ESSEX STOCK CAR SETS WORLD'S RECORD

3,038 Miles in 50 Hours, an Average of 60.7 Miles an Hour

An Essex stock car under the official observation of the A. A. A. on December 12th, on the Cincinnati Speedway, established the World's long-distance record, making 3,038 miles in 50 hours, or an average of 60.7 miles an hour.

On account of bad weather conditions, three starts had to be made before the record was set. On the first start, at the end of 27 hours, 58 minutes and in the 1700th mile, rain and sleet began to fall which so blatted the track with ice that a stop was necessary. A second start was made three days later but this time snow ended the test after the car had gone 10 hours, 25 minutes, traveling 1,042 miles. The third test, starting the following day was successful, the hour period being completed, and the World's endurance mark being established.

Taking into consideration all the starts that had to be made before the test was completed, the car traveled 5,870 miles in 94 hours and 22 minutes, or the average distance that an owner will drive a car in one year's time. This is the first official test for a stock car to be driven at top speed for 50 hours.

HENRY CHAPEL

Well, Christmas has come and gone. We had a nice little tree, well-laden with gifts for all present. All seemed to enjoy the time pleasantly. After all had started home a car ran against Sam Crow's leg, breaking one bone above the ankle. He is doing fine.

The farmers are sure making good use of the pretty weather; several have cotton in the field.

Our school opened again this morning after two weeks' rest for the pupils.

Mrs. Amanda Crow and little son, Bobbie, are spending a few days with home folks here.

On Christmas morning Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Campbell and children, a little later Mrs. H. T. Glidewell and babies, a little later Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vick and children slipped up on Grandma Jernagin, bringing in boxes of good things to eat and when the table was set, such a feast was spread that Grandma could not express her surprise and pleasure of such a remembrance. All bringing a token of love with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ribble and children, of Megargel, spent Sunday with Irvin Campbell and family on Conner Creek. We are sure glad Mrs. Ribble is so much improved in health that she can visit friends here.

We did not have preaching last Sunday as Bro. Franklin was visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rabell, Miss Julie, Mr. and Mrs. Harve Shahan and children, Miss Lettie Williamson took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillinger gave the young people a singing Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Bowers visited Grandma Alford of Graham, Thursday and Friday.

Liliana Campbell spent the holidays with Chapel folks.

Mr. P. Moran is spending a few days in Fort Worth.

Walker Duntin is moving from here to Tom Valley.

Hoping The Leader faces a prosperous New Year, adieu.

PARMER

Harry Penlergast and family have moved to Haworth, Oklahoma, where he accepted a position as bank cashier. A. H. Haden succeeded him here as Rock Island agent.

An organization for the purpose of commemorating the Indian fight near the head of Little Salt creek on the 15th day of May, 1869, was perfected last Saturday at the court house.

Judge W. P. Stinson was made chairman and Judge A. W. Key secretary of the Young county branch of the organization. The reunions will be held on the 16th day of May of each year.

SHOW DESERVED BETTER WEATHER

After gallantly battling for a week with mud, snow, sleet and rain, the musical comedy, "Around the Clock with the Debutantes," was staged at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday nights. The tuner musical production deserved better weather and with it would have scored a complete success.

On Friday night the house was comfortably filled. On Saturday night the audience had shrunk one-half and sat swathed in overcoats and a great part of the time in semi-darkness. The lights went out at three different intervals and the "debutantes" were obliged to resort to flashlights for illumination. The carnival "girls" shivered in evening clothes but this did not dampen the pep of their act.

C. G. Russell as the Wizard of Oz and Ernest Babb as Will Bill did a lot of clever improvising on the last night. This together with the brilliant piano music by Mrs. Sherrill Norris helped to put over the unfortunate turn of the situation caused by lack of lights.

The musical offering had the customary lack of plot but was replete with catchy hits and spectacular choruses by young men and pretty misses. Aside from the excellent work of the principals including Miss Zeida Burkett, Miss Ethel Birdwell, Jack McNamara Byron Rickman, Joe Wootton and Mrs. W. H. Dyer must be mentioned that of Louis Rubenkaas as the Dago and little Perrin Smith as the monkey which scored a big hit on both nights. The dancing of Ina Mae Price, featured in two acts, was very pretty and artistic. The hypnotized "Gossiping Party" put over a bit of fun.

The play was directed by Miss Frankie Terrell under the auspices of the local Chautauqua Literary & Scientific Circle, who will apply the net proceeds, $125.00, to the fund for erecting a library building for the town.

The Club assures the caste and all others who contributed in any way toward the success of the play of their sincere appreciation.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School at 10 a. m. We ought to have two hundred present at five minutes before that time. Let's try.

Subject at 11 a. m. "The Divine Challenge," text: "Believe Me that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me, or else believe me for the very word's sake." The ultimate test of a man's life is not what he has said, or taught, but what he has done. This is Christ's challenge to man today.

He submits Himself freely and willingly to the test of practical men. "If you can't believe Me or what I claim, then believe Me for what I have done." The main body of the theme will be the works of Christ as proof of His claim to be the Son of God and Savior of Men. Will appreciate a large attendance.

Services at 7:15 in the evening.

Some Republican propaganda is drifting into Young county. Judge C. W. Johnson is displaying a large placard in his office window inscribed "Pay your poll tax by January 31 and keep out of Democratic primaries."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

GRAHAM'S PHENOMENAL GROWTH IN BUSINESS WAY

There is nothing that reflects the growth of a town more than its postal receipt showings. The surprising comparison of the Graham postoffice receipts for November and December, 1919, with those of the same months in 1918, are given below:

Postal receipts for November, 1919, 2c postage.....$1,054.36	Had the 3c postage rate prevailed as in 1918.....(1,405.51)
Postal receipts for November, 1918, 3c postage.....1,026.94	Increase for November, 1919, over November 1918, 3c per cent.
Postal receipts for December, 1919, 2c postage.....1,592.32	Had the 3c postage rate prevailed as in 1918.....(2,122.09)
Postal receipts for December, 1918, 3c postage.....1,738.61	Increase for December, 1919, over December, 1918, 18 per cent.

At no time in the city's history has her bank deposits shown such enormous increase. Probably there is no other indication which may be taken as so surely representing the financial, business and physical growth of Graham. The bank deposits on January 2, 1919, were $609,560, on January 2 of the present year the banks held $1,576,432 in their vaults, an increase of 259 1-3 per cent. Graham bankers explain the increase as due to the decided growth of Graham as well as to the effect of the oil development of Young county.

The Rock Island force at Graham has been taxed to the utmost to keep pace with the local business and the December figures are not yet available. We showing their receipts, but it is said they will go far ahead of November. The freight earnings at Graham for November, 1919, were $34,103.81; same month in 1918 they were $15,268.41, an increase of 115 per cent. Ticket sales for November, 1919, were $3,130.22; same month in 1918, they were $1,244.79, an increase of 156 per cent.

FOR SHERIFF

John W. Saye, deputy sheriff of Young county for more than three years, this week announces his candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Young county, subject to the Democratic primary.

Mr. Saye served as County Commissioner of Precinct No. 4 for two years and was Justice of the Peace and Constable for six years. Before coming to Young county he served as deputy sheriff in Collin county for four years. His experience in public work and with the Sheriff's department has been a schooling to qualify him for the high office he aspires to, and in the minds of his many friends places him in a position where the voters may feel confident of efficient service if he is elected. He asks that his claims be carefully considered by the voters on the day of the primary election before the ballots are cast.

C. D. BREWSTER FOR REELECTION. Judge C. D. Brewster announces this week as a candidate for re-election to the office of Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 1, subject to the Democratic primary.

Judge Brewster has made a faithful and efficient officer and we speak for him the fair consideration of the voters at the polls on election day. His experience in office has qualified him to better serve the people than ever before and his record in office has been such as to merit the closest consideration of his claims by the voters. He is a good, Christian gentleman, fair and broad-minded, at all times courteous and accommodating. He will appreciate any and all favors extended him during the campaign.

Arthur Mauldin, organizer of our New State Bank, returned last night from Fort Worth, where he went to about the fixtures which were shipped two months ago. He located his car in the yard there and got assurance that the goods would come without further delay. He believes the car will arrive next week and in a few days the bank will open for business.

He asks a fair consideration of his claims at the polls on election day.

1921 POLL TAXES PAID

This is campaign time and every voter should be prepared to participate in the greatest election the country has ever seen. Candidates of importance are to be passed upon by the voters this year and no one can afford to be without the right to cast a ballot. Pay your poll tax today.

ACTIVITY IN THE YOUNG COUNTY OIL FIELDS

The prediction that was made early in 1919 that the Young county field would eventually prove to be the Mecca toward which oil men would bend their way, is proving true. The many oil sands of Young county offer profit to the developer of shallow sands with the Star rig, to those who may desire to drill to the Arnold sand with a standard rig. The first sand was found by the Steen well, north of Graham, at 500 feet; then came the Donnell well, brought in by the Roxana people, at 1877 feet, easily giving a daily production around 75 barrels. This well is eleven miles southwest from Graham. Leaving the Donnell, we encounter the Scott at about 2200 feet and then the Marshall striking its showing around 2700 feet. Further on comes the Graham showings, one at 3600 and another at 3960, and finally the Arnold at 4700.

Every indication points to a productive year in the Young county field. Every large company owning leases in this county has begun to make arrangements to develop and by spring it is believed over fifty rigs will be in operation in this section.

The Colcord Drilling Company are making arrangements to commence drilling on the M. K. Graham land, Denison Survey, 12 miles southwest from Graham.

Seven new rigs are on the ground and building around Prairie Oil & Gas Co's Lyon well, 1 1-2 miles south of Eliasville.

Sinclair Gulf Production Company made location on J. L. Dobb's Survey, one mile north of Eliasville. The Texas Co. is building rig on Hunt land, nine miles west of Graham, on the G. D. Hunt Survey, Abstract 1496. The same company is also building rig five miles northwest of Graham on the Nettie B. League Survey 442.

Ray Colcord et al. made location and moving out rig to Wm. Johnson Survey at South Bend, one mile north of old Colcord well.

On the L. M. Pratt Survey 1110, 500 feet east of Donnell No. 1, the Roxana Company are building rig.

Part of rig is now on ground on Rutley Campbell Survey, east end of W. A. Corbett land in Young county; drilling by W. S. McNabb et al. Texas Co., Arnold No. 2, Survey 18; rigging up to drill.

A well is to be started on the James Tobin Survey Block 48, Allar lease by Deacy & Co.

The Panhandle Refining Co., of Wichita Falls, is preparing to drill on the M. D. Thrift tract, Survey 3415, near South Bend.

The Young county field is a new one, still in its swaddling clothes; every test so far has found a wonderful showing and two are producing in sufficient quantities for commercial value.

It is learned the Graham well, T. E. & L. Co. Survey 2410, is soon to be opened up. There is 1200 feet open hole in this well, the water never having been cut off, also cased tubing. When the salt water is pumped from this well, experts believe it will easily reach 250 barrels.

The Lyon, old test in the land, Armstrong Survey, 17 miles from Graham, last Monday made 1500 barrels into 6-inch pipe line from the Coode field. This is one and one-half miles from Lyon well, which is now producing over 600 barrels, and about four miles from the Millam, which is making 150 barrels into pipe line.

At the East No. 1, which is about 1000 feet, work has been suspended for a few days, as well road conditions improve.

It is rumored the rig at the Coode well will be moved a short distance and another well cased in the early spring. The Coode well, which was lost at 1100 feet over a year ago, made two excellent showings, each of which would in the minds of oil men have made good production, and another well in the near proximity of it is quite certain to prove good.

Mrs. M. L. McCannell returned Saturday night from Dallas, where she spent several days visiting relatives.

FARM STOCK

SCRUBS BEING CLEANED OUT

West Virginia Stockmen Making Vigorous Effort to Drive Out All Scrub Bulls.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

West Virginia—largely regarded as a mineral-producing state—is on the war-path to increase beef cattle production and its output of dairy products by eradicating scrub bulls, which are primary offenders against profitable and progressive live stock husbandry. Within a few months parts of West Virginia where the campaign is most active expect to round out a clean-up which will eliminate the scrub bulls and leave the purebreds as monarchs of all they survey. The case of Roane county, W. Va., is an example of what West Virginia stockmen accomplish when they go over the top. The live stock specialists of the State agricultural college, the county agent and officers of the Roane county farm bureau have solidly backed up the scrub sire clean-up.

"Not a single man turned us down," remarked the live stock specialist in telling how the campaign to oust the scrubs was conducted.

"The first of the year our local stockmen made a declaration of independence against scrub bulls, and work was begun promptly in taking a thorough bull census. This investigation of sire ancestry showed that there were 200 bulls in the county, of which 102 were misfit grades and scrubs, while 98 were registered pure-breds. There were 57 registered Herefords, 28 registered Angus, and 13 registered Shorthorns. Fortunately, the army of 102 grades and scrubs was not as formidable as it looked on the paper, because 60 of these low grade sires were yearlings. Furthermore, the census showed that there were only 30 men who actually made a practice of keeping a scrub bull."

By correspondence and personal contact with farmers the state live stock agent and the county agent waged the battle. These men toured the county day after day visiting the scrub bull owners, holding meetings, and requesting influential farmers to assist in relating the scrub sires into the live stock scrap heap. In the main the scrub bull owners, once they learned the purpose of the campaign, and once they appreciated the benefits which would result if they substituted pure-bred sires for the mongrels, were glad to dispose of their inferior herd-heads. Detailed figures showing the increased value of calves sired by pure-breds over calves of scrub parentage were particularly convincing in gaining converts. Most of the scrub bull owners were prompt in admitting the error of their live-stock raising ways.

The Roane county banks have aided the movement to replace poor bulls with good ones. Every bank in the county has offered to lend money at 5 per cent to farmers for the purpose of purchasing pure-bred sires as substitutes for their scrubs.

HANDLE SHEEP WITH PROFIT

Good Drainage, Pasture, Some Shelter and an Interested Attendant Are Important.

The requirements of a farm where sheep can be handled with profit are good drainage, plenty of fresh pasture, land that will produce clover, alfalfa, cowpeas, or soy beans; a good water supply, fences that will keep sheep out of growing crops and furnish two or three fields for frequent change of pasture, a shelter that will protect the flock from cold rains, winds and storms; and an attendant who can give the flock interested and intelligent care.

SHIP'S 300TH ANNIVERSARY

Plans Announced for Celebration in Honor of Pilgrim Fathers—Main American Events Will Be in Boston and Plymouth.

New York.—The three hundredth anniversary of the Pilgrim Fathers, tentative plans of which have just been announced here, will include celebrations in England, Holland and the United States, and will continue from May to December, 1920.

A four-day program in Leyden, Amsterdam and Rotterdam, whence the Pilgrims sailed three centuries ago to the American wilderness, where they might find "freedom to worship God," will start on August 30, when committees from the United States and England will be received at the University of Leyden.

Scholars Will Deliver Addresses. Addresses commemorative of the occasion will be delivered by scholars from the three countries, including the rector of the university, Dr. Hendel Harris of Manchester, England; Viscount Bryce, and a famous American who has not yet been designated.

The next day, August 31, the birthday of the queen of the Netherlands, will include, besides a congress in the town hall, a religious memorial service in the Pieterskerk, in which Rev. John Robinson, who led the separatists from the Church of England (the Pilgrims) to Holland in 1609, was buried.

One of the features of the holiday at Amsterdam, September 1, will be a meeting in the Rijksmuseum, the unveiling of a memorial window in the Bagijnkerk and a reception. The next day there will be an aquatic pageant in Rotterdam, the visitors traveling in the morning from Leyden to Delftshaven if possible by boat along the way the Pilgrims went. They there will be trips to the re-

Soap Bubbles Kept Intact Whole Year

Scientific Society Gives Information on Sir James Dewar's Test.

ALWAYS MYSTERY TO SCIENCE

When Bubble Becomes Very Old It Offers Only Possible Example of the Molecule Visible to the Naked Eye.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Facts about the prodigious strength of soap bubbles, proved by experiments in which bubbles were kept intact for more than a year and subjected to all sorts of weight strains, were made public here for the first time by the Franklin Institute, one of the oldest scientific societies in the United States.

Important to Chemists. Coming on the heels of the announcement of Einstein's discoveries of the gravitational bending of light, the exploitation of the soap bubble is on the other end of the scale as to size, yet, according to scientists, is of tremendous importance to chemists, physicists and research workers in the strength of materials and essential elements. The man who made the experiment is universally recognized as one of the leading scientists in the world. He is Sir James Dewar, LL. D., D. Sc.

culminating in the sailing of the new Mayflower, which will carry the returning American committee and British delegations who are to participate in the program on this side of the Atlantic.

Main events of the American celebration will be in Plymouth, Mass., and Boston, where historical pageants will be held, followed by a big reception in New York. Vice President Marshall is honorary chairman of the committee having the local program in charge.

The foreign visitors will then be taken on a tour of the United States. On November 24, 1920, there will be a universal observance of Thanksgiving day in England, Holland and the United States.

68,000 GIRLS MISSING IN YEAR

That United States Record Leads Travelers' Aid Society to Take Action.

New York.—Approximately 68,000 girls have disappeared or run away from their homes in the United States during the last year, according to a statement issued by the Travelers' Aid society.

A special meeting of the society has been called to devise plans to meet demands made by the great increase in runaways and helpless travelers. The meeting will be attended by officials of the transatlantic lines and representatives of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish social agencies.

F. R. S., Fullerton Professor of Chemistry, Royal Institution of Great Britain, and an honorary member of the Franklin Institute.

The soap bubble is a simple thing, yet it has always been more or less a mystery to scientists. They consider it perhaps the best phenomenon existing for the study of the habits and idiosyncrasies of the molecule.

Scientists now claim, on the strength of the experiment made by Sir James Dewar, that when a soap bubble becomes very old, say in three or four days, it offers the only possible example of the molecule visible to the naked eye. Most parts of the bubble are estimated to consist of about one hundred layers of molecules. But by various methods of treatment the bubble is induced to perform "stunts" until in black spots which appear it represents only a single layer of molecules.

Remarkable Strength. This layer is so thin that Sir James estimates it would take one and one-third million like it, superimposed, to make an inch. Yet, when the soap bubble is permitted to mature in air that has been freed of its natural enemies, it is so strong that it will support drops of water many times its own weight before breaking. Sometimes a bubble is torn from its supporting ring by the weight before the molecules release their bulldog grip.

Old Letter Settles Case. Wilmington, Del.—An age-worn, tattered letter and three words in the codicil of Jesse Chandler settled a long-pending case in the court of chancery recently when Chancellor Curtis issued an order that Samuel M. Harvey of West Chester, Pa., be paid $14,500 from the estate. Harvey's wife, one of the 38 legatees he was suing, lost the suit, but will have a half share in the money awarded. Harvey had agreed with Jesse Chandler to buy 100 acres of farmland in Christiana Hundred for $20,000. When Chandler died before the deal was completed he stipulated in his will that the farm should be sold for that amount to Harvey. Meanwhile the farm had been sold for $34,500, and while the legatees contended that the entire amount should be divided, Harvey claimed that only $20,000, or his agreed purchase price, should be divided. The court upheld his contention.

INDIAN PAINTINGS ON CLIFFS

Owner Offers Them to State or National Authorities to Include in Park.

Austin, Tex.—The most remarkable Indian paintings or photographs in the Southwest have been offered to state or national authorities, provided the cliffs upon which they are drawn are enclosed in a park and adequately guarded, according to J. E. Pearce, associate professor of anthropology of the University of Texas.

These paintings, which are owned by E. D. Sims of Paint Rock are located along the banks of the Concho river near Paint Rock, upon every available surface for a half-mile. They are in deep red, with an occasional black figure or character.

All phases of the early tribes are represented, Mr. Pearce declares, and so much valuable historical material is included in these paintings that Mr. Pearce will have them copied in scale for a report to the Smithsonian Institution, for which he is doing research work.

BIRDS SHOW INCREASE

Beneficial Effects of Migratory Act Being Felt.

Waterfowl Have Been Breeding Rapidly Under Protection, the Bureau Declares.

Washington.—The beneficial effects of the migratory bird treaty act are beginning to be felt. The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of biological survey, has conducted investigations of the breeding areas of ducks in North Dakota and Nebraska. Compared with former years, a gratifying increase of breeding waterfowl, particularly in North Dakota, is evident. The fifth annual series of counts of birds of all species breeding on selected areas in various parts of the United States contained a large proportion of reports showing increases in bird population. The total number of reports received, however, was not large. Many of the persons who had formerly taken part in the annual bird counts were unable to find time for the work required by the fifth count.

"Many species of migratory birds," reports the chief of the bureau of biological survey, "have had a marked increase under the existing treaty act. Waterfowl formerly driven to the far North by spring shooting have remained in steadily increasing numbers to breed in localities where none had previously nested for many years."

And if space itself can be haunted, as memory is haunted, then some time, when the space that was Isabel's room came to be made into the small bedrooms and "kitchenettes" already designed as its destiny, that space might well be haunted and the new occupants come to feel that some seemingly causeless depression hung about it—a wealth of the passion that filled it throughout the last night that George Minafer spent there.

Whatever remnants of the old high-handed arrogance were still within him, he did penance for his deepest sin that night—and it may be that to this day some impressionable, overworked woman in a "kitchenette," after turning out the light, will seem to see a young man kneeling in the darkness, slinking convulsively, and with arms outstretched through the wall, clutching at the covers of a shadowy bed. It may seem to her that she hears the faint cry, over and over: "Mother, forgive me! God, forgive me!"

CHAPTER XXI.

At least it may be claimed for George that his last night in the house where he had been born was not occupied with his own disheartening future, but with sorrow for what sacrificed his pride and youth had demanded of others. And early in the morning he came downstairs and tried to help Fanny make coffee on the kitchen range.

"There was something I wanted to say to you last night, Aunt Fanny," he said.

"Why—why—she stammered; but the knew what he was going to say, and that was why she had been more and more nervous. "Hadn't—perhaps—perhaps we'd better get the—things moved to the little new home first, George. Let's—"

He interrupted quietly, though at her phrase, "The little new home," his pungent impulse was to utter one loud shout and run. "It was about this new place that I wanted to speak. I've been thinking it over and I've decided. I want you to take all the things from mother's room and use them and keep them for me, and I'm sure the little apartment will be just what you like; and with the extra bedroom probably you could find some woman friend to come and live there and share the expense with you. But I've decided on another arrangement for myself, and so I'm not going with you. I don't suppose you'll mind much, and I don't see why you should mind—particularly, that is. I can't imagine you, or anyone else, being much attached to me, so—"

He stopped in amazement: no chair had been left in the kitchen, but Fanny gave a despairing glance around her in search of one, then sank abruptly and sat flat upon the floor.

"What on earth—George sprang to her. "Get up, Aunt Fanny!"

"I can't. I'm too weak. Let me alone, George!" And as he released the wrist he had seized to help her she uttered the dismal prophecy which for days she had been matching against her hopes: "You're going to leave me—in the lurch!"

"Why no, Aunt Fanny!" he protested. "At first I'd have been something of a burden on you. I'm to get eight dollars a week; about thirty-two a month. The rent's thirty-six dollars a month, and the table d'hôte dinner runs up to over twenty-two dollars a piece, so with my half of the rent—eighteen dollars—I'd have less than nothing left out of my salary to pay my share of the groceries for all the breakfasts and luncheons. You see you're not only doing all the housework and cooking, but you'd be paying more of the expenses than I would." She stared at him with such a forlorn blankness as he had never seen. "I'd be paying—" she said feebly. "I'd be paying—"

"Certainly you would. You'd be using more of your money than—"

"My money!" Fanny's chin drooped upon her thin chest and she laughed miserably. "I've got twenty-eight dollars. That's all."

"You mean until the interest is due again?"

"I mean that's all," Fanny said. "I mean that's all there is. There won't be any more interest because there isn't any principal."

"Why you told—"

She shook her head. "No. I haven't told you anything."

"Then it was Uncle George. He told me you had enough to fall back on. That's just what he said: 'to fall back on.' He said you'd lost more than you should in the headlight company, but he'd insisted that you should hold out enough to live on, and you'd very wisely followed his advice."

"I know," she said weakly. "I told him so. He didn't know, or else he'd forgotten how much Willbur's insurance amounted to, and I—oh, it seemed such a sure way to make a real fortune out of a little—and I thought I could do something for you, George, if you ever came to need it—and it all looked so bright I just thought I'd put it all in. I did—every cent except my last interest payment—and it's gone."

"Good Lord!" George began to pace up and down the worn planks of the bare floor. "Why on earth did you wait till now to tell such a thing as this?"

"I couldn't till I had to," she said piteously. "It wouldn't do any good—not any good on earth." She got out her lace handkerchief and began to cry. "Nothing does any good, I guess, in this old world! Oh, how tired of this old world I am! I didn't know what to do. I just tried to go ahead and be as practical as I could, and arrange some way for us to live. Oh, I knew you didn't want me, George! I can see that much! You don't suppose I want to thrust myself on you, do you? It isn't very pleasant to be thrusting yourself on a person you know doesn't want you—but I knew you oughtn't to be left all alone in the world; it isn't good. I knew your mother'd want me to watch over you and try to have something like a home for you—I knew she'd want me to do what I tried to do!" Fanny's tears were bitter now, and her voice, hoarse and wet, was tragically sincere. "Oh! and now—you don't want—you want—you want to leave me in the lurch! You—"

"Oh, my Lord!" He went to her and lifted her. "For God's sake get up! Come, let's take the coffee into the other room and see what's to be done."

He got her to her feet; she leaned upon him, already somewhat comforted, and with his arm about her, he conducted her to the dining room and seated her in one of the two kitchen chairs which had been placed at the rough table. "There!" he said, "get over it!" Fanny's spirits revived appreciably; she looked up with a plaintive eagerness. "I had bought all my fall clothes, George," she said; "and I paid every bill I owed. I don't owe a cent for clothes, George."

"That's good," he said wanly, and he had a moment of physical dizziness that decided him to sit down quickly. For an instant it seemed to him that he was not Fanny's nephew, but married to her. He passed his pale hand over his paler forehead. "Well, let's see where we can afford this place you've selected."

Fanny continued to brighten. "I'm sure it's the most practical plan we could possibly have worked out. George—and it is a comfort to be among nice people. I think we'll both enjoy it, because the fifth is we've been keeping too much to ourselves for a long while. It isn't good for people."

"I was thinking about the money, Aunt Fanny. The rent is thirty-six dollars a month; the dinner is twenty-two and a half for each of us, and we've got to have some provision for our other food. We won't need any clothes for a year, perhaps—"

"Oh, longer!" she exclaimed. "So you see—"

"I see that forty-five and thirty-six make eighty-one," he said. "At the lowest, we need a hundred dollars a month—and I'm going to make thirty-two."

"I thought of that, George," she said confidently, "and I'm sure it will be all right. You'll be earning a great deal more than that very soon."

"I don't see any prospect of it—not till I'm admitted to the bar, and that will be two years at the earliest."

"Well, there's the six hundred dollars from the sale. Six hundred and twelve dollars it was."

"It isn't six hundred and twelve now," said George. "It's about one hundred and sixty."

"I only know of one thing, myself."

"What is it?"

George flushed again, but managed to laugh at his own embarrassment. "I suppose I'm about as ignorant of business as anybody in the world," he said. "But I've heard they pay very high wages to people in dangerous trades; I've always heard they did, and I'm sure it must be true. I mean people that handle touchy chemicals or high explosives—men in dynamite factories, or who take things of that sort about the country in wagons, and shoot oil wells. I thought I'd see if you couldn't tell me something more about it, or else introduce me to some one who could, and then I thought I'd see if I couldn't get something of the kind to do as soon as possible. I wanted to get started today if I could."

Old Frank gave him a long stare. At first this scrutiny was sharply incredulous; then it was grave; finally it developed into a threat of overwhelming laughter; a forked vein in his forehead became more visible and his eyes seemed about to protrude.

But he controlled his impulse; and, rising, took up his hat and overcoat. "All right," he said. "If you'll promise not to get blown up, I'll go with you to see if we can find the job." Then, meaning what he said, but amazed that he did mean it, he added: "You certainly are the most practical young man I ever met!"

CHAPTER XXII.

They found the job. It needed an apprenticeship of only six weeks, during which period George was to receive fifteen dollars a week; after that he would get twenty-eight. This settled the apartment question, and Fanny was presently established in a greater contentment than she had known for a long time.

On Sunday mornings Fanny went to church and George took long walks. He explored the new city, and found it hideous, especially in the early spring, before the leaves of the shade trees were out.

One of his Sunday walks, that spring, he made into a sour pilgrimage. It was a misty morning of belated snow slush, and suited him to a perfection of miserableness, as he stood before the great dripping department store which now occupied the big plot of ground where once had stood both the Amberson hotel and the Amberson opera house. From there he drifted to the old "Amberson block," but this was only a shadow. The old structure had not been replaced, but a cavernous entryway for trucks had been torn in its front, and upon the cornice, where the old separate metal letters had spelt "Amberson block," there was a long bill board sign: "Doogan Storage."

To spare himself, he went out National avenue and saw the piles of slush-covered wreckage where the Mansion and his mother's house had been, and where the Major's ill-fated five "new" houses had stood; for these were down, too, to make room for the great tenement already shaped in unending lines of foundation.

He turned away from the devastated site, thinking bitterly that the only Amberson mark still left upon the town was the name of the boulevard—Amberson boulevard. But he had reckoned without the city council of the new order, and by an unpleasant coincidence, while the thought was still in his mind, his eyes fell upon a metal oblong sign upon the lamp-post at the corner. There were two of these little signs upon the lamp-post, at an obtuse angle to each other, one to give passersby the name of National avenue, the other to acquaint them with Amberson boulevard. But the one upon which should have been stenciled "Amberson boulevard" exhibited the words "Tenth street."

George stared at it hard. Then he walked quickly along the boulevard to the next corner and looked at the little sign there. "Tenth street."

It had begun to rain, but George stood unheeding, staring at the little sign. "D—them!" he said finally; and turning up his coat collar, plodded back through the soggy streets toward "home."

The utilitarian impudence of the city authorities put a thought into his mind. A week earlier he had happened to stroll into the large parlor of the apartment house, finding it empty, and on the center table he noticed a large, red-bound, gilt-edged book, newly printed, bearing the title: "A Civic History," and beneath the title, the rubric, "Biographies of the 500 Most Prominent Citizens and Families in the History of the City." He had glanced at it absently, merely noting the title and subtitle, and wandered out of the room, thinking of other things and feeling no curiosity about the book. But he had thought of it several times since with a faint, vague uneasiness; and now when he entered the lobby he walked directly into the parlor where he had seen the book.

The room was empty, as it always was on Sunday mornings, and the flamboyant volume was still upon the table—evidently a fixture as a sort of local Almanach de Gotha, or Burke, of the enlightenment of tenants and boarders.

He turned to the index where the names of the five hundred Most Prominent Citizens and Families in the History of the City were arranged in alphabetical order, and ran his finger down the column of A's: Abbot, Abbott, Abrams, Adams, Adams, Adler, Akers, Albertsmeyer, Alexander, Allen, Ambrose, Ambuhl, Anderson, Andrews, Appenbach, Archer, Arszman, Ashcraft, Austin, Avey.

George's eyes remained for some time fixed on the thin space between the names "Allen" and "Ambrose." Then he closed the book quietly, and went up to his own room, agreeing with the elevator boy, on the way, that it was getting to be a mighty nasty wet and windy day outside.

The elevator boy noticed nothing unusual about him, and neither did Fanny, when she came in from church with her hat ruined an hour later. And yet something had happened—a thing which, years ago, had been the earnest hope of many, many good citizens of the town. They had thought of it, longed for it, hoping acutely that they might live to see the day when it would come to pass. And now it had happened at last: George Minafer had got his come-uppance.

He had got it three times filled and running over. The city had rolled over his heart, burying it under, as it rolled over the Major's and buried it under. The city had rolled over the Ambersons and buried them under to the last vestige; and it mattered little that George guessed easily enough that most of the five hundred Most Prominent had paid something substantial "to defray the cost of steel engraving, etc."—the Five Hundred had heaved the final shoveful of soot upon that heap of obscurity wherein the Ambersons were lost forever from sight and history. "Quicksilver in a nest of cracks!"

George Minafer had got his come-uppance, but the people who had so longed for it were not there to see it, and they never knew it. Those who were still living had forgotten all about it and all about him.

George had seen Eugene only once since their calamitous encounter. They had passed on opposite sides of the street, downtown; each had been aware that the other was aware of him, and get each kept his eyes straight forward, and neither had shown a perceptible alteration of countenance. It seemed to George that he felt emanating from the outwardly imperturbable person of his mother's old friend a hate that was like a hot wind. At his mother's funeral and at the Major's he had been conscious that Eugene was there; though he had afterward no recollection of seeing him, and while certain of his presence, was uncertain how he knew of it. Fanny had not told him, for she understood George well enough not to speak to him of Eugene or Lucy. Nowadays Fanny almost never saw either of them and seldom thought of them—so sly is the way of time with life.

She was passing middle age, when old intonsties and longings grow thin and flatten out, as Fanny herself was thinning and flattening out; and she was settling down contentedly to her apartment-house intimacies.

The city was so big, now, that people disappeared into it unnoticed, and the disappearance of Fanny and her nephew was not exceptional. People no longer knew their neighbors as a matter of course; one lived for years next door to strangers—that sharpest of all the changes since the old days—and a friend would lose sight of a friend for a year, and not know it.

One May day George thought he had a glimpse of Lucy. He was not certain, but he was sufficiently disturbed, in spite of his uncertainty. A promotion in his work now frequently took him out of town for a week, or longer, and it was upon his return from one of these absences that he had the strange experience. He had walked home from the station, and as he turned the corner which brought him in sight of the apartment house entrance, though two blocks distant from it, he saw a charming little figure come out, get into a shiny ardulet automobile, and drive away. Even at that distance no one could have any doubt that the little figure was charming; and the height, the quickness and decision of motion, even the swift gesture of a white glove toward the chauffeur—all were characteristic of Lucy. George was instantly subjected to a shock of indefinable nature, yet definitely a shock; he did not know what he felt—but he knew that he felt. He went on slowly, his knees shaky.

But he found Fanny not at home; she had been out all afternoon; and there was no record of any caller—and he began to wonder, then to doubt if the small lady he had seen in the distance was Lucy. It might as well have been, he said to himself—since anyone who looked like her could give him "a jolt like that!"

Lucy had not left a card. She never left one when she called on Fanny; though she did not give her quite definite form in her own mind. She came seldom; this was but the third time that year, and, when she did come, George was not mentioned, either by her hostess or by herself—an oddly contrived "between-the-two-ladies without either of them realizing how odd it was."

At other times Lucy's thoughts of George were anything but continuous, and weeks went by when he was not consciously "in her mind at all. Her life was a busy one: she had the big house "to keep up"; she had a garden to keep up, too, a large and beautiful garden; she represented her father as a director for half a dozen public charity organizations, and did private charity work of her own, being a proxy mother of several large families; and she had "danced down," as she said, groups from eight or nine classes of new graduates returned from the universities, without marrying any of them, but she still danced—and still did not marry.

Her father, observing this circumstance happily, yet with some hypercritical concern, spoke of it to her one day as they stood in her garden. "I suppose I'd want to shoo't him," he said, with attempted lightness. "But I mustn't be an old pig. I'd build you a beautiful house close by—just over yonder."

"No, no! That would be like—" she began impulsively; then checked herself. George Amberson's comparison of the Georgian house to the Amberson mansion had come into her mind, and she thought that another new house, built close by for her, would be like the house the Major built for Isabel.

"Like what?"

"Nothing." She looked serious, and when he reverted to his idea of "some day" grudgingly surrendering her up to a suitor, she invented a legend. "Did you ever hear the Indian name for that little grove of beech trees on the other side of the house?" she asked him.

"No—and you never did either!" he laughed.

"Don't be so sure! I read a great deal more than I used to—getting ready for my bookish days when I'll have to do something solid in the evenings and won't be asked to dance any more, even by the very youngest boys who think it's a sporting event to dance with the oldest of the 'older girls.' The name of the grove was 'Loma-Nashah' and it means 'They-Couldn't-Help-It.'"

"Doesn't sound like it."

"Indian names don't. There was a bad Indian chief lived in the grove before the white settlers came. He was the worst Indian that ever lived, and his name was—it was 'Vendohah.' That means 'Rides-Down-Everything.'"

"I see," said Eugene thoughtfully. He gave her a quick look and then fixed his eyes upon the end of the garden path. "Go on."

"Vendohah was an unspeakable case," Lucy continued. "He was so proud that he wore iron shoes, and he walked over people's faces with them. He was always killing people that way, and so at last the tribe decided that it wasn't a good enough excuse for him that he was young and inexperienced—he'd have to go. They took him down to the river, and put him in a canoe, and pushed him out from shore; and then they ran along the bank and wouldn't let him land, until at last the current carried the canoe out into the middle, and then on down to the ocean, and he never got back. They didn't want him back, of course, and if he'd been able to manage it, they'd have put him in another canoe and shoved him out into the river again. But still, they didn't elect another chief in his place. Other tribes thought that was curious, and wondered about it a lot, but finally they came to the conclusion that the beech grove people were afraid a new chief might turn out to be a bad Indian, too, and wear iron shoes like Vendohah. But they were wrong, because the real reason was that the tribe had led such an exciting life under Vendohah that they couldn't settle down to anything tamer. He was awful, but he always kept things happening—terrible things, of course. They hated him, but they weren't able to discover any other warrior that they wanted to make chief in his place. They couldn't help feeling that way."

"I see," said Eugene. "So that's why they named the place 'They-Couldn't-Help-It.'"

"It must have been."

"And so you're going to stay here in your garden," he said musingly. "You think it's better to keep on walking these sunshiny gravel paths between your flower beds, and growing to look like a pensive garden lady in a Victorian engraving."

"I suppose I'm like the tribe that lived here, papa. I had too much unpleasant excitement. It was unpleasant—but it was excitement. I don't want any more; in fact, I don't want anything but you."

"You don't!" He looked at her keenly, and she laughed and shook her head; but he seemed perplexed, rather doubtful. "What was the name of the grove?" he asked. "The Indian name I mean."

"Moia-Haha."

"No, it wasn't; that wasn't the name you said."

"I've forgotten."

"I see you have," he said, his loss perplexity remaining. "Perhaps you remember the chief's name better."

She shook her head again. "I don't!"

POLITICAL "COME-BACKS"

This year will go down in history as "come-back" era in the political game. Quite a few frayed out or played out political personages of other years will again attempt to make for themselves a place in public favor. The most notable instance at the present writing is the Hon. W.
J. Bryan. Having had three nominations for the presidency, he's got the habit, and not at all adverse to a fourth one.

But right here in Texas there will be any number of "come-back" efforts. The Republicans, who have made no very serious efforts to make a showing in this State since McKin-ley's time, have purged their ranks of negro element and are propagating their principles and doctrines all over the State and hope to make a big showing if they can only induce a large number of Democratic voters to stay out of and away from the pri-

Then, too, Joe Bailey's "hat is make another attempt to "come-

THE COMMUNITY HOUSE

Hundreds of American communities have found in the memorial building plans the solution of a social problem which hitherto had been considered almost impossible because of the difficulty of rallying public sentiment into a complete agreement. Thousands of towns of the United States have drifted along year after year utterly lacking the facilities to provide for close association of their inhabitants. They suffer from an unsocial environment.

The memorial community house, however, brings together all the people of the town, enabling the smaller groups of the churches and the lodges to find that they really have the common viewpoint, encouraging the real democracy of contact of thought which is the basis for all public undertakings.

The war accomplished much in bringing together the people of the town, in breaking down barriers of prejudice that persisted in all the old intercourse of daily life. The community house builds up the same unanimous spirit for the town's welfare that the war created for the nation's welfare.

The veterans of the war have come back with the instinct toward sociability fully developed. They have been thrown together in the mass;
and they have come back more tolerant and broader minded. They may be counted on to struggle to keep from being submerged in the old community prejudices which have too often given their home towns unfriendly reputations abroad and impeded progress at home.

The Successful Farmer Raises Bigger Crops and cuts down costs by investment in labor-saving machinery.

Good prices for the farmers' crops encourage new investment, more production and greater prosperity.

But the success of agriculture depends on the growth of railroads—the modern beasts of burden that haul the crops to the world's markets.

The railroads—like the farms—increase their output and cut down unit costs by the constant investment of new capital.

With fair prices for the work they do, the railroads are able to attract new capital for expanding their facilities.

Rates high enough to yield a fair return will insure railroad growth, and prevent costly traffic congestion, which invariably results in poorer service at higher cost.

National wealth can increase only as our railroads grow.

Poor railroad service is dear at any price. No growing country can long pay the price of inadequate transportation facilities.

Will Not be One Day Without PE-RU-NA

This Lady TELLS Her FRIENDS

Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Borman St., Belleville, Ill., is just one of the many thousands of ladies throughout the country who, after an agony of years, have at last found health, strength and vigor in PE-RU-NA.

Her own words tell of her suffering and recovery better than we can do it: "I suffered with my stomach, had awful cramps and headaches so I often could not lay on a pillow. Saw your book, tried PE-RU-NA and got good results from the first bottle. To be sure of a cure I took twelve bottles. I have recommended PE-RU-NA to my friends and all are well pleased with results. I will not be one day without PE-RU-NA. Have not had a doctor since I started with PE-RU-NA, which was about fifteen years ago. I am now sixty-three years old, hale, hearty and well. Can do as much work as my daughters. I feel strong and healthy and weigh near two hundred pounds. Before, I weighed as little as one hundred. I hope lots of people use PE-RU-NA and get the results I did. An experience like that of Mrs. Fricke is an inspiration to every sick and suffering woman.

MRS. MARY FRICKE

If you have catarrh, whether it be of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, or other organs, PE-RU-NA is the remedy. It is not new; it is not an experiment. PE-RU-NA has been tried. PE-RU-NA has been used by thousands who once were sick and are now well. To prevent coughs, colds, grip and influenza and to hasten recovery there is nothing better. PE-RU-NA will improve the appetite and digestion, purify the blood, soothe the irritated mucous linings, eradicate the waste material and corruption from the system. It will tone up the nerves, give you health, strength, vigor and the joy of living. Do what Mrs. Mary Fricke and thousands more have done—try PE-RU-NA. You will be glad, happy, thankful.

Oil of Anise, Fennel, Caraway, Coriander, Glycerine, Sugar Syrup, all of which help to make this formula the very best that medical skill can devise. If it were possible to improve this formula it would be done regardless of the fact that a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup now costs twice as much to make as any other similar preparation. Yet it costs you no more than ordinary baby laxatives.

GOT HOMES AT SMALL COST ENJOYED WELL-WON HONORS

Fortunate Purchasers Profited by the Dismantling of Government Built Munition Plants.

To select a dwelling from a large stock of samples, buy R "over the counter" at a bargain price, and then pack it on a motortruck to be sent home, is a novel solution of the house-hunting problem, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. That is literally what has been happening recently, however, in a number of communities where munition-plant housing facilities are being dismantled by the government. All the purchaser needs is a vacant lot, of course, and a foundation for his new home.

Near Cincinnati more than 200 four-room houses were sold in two days at the remarkable price of $200 each, their original cost to the government having been over $1,500. Purchasers of these houses have been able to get concrete block foundations built for an average price of $225, and to secure truck and trailer delivery within five miles for $120, making a total cost of $553 for a well-built home.

Quite Justified. "I know a man who delights in bringing a bluntness to people's cheeks." "And do people allow it?" "Of course, they do. They go to him to buy their rouge."

SAN FRANCISCO GETS DEMOCRATIC MEETING

NATIONAL CONVENTION WILL BE HELD IN PACIFIC COAST CITY MONDAY, JUNE 28.

Washington.—San Francisco was selected by the Democratic national committee in session here as the place for the party's 1920 national convention. Monday, June 28, was fixed as the convention date.

After 27 votes had been cast for San Francisco, Kansas City and other cities withdrew and the vote for San Francisco was unanimous.

Resolutions endorsing the treaty of Versailles and denouncing an unpatriotic attitude of senators who would defeat it directly or by nullifying reservations were unanimously adopted.

Reviewing the legislative record of the two Wilson administrations and the manner in which the war was won, the resolutions also expressed gratification that the president was regaining health after a breakdown "due largely to his efforts for world peace."

A split between President Wilson and William J. Bryan over whether the league of nations should be made an issue at the coming election topped off the Jackson Day deliberations of the Democratic party chiefs.

President Wilson in his message, read to the diners, assembled in two separate halls, declared that the "clear and single way out" was to submit the question to the voters as "a great and solemn referendum."

Mr. Bryan, showing all the old-time vigor with which he led the fight for the president's nomination at Baltimore in 1912, declared that the Democratic party could not go before the country on the issue, because it involved a delay of 14 months, and meant success only if the Democrats captured a two-thirds majority of the senate. The party, Mr. Bryan declared, must "secure such compromise as may be possible."

WOMAN TELLS ABOUT MEXICAN CRUELITIES

Mrs. Cora Lee Sturgis Pictures Eight Months' Detention in Bandit Camp.

Washington.—A dramatic story of eight months' hardships and degradation as a prisoner in a Mexican bandit camp was told by Mrs. Cora Lee Sturgis, a Virginian, before a senate committee investigating the Mexican situation.

With tears in her eyes Mrs. Sturgis told how her aged mother, worn out by long suffering and humiliation, died of starvation after their plantation had been looted by the bandits and how she had been forced to go into the hills and cut wood, and of a long tramp to another camp with a secret message from bandit to bandit sewed in the sole of her shoe.

Two of Carranza's captains and a lot of soldiers came to our home and beat us with guns," Mrs. Sturgis testified. "When my husband protested and reminded the bandits that we were Americans they pushed him aside and laughed, saying, 'Your government is only a bluff.' They found no rebels, but they were not satisfied and wanted to search the roof, insisting that I go up with them. I told them I was an American, not a roof climber, but they struck me on the shoulder with a gun."

STEEL STRIKE OFF, UNION OFFICIALS SAY

Preparations are Begun for "Next Big Organization Movement."

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The strike in the steel mills and furnaces, called Sept. 22, and which at its inception involved 367,000 men, has been officially called off by the national committee.

Announcement that the national committee had decided to proceed no further was contained in a telegram sent to the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor in Washington, to the head of all international unions interested and to the organizers and field men in all strike districts.

It is also announced that "a vigorous campaign of education and re-organization will be immediately begun and will not cease until industrial justice in the steel industry has been achieved. All steel workers now are at liberty to return to work, pending preparation for the next big organization movement."

$32,315,000 Worth of Roads Planned

Austlin, Texas.—Consolidation of figures just completed by the state highway department shows that up to Dec. 31, 1919, the department had approved plans for 244 road projects in the state, covering a mileage of 3,608 miles, with estimated cost of $32,315,000 and for which aid aggregating $10,388,000 had been pledged. The amount actually paid on estimates to various counties is $1,215,000. The mileage of constructed highways completed and accepted is 234 miles.

ASK FOR MORE FUNDS FOR FIGHT ON REDS

NEW APPROPRIATIONS AGGREGATING $1,150,000 SOUGHT BY DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Washington.—Determination of the government to carry on to the finish its fight to rid the nation of communist and communist labor party members, more than 2,500 of whom now await deportation proceedings as a result of the recent nation-wide raids is seen in the request transmitted by the department of labor to congress for new appropriations aggregating $1,150,000, to be used in the enforcement of laws against radicals and for their deportation.

While congress was yet giving the request preliminary consideration, from the temporary headquarters of the Russian soviet bureau, located less than three blocks from the department of justice building, there was issued a written statement by S. Nuorteva, who said he was secretary to Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled ambassador of the United States from the Russian soviet government, setting forth general charges against the department of justice agents.

These charges were that department agents had "actively participated" in the formulation of some of the planks in the communist and communist labor platform which, the statement said, "now form the basis of the persecution of thousands of people." Another charge was that "the chief figures in such celebrated bomb plots were agents of a similar nature."

"The hearing conducted by the proposed senate committee," the statement further asserted, "would also have opened wide—if we were permitted to testify—the seamy stables of the work of Russian reactionaries in this country, who have squandered on abortive plots and intrigues tens of millions of money lent by the American government to Russia."

TWO MORE AMERICANS ARE SLAIN IN MEXICO

F. J. Roney and Earl Bowles, Oil Men, Killed in the Tampico District.

Washington.—Advice received by the state department that two more American oil men, F. J. Roney and Earl Bowles, had been killed by Mexicans in the Tampico district of Mexico, was followed by instructions to the American embassy in Mexico City to urge the Mexican government to take every possible step to bring about the capture and punishment of those guilty of causing their deaths.

First word of the killing of the two Americans, which brought the total of American citizens killed in the Tampico district since April, 1917, to 19, reached Washington through private sources. Later the state department announced the receipt of similar advice and outlined the steps which had been taken by the department in the case.

Service Men Paid More Money

Washington.—The Sweet bill, amending the war risk insurance law, under which the allowances to disabled soldiers and sailors was greatly increased, and the conditions liberalized, was approved by President Wilson on Dec. 24 and became a Christmas gift to the thousands of beneficiaries under the government's increase plan. Director Cholmeley-Jones of the war risk Bureau on the day the act was approved by the president mailed more than 1,900 checks, carrying a total of nearly $990,000, drawn on the basis of the new allotment, and in anticipation of President Wilson signing the bill. Forty-five of the checks carrying a total of $37,203, went to Texas and twelve for a total of $5,351 went to Oklahoma.

Texas Leads in Farm Loans

Washington.—The third annual report of the federal farm loan board filed with congress gives Texas as the high district in the United States as to the amount of business done through national farm loan associations. There were 399 associations chartered, according to the report, making 10,945 loans, at a total value of $1,408,461. Other business transacted by the district included the loaning of $587,858 on land which the bank appraised as being worth $1,427,741.

Chicago, Ill.—A nation-wide drive to raise a $400,000,000 fund for small colleges of the country will be launched in the spring according to announcement made here by Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American colleges.

RANGERS SENT TO THE DISPUTED OIL WELLS

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED AGAINST INTERFERENCE BY OKLAHOMA CITIZENS

Austin, Texas.—A force of Texas rangers has been sent to the Red river valley with orders to uphold the jurisdiction of the Texas courts and the sovereignty of this state in the dispute between Texas and Oklahoma over some oil land. The sending of the rangers followed the announcement here that the district court of Travis county had issued an injunction, which not only stops the defendants from asserting claim or interfering with oil production on the land, but also restrains the Oklahomans from bringing suit of any character in any court of any state or any federal court with reference to the title of the land pending further orders from the district court.

The case was filed in the court a week ago, but was kept off the docket by order of the court at the instance of the attorney general. The land in dispute is claimed by the Oklahomans to be in Tillman county, Oklahoma.

It appears that state officials have made all preparations to hold the land, following action of the court in granting the attorney general's prayer for an injunction. Some time ago there was threat of a pitched battle by Oklahomans and a conference of governors and attorneys general of the two states was at Fort Worth, which came to naught.

Texas is now prepared for any eventuality. It is known that, before the injunction was issued the conference was held in the governor's office, with Governor Hobby, Adjutant General Cope and Attorney General Cureton present. Assistant Attorney General E. F. Smith prepared a petition in the case and has been in charge of the litigation. The defendants to the suit are the Burk-Divide Oil company No. 1, Burk-Divide Oil company No. 2 and the Double-F Oil company, together with their officers and directors, some of whom reside in Missouri and Oklahoma.

The land in controversy is 18 miles northwest of Wichita Falls.

BOLSHEVIK FORCES TAKE NOVOCHERKASSK

Capture of Cossack Seaport Increases Danger of Denekine's Right Wing.

London.—The town of Krasnoyarsk, eastern Siberia, has been captured by the Bolsheviki, according to a Moscow dispatch.

The remnants of the first, second and third enemy armies have surrendered and 60,000 prisoners already have been counted," says the dispatch. The city of Novochoerkassk, 20 miles northeast of Rostov, the principal seaport of the Don Cossack region, has also been taken by the Bolsheviki, according to a message from Moscow. The city was taken after a battle of the most severe character with General Denekine's troops.

The capture of Novochoerkassk by the Bolshevists means the further rolling back of General Denekine's right wing, following the reported disastrous breach made in the center of his armies on the sea of Azov. This part of the Denekine forces is composed of Don Cossacks and the army of the Caucasus. Novochoerkassk is an important city in the midst of a coal region.

Statistics Show Government Rail Operating in Big Loss.

Washington.—Railroads during November, 1919, were operated at a loss of approximately $60,000,000 to the government, according to statistics given out by the interstate commerce commission.

The net profits for the month was $29,242,530, against $60,162,379 for November, 1918. The decrease is attributed to the coal strike, which necessitated a curtailment in railroad service.

Was Going Down-Hill

Mrs. Bergman's Friends Worried, but Doan's Brought Remarkable Recovery From Kidney Complaint.

"I couldn't sit down without putting a pillow behind my back," says Mrs. Olo Bergman, 820 Pennsylvania St., Gary, Ind. "When I bent over it felt as though somebody had stuck a knife right into my back and I would often fall to the floor. The kidney secretions made me get up four and five times a night. There would be only a small amount, which would burn so that I would almost scream. Before long my body bloated and my feet were so swollen that I couldn't wear my shoes. My skin looked shiny and when I pressed it down it left a dent. I had chills and fever. Sometimes I would sweat so that I could fairly wring the water out of my clothes. Everybody said I was going down-hill fast. In two months I lost fifteen pounds and was discouraged. By the time I had finished three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was entirely cured and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since."

PEACE TREATY SIGNED IN PARIS SATURDAY

GERMANS PREVIOUSLY SIGNED PROTOCOL COVERING REPARATION FOR SCAPA FLOW

U.S. WAS NOT REPRESENTED

Peace is Made Only Between Germany and Allied Nations That Have Ratified Treaty

Paris.—The treaty of Versailles, making peace between Germany and the ratifying allied powers, was put into effect Saturday afternoon by the exchange of ratifications.

The entire ceremony, which took place in the Clock Hall at the French foreign ministry, was completed at 4:16 o'clock.

Previously Baron Kurt Von Lersner, head of the German mission, signed the protocol of Nov. 1, providing for reparation for the sinking of the German warships at Scapa Flow and to insure the carrying out of the armistice terms.

Immediately after the exchange of ratification of the treaty Baron von Lersner made this statement:

"I am happy that peace has finally been effected. My greatest regret is that the only country with which Germany is still at war is the United States. I hope, however, that this situation will soon change."

The proceedings began without any ceremony. Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain following the German delegates at the signing table, he was succeeded by Premier Clemenceau, who on returning to his seat after signing, stopped in front of Baron von Lersner and Herr von Simson. The German representatives arose and bowed to M. Clemenceau, who said a few words which were inaudible to the spectators. The Premier then passed on to his place without shaking hands.

Premier Nitti of Italy, Baron Matsui, the Japanese representative, and Paul Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister followed Premier Clemenceau in the order named.

Then the delegates of the other ratifying nations signed in alphabetical sequence. M. Clemenceau rose and said:

"The protocol having been signed, as well as the minutes recording the exchange of ratifications, I have the honor to declare that the treaty of Versailles is in full effect and that its terms will be executed integrally."

At the end of M. Clemenceau's remarks all the delegates arose and the Germans, after slight hesitation, led the way out without either saluting or exchanging words with any of the other delegates.

The absence of American representatives was particularly remarked. Up to the last hour Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador, was in doubt as to whether he would receive instructions to attend the ceremony. Finally, hearing nothing from Washington, he returned to the secretary of the peace conference the invitations that had been sent him.

After the ceremony it was learned that Premier Clemenceau's remark to the German representatives was to the effect that he would give orders for the repatriation of the German war prisoners.

In the secret session immediately after the signing of the protocol M. Clemenceau shook hands with Baron von Lersner and Herr von Simson, it also became known.

VICTOR BERGER AGAIN NOT SEATED BY HOUSE

Resolutions Declare "He Gave Aid and Comfort to the Enemy."

Washington.—Victor Berger, Milwaukee socialist, re-elected from the fifth Wisconsin congressional district after he had been refused membership in the house "because he gave aid and comfort to the enemy," was denied his seat again by a vote of 328 to 6.

Chairman Dallinger of the election committee, which held Berger ineligible the first time, presented a resolution barring Berger and reviewing the reasons why Berger was excluded at the special session.

Members of the house showed little interest in news from Milwaukee that the socialist executive committee had voted to renominate Berger. In presenting his resolution again Chairman Dallinger said Berger was ineligible to membership under provisions of the constitution.

Calomel

a "High Explosive" to the System

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it like dynamite, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" instead

If you are sluggish and "all knocked about," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated, or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Oftentimes hard kicking will remedy a case of "cold feet."

HOW IS YOUR EXPRESSION?

Well to Remember Sometimes That a Man is Apt to Be Judged by His Looks.

What kind of expression do you wear habitually? Is it soft, morose, repellent? Is it a mean, stinging, contemptible, uncharitable, intolerant expression? Do you wear the expression of a bulldog, a grasping, greedy, hungry expression, which indicates an avaricious nature? Do you go about among the members of your family with a thunder-cloud expression, with a melancholy, despondent, hopeless look on your face? Do you wear the sunshine expression which radiates good cheer and hope, which indicates a feeling of good will and of helpfulness? These questions are asked by a keen student of nature, writing in a recent publication.

Do you smile and look happier when you approach them, or do they shrink from you and feel a chilly, gooseflesh sensation come over them as they see you approach? It makes all the difference in the world to you and to those whom you influence, what kind of expression you wear.—The Continent.

So Subtle!

"Not all the poets," observed a frequenter of cosmopolitan society "have the gift of uttering quick, lightning, magical nothings in society."

"I knew of one poet, greatly in vogue in Paris some years ago, who was not exactly a fluent dispenser of epigram. He was invited to the house of a great lady of the Faubourg St. Germain, and as soon as he entered he became the center of a circle of admirers, who waited vainly for some subtle or poetic conceit. The poet remained silent, ill at ease, red in the face, and uneasy of feet.

"Come, my dear poet," the hostess finally begged, say something to us!"

"Have you observed—duchess," he faltered, desperately, "that this—year's pawn tickets are pink?"

Equally Diaphanous.

"Well, suzz!" ejaculated Mrs. Wawbox, in the midst of her perusal of the county paper. "It says here that an ordinary soap bubble is only one five-millionth of an inch thick. That's pretty thin, isn't it?"

"Eh-youp!" replied honest Farmer Wawbox. "About as thin, I should say, as young Gabe Gawk's excuse that he wants to talk boss-swap with me, when he comes over to set up alongside of Hettie Jane."—Kansas City Star.

SWITCH OFF!

Put aside the Salts, Oil, Calomel, or Pills and take "Cascarets."

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely whipping them into action every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Oil, or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste matter and poisons so you can straighten up.

Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, or cause any inconvenience, and cost so little too.—Adv.

Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

BELCHING

Acid-Stomach

Let EATONIC, the wonderful modern stomach remedy, give you quick relief from disgusting belching, food-repeating, indigestion, bloated, gassy stomach, dyspepsia, heartburn and other stomach miseries. They are all caused by Acid-Stomach, from which about nine people out of ten suffer in one way or another. One writes as follows: "Before I used EATONIC, I could not eat a bite without belching it right up, sour and bitter. I have not had a bit of trouble since the first tablet."

Millions are victims of Acid-Stomach without knowing it. They are weak and ailing, have poor digestion, bodies improperly nourished although they may eat heartily. Grave disorders are likely to follow if an acid-stomach is neglected. Cirrhosis of the liver, intestinal congestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach—these are only a few of the many ailments often caused by Acid-Stomach.

A sufferer from Catarrh of the Stomach of 11 years' standing writes: "I had catarrh of the stomach for 11 long years and I never found anything to do me any good—just temporary relief—until I used EATONIC. It is a wonderful remedy and I do not want to be without it."

If you are not feeling quite right—lack energy and enthusiasm and don't know just where to locate the trouble—try EATONIC and see how much better you will feel in every way.

At all drug stores—a big box for 50c and your money back if you are not satisfied.
