CULL THE FLOCKS AND SAVE FEED

Cull the low producers from the laying flocks and save feed. Normally a hen will consume at least six pounds of feed a month.

George P. McCarthy, poultryman for the A. and M. college extension service, estimates that about 20 per cent of the 30,000,000 birds now on Texas farms could be culled and thereby save about 32,000,000 pounds of feed in the next 30 days. A hen which cannot produce more than her keep is a burden on the dwindling feed supply.

By culling now, McCarthy explains, a large quantity of poultry meat would be released to the market. In addition it would give producers the opportunity to remove all early molting birds which as a rule are not profitable during periods of high feed cost. They also could remove all birds which have slowed up production together with all weak and emaciated hens and pullets, those which show sagging abdomens, the coarse, male-type hens, and those birds which have grey eyes showing indications of fowl leucosis. Declining production is forecast by shriveled combs, and by yellow beaks and legs. Lastly, McCarthy urges taking out all male birds.

To simplify the culling job, the specialist recommends confining all hens to the house for the night. The next morning take a catching hook and work quietly among them. After the hens have become accustomed to the intruder they may be picked up with the hook and examined for the qualities mentioned which indicate inferior production. In this way a complete job of culling may be made without exciting the hens and disturbing the output of the good producers.

Buy U.S. WAR BONDS

How many times have you heard those words? How many times have you seen them in print? They're the kind of words that gain strength with every repetition—because you know the meaning behind them! You know that it takes money to fight a war: billions of dollars. And you know that the money has to come from each and every one of us—whether we sit behind a desk, stand on an assembly line, or stay at home. So when you see that urge over and over again, "Buy U.S. War Bonds"—you stop to think whether you're really buying all you can. Ten percent of your pay is swell: but maybe there are some non-essentials which you just haven't gotten around to doing without: silly little expenditures that are nothing more than self-indulgences. You know—our boys fighting on land, on sea and in the air—they're not getting any pampering: they're fighting this war with bombs and guns and bayonets—and plenty of them won't come home—their lives are at stake. You're not asked to match that—but every fighting man, and Uncle Sam, asks you to buy more War Bonds!

You bet, we're backing them up in the best way we know—and that's by buying War Bonds, and seeing to it that movements essential to Victory come first on the Santa Fe!

Proclamation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Proclamation

RECOGNIZING THE FACT that in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of September, 1943, the Third War Loan shall be launched.

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby invoke every citizen to give all possible aid and support to this Third War Loan drive, not only so that our financial goal may be reached, but to encourage and inspire those of our husbands and fathers and sons who are under fire on a dozen fronts all over the world. It is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan he has an opportunity to express voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the extent to which he will "back the attack."

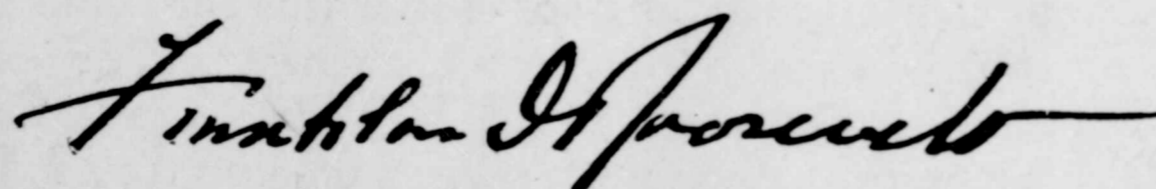

The American people supported well the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them. Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the [SEAL] United States of America the one hundred and sixty-eighth.

SACRIFICE.....

You and your family have given up many things to bring the day of victorious peace nearer. Driving your car whenever and wherever you like; meat a dozen times a week; all the butter, sugar and coffee you want; shopping just because you've got the money to buy something new.

It hasn't seemed easy to adjust yourself to these sacrifices. But as each new need to do without has arisen, it's just been a matter of minutes until your mind snapped to the realization that what makes it seem difficult to give up peacetime conveniences is the fact that we at home have been unscathed so far. Our streets haven't been turned into battlefields like the cities of Russia and China. A malvolent Gestapo doesn't spy on us and our children.

Sacrifice? Have we any right to consider the little we are giving up. Sacrifice? How about our boys at Pearl Harbor, Manila, Guadalcanal, North Africa—your own son, perhaps, or cousin or nephew. They've experienced true sacrifice: many the supreme sacrifice of death!

To them it's all in the line of duty—the only way to win. And that must be our attitude: that must determine us to really making some sacrifice that counts—in dollars that will make the war a month, week, or even one day shorter! Dollars that will buy War Bonds. Of course you've bought several already: but you can't buy enough! This month every retail store in town has enlisted to sell every one in this city another War Bond—of 100 or more. Does that sound like a lot? Will the $75 or more it will cost you call for sacrifice? Well, why not? That sacrifice won't cost you your life as the sacrifices of war cost fighting men's lives. But that sacrifice may make the war much shorter to send home alive some boy you love—and millions more like him, loved by millions more parents, relatives, friends. Let's not forget — the more bonds and sweat, the less blood and tears! And the sooner the war is won, the sooner our heroes will be able to enjoy with us, the benefits of hard-won freedom which they now fight to secure.

Baptist Church News

The revival closed Sunday evening with perhaps the largest congregation of the present year and with a masterful appeal by Dr. Yearby that the lost accept Christ and that people professing Christianity should align themselves with the church where they live. He made it very plain that people moving into a community should bring their church membership with them and be living examples before their fellows of their appreciation for the church which is the only organization of divine origin and the only one of which Christ said "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Approximately 25 members came into the church by letters from sister churches and 17 members came by baptism with others approved.

The people enjoyed the preaching of this earnest man of God as well as the singing of the good humored Jew, Johnny Cohen, who has sang here for several meetings and is quite well acquainted.

The freewill offering made them Sunday morning was $556.00 which showed in a substantial manner the appreciation of the people.

We consider ourselves very fortunate to have had Dr. Yearby, who is a busy pastor in Oklahoma City of a church of over three thousand members and only holds extra meetings on rare occasions, and we wish for him great success in his work there for the Lord's work.

It is no doubt true that many citizens of our city and community did not hear this earnest preacher of the Word but passed by this another opportunity to learn from one qualified to tell them the way to Christ, and in the course of time they will no doubt pass up the last one, as very few men and women of mature age ever come to Christ, but our churches are recruited from the ranks of the young.

The new school year is now starting and as the people place their children in the public school for literary training they should not overlook the most important education of the young in moral training which comes by the study of God's Word and you are reminded that this church is prepared for them with a class to suit every age in separate departments and class rooms. You are invited to bring them here.

CARE BOY—is U. S. war slang for the driver of a tank. He has work to do. Important business. We have work to do. Important business too. Buying more and more War Bonds than ever before. Its your duty to buy an extra $100.00 War Bond in September.

CHICAGO ATOMIZER — U. S. fighting words for the Garand automatic rifle, the best infantry gun in use. To win this war our doughboys must do their best. Do yours and back their attack with an extra War Bond in September.

CLARA—is U. S. war slang signifying all clear following an air raid. You'll be in the clear financially if you invest your earnings in War Bonds. Back the attack with an extra $100.00 War Bond in September.

Many Newcomers Are House Hunting

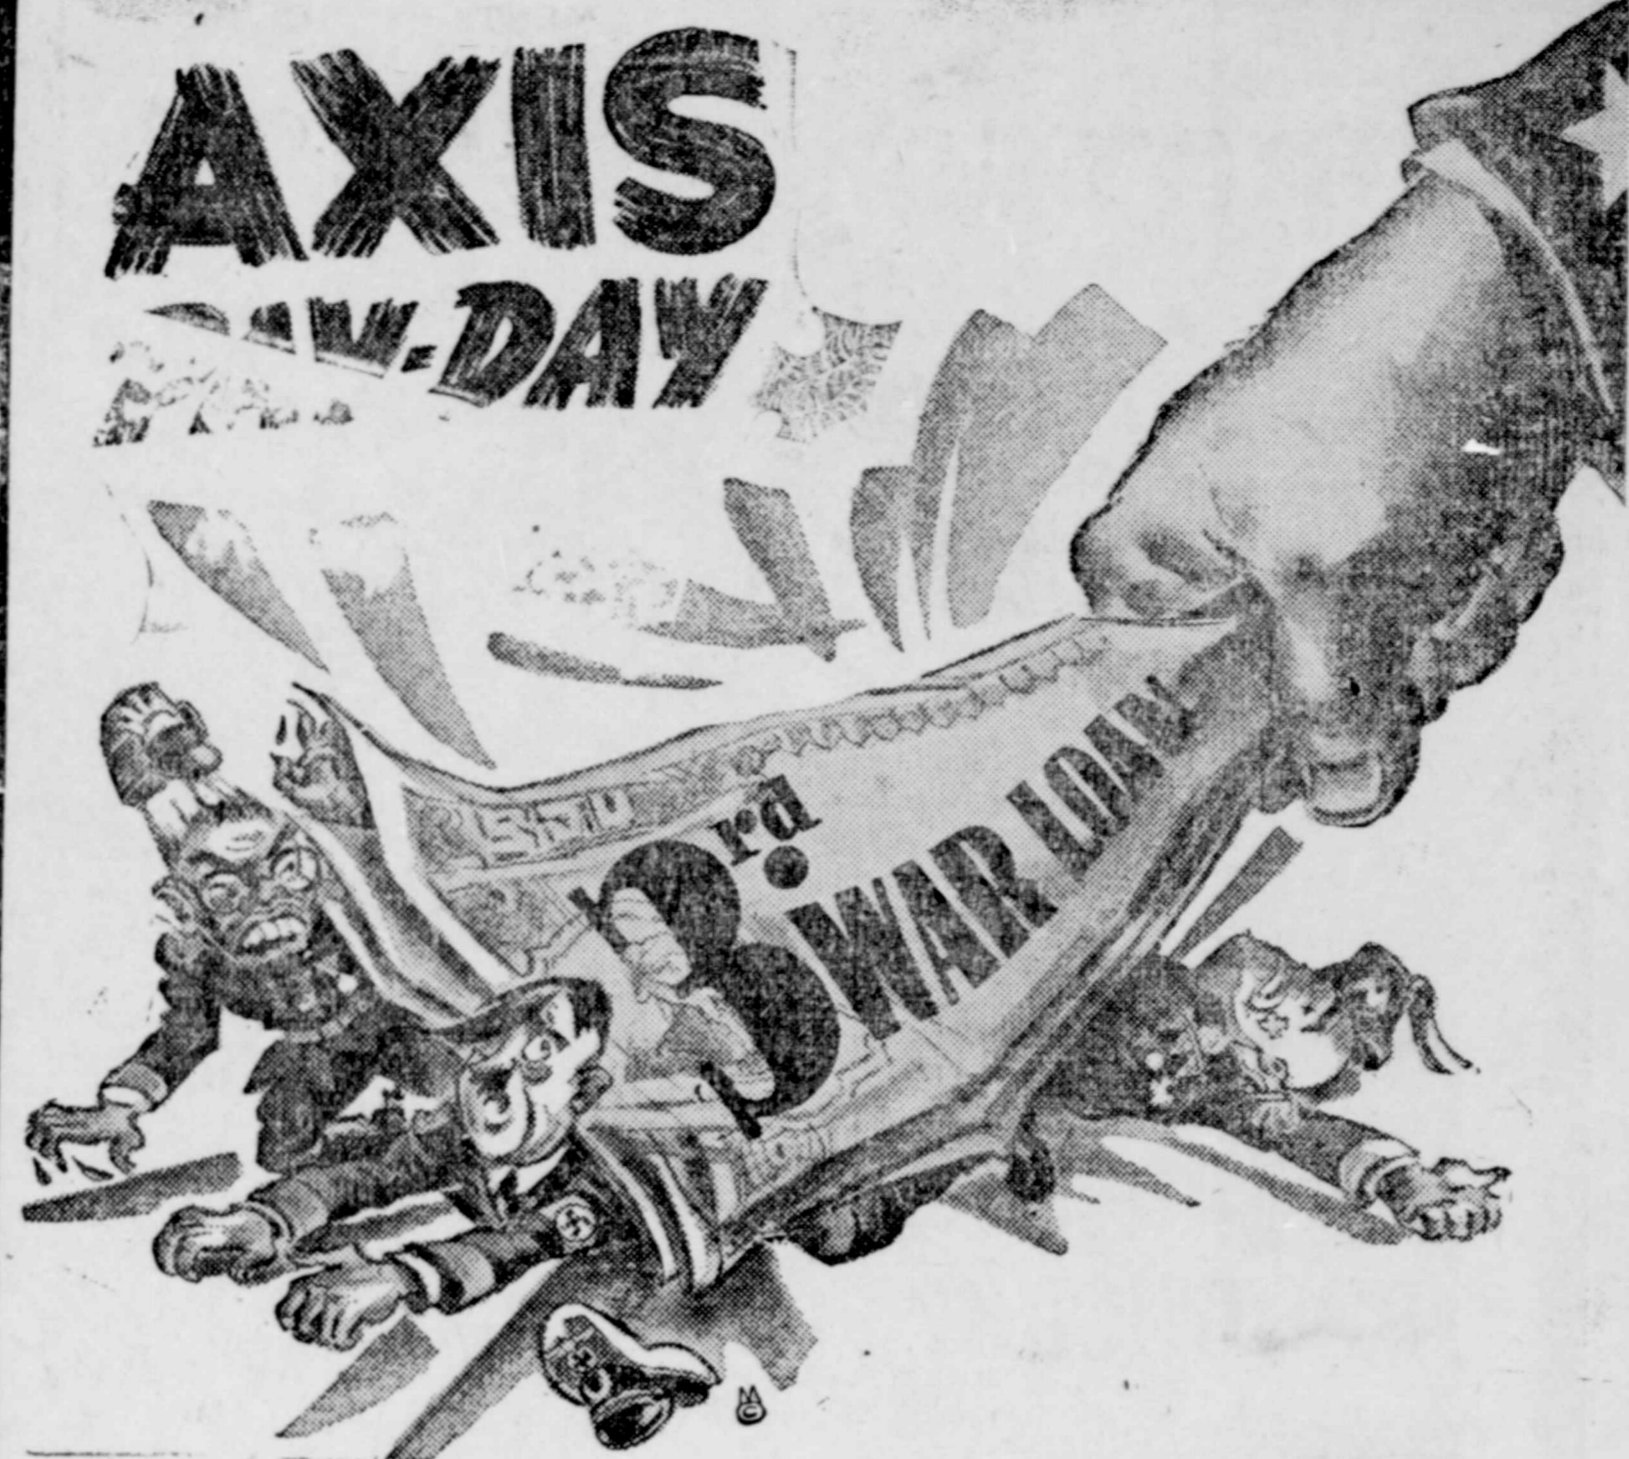

The Herald felt sure that after as many service men as have left here, not to mention hundreds that went to the west coast and other war plant areas to work, there would be some vacant dwellings in Brownfield. But from two to four call at the Herald office almost daily hunting houses to live in.

But rent houses are not here, evidently, and with no war work here, people are not allowed materials to build a large home. Among the callers this week was a Mr. Williams, of Houston, who was sent here by Magnolia Petroleum Co. He is a pipeline man, and is anxious to get his family to Brownfield, and his children in school.

Another couple was Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Clark from Durant, Okla. They are locating here, but were having difficulty in finding a house to rent.

No use to scold anyone about why they don't build rent houses. Perhaps some would, if they could.

DUFF—is U. S. war slang for edible sweets. We can't send our fighting boys all the tid-bits we may like but there is one way we may surely please them. To buy War Bonds to the very limit of our ability and an extra $100.00 Invasion Bond during September.

We've got the biggest responsibility any generation of Americans ever had! We've got a war to win—the hard way! We have to be strong enough to gain and hold the offensive until Victory: we have to fight slimy progaganda without and within: there are lots of things we're used to that we've got to do without. It's fine spirit for us to keep smilin'—but folks, behind our smiles we've got to be fighting mad!

FDR says:

Originally we asked for 10 percent in bonds; now we need considerably more.

Keep up your regular plan of savings — because your savings are made available to Uncle Sam as funds which work to win this war. And in addition to your savings—use 10 per cent of your earnings, whether $1.00 a week allowance or $100 a week income—to BUY UNITED STATES WAR SAVINGS BONDS AND STAMPS.

Thinks We Should Take All Insults

Editor: I am very sorry that you saw fit to print the letter from the Derrington boy in the service of Uncle Sam and that you made the remarks that you did. I guess you don't have a boy in the service of Uncle Sam. If you had a young boy, I should think that you would understand that the letter was just "plain boy." Some outgrow these things, and some don't.

I picture myself in the place of his parents, and could hardly refrain from weeping. I have a sailor boy, also. I don't know the boy or his parents; never heard of them before. But one thing I do know, all parents hold very dear to their hearts those sons in the service. They are giving their lives for us—many of them. Who knows if we will ever see them again? That within itself is enough to make us grieve continually without adding an extra burden that should have been overlooked.

Don't you imagine if you had to endure what those boys have to endure (I don't imagine you know half they have to go through) that you would feel like taking it out on someone? I don't feel like the boy realized he was insulting you. Boys are like that. But the insults you gave him were much worse, coming from a mature man. What is the matter? Can't you take it? Shouldn't you have been more thoughtful of his parents? Sure, I know you did not realize it was like a sword stuck through their hearts.

You don't need to print this if you don't want to. Anyway, don't use my name. I just had to say it for those parents (if he had any) who are likely too wounded to say a word.

First, let us explain to the lady that the Editor knows what war means. In the Civil War, we had two uncles killed, one dying of wounds. That was before our day, as we came on in 1880, but we can remember grief was still among the folks over them. They were Confederate soldiers, as well as another uncle and our father, who followed Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, the great cavalry leader. We lost no relatives in the Spanish-American war, but lost at least two close relatives in the other World War.

In this one, we have a number of grand nephews, some in the army and air corps and one is a sailor, as well as a raft of cousins. A brother-in-law went down on the Cruiser Astoria. We will soon have in the service our only son-in law, and our son, 30, married and with a six year old son is likely to be in by January or sooner—whenever he is called. We reared two children,

FALL GARDEN TIP

Techniques for fall and winter Victory gardening differ somewhat from recommendation for spring planting and cultivation, says J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist for the A. and M. college extension service.

He warns the fall garden should not be plowed more than four or five inches deep, since deep plowing tends to dry out the soil. And before plowing, weeds and vegetable plant refuse should be removed from the plot, for if they are turned under, heating may follow. A good coating of manure ploughed under will increase the water-holding capacity and prevent packing. Rotted compost will improve tilth, Rosborough says.

Heat-resisting vegetables should be planted first—beans, Irish potatoes, mustard, leaf lettuce, and radishes. These vegetables must mature before frost. Although the soil may be somewhat dry at planting time, planting should be made in well drained spots so water will not stand after subsequent fall rain.

lost one in infancy, and if we ever heard of them writing a man of 63 years and a cripple since boyhood, a sarcastic letter about his draft qualifications, even while in their teens, we would have attempted to whip them. And talking of sword thrusts in the heart, if we thought they would insult elderly people and hide behind the fact that they are in the service, we would be tempted to disown them. We know the sailor's folks, and they are as good as there is in Terry county.

We print the bitter with the sweet. We don't expect all to agree with us. But many did, and told us so; some with boys in the service. There may be a lot of others that believe like you, and they have a free American right to so express themselves. Thanks for the letter.
