BANK DEPOSITS

The Leader published last week the called statements of the financial condition of the two Graham National banks and the State bank at Loving. These statements disclose a growing and a very satisfactory condition of money affairs in our county; the three banks reporting individual deposits of $1,349,231.57, with total resources of $1,694,200.52.

The two Graham banks show an increase in deposits of over a quarter of a million dollars since their last report was published on June 30, this year, and the Loving bank shows an increase of over sixty-four thousand dollars for the same period. The other banks of the county are also making progressive showings. This at the very beginning of the busy season. When we finish threshing and gathering cotton and feed crops, with what is coming in for live stock and oil development, we'll have a good deal more money in our banks by the time the next report is due.

GOVERNOR HOBBY ISSUES PROCLAMATION

It is important that at least one day in each year be set aside as Fire Prevention Day.

Conserving the created wealth of the State and country made possible the success of our military forces in the late world conflict, and to continue to conserve will enable us to turn more readily from war to the pursuits of peace and happiness, and retain our rank among the foremost nations of the world.

I can think of no more destructive force with which we must reckon than fire. Statistics show that the annual fire waste in Texas is about 15,000,000, and that fully 75 per cent of the fires that occur are preventable.

The most effective remedy for fire waste is to be found in fire prevention, and it is to encourage our people in that respect that Fire Prevention Day has been established. It is intended to remind us that we should incessantly exert the utmost care.

Now, therefore, I, W. P. Hobby, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim Thursday, October 9, A. D., 1919, as Fire Prevention Day in Texas, and do particularly urge that all property owners within this State, give personal attention on that day to the inspection of heating appliances, to the end that they may be safely arranged and in proper condition for winter use; that all chimneys, flues and heating apparatus be carefully examined; that all public and private institutions, schools, hotels, asylums, factories and theatres be carefully looked over on that day, and, where necessary, that changes be made to further protect the safety of occupants.

I call on the mayors of all our cities, towns and villages to issue and publish their proclamations calling attention to the need for systematic effort in the prevention of fire.

Let the various Boards of Education throughout the State, and the teachers of our public and private schools, teach the children under their care the importance of every precaution to avoid fire, and let those having the responsibility and care of children, particularly in our public schools, on that day inaugurate fire drills, and such instruction as may impress upon those under their care the ordinary fire dangers and simple methods of fire prevention and rescue work, and that such drills be made a permanent feature of the school work.

I urge that every civic and commercial organization within the State, join in the observance of the day; that our Fire Chiefs and City Fire Marshals plan and direct specific work on this day, and give their co-operation with civic and commercial organizations in an effort to reduce the fire waste.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the seal of State to be affixed hereon, at my office in the city of Austin, Texas, this 19th day of September, A. D. 1919.

W. P. HOBBY,
Governor of Texas.
GEO. F. HOWARD,
Secretary of State.

If you want a Loan or your Loan renewed, see me at once. I represent the Texas Land & Mortgage Co., the company that helps out during the dry years.—E. C. STOVALL. 6p.

FLU MAY COME AGAIN THIS YEAR

On the twenty-first day of September, 1918, the first case of influenza in Texas was reported to the State Health Department. The first case was followed in rapid succession by others from different parts of the State.

No equinoctial storm ever recorded reached such a fury or exacting toll in loss of life comparable to this pandemic which made its appearance in our State last fall.

It is a well known fact among medical men that one of the special characteristics of influenza is that it recurs in cycles, and with each return records a heavy mortality. In each cycle outbreak in the past the disease has reappeared in the fall and winter for from one to three years following the initial outbreak.

The great epidemic of 1889 was followed by outbreaks in the fall and winter for three years following, and with an increasing mortality rate each year. The same history is recorded of epidemics of influenza in Europe, and, in fact, as far back as we have been able to gather statistics, each initial outbreak of influenza has been followed by recurrences in the next two or three years following. Since it is well known that history repeats itself, we may reasonably expect a recurrence of this dreadful disease this fall and winter, with a high mortality, especially from pneumonia.

I can not predict with certainty that we will have another epidemic of influenza this fall and winter, but I can with certainty say that if we do not, the history of epidemics of influenza in the past will not hold good for the future.

In the light of past knowledge and experience, it would be nothing short of criminal to take no steps to protect the public against a possible recurrence of last season's devastation. Based on incomplete statistics from rural and urban reports, it is estimated that there were approximately 450,000 deaths from influenza in the United States and approximately 25,000 in Texas, from the recent epidemic. The epidemic last year which swept over the country with hurricane like rapidity, found the country depleted of its doctors and nurses, many communities having neither. At this time most of them have been released from the army and have come back to us rich in experience and trained in public health.

The excessively heavy rains this year have caused an unusually heavy growth of vegetation which is apparent not only in the small villages and towns, but even in our larger cities, while pools of stagnant water, and litters of garbage are to be seen in far too many places.

I am now calling upon you to begin an active campaign in anticipation of a possible recurrence of influenza, and as a matter of civic pride and health protection in general.

In every village, town and city, health boards should be organized, or rejuvenated, where they already exist, and a "clean-up" campaign put on, and every possible means taken to be prepared for any emergency.

Local health officers should at once call a meeting of their local health boards if they have one, or a meeting for the purpose of organizing one if they do not already have one, and then enlist the aid of the Commercial Clubs, Civic Clubs, Boards of Trade, Social Welfare Workers, Parent-Teachers Associations and all other organizations interested in civic advancement and the betterment of health conditions in their communities.

I am calling upon the newspapers of the State to join me in this note of warning and trust that every paper in the State will not only copy this article, but add such comment as they feel will be helpful in promoting this defensive work in the interest of humanity.

If these preventive measures are not taken, then from past experiences with influenza, you may reasonably expect your community to suffer the penalty of your neglect.

C. W. GODDARD, M. D.
State Health Officer.

TO SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS AND TEACHERS

The principal benefit of the educational work done on Fire Prevention Day will come from the children under your care. Your co-operation is requested by permitting the children to be spoken to wherever arrangement has been made by fire officials or other interested citizens. We also suggest that teachers make it a point to let every recitation on October 9th include some thought or suggestion in connection with the conservation of life and property with reference to fire. Make it a point in particular to speak of the danger incident to the careless handling or misuse of gasoline and kerosene. In order that you may have some late data from which to impress a lesson on this point, we quote below the reported loss of life and injuries from fire during the first 15 days of September, 1919:

"Total number of persons burned to death first 15 days of September, 8. Of these two were male and six female; six were adults and two were children; six of the deaths were due to gasoline and kerosene, and in every instance could have been avoided."

"Total number of persons injured from fire, but who will recover, during the same period of time, 23; all male. Twenty-one were adults and two were children. Thirteen of these injuries were due to gasoline and kerosene, and in every instance was avoidable."

We further suggest that the English classes in all grades be requested to write compositions or themes on the subject of Fire Prevention and that the teachers carefully grade such compositions and make them the basis of other instruction to their respective pupils.

S. W. INGISH,
State Fire Marshal.

WOULDN'T TAKE A FORTUNE FOR IT

All Her Friends Come to See What Tanlac Did For Mrs. Lynch.

"I wouldn't take a fortune for the good Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. A. F. Lynch, of 164 Central St., Galesburg, Ill., recently.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for about five years," she continued, "and hadn't been able to eat a regular meal for several years and during this time I suffered awfully with cramps, dizzy spells and terrible throbbing headaches. I was often troubled with gas on my stomach that bloated me up so I could hardly breathe. I also suffered with my kidneys and was so constipated that my condition alarmed me at times, for I just didn't seem to be able to get any relief from this trouble. I was never free from a dull, aching pain across the small of my back and got so weak and rundown that I was laid up for as much as a week at a time."

"Tanlac has done me a wonderful amount of good; I eat three meals a day now and am never troubled with indigestion, bloating or headaches. My kidneys don't worry me and I am not constipated now. My condition has improved so I can do all my house work. I am perfectly well in every way and people who have heard about my recovery come to see if all they hear is true, and it don't take me long to convince them of the facts."

GRAHAM CITIZENS MAKE AIR FLIGHT

A man and woman arrived here from Dallas with an airplane Monday and put in most of the afternoon in making flights with passengers whom they charged one dollar a minute for the time in the air, the minimum price being $15.00.

Tuesday the aviator put on a nose spin with his machine and a passenger and fell, breaking one wing and the propeller so that flights were discontinued until new parts can be received from Dallas. The machine will likely be repaired Saturday morning, when several other citizens, who have already purchased tickets, will make flights. In the flights all kinds of stunts are pulled if the passenger so desires and is willing to pay $10.00 for either a loop the loop or nose spin.

ALTON PACKARD, PUNCTUAL

Alton Packard, master cartoonist and humorist extraordinary who compounds and dispenses the joy on "Joy Night" at the Redpath Chautauque, is one of the most scrupulously punctual of all public men in keeping appointments.

After filling his Chautauque engagement at Fayetteville, N. C., May 26th, he missed the only train which could get him to Monroe, N. C. for the next evening. So he drove in an automobile the entire distance, one hundred and fifty-two miles, spending most of the day on the road and $45.00 in cold cash, reaching Monroe at seven in the evening, travel worn and weary, but still undaunted. After supper and a brief rest he was on the platform promptly on time with his "Joy Night" smile and intellectual disguise ready for action and the famous Packard 1919 model, high speed self starter properly adjusted. Packard says that "Joy Nighting" is not unadulterated joy—neither is Fording a hundred and fifty-two miles on a warm day when you are a Packard.

There is a South-wide effort to increase the Sunday School enrollment and attendance of all the Baptist Sunday Schools, at least fifty per cent, during the months of October and November. This should be easy for the Graham Baptists with so many new folks in town. Next Sunday is Promotion Day and the first Sunday of the new quarter. If all the Baptists in Graham and the children in Baptist homes will come next Sunday we will start our new Sunday School year with the fifty per cent increase. Wake up, Baptists, and go to Sunday School next Sunday. We also give a cordial invitation to all who do not attend Sunday School to come. We will do our best to make you welcome.

ATTENTION, GRAHAM BAPTISTS

Sunday School opens promptly at 10 o'clock. Talk Sunday School. Be a booster for 300 present next Sunday.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

It was a gay little crowd that met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Babb on last Saturday afternoon to help celebrate the fifth birthday of their little daughter, Vera Maye.

Games were played until the little folks were tired, and then came the crowning event of the party, cutting the big white birthday cake with its five little blue candles. Much merriment was caused by the finders of the prizes which were hidden in the cake.

Many pleasing gifts were brought the little hostess and every one hopes Vera Maye will have a party every birthday. Mrs. Babb was assisted in entertaining by Miss Lois Babb, Cherry and chocolate ice cream, candy and chewing gum were served to the following: Lois Babb, Mina Taylor, Bernice Smith, Lucile and Mildred Walker, Lois Cunningham, Lou Matthews, Margaret Nell and Dorothy Hodges, Juanita and Kathleen Harmon, Edna Pearl Dowdle, Eva Wood, Tackett, Flint Gibbs, Harry K. and Wee Wee Pendergast, Jessie Leok, George Mayes, Frank Matthews, and William Edward Bell.

W. L. Graves returned to Bridgeport Monday after spending Sunday here visiting his mother and other relatives.

YOUNG COUNTY ACREAGE BRINGS OVER $60,000.00

A. A. Rochell and Sam Osburn, of Mineral Wells, have sold for E. D. Davis and John Garrett, of Oklahoma City, several tracts of land near Jean; the largest of which is a 1500-acre tract right at Jean with railroad running through same.

The purchase was made by T. M. Weed, W. N. Tumlin and S. A. Osburn, representing a syndicate of Atlanta, Georgia, composed of the following well known business men and capitalists: Geo. W. Tumlin and W. N. Tumlin Brothers, are manufacturers and retailers of soda water and soda fountain supplies. These men have several stores in Atlanta; Ralph H. Martin, secretary and treasurer of the Martin-Osburn Realty Company; L. E. Morehead, general manager for a large cigar company; A. M. Stewart, president of the DeKalb County Bank, and a chain of other banks; W. R. Word, insurance and real estate; T. M. Word, real estate, also a very large stockholder in the Kytex Oil Company, of Louisville, Kentucky; Armentis Wright, very prominent attorney. Mr. Rochell and Mr. Osburn are also members of this syndicate, which will be known as the Young County, Texas, Oil and Lease Syndicate of Atlanta, Georgia.

Part of this acreage is near the well now being drilled by Mr. Rochell, et al, and known as the Mattie Gervis Oil Company, which is now underreaming at a depth of 1500 feet, having about 25 feet more to underream. They are putting in 10-inch casing.

The Mattie Gervis has already had six phenomenal showings of oil, one of which being only 310 feet with a 60-foot sand and estimated by the drillers at making from 5 to 10 barrels per day. Things are looking very bright for big production. The Mattie Gervis is intended, however, first of all to be a deep test as their drilling contract calls for a depth of 4,000 feet. After that the shallow tests are to be developed.

After making a thorough investigation of the different oil fields, including Burk Burnett, Caddo and Ranger, the committee representing the Atlanta syndicate decided to invest in Young county, believing this field to be only repeating the early history of Stephens county. It is predicted by prominent geologists that the continual showing of shallow sands warrants the expectation of a second Burk Burnett field.

In speaking of their visit to Graham, these gentlemen were very enthusiastic and believe great things are in store for Graham. These Atlanta gentlemen are to be congratulated that they should have connected with them Mr. Rochell, whose holdings in Young, Stephens, Throckmorton and other counties run into the thousands of acres.

A meeting of this company will be held in Atlanta, Georgia, the first part of October when it will be decided just what and when developments will be made and where the main office will be located. Mr. Osburn, who has been spending the last several months in Mineral Wells, will leave within the next day or so to be present at this meeting. Holding as he does the splendid confidence of his associates and having been the organizer of this syndicate, Young county looks to him for early development of these recently purchased lands.

ONLY FOUR PAGES

Owing to trouble with our linotype we were through late last week and are able to give only four pages this week. Through the kindness of Ralph Shuffler, of the Olney-Enterprises, who furnished us the part we needed on the linotype, we were able to go to work at 2 o'clock this morning. We expect to hand our readers twelve pages next week to make up for the loss this week.

Did you get your ride in the airplane before the big drop?

Wood, wood, wood. Somebody please bring in some wood, or many of us will go supperless to bed and wake up with a poor prospect for breakfast.

The Magnificent Ambersons

"A GOOD-LOOKING FOOL-BOY WITH THE PRIDE OF SATAN."

Synopsis—Major Amberson had made a fortune in 1870 when other people were losing fortunes, and the magnificence of the Ambersons began then. Major Amberson laid out a 20-acre "development," with roads and stately, and in the center of a four-acre tract, on Amberson avenue, built for himself the most magnificent mansion Midland City had ever seen. When the major's daughter married young Wilbur Minafer, the neighbors predicted that as Isabel could never really love Wilbur all her love would be bestowed upon the children. There is only one child, however, George Amberson Minafer, and his upbringing and his youthful accomplishments as a mischief maker are quite in keeping with the most pessimistic predictions. By the time George goes away to college he does not attempt to conceal his belief that the Ambersons are about the most important family in the world. At a ball given in his honor when he returns from college, George monopolizes Lucy Morgan, a stranger and the prettiest girl present, and sits on famously with her until he learns that a "queer-looking duck" at whom he had been looking with fun, is the young lady's father. He is Eugene Morgan, a former resident of Bigburg, and he is returning to erect a factory and to build horseless carriages of his own invention. Eugene had been an old admirer of Isabel's and they had been engaged when Isabel threw him over because of a youthful indiscretion and married Wilbur Minafer.

CHAPTER IV—Continued.

"Give me the next and the one after that," he said hurriedly, recovering some presence of mind, just as the nearest applicant reached them. "And give me every third one the rest of the evening."

She laughed. "Are you asking?"

"What do you mean, asking?"

"It sounded as though you were just telling me to give you all those dances."

"Well, I want 'em!" George insisted. "Are you going to give me—"

"Good gracious!" she laughed. "Yes!"

The applicants flocked round her, urging contracts for what remained, but they did not dislodge George from her side, though he made it evident that they succeeded in annoying him; and presently he extricated her from an accumulating siege—she must have connived in the extrication—and bore her off to sit beside him upon the stairway that led to the musicians' gallery, where they were sufficiently retired, yet had a view of the room.

"How'd all those ducks get to know you so quick?" George inquired, with little enthusiasm.

"Oh, I've been here a week."

"Looks as if you'd been pretty busy!" he said. "Most of those ducks, I don't know what my mother wanted to invite 'em here for."

"Perhaps it was on account of their parents," Miss Morgan suggested mildly. "Maybe she didn't want to offend their fathers and mothers."

"Oh, hardly! I don't think my mother need worry much about offending anybody in this old town."

"It must be wonderful," said Miss Morgan. "It must be wonderful, Mr. Amberson—Mr. Minafer, I mean."

"What must be wonderful?"

"To be so important as that!"

"That isn't important," George assured her. "Anybody that really is anybody ought to be able to do about as they like in their own town. I should think!"

She looked at him critically from under her shading lashes—but her eyes grew gentler almost at once. In truth, they became more appreciative than critical. George's imperious good looks were altogether manly, yet approached actual beauty as closely as a boy's good looks should dare; and dance music and flowers have some effect upon nineteen-year-old girls as well as upon eighteen-year-old boys.

The stairway was drafty; the steps were narrow and uncomfortable; no older person would have remained in such a place. Moreover, these two young people were strangers to each other; neither had said anything in which the other had discovered the slightest intrinsic interest; there had not arisen between them the beginnings of congeniality, or even of friendliness—but stairways near ballrooms have more to answer for than have moonlit lakes and mountain sunsets.

Age, confused by its own long accumulation of follies, is everlastingly inquiring, "what does she see in him?" as if young love came about through thinking—or through conduct. At eighteen one goes to a dance, sits with a stranger on a stairway, feels peculiar, thinks nothing, and becomes incapable of any plan whatever. Miss Morgan and George stayed where they were.

They had agreed to this in silence and without knowing it; certainly without exchanging glances of intelligence—they had exchanged no glances at all. Both sat staring vaguely out into the ballroom, and for a time, they did not speak. Here and there were to be seen couples so carried away that, ceasing to move at the decroops, even glide, considered most knowing, they pranced and whirled through the throng, from wall to wall, galloping bounteously in abandon. George suffered a shock of vague surprise when he perceived that his aunt, Fanny Minafer, was the lady-half of one of those wild couples. She flew over the floor in the capable arms of the queer-looking duck; for this person was her partner.

The queer-looking duck had been a real dancer in his day, it appeared; and evident his day was not yet over. In spite of the headlong, gey rapidity with which he bore Miss Fanny about the big room he danced authoritatively, avoiding without effort the slightest collision with other couples, maintaining sufficient grace throughout his wildest moments, and all the while laughing and talking with his partner. What was most remarkable to George, and a little irritating, this stranger in the Amberson mansion had no vestige of the air of deference proper to a stranger in such a place; he seemed thoroughly at home. He seemed offensively so, indeed, when, passing the entrance to the gallery stairway, he disengaged his hand from Miss Fanny's for an instant, and not pausing in the dance, waved a laughing salutation more than cordial, then capered lightly out of sight.

George gazed stonily at this manifestation, responding neither by word nor sign. "How's that for a bit of freshness?" he murmured.

"What was?" Miss Morgan asked.

"That queer-looking duck waving his hand at me like that. Except he's the Sharon girls' uncle I don't know him from Adam."

"You don't need to," she said. "He wasn't waving his hand to you; he meant me."

"Oh, he did?" George was not mollified by the explanation. "Everyone seems to mean you! You certainly do seem to have been pretty busy this week you've been here!"

She pressed her bouquet to her face again and laughed into it, not displeased. She made no other comment, and for another period neither spoke.

"Well," said George finally, "I must say you don't seem to be much of a prattler. They say it's a great way to get a reputation for being wise—never saying much. Don't you ever talk at all?"

"When people can understand," she answered.

He had been looking moodily out at the ballroom, but he turned to her quickly, at this, saw that her eyes were sunny and content, over the top of her bouquet, and he consented to smile.

"Girls are usually pretty fresh!" he said. "They ought to go to a man's college about a year; they'd get taught a few things about freshness! What you got to do after two o'clock tomorrow afternoon?"

"A whole lot of things. Every minute filled up."

"All right," said George. "The snow's fine for sleighing; I'll come for you in a cutter at ten minutes after two."

"I can't possibly go."

"If you don't," he said, "I'm going to sit in the cutter in front of the gate, wherever you're visiting, all afternoon, and if you try to go out with anybody else he's got to whip me before he gets you." And as she laughed—though she blushed a little, too—he continued, seriously: "If you think I'm not in earnest you're at liberty to make quite a big experiment!"

She laughed again. "I don't think I've often had so large a compliment as that," she said, "especially on such short notice—and yet I don't think I'll go with you."

"You be ready at ten minutes after two."

"No, I won't."

"Yes, you will!"

"Yes," she said, "I will!" And her partner for the next dance arrived, breathless with searching.

"Don't forget I've got the third from now," George called after her.

When "the third from now" came George presented himself before her without any greeting, like a brother or a mannersless old friend. Both George and Miss Morgan talked much more to everyone else that evening than to each other, and they said nothing at all at this time. Both looked preoccupied as they began to dance, and preserved a gravity of expression to the end of the number. And their next number they did not dance, but went back to the gallery stairway, seeming to have reached an understanding without any verbal consultation that this suburb was again the place for them.

"Well," said George coolly, when they were seated, "what did you say your name was?"

"Morgan."

"Funny name!"

"Everybody else's name always is."

"I didn't mean it was really funny," George explained. "That's just one of my crowd's bits of horsing at college. We always say 'funny name,' so matter what it is. I guess we're pretty fresh sometimes; but I knew your name was Morgan because my mother said so downstairs. I meant: what's the rest of it?"

"Lucy."

"How old are you?" George asked.

"I don't really know myself."

"What do you mean; you don't really know yourself?"

"I mean I only know what they tell me. I believe them, of course, but believing isn't really knowing."

"Look here!" said George. "Do you always talk like this?"

Miss Lucy Morgan laughed forgivingly, put her young head on one side like a bird and responded cheerfully: "I'm willing to learn wisdom. What are you studying at school?"

"College!"

"At the university? Yes. What are you studying there?"

George laughed. "Lot o' useless guff!"

"Then why don't you study some useful guff?"

"What do you mean: 'useful'?"

"Something you'd use later, in your business or profession?"

George waved his hand impatiently. "I don't expect to go into any 'business or profession.'"

"No?"

"Certainly not!" George was emphatic, being sincerely annoyed by a suggestion which showed how utterly he failed to comprehend the kind of person he was.

"Just look at 'em!" she asked mildly, with bitterness, and he made a gesture presumably intended to indicate the business and professional men now dancing within range of vision. "That's a due career for a man, isn't it? Lawyers, bankers, politicians! What do they get out of life, I'd like to know! What do they ever know about real things? Where do they ever get?"

He was so earnest that she was surprised and impressed. She had a vague, momentary vision of Pitt, at twenty-one, prime minister of England; and she spoke, involuntarily in a lowered voice, with deference:

"What do you want to be?" she asked.

George answered promptly. "A yachtsman," he said.

CHAPTER V.

Having, thus, in a word, revealed his ambition for a career above courts, marts and polling booths, George breathed more deeply than usual, and, turning his face from the lovely companion whom he had just made his confidant, gazed out at the dancers with an expression in which there was both sternness and a contempt for the squalid lives of the unyachted Midlanders before him. However, among them he marked his mother, and his somber grandeur relaxed momentarily; a more genial light came into his eyes.

Isabel was dancing with the queer-looking duck; and it was to be noted that the lively gentleman's gait was more sedate than it had been with

"Are You Engaged to Anybody?"

Miss Fanny Minafer, but not less dexterous and authoritative. He saw George and the beautiful Lucy on the stairway and nodded to them. George waved his hand vaguely; he had a momentary return of that inexplicable uneasiness and resentment which had troubled him downstairs.

"How lovely your mother is!" Lucy said.

"I think she is," he agreed gently. "She's the gracefulst woman in that ballroom. How wonderfully they dance together!"

"Who?"

"Your mother—and the queer-looking duck," said Lucy. "I'm going to dance with him pretty soon."

"I don't care—so long as you don't give him one of the numbers that belong to me."

"I'll try to remember," she said, and thoughtfully lifted to her face the bouquet of violets and lilies, a gesture which George noted without approval.

"Look here! Who sent you those flowers you keep makin' such a fuss over?"

"He did."

"Who's he?"

"The queer-looking duck."

George feared no such rival; he laughed loudly. "I s'pose he's some old widower!" he said, the object thus described seeming ignominious enough to a person of eighteen, without additional characterization.

Lucy became serious at once. "Yes, he is a widower," she said. "I ought to have told you before; he's my father."

George stopped laughing abruptly. "Well, that's a horse on me. If I'd known he was your father of course I wouldn't have made fun of him. I'm sorry."

"Nobody could make fun of him," she said quietly.

"Why couldn't they?"

"It wouldn't make him funny; it would only make themselves silly."

Upon this George had a gleam of intelligence. "Well, I'm not going to make myself silly any more, then; I don't want to take chances like that with you. But I thought he was the Sharon girls' uncle. He came with them—"

"Yes," she said; "I'm always late to everything; I wouldn't let them wait for me. We're visiting the Shadrans."

"About time I knew that! You forget my being so fresh about your father, will you? Of course he's a distinguished-looking man, in a way."

Lucy was still serious. "In a way?" she repeated. "You mean, not in your way, don't you?"

George was perplexed. "How do you mean; not in your way?"

"People often do in a way and 'rather distinguished-looking' or 'rather so-and-so'—anything, to show that they don't think they. It's a kind of saying 'rather' or 'in' or 'so superior.'"

"I should say not! I use both of 'em a great deal myself," said George. "One thing I don't see, though: What's the use of a man being six feet, three? Men that size can't handle themselves as well as a man about five feet eleven and a half can."

George was a straightforward soul, at least. "See here!" he said. "Are you engaged to anybody?"

"No."

Not wholly mollified, he shrugged his shoulders. "You seem to know a good many people! Do you live in New York?"

"No. We don't live anywhere."

"What do you mean; you don't live anywhere?"

"We've lived all over," she answered. "Papa used to live here in this town, but that was before I was born."

"What do you keep moving around so far? Is he a promoter?"

"No. He's an inventor."

"What's he invented?"

"Just lately," said Lucy, "he's been working on a new kind of horseless carriage."

"Well, I'm sorry for him," George said, in no unkindly spirit. "Those things are never going to amount to anything. People aren't going to spend their lives lying on their backs in the road and letting grease drip in their faces."

"Papa'd be so grateful," she returned, "if he could have your advice."

Instantly George's face became flushed. "I don't know that I've done anything to be insulted for!" he said. "I don't see that what I said was particularly fresh."

"No, indeed!"

"Then what do you—"

She laughed gayly. "I don't! And I don't mind your being such a lofty person at all. I think it's ever so interesting—but papa's a great man!"

"Is he?" George decided to be good-natured. "Well, let us hope so, I hope so, I'm sure."

Looking at him keenly, she saw that the magnificent youth was incredibly sincere in this bit of graciousness. She shook her head in gentle wonder. "I'm just beginning to understand," she said.

"Understand what?"

"What it means to be a real Amberson in this town. Papa told me something about it before we came, but I see he didn't say half enough!"

George superbly took this all for tribute. "Did your father say he knew the family before he left here?"

"Yes. I believe he was particularly a friend of your Uncle George; and he didn't say so, but I imagine he must have known your mother very well, too. He wasn't an inventor then; he was a young lawyer. The town was smaller in those days, and I believe he was quite well known."

fly are all very glad to see him back, especially if they used to have him at the house a good deal, as he told you."

"I don't think he meant to boast of it," she said. "He spoke quite calmly," she retorted, as her partner for the next dance arrived.

She took wing away on the breeze of the waltz, and George, having stared gloomily after her for a few moments, postponed filling an engagement, and strolled round the fluctuating outskirts of the dance to where his uncle, George Amberson, stood smilingly watching, under one of the rose-vine arches at the entrance to the room.

"Hello, young namesake," said the uncle. "Why lingers the laggard heel of the dancer? Haven't you got a partner?"

"She's sitting around waiting for me somewhere," said George. "See here: Who is this fellow Morgan that Aunt Fanny Minafer was dancing with a while ago?"

Amberson laughed. "He's a man with a pretty daughter, Georgie. Meantime you've been spending the evening noticing something of that sort—or do I err?"

"Never mind! What sort is he?"

"I think we'll have to give him a character, Georgie. He's an old friend; used to practice law here—perhaps he had more debts than cases, but he paid 'em all up before he left town. Your question is purely mercenary, I take it; you want to know his true worth before proceeding further with the daughter. I cannot inform you, though I notice signs of considerable prosperity in that becoming dress of hers. However, you never can tell. It is an age when every sacrifice is made for the young, and how your own poor mother managed to provide those genuine pearl studs for you out of her allowance from father I can't—"

"Oh, dry up!" said the nephew. "I understand this Morgan—"

"Mr. Eugene Morgan," his uncle suggested. "Politeness requires that the young should—"

"I guess the 'young' didn't know much about politeness in your day," George interrupted. "I understand that Mr. Eugene Morgan used to be a great friend of the family. The way he was dancing with Aunt Fanny—"

Amberson laughed. "I'm afraid your Aunt Fanny's heart was stirred by ancient recollections, Georgie."

"You meant she used to be silly about him?"

"She wasn't considered singular," said the uncle. "He was—he was popular. Could you bear a question?"

"What do you mean; could I bear—"

"I only wanted to ask: Do you take this same passionate interest in the parents of every girl you dance with? Perhaps it's a new fashion we old bachelors ought to take up. Is it the thing this year to—"

"Oh, go on!" said George, moving away. "I only wanted to know—"

He left the sentence unfinished, and crossed the room to where a girl sat waiting for his nobility to find time to fulfill his contract with her for this dance.

"Pardon I keep wait," he muttered, as she rose brightly to meet him; and she seemed pleased that he came at all. He danced with her perfunctorily, thinking the while of Mr. Eugene Morgan and his daughter. Strangely enough his thoughts dwelt more upon the father than the daughter, though George could not possibly have given a reason—even to himself—for this disturbing preponderance.

By a coincidence, though not an odd one, the thoughts and conversation of Mr. Eugene Morgan at this very time were concerned with George Amberson Minafer, rather casually, it is true. Mr. Morgan had retired to a room set apart for smoking, on the second floor, and had found a grizzled gentleman lounging in solitary possession.

"Gene Morgan!" this person exclaimed, rising with great heartiness. "I don't believe you know me!"

"Yes, I do, Fred Kinney!" Mr. Morgan returned with equal friendliness. "Your real face—the one I used to know—it's just underneath the one you're masquerading in tonight. You ought to have changed it more if you wanted a disguise."

"Twenty years!" said Mr. Kinney. "It makes some difference in faces, but more in behavior!"

"It does so!" his friend agreed with explosive emphasis.

They sat and smoked.

"However," Mr. Morgan remarked presently, "I still dance like an Indian. Don't you?"

"No. I leave that to my boy Fred. He does the dancing for the family."

"I suppose he's upstairs hard at it?"

"No, he's not here." Mr. Kinney glanced toward the open door and lowered his voice. "He wouldn't come. It seems that a couple of years or so ago he had a row with young George Minafer. Fred was president of a literary club they had, and he said this George Minafer got himself elected instead, in an overbearing sort of way. Fred's very bitter about his row with George Minafer. He says he'd rather burn his foot off than set it inside any Amberson house or any place else where young George is."

"Do people like young Minafer generally?"

"I don't know about 'generally.' I guess he gets plenty of toadying; but there's certainly a lot of people that are glad to express their opinions about him."

"What's the matter with him?"

"Too much Amberson, I suppose for one thing. And for another, his mother just fell down and worshiped him from the day he was born. He thinks he's a little tin god on wheels—and honestly it makes some people weak and sick just to think about him! Yet that high-spirited, intelligent woman, Isabel Amberson, actually sits and worships him! You can hear it in her voice when she speaks to him or speaks of him. You can see it in her eyes when she looks at him. My Lord! What does she see when she looks at him?"

Morgan's odd expression of genial apprehension deepened whimsically. "She sees something that we don't see," he said.

"What does she see?"

"An angel."

Kinney laughed aloud. "Well, if she sees an angel when she looks at George Minafer she's a funnier woman than I thought she was!"

"Perhaps she is," said Morgan. "But that's what she sees."

"My Lord! It's easy to see you've only known him an hour or so. In that time have you looked at George and seen an angel?"

"No. All I saw was a remarkably good-looking fool-boy with the pride of Satan and a set of nice new drawing-room manners that he probably couldn't use more than half an hour at a time without busting."

"Then what—"

"Mothers are right," said Morgan. "Mothers see the angel in us because the angel is there. If it's shown to the mother the son has got an angel to show, hasn't he? When a son cuts somebody's throat the mother only sees it's possible for a misguided angel to act like a devil—and she's entirely right about that!"

"Gene Morgan!"

Kinney laughed and put his hand on his friend's shoulder. "I remember what a fellow you always were to argue," he said. "You mean George Minafer is as much of an angel as any murderer is, and that George's mother is always right?"

"I'm afraid she always has been," Morgan said lightly.

The friendly hand remained upon his shoulder. "She was wrong once, old fellow. At least, so it seemed to me."

"No," said Morgan, a little awkwardly. "No—"

Kinney relieved the slight embarrassment that had come upon both of them; he laughed again. "Wait till you know young George a little better," he said. "Something tells me you're going to change your mind about having an angel to show, if you see anything of him!"

"You mean beauty's in the eye of the beholder, and the angel is all in the eye of the mother. If you were a painter, Fred, you'd paint mothers with angels' eyes holding lumps in their laps. Me, I'll stick to the old masters and the cherubs."

Mr. Kinney looked at him mustily. "Somebody's eyes must have been pretty anglic," he said, "if they've been persuading you that George Minafer is a cherub!"

"They are," said Morgan heartily. "They're more anglic than ever. And as a new flourish of music sounded overhead he threw away his cigarette and jumped up briskly. "Good-by; I've got this dance with her."

"With whom?"

"With Isabel!"

The grizzled Mr. Kinney affected to rub his eyes. "It startles me, young jumping up like that to go and dance with Isabel Amberson! Twenty years seem to have passed—but have they? Tell me, have you danced with poor old Fanny, too, this evening?"

"Twice!"

"My Lord! Kinney groaned half in earnest.—"Old times started all over again! My Lord!"

"Old times?" Morgan laughed gayly from the doorway. "Not a bit! There aren't any old times. When times are gone they're not old; they're dead! There aren't any times but new times!"

And he vanished in such a manner that he seemed already to have begun dancing.

"It was friendly of you. I'll not—I'll not forget it."

Encouraging Bolshevism

Everything that falsely encourages unrest also encourages bolshevism.

Misunderstanding of American industrial organization, and of its benefits to mankind, leads to unrest, dissatisfaction, and radicalism.

For example, the Federal Trade Commission tells the public that the large packers had an agreed price for lard substitute (made of cotton-seed oil).

It reproduces letters taken from the files of one of the packers, showing that such agreed price existed.

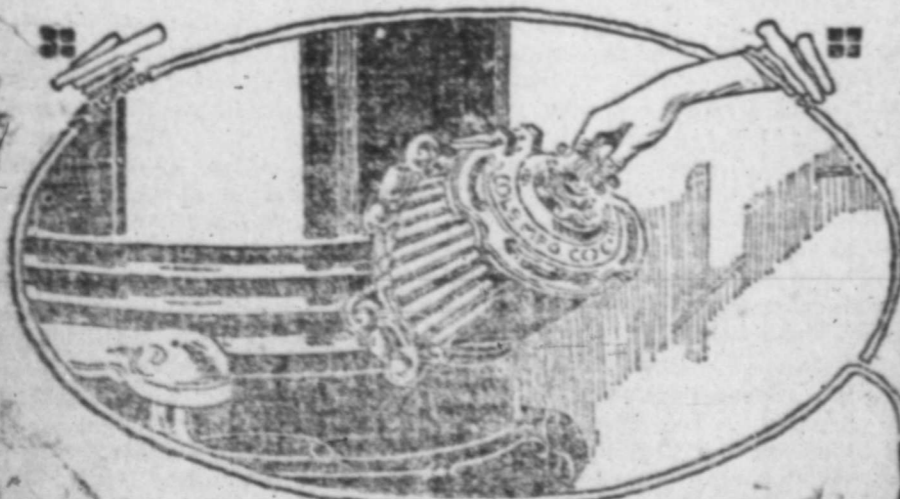

But it failed to mention that the agreed price was determined at the request of and in co-operation with the Food Administration!

Even the Department of Justice, in its unjust attempt to create prejudice against the packers, has made public these same letters, with no explanation.

How long must this kind of misrepresentation continue? In so far as it is believed, it not only breeds discontent, but results in injustice to our industry.

LUMBER SITUATION SERIOUS

Lumber recently advanced $25 per thousand feet and is now quoted at $115. We are admonished if we want to build, we had better build now as prices are low compared with what they will be a few years from now.

Our fast disappearing forests are said to be the cause, and the Houston Post has the following to say about it:

"How reckless Americans have been in destroying their wonderful resources of forests is disclosed in the fact that of the 850,000,000 acres of original virgin timber land our fathers found in this country, only about 230,000,000 acres remain. Three-fourths of those great resources wiped out in the first 150 years of the life of the nation. Only one-fourth left to meet the needs of a population of probably 120,000,000 and steadily increasing.

"How long that supply will last depends upon how energetic we are in replacing forests. At present, according to President Pack of the forestry association, who has reliable statistics, new growth of timber amounts to not more than one-third of that which is cut and used each year.

"If this ratio of destruction to renewing of forests is continued, we shall soon find ourselves without an adequate supply of timber for building and other purposes. The cost of homes will become prohibitive. The high cost of living, in so far as it pertains to houses, will continue, for there is little hope of relief until a radical change is made in the country's forest policy, which will insure an adequate lumber supply.

"Perhaps the average man has not thought that growing trees out yonder in the wilderness or in the waste spot affected him, and he has not been interested in forest problems. But the time has arrived when it directly affects everybody, and the problem of renewing the forests, of protecting those still standing from all manner of waste, is one for popular consideration.

"Public sentiment must be aroused in favor of a more adequate and definite policy by the government in regard to forests, for the bearing it has upon the home and the cost of living, if for no other reason. Nothin short of a program providing for renewing forests on a scale equal to their destruction each year will meet the situation. Fortunately the warning has been sounded in time for Americans to prevent their country from being wholly denuded of timber but delay in applying the remedy will be paid for in the future. Indeed, it is already being paid for in part now."

AGAIN WE SAY— FULL STEAM AHEAD

Excitedly, even threateningly the problem of the high cost of living has been thrust in the hands of our supreme authority, the Federal Government, for solution.

And now a lot of people are waiting in fond expectation of a sovereign remedy that will afford instant relief but still permit them to continue their excesses. The trouble lies in their looking for soothing syrup instead of taking the figurative castor oil needed.

Prosperity has gone to the heads; they spend money like water. Then when the abused weekly envelope reveals they holler for more in the envelope—and here's the important part—the poorest producer usually hollers the loudest—he has more time to think up what to say.

You can't land business in general with poor producers at high wages and then expect a low cost of living.

But the American people can be depended upon to work out their own salvation. They responded nobly to the call for economy during the war, and the present extravagance is a natural reaction. When they realize the necessity for a return to thrift, extravagance will cease.

And with this realization of the necessity for thrift must also come the realization that the false principles of Bolshevism mean carrying the non-producer at the expense of the producer. When the real workers sense this, wages will not go down but production will come up or the non-producers must get out.

But whatever the outcome, our duty as manufacturers and distributors is still clearly defined. All of us should make it a matter of conscience to name a just price on our goods—one that is just to ourselves.

This done, we can all count on the American people. Again we say—"Full Steam Ahead."—Selected.

LAND FOR THE LANDLESS

Mr. Farmer and Mr. Tennant:

YOU ARE LIVING IN A SECTION OF THE COUNTRY where farming lands have increased rapidly in price for the last several years. You have perhaps made big money yourself by buying land when it was cheap, holding it during the development of the country and then selling at an increased price, or at least you have seen this done.

Or perhaps, you have not been in position to buy any land because of circumstances, hence have not even had a home of your own during all these years.

YOU WANT A GOOD HOME. You want it near school and railroad market and you want it at such a price that you can easily pay it out in a short time and you want it with only a reasonable cash payment.

YOU WANT THIS LAND LOCATED in a good farming section where you can grow cotton, can stock farm, and can raise feed of all kinds, corn and truck—you want a farm that will make you independent in a few years.

We Have the Farms

We have just the proposition you have been looking for. It is the best land to be found on the South Plains of Texas, all red cat claw land, in a section where farmers have been averaging a half bale of cotton per acre for the last ten years—land that is well adapted to cotton, corn, feed and forage crops—in a community that has just started development.

We Have Only a Limited Number of These Farms. They will go fast. The prices are low and terms very reasonable.

If you are the right kind of a farmer with two or three thousand dollars in cash and have back-bone and a desire to work hard and pay out a home, we are ready to meet you half way.

You owe it to yourself, to your children, to your wife, to buy a home—you owe it to them to buy land that will produce—you owe it to them to buy land in a good community—you owe it to them to get in on the ground floor of the first development of a wonderful country and reap the reward of large profits from increasing values—

Then investigate today the land and the opportunity we are offering.

Do not write us. Come at once to Lubbock, let us show this land to you. Simply wire us when you will arrive and we will take care of you. If you buy a farm we will refund the expenses of your trip.

5,000 Helpless Orphans in South Are Asking the Privileges of a Home

Baptists Are Providing For That Many at Present in Fifteen Institutions But as Many More Are Waiting For Admission—The 75 Million Campaign Plans to Meet That Need.

A Group of Boys and Girls in the Tennessee Baptist Orphans Home near Nashville who are being cared for and trained for useful lives.

Does your heart go out to the worthy boy and girl bereft by the Grim Reaper of father and mother, and left alone in the world without the fostering care of those to whom they are naturally most dear in the world?

Then you will understand why Southern Baptists have established orphanages in fifteen states, are caring for 5,000 such children in those homes and training them for useful lives in the world.

But the need is far greater than the ability of these institutions to meet it. While five thousand children are being cared for in these orphanages, there are on the waiting list of these institutions fully five thousand more equally worthy, fatherless and motherless boys and girls who want the privileges which these orphanages afford but which must be denied them for the present because there is no room with which to shelter more of them.

So when the Baptist 75 Million Campaign was launched for the enlargement of the work of the denomination along general lines in an effort to meet growing spiritual needs in the homeland and throughout the world, the sum of $4,700,000 was apportioned to the orphanages, this sum to cover a program of five years, as the $75,000,000 sought in the campaign will be raised in cash and five-year pledges during Victory Week, November 30-December 7.

In the homes that have been provided for the orphans facilities are provided for giving regular schooling of the same character that is afforded in the public schools, beginning with the kindergarten and continuing to the tenth and eleventh grades in the high school. This work in the school room is supplemented, however, with practical training along industrial and other lines. For instance, the boys are given courses in practical farm work on the farms which have been purchased and are operated by the homes, livestock production, carpentering, tinwork, plumbing, laundry, and the like, as well as courses in business for those who show special adaptation for that line of work.

The school room work for the girls is supplemented with the study of music, domestic science, stenography and the like. Large attention is given to the religious life of the children, also, and this is given emphasis in the daily chapel services, and in the Sunday School and preaching services on the Sabbath.

The orphan children respond readily to the opportunities and privileges afforded them and there have gone out from these institutions a number of the most useful men and women in the various states. While taking pride in the accomplishments of the boys and girls who are in the homes at present, as well as those who have gone out from them to make their own way in the world, the superintendent and teachers are saddened by the fact that there are so many other helpless children who ought to be aided but cannot be by reason of the limitations of the homes.

Enlargements are necessary for all of the fifteen orphanages fostered by Southern Baptists which are located in the following states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

13 MILLION WHITE PEOPLE NOT SAVED

THIS IS ONE OF THE PRESSING STATE MISSION PROBLEMS IN THE SOUTHLAND.

THE SITUATION IS OUTLINED

Baptist 75 Million Campaign Has Apportioned $11,000,000 To Be Employed During the Next Five Years in Meeting Need.

Within the eighteen states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist convention are 13,000,000 white people who are not only not identified with any church, but who do not claim to be Christians according to information gathered by the Baptist 75 Million Campaign. To try and reach these people with the gospel is one of the aims of the campaign and to meet the problem the state mission organization in the various states will set themselves. To help these organizations in meeting that problem the sum of $11,000,000 has been apportioned from the total of $75,000,000 that is sought for all purposes, and during the next five years the state mission forces will seek to reach these millions of people right here at home with the gospel and enlist them in some phase of Christian work.

According to this same source of information, it is learned that there are 2,351 towns and villages in the South with a population of 200 or more in which there are no Baptist church organizations or no Baptist houses of worship, inasmuch as these towns influence more or less the surrounding territory an effort will be made to reach them and the territory surrounding them during the five-year program of the Baptists, it is announced.

There are seventy-four county seats in the South without a single Baptist church or meeting house, it has been ascertained by the campaign headquarters. By reason of the large number of public officials residing there, and the large number of people who go there from every section of the county to attend the sessions of the various courts, pay their taxes and like it is regarded that the county-seat towns are of especial importance, and it is hoped that before the next five years have passed there will be an active Baptist church in every county seat in the South.

Engaged in the work of state missions at present are 1524 missionaries, and while this may seem like a reasonable number, when the vast territory to be served is considered it has been found that fully 1,000 extra men and women are needed at once, for in addition to reaching the people who are not Christians there are many weak, struggling churches which need assistance and whose members need development. In the several states of the Southern Baptist convention, for instance, there are 5,000 churches which give but very little or any interest of the denomination and which are doing but very small things for the uplift of their communities.

In addition to these very weak churches, many of which have no pastor, there are in the various states a total of 19,533 churches which have preaching services only once a month, 3,900 churches which have services only once a month, and only about 2,200 full time churches. Part of the $11,000,000 apportioned for state missions will go to the strengthening of the weak churches and the bringing of them to full-time pastorate where possible.

Leaders in the campaign have sought to care for every interest of the denomination in the $75,000,000 that is asked in cash and five-year pledges during Victory Week, November 30-December 7, when the final drive will be made, but they recognize that the future development of the church depends in a great measure upon the development of the churches at home which is the peculiar task of state missions.

FEDERAL TROOPS PATROL OMAHA

AUTHORITIES CONFIDENT FURTHER EFFORTS AT RACE RIOTING CAN BE QUELLED.

COURTHOUSE IS SET ON FIRE

Numerous Negroes Beaten by Mob, Mayor Dragged Half Block Before Hanging.

Omaha, Neb.—Martial law has been declared in Omaha. Sixteen hundred soldiers patrol the streets.

Summed up, results of 18 hours of riot rule in Omaha, follows:

Will Brown, negro, identified by Agnes Loebeck, 19 years old, as the man who assaulted her, lynched and his body burned.

Francis Clancy shot and killed and 56 other injured.

Mayor Edward P. Smith in a serious condition at a hospital, suffering from injuries inflicted by the mob.

Douglas county's court house, newly built at a cost of $1,500,000, in ruins from fire.

Announcement by County Attorney A. V. Shotwell that he would do everything in his power to fix the responsibility for the rioting and to start prosecutions.

The attempt to lynch the mayor was made by a mob which later hanged William Brown, negro, to a light pole. A rope was thrown around the mayor's neck and he was pulled off the ground twice before two police officers succeeded in cutting the rope and getting him into an automobile and away from the mob.

The mayor had gone to the courthouse and held a consultation with Sheriff Clark. Emerging from the courthouse, he met the mob and began to make an appeal for law and order.

Half a dozen men dragged the mayor half a block and threw the loose end of the rope over a trolley pole.

Each time two police officers cut the rope. Following the second attempt, these officers succeeded in getting the mayor into a police motor car and rushed him to a surgeon's office near by.

The riot centered about the magnificent new courthouse building, which was set on fire in the efforts to reach William Brown, a negro charged with criminally attacking Agnes Loebeck, a white girl, a few days ago.

Mayor Smith has regained consciousness and is able to sit up. Physicians said the mayor had been badly beaten about the chest.

CONDITION OF PRESIDENT IS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

Goes for Short Automobile Ride in Afternoon and Then Returns to Room.

Washington.—After a day of rest President Wilson is described as being "slightly better" in an official bulletin issued by Dr. Cary Grayson, his physician.

The bulletin, which recorded the first change to be officially noted in Mr. Wilson's condition since he was taken ill, did not give details. It merely stated:

"The president is slightly better."

After a troubled night he slept from early morning until toward noon and in the afternoon was taken for an hour's automobile ride. The remainder of the day he spent quietly secluded in his room.

Miners' Demands Are Rejected.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Demands of the United Mine Workers of America for a six-hour day, five-day week, 60 per cent increase in wages and other concessions have been formally rejected by operators of the central competitive district. This district embraces coal mine owners of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

Anti-Strike Law in Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala.—A state anti-strike law was enacted by the Alabama legislature when the house passed the senate bill providing for a fine of not more than $1,000 and prison sentence for persons found guilty of entering into combinations or agreements to impede industry in the state.

Gregory Opposes Nomination of Miller

Washington.—Barry Miller of Dallas, endorsed by both the Texas senators for appointment to the federal bench for the fifth circuit in place of Judge R. L. Batts, is being opposed by former Attorney General Gregory, who is urging the appointment of Victor L. Brooks of Austin, who was a member of the Austin law firm of Gregory, Batts & Brooks.

STRIKERS TIE UP BRITISH RAILROADS

COMPLETE STOPPAGE OF RAILWAY TRANSPORTATION PERFECTED.

London.—The greatest strike in England's history is now on with practically complete stoppage of railway transportation throughout the country.

A few trains, manned by nonunionists, pulled out of the London stations Saturday. Several trains which left for the north were stopped by pickets and the engines taken off.

Liverpool's meat supply was held up. At Hartlepool the steel works closed and the iron works are dampening down.

Two great railway organizations, the National Union of Railwaymen and the Society of Engineers and Firemen, have stopped work. The miners' and transport workers' union, the latter of which includes the dock workers, are expected to join them.

The English channel steamers and railway boats plying the Irish sea probably will be tied up, cutting off England's communication with the outer world to a large degree.

The effect on business already is disastrous. The system of food distribution and the mail service are disorganized.

MEXICAN EXHIBIT AT FAIR IS DISCUSSED BY HOBBY

Governor Issues Statement Regarding Refusal to Bring Display to Dallas.

Austin, Texas.—Before leaving on his speaking tour, Governor W. P. Hobby gave out a statement with reference to Mexico's refusal to send an exhibit to the Dallas fair.

"It is better for Texas and for the state fair that the present Mexican government will not make such a display. It might, however, make a display of a good many things which would be of considerable interest in Texas."

One of them would be a disposition to treat Americans fairly and decently. There might be an American flag bespattered with the indignities cast upon it by the Mexican government through these many years and during the war with Germany, and photographs of the hundreds of American graves which are scattered throughout that country.

There might be a drawing of a huge border covering a thousand miles of our state's territory, through which there are frequent penetrations with results that are disastrous. There might be a tremendous canvas painting of the dead bodies at Columbus, New Mexico, and of the American citizens' show-down at Santa Isabel, at San Ignacio and at Carrizal.

SUFFRAGE CASE IS THROWN OUT OF COURT

Demurrer Sustained—Court Holds That the Plaintiff Has Remedy Only After Election

Waco, Texas.—In sustaining the general demurrer of the defendant in the case of Tom M. Hamilton vs. Lee R. Davis, tax collector of McLennan county, involving the validity of the woman's primary suffrage law, Judge R. L. Munroe said:

"This is a suit brought by Tom M. Hamilton against Lee R. Davis, tax collector, McLennan county, Texas, to enjoin him from issuing poll tax receipts to the women."

"In my opinion, he is not in a position to maintain this suit because if he is a candidate for the office of representative to the legislature next year and the women defeat him in the primary election, he has an adequate remedy to contest the election on the ground that women have no legal right to vote in primary elections."

"Consequently the general demurrer interposed by the defendant ought to be sustained. This being my view, it is unnecessary to pass on the question of whether or not women have the right to vote in the primary elections."

State's Fishing Industry Wiped Out Austin, Texas.—The fishing industry of the state is completely wiped out as a result of the recent hurricane. A report to that effect was made to Governor Hobby in a telegram received from Brigadier General J. F. Wolters.

Courthouse Will Stay at Boston.

Texas, Texas.—After one of the hottest elections held in 30 years, Bowie county voted that the courthouse shall remain at Boston.

Pension Checks Will Be $23

Austin, Texas.—Comptroller Henry B. Terrell has made the semi-annual appointment of confederate pensioners and each pensioner will receive $23 for each of the two next quarters which commenced on Sept. 1.

There are now about 15,700 confederate pensioners on the rolls. There was a balance of $386,951 in the state treasury on Sept. 1 to the credit of the pension fund but $370,000 was used to pay the remainder of the last quarter's apportionment.

French Complete Deconcentration.

Paris.—The deconcentration of the French army is now entirely completed, all troops except those on the Rhine having returned to their usual garrison posts.

$250,000 at Greenville.

Greenville, Texas.—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the shoe department of the Hudspeth Dry Good company, situated in one of the principal business blocks of the city, doing damage estimated at $250,000.

WILSON ABANDONS SPEAKING TOUR

IS SUFFERING FROM NERVOUS EXHAUSTION—CONDITION REPORTED NOT ALARMING.

Wichita, Kansas.—Completely worn out by more than three weeks of speechmaking for the peace treaty, President Wilson has canceled the remainder of his speaking dates and is returning at once to Washington.

Although there was nothing critical about his condition, yet Dr. Grayson, his physician, declared a nervous reaction affecting his digestive organs made suspension of his trip imperative. The president himself wanted to continue his speaking program, but Dr. Grayson would not permit it.

The presidential special will reach Washington Sunday morning. It will go by way of Kansas City and St. Louis.

The presidential train did not pull into the station at Wichita, where a large crowd was waiting to welcome the president. He was to have, spoken there and at Oklahoma City and although he wanted to at least greet the people, Dr. Grayson would not permit him to leave his private car.

Mr. Wilson has made nearly forty speeches since he left Washington on September 3, and has spent all but about half a dozen nights on the train. Five addresses remained on his uncompleted schedule. He was to have spoken in Little Rock, Memphis and in Louisville, returning to Washington from there.

Not since 1915, when he spent two weeks at Cornish, N. H., has Mr. Wilson really laid aside the worries of the presidency. Last year he took a short cruise on the yacht Mayflower, but he was occupied most of the time, as he was during his trips across the Atlantic, with important domestic and international problems.

PARIS HEARS KING OF ITALY MAY ABDICATE

Crown Council Holds Two Sessions in Rome to Consider Situation at Fiume.

Paris.—The Italian delegation was in constant communication with Rome but the only definite statement that could be obtained from the delegates was that the king's council had held two meetings and by the king's request all the members had pledged themselves not to divulge the proceedings.

Paris is alive with many unconfirmed rumors concerning the resignation of Signor Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister, the decision of Italy formally to annex Fiume, and the possible abdication of King Victor Emmanuel.

Supervisors for Texas Census

Dallas.—Appointment of eighteen district supervisors for the taking of the fourteenth decennial census is announced. Following are the men in charge of the count in the eighteen districts of Texas: A. L. Hart, Paris; J. H. Shotwell, Center; R. E. Yantis, Athens; Henry E. Ellis, Denison; W. L. Chew, Dallas; Mrs. Roy E. Smith, Hillsboro; J. H. Painter, Crockett; C. J. Kirk, Houston; Emile H. Tesek, Moulton; John D. Hudson, Georgetown; Clay McClellan, Gatesville; Glendon Level, Dickey; McAfee W. Burch, Decatur; W. G. Tobin, San Antonio; Harry W. Harkley, Uvalde; J. T. Crough, San Angelo; Albert W. Sledge, Ballinger; and James A. Hilburn, Shamrock.

West Texas Freight Blockade Predicted

Austin, Texas.—The railroad commission has issued notice of the hearing for Saturday, Oct. 4, to be held in Fort Worth in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce, to consider the protests and complaints filed by the west Texas chamber of commerce through its general manager, Porter A. Whaley. Mr. Whaley's letter to the commission complains of the railroad service in west Texas in a number of particulars and predicts a gigantic blockade within 30 or 60 days unless something material is done to relieve the situation.

Federal Reserve Governors to Meet.

Dallas.—A conference of federal reserve district governors in Washington, beginning Wednesday, Nov. 12, has been called by Gov. W. P. G. Harding of the national federal reserve board. Gov. R. L. Van Zandt of the Dallas Federal Reserve bank, who will attend the conference, has received no notice of what will be taken up at the meeting.

Cotton Seed Price Inquiry Requested.

Austin, Texas.—The attorney general's department has been called upon to make an investigation of the methods in contemplation of "stabilize" the price of cotton seed.

British Ambassador Arrives.

New York.—Arriving aboard the steamship Mauretania to assume his new post as British ambassador to the United States, Viscount Edward Grey, deplored his poor eyesight which compels him to make his mission in this country "comparatively short." He asserted he had not come to put forward any new proposals for treaties and alliances, but his object in accepting the post was to promote the existing good-will between American and British peoples.

ITALIAN PARLIAMENT ORDERED DISSOLVED

ACTION FOLLOWS FREE FIGHT IN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES. STOPS DEBATE ON FIUME.

Rome.—Parliament has been dissolved. Elections will be held Nov. 16 and parliament will reassemble Dec. 1.

Rome.—Debate in the chamber of deputies was interrupted by a free fight which lasted ten minutes and in which about 100 deputies participated.

The correct figures for the vote of confidence given the cabinet were 208 to 148 instead of 208 to 140, as at first reported. All members save official socialists gave votes of confidence.

In consequence of the fight several challenges to fight duels were announced between deputies and between deputies and journalists.

WHEN CLOCKS ARE TO BE TURNED BACK IS QUANDARY

'Last Sunday in October' May Mean Any One of Twenty-Four Hours.

Washington.—There is much confusion as to what hour the repeal of the daylight saving law recently accomplished by congress over the president's veto becomes effective. The bill reads that the repeal is "Effective on the last Sunday in October, 1918, after the approval of this act, when by the retarding of one hour the standard time of each zone shall be returned to and thereafter be at mean astronomical time of the degree of longitude governing each zone as defined in Section 1 of said act approved March 19, 1918."

The last Sunday of October is the 26th day of the month. The time changes under the daylight saving law have been effective at 2 a. m. of the day designated. In the first instance clocks were set ahead an hour at 2 a. m. on a fixed Sunday in March, and on the last Sunday in October at 2 a. m. they were changed back one hour. To the average citizen the hour change made little difference. He would change his timepiece as he retired and would wake up on the new time the next morning.

WOODMEN OF TEXAS DISCUSS SECESSION

Opposition to Higher Rates Expressed and Meeting Call at Waco Oct. 31.

Fort Worth, Texas.—Will the Texas Woodmen secede from the fraternal order of the Woodmen of the World and form a separate and distinct order to be known as the "Woodmen of Texas?"

This will be the vital question up for discussion at a union meeting of all camps of the state to be held at Waco, Texas, October 31, according to resolutions passed at the meeting of Woodmen delegates from various states and Texas held here.

Further resolutions were adopted to send W. A. Fraser, sovereign commander of the Woodmen of the World, a telegram asking him to resign from the order, as well as all other sovereign officers. These resolutions were unanimously adopted and the telegram will be signed by a sub-committee appointed by local officials of the order.

It was brought out in the resolution that one or more delegates from every camp in the state would be asked to attend and that a delegate would represent every one hundred members in the state.

RETURN OF STRIKERS EXPECTED AT MILLS

Operators Predict Radical Change in Their Favor, But Leaders Confident.

Both sides are determined to break the apparent deadlock in the steel strike, which developed at the close of the first week, interest again is focused on strategic points along the industrial battle front, particularly in the Pennsylvania sector, where a walk-out of approximately 35,000 employees of the Bethlehem Steel company has been ordered.

Assurance that they would be protected, the company officials say, will lead thousands of men who quit a week ago to venture back to the mills.

Housewives Plan to Economize.

Dallas.—Ten thousand Dallas families will be asked to refrain from buying anything except absolute necessities for a period of at least 30 days to help reduce the high cost of living. Plans for the 30-day non-buying period were made by the Dallas housewives' chamber of commerce. The organization will appeal to the 10,000 women who have signed the housewives' pledge to see that each member of their respective families refrain from buying anything, except necessities, during that period.

British Ambassador Arrives.

New York.—Arriving aboard the steamship Mauretania to assume his new post as British ambassador to the United States, Viscount Edward Grey, deplored his poor eyesight which compels him to make his mission in this country "comparatively short." He asserted he had not come to put forward any new proposals for treaties and alliances, but his object in accepting the post was to promote the existing good-will between American and British peoples.

FEEL OLD?

Don't let that bad back make you old! Get back your health and keep it. You can detect kidney weakness in its early stages, from the morning lassitude, dull headaches, dizzy spells, nervousness and kidney irregularities.

A Texas Case. It is a long, blacksmith, 33 years old, says: "My back bothered me, which I think was caused from doing hard work. There was sort of a dull pain across my kidneys all the time, and I felt tired and worn out. I had no ambition to do anything. The secretion from my kidneys were highly colored and burned in passing. I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they fixed me up all right. My back is now strong and my kidneys act as regularly as ever."

The Texas Cotton Ginners Association plans to send 100 of its members to the world cotton conference to be held at New Orleans, October 13 to 17.

W. H. Gaston of Dallas has been named by Governor Hobby as a member of the board of managers of the Confederate Home to succeed W. R. Davies of Austin, whose term has expired.

It is estimated by the clerks of the civil district courts at Houston that 1178 divorce cases are pending in the eightieth district court, besides a number scheduled for the three other district courts.

With relief measures in charge of the American Red Cross and Salvation Army workers, Corpus Christi made homeless and destitute by the recent tidal wave are being cared for in every particular while the work of rehabilitation goes on.

Special railroad agents of the Southwestern division will hold a two days' conference at Galveston on Nov. 12 and 13. The purpose of this general conference is to discuss in general the ways by which the agents can make their work more efficient.

The state institute for the blind, at Austin, began its fall term last week, with a greatly increased attendance. Incoming trains were crowded with students for the university and the blind and the deaf and dumb institutes, and the blind children were numerous.

At the state warehouse and market department Saturday it was stated that a number of cotton compresses in Texas are "openly defying the law requiring the weighing of cotton by regularly appointed public weighers and are doing the weighing themselves."

During August a total of 345 oil wells were completed in the North Texas oil field belt. Out of this number 263 proved to be producers of petroleum, seven gas wells and seventy-five abandoned or dry holes. The total new production for the new wells was 199,000 barrels or an average of 753 barrels per well.

The price of cotton seed varies over the state from $64 a ton to $55; seed for planting is being held for $70 and even better. A price of $67 a ton is reported from one point in the state. The minimum appears to be $55 a ton, and this price is being quoted from a great number of places, indicating that as the market settles the price is going lower than it was at the opening.

The Central Texas Electric Railway Company, capital stock $500,000, with principal office at Waco, which was granted a charter by the state department a few days ago, has for its purpose the construction and operation of an electric line of railway between Waco and Temple for the transportation of passengers. This line may eventually be extended to Austin, thence to San Antonio.

The adoption of the $75,000,000 road bond issue constitutional amendment will authorize the state highway commission to raise money which will result in the construction of a system of connected highways in Texas and it will be only with state supervision that a connected highway system can be built. C. S. Fowler, chairman of the state highway commission, said in an address before the Dallas Automobile Club recently.

The tractor demonstration which was scheduled to be held at Deepwater, Harris County, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 and 2, has been postponed until after the state fair at Dallas. The reason of the postponement of the demonstration is that many manufacturers are planning to have exhibits at the state fair and they did not favor sending additional equipment to Texas for the demonstration. The demonstration will likely be held after the fair closes.

J. H. Burkett, who is in charge of the department of nut culture of the department of agriculture, estimates that the pecan crop of the state should bring to the growers not less than $6,000,000 this year, but he stipulates that the crop must be carefully taken from the trees and picked up from the ground. He figures that there should be at least 1000 carloads of 30,000 pounds to the car and he estimates the price to be paid to the grower at 20 cents per pound. The first nuts of the new crop are being bought at 25 cents from the growers and sold at retail at 45 cents.

The railroad commission has issued notice of hearing for Oct. 21 to consider the revocation of prewar authority permitting the Cotton Belt to cancel one round trip daily of the motor car service between Sherman and Commerce. Formerly there was a double daily service. The commission also issued notice of hearing for Oct. 21 to consider the matter of requiring the Houston & Texas Central to put on an additional sleeper on the night trains between Houston and Austin and a parlor car on the day train between those points.

FARM STOCK

SUCCESS IN SHEEP BUSINESS

Stomach Worm is Most Widely Distributed and Serious Trouble With Average Flock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In any system of continuous farm sheep raising, the health question is of primary importance. This question is chiefly one of internal parasites, and of these the stomach worm is the most widely distributed and the most serious. Fortunately, the trouble is entirely susceptible of practical control, and the methods of prevention are exactly in line with the practices that result in most economical production. It is possible, though doubtful, that the permanent farm flock can be maintained in maximum health when grazed entirely on permanent grass pastures. A system of division of grass land into sufficient parts to allow frequent long periods without sheep and use of longer grass for cattle will assist materially. Such a plan, combined with occasional use of medicine to prevent too serious infection, may prove to be practical.

The basis of success in the farm sheep business is in the frequency of changing to pastures which have not had any opportunity to become infested with stomach worms by older sheep. These frequent changes are particularly necessary during the stay of the young lambs upon the farm. The older sheep are less susceptible to the effects of the infection, though danger of their being injured thereby is not to be overlooked. The plan of frequent changes to fresh feed can be adapted advantageously to the most economical systems of using high-priced land in the rotation of crops to produce feed and forage for other kinds of livestock.

The principles of flock management for maximum health and for adaptation to other lines of farm production are illustrated in the following outline of a plan of crop production and feeding. Under a 3-Year Rotation of Corn, Clover and Small Grains, on 160 Acres.

25 acres corn—To finish 20 yearling cattle and 40 hogs.

15 acres silage corn, 40 acres wheat, 20 acres clover hay—Houghage for 20 cows, for other feed.

20 acres clover pasture—Season's grazing for 20 breeding cows.

20 acres permanent grass pasture—Grazing for 20 yearling-cattle on feed for December shipment.

20 acres forage crops.

In the above, sheep would be grazed as follows:

First—On winter wheat.

Second—On grass pasture with yearling cattle.

Third—With cows on clover pasture.

Fourth—On clover hay after hay cut.

Fifth—On grain stubble.

Sixth—In corn fields after silage cut or corn harvested.

Seventh—On winter wheat.

At other times on rape, soy beans, or other grazing crops on ten-acre field. Unused forage harvested for winter feed.

Such a plan as this allows sufficient frequent change of pasture without any part of the flock going upon land that has previously carried sheep in the same year. The forage crop land is a safety measure for reliance in case of shortage of other feeds, and could regularly be used for carrying the reserved ewe lambs from weaning time until winter.

HEAVY HORSES STILL SCARCE

Large Number of Mares Bred Last Spring Expected to Meet Demand for Draft Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While there is a surplus of light horses on the farms of the United States, there is still a notable deficiency in heavy, desirable draft horses, say horsemen of the United States department of agriculture. Last year, they say, there was a tremendous decrease in mares bred, but during the spring of 1919 a very large percentage of good mares were bred, which is expected largely to meet the future demand for horses of the better type.

Disposition Should Be Quiet, Bordering on Loginess—Small Udders Best for Cows.

Beef cattle should have a quiet disposition, bordering on loginess. They should be large, with heavy bones, should take on weight easily, and the cows should have small udders and give only milk enough to raise a calf.

Black-Draught is Used by Virginia Lady for Colds, Fever and Other Troubles With Fine Results.

"I can recommend it as a splendid laxative and gladly do so. You may publish my statement."

When you feel chilly, tired, feverish, headachy and fear that you are taking cold, take a good dose of the old, reliable, liver medicine you have heard so much about—Theodor's Black-Draught. It is made from purely vegetable ingredients, acts in a gentle, natural way, and by helping to drive out poisonous waste matter from your system, it will often, if taken in time, prevent a chill from developing into a cold.

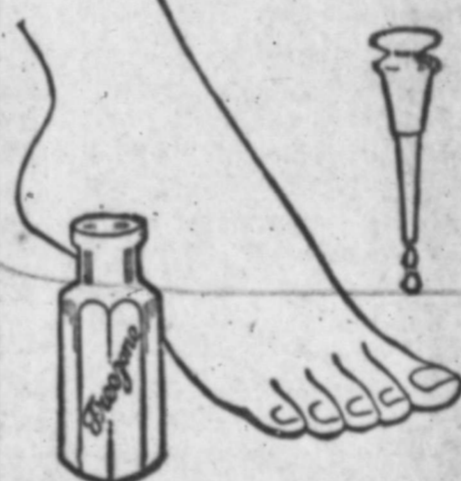

Thousands of people, during the past 10 years, have found Black-Draught of benefit in such cases.

WIRES CROSSED

The Graham Leader contained the following article in its last issue:

"The Arkansas Oil and Gas Company has their rig up on the Jeffery tract about five miles north of Graham."

Of all the places in the country to claim everything from Cape Cod to Hickory Bay Graham takes the cake.

The Arkansas Oil & Gas Company well is about 5 miles northwest of Newcastle and as Graham is 15 miles southeast it must be around 20 miles from the city which would like to be in the oil field, but can't.

If you will remember the Graham booster McCauley moved the Graham well from 6 miles west to Jim Henderson's wagon yard as a consequence was moved so much until it could only produce around 100 barrels.

We can sympathize with the Graham Leader, but it is not our fault that you are sitting too far east and south.

Come on to Newcastle. You will anyway—later—Newcastle Register.

The Leader was in error about this well. It should have been five miles south of Olney instead of five miles north of Graham. However, The Leader is willing to locate this well right where The Register wants it located and joins that paper in hoping it will prove a big producer be it ever so near to Newcastle or remote from Graham.

The Leader firmly believes our whole county is one vast oil field and is looking after Graham's share in its development, hoping for The Register to take care of Newcastle's interests without back-firing.

But stating the location of a well at any distance or direction from Newcastle doesn't signify so very much. Which way and how far from Graham is the information that really informs about any location in this section.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND

The fund is not yet as large as we feel it should be, and the Committee wants to urge everyone in Graham who has not yet subscribed to the fund, to do so by Saturday. Subscriptions can be made through either of the two banks, or the following firms in the city: Stewart & Walker, Davis Drug Co., Harmon Bros., Woods Jewelry Store, Street & Co., Short & Co., Norris-Johnson Hdw. Co., J. E. Morrison & Co., Sloan Drug Co., Doty's Drug Store, Snoddy & Son, St. Louis Cafe, Metropolitan Cafe. DO IT NOW.

The need of relief is as great now as it ever was, and Graham should make up a substantial fund for the benefit of the flood sufferers.

One day this week a grown up young lady was seen on the streets of Childress wearing male attire complete. The fact that she wore military clothes does not lessen the crime, for the laws of Texas forbid a woman to wear men's clothes and provide a suitable penalty therefor. The Post believes this law should be rigidly enforced for the good of public morals. When a woman so far loses her modesty that she is willing to appear in public wearing men's clothing there is something seriously wrong in her make-up and she needs investigation. There ought to be some ready means of distinguishing a man from a woman by their modes of dress and if the women insist on wearing trousers it is time for the men to choose some other form of clothing.—Childress Post.

TRAINED NURSE GAINED 22 POUNDS

"Tanlac is a Perfectly Wonderful Medicine," Says Mrs. Josephine Freeman.

Mrs. Josephine Freeman, of 647 Towne Ave., Los Angeles, Cal., a graduate nurse who has practiced her profession for seventeen years, recently made the statement that she has not only been relieved of a case of stomach trouble of ten years standing by the use of Tanlac, but that she had also gained twenty-two pounds in weight.

"I feel that I would be doing anyone a good turn by getting them to take Tanlac," said Mrs. Freeman. "For ten years I had been having trouble with my stomach. I suffered intense pains after eating and would bloat up with gas so the pressure around my heart would almost faint. I was so nervous I could hardly sleep and became so weak and rundown that I could hardly keep up my work as a nurse. I tried all kinds of medicines but nothing would relieve me. Finally a friend of my husband's who had been relieved of the same trouble by taking Tanlac advised him to get me a bottle. Soon after starting on it my appetite returned and my nerves became quiet. Now I can eat anything I want and never have the least bit of trouble afterwards. I sleep like a child and feel rested and refreshed on getting up in the mornings. I have gained twenty-two pounds on four bottles of Tanlac and feel strong and well again." All druggists sell Tanlac.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH OUR PARENTS

The report of the grand jury last week should make every parent in Vernon sit up and take notice. Why are the young boys of Vernon getting the reputation of being such bad boys? Who's to blame? Go down the street any Sunday afternoon and pass a crowd of boys sitting on the curb. Their conversation is anything but elevating. They use oaths that would make some of the hardened "cussers" of the town ashamed. They indulge in telling dirty yarns which bring forth yells of delight from the listeners.

Nearly every night after ten o'clock a bunch of youngsters can be found loafing around the square. Boys of that age have no business in town after ten o'clock at night. Parents must not have much concern about their children when they allow them to run at large.

One of the officers of the law said last week that the trouble of parents of Vernon is that they are so busy making money they never give their child a thought. The recent session of the district court should impress the parents with the seriousness of the situation. Most of the criminal cases were young men who no doubt lacked a strict discipline at home when they were young.

It appears to us that what we need in this day and time is more of the old fashioned "hickory oil" applied at regular and frequent intervals on the seat of young boys' trousers and not so much of this "Son, if you don't mind, father will have to switch you,"—a threat which is seldom carried out.—Vernon Times.

NOTED GEOLOGIST

JOINS TEXAS AJAX
A. J. G. Kerstens, petroleum geologist of international reputation, has accepted the position of chief geologist of the Texas Ajax Oil Corporation, with headquarters in Fort Worth.

He already has taken up his new duties. Kerstens has had considerable experience in the Mid-Continent fields. He also worked out a series of anticlines for artesian wells along the government highway in Australia. He was in Europe at the outbreak of the war.—Olney Enterprise.

County Agent Edgar H. Kemp left yesterday morning with several members of the Young County Boys' Club to attend the Boys' Club Encampment at the Dallas Fair. The boys going are those who made the best crop and feed records under the work during this season. Mr. Kemp expects to have a very large membership in the various clubs in the coming year, and there are many good things in store for the boys who make good records in the work.

THE PUBLIC BE D

The recent agitation of the Plumb plan for turning the railroads over to the labor unions will cause any serious thinking person some concern. What would happen should this be done?

The service today is about as rotten as we could have without stopping the trains altogether. The labor unions seem to have taken the stand of "the public be damned." Their acts disgust the public.

Saturday morning we tried to get information about the 5:15 train. Phoning down there did no good—they would not answer. Arriving at the depot at 5:10 the bulletin board gave no information. It was not marked either "On Time" or "Late." The waiting room was full of people who did not know whether to expect the train on time or fifteen minutes late. The night man was down at the freight depot engaged in a conversation with some one over the phone. What did he care about inconveniencing the public. At 5:20 he leisurely strolled to the passenger depot and marked the train one hour and thirty minutes late.

Saturday night the north bound passenger burned out a bearing on the engine at Estelline. Another engine was needed from Childress. The engineer tried to call the agent at that station with his whistle. No response. The conductor stopped a passing car and drove up to the man's house and routed him out of bed. The accommodating agent informed the captain of the train that he was supposed to work in the day time and that so far as he was concerned the train could sit right there on the track until time for him to go to work in the morning. And there it set.

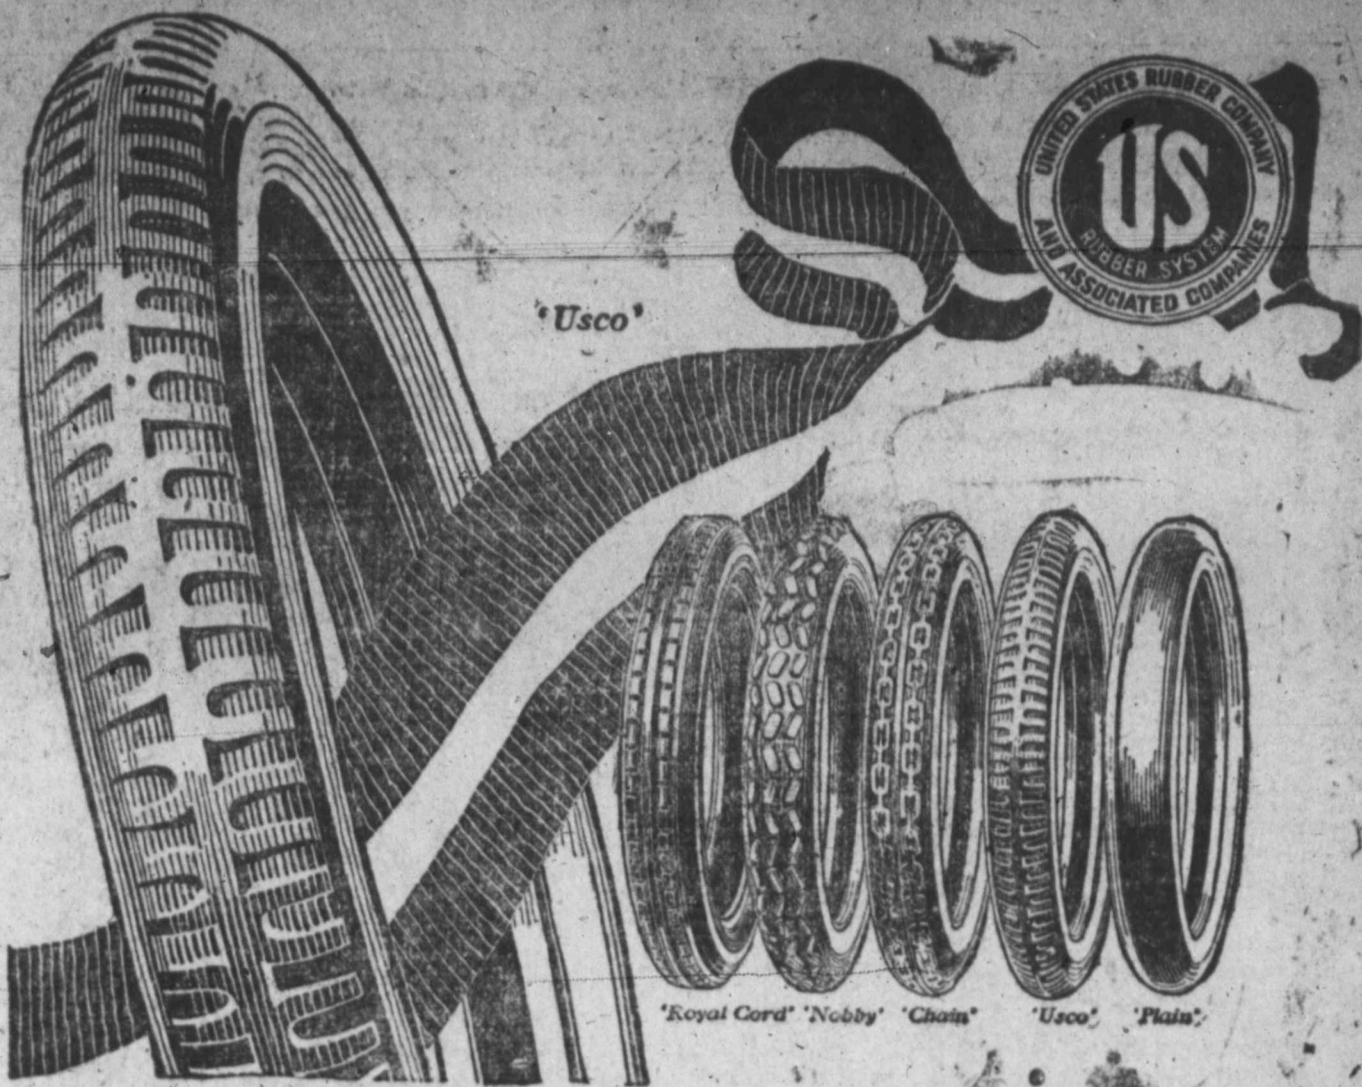

After three hours waiting in the middle of the night a freight arrived in the town and its engine was hooked on to the passenger and proceeded on its way. If that is a sample of the service now what could the public expect if the roads were turned over to the unions. They care very little about giving service now and should they control the roads they would care less. If you did not like their service you could walk.

A number of remedies have been suggested for helping the present situation. Director General Hines has unlimited power but does not use it. Railroad employees who still have the best interests of the unions, public and employers at heart, say that if a few of the above mentioned type of men were put out of the service things would be better. When Mr. McAdoo was running the railroads he relieved them from their job when they failed to deliver the goods. He went after them from the president of the road to the lower employees. When he let up he was accused of selling out. Be that as it may we need some one at the head of the railroads who can handle them and give the public service.—Vernon Times.

He is a graduate of Baylor University and the University of Texas, taught school several years and practiced law at Waco twenty years, six of which time he was prosecuting attorney. As prosecuting attorney he tried 422 cases, with convictions in all except 16, turning into the county treasury, above his salary and expenses of office, $24,788.00, more than double amount turned in by any other county attorney in Texas during the same time. He was Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, and has the distinction of being the youngest Speaker who ever presided over that body, and the first one from whose ruling there was never an appeal. He was for some years president of the Conference for Education in Texas and has been for fifteen years president of the Board of Trustees of Baylor University. During the past year he served as Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Texas. During the war Mr. Neff made more than one hundred speeches for various war activities and was one of the speakers who accompanied the Fourth Liberty Loan Train through South and West Texas. He is State chairman of the League to Enforce Peace, and has made many speeches throughout the State in its behalf. Mr. Neff married Miss Mainer of Houston county, and has two children. He is running for Governor on his own individual merit, hoping to have a part in making Texas the best place in the world in which to live.

STATE-WIDE CAMPAIGN OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION HAS BEEN LAUNCHED

What is said to be the greatest constructive program of religious education ever attempted in Texas, has been definitely outlined and is now being launched by the Texas Sunday School Association of all denominations, of which M. H. Wolfe is president, Judge Joseph E. Cockrell is chairman of the executive committee, Cullen F. Thomas, chairman of the board of trustees, and S. J. McFarland, treasurer.

The program is to help every Sunday School in Texas, and is so comprehensive that it merges into the work of every denomination. The campaign is called, "The Victory Reconstruction Campaign." In the working out of the general plan the State has been divided into ten Regional Districts, these districts subdivided into 56 zones, the zones again subdivided into the 253 counties, then into the communities.

The State is divided into the following districts: Dallas 31 counties, 9 zones; Fort Worth 22 counties, 7 zones; Wichita Falls 27 counties, 5 zones; Amarillo 32 counties, 4 zones; El Paso 12 counties, 2 zones; San Angelo 27 counties, 4 zones; San Antonio 25 counties, 4 zones; Corpus Christi 25 counties, 4 zones; Waco 22 counties, 9 zones; Houston 31 counties, 8 zones.

Each district will have its own central organization, as a part of the State-wide plan each will have a superintendent and secretary. It is hoped that the campaign will be successful so an employed specialist may be placed for full time in every zone and in this direct way every Sunday School and every local community will receive some practical help and assistance.

The program includes the development of a trained force of at least 10,000 volunteer county officers and workers who will in turn reach and make more efficient in their work, 100,000 officers and teachers in the 8700 Sunday Schools of Texas. Conferences, community institutes, training schools and conventions, will be held and problems and questions that are of interest to all denominations will be discussed, to the help of every Sunday School. In all conventions and institutes there shall never be any discussion of any church polity or doctrine, only methods and means of efficiency and problems common to all.

The proposed budget, calls for a three years program and the committee has set the goal at $266,000.00 per year. The subscriptions are to be solicited from the citizenship and individuals in a campaign similar to the United War Work campaign.

Included in this program is a part set aside for the development of the negro and Mexican work in Texas, a portion is also set apart to aid the nearby States that are not at the present time self-sustaining. A portion will go to the work in Mexico, and some into World fields.

The suggested plans have all been tested and the aim is to reach and to aid every local Sunday School of every denomination to reach its highest point of efficiency. The Sunday School Association is to the community Sunday School what the Chamber of Commerce is to the business institution, or as a clearing house to a banking house. None of these bind their membership to any definite policy or surrender of any conviction or individual desire, but all co-operate together to make each more efficient and of better service to the community.

UNIFORM APPLE GRADE LAWS ASSIST IN SOLVING VARIOUS MARKETING PROBLEMS

Preparing Apples for Market—Packing in Barrels.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is a growing sentiment, both among apple growers and dealers, in favor of standard apple-grading laws, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. The objects, they say, to be attained by such laws are: Elimination of fraud and deception, prevention of waste, establishing a basis for trading, creation and maintenance of confidence, stabilization of the market, and encouragement of better methods of production and handling.

The first definite attempt toward securing the passage of a national apple-grade law was initiated in 1907 by a number of prominent growers, shippers, and dealers, who were instrumental, after working on the problem for several years, in getting the Sulzer bill enacted in congress. This bill became a law in August, 1912, when it was signed by the president, to take effect July 1, 1913. Although this law was not mandatory, it served a valuable purpose in awakening and crystallizing public sentiment throughout the country favoring the enactment of legislation which would serve to stabilize the barrel-apple industry by eliminating fraudulent and deceptive packing and by establishing a uniform basis for buying and selling.

Barreled Apple-Grade Laws. The first state mandatory apple-grade law was passed in Maine in 1913. The following year New York passed a similar law covering barreled apples, which is still in effect in an amended form. This was followed by similar legislation in Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Wisconsin—a total of 13 states.

The state laws have not been wholly successful in obtaining the desired results, because the requirements in some cases have not been practical and because the extent to which they have been enforced in some states has varied so greatly that in many instances the grade terms have come to have little value. However, they have done much good. In spite of the objections mentioned, a state law that is practical in its specifications and intelligently enforced will carry with it many advantages.

Specialists in the bureau of markets have conducted investigations in all producing sections and at packing houses handling the products of approximately 1,000 commercial orchards from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts to ascertain the need of a national uniform apple-grade law. Apple dealers, county agricultural agents, and state college horticulturists were also consulted on the question. Ninety per cent of the growers and dealers who were visited were in favor of apple-grading laws, and county agents and college horticulturists were unanimous in their favor.

Benefits of Standardization. Without established grades, the specialists say, there is no recognized basis for buying and selling; there is no common language by which the grower, shipper, transportation company, dealer and consumer may clearly understand each other; and there is no standard quality by which values and prices may be fixed. Such a basis cannot be established through individual producers and associations representing hundreds of thousands of farms in widely separated districts, shipping their products to the same markets. Confidence is the foundation of trade, and without grade standardization confidence in the fruit and produce market cannot be established and maintained. For the want of confidence fruits and vegetables are largely sold subject to inspection, or consigned to commission houses to be sold on their merits as revealed when the packages are opened. A misunderstanding or a difference of opinion as to what the grade, or quality should be results in many rejections, which necessitates resales and consequent delays and higher prices in placing the product in the hands of the consumer.

Standardized grades furnish a basis for market quotations and tend to stabilize the price of the commodity. Except as based on recognized standard grades, market quotations cannot be comprehensive and reliable, and the national market news service cannot be developed to its highest efficiency. The value of such market reports depends to a large extent upon the accuracy with which the product may be described through the use of fixed grade terms. There is an educational value in enforcing standardized grades. By being forced to comply with definite standards the producer will improve his methods in both growing and handling his crop, and he will be compensated for his efforts by increased returns, due to the reduction in waste and marketing expenses.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mr. Green's Perfect Mastery of the French Language Evidently Was Too Much for Him. But One Can't Help Feeling the Jones Family Might Have Shown It in a Different Way.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Green were taking their long-tailed holiday in France. For three months Mr. Green had been learning French—by correspondence—and thought he had mastered the language.

One afternoon the pair went into a cafe to have tea, and Green, who always insisted on doing all the talking, gave the order to the waiter. When, however, the tea things were brought, he noticed that something was missing, and spoke, angrily to the waiter about it.

"My dear fellow," objected Brown, "what on earth are you saying?"

"Will you kindly refrain from making your absurd criticisms of my use of the French language?" retorted Green.

"Oh, certainly!" answered Brown, "Only it seems rather a waste of time to ask the waiter to bring you a tea-staircase when what you want is a teaspoon!"—London Tit-Bits.

Suspicious Circumstance.

"Did you find your house in great disorder when you returned from the seashore?" asked Mrs. Gripping.

"Why, no," replied Mrs. Whympie, "There was a great deal of dust, to be sure, but everything was just as I left it and I congratulated Mr. Whympie on being so orderly."

"Umph! You should have put a detective on that man's trail. He evidently didn't stay at home while you were away."

WOOD AS FUEL THIS WINTER

Scarcity of Coal Necessitates Use of Waste Timber, Dead or Dying Trees for Purpose.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

On account of the scarcity of coal there will probably be a large amount of wood used as fuel this winter. Use all the waste timber, dead and dying trees for this purpose and be sure to conserve the ashes for garden fertilizer. They are rich in plant food, particularly potash.
