The Santa Fe has recently had to withdraw its Skyway Freight traffic for the reason the ICC would not consent to give them the same break it gives other competing air carriers. Up at Washington, they will talk of prosecution for "restraint of trade," violation of the anti-trust laws and what have you. But let some large company compete to keep down prices, and the powers up there get straddled by their necks.

We noted this week an attack of a "liberal" paper on advertising of certain trade name products, whose claims on these products were false, the paper stated. Well, no one is expected to believe that all or practically all doctors use a certain brand of cigarettes, or that all dentists are fixed on one tooth paste or powder. Some one has very cleverly suggested that one might buy all the tooth paste advertised and mix all of 'em and have the greatest tooth paste in all the world. An Al humdinger.

"In Fact," a leftist journal, or should we say sheet, that reaches our desk, makes much of what Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has to say in comparing the attitude of Gen. DeGaulle toward abolishing trade unions, and what happened to them when Hitler brought in Nazism to Germany. To which "In Fact" might also have added Stalinism. But they'll never say that although they know no trade unions exist in Russia.

We started out to say this week that it is so cold we did not expect our blood pressure to get high enough for any hot editorials. In fact, we almost reached the conclusion to skip them this week. But here we go with a "right smart batch."

We have before us Gov. Jester's first annual report, which we freely admit contains many good things for the state and the people. Just to mention some, a more liberal aid to the aged, needy blind and the eleemosynary institutions; the $51 per capita aid to Texas public school children; trying to save the prospective oil bearing tidelands for the school children of Texas, and the fight on the foot and mouth disease to try to keep it south of the border and final eradication. Also the good neighbor setup, especially with Mexico, and many others of less import. But the "no

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

Today I am delving into corporations—trying to unearth how some folks will listen or believe some guy when he is up there on the platform saying how he will put the corporations in their place, as he fights and bleeds for the taxpayer. But so far in my delvin', too few corporations take time out from their work to tell us folks how they operate and what they are doing for the country—or deny they are a horse-thief or a no-count in the community.

The USA would not look like it is today if thrifty folks had not joined together and put their dinero in a joint account—formed a company—and built our railroads, and factories, and refineries, and insurance concerns. No one person ever had enough cash.

The people in England are a good sample of what happens when people listen to 2 by 4 windy individuals advocating putting a quietus on corporations and turning business over to the Gov't—and them. In a couple of years after taking over the coal mines, overseas airways, European airways, etc., the deficits from operations are now up to the Britisher's chins—and still rising. A nice kettle of fish versus Utopia, peace and plenty. And the folks in England choosing to get away, must wait their turn—boats are loaded to the gunwales, England is unhappy.

new taxes" had a familiar ring.

Down at Dallas they are calling what they term "American Brotherhood Week," which runs from February 15 to 29—rather two weeks—we'd say. Anyway, the 'dea is to create a better feeling and better cooperation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews. This is all fine, and we hope all may be persuaded to forget their religious and racial differences long enough to become good joint Americans, and it should last year n and year out instead of two weeks. But out here in Terry, all seem to get along together pretty well without formal organization.

The do-gooders at Washington are all out to raise the minimum wage pay from 40c to 75c per hour, and include farm hands. If they are included it will work a real hardship on farmers. Some hands are not worth 40c per hour, not to say anything about 75c. And the same thing might go for "on the job training" programs in various shops and factories. If and when employment reaches the top and starts down, which it very likely will, it would serve no other purpose than to throw a lot of people out of employment. No one is going to pay a hand more than he is making for the employer.

Nearly every writer and commentator tells us how to combat inflation. But Roger W. Babson comes up with just about the best plan we have heard. First off, Roger says there is no such "animal" as inflation, but it is just the old law of supply and demand working in high gears right now. He illustrates this with just two products, meat and citrus fruit. One is sky high, the other hardly pays the labor and freight to move it. The whole world is asking for meat; the citrus market is fully supplied.

W. H. Dallas Was A Friend To All

Since the passing last week of Justice of Peace, W. H. Dallas, we have heard expressions of regret from people of all walks of life from all portions of the county. All were alike. "I sure did like that man. I considered him one of the best friends I ever had." Pity is that that very few men can have such said about them while they are living or even after they are gone.

But such was the life of W. H. Dallas. He was the friend of everyone, rich or poor, high or low, irrespective of race or religion. The writer has always considered him as one of our best and dearest friends. During the time he was bank president, we formed the habit of calling him Colonel Bill Dallas, and after his election as JP, it took us some time to swing to Judge from Colonel. He usually called us Andrew Jackson, but sometimes topped with the more affectionate, "Jackie."

Many, many people had occasion, sometimes more than one, to feel the good of his friendship. When money matters became really tight, it was then that he came forward with help. Mr. Dallas made no big show of his friendship, but he always had a kind word and greeting for all his numerous friends. He liked to hear a good clean joke, but he abhorred the vulgar, obscene type. He never told them or listened to them. He just didn't class that way.

Mr. Dallas was not only a good friend and neighbor. He was a family man par excellence. He was devoted to them. As a community man, he was always ready to help out in any civic matter. He loved his church, and was always in line for betterment of the churches and schools of the community. He believed in clean living for the office holder just the same as for the private individual. The town and the trade area will miss the upstanding character and the friendly counsel of W. H. Dallas.

The picture used in this article of commendation, was taken beside his loving life companion out among the trees and flowers of their home yard. The family liked this picture above all others. For that reason we are showing his bust picture blocked from the snapshot of he and Mrs. Dallas.

A Good Doctor Gives A Remedy

Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, who teaches marketing at Columbia University, and in addition heads an organization made up of some of the country's principal variety stores, offers a ten point anti-inflation program. He observes that one of the main reasons for high prices is the excessive amount of money in circulation coupled with a foreign and domestic demand which is in excess of production. As a remedy, he rules out price controls and rationing, believing that the people of this country will not in peacetime, "submit to regulation and regimentation of their purchasing and consuming activities." His suggestions for fighting inflation include individual thrift, a reduction in government spending, tariff cuts and discouragement of wage increases and extra dividends.

On the all-important subject of European aid, Dr. Nystrom argues that the dollars we appropriate for other nations should be spent as far as possible in countries which have surpluses that could go for export, and said, "Every part of the world demand for consumer goods now existing in this country that can be diverted to other countries even temporarily will help our producing economy to catch up and to meet the requirements of this demand."

Dr. Nystrom's program inspired an enthusiastic editorial in the Saturday Evening Post, which said: "Contrasted with the wisdom of statesmen who in one breath declare that we haven't enough surplus to aid Europe and in the next demand that all the money appropriated be spent in this country, Dr. Nystrom's recommendation is a shot out of the oxygen tank. It looks as if they haven't invited all the right professors to Washington."

Those who blame high prices on retail stores, manufacturers or any other groups are barking up the wrong tree. We have been dealing with symptoms instead of with causes—and Dr. Nystrom's remarks go to the heart of the problem.

Behind the Scenes in American Business

Despite the cautious tone of President Truman's annual Economic Report, business and industry are backing their faith with impressive amounts of money for capital expansion in 1948.

Government estimates indicate that business will spend more than $4 billion for expansion of plants and equipment during the first quarter of 1948, or about $1 billion more than for 1947.

Three factors are forcing industry to expand its facilities. In the first place many industries are crowding capacity output with their present facilities, particularly in fuel and power production. Keener competition in all industries is leading to wholesale adoption of new production techniques which require new facilities and new methods. Older facilities simply cannot meet this kind of competition.

The rise in labor costs is forcing extensive plant alterations and rearrangement to make possible the use of new equipment and techniques for lowering production costs.

"Manufactured Weather"—One of the ways industry will spend its money this year is in making its own weather for more efficient production "atmosphere" inside factories and laboratories. The swing to "manufactured weather" air conditioning engineers estimate, will boost expenditures for atmospheric controls to a record $200,000,000 in 1948—nearly double the amount spent in the first year after the war. Back of the boom in "manufactured weather" for industry are revolutionary new advancements in automatic controls and materials to seal buildings against temperature fluctuations. For example, scores of new structures throughout the country are making use of Thermopane, an insulating glass which Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company technicians developed to prevent excessive heat loss through windows. Between Nest And Incubator

Somewhere between the nest and the incubator, Texas turkey hatching eggs producers may lose $100,000 this year.

There will be probably around 60,000 hens used for producing turkey hatching eggs in the state during 1948. As an average, each hen will lay 45 eggs worth 35 cents each. A 10 per cent loss in eggs due to breakage or other engineers have been using the new type of glazing in textile mills, bakeries, printing establishments and other operations where precise temperature control is essential. Air conditioning for comfort also is increasing. The new office being built by John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston will use 16,000 units of Thermopane to provide temperature comfort for employees.

causes is not uncommon. Using these figures, F. Z. Beamblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist for Texas A. & M. College estimates that the loss may total $100,000 before the end of the season.
Prevention of the loss will vary on different farms, Beamblossom says, but he lists 10 suggestions which have general application.
"Gather eggs four to six times daily" is first on his list. Provide plenty of nests of sufficient

A Tirade Against The Weathermen

Mark Twain was credited with the remark that "everybody talks about the weather but nobody can do anything about it." Yes they can, they can at least give the weather and the Weatherman a cuss'n. And we don't mean the kind of a cuss'n that takes the name of the Lord in vain, but the kind that says very uncomplimentary things about the present, past and future antics of the Weatherman.

For the past two weeks, the Weatherman has acted up in the most unusual way imaginable. On Sunday night the eighteenth, after several days of cold, biting weather, and most of us thought that perhaps it was getting ready to fair up, it hailed off and snowed a little bit. Since that time it has been jumping from bad to worse, and for a week now. Once in awhile the Weatherman will come up with a prediction that leads us to believe maybe the weather is going to ease up some with one stinking blizzard and snow storm after the other.

For two weeks now we have had nothing but this dogged "cold front" Yankee weather. What has become of that warm air from the Gulf, I say? Why can't a good big "warm front" push this davy Yankee "cold front" back into the Hudson bay? Sometimes we think the guys up there are elevating their snow a few hundred feet in the air and just let it drift with the wind down here in Texas. Right now the sun is half heartedly trying to shine through some thin clouds, yet it is snowing. Don't that prove the elevator story?

And to think for years we have been boasting of our mild winters to our northern visitors and newcomers, and all this has to happen. Why even the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce could not study up a good excuse for what we have been having recently.

Well, we growl that off our chest. And we are not trying to be funny either. It is hard for an old, crippled, fat man to get around in this icy slick weather, not to mention the arctic part of the program.

WHY

GENERAL ELECTRIC PUT LOWERED PRICES AHEAD OF OTHER THINGS

General Electric lowered prices because we wanted to do our part to stop the present spiral of inflation.

General Electric lowered prices on electrical appliances in greatest demand—because that is where lowered prices on General Electric products will do the most good and have the greatest effect.

General Electric lowered prices regardless of the fact that G-E profits are not high—are not at present levels high enough.

We did this because we know that in the long run General Electric can prosper only as the people of this country prosper. We believe that producing more goods for more people at less cost is the soundest way of running a business. And we feel that inflation in this country has reached a dangerous level—for the wage earner, for the man with savings, and for industry alike.

Do you know what inflation can do to you?

As money buys less and less, your savings lose their buying power. Life insurance policies dwindle in value. Money saved to take your wife to the hospital won't pay the bill when the time comes. Pay checks buy less and less. Retirement money won't pay for retirement.

This applies to the man who brings home a weekly pay check, to the man with a little savings in the bank or a life insurance policy, and to companies that have to build new plants and buy new machines to fill future needs and provide future jobs.

Inflation is a sinister thing. It steals up on a country and its economy in a gradually accelerating two-step of prices and wages—each trying to get one step ahead of the other—and there is no red line to show when the danger point has been reached.

Inflation is like a fire. Once it gets well under way, it can never be checked until everything is destroyed.

Self-restraint by industries and individuals the best check

You as an individual can do most by buying less and saving more—thus avoiding bidding up the prices for scarce goods. Business and industry can do much by lowering prices whenever and wherever possible—voluntarily.

General Electric put lowered prices ahead of other things because we believe it is a step towards licking inflation.

We Must Destroy Inflation or It Will Destroy Us

Old Harrison Stages Comeback

Texas Liquor Control Board Inspectors in December reported the seizure of six illicit stills.

Destruction of the stills, which had a cubic capacity of 325 gallons, prevented the potential evasion of $7,164.16 in State taxes.

With the stills, inspectors captured 1,655 gallons of mash and made eight arrests. Seven and one-half gallons of moonshine liquor were destroyed.

Two stills were taken in Wood county, two in Harrison county, and one each in the counties of Titus and Anderson.

Medics Take Course In A-Bomb Effects

Representatives of more than 20 of the nation's schools of medicine January 17 completed a five-day course on medical aspects of atomic explosion. The course was held at the Army Medical Center, Washington.

Sponsored by the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, medical services of the armed forces and the Veterans' Administration, the purpose of the program, under which the courses are given once each month, is to portray types of injury produced by atomic blast and to outline fundamentals of

Veteran's News

Although farm management training under the GI Bill ordinarily is limited to one veteran on a single farm, the Veterans Administration this week announced three conditions under which two veterans may take this training on the same farm.

They are:
(1) The approved training institution and VA must find that conditions on the farm will assure successful training and subsequent self-employment on the same farm for both veterans.

(2) The training of both veterans must meet all requirements specified in Public Law 377 which establishes the institutional on-farm training programs.

(3) The two veterans must furnish documentary evidence that they have formed a bona-fide partnership, with equal authority in the management and operation of the farm.

Under no circumstances will VA permit a veteran to enter training as an employee-trainee on the farm of another veteran enrolled for institutional on-farm training under the GI Bill.

Almost 87 per cent of the 203,000 World War II veterans enrolled for institutional on-farm training under the GI Bill are training on farms under their control. The remainder are training as employee-trainees on farms approved by the training institution.

Those from Brownfield attending the meeting of the Laymen's League of District 2 of the Christian church in Slaton Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. John Butler and children, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moore and Ladell, Mr. and Mrs. Pat McCord, Crawford Burrow, Herbert Chesshir, Paul Bish, Dr. W. A. Roberson and Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Something New Under the Sun

A "milking parlor," one of the newest innovations in production of sanitary milk, is being built at Texas Technological College as a part of a long-range program to modernize dairy facilities and production.

Texas Tech is the first school in the state to construct a dairy combine unit of this type. An observation room will be open for class instruction and for interested visitors when the "parlor" is completed, probably in mid-March.

With the new system, cows will be fed before milking and then led into individual stalls. A stationary milking machine will be used that will automatically draw milk into a jug resting on scales, enabling the output to be weighed immediately. A vacuum system will carry the milk through pipes into adjoining building where it will be strained as it is emptied into large cans.

In addition to cleanliness factors further advantages of the new setup are that it will eliminate the necessity of moving portable milking machines from stall to stall where the cows eat, and do away with other manual steps required under previous systems. Working in a pit by the side of the stalls operators will be able to open and close all doors in the building by remote control.

North Camp Hood To Be Dismantled

North Camp Hood, also known as Gatesville Camp because of its location near Gatesville, Texas, is to be dismantled. The Gatesville establishment, located 19 miles north of Camp Hood proper has served the purpose for which it was temporarily established in 1941-42.

During World War II, North Camp Hood was utilized as a Tank Destroyer Training Center and at one time housed 30,000 troops.

The Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, will handle the disposal of the buildings.

Removal of the facilities at North Camp Hood will not affect the status of Camp Hood proper which is scheduled for permanent utilization by the Department of the Army. All land will be retained as a part of Camp Hood for future training requirements and certain portions will be outleased for grazing purposes to insure full utilization.

GI Question And Answer Department

Q. Why is it that I can't get a reply to a letter I wrote Veterans Administration several months ago?

A. In all probability, your letter is one of many that does not give sufficient information to identify you. In many cases, research must be made before the writer is identified, the claim acted on, and a reply sent out. It is estimated that about 20 per cent of all letters received by VA do not give sufficient information for identification.

Q. Can veterans studying overseas under the provisions of the GI Bill qualify for benefits of the Fulbright Act?

A. World War II veterans studying overseas under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (GI Bill) may receive benefits under the Fulbright Act because funds used to administer the letter were not secured from U. S. Government appropriations. The Fulbright Act is administered by the State Department.

Q. May I change the beneficiary to my NSLI by a last will or testament?

A. No. A change of beneficiary must be made by written notice to the VA over the signature of the insured, and shall not be binding unless received and inclosed on the policy by VA. An original designation of beneficiary may be made by last will or testament.

Wayland Adopts New School Motif

After 32 years as the Jackrabbits, Wayland College has finally decided to change the name of the school motif.

It's now the Wayland College Pioneers, and plans are underway to build a concrete covered wagon on the corner of the campus and outfit the pep squad with suitable pioneer regalia.

The surprise move occurred in chapel last Tuesday in a move sponsored by the varsity basketball squad. According to Dr. J. W. Marsall, the change is in keeping with Wayland's plan to become a "pioneer in the field of international education."

The Jackrabbit, which has stood as the symbol of the college will be immortalized in some suitable memorial, it was stated.

Navy Recruiting In Area Improved

S. L. Irwin, CMO, U. S. Navy Recruiter stated today that recruiting in this area had improved since January, 1948 due to the navy's new policy of allowing high school graduates with no previous military service, and who meet specific requirements as to physical standards and mental qualifications, to select a navy service school prior to enlistment. Qualified enlistees will be assured that upon completion of recruit training they will be entered into the school of their choice.

The quotas for some of these schools for this month have been filled but there are still a number open such as motor machinist mate, radioman, fire controlman, electronics material, and basic submarines. A new quota for these schools is issued each month. All men interested should see their local recruiter at once for further information.

There will be a navy recruiter in Brownfield every Monday from 9:15 AM to 4:00 PM in the Court house next to Abe Lincoln's office.

The production credit associations in Texas have made loans for nearly $700 million in the past 14 years. Total losses since organization of the associations have been about 1-40 of 1 per cent of the money loaned.

Rats found in Texas are the Norway, or common rat, and Alexandrine or roof rat. The Norway rat lives on the ground, under buildings, heaps or rubbish or in burrows, while the Alexandrine rat lives in attics, lofts, under roofs and eaves and in double walls.

3 Unions Block Labor Peace—Refuse Wage Boost Already Accepted by 19 Other Railroad Unions!

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers and the Switchmen's Union of North America, representing 125,000 railroad employees, have refused to accept the offer of the Railroads of a wage increase of 15 1/2 cents an hour.

This is the same increase awarded 1,000,000 non-operating employees by an arbitration board in September, 1947.

This is the same increase accepted by 175,000 conductors, trainmen and switchmen by agreement on November 14, 1947. Agreements have been made with 1,175,000 employees, represented by nineteen unions. But these three unions, representing only 125,000 men, are trying to get more. They are demanding also many new working rules not embraced in the settlement with the conductors and trainmen.

Incidentally, the Switchmen's Union of North America represents only about 7% of all railroad switchmen, the other 93% being represented by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and covered by the settlement with that union.

Strike Threat
The leaders of these three unions spread a strike ballot while negotiations were still in progress. This is not a secret vote but is taken by union leaders and votes are signed by the employees in the presence of union representatives.

When direct negotiations failed, the leaders of these three unions refused to join the railroads in asking the National Mediation Board to attempt to settle the dispute, but the Board took jurisdiction at the request of the carriers and has been earnestly attempting since November 24, 1947, to bring about a settlement. The Board on January 15, 1948, announced its inability to reach a mediation settlement. The leaders of the unions rejected the request of the Mediation Board to arbitrate. The railroads accepted.

What Now?
The Unions having refused to arbitrate, the Railway Labor Act provides for the appointment of a fact-finding board by the President.

The railroads feel it is due shippers, passengers, employees, stockholders, and the general public to know that throughout these negotiations and in mediation, they have not only exerted every effort to reach a fair and reasonable settlement, but they have also met every requirement of the Railway Labor Act respecting the negotiation, mediation, and arbitration of labor disputes.

It seems unthinkable that these three unions, representing less than 10 per cent of railroad employees, and those among the highest paid, can successfully maintain the threat of a paralyzing strike against the interest of the entire country—and against 90 per cent of their fellow employees.

The threat of a strike cannot justify granting more favorable conditions to 125,000 employees than have already been put in effect for 1,175,000, nor will it alter the position of the railroads to unwarranted wage increases or to changes in working rules which are not justified.

A glance at the box shows what employees represented by the Engineers and Firemen make. They are among the highest paid in the ranks of labor in the United States, it not the highest.
