Death Of Airman, Wife Raises Winter Toll To Five In New Mexico; Fair Returns Here

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Eastern New Mexico jubilantly crawled out of its million dollar snowdrifts today, even as winter started a second blow toward the west side of the state.

The Weather Bureau predicted increasing cloudiness in the west with scattered snow flurries beginning in the western mountains during the afternoon and spreading over most of west and north central New Mexico tonight. The east part was expected to continue fair with occasional high clouds.

Roads From Artesia Open Following Snow

All highways out of Artesia were reported open today after being closed Saturday night. State Road 83 west to Alamogordo remained closed most of Sunday but was reported passable today.

All roads were said to be icy in spots and caution was urged. In Artesia, Main Street was being cleared of snow which had been bladed to the center of the thoroughfare and was later hauled away. Other streets remained icy after a warm day Sunday, during which much of the snow melted and turned to slush which froze overnight last night.

Farmers and ranchers in the Artesia area generally counted the heavy snowfall a blessing, as it began to melt and soak into the thirsty earth.

There is plenty of feed for cattle and range conditions will be considerably improved by the two inches of moisture resulting from the near-record snowfall.

Gerald Champion Memorial Hospital in Alamogordo and later transferred to the Air Force hospital at Holloman, where they died this morning without regaining consciousness.

Dr. (Lt. Col.) H. P. Bourke, staff surgeon, said the Kimes had apparently been in the closed, overheated room for about 20 hours.

SANTA FE — The 1956 political campaign, which shows promise of being a hectic one, was officially set in motion today.

Gov. John F. Simms signed the proclamation calling for a primary election May 8.

The proclamation called for election of officers beginning with two representatives in Congress, most state offices, 98 legislative seats, four district judges, all 10 district attorneys, all county offices and one justice of the peace and constable in each precinct.

At stake are the state offices of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, attorney general, school superintendent, land commissioner, one corporation commissioner and one Supreme Court justice.

The four district judges are to be decided this year were created by the 1955 Legislature and are now held on appointment. Two at Albuquerque are held by Paul Tackett and D. A. McPherson Jr.; one at Farmington is held by C. M. McCulloch and one at Alamogordo is held by Allan Walker. The other judges are not up for election this year.

The 98 legislators to be elected represent a new high for New Mexico, following an increase approved by the people last year by constitutional amendment. The seats are designated numerically in counties where more than one state representative is to be elected.

Congressional, state and candidates for judicial office in districts of more than one county shall file declarations with the secretary of state. Precinct, county and legislative candidates will file declarations of candidacy with county clerks. The declarations must be filed between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. March 6.

Russian Charge On Balloons Is Denied By Navy

TOKYO — Twenty big U. S. Navy weather balloons now being launched across the Pacific "contain no photograph equipment — and no propaganda," a Navy spokesman declared today.

He replied to a reporter's questions after Russia accused U. S. military authorities in Europe of sending balloons carrying automatic aerial cameras over Soviet territory and complained again about the launching of propaganda balloons by private organizations in Europe.

The seventh 600-pound Navy weather balloon was sent up into the eastward-moving jet stream from Japan today. The Navy also announced that two earlier balloons came down in North America but so far their weather instruments have not been found.

The fourth balloon launched parachuted its instruments over southern Newfoundland yesterday. The Navy said. The fifth dropped its load 400 miles north of Detroit.

The balloons' heavy meteorological equipment radios weather messages at two-hour intervals during their flights high across the Pacific.

Others of the seven balloons have lost radio contact, dropped into the sea or released their instruments which so far have not been found.

Bomber Falls Near Roswell; Crew Escapes

ROSWELL — A B47 jet bomber from the 309th Bomb Wing here crashed and burned last night about 10 miles south of Roswell, but all four crew members escaped serious injury.

Crew members were: Major Everett F. Malone, 30, of Alamogordo, Calif.; Capt. Leonard Tuori, 26, of Syracuse, N. Y.; 1st Lt. Joan R. Cosby, 29, of Chicago, Ill., and A.L.C. Franklin R. Saultz, 22, of New Albany, Ind.

The crew noticed several engines after the plane took off on a routine training mission. Maj. Malone made a crash landing on the Chesser Ranch south of here. The plane burst into flames on crashing, but all crew members were able to escape into the snow which covered the area.

They were picked up by the ranch owner and taken to Walker AFB. Malone and Cosby were hospitalized for observation after receiving slight burns on the hands and neck. The other were not injured.

Simms Calls Snow Powerful Boost To State's Economy

ALBUQUERQUE — Gov. John F. Simms said today that last week's storms, despite the temporary inconvenience they caused, have been a powerful boost to the state's economy for the next few seasons.

In remarks prepared for the convention of the New Mexico Woolgrowers' Assn., Simms said the moisture received last week is of special significance to the wool growers.

"No matter how low the price of wool may be," he said, "it is still a comfort to know that the sheep can eat and preferably without supplemental rations. Woolgrowing is one of the oldest industries in history. By its very nature it must still retain a few of the earmarks of its ancient origin. Nobody has yet invented an electronic eye to

Nebraska Lawyer Admits Sending Fund To Sen. Case, Denies Bribe

LEXINGTON, Neb. — Lexington attorney John M. Neff said today he assumes he is the man referred to by Sen. Case (R-S) as the source of a $2,500 campaign fund.

Neff, 47, denied the money was intended to influence Case to vote for the controversial natural gas bill.

He said he raised the money "as a campaign contribution without any strings attached."

Neff made public a copy of a telegram to Case, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and Minority leader William Knowland of California.

"I was incensed to learn that you mentioned this matter on the Senate floor without divulging the name and with the implication and inference that it was some kind of a shady deal," it said.

The Omaha World-Herald, which first reported Neff's telegram, quoted him as saying that he would defer any answer in connection with when he had natural gas interests until questioned by the FBI or Senate investigators. He gave a similar answer to where he obtained the $2,500.

In the telegram, he described himself as favoring passage of the Harris bill exempting producers of natural gas from direct regulation by the federal power commission.

Clovis Man Dies In Highway Wreck, Is State's Fifth Weekend Victim

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New Mexico's traffic fatality toll pulled even with last year's record today with the death of a 25-year-old man, killed by excessive speed.

James Oren Hume, 25, of Clovis, died at 6 a.m. in a Santa Rosa hospital from injuries received last night when the car in which he was a passenger left the road at a high rate of speed and rolled four times. He was the 29th victim this year and the fifth to die over the weekend.

The car was driven by Teddy Hanlett, 17, of Clovis.

Two Ranchitos men were killed when the truck in which they were riding plunged down an embankment a few miles north of Embudo late yesterday. Jose Medina and Antonio Marquez, both of Ranchitos, were killed instantly when their heavily-laden truck crashed to the bottom of the Rio Grande Gorge after failing to make a curve.

Police said that the setting sun, which was shining in the eyes of the men, may have been the cause of the accident.

Two other persons remained in critical condition as the result of a two-car pile-up near Santa Rosa Saturday, which took the lives of Jo Ann Lykins, 20, and her 1-year-old son, Douglas, Jr.

Injured in the crash were Douglas Lykins, husband of the dead woman, and Claude E. Miles, 69, of Yucaipa, Calif. Both were in critical condition at a Santa Rosa hospital.

Three persons were injured, one seriously, when a car overturned near Carrizozo yesterday. In critical condition at the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital in Carrizozo was Mrs. Thomas Glavin, 20, of Chicago, Ill. Her husband, Thomas, 23, her mother, Mrs. Mary Ponziano, 56, and her two children were taken to the hospital also.

Mrs. Ponziano and Thomas Glavin were also seriously injured. The two children were uninjured, police said.

French Premier Arrives In Algiers Amid Ugly Opposition To His Policies For Ending War

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet landed here today to confront a metropolis massed in ugly opposition to his policies for settling the Algerian nationalist rebellion. Most shops closed in protest. One tobacco shopkeeper who remained open was threatened by an angry crowd of French residents. Police dispersed the crowd and the shopowner decided to close. Special police lined the Rue Michelet, which runs from downtown Algiers toward the governor general's official residence. Other police lined the Rue d'Isly, main shopping street leading to the war memorial. Mollet was due to lay a wreath on the memorial this afternoon. Angry French settlers who oppose any concessions to the nationalists threatened bloodshed if Mollet carries out his intent to bring Gen. Georges Catroux here as resident Cabinet minister. Catroux is known to favor more rights for the North African territory's native Moslems. Many European stores closed and worried parents kept their children from school.

Although no personal attacks on Mollet were expected, some 3,000 Foreign Legionnaires and 2,000 riot police with armored vehicles encircled the tense city. Strong military guards were planned for Mollet. Tension increased over the weekend as French war veterans led European crowds through the streets of Algiers and other major cities demonstrating against any softening toward the nationalist terrorists. The rebels, who have kept 200,000 French troops tied up, were expected to continue their pressure during Mollet's visit to underscore their autonomy demands. Mollet has promised quick elections to pick Algerian leaders to negotiate with France on a measure of self-rule. Before taking off from Paris to tackle the main problem facing his six-day-old government, Mollet said he would stay in Algeria "three weeks if necessary" to quiet the 15-month Moslem rebellion. "I will do my best to avoid all bloodshed," he said. Most of the eight million Algerian Moslems are clamoring for independence. But the million Europeans, mostly French, want to retain Algeria under French rule. Many Algerian French view the 79-year-old Catroux as a "liquidator" of France's former Empire. He is held at least partly responsible for successive French loss of Syria and Indochina. He is also blamed for playing a major role in bringing exiled Sultan Mohammed ben Youssef back to Morocco. Present plans call for Catroux to arrive here Friday. Mollet will spend the intervening days trying to keep things quiet before seeing him officially installed.

Scientist Calls Pluto Satellite That Got Free

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis. (AP)—Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper of Yerkes Observatory here says our solar system has eight, not nine, planets. Dr. Kuiper said Pluto, regarded as the ninth planet, "in reality is only one of Neptune's satellites or moons, which broke away untold millions of years ago." The University of Chicago research professor, one of the world's leading astronomers, said he made the conclusion on the basis of findings by him and Drs. Merle Walker and Robert Hardie of the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz. The Holland-born scientist said Pluto differs from genuine planets in small size, its eccentric orbit and its comparatively slow rotation.

House Investigators Say Housing Program Is Delayed By Red Tape

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Red tape, official timidity and federal interference were blamed in part by House investigators today for "exasperating" delays in the nation's slum clearance housing program. Investigators recommended larger and more "realistic" profits for sponsors of government-insured rental housing projects, and proposed easier mortgage terms to enable displaced slum dwellers to relocate in other homes. They also proposed a new federal housing program for low-income persons over 65, and recommended construction of 10,000 housing units as a start. "Government action in this field is long overdue," they said. The program would parallel the college housing program and would be under sponsorship of nonprofit private groups, with the government making available long-term loans at low interest rates. These and other recommendations were contained in the first report on a study of government-aided housing programs by a House Banking subcommittee headed by Rep. Rains (D-Ala.). The subcommittee held hearings in New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Chicago. Reporting an "almost total lack of activity under the new FHA urban-renewal housing programs," the committee said its studies "made it crystal clear that a bolder and more imaginative approach" is needed for an effective attack on city slums. It said one roadblock was insistence by federal housing officials on detailed plans for local programs to guarantee their workability. This has "merely introduced another layer of red tape" and delay, investigators said, adding: "The subcommittee strongly urges the administrative officials concerned to review the workable program requirements, particularly from the standpoint of smaller communities, to determine what steps can be taken to minimize the workload burden as well as the degree of federal interference and paternalism." The report also said that federal agencies "are in no small measure responsible for the disappointing and frustrating delays" in starting slum rental housing construction. The law provides that the Federal Housing Administration may insure mortgages up to 90 percent of the cost of construction of multi-family rental housing. Only one commitment—for New York City—has been made under this program in the year and a half the law has been on the books, the committee said.

NEARLY NORMAL WEATHER RETURNS TO NORTHERN EUROPE

LONDON (AP)—More nearly normal winter weather returned to much of Europe today after a record-breaking week long cold wave that left 170 dead. But the freeze-up left much trouble in its wake. Hungry wolves are prowling around villages in Greece. Mountain passes are blocked by snow all across the Continent. Dozens of villages are isolated. Two international trains are snowbound near the Greek-Turkish border. For Britons, it was "washless Monday," with hundreds of thousands of householders trying frantically to repair broken water pipes. Drifting ice played havoc with gondolas on the canals of Venice. Another snow storm loomed for Berlin. Paris was gloomy and rainy. The cold wave death toll by country: Britain 36, France 46, Italy 23, Greece 8, Holland 9, Germany 13, Denmark 11, Turkey 10, Austria 5, Switzerland 4, Yugoslavia 2, Spain 2 and Belgium 1. Balmey winds out of the west countered the icy Siberian blasts of the past week to send the London temperature up to 45 degrees this morning. Freezing conditions were still reported in northern Italy and Germany.

Ironically, the thaw forced cancellation of Holland's foremost skating event of the winter—the 130-mile-tour of 11 Frisian towns scheduled for tomorrow. Officials felt that the ice wasn't strong enough. The sun was shining over northern Italy but temperatures still remained as low as 4 below zero. The Po River's countless canals were frozen over, killing tons of fish. France reported rising temperatures in the north but it was still below freezing in the south. Ice floated in the Seine. A thin fog with temperatures around freezing covered most of West Germany. Hundreds of homes were flooded in the Bavarian town of Vilshofen, where an ice jam caused the Danube River spilled its banks. Scandinavian countries, used to the cold, regarded the weather as normal. Clear skies were reported over Stockholm and Oslo, with both capitals expecting snow.

HST Says GOP Hurt By Reference To Nixon's 'Traitor' Statement

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says the Republican party "must have been pretty badly hurt" by his assertion that Vice President Richard M. Nixon called him a traitor. Truman based his observation on GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's challenge to Truman to pinpoint where Nixon had made the remark. "All over the West," was Truman's first answer to Hall. "All I did was read the papers. They wouldn't keep that kind of reference at Republican national headquarters anyway," he went on. "I do not wish to engage in any further controversies with them. I've had my say. They must have been pretty badly hurt by all this. Why else have they raised such a furor?" "I have no further comment. What's the use of getting into a controversy with people who won't tell the truth anyway?"

Police Mistake Texas Tourist For Criminal

DALLAS (AP)—An intensive hunt for Charles Renals, one of the men most wanted by the FBI, ended abruptly yesterday when a man thought to be Renals proved to be a tourist. For more than five hours officers combed the East Texas area between Marshall and Dallas for a man answering Renals' description who was accompanied by a red-haired woman and driving a Tennessee car. The car was finally stopped in Dallas by W. A. Murphy of the FBI said "It wasn't our man, just a traveler going through Dallas." Renals, 33, a former Texas convict, was put on the FBI's most wanted list following several robberies in Kentucky in October of 1954.

Pressure Is On NM AGGIES ASKEW IS IN LINE TO BE NAMED COACH OF YEAR

By The Associated Press
A week of decision lies ahead in most conference basketball races today.

STATE COLLEGE, N. MEX. — New Mexico A&M College basketball players may not capture any individual honors this season, but their coach, Presley Aske, is in line for Coach of the Year in the Border Conference.

to date, Aske's charges have averaged only 60.1 points per game, while they have held their opposition to 54.9 points to give the Aggies fifth place defensively among the nation's large colleges.

The pressure is on in all the league title scraps, of course, but the kettle's really boiling in the Southeastern, Southern, Atlantic Coast, Big Seven, Skyline and Missouri Valley.

In winning 11 out of 15 games

The independent clubs have things a bit easier this week. Memphis State, however, is an exception with a date at West Virginia, the Southern Conference leader, tonight.

4 Conference Schools Open Spring Practice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four more Southwest Conference schools open spring football training Monday, bringing to five the number returning to the gridiron.

Opening practice Monday are Texas, Southern Methodist, Rice and Texas Christian.

Texas A&M has set its spring training to open Feb. 20 but Arkansas, the other conference member, won't start work until April 23.

Baseball Congress Okays Global Series

CHICAGO — A resolution approving the second annual Global World Series was passed today by the National Baseball Congress.

The series will be assigned in the United States early in September involving the same eight nations which competed last year at Milwaukee.

Champions from Asia, Europe, Canada, United States, Colombia, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Hawaii will take part.

The winner of the annual national tournament in Wichita beginning Aug. 17 will represent the United States.

week with two home games—Oklahoma A&M tonight and second-place Houston Saturday. The Billikens, only unbeaten club in the league, whipped Tulsa 73-66 Saturday while the fading Aggies were surprised by Detroit 61-51.

In the Skyline, Brigham Young has taken over at 5-1 while ex-leader Utah, shocked by both Colorado A&M and Wyoming last weekend, now is 5-2 and tied for second with Utah State. Utah meets New Mexico tonight while BYU puts it on the line against Utah State Thursday and Utah Saturday.

McNeese, winner of 18 out of 21 games, has averaged 77.1, but got only 71 while losing to the Aggies. The McNeese coach was so impressed with Aske's defensive measures that he adopted them for his own squad, which now ranks fourth defensively among the small colleges.

Centenary was held to its lowest score, 60, as the Aggies whipped them. Hamline has been scoring at a 73.3 clip, but lost when the Aggies held them to 45.

Murray State boasts an offensive average of 82.1 points per game, but was held to its lowest score of the season while losing to the Aggies, 58-48.

Kentucky Wesleyan gave the Aggies their first loss of the season, but scored only 75 against their season average of 80.8.

Vanderbilt, fourth ranked in the nation, defeated the Aggies, but was held to 64 points, their lowest score of the year.

Tennessee was beaten by the Aggies and held to 11 points under their season average.

Arizona University got only 35 points in losing to New Mexico A&M. The losers have averaged 71.9 for the year.

Arizona State at Tempe won in an overtime, 59-54, but was 11 points under its average.

Hardin-Simmons managed only 43 points in losing. Their season average is 66.9.

The Aggies lost to Texas Western, but held the Miners 12 points under their regular performance.

The Aggies whipped Santa Barbara University, 57-48, holding the Gauchos well under their 71.9 record.

Thus, the Aggies have held nine of the 14 teams they have played to the lowest scores they have had all season and in every case have held their opponents under the season average.

Power Still Hitting
SAN JUAN, P.R. — Vic Power, Kansas City Athletics' first baseman who was runnerup for the American League batting title with .319, is still hitting in the high averages. In his first 157 trips to the plate for Caguas in the Puerto Rican League he had 55 hits for a .350 average.

Utah Has Chance To Regain Lead In Skyline Conference

By The Associated Press
Beaten twice over the weekend on a fateful journey across the Rockies, defending Champion Utah has a chance in two games at home this week to regain the Skyline Conference basketball leadership.

The Utes (5-2) tee off in Salt Lake City Monday against New Mexico (4-4) and then get their big chance at front-running Brigham Young (5-1) at Salt Lake City Saturday night.

Coach Jack Gardner's crew almost certainly will have to conquer BYU at home if they expect to take the crown again. The Utes will have to improve sharply if they do it too.

The Redskins played sloppy, in-different ball at Fort Collins Friday and dropped a 62-59 decision to Colorado A&M (4-3). They couldn't do much better at Laramie Saturday and lost a 59-54 game with Wyoming, riding a brilliant mid-season comeback on the sharp shooting of Joe Capua, 5-10 guard.

Capua flipped in 32 points against Utah. The previous night against Montana (1-8) the Gary, Ind., senior canned 51 points for a new Skyline scoring record.

The home teams won every one of the Skyline's eight weekend games. BYU moved in front by whipping New Mexico, 87-53, and Denver, 81-65, in games at Provo. Utah State (5-2) kept pace with a 76-74 victory over Denver and a 75-62 triumph over New Mexico in games at Logan.

Before meeting Utah, Brigham Young has a home assignment in Provo Thursday against Utah State. There are no Friday games in the Skyline. On top Saturday in addition to the BYU-Utah clash are contests matching A&M at Wyoming and New Mexico at Denver.

This Is Boy Scout Week

THIS is Boy Scout Week and not only the Artesia Scouts and the members of this district will be celebrating the 46th birthday of this splendid movement but Scouts all over the world will be joining in the program.

The Boy Scout movement got underway in our nation some 46 years ago with only a handful of boys and with a few troops. Today the number has grown to millions considering those who have been Boy Scouts and those actively engaged in some phase of the scouting program.

There was a day when boys of 12 years of age were eligible for the training that scouting provides but today the Cub Scouts start the boys at 9 years of age and they continue, if they so desire, until they are 18 years of age.

They don't need to stop there—they can continue as scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters and workers in the scout program.

Scouting has been possible, of course, because of the funds that fathers and mothers and friends of scouting provide. It has been possible because of the volunteer workers who give of their time, their energy and their ability to the program; and it has been possible because it meets a need.

Boys are taught more than the special training it provides for them. They are taught high ideals and principles. They are taught to respect their homes, their parents, their churches, their schools, their city, county, state and nation. They are taught to love the American flag and our way of life. They are taught the value of honesty, decency, truthfulness and integrity.

They are taught a good many things they not only find useful now but that they find useful all the days of their life.

Our trouble is, of course, we have not made the most of scouting and we have not made it reach all the boys it needs to reach or we should be reaching with it. There is always room for more boys and for a larger program.

And the greater number of boys influenced by scouting and all it offers, the fewer problems we have and the fewer cases of juvenile delinquency we have.

We can all join in wishing "Happy Birthday" to the Boy Scouts and wishing for greater growth in the years ahead.

If Gas Bill Passes It Will Certainly Create Confusion

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — If the natural gas bill—which the Senate votes on today—becomes law, it may mean higher prices on gas for homes. It seems certain to create confusion for years.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), the bill's author, says it "clarifies" the present law. But in its key part the language is so vague it probably will be fought through the courts, if it becomes law.

It would free producers of natural gas from direct federal control. In this way, Fulbright says, it will encourage producers to turn out more gas and thus keep prices down.

Asked if the gas price for householders will go up if the bill is passed, he said: "I would not say it can't go up." The bill's other chief sponsor, Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.), says there may be some slight increases.

Why the bill at all? Fulbright and Monroney and others say producers shouldn't be under direct control. They note that oil and coal prices are not controlled by the federal government.

hours before they were discovered. A thick snow cover was reported from the Texas line eastward, with average depths ranging around one foot. The Weather Bureau said melting which took place yesterday reduced average depths on the East side to 3 to 7 inches.

All main highways west and north of Albuquerque were reported free of snow and ice. The new snow flurries forecast for western New Mexico late today were not expected to affect highway travel before tonight at the earliest. The Weather Bureau said neither rain nor snow is probable east of the Rio Grande through Tuesday.

Across the state line in Texas, a five-county area in the Lubbock-Plainview vicinity generally was closed to travel today.

Travel stood still in the region north of Lubbock and west of Plainview to the New Mexico border.

The Amarillo district highway office reported that all U. S. and state highways were opened but there was one-way traffic on parts of U. S. 66 east and west of Amarillo and U. S. 287 southeast of Amarillo.

1. Producers find gas while drilling for oil. There are between 5,000 and 8,000 of them. Of these, 190—or between 2 and 4 per cent—sell 90 per cent of the gas to the pipelines. Those 190 include some of the biggest oil companies.

2. Pipeline companies buy the gas from the producers and carry it from the states which produce it—the biggest producers are in the Southwest—to other states which need it. About 17 pipeline companies almost completely dominate this field.

3. Outside a city the local utility company buys gas from the pipeline and moves it into homes through city and town gas mains, over 300,000 miles of them. Each local utility company has in effect a monopoly.

For that reason most utility companies are under state or city control. Their rates are fixed, allowing them usually a price that will give them a 6 per cent return on their investment.

The producers and pipelines, whose gas moves across state lines, were not controlled until 1938. Congress then passed an act giving the Federal Power Commission authority over "natural gas companies."

Those three words caused confusion for years. What is a natural gas company? There was no doubt it meant pipelines. But did it also mean producers who simply sold their gas to pipelines?

The FPC, setting the rates which pipeline utilities, said it didn't think Congress meant it to control producers. That went on for years. On June 7, 1954, the Supreme Court said FPC, under the 1938 law, must control producers.

At once FPC froze all producers' prices. Since then it has let a number of them raise prices. But the FPC ran into another problem. The 1938 law said the FPC should fix "just and reasonable rates" for producers and pipelines.

In the year and a half since the court decision FPC still hasn't worked out a formula that would govern "just and reasonable rates." Meanwhile, the producers have sought for years to get from under any semblance of FPC con-

Bus Driver Stumbled Through Storm For Help As Sixteen Passengers Are Stranded In Drift

TUCUMCARI, N. M. (AP)—The howling blizzard heaped waist-high drifts of snow and sent temperatures plunging to 10 below. Through it bus driver John Herron, 38, struggled for 8½ hours seeking help.

Behind him were the 16 passengers in his bus, many of them praying that he would get through. The bus had slipped from the highway into a drift. For five hours, Herron had waited for help—then he set out.

He collapsed a few yards from a service station at nearby Glenrio, N. M. He had strength enough to whistle and was rescued by men from the station. Help was started on its way to the bus—12 miles away in one of the worst storms in recent years in this state.

Snowplows and tractors broke a path to the bus, taking food and water and fuel to keep the bus heaters going during the night. Early yesterday, after 21 hours of waiting, the passengers were re-

Know YOUR Schools

By JO CONNELL
DID YOU KNOW that the number of teachers our school system may employ is based on the average daily attendance of its pupils?

One teacher may be employed for every average daily attendance of twenty students in the high school, one teacher for every twenty-two in pre-first, first and second grades and one for every twenty-five in the intermediate grades, one through eight. Artesia is allowed six special teachers in addition to those mentioned. School principals are counted as teachers.

Currently, of the 223 employees of the Artesia School Board, 163 are instructional and 60 are non-instructional employees.

Pretty Woman Gives Advice To Men On Art Of Shaving

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—If there is one time the average fellow feels least in need of a woman's advice, it's probably while he's shaving.

"But he's wrong," insisted pretty Rem Schoen, who believes she is the world's only lady career pogramonist. "Most men don't really know how to shave properly—even though they do it countless times in their lifetime."

Miss Schoen, a former Paterson, N. J., grade school teacher, got into the field of pogramonotom—the art of shaving—by accident.

While working temporarily as a model, she learned that executives of the Gem Safety Razor Co. were depressed over the fact so few men knew how to get a really good shave. She sold them on the idea of letting her tour the nation and give demonstrations of proper shaving techniques in high schools, colleges, offices and factories.

To prepare for her career, Miss Schoen tutored for several months under Elbridge J. Casselman, a Staunton, Va., scientist. She feels Casselman is to pogramonotom as Shakespeare is to literature. He's the Titan of the beard world.

"He has been studying shaving scientifically for more than 25 years," she said. "A remarkable man—always clean-shaven. I don't think I ever saw him with stubble on his face."

During her demonstrations Miss Schoen admits she sometimes finds it difficult to get a man to act at guinea pig while she shows off her shaving grace.

"Men seem instinctively distrustful of a woman with a razor in her hand," she said, smiling. "But so far I've been lucky. I haven't lopped off a nose or ear yet."

What mistakes do most men make while shaving?

"They are too slap-dash," she said. "The hairs in their beard contain a chemical known as keratin which makes them as tough as copper wires. This must be dissolved before you can get a good close shave."

Here is her recipe for a good shave:

"First, wash the face thoroughly in soap and hot water to get rid of grit and start dissolving the keratin. This should take at least a minute and a half.

"The lather should be brushed on vigorously for three minutes, to soak the beard thoroughly and dissolve the rest of the keratin.

"Keep the razor wet while shaving. Hold the razor at a 20-to-30-degree angle (a flat-topped razor is best; it is set at a 25-degree angle), and shave with short firm strokes.

"If you have a tender skin, cool water in applying the lather. Always shave toward the grain where the beard is thickest. Against the grain only when shaving up rough spots.

"After shaving, apply an astringent talcum powder. Clean your razor but don't dry the blade. It dries itself. It will stay longer."

Miss Schoen is full of beard lore. Here are a few items:

"The average beard has 25 hairs and the average man spends two months of his life shaving."

"His beard grows from 14 to 3.64ths of an inch a day, grows faster in summer than in the winter.

"Beard hairs range from 54 to 81,000th of an inch in thickness. Shaving doesn't make beard thicker. Age does it."

"A shave will last longer if you whack your whiskers off at breakfast. Before breakfast your face is still puffy from sleep."

"Blue collar workers shave just as often as white collar workers, but they often shave at night rather than in the morning."

"The thickness of a man's beard is no index of his virility."

Miss Schoen says that Alexander the Great was probably the first military leader to order troops to shave as a military measure.

"He did it so the enemy could grab his men by their beards in close combat," she explained.

No Noise Or Shooting
MACLENNY, Fla. (AP)—Brevard County commissioners wanted to ban hunting on Sunday. However, the commission attorney advised that such a regulation probably wouldn't stand up because the state licenses list Sunday as a legal hunting day.

So the commissioners found an ancient blue law forbidding loud noises, such as the discharge of firearms on Sunday. They instructed Sheriff Asa Coleman to enforce it.

TOBACCO BLAMED

Santa Fe Latest City Struck By Ambulance Service Problem

SANTA FE (AP)—The problem of INS 230 Santa Fe ambulance service is plaguing several New Mexico towns.

The latest in Santa Fe Owners of the Santa Fe Ambulance Service said today they may have to discontinue operations unless some arrangement can be made with the city or county to help bear the cost of handling charity cases.

"We just can't continue to operate as we are now," Jack Stacey co-owner, said. "Even the people who can afford to pay won't settle their bills."

Elsewhere over the state, ambulance service has reportedly been discontinued at Clovis, Carlsbad, Truth or Consequences, Socorro and Roswell.

In nearly every case, operators gave the same reason Stacey did: too much money lost in bad-bills.
