Austini, April 1 — Action of the Thoroughbred Horse Association of Texas, in announcing that restoration of horse racing will no be urged at the present session of the Legislature, has met with General approval.

Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., Chairman of the Association Board and manager of the famous King Ranch, issued a statement which declared, "In these critical times, everyone should devote his full and entire efforts to the war and no controversial issue should be brought up that would tend to create dissension among our own people."

A Card From Jeems Hurley Dallas

Perhaps most of the readers who know our postmaster at all, will realize that "Jeems Hurley" is just a pet name we gave him in the peaceful days of yore, and that really his name is James Harley Dallas. He is now down where the sea breezes blow, in the Canal Zone, trying to hand out mail satisfactory to a bunch of Uncle Sam's sailor men.

While sashaying around his city recently, he ran onto a post card that gave a view of a printing plant in his city, and forthwith, he bought the card and sent it to us, as it reminded him of the Old He. The name over the door of the concrete block building says, Star and Herald Agency. It seems that they not only print a Star and a Herald, perhaps one morning and afternoon, but they are agents for magazines and papers printed in the States.

Jeems says he still enjoying every line in the Herald, but we kinder imagine that it makes him pine for home sweet home. He is still promising that letter to the Herald and we know he'll write it as he has been so long about it.

James H. Should have been a politician, and is, whether he'd admit it or not. Even at home, no matter how many times a day he met you, he'd have to wring your hand, and then repeat a time or two before he left. So he was badly infected with the political germ. But no one minded the hand shakes; he was not the kind that took your hand between a vice-like grip that made the little bones holler, "look out for the big ones." He had a gentle pressure that meant true friendship, without the pain.

His friends, however, are all laying up a supply of arnica against the day when he comes home, for while his skueezes is gentle, the constant pumping when he meets his old pals will make them feel like a baseball pitcher after the first spring try-out.

Better come through with that letter, Jeems or we'll really tell something on you—while you are away.

We don't know how fast our automobile will run. And we don't know how far we could lean out of a tenth story window without falling into the street.

Good Health Based On Cleanliness

Austin, Texas, — Governor Coke R. Stevenson has named April 4 to 10 Health and Clean-up Week by official proclamation, and expressing his appreciation for this act, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, declared today, "The old adage that 'cleanliness is next to Godliness' from the practical standpoint is well worth emphasizing."

Cities and towns in Texas will observe this week by conducting clean-up program of far-reaching range. Scheduled to be included in their activities are cleaning, dreading, graveling streets and alleys, cleaning parks and playgrounds and clearing off vacant lots.

"Destruction of mosquito breeding places and fire hazards, and the proper disposal of garbage and trash will be encouraged," Dr. Cox said, "as well as a thorough spring house-cleaning for cities and homes. Good house-keeping and ordinary sanitary measures demand the prompt removal of all waste matter in and around yards and homes in order to keep the premises clean. This will eliminate fire hazards and help to prevent the spread of many diseases, and no doubt much scrap material will be collected which will aid in our war effort."

Dr. Cox urged that all Texans cooperate in making Health and Clean-Up Week a complete success since its worthwhile objective is to lessen needless losses by fire and help maintain the highest possible health level in this state.

IT MUST HAPPEN HERE

Tragic stories of death from starvation and exposure in Europe are so commonplace that their horror has lost significance to many of us. But it should never be forgotten that lack of production is not the sole factor in the plight of Europe's millions. Europe has no organized distribution system. What few necessities exist are transported at the convenience of military authorities. Points of final distribution to consumers are places rife with disease and dirt. What a contrast to the distribution system of this country!

Retail distribution in America

CHAOS MUST BE AVERTED

Government officials have yet to perfect a definite food production and distribution program. In the meantime, farmers and merchants are struggling desperately in a maze of red tape with a steadily deteriorating labor force to feed and clothe the nation, to say nothing of the armed services. They are asked to fight a total war against the Axis, and at the same time are obliged to fight for survival in the insane Washington war of bureaucrats. It is an appalling situation.

The National Association of Food Chains has warned that American consumers will go hungry this year unless the government moves promptly to solve the pressing manpower and supply problems confronting the food industry. It says: "The situation already has reached the stage where it is creating a serious problem of getting adequate supply of food distributed to communities and to individual consumers."

Unless corrective measures are taken without delay, there is danger in the not distant future of hunger and food riots. Repre-

is scientifically organized. Its principles are comparable to those of mass production. The core of modern retail distribution is the chain stores and voluntary groups in independent merchants, both of whom are heavily counted upon by the government to help maintain a stable and adequate supply of necessities, within equal reach of every civilian. It is a formidable task.

Fair and adequate distribution can be accomplished. The record of retail merchants gives strong reassurance of that. However, they will need the utmost cooperation from the government and from the public. The government must do all in its power to simplify rationing and price regulations, just as it must recognize the essentiality of merchandising. The public can cooperate by being tolerant toward inexperienced employees and by avoiding the temptation to hoard non-rationed commodities.

The tragedy in Europe should spur us on to help our producers and distributors in every possible manner. We want no recurrence of that tragedy, in this country.

sentatives of chains, independent retailers, wholesalers and food processors have reported that following the "work or fight" order of the War War Manpower Commission, experienced employees left in droves for "essential" war jobs. Labor turnover in these industries is now at the rate of 10 per cent a week. The government's price control and rationing programs, together with efficient distribution, are directly threatened by removal of experienced men from behind the nation's retail counters.

A determined Congress must bring order out of the chaos.

Baptist Church News

There was a good congregation of people present last Sunday to assist in the dedication of a new service flag which is now on display in the auditorium. There is 108 stars on this flag representing that number of men in the service of whom are members of this church but all of whom are from families some of whom are members. There is one gold star on this flag already and we all stand fearful that there may be many more before the conflict is over.

We desire to peace a star on this flag for any soldier having gone from here who was a member of the church himself or who belonged to no other church and some of whose family are members here and if you know of such, call same to the attention of the pastor or others.

We do well to honor these men who have left their business at home, their fathers and mothers and some of their wives and put on the uniform of their country for the duration of the war. The history of the world is being re-written to day and civilization is emperiled, and nothing short of complete victory will save us all a variety of bondage we have never dreamed, and these men we honor are fighting in every battlefield for our liberties as well as their own. We do well to honor them and while they meet the Hun and the Japs we who remain at home will look with longing for their return to us and to the church from which they have gone and preserve here a spiritual democracy worthy of their best.

It is unthinkable but true that several hundred of the children and young people now in our public school are not giving Bible study, thirty minutes study each week and what can the parents of these children expect religiously for them

It is from this group that our penitentiaries and jails are recruited and we should invite the parents to bring the children and young people to Bible study each Lords Day. Use influence to do so.

Dallas, March 29, 1943.—The Baptist General Convention of Texas has paid the last dollar of its indebtedness, Dr. W. W. Melton, Dallas, executive secretary, announced today.

A check for $33,000 (Thirty-three thousand dollars) handed by Treasurer R. A. Springer to Paul Danna, Baptist layman and banker, brought to a successful conclusion the victory debt paying campaign launched by Dr. Melton a year ago, when the debt stood at approximately $400,000. Ten years ago the convention indebtedness was $2,000,000, not including the debt of Texas Baptist institutions. While these have not yet been paid in full, substantial progress has been made here also.

The regular quarterly meeting of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention, convening in the Baptist Building, Dallas, the morning of April 6, will witness the burning of a token note, symbolic of release from the indebtedness, Dr. Melton said.

Mr. P. M. Regsdill of this city, was badly hurt Saturday night about ten o'clock, some 12 miles this side of McCamey, when he had a sudden heart attack, losing control of his car, which went into a ditch.

Both legs were badly bruised, as well as his chest which hit the steering wheel with such force that it was broken. A lip cut took several stitches to close.

Another car came along and Mr. Regsdill came to as they were getting him out of the car.

HEALTH AND SOCIALISM

Northwestern University has just published a report, based on an exhaustive study made by members of its staff, of compulsory health insurance in the United States. The report should be read by every American citizen. It warns of danger inherent in social schemes that envisage government at the sole dispenser of medical care at the expense of the general taxpayer, cautiously lest in a hasty grab for Utopia, social and economic progress be lost and medical standards irretrievably lowered.

In its practical application, compulsory health insurance reverses the normal doctor-patient relationship. At present the patient is anxious to get well and get back to work. The doctor too is anxious to secure quick recovery for his patient. He knows that big doctor bills and lengthy illness do not contribute favorably to his reputation in the patient's mind. Under compulsory health insurance, the patient is paid by the government (taxpayers) for being sick. The longer the sickness, the more he receives. A "good" doctor is liberal in certifying clients as eligible to receive cash benefits. On the other hand, an ethical doctor often arouses the antagonism of clients by refusing unjustified benefits. Under the pressure of "free money" the integrity of patient and doctor inevitably deteriorates. This is a fact borne out by experience in nations having compulsory health insurance.

It would be more fun if we planned for the future as seriously as we regret the past.

Aside from a tendency to lower medical standards, compulsory health insurance, if adopted, would be one more irrevocable move toward socialism. Its advocates openly admit that is but a short step from there to total government domination of medicine. Socialized medicine would result in a vast expansion of bureaucracy, and human nature being as it is, the doctors themselves would be forced to become politicians as a requisite of success. No longer would medical skill be the sole criterion of advancement.

The total value of all cops produce in Texas in 1940 was $367,108,000, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Texas cash income in 1940 from livestock products was $230,050,000.

The value of Texas farms (land and buildings) was estimated by the U. S. census of 1940 as more than two billion dollars. The average value per farm was $6,198.

Newberry Heads WOW Organization

Omaha, Nebr., April 2 (Special)—Farrar Newberry was today named the fourth president of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society at the regular winter meeting of the society's board of directors. Mr. Newberry succeeds De Emmett Bradshaw, who was elected the organization's first chairman of the board after he asked to be relieved of the administrative duties of president.

By coincidence, the election was held in the very same room in which the Woodmen of the World was organized more than a half century ago.

The Woodmen of the World operates in 44 states and has nearly 350,000 members holding more than $367,000,000 of life protection through 8,000 local camps.

The new president has served Woodcraft for nearly 30 years, as field man, Head Consul and then state manager in Arkansas. He became a national director in 1932.

Mrs. W. F. Terry of one mile west of Meadow, a new comer here was in shopping this week, and brought one gallon of waste fat, to be turned over to one of the fat salvage committee. and moved to headquarters here in 1935. Two years later following the resignation of John T. Yates, Mr. Newberry became national secretary of the society, a position he has held for six years.

We learned this week that Mrs. Colly Hanson, of Sweetwater, had taken over the secretaryship of the FSA office here, in place of another lady mentioned, who seems to have pinched hit until a permanent secretary could be obtained. Mrs. Hanson's husband is a captain in the U.S. army, and is at present overseas.

Getting Home Sick But Not Scared

Had a very interesting letter from the Staffords out at San Diego, this week. It was not only interesting from the point of view that it contained a couple of dollar bills to keep their Herald headed in their general direction, but from several other angles.

The letter was written by Mrs. Stafford, and addressed to the Old He, whom she wished was feeling normal again, and out of the hospital, and as good as new. They were OK she stated but admitted without the least shame that they were really homesick and were looking forward to the day when they could start back to Brownfield to live.

She sent a hot editorial clipped from one of the local dailies in which the writer expressed himself that it was not only possible for the Japs to bomb San Diego, but that, they would in all probability do so. In fact the writer seemed as if he would be disappointed if they did not do so.

He says the Japs are a fanatical race, and will do anything possible for their emperor, which they consider as god. They would not, he stated, undertake the mission with the possibility of ever getting back home, and wouldn't, but they would do it just the same.

The idea would be twofold; to save face, and to hurt the morale of a lot of people on the coast whom he called ostrichmen, that say and think that "it cannot happen here."

Mrs. Stafford stated in her letter, however, that she was not scared—yet. The Old He hopes the writer may be wrong, but he stated he was only putting out what the war department also expected, and were prepared to meet.

Maude Brown Passed Wednesday Afternoon

Miss Maude Brown, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown, passed away about 7:45 Wednesday afternoon, at the family residence on north 9th street. Miss Brown was recovering from an attack of pneumonia, when stricken with a sudden heart stroke.

Miss Maude had been a faithful member of the Church of Christ since childhood. Funeral is set for today at 2:30 p. m., at the Church of Christ, with Elder Liff Sanders of Lubbock, officiating, burial in Brownfield cemetery with Brownfield Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Besides her parents, three sisters survive, Mrs. Frank Turner, Snyder, Okla.; Mrs. Donald Hill, Corpus Christi, and Miss Ola Belle, who is now on her way to Morrilton, N. J., after a Seeing-Eye dog, having left after Miss Maude became clear of fever. Four brothers, Grady, Roland and Terry, of Dumas, Texas, and the youngest brother, Glenn, of Camp Haan, Calif.

It is not known at this time whether or not Ola Belle will be called home, or whether or not, Glenn, who is in the army, will be able to come home. The rest of the family are here, or will arrive for the funeral.

Six In Race For Trustee At Meadow

W. T. Bell, J. C. Finley, W. E. Norman, L. B. Blake, S. L. Tigler and Fred Hinson, are all up for election tomorrow as trustees of Meadow Consolidated Independent School District. This district is a large one, taking in the former Needmore and Pool districts.

Many Victory Gardens Over Town

Drive where you will over the city, and you will find that there is a little garden site, either in the rear or the side of almost every home from the modest two room home to the home that cost many thousands of dollars.

And late each afternoon, even now, with cool nights and some of the days not too hot, you will find the Old Hesses and more often the Shes out in the "patch" digging, spading and raking.

The Herald hopes these little garden spots get plenty moisture, and do their stuff. The people need the products, and we might add, the exercise. We imagine golf is out for the duration.

The city dads have done their part by putting on a cheap water rate full two months earlier than common, this year. Go to it, patriots.

TOO MANY BUREAUCRATS

The news has called attention many times in past years that our government was overloaded with bureaus which were not functioning. Washington has more people doing nothing, or at least on jobs which accomplish nothing, than any city in the world. Right now, in the face of manpower shortage, should be the time to weed out unnecessary bureaus. But nothing is being done about it.

We have one example in the Panhandle which should make every citizen's blood boil with shame. More than a year ago it was decided to locate an ordnance plant north of Amarillo. Farmers were told to move off their land in 14 days. They were not asked whether or not they wanted to sell their land, they were simply told to move; and move they did.

There was a splendid wheat crop on the land. A Polk Street "farmer" was given the contract to harvest and market the wheat. Naturally the farmers received nothing.

It takes from a week to six weeks to close the average real estate deal where there is no question about the title. In this instance the title was not a matter of question, because there never has been a title which could not be cured in federal court. Furthermore, the government would not have spent millions of dollars in building a munition plant on this land if there was a question about the title.

What have the farmers received for their land? Absolutely nothing!

"Every four minutes an American dies of a disease caused by a common cold," says a medical item; which must be awfully monotonous for the American.

According to the Federal Census of Agriculture, 4,700,475 acres of Texas land were planted in corn in 1940.

A marked increase in the dairy industry and the production of wool and mohair took place in Texas between 1930 and 1940.

They were disposed of their homes, lost their crops, left without capital on which to operate for more than a year, and up to this good hour, the pay for this land has been held up by some two-by-four petty official in Washington who evidently does not give a damn about the farmers of Carson county.

If this same practice prevails over the nation in buying land for other government projects, you may sum it up that thousands of farmers are being deprived of millions of dollars of operating capital, and are not producing the food which they would have produced had the government paid them off when they were disposed of their homes.

Another little item of bureaucracy: Months ago the government announced the need of typewriters. Dealers were asked to qualify as a receiving depot, and citizens were urged to turn in their machines. The news has sold typewriters for years, but decided not to get mixed up with this depot business. Many people turned in their machines, and there are large stocks of machines held over the nation by many dealers. What has happened? The dust continues to accumulate on these machines. No one has called for a single one of these machines, and now it is announced, after postponement of gathering date several times, that about 15 will be the time for turning in used machines. In the meanwhile thousands of people have done without the use of their machines, thinking that it was patriotic duty to turn the machines to the government. The News has stated time and time again in recent years that when government refuse to be honest with the people, the people loses respect for government and will not be honest with government. Honesty is a question of necessity on the part of both.—Canyon News.

Just about the same thing happen in the "Spare" tire deal. Men who turned in their tires got from $1.25 to 2 or 3 dollars for them. The government found they did not need them, and these men are now buying their own or similar tires back at full price.
