is filled with nothing but practical, everyday farm problems which the banker, supply merchant, fertilizer dealers as well as the farmer should understand so as to know more definitely what to do in order to produce bigger yields and get larger profits from operations in this territory.

We are to have specialists from the A. & M. College, United States Department of Agriculture, the I.-G. N. Railway Agriculture Department, the Fertilizers' Association and others, because we believe that these specialists have definite information that will be of tremendous value to the farming industry during these meetings.

We want to urge now that every farmer, both big and little, black and white, plan to be present and take advantage of the information to be given at each of these meetings.

FAST CITY LIFE IN SODOM GOT LOT IN PECK OF TROUBLE

Evangelist Says Many Country Families Going Same Way In Cities Today.

The story of the ruin of the family of Lot, who moved in from the quiet country to Sodom, is the story of many a family here in America, who left the quiet, wholesome life of the farm, and came into the big city.

There in the crowd they have forgotten their simpler ways of living, left the religion in the country, and gone down the broad way to spiritual, and perhaps, physical destruction.

This is the analogy Dr. J. Frank Norris drew between Lot and his family who "went the gait" in ancient Sodom, finally to meet an ignoble end, and many of the transplanted families in the cities today, in his sermon at the big tabernacle, corner Main and McKinney, in Houston, Texas, Sunday morning, while speaking on "Lot's Wife and a Wasted Life."

Lot permitted his folks to run with the wrong crowd in Sodom, the pastor-evangelist said. The girls joined the clubs; Mrs. Lot won the prizes at the society card parties; his sons, with slick hair and bell-bottom breeches, went the gasoline route down the broad way of everlasting destruction. Too many preachers today are failing to condemn the wickedness and worldliness of the pew, Dr. Norris said.

City Filled With Lots.

The modern city is filled with men like Lot and his family, he continued. It is made up largely of people who have moved from small towns and villages and moved in because of increasing wealth and a desire for greater advancement, for more promotion, for more pleasure.

There are seven distinct steps in the backsliding of Lot: (1) He was very rich (Luke 17:32-33.) "Remember Lot's wife. Whoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it." It is not a crime for a man to be rich; in fact, it is his duty to make money. The first commandment is to "subdue the earth." It is a commandment of the Creator to harness the resources of the world, to tap its oil and dig for its coal, conquer the air and the sea. The crime lies in the fact that we are rich in this world's goods and poor towards God. (Luke 12:20-21.) "But God said unto him, thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall those things be, which thou has provided?" So is, he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich towards God.

Jealousy.

The second step was strife and envy. He was contentious, he was jealous of his great and rich Uncle Abraham. Instead of people being contented and happy, people are miserable because their neighbors outdistance them and ride in finer automobiles and build costlier homes. This is the cause of much sorrow and conflict.

The third step in Lot's backsliding was a wrong look. "And Lot lifted up his eyes and beheld all the plain of Jordan." We are in the world but not of the world. "Ye can not serve God and Mammon." (I John 2:15-17.) "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

Made Wrong Choice.

The fourth, he made the wrong choice. "Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan." He thought more of rich lands, making money, than he did of the true worship of Jehovah.

The fifth step was his wrong association. He "pitched his tent toward Sodom." "But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly." He ran with the wrong crowd. He went the way of the world. His girls joined the clubs. Mrs. Lot gave card parties and Lot himself though "he vexed his righteous soul" at the way his home was drifting, yet he did not have backbone enough to stop it. He was a henpecked husband. Mrs. Lot wore the pants. She was the head of the household.

There was no altar in Sodom. There was no Jehovah worship. There was no attending prayer meetings. There was no Bible reading. They left their church membership out in the country. They no longer remembered the Sabbath day to keep it holy. They went the way of the Sodomites, who used to live devout,

MODE OF WEARING HAT IS KEY TO MAN'S CHARACTER

London.—The latest explorations into the realm of psychology show that a man's character is revealed by the way he puts on his hat, or so at least Dr. C. W. Kimmins, chief education officer, has been telling the London county council.

"If I wear my hat well over my forehead it gives me a solemn, thoughtful appearance," Dr. Kimmins said. "When I push it back beyond the usual position, the whole world knows me as a happy-go-lucky man. Tilted on the right side I am nothing but a rowdy, but the minute I let it slide over to the left I lose my social status completely, for I become a mental deficient."

London hatters confirm the truth of what Dr. Kimmins says, and declare they knew all this long ago.

"I always examine my customers' hats as they come into the shop," said one hatter. "Before they have given their order I have formed my conclusions with regard to the kind of hat they need."

"A man with a fashionably shaped bowler tilted forward over his right eye will want an expensive but fashionable hat. The man who wears his lid dead straight will in all probability demand a serviceable hat, and will possibly be particular over the price."

"Men who wear their hats tilted to the left are the rarest type. They usually want something out of the common. But there is a chance that one may misjudge this last type. They may merely be left-handed."

N. B. Barbee Remembers When Houston County Was a Wilderness.

W. S. Adair in Dallas News.

N. B. Barbee of Crockett, father of N. B. Barbee of Dallas, has been a resident of Houston County since 1849. "I was born in Tennessee June 6, 1837, which makes me 87 years old," said Mr. Barbee. "My father, Dr. James E. Barbee, moved to Texas in 1841. He settled in Shelby County, where he figured as one of the Regulators in 1843. He went to the Mexican War as a physician and surgeon in 1846; the men in the home company agreeing to pay him each $3 a month to look after their health. This was in addition to his regular pay as an army surgeon. I was at school at Wesleyan College at San Augustine when Texas was annexed, and I well remember the ceremonies of pulling down the Lone Star flag that floated over the main building and of replacing it with the Stars and Stripes.

Longhorns Legal Tender.

"There was next to no money in circulation in Texas in those days. A cow and calf were legal tender for $10, and it was in cows and calves that father was paid for his professional services. In the course of a few years he accumulated quite a herd of longhorn cattle, slightly mixed with better stock from the States. In 1847 there came a long dry spell, during which grass became so scarce in Shelby County that it was necessary to move the cattle. We rounded up our herds and drove them to Houston County. Finding abundant grass in the vicinity of Hall's Bluff on the Trinity River, we bought a quantity of Liverpool salt from the steamer Governor Pease, there anchored, salted the cattle and left them. The next spring we moved the family to Houston County in ox wagons. A round-up of our cattle showed that they were all there. Occasionally buyers came along and picked out some of the choice steers, for which we were glad to get $8 to $10 a head, but it was long before there was any market for stock cattle.

groes to Texas and to open plantations in East and Southeast Texas, and just before and during the Civil War other planters hurried their negroes to Texas to keep the Yankees from getting them. That accounts for the presence of so many negroes in East Texas today. The tools and farm implements in use in Texas in slavery times were made on the plantation. Some of the cotton produced was shipped on steamers on the Trinity River, but perhaps the bulk of it was hauled on wagons to Houston. Often the river was so low for months at a time that boats could not run. At such times, planters who had piled their cotton on the banks of the river got tired of waiting for a rain and proceeded to wagon it to Houston. Six yoke of oxen could haul a wagon with ten bales of cotton on it, and at that rate it did not take long to get a hundred bales to market. Teamsters were often many weeks on a trip to Houston, for they usually did not return till they got a home load. In the meantime they hauled from Houston to other points as far away as Waco and San Antonio. Uncle Jeff, my mother's negro teamster, would often be absent several months, but he always got back with the money, which he faithfully turned over to her. He used to ride a pony and drive his oxen. He hauled eight or ten bales of cotton at a load and got $10 a bale for hauling it. Shreveport and Jefferson were also steamboat points in those days, but the people in the country from Houston County south and west preferred Houston as a market. When we moved to Houston County there was one house at Crockett and that was built of logs and used as a general store.

Wild Hog Hunting.

"In early days the pork and bacon problem was easily solved in East Texas. The woods of the river bottoms were full of mast, and a specie of semi-wild hog flourished. Those swine were razorbacks, but a great many of them weighed 200 pounds each. And there was no more exciting sport to be found than the hunting down of these same razorbacks. The dogs which were used in chasing them, seemed to get more thrills out of a hunt than did the men. They would bring the hogs to bay and hold them till the men shot them; and in case the quarry broke and scattered, it was their business to reassemble them in a bunch for another shooting, and so on till only the brood sows and pigs and young hogs were left. Many kinds of game abounded. Deer grazed in the open spaces and bears and panthers and squirrels inhabited the woods. Wolves howled at night around the courthouse square in Crockett and turkeys woke you up with their gobbling every morning. Wild pigeons, which flew in clouds dense enough to hide the sun, had a roost six miles northwest of Crockett. Elisha Clapp, the greatest Indian fighter of the Southwest, who must have come to Texas in early '30s, lived ten miles southwest of Crockett, and died and was buried there during the Civil War. He was the terror of all Indians who raided that part of the country for, riding at a gallop, he could unerringly follow the faintest Indian trail. He often pursued marauding savages as far as the Tehuacana Hills. His companion, almost as noted an Indian fighter as he, was Houston Beeson. Beeson, who died soon after the close of the Civil War, was buried near his home, three miles south of Crockett. Both of these pioneers have descendants scattered over the State.

All Disputes Amicably Settled.

"The early settlers of East Texas were the best people in the world, and undesirable characters did not sojourn very long among them. When such a character appeared, Elisha Clapp or Houston Beeson, after consulting with others, would take him aside and pleasantly tell him that he had made a mistake in settling in the community, and that it would be better for all concerned if he left during the next night. There is no record that any one thus warned failed to take the hint. Disputes, quarrels and feuds among the people were generally nipped in the bud. When it began to appear that serious trouble was brewing Elisha Clapp or Houston Beeson, acting as spokesman for the better element of the people, would find out what the disagreement was about, announce who was right and who wrong, and tell the disputants to get together, and in conclusion, make them shake hands. In all their public acts these two old men seemed to be the most disinterested persons in the world. All they did would bear the closest scrutiny both at the time and afterward, for they were always right. Such men were indispensable in rough frontier life.

Got No Texas Steers.

"I went to the Civil War as a soldier in Company E, Gould's Battalion, Walker's Division. I was in the fighting at Mansfield, La.; Jenkins' Ferry and Pleasant Hill. It was the plan of the Federals in the Louisiana campaign for the army of Gen. Banks and the army of Gen. Steele, which were coming from different directions, to unite at Mansfield, there defeat our forces and then to burn a way through Texas to the Rio Grande and the Gulf like that burned by Gen. Sherman on his march to the sea, and to send Texas cattle to feed the Federal armies. But they burned nothing in Texas, nor did they get behind a single Texas steer. In fact, they did not so much as get a peep into the promised land. Our forces prevented them from uniting their armies at Mansfield and there defeated the army of Gen. Banks. When Gen. Banks retreated from Mansfield, Gen. Steele also sounded a retreat. One division of our men followed Gen. Banks and the other pursued Gen. Steele. I was in the latter division. Gen. Steele retreated to a point near Pine Bluff, where he took up such a strong position that we did not deem it wise to attack him. We had accomplished the purpose for which Texas had mustered the last man.

No Market for Cattle and Hogs.

"By 1855 Crockett had developed into a typical Southern county seat town, with the best class of Southern people for inhabitants. But after the war, in common with the towns of the South generally, it was for a long time at a standstill. The coming of the railroad some years after the war changed the transportation system, doing away with wagons as freighters and putting the teamsters out of business, but without immediately increasing land values or bringing about better times in Houston County. Even to this good day we have no market for cattle and hogs. I said a while ago that when we came to Texas a cow and calf were legal tender for $10. An intelligent farmer told me the other day that the beef cows of Houston County could be bought for about $9 a head. Fat steers are of course worth a little more than that. The same farmer said that the best offer he could get for some fat hogs he had on hand was 4½¢ on foot, but that the man making the offer seemed to be joking, since he had not come for the hogs. The price offered for hogs at Fort Worth would not pay the freight on them from Crockett to that market. The upshot is that nobody in Houston County attempts to raise hogs or cattle on a large scale. Crockett has recently taken a new lease on life and has put up a greater number of new buildings within the last year than ever before in an equal period."

Mr. Barbee was a member of the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth sessions of the Texas Legislature. He is credited with having made the speech that defeated the bill which proposed to give the Travis County District Court exclusive jurisdiction of all prosecutions arising from mob violence in the State.

Must Get Away From Short Staple Cotton.

Luckett Kolstad, who returned with his family Sunday from a vacation visit in Alabama, said to a Herald man today that he found the same conditions in parts of that state that exist here, with reference to short staple cotton. He says the growers are finding it hard to sell their short cotton, and are being penalized. Mr. Kolstad said he visited in New Orleans on his way home, and met a number of the big cotton men, who represent the biggest concerns in the country, and that they all agreed that if another full crop is ever made short staple will be a drug of the market, if indeed it can be sold at all.

Mr. Kolstad says there is no use to say the condition is a local one, for it is not, but short staple cotton is being discriminated against, and is not wanted by any of the buyers.—Palestine Herald.

WOMAN SAYS GIRL SMOKERS ARE DISGRACES

Petosky, Mich., Oct. 29.—“Girls who smoke should be banned from decent society,” Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, a member of the State board of agriculture and lecturer of the Michigan State grange, declared today in a report to the grange in annual session here.

“During and since the war cigarettes—the white coffin nails—are nailing down the lid of opportunity for thousands of our boys and young men,” the report declared. “Even a few girls are getting into the limelight by smoking in public places. The girl smoker should be banned from decent society.”

Some Fish Story.

Lakeview, Montana.—Shouting fish have made their appearance in the Centennial Valley. Hank Wetmore, an old-time rancher here, upon hearing strange noises emanating from the middle of Red Rock Lake, waded about twenty feet into the lake to seize a strange looking fish that had its nose out of the water. When the fish found itself in Wetmore's grasp it set up “an awful screeching,” as Hank describes it. Soon schools of similar fish gathered around him, he says, and he was forced to liberate the one he had seized and rush back to the river bank for his shotgun. A volley from both barrels of his weapon dispersed the noise-makers.

Range horses have taken to the hills and refuse to go near the lake to drink, Wetmore reports. Trappers have taken up their traps in disgust, as there is not a coyote within seven miles of the lake. Mrs. L. E. Culver had all her trout driven above the second dam for fear they would join the shouting fish, whose noises, according to the old trapper, resemble very much the squawking of a cage of parrots in a bird store.

Fish and game wardens who have investigated the phenomenon are completely stumped.

'FLAPPERISM' DISAPPEARS AT THE UNIVERSITY

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 29.—Flappers disappear from the University of Texas!

Nothing mysterious about it, though, according to Miss Lucy Newton, dean of women at the university, who, during a visit here, addressed Main Avenue Senior school girls on opportunities of college life.

The flappers are not spirited away, although a few weeks after their arrival at the university they disappear as such, said Miss Newton. They simply are assimilated, she added.

“We do not think in terms of flapperism,” she went on. “Instead attention is directed toward scholarship, student activities and regularly organized social life.”

While here Miss Newton conferred on plans for the convention of the Association of Deans of Women of Texas, to be held here November 28 in conjunction with the State teachers' convention.

Circus Pays for Paving Paris Streets.

Paris, Texas, Oct. 21.—Paris' city streets are undergoing a lot of repairs these days, and the bills are footed by Ringling Brothers' circus.

Before the circus came to town here recently, the city fathers gathered together and put the circus management under $20,000 bond for any damage they might do to the streets.

Three streets were used in getting the circus to the grounds at the edge of the city and the usage of those three thoroughfares will cost Ringling Brothers approximately $10,000.

IMPRUDENT CONDUCT CHARGED MINISTER

Talledega, Ala., Nov. 3.—Dr. J. M. McCleskey, former presiding elder of the Huntsville district, was Monday reprimanded by Bishop Warren A. Candler before the North Alabama conference, following a report by a special trial commission which found him guilty of “imprudent conduct.” The commission found him not guilty of immorality.

Following the public reprimand, which was recommended by the commission, the conference knelt in prayer for Dr. McCleskey.

The nature of the charges against the minister was not made public, the commission acting in executive session. Forty witnesses were heard.

was the best and quickest relief I could get. Since I came to Texas I have these bilious attacks every now and then—a man will get bilious anywhere, you know—and I find that a little Black-Draught soon straightens me out. After a few doses, in little or no time I'm all right again.” Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable liver medicine, used in America for over eighty years. It acts on the stomach, liver and bowels in a gentle, natural way, assisting digestion and relieving constipation. Sold everywhere.

MAJORITY FOR WOMAN TO BE ABOUT 100,000

Galveston, Texas, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson had a lead of 33,414 over George C. Butte for governor of Texas in returns from 333 towns and cities tabulated by the Texas Election Bureau last night.

The runoff returns indicate that her final majority will reach around 100,000 should the total vote reach 600,000. The total vote accounted for in these returns is 194,828. Mrs. Ferguson received 114,121 and Mr. Butte 80,707.

The bureau will not tabulate further returns, as the race is considered definitely settled.

In addition to the returns from towns and cities, the bureau tabulated separately returns from the smaller units. The returns show Butte 68,564, Ferguson 83,174, a majority for Mrs. Ferguson of 14,610.

Reports from towns and cities as well as from counties are incomplete, but additional returns are expected to run in the same proportions.

Amendment Has Safe Lead.

The amendment to the constitution increasing the tax for confederate pension from 5c to 7c on the $100 has a safe lead.

Davis led Coolidge four to one from the start. La Follette made a poor showing, receiving fewer than 8,000 in the total tabulated.

MRS. FERGUSON SAYS TEXAS STILL LOYAL TO TRUE DEMOCRACY.

Temple, Tex., Nov. 4.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple, who, on the face of early returns in today's general election, has been named governor of Texas, issued a statement to the Associated Press tonight in which she said: "Texas is still loyal to the ideals of true democracy, despite the mouthings of political preachers and some school teachers seeking to lure democrats into betrayal of their honor."

She assailed the Ku Klux Klan for its alleged activity against her in the campaign, and added that "the people have seen the slimy trail of the serpent and they have spoken in a voice not to be misunderstood."

"Hate has been the slogan of the opposition," Mrs. Ferguson said. "Venom is its password, and slander, falsehood and misrepresentation its platform."

She expressed her gratitude to the "splendid and patriotic democrats" who supported her throughout the campaign and added that "as a daughter of Texas, to the manner born," she would work to the uttermost "for the best interests of my people and devote my talents and energies to the promotion of the cause of education from the rural school communities to the university and other institutions of higher education."

Mrs. Ferguson said she would try to carry out every pledge in her platform.

THE CIRCUS IS COMING

An English fox hunt, in which a score of hunters and huntresses, two packs of genuine Walker hounds, and prize winning Kentucky thoroughbreds will participate is one of the new features of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which will pitch its tents on the circus grounds at Palestine on November 10, and will give an afternoon and night exhibition, as well as a mile long street parade in the morning.

No other circus has ever attempted the staging of a fox hunt, and success was only attained after weeks of training and work. It was not a great effort to get the dogs to follow the scent of the six trained foxes, but keeping them on the hippodrometract and away from the feet of the horses, required great efforts by the trainers. The horses are perfectly trained hunters and jumpers, and at the conclusion of the chase engage in high jumping contests.

A thrill every minute is promised by the management, as there are over two hundred stellar performers on the program, while 150 wild animals actors; 100 domestic animals, scores of prize-winning horses, and 50 noted clowns take part in the show, which runs over two and one-half hours. Comedy will be provided by these funny "joeys," who have manufactured burlesques on every popular event of the day. And the rascals have a jazz band, which is said to reach the pinnacle in tooting.

Much might be written about the Hagenbeck-Wallace performances, but to be appreciated, it must be seen. For years this show has been known as standing in a class by itself. This year it is not only bigger, but is infinitely better than ever before, and to those who know the Hagenbeck-Wallace reputation, that is saying a great deal.

The big street parade of more than a mile in length, will be given at 11 o'clock in the morning. In this gorgeous procession will be seen wild animals from every section of the globe, scores of pretty women, mounted on Kentucky thoroughbreds, beautiful hand-carved tableaux wagons, and five bands of musicians. After seeing the Hagenbeck parade, you will never say "that all circus parades are alike." 1t.

HIGHER POSTAL RATES.

The excuse of Postmaster General New for advocating an advance in the postal rates on second and third class mail, which includes newspapers and magazines, is that those periodicals carry much advertising matter, and should therefore bear a greater proportion of the burden of providing more revenue for the department.

When the proposal for raising the pay of the postal employees last year was before congress, the postmaster general warned that there was no way in which the department could pay the proposed increase under present revenues, and he recommended an increase in rates on publications.

But, it is pertinent to ask, why should newspapers and magazines be singled out for higher postal rates, because they are factors in the commercial life of the country, and the direct-by-mail advertising patrons of the postoffice escape an increase? A very considerable part of the first class mail in these days consists of business letters. The mails are flooded with "circulars" soliciting orders, or promoting some sort of enterprise. This takes no account of the great volume of propaganda for various causes, transmitted through the mails.

Much of this latter variety of mail goes to the waste basket unopened by those who receive it. Yet the postmaster general does not propose adding to the postal rates on that class of letters.

The newspaper and the magazine, conveying information to the people and encouraging education, are surely of more importance to the public than mail circulars and propaganda literature.

The newspapers are still paying the war rates on postage, which represent a very material advance over pre-war rates. Obviously, it would be an unjust discrimination against publications to advance their postal rates again. If the department must have more revenue, it should look to other classes of mail to make up the deficiency. —Houston Post-Dispatch.

EARLY ADVANTAGES.

Probably in nine out of ten American homes the parents are giving or are hoping to give their children advantages of education and association that they themselves did not have in their childhood and youth. Throughout the country expensive private schools are flourishing; the increase in the number of college trained boys and girls in the last twenty-five years is out of all proportion to the increase in general prosperity or in population.

If fathers and mothers who are making sacrifices in order that their children may have advantages that they did not enjoy were to be asked, "Why do you do it?" they would probably say, "Because we want our children to have as full and interesting and successful lives as possible." And no doubt nine times out of ten the early advantages that parental love obtains for the child are truly an advantage to the child. There are, however, some children for whom, as subsequent events prove, early adversity would have been kinder than early advantages.

Although no normal parent is going to impose a life of hardship on his child, there is a growing appreciation that it is not good for young people to lead entirely sheltered and shielded lives. For most of them an education in school and college needs to be supplemented with active employment during summer vacations; the boy needs to feel that he is to some degree self-supporting, and the girl needs to feel that she is not merely a family incumbrance. Parents and educators are together finding ways of securing to the child some of the benefits that in other times were usually to be acquired only in the school of hard knocks.

Nevertheless, however widespread higher education becomes, there will occasionally arise instances to confound all theories of education. Those parents who with the utmost will in the world are yet unable to provide their children with opportunities may take comfort in the thought that sometimes, as in the case of Abraham Lincoln, the greatest advantage a human being can have is to have no early advantages at all. —Youth's Companion.

Authorized as Inspector.

The outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in this state has caused other states to establish quarantines against Texas, which prohibits the movement of dressed poultry, fruits, vegetables, trees and shrubs from Texas.

This restriction is working a hardship on shippers from this state, and in order to relieve this situation the Live Stock Sanitary commission of Texas has entered into an agreement with the extension service of the A. & M. College whereby the county agent working for the college will be commissioned as inspector of the Live Stock Sanitary Commission, and in such capacity they are authorized to issue certificates on dressed poultry, fruits, vegetables, trees and shrubs in order to allow these commodities to move into other states.

County Agriculture Agent R. R. Morrison has been notified by the A. & M. College and the Live Stock Sanitary Commission and has been authorized to represent the Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Texas and issue certificates on such shipments, and is in position to accommodate any one desiring to ship dressed poultry, fruits, vegetables, trees and shrubs out of Texas.

Christian Church.

Our goal for next Sunday in Sunday school is 100, and we trust every member of the school will come out and help us to realize it. Sickness and vaccination have caused us to fall behind a little for the past two Sundays, but now that all are improving let us begin with renewed energy and soon pass the 100 stone.

The subject of the morning sermon will be, "Giving Tribute Unto Caesar and Unto God" (Matt. 22:21)—a sermon in behalf of the local Red Cross. The subject for 7:45 p. m. will be "In Christ" (Rom. 8:1, 2). Everybody is cordially invited to all these services.

"BOLTERS" MAY BE BARRED HEREAFTER

Executive Committee Head Says Some Such Rule May Be Made.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 31.—That some plan will be submitted by the democratic party leaders in Texas to bar from the primary in 1926 those members of the party who "bolt" and voted for the republican nominee in the gubernatorial election was indicated today in a statement issued by E. A. Berry, chairman of the state democratic executive committee.

"I wish to make it very plain," Mr. Berry said, "that the present organization is thoroughly committed to the idea that such rules and regulations as may be necessary to accomplish the purpose will be adopted, making it impossible for any person who violates his or her party pledge and votes for any republican to participate in the primary election in 1926."

Mr. Berry said he believed this rule to be necessary for the preservation of the party in Texas, and that every power given the executive committee by law or party usage would be invoked to see that the rule is thoroughly enforced.

'MA' OPINION SWEEPING ONE

Austin, Texas, Oct. 20.—The attorney general's department, after a thorough reading of the supreme court opinion in the Ferguson case handed down Saturday, considers it one of the most sweeping decisions ever rendered by the court, according to L. C. Sutton, election expert of the department, who was one of counsel for the defense.

The opinion said that only the legislature has power to decide whether a candidate elected for governor is eligible, and in so doing held invalid the law which sought to give a private citizen the right to bring a suit for this purpose.

Though the court held that the lower court had no jurisdiction and that the plaintiff, Charles M. Dickson, had no right to bring the suit, the judges proceeded to render an opinion on the general qualifications of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, the democratic nominee, and on the qualifications of all women to hold office. While, according to the attorneys, this would not have been necessary on an ordinary appeal, since the court already had held there was no jurisdiction, in this case, the high court was answering questions placed before it by the Third court of civil appeals and to answer all the questions required a complete investigation of the entire case.

DISMISSED OFFICER CAPTURES ESCAPED OKLAHOMA CONVICT

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Discharged from the police force last Friday for driving his automobile when on duty, Cecil Abbott Sunday night captured Edward Webber, alias Long, convicted of two bank robberies in Oklahoma. Abbott made the capture after Webber, it was declared, drew a pistol on a negro chauffeur who waited before his employer's residence, and ordered the man to drive away.

Abbott ran into the street when the chauffeur and Webber were struggling for possession of the weapon, and seized Webber, whom he handed over to police.

Webber had escaped from the penitentiary in Oklahoma by filing his fork into a key with which he opened his cell door.
