CARRANZA SLAIN WHILE HE SLEPT

Mexico City, May 23.—A dispatch received from Juan Barragan, chief of staff of President Carranza, says Carranza met his death at the hands of General Rodolfo Herrero's forces at Tlaxalantongo. The dispatch did not give the exact date. The dispatch follows:

"Villa Juarez, State of Puebla, May 22.—To General Alvaro Obregon: Referring to your telegram of this date, Herrero joined the column at Patla, professing loyalty. Arriving at Tlaxalantongo, Herrero offered hospitality to Carranza, placing sentinels who knew the terrain. At 4 o'clock in the morning his men, abusing the confidence in them, surrounded the shelter where Carranza was sleeping, firing their rifles furiously into the hut. Everyone offered resistance, although with the natural demoralization caused by the unexpected attack.

"General Francisco Murguia fought valiantly, repulsing the traitors who surprised the defenders when they were leaving their shelter to attack the enemy.

"The unexpectedness of the attack enables us to clear our military honor. The defense was so general that the attackers were forced to take sixty prisoners, among them Mario Mendez, Paulino Fontes, Gil Garias, General Heliadoro Perez, Colonel Gomez, General Villala and Carranza's military aid."

(Mendez was formerly director of the national telegraph lines, Fontes was former director of national railways and Senor Garias was Carranza's private secretary.)

"Our conscience is clear. Our grief for the death of the President is inconsolable. We are satisfied that we did not abandon him for one moment. The few men wounded and dead is explained by the fact that the attackers planned their crime, knowing the place where the President was sleeping. The loyalty and courage of the President's followers were useless against the treason of those criminals."

The message was signed by Barragan and Marciano Gonzales, Federico Montes, Francisco de H. Maria and others. The flags of the American Embassy and all the other embassies and legations were placed at half mast when news of Carranza's assassination arrived.

President Carranza and General Morales Y. Molina were the only persons killed at Tlaxalantongo, according to newspaper dispatches today. General Rodolfo Herrero is quoted as saying he only desired to kill Carranza and Ygnacio Bonillas. General Molina conducted the military trial of General Roberto F. Cejudo, former commander in chief of the forces of Emiliano Capata in Hidalgo, who was accused of dealing with the rebels. He is said to have been mistaken for Bonillas.

The dispatches add that the three Generals and two members of the Carranza cabinet, who at first were reported killed, have disappeared and probably are in hiding.

Mexico City, May 24.—A dingy little train of three wooden coaches today brought the body of Venustiano Carranza, murdered President of Mexico, back to his former capital.

Drawn by a rusty, crippled engine, the train slowly puffed its way into the city at 5:50 a. m. on the narrow gauge railway.

Not more than 150 persons witnessed the arrival of the body. The faithful watchers included most of the foreign diplomatic corps. George Summerlin, the American Charge, was conspicuous in a high silk hat.

The other watchers were chiefly newspaper men, photographers and the mourning-clad members of the dead President's family. A few men from the Carranza regime, who had not fled the capital with their chief, were waiting. They also were dressed in mourning.

The sun was just rising when railroad officials announced that the train was approaching and would stop at a crossing about 200 yards away.

When the word was passed about the little crowd fled down the tracks through the early dawn.

As the train stopped at the crossing a band of faithful Carranza soldiers, who had acted as its guards, clambered stiffly to the ground. They were ragged, dirty and unshaven from days of the hardest kind of campaigning in the mountains of Puebla.

REVIVAL MEETING ANNOUNCEMENT

Our revival meeting is to begin at the Methodist church on the first Sunday in June. Dr. D. V. York and his singer, the Rev. D. T. McMahon, and wife will lead our forces. Below is an excerpt taken from The Alice News, where they have just recently closed a great meeting:

"I am glad that I have been permitted to live to see one more good old fashioned wave of Christianity sweep the town." Many times have I heard substantially this statement made in the last few days, and real religion seems to have supplanted churchianity in Alice.

The revival, which has been running three weeks, closed Monday night after Dr. D. V. York had concluded a masterly appeal for the holdouts to bend the knee and invoke divine blessing.

Dr. York and his gifted singer, Rev. D. T. McMahon, found Alice inhabited by a complacent, self-righteous, fairly moral, high-toned churchmember people, a lot of whom were strangers to the kind of Christianity which makes a man love his fellowman and a woman love her sister. Before Dr. York had preached two sermons he was "The talk of the town," and many dignified churchmembers said he was too harsh, others going so far as to say he was "too plain;" yet most of those who criticized went to hear him, have gotten religion, and Dr. York left Alice with about two thousand more friends than he had when he came. Highly educated, a deep thinker, an orator who soars from valley to mountain top with majestic sweep, knowing human nature and the varying moods of an audience with uncanny accuracy, his preaching is almost irresistible, and when Dr. York comes the devil goes.

Usually, in an evangelistic team, the singer plays "second fiddle," but Rev. Mr. McMahon would stand out as a man of parts in any company. Free from the usual "dogy do" stuff before his choir, he leads them in magnificent peans of praise to the Lord. As a soloist he is fine, as a musical director, he is magnificent. Bringing together a host of the younger ones he organized a junior choir which rivaled the older folks and when his head will have endured the snows of many winters, young men and young women will recall him as the tireless, Godly leader who taught them how to sing.

When once the church members got right, converts flocked to the altar, and on one night more than forty were converted, while at the morning service one day last week more than thirty were converted. At prayer-meetings held in the stores men and women shouted glory to the Lord, and several were converted there. Just how many church members were converted, no one can tell, but the harvest has been plentiful.

Another feature which should not go unmentioned, is that twenty-two men and women, known as the "dancing crowd," marched down to the altar the night before the meeting closed and signed a solemn pledge never again to trip the fantastic toe.

I give you the above excerpt to give you some idea of the man who will lead our force during the revival. He is a fearless, plain, Gospel preacher. His attacks on sin are terrific, his pleas for Godly living are pathetic and full of love. A preacher does me very little good unless he shows me how I can improve my life. It isn't always pleasant to face the truth, but it is better that we do it now while we have the opportunity to make amends for our wrongs. And I am pleading with the people generally to give ear to the calls and claims of the Gospel. What Graham needs more than anything else is a genuine revival of religion. There is but one way that we can get it, and that is by giving up sin and giving up ourselves to God. In the Second Book of Chronicles, 7th Chapter and 14th verse, are directions which will bring the revival: "If all people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." There is the secret.

We will be glad to have the co-operation and help of all Christian people of the town. Our aim is to build up the religious interests of the

AGED PIONEER ANSWERS SUMMON

Mrs. W. R. Drum, a resident of Young county for nearly forty-one years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Johnson, at Loving, Texas, last Saturday, May 22, after a brief illness and her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at that place the following day, Rev. G. W. Black, her old pastor, conducting the funeral services. At the time of her death, her aged husband was at McKinney under the treatment of a specialist for cancer and was not able to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Drum was born in Georgia January 19, 1839, and was at the time of her death eighty-one years, four months and three days old. She was married to W. R. Drum on April 30, 1857. To this union were born ten children, all of whom, except one, survive her. She had been a member of the Baptist church nearly all of her life, and was a devout christian woman whose life will be an inspiration for good to the children she has left behind and to those with whom she has been associated.

To the bereaved husband and children The Leader extends sympathy.

Many of the scenes in Norma Talmadge's latest select picture, "She Loves and Lies," in which this favorite screen star is appearing at the National Theatre Friday, June 4, were taken in New York's famous Greenwich Village, where the long haired men and short haired women of the artistic world have set up their Bohemian quarter.

Here writers, artists and sculptors have their studios, and at night the various haunts of the Bohemians tingle with mirth and music. All of this atmosphere has been transferred to the screen in "She Loves and Lies," many of the models and frequenters of the district having been especially engaged for the production. In New York they are known as "nuts" but they take themselves very seriously. Miss Talmadge appears as a young actress who pretends to be one of these "nuts" in order to win the man she loves, so that she can reinstate his fallen fortune. She accomplishes her aim in a series of delightful scenes that reveals her in an entirely new light.

PIANO PUILS GIVE RECITAL

A charming musical was given to her pupils by Mrs. Sherrill Norris at high school auditorium last Thursday, May 20th. A note of simplicity prevailed quite suitable to the youth of the attractive girls who compose the class. Mrs. Norris, gowned in a pretty "Peanut Girl" costume of black satin with a tablier and round collar of crisp white organdy, surrounded by the gay bevy of violet, pink, blue rose and mauve costumes, made a picture that coincides with her musical temperament.

The dainty selections chosen bore testimony of careful consideration for the age and talent of each child and Mrs. Norris was sincerely complimented for the ability, grace and ease displayed for her gifted class.

GRAHAM PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSE

The 1919-20 term of the Graham schools closed last week. In many respects it was the most successful term in the history of the schools and will tend to enlarge the enrollment next year. There were twenty-eight graduates, the largest class we have ever had. The exercises were all attended by crowded houses, many people being unable to get into the high school building the last night.

The following are the programs rendered for the occasion:

"Engaged by Wednesday," the senior class play, given on last Friday evening at the high school auditorium.

R. A. HAWLEY ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER

The Leader is this week authorized to announce R. A. Hawley, of Padgett, as a candidate for County Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, of Young county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. Hawley has been a resident of Young county for more than fifteen years and is familiar with the needs of the county. He is recognized as a man of good business judgment and ranks high among the influential citizens of the county.

He asks the support of the voters in his precinct and promises if elected to discharge the duties of the office efficiently and without favor.

Mrs. John B. Wood is in Los Angeles, California, visiting her sister.

INDIAN FIGHT REUNION HELD

The reunion held at the Eichelberger ranch on last Thursday was well attended, there being some 600 or 600 people in the gathering. The date for the meeting was set for the 16th inst., but the rain and mud held the crowd away, otherwise there would have been a tremendous attendance.

The morning was spent in renewing old acquaintances, recalling by the old timers many incidents of interest and a general mingling of neighbors and friends. At twelve o'clock dinner was spread, and a finer dinner could not be wished for. The usual good things to be found at gatherings in this part of the country were there in great quantities—in fact, enough was left to feed another crowd the same size, and then have lots of good things to spare.

After dinner the program was begun, and was opened with a speech by Uncle Billie Kutch, of Jacksboro, the only surviving participant in the Indian fight which occurred on that particular spot on the 16th day of May, 1869. After Uncle Billie's extremely interesting talk, others of the old timers related experiences that were listened to with intense interest. Rev. Matthews and Judge Horton, of Jacksboro, delivered appropriate addresses that were enjoyed by all present. When the program was finished a picture man made photographs of all the old timers in a group. All present seemed to enjoy themselves immensely, and many said they would be sure to be on hand next year when the 16th day of May came around.

PROMINENT THROCKMORTON ATTORNEY DIES

Judge T. J. Wright, a prominent attorney of Throckmorton, died following an operation for appendicitis at Stamford last Friday and was buried at Throckmorton Saturday evening. His brother, J. N. Wright, of the Young County Hardware & Furniture Company, of this city, attended the funeral.

Judge Wright was well and favorably known over this entire section of the State and the news of his death will be the source of sincere regret by his numerous friends and acquaintances.

JUDGE ARNOLD IMPROVING

The numerous friends of Judge Arnold in this county will be rejoiced to know he is improving and has a fair chance to recover from the paralytic stroke he suffered two weeks ago. His son, Fred T. Arnold, returned from Henrietta the last part of last week where he had been attending the bedside of his father and he is greatly encouraged and more hopeful for his ultimate recovery.

Judge Arnold was stricken suddenly on Saturday, May 1, and for several hours he was unable to speak, and the report reached Graham that the end for him was close at hand. But he rallied, and since that time has continued to improve and it is now believed he will recover.

BOTTLING WORKS PLANT NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS

C. Adams has opened an up-to-date bottling works plant near the machine shop and is already enjoying a splendid patronage. Last week Mr. Adams favored The Leader force with a sample case of pop, which we found to be the equal to if not the very best we have ever tasted.

The Graham Bottling Works plant is as clean and sanitary a place as can be found anywhere and Mr. Adams extends an invitation to any and every one to visit his factory at any time and be fully convinced that drinks from there are clean and healthful.

FIRE DESTROYS ROGERS HOME

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the new five-room home of J. R. Rogers in the Vaughan Addition shortly after noon yesterday. The fire department arrived at the scene in a very short time after the alarm was turned in, but force from the water main was so slight and the building so completely enveloped with flames that nothing could be done. With the exception of two mattresses and a bag of soiled clothing, everything was lost.

A. L. CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS

Members of The American Legion, who are conducting a nation-wide campaign for new members, believe that their chief enemy will be none other than old General Inertia.

The Legion now has approximately one and a half million members and seeks to get a million more. When it is remembered that four and a half million men and women are eligible for membership, by reason of active service in the World War in army, navy or marine corps, it does not seem that The Legion's aim is an extravagant one.

Posts throughout the country, of which there are now about 9,500, report that their chief obstacle in getting men to join has been mere inertia. Thousands of men are convinced of the desirability of Legion membership and are in hearty accord with its principles. But they have failed to "obey that impulse" and become active members. It is believed a national membership push will supply the additional impetus that will cause a majority of these victims of inertia to join the Legion.

The Legion has done enough beneficial things for ex-service men generally, whether they were members of the organization or not, to earn it a high place in the affections of these men. The Legion has obtained from Congress an increase of base pay for the disabled from $30 to $50 a month. It has adjusted thousands of claims for war risk insurance for service men and their dependents.

Until The Legion took hold, the Federal Board for Vocational Training was not functioning properly in many districts. Recently a plan of co-operation between The Legion and the board has been devised, that promises to speedily solve the rehabilitation problem for all the disabled.

The Legion has helped to secure preference for ex-service persons and their widows in civil service appointments and special preference for the disabled.

The four-fold compensation bill for all ex-service persons, now before Congress is familiar to all as being the handiwork of The Legion. Back in those days just following demobilization, The Legion was an active agency for re-employment and co-operated with national, State and private organizations to speedily return service men to profitable and suitable employment.

A recent act of the organization has been to raise a fund throughout the nation, with which to decorate the graves of all the soldier dead in France. To this purpose the money is being forwarded to the Paris post of The Legion, and this post will superintend the ceremonies.

In all these activities The Legion has acted for service men as a whole and not only for its members. A great many service men are expected to reciprocate by joining the Legion now.

"Every buddy get a buddy."

There are over 400 ex-service men from Young county eligible for membership in the Legion, and Ligon-Daniels Post should have more members.

LITTLE CHILD DIES

Little Merle, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Teague, died May 20, at the Commerce Hotel. Mr. Teague is a driller in the oil fields at Ellisville and Mrs. Teague came with part of her family from California to join her husband about three weeks ago. The child was ill when she arrived, but she went on to her husband at Ellisville. The baby continued to grow worse, and about a week before it died they brought it to Graham where it could be under the care of our physicians. They stopped at the Commerce Hotel, in spite of all that could be done the child died.

Little Merle was born on August 1, 1917. He was the youngest of five children in the family, three of whom are still in California. The funeral service was held at the Methodist parsonage May 21st, Rev. T. E. Bowman conducting the services.

FOR THE JAIL BONDS

In an article in last week's New-castle Register, in which it was attempted to show that a new jail is not needed, the writer, in referring to this paper, says, "So far The Graham Leader has failed to disclose its position on the question." It is true that for the past year, owing to inability to secure sufficient help, The Leader has been unable to keep up to its old standard and many items of news and comments on public matters have been unavoidably passed up on this account. But this should not cause the Register man to doubt as to where we stand on any matter when the best interests of the people are in question.

For nearly a half century The Leader has stood for what it believed to be the best interests of all, without prejudice or selfishness, and at this late day it is hardly reasonable to suppose we would fall down on our duty. However, the need of a new jail should be evident to all without newspaper comment, since nearly every grand jury for the past fifteen years has gone on record as favoring the building of a new jail and every commissioner in the present court has signed a statement to the same effect and condemned the present structure. These men come from every section of the county, have the best interests of all at heart and bear reputations for honesty, sincerity and truthfulness that cannot be questioned. They have made their reports after careful investigation from every angle and they believe it is for the best interests of the people of the county as a whole that a jail be built. It appears to us now that it is the duty of every loyal citizen to stand behind these people and grant their request. To attempt through prejudice or malice, to influence the taxpayers to vote against the bonds before thoroughly investigating the condition of the old jail, you must admit, is wrong. The new jail will be the property of the people and not the property of Graham.

In the article the Register goes so far as to class paupers and criminals together and further states that "if those who patronize jails don't like our accommodations, they are perfectly free and welcome to carry their custom to where the lock-ups suit them better." So far Young county has been able to care for herself without asking outside aid and we feel sure she has too much pride to do so now.

In olden times prisoners were subjected to the most cruel treatment, but in this age we have learned to be considerate of everyone and to care for and endeavor to elevate the fallen, and we have learned that accusation does not always mean guilt and insanity and poverty do not mean degradation. Young county is starting upon an era of prosperity never enjoyed by any county or community in this great State and an attempt to thwart its progress through envy or an appeal to prejudice is displaying a

EVERY DAY ESSAY,—"ASTRONOMY"

By James M. Burkett

I have written on quite a varied number of subjects in the brief time in which I have been in the essay business. I have expounded on many classes of human beings and their pastimes; I have moralized on many of our everyday faults; I have laid tributes at Nature's feet! I have written much, but I have neglected one great field; I have ignored science. There are many of you, no doubt, who do not consider me a scientist. You're dead wrong if you don't. I don't blame you, though, because until now I have neglected to tell you. Of course, you'll be slow to get this but it's a fact—us scientists use science every day of our lives in everything we do, but don't regard it as such. You usually classify it as good luck, horse sense or something like that. Why I wouldn't even think of sitting down to a meal unless the menu was laid out on a scientific basis. I chew according to Fletcher. Every move that I make on the golf links or over the billiard table is considered from a scientific viewpoint before it is put into execution. I don't know how to explain it. Science just comes natural with me, I guess. But I haven't got to my subject yet. I started out to tell you just a few of the multitude of things I know about astronomy and I am going to carry it through. I just wanted you to feel that you were getting the real cold scientific stuff and not a nebulous piece of hot air just because I wrote it. Now, let's talk about astronomy.

Astronomy is the science that treats of heavenly bodies. That is the stars, moons, etc. I mean, of course, the stars that twinkle in the sky and not those that twinkle behind the footlights. Some of the latter may have heavenly bodies all right and are very often studied from afar with telescopic lenses but such research comes more under the head of mathematics, rather than astronomy. However, we have been told that the science of figures owes much to astronomy.

Star gazing has been a popular pastime for several years. History tells us the ancient Babylonians sat up late nights studying the heavens. The Greeks gave us the stars pet names. Columbus decided on his memorable excursion only after learning a lesson from the moon. Today the world is full of star-gazers and astronomers.

Since the sun is the head guy in the sky we will study his character first. The sun is nothing but a big bunch of gas which shows he is a republican by party. How long the sun has been shining is about as well known as who killed cock robin? We know that if he ever goes off the job, we are in for a hard winter, because he is the source of all our light and heat. Of course if he laid down for a while, it would help the electric light and gas companies a little bit, but it sure would be hard on the rest of us. There are quite a few milestones between the earth and the sun. If the fastest train that ever ran were to start from the earth to the sun, the spirit that bodes no good to the people as a whole. We are confident that if all the voters could come and investigate the conditions of the present jail they would agree in every particular with the officials who made the report for the county, and, if all prejudice were laid aside, vote for the bonds.

Yes, The Leader is for the bonds, and as a citizen who has the best interests of the county at heart, the publisher will vote for them next Saturday.

butcher boy would die of old age and the conductor would have to be given a decent burial before they reached the first flag stop.

The moon is the night watchman. It is much closer to us than the sun but lacks a whole lot of being a next door neighbor at that. It long has been supposed to be made of green cheese. This is probably correct as its splor and its holey surface resemble that fragrant fruit and then we know it is strong enough to attract the waters of our oceans, causing tides. As to why it is green cheese—it is probably mellowed by age. That's the reason we always speak of the mellow moonlight. You often hear stuff about the man in the moon, but don't ever let that interfere with your pleasure because he is not there. How could a man live on nothing but cheese and moonshine? And we believe that there is no vegetation there because it never gets any greener in the spring than it is in the winter although this might possibly indicate that the vegetation is evergreen. Then we never have been able to detect any geranium, nasturtium, or petunia in the ether surrounding this great hunk of cheese.

Mars is one of the so-called planets and can be distinguished by its red color. Every time you look at Mars you see red, hence the name of the War God. This planet has long been supposed to be inhabited, but us more conservative scientists don't fall for that much. In the first place Mars is so much higher up than we are that the atmosphere must be very rare indeed, due to high altitude. Then, again, the cost of living would be something fierce up there since they are so far away from a railroad. Mars is our nearest neighbor but he's one of the neighbors we want to keep his distance and not come fooling around our home. His influence causes enough strife and bloodshed, as it is.

Venus is another planet that exerts a tremendous influence on man. This heavenly body is very similar to the moon in her habits, being full only part of the time. She is often called the Evening Star.

The Milky Way is a very important astronomical conglomeration. This is a virtual gigantic chorus of stars. It is called the Milky Way because it looks like a path from Latitude 90 N. to Terra del Fuego strewn with buttermilk. Personally, I don't think it looks any more like milk than primroses, daisies or sawdust. They could just as well have called it the "Primrose Path," the "Daisy Chain," or the "Sawdust Trail."

Comets are the mavericks of the skies. They are always running around butting in on private parties, etc., and always appear in evening dress with a train sweeping the skies behind them. Nobody knows from whence they come, where they are going or what their business is. They are just tramps.

I would like to talk of the Nebula Hypothesis if I had the time. I would like to discuss orbits, centers of gravity, sun spots, constellations, etc. I would be pleased to give you some pet theories of my own about our own planet on which we live. Such as: Why the North is not the South; why skating is not a popular sport in Mexico; why the sun doesn't shine until after sunup; why it always rains at a picnic, etc. I would take great joy in telling you of some of my predecessors, such as Galileo, Herschel and others. But I have already consumed too much space, so I will have to leave you unenlightened.

In Sacred Memory of Our Nation's Heroes DECORATION DAY 1920

In silent, reverent tribute to the memory of our fallen dead, this nation mourns today. On every Decoration Day, we bring to the graves of the heroes of this land our flowers, our tears and our benediction; as, consecrated to the memory of their valor and high courage, we pledge ourselves anew to keep the faith with them.

Sleep sweetly on, our nation's dead,
Where Southern sunbeams glance;
Beneath the violets of the North—
The poppy fields of France.
Sleep sweetly, too, where none can see,
Beneath the troubled waves—
Today our flowers, our hearts, our love,
We lay upon your graves.
Sleep sweetly in your olive drab,
Or in your gray or blue,
There is a monument of love
In every heart for you.
Sleep sweetly on, in quiet repose,
Within your simple grave,
Our blessings on your resting place
And for the gift you gave.

PRESIDENT CARRANZA SLAIN WHILE HE SLEPT

Reverently, sombreros in hand, the soldiers lifted up a rough wooden box from one of the coaches. It was the casket containing the body of Carranza——draped in the national colors of red, green and white.

Then, as the sun rose over the surrounding hills, the remnants of the once proud Carrancista army—a tattered group of sleepy, hungry men, lifted the casket solemnly on their shoulders and started the last march with their chief. It was an impressive testimony of loyalty. Followed by the mourners the little band moved off toward the Carranza residence. Diplomats and newspaper men brought up the rear.

At the residence the procession broke up and the body was placed in the possession of the dead President's daughters, Julia and Virginia, who were to arrange for the funeral. They planned to hold it either this afternoon or tomorrow. Burial will be in the Dolores Cemetery—the cemetery of sorrows.

General Murguia, Aguirre Berlanga, Ignacio Bonillas and General Urquiza, who rode to the city on the death train, abandoned it at the suburb of Guadalupe, finishing the journey by motor.

The brothers Cabrera were reported safe in a town in Puebla. As the casket was lowered at the train there was a bugie blast: The old guard drew up in proud dignity to present arms, forming a martial column through which the procession started to the President's home.

Some laborers and townspeople, going early to their tasks, fell into line as the procession wended its way through the quiet streets. They walked hats in hand.

Once, when the procession was stopped while photographers snapped the casket an old Carranza soldier muttered a quiet protest.

As the procession neared the presidential home the gray outline of Chapultepec Castle—the official residence of the rulers of Mexico—in the background the situation reached a climax.

A window in the house was raised and four women leaned out. They were the two daughters and two nieces of the murdered President.

Suddenly the silence was pierced by a woman's scream.

"The traitors! They have killed him," she cried.

It was Carranza's daughter Virginia.

San Antonio, May 24.—Defying the forces of the provisional government to drive him from the mountain fastnesses, Gen. Francisco Villa has declared war in the State of Chihuahua and Coahuila and is mobilizing his men in the Palomes mountains, according to advices received here today at revolutionary headquarters.

The provisional government of the State of Chihuahua has offered 100,000 pesos for the capture of Villa, dead or alive, the reports said. Three thousand troops are said to now be on the march from Chihuahua City in a campaign against the bandit.

Villa has refused absolutely to accept the terms offered him by General Calles and is said to be threatening the wheat fields near Musquiz, Coahuila.

According to Villista agents, Villa's present force is between 2,000 and 4,000 men, but he could call 13,000 men to arms in Chihuahua, if necessary and more than 20,000 throughout Mexico.
