

MISS SADIE LASATER KILLED BY AUTO

Miss Sadie Lasater, a pupil in the Graham schools, was run over by an automobile in the street in front of the high school building at 4 o'clock last Friday evening and received injuries that resulted fatally two hours later.

Miss Sadie Lasater was twenty years old, a bright, attractive and very popular young lady who will be greatly missed. She was a member of the Baptist church and was one among the most faithful Sunday School pupils in the town.

Funeral services were conducted at 5 o'clock Saturday evening at the residence of her uncle, R. M. Williams, by Rev. C. R. Taylor, pastor of the Baptist church, after which the body was laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery.

REV. A. E. WHITE CALLED TO ELBERT

Rev. A. N. Davis, pastor of the Baptist church at Elbert was in to see us Monday and reported a successful meeting at Elbert in which he did the singing and Rev. A. E. White did the preaching.

CAR SHORTAGE FEARED

B. D. Shropshire, Jr., division freight agent of the C. R. I. & G. R. R., was here from Fort Worth yesterday to secure the co-operation of our people in an effort the administration is making to avert a threatened car shortage during the cotton season.

To assist the railroad administration in this great crisis every car should be loaded to its capacity in the very shortest period of time possible and upon reaching its destination should be unloaded at once.

LYCEUM, FIRST NUMBER, OCT. 6

The Civic League begs to announce that the first number of the Lyceum Course will be given October 6 at the school auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

Everyone will have ample opportunity to provide himself with a season ticket, as ladies will call at every home next week, and tickets will be on sale at Doty's and Sloan's drug stores.

The committee feels that it has secured an exceptionally fine program for the year, instructive as well as entertaining, and it hopes that the citizens of Graham will respond most heartily.

The Civic League will use the proceeds for beautifying the city, mainly for developing the park.

The following are the numbers: Alton Packard (cartoonist) October 6th.

Southern Musicians October 23rd. Wells Co. (dramatic artists) November 21st.

Miss Jean MacDonald (impersonator) December 6th.

Sterling Entertainers (musical entertainers) February 11th.

Yanks Quartette (returned soldiers) February 27th.

Roderick Dundonald (lecturer) March 12th.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS

GUY SEYBOLD IN SHOOTING AFFRAY

Following the arrest of Guy Seybold at Walters, Oklahoma, last Monday on a charge of shooting Lester and Carl Keeter, a detective has picked up thirteen automobiles here that had been stolen in Oklahoma and brought to Graham and sold to local people.

All three of the parties in Monday's difficulty are Young County men. Seybold has lived in and near Graham for many years. He, it is reported, brought the cars to Graham and sold them to old acquaintances.

The trouble Monday, which terminated in the fatal shooting of Carl Keeter and the serious wounding of his brother, Lester, occurred at the farm of the Keeters near Walters, and is said to have been over an automobile which Seybold had sold to them.

Seybold is now in jail at Walters, Oklahoma, but will be taken to Lawton the last of the week for trial.

A detective arrived in the city yesterday evening and at noon today, it is reported, had located thirteen cars that had been stolen from people in Oklahoma and brought here, and sold by Seybold.

Guy Seybold has been making his home in Fort Worth for the past few months and his family now lives on Edward street in that city.

He lived at Lubbock last year and returned to Graham last spring and spent a few weeks before moving to Fort Worth. It is believed he entered the car business after moving to Fort Worth.

"THE SUN DODGER"

Oscar Graham has presented many of his plays through this territory. It is safe to say that each one has been a distinct success. People everywhere enjoy the Graham shows, particularly because they are in a class by themselves.

Just as in the past year or so, certain movie artists have stood strongly for clean pictures, so Mr. Graham has always stood for clean plays. Coarse humor is never really funny. It degrades the perpetrator and as a rule, disgusts the listener.

"DAS WACHT AM RHINE"

For ever so long Adj. F. Herron has been reporting the meetings of the local U. C. V. Camp under the heading "Pleasant Moments Spent." These old veterans no longer have a monopoly of thrilling war time reminiscences to relate whenever they foregather.

A few evenings since Corp. P. S. Phillips, of the 6th Marines, who has just returned from the Rhineland, and his brother, T. D. Phillips, who got no further in the big strife than the training camp, dropped into The Leader office for a few "pleasant moments."

With the 6th Marines, attached to the fighting Second Division, Corp. Phillips saw quite a lot of intense fighting and took a shooting part in the St. Mihiel drive, and shortly afterward saw forty days strenuous service in the Argonne Forest engagement, in which the hardest fighting of the whole war took place in which our boys were engaged.

After the armistice Corp. Phillips saw six months guard duty along the river Rhine, near Coblenz, and while he was recounting some of his interesting experiences Serg. A. H. Haden, of the 148th Field Artillery, came along, who was also on duty only a short distance from where Corp. Phillips was stationed.

When these two young veterans got together, episodes and experiences came thick and fast and The Leader force put off supper until way late rather than miss any part of this casual meeting. Come again boys.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY

The Presbyterian Auxiliary met on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the church with eighteen members present, all of whom contributing some part to the service.

Scripture verses were used as responses for roll call after which a lesson from three of the "five most important chapters of the Bible" was conducted by Mrs. B. B. Garrett.

Special features of the program were a reading "The Starless Crown" by Mrs. Hallam and a voice number "Shall I Go and Empty Handed?" by Mesdames Duncan and Nat Price.

The meeting was one of unusual spirituality and renewed interest was manifested in this branch of the church work.

GRAHAM WELL SHOT TUESDAY; MAKES FIVE HUNDRED BARRELS

The Graham well of the Texas Company, ten miles directly west from Graham, was shot at the 4,000-foot sand with sixty quarts of nitro-glycerine at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday evening and the results were all that could have been desired.

Superintendent McMahan, of the Wichita Falls division of the Texas Co., was on the ground at the time and pronounced the shot the best he had ever seen.

The Graham well was shut down at the 4200-foot sand last January and since that time has been a fair producer through several feet of sand which had caved in.

The Texas Co., it is reliably reported, expect even greater results from the Arnold well, which is near the Graham well, and preparations are being made to shoot it the last of this week or the first of next week.

The results of the shot in the Graham well caused but little excitement among our people who have confidently believed the well was a good one from the time the deep sand was struck and the excellent showing was made last January and it will really be a great surprise and disappointment to them if the Arnold fails to make a great flow when shot.

The Manhattan Oil Co.'s well on the Johnson ranch in the vicinity of the Graham and Arnold wells, just finished setting casing at 2,200 feet and resumed drilling.

The North American Refining Co. B. F. Scott No. 1, near the Goode well, spudded in yesterday at 12 o'clock and is drilling.

The Roxana Co. Donnell No. 1, has set twelve and one-half inch casing at 1350 feet to shut off salt water and has resumed drilling.

The Dallas-Young Co., Stewart No. 1, on the David Dawson Survey in the northern part of the county, is drilling at about 1200 feet.

The Timmons well, southwest of Graham, struck gas on top of sand at 3,000 feet.

The Wiley Blair well of the Texas Company is down over 2,500 feet, and underreaming.

The Norris well of the Texas Company is underreaming at about 1,350 feet.

The Staley, Langford and Chenault well on the Donnell tract have completed their rig and will begin operations as soon as sufficient fuel can be had for operating.

The Southwestern Miami on the Keen has timbers on the ground for rig. This well is about four miles southwest of Graham and near the Timmons well.

The Sun Company No. 1, on the Donnell tract, has spudded in.

The Arkansas Oil and Gas Company has their rig up on the Jeffery tract about five miles north of Graham.

The Merrill Oil and Gas Company, about five miles northeast of Graham, on the Hunt ranch, are shut down at about 500 feet for repairs to rig.

The Humble people are down about 800 feet on the Marshall estate, about ten miles west of Graham, and have set fifteen-inch casing at 720 feet.

Many new locations have been made in this county during the past month. It is almost impossible to get the rigs for drilling. Work is progressing in all sections of the county.

Calomel Users! Listen To Me! I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Your druggist gives back your money if it doesn't liven your liver and bowels and straighten you up without making you sick.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with your bile, crasies into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

News From America Seem to Prove Irishman Had Not Miscalculated His Capacity.

Pat Finnegan had left his wife in Ireland and gone to America to try his fortune and establish a home for his family in the new world. It was some two or three weeks after Pat's departure that his wife stood in the meager garden in front of her home, looking down the road her man had gone, and moodily speculating on his success. She was rudely startled by the harsh voice of Mrs. O'Leary calling her over the fence.

"Have you heard the news from America, Mrs. Finnegan?"

"Faith, an' 'O! have not."

"Tis in the paper this mornin'. Read it for yourself. 'America gone dry. Last alcoholic drink sold at midnight, June 20.'"

Mrs. Finnegan looked doubtful for a minute; then, swelling with pride and casting a triumphant glance at Mrs. O'Leary, she shouted back: "Faith, an' Pat always said, give him two weeks an' there was not a country in the world he couldn't drink dry."—Life.

Ill and Nervous.

Nurses dislike the season of thunderstorms. "We are not afraid of lightning ourselves," a nurse in a woman's hospital told me, "but it has a harmful effect on the patients. Most sick people fear lightning. In cases of extreme weakness or nervousness a dozen flashes of blinding lightning reduce the patient to a state of utter prostration."

The Storm Lady

By MARY MORISON

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

He put down the book with a deep sigh of boredom. "What rot, whatarrant rot," he groaned—and then: "Hello! Here comes a storm for sure." A peal of thunder cracked the air in two and he hurried to the cabin window.

A gigantic cloud, like a black curtain, hung across the valley, cut every second or so by a fork of lightning. The trees covering the mountainside were being lashed into a fury by the zales sweeping them. Looking down from his lonely cabin, perched high up on Arrow mountain, it seemed as if all nature was going through some dreadful revolution—the storm rushing upon the peaceful forest, taking it unawares and meeting with stiff resistance from every tree, shrub and bird for miles around. Then came the rain, and the man pulled the window to just in time.

"Heaven help anybody out in that chaos," he said as he lighted the lamp and settled cozily back in his big chair. "God, what a wind!"

Through the noises of the storm he heard a sound on the little porch outside, and a rush of wind followed the opening of the door—and bang! It slammed to.

Hair awry, breath coming short and fast, there leaned against the inside of his door a girl. "I suppose I ought to say something apologetic for bursting in on you this way," she panted; "but, oh! that lightning! If your door hadn't been right here I don't know what I would have done. It seemed as if every flash that came was just rushing around the world trying to find me, and as each clap of thunder was applauding it. Oh!—as a terrific clap shook the cabin, 'Oh, do you mind if I just sit down?'"

Our host by this time had recovered himself enough to rise, and he pushed forward his chair, into which the girl sank gratefully.

"Where on earth did you come from?" he ejaculated. "I had rather thought that I was the only occupant of Arrow mountain, and then in you come on the wings of the storm. By Jove, perhaps that lightning is looking for me!"

The girl looked at him for the first time, and a smile crossed her face. Yes, she was decidedly pretty.

"With the help of this little house and, yes, this lamp, we may win out," she hazarded.

"I hope so," responded the man. "At any rate, what there is of it is at your disposal. That's not much of an offer, but it's a port in a storm, anyway."

From their cozy fastness in the cabin they could hear the rain pelting down. It was dark as pitch outside—but the soft lamplight and the nice look in the man's face was having a reassuring influence on the girl. She lifted her hands to her hair—a woman's first conscious act after a fright. "What a hoyden I must seem. The first big blow carried away my new hat, and I suppose next summer those crows out there will be calling it 'Red-ash' or 'Welcome Inn' or something like that."

"Hard luck!" he laughed. "Would a cup of my own brew recompense you at all for the loss? It won't be as beautiful as the future crowdy, but it will be Johnny-on-the-spot if you say the word."

"Ten? Oh, how perfectly lovely. Please!" said the girl.

"No sooner said than done, fair lady of the storm. My entire library is at your disposal while I retire to my large and spacious kitchen to prepare the feast. No, really," as she was about to offer assistance, "just sit there while I do it. I wouldn't have you see my housekeeping for the world."

As he hustled around the tiny kitchen he would steal a look at the girl as she sat by the table reading. There was no doubt about it, she did become the cabin. "She's reading that awful trash, too," he muttered. "Oh, lady," he called, "that's a silly book you've picked out."

"Isn't it?" she agreed. "I've read it before and I know it's silly. But I used to know the man who wrote it, years ago, when I was a child. I adored him and I read all his books just on principle. I have the feeling that some day he will write something really good—just because he was such an awfully nice man himself."

"He's a lucky devil to have you say that about him"—in he came, tea in hand, and for a lonely Luchelor on a mountain top it was a very enticing-looking tray that he set before the lady. The thunder came from a distance now and the rain was contenting itself with a gentle patter, patter. The darkness of a few moments ago was giving way to a misty grayness. He opened the window a little and the smell of fresh green earth came through.

"Um, isn't that delicious," smiled the girl, as she took a long breath. Then she poured the tea. "How many lumps? Three? Why, man alive, what did you do in Hoover's day?"

"Tell me about that author man who writes such awful drivel," continued her host.

"Well, you see, I haven't laid eyes on him for years and years," she went on. "I wouldn't know him now if I should meet him on the street. But when I was a child we lived on the same street and he was always so nice to me when my brothers would pull my pig-tails and call me 'baby.' And once they locked me up in an old building, and that nice man came and got me out. He heard my howls, I guess. I suppose I was rather a 'baby,' as my brothers said, and he was always helping me out. I often think of it, and now when things go wrong I say to myself: 'Oh, if I only knew where Chester Lane was I'm sure he would tell me what to do!'" She laughed and added: "Silly, isn't it? But you see why I like his books now, trash or no trash, don't you? And some day he will write something great, you see."

"He should for the faith you put in him, if for no other reason," said the man, looking at her with a curious intensity. "You see," he went on, "he was poor, oh, so poor, little lady of the storm, and his good things nobody wanted to buy. So he took to best sellers—just because he must have bread and butter and things like that. But now—I will do something better for you."

"You will? You are—Chester Lane?" she whispered.

"Yes, Peggy Trumbull, I am. And you—why, you were the smallest little girl I ever saw, and such a good sport. I remember thrashing your brothers, both of them, when they called you a 'baby.' To think that you should have grown up like this, and—"

"And," she interrupted, "when a storm came and frightened me almost to death I came right here. I might have known it would be you."

In silence they looked at each other, and through the open window burst a ray of late afternoon sunlight—all the brighter from its release from the storm.

Peggy rose. "I must go now," she said. "Isn't it a shame? I'm staying with the Brantfords across the valley and started out right after lunch for a tramp. Your mountain looks so nice from the valley. Good-by," holding out her hand, "and will you forgive me for saying your book was silly?"

Lane hid his cap and walking stick in his hand before she finished. "Will I forgive you?" he repeated. "My word! I'm going to marry you, you know. You'll be needing me to keep away thunder storms and brothers and things, and I'm not going to let you out of my sight, or you'll vanish as suddenly as you came. And I've been waiting here for you all these hundreds of years. My dear, would you mind very much marrying me?"

"That was a very nice thunder storm," said Peggy.

MUST BE FIGHT TO DEATH

Authorities Recognize There Can Be No Compromise Between Man and the Mosquito.

When Sir Arthur Conan Doyle sent his famous character, Sherlock Holmes, to his supposed death down the abyss of a roaring waterfall, one of his friends protested. "Well," said the author, "I've either got to kill Sherlock Holmes or Sherlock Holmes will kill me." Pretty much the same situation exists in certain sections of the United States between man and the mosquito. If man does not kill the mosquito, the mosquito will do his cusseddest toward killing man and, if he doesn't quite succeed, will make him mighty sick. The United States Department of Agriculture is on the side of man in the contest and is preparing for a big drive against the malaria mosquitoes in Louisiana. The details are not completed, but the campaign will begin soon and will be, perhaps, the most intensive one yet put on. Some of the workers are already on the ground. Others who have been engaged in "cootie" work for the army and still others who have been actually with the army will be sent to Louisiana within the next few weeks.

Conflicting Attitudes.

"You want to manage the business?" asked the employer.

"I do," answered the employee.

"Well, I don't understand it at all. A little while ago you were demanding eight hours' work and the assurance of good compensation. Now you want to shoulder the responsibilities that will keep you worried at least eighteen hours a day, besides taking a chance of going broke if the markets happen to slip the wrong way."

How Capital Was Named.

Rio de Janeiro means "River of January" and was applied to the capital of Brazil because of its discovery in that month.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PREPARING PRODUCTS FOR BEST EXHIBITION AT ANNUAL FAIRS

A Thoroughly Typical American Boy Watching a Prize Winner Getting Its Growth.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The fair.

What does it mean to you? "Fair" is a very old noun. With variations in spelling it exists in many languages.

"Fair" is akin to the ancient "festus" and therefore cousin in some degree of the more modern "feast" and "festival" and the like.

Always and everywhere it has carried the away-from-work idea. It has always been pretty much what we mean nowadays by "holiday," though not what that word meant originally. "Holiday" was "holy day," and sacred. "Fair" has always been secular—a wholly human sort of thing.

Fair time is playtime. That it always was, that it always meant to most people, that it always will be. But for every play there must be players, and two kinds of them, too—players who play playfully and players who play laboriously, more or less, for the entertainment of the others.

And "the fair" has a very different meaning for the two classes. The big bunch goes to have a good time, to be carefree, to drink red lemonade and throw confetti and tinsel horns; to get the glint of twinkling horse heels on a saffron track; to see the broad-backed cattle, the prettily packed jellies and jams, the big pumpkins, the intricate needlework, the full-filled ears of corn and to mill around, going nowhere in particular and not caring especially if they never get there.

But with it all they are getting a sugar-coated education. The fair is a university in which the festive students speak up science unawares.

Then there must be the other kind of players—the ones who "put on the show"—the professors and instructors and tutors in this most accommodating of academies. And there has to be somewhere a sort of teachers' college for those people. There are, in fact, lots of normal schools for fair professors, but the United States department of agriculture is the graduate college. And one of the queer things is that any boy or girl still in the grammar grades of the public school may be doing postgraduate work in getting things ready for the fair.

Much in Getting Ready.

Too many people, the department experts say, do not know how much depends on preparing exhibits in the right way, on getting the pig or calf or corn or canned stuff in just the right shape to show to the best advantage. One of the boys' club workers tells a story in point.

"One of our club boys in Mississippi," he says, "grew an acre of mighty good corn and entered an exhibit in the county fair. There were four prizes, but he couldn't even get the fourth one. The judge simply tied on the ribbons and made no explanations. The boy was disappointed—not rebellious, but he wanted to know why his good corn couldn't get a prize. I went over it with him, showed him that some of his biggest ears had crooked rows and how others had other defects. Picking out the best ear I said, 'If you had ten like this you could win a prize.'"

"Well, that boy went back home and carefully examined every ear of his corn. He found only nine that he thought were as good as the one I had pointed out. He went back through the whole pile again and finally found the tenth ear. He sent those ten ears to the state fair—and won first prize. Do you see? Knowing a little of how to prepare the exhibit made a state winner out of a corn crop that was an 'also ran' at the county fair."

Manicuring the Pig.

Now the boy who is preparing a pig or a calf for the fair has a more complicated task than the one who enters some corn. With the corn boy the whole problem is selecting the right ears. With the others it is not only selecting the right individual but doing a great many things to put that individual in the best possible form, and to keep it so.

Weeks or even months in advance of the fair the boy must start getting his calf or pig tame. At a particular time it may be necessary to pare the pig's toenails so that he will stand up straight without too much bend at the pasterns. But he must be careful not to pare them too close. A limping pig is not likely to be a prize winner. Several weeks before the fair he should trim the hair out of the pig's ears, being careful to do it in such a way that the ears will be irregular in outline. He should provide a clean wash-bowl for the pig to keep the hair and skin soft and pliable—and he ought to know the trick of the trade that a little oil on the surface of the water helps a great deal; also that a little linsseed meal, properly fed to the pig, puts a peculiar gloss on the hair.

He must remember to have the right kind of crate ready in plenty of time. Many boys have failed to get their pigs to the fair because, when the time came to ship, there was no crate. The department has special sets of specifications for pig crates, calf crates and others. A very important thing to remember in connection with the crate is that the pig grows at a pretty rapid clip. The crate must be built big enough for the pig, not when the crate is made but allowing for growth between then and fair time. And it must not be big enough to permit the pig to turn around. The boy must remember that the pig should not be fed just before shipping. No matter how much the little rascal cries for corn he must not be indulged. If he is fed he is very likely to get sick on the train and go through the whole fair in a droopy, drowsy, unprizelike-looking way.

Prizes Are Not All.

These are just a few of the things that must be remembered in preparing a pig for the fair. And there are equally many with regard to the calf, or the dairy cow, or the poultry, or any of the things, practically, that the boy or girl, man or woman wants to exhibit at the fair.

Even with all the care possible the animal or other product may not be a prize winner. There can't be prizes for every exhibitor. The fair that tries to arrange things so that everybody can get a prize does not amount to much usually. It does not mean anything to win a prize when you are the only exhibitor in your class. And, as the experts in the department of agriculture point out, the prize is not the main thing after all. To be sure the boys and girls and men and women who get things ready for the fair are contributing to an education for the public—but the main thing for them is the education they get themselves.

"Take part in the contest," say the experts. "For your own sake. You will have a better pig, a better calf, a better pound-of butter, a better can of peaches next year by reason of having exhibited this year, whether you win or not. And, with proper attention to preparation, the prizes are sure to come, too, sooner or later."

GENERAL FARM NOTES

The silo is a good thing.

Legumes and live stock mean soil fertility.

The honey bee does not have a very long life, but he keeps busy while he's here.

Commercial cultures for inoculating alfalfa may be bought at almost any seed store.

More grass land is needed on some farms. Those who have live stock need grazing.

RAILROAD MAN IS OUT WITH FACTS

So badly Run-down He Had to Quit Work—Gains Twenty Pounds On Tanlac

Tanlac has not only relieved me of a case of stomach trouble that made me miserable for three or four years, but I have actually gained twenty pounds in weight besides," said Charles O. Schwendel, of 3115 Vliet Street, Milwaukee, Wis., recently. Mr. Schwendel is night watchman in the yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad and has lived in Milwaukee all his life.

"Nothing I would eat agreed with me," he continued, "and the sight or smell of food would nauseate me. Right after eating I would have terrible pains in my stomach, I would bloat up with gas and suffer with pains around my heart. At times this gas would almost cut off my breath and would make me so weak I could hardly stand and when I would bend over to throw a switch I would pitch forward on my hands and knees. I couldn't sleep more than two hours a day and just had to force myself to work.

"I tried everything I heard of, but got no better. Then I laid off from work for some time trying to rest up. One of my neighbors persuaded me to try Tanlac and it has made me feel like a new man. I am eating any and everything I want without the least trouble from it and I sleep like a log. I haven't had a pain or an ache of any kind and will always have a good word to say for Tanlac." Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

HOW TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF COTTON CLASSING AND MARKETING SERVICE

Edgar H. Kemp, County Agent.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture proposes to conduct the grading and marketing of cotton for the coming season as follows: There are some twenty odd officers scattered throughout the State with two central offices, one of which is at Dallas and the other at Houston. These and the local offices are in charge of very competent men who will grade and staple cotton for farmers and merchants in their respective and adjoining counties and assist them in obtaining fair market prices for their cotton. When local prices are not in line with the values elsewhere the cotton classer will endeavor to find an outside market for cotton classed by him.

I wish to urge the people by all means to take advantage of this. The two offices nearest Young county are located at 1308 S. W. Life Bldg., Dallas, Texas, in charge of W. M. Mangum; and at Weatherford, Texas, in charge of S. O. Brown. This latter office is the logical place for the classing of Young county's crop. A circular issued by this office which is explanatory is reproduced in part:

"The major part of the expense for maintaining these offices is paid by the citizens of the counties in which the offices are established. The farmers of Parker county made application for one of the offices to be located at Weatherford and guaranteed the salary and office expense of a man in charge and secured this valuable service. They desire that every farmer or cotton owner take advantage of this service, no matter whether he is a member of the Parker County Farmers' Agricultural Advisory Board or signed one of the guarantee notes; also farmers living in other counties not having this service are urged to use the office at Weatherford, Parker County, Texas. A uniform charge of 50c per bale for classing and marketing service will be made to help pay the expenses of the Weatherford office.

"Complete arrangements have been perfected whereby any person, no matter in what part of county or state he may live, may have his cotton classed at the Weatherford office on the same basis as the farmer living within a mile of town, by following the instructions given below. The purpose of this service is to give the grower or owner of cotton the correct class and staple of his cotton and at the same time supply him market prices. Aid will also be given in finding a sale for the cotton. The farmer's interests will at all times be protected; he will be given the correct class, no more and no less, and if his cotton has extra length or staple he will be informed of its market value and be given assistance in selling to an advantage.

"It is very important that a true sample be taken from each bale. If the utmost care is used in furnishing a sample that truly represents the bale of cotton to be delivered, we can build a reputation for our grades that will secure a better market. These samples must be taken from both sides of the bale, therefore carry your cotton direct to the cotton warehouse, yard or compress, so this can be done. The samples must be drawn by public weigher or his representative, at cotton warehouse, cotton yard, compress or gin. Enclose between sample from each side of bale the duplicate number of bale, sign plainly name and address of owner and enclose with sample. If unable to bring sample, send them; accompanied by classing fee of 50c for each bale, to S. L. Brown, Cotton Classer, First National Bank building, Weatherford, Texas. Our cotton classer, S. L. Brown, will appoint a man in each town in Parker county, and all other counties that are to use this cotton classing and marketing office, to take samples from bales. The men appointed will be furnished government wrappers for mailing samples."
