

Hobbs Eagles Achieve Finals With 82-43 Win Over Artesia

The Hobbs Eagles advanced to the finals in the district 4-A tournament at Hobbs Friday night, the Eagles defeating Artesia, 82-43.

The Carlsbad Cavemen also advanced to the finals with a win over Portales, 64-54.

The Eagles chalked up their 21st straight basketball victory and qualified for the state schoolboy tournament in Albuquerque next week by squashing Artesia in the semi-finals. The Eagles, now 26-3 for the year, will meet Carlsbad for the district crown.

Floyd Donham and Ray Clay sparked the Eagles to 19-10, 38-21, and 59-30 period leads with 18 points each. Kim Nash tallied 16 and Bill Bridges 11 markers for Hobbs. Jerry Chaney led Artesia with 16 markers.

The Portales Rams led most of the first half, at one time holding a 30-11 advantage; but then the Carlsbad full court press and fast break started paying off. The Cavemen tied the game at 36-36 late in the third period.

Bob Kelly scored six field goals in that quarter, and Carlsbad ended on top, 41-37. The Rams could not get closer than six points in the final quarter.

Barry Stone had 27 points for Portales, and Kelly 24 for Carlsbad.

Artesia Captures Third Place With Win Over Portales, 62-53

HOBBS — Hobbs' mighty Eagles, leading all the way after the first quarter, Saturday crushed the proud Carlsbad Cavemen 91-69 in the finals of the District 4A high school basketball tournament.

Artesia upset Portales 62-53 in the game for third place.

Carlsbad, defending class A state champion, stayed close only in the first quarter, but Hobbs pulled out to 12-10 midway of the period and was never headed.

The talented Eagles, running their season record to 27-3, barged out in front 5-34 at the half and it was all but over. Ray Clay led the Eagle charge with 29 points, while Sulo Mattson paced Carlsbad with 20.

Artesia surprised Portales by going ahead early and staying there. The Bulldogs held a 30-20 halftime margin and built steadily. Barry Stone, of Portales led all scorers with 26 points, while Max Ratiff paced the winners with 16.

Late Bulletin

ALBUQUERQUE — New Mexico broke away in the last five minutes of the game to take a hard-fought 74-63 Skyline Conference basketball victory from Utah State as both teams ended their seasons last night.

Crowd Cheers As Santee Wins Columbian Mile

NEW YORK — Wes Santee returned to action last night, and with a crowd of 12,000 in Madison Square Garden madly cheering his every stride, won the Columbian Mile 4:13.8.

The race climaxed a wild day of court action, indecision and jockeying by AAU officials, Santee's attorney and other competitors.

Santee, barred by the AAU for accepting excessive expenses two weeks ago, was reinstated last Thursday when his attorney, Charles P. Grimes, obtained an injunction nullifying the AAU action. The AAU appealed the injunction Saturday morning and was turned down.

That left Santee still an amateur and the AAU conceded he was eligible.

That's how it stood until the other runners began to pull out one by one. Finally, he raced only against Ed Kirk of the Air Force and Ed Shea of the Army.

Santee took the lead at the start and lengthened it with every stride while the crowd roared its approval. He was caught in 59.2 for the first quarter, 2:02.1 for the half, and 3:08.4 for the three-quarters indicating his lack of competition.

New Mexico Amateur Fencing League Gets Charter, Sets Champion Bouts

Hans Versteeg, Santa Fe accountant who is president, says the group hopes to establish affiliated groups in other New Mexico communities.

He said there are about 40 fencers interested at Las Alamos and about 50 to 60 in Santa Fe and he believes there is a large number in Albuquerque.

"As a hobby," he said, "it teaches sportsmanship, a large part because a 'touche' must be called by the losing party. It develops flexibility and dexterity of the arms and legs and sharpens eyesight because a fencer must be able to parry the 1-16th inch tip of a foil from any part of his body. It helps develop coordination and timing, thereby developing physical poise."

Versteeg, who learned to fence in his native Holland, says a woman in Tokyo who receives a New Mexico newspaper (the New Mexican of Santa Fe) saw mention of formation of the Santa Fe group recently and asked to become a member.

He said she was granted a membership and there are several other women members.

All bouts and meets authorized by the New Mexico division will be nationally recognized, Versteeg said.

He said, "preliminary investigation revealed there are many fencers in New Mexico whose active participation in this sport has been stymied by lack of a club."

State championship bouts are to be held here soon, at a date to be announced later, he said, and the state organization will name four members to attend the national championship bouts in New York City June 7-8.

Dayton Coach Denies Saying AAU Sold Out

DAYTON, Ohio — Tommy Blackburn, coach of the Dayton University Flyers, said Saturday his Thursday night remarks at the U. of Louisville basketball banquet were "not misquoted, but certainly were misinterpreted."

"Everything I said at the banquet was in jest," Blackburn said. "After all, Louisville beat us twice, so I had to joke my way through the talk. I didn't criticize anyone, there was no rancor in any of my remarks. About all I did was tell sports stories, just as any coach does at a banquet like that."

Blackburn denied he said the AAU "has sold out the colleges as far as Olympic basketball is concerned," as quoted in news stories.

"What I said was that the 'AAU' had received the breaks as far as Olympic basketball is concerned," since the AAU will have two teams, instead of one in the Olympic trouts at Kansas City. But there's no story in that, for anyone should already know it.

"The AAU teams have been together for as long as three years, and it's difficult to put together an all-star team from the colleges capable of beating them consistently."

The Dayton coach said his remarks aren't much—they are marks that "all-star games at for charity and the players don't take them too seriously," was merely part of astory about a high school all-star team he had coached, and had no bearing on the East-West All-Star Game in New York, where he'll coach the Easterners.

Maxwell Grips Lead In Mexican Open Golf Play

MEXICO CITY, — Billy Maxwell fired his third seven-under par 65 yesterday to tighten his hold on first place in the $5,000 Mexican National Open Golf Tournament.

The young Odessa, Tex., pro goes into the final round today with a 54-hole score of 195, six strokes ahead of defending champion Roberto de Vicenzo, an Argentine. De Vicenzo, now playing as a Mexico City pro, carried a 66 for a total 201 that put him in second place.

A three-way tie at 205 for third place bracketed Mexican Caddy champion Margarito Martinez, Mexico City pro Percy Clifford, and Howard Johnson, Houston, Tex.

Fighter Olson Denies Title Of Social Playboy

SAN FRANCISCO — Carl (Bobo) Olson, who hopes to get back his world middleweight boxing crown from Sugar Ray Robinson next month, says he's not the playboy type at all.

"I take a drink now and then, because I want to be sociable," the balding ex-titlist admits, "but I can say honestly that I don't even care for drinking."

"People always are saying they've seen me at different places, or have heard that I was there. I have a few close friends who either own clubs or work in them and I go there to see them with other friends. I'm not a playboy at all."

The story has gained wide circulation, since Olson was stopped by both light-weight champion Archie Moore and Robinson, that he's "living it up" on the bright lights circuit. Lending some credence to the reports of Olson's social activities is the fact his wife and mother of his four children has started a divorce suit.

Miss Wright Clings To Jacksonville Women's Open Golf Tournament Lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Young Mickey Wright felt tournament pressure and came through like a veteran Saturday to cling to first place in the $5,000 Jacksonville Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The start of the round was delayed more than an hour by heavy rains. When the golfers took the course they found the approaches and greens soggy.

Miss Wright, 21-year-old San Diego girl in her second year on the pro circuit, birdied the first hole but then had four straight bogeys and finished the first nine in 39, three over par.

Miss Bauer, playing in the same threesome, had a 35 going out and "temporarily" went into first place.

But Miss Wright played a bold game, hitting her iron a hole in straight for the pins, and came home in 34, two under par, for 73.

On the tougher second nine of the rolling 6,476 yard Hyde Park course, she shot 2 birdies and 7 pars while Miss Bauer took 38 strokes and also had 73 for the day.

At the halfway point the best amateur was Margaret (Wiffi) Smith of St. Clair, Mich., with 159.

MIZELL WORKS OUT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The St. Louis Cardinals were having batting practice with Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell serving up the pitches.

Mizell, expected to bolster the Cards mound staff this season with his southpaw deliveries, after a hitch in the Army, had his fast ball working.

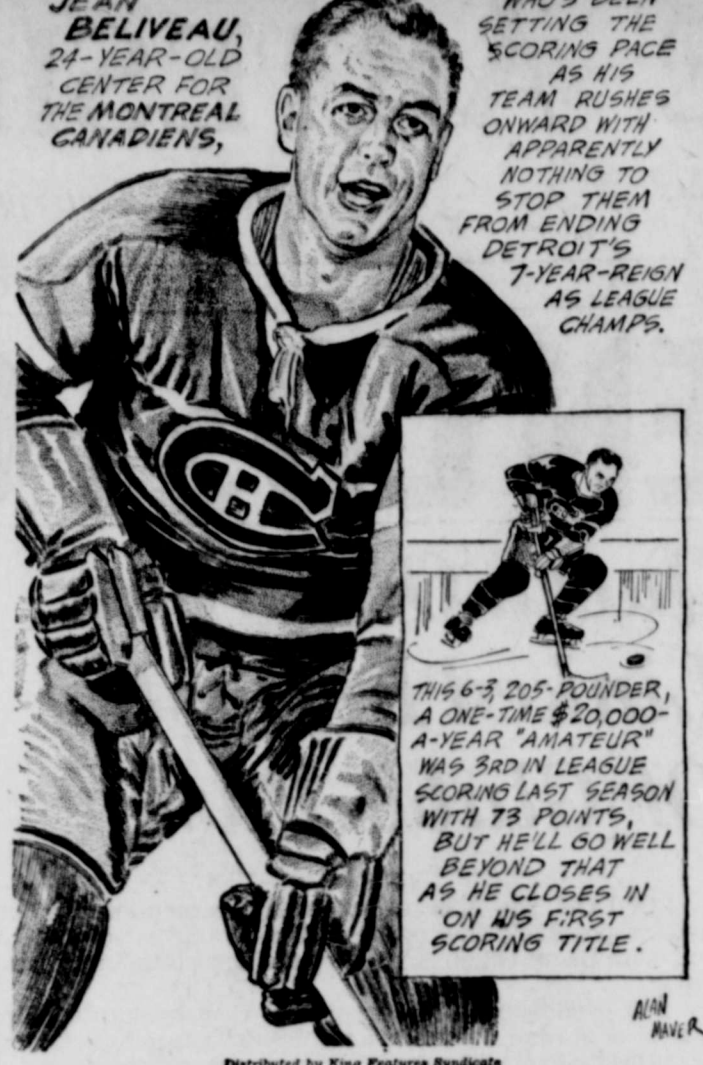

NICHOLS GETS PRAISE

BRADENTON, Fla. — Manager Charlie Grimm of the Milwaukee Braves happily ticked off right-handed compliments to his left-handed pitching staff.

"He's a different guy this spring," Grimm said of Chet Nichols, whose 918 record last year was a disappointment. "He's in better shape, he's worked harder and he looks like he's determined to make good."

The veteran field boss called rookie Bob Hartman the standout of his eight-man southpaw hurling corps in potential, but said that former Cleveland star Gene Bearden was most likely to stick.

AP Names Two Guards To Team In Skyline Play

DENVER — Two little guards, Joe Capua of Wyoming and Terry Tebbs of Brigham Young University, were unanimous choices on the 1956 Skyline Conference all-star basketball team picked by The Associated Press.

Picked with them were Art Bunte and Gary Bergen, the mainstays of Utah University's champions, and Pat Dunn, Utah State's all-around star. All are seniors.

New Mexico's Toby Roybal of Santa Fe, was picked to the second team. He trails Capua in conference scoring.

Coaches, sportswriters and the sportscastrers around the eight-team circuit placed Capua and Tebbs head-and-shoulders above the so-called "big men" in the balloting.

Three centers—all more than 6-feet-5 — were put on the second team. They are Gary Hibbard of Colorado A&M, Herschel Pedersen of Brigham Young and Dick Brott of Denver. Selected with them on the second string were Roybal, New Mexico's high scoring guard, and Curtis Jensen, Utah's great playmaker. Jensen and Brott are juniors and the rest seniors.

Bergen barely edged Hibbard of A&M for the first team position. The other four first stringers were clear cut choices above the other players in the league.

The balloting pointed up one of the significant developments in the league this season—the collapse of Wyoming, a title contender for the past decade. Capua was the only Wyoming player receiving any votes, for either first or second team. The same situation applied to New Mexico, with Roybal the only Lobo vote getter.

Basketball's Olympic Players Are Announced

KANSAS CITY — Five of the 14 players who will make up the college entry in the U.S. Olympic basketball playoff here April 24 were announced by A. C. (Dutch) Lonborg, chairman of the college basketball group.

Named were Bill Russell, two-time All-America, and K. C. Jones, both of San Francisco University; Paul Judson, Illinois; Hal Lear, Temple, and Jim Paxson, Daytona.

Nine additional players are to be announced later. Lonborg said.

The college stars will get their first competition in the New York Herald Tribune charity game March 31.

Two AAU teams and an armed services team will complete the field for the playoffs here next month.

Terrang In Championship Style Captures Santa Anita Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif. — Rex Ellsworth's favored Terrang came through in championship style Saturday to capture the $158,800 Santa Anita Derby in a brilliant run through the stretch.

Duplicating the victory of his famed stablemate, Swaps, who won this Derby and the Kentucky Derby as well last year, Terrang, a California-bred, whipped a field of 17 rival 3-year-olds by almost 2 lengths.

There was a photo to separate the second and third place finishers, but when the numbers came up it was the Llangollen Farm's Social Climber second, G. I. Martin's More Glory third and Magic, Terrang's stable mate fourth.

The time for the mile and eighth scramble was 1:51 1/2 which didn't threaten the Santa Anita Derby time record of 1:45 set in 1950 by Your Honor, tied by Determine in 1954.

Terrang, ably ridden by Willie Shoemaker, who swapped to renown, paid $3,400 and $3, Social Climber, who won the recent San Felipe Handicap and returned a whopping $111, paid $10.70 and $7.30, and More Glory returned $16.30.

All the colts carried a weight of 118 pounds, and appeared that Terrang was slowed down as he came under the wire.

Whether he can qualify for other honors in the Kentucky Derby, and the other games of the Triple Crown, the Preakness and Belmont stakes, to which he has been nominated, remains to be seen.

The track was fast, the weather warm and a trifle hazy as the field went to the post. Only the 1937 array, with 21 in the field from the gate, was larger than this one.

Probe Reported Of California Univ. Athletics

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Oakland Tribune said Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, has launched an investigation into athletic affairs at the Berkeley and University of California at Los Angeles campuses.

"He was joined," said the article by Ed Schoenfeld, "by Dr. Clark Kerr and D. Raymond R. Allen, chancellors of UC and UCLA, respectively, in probes on their own campuses."

Schoenfeld wrote that the council agreed that Dr. Sproul and the chancellors should investigate: 1—Athletic recruiting activities; 2—Student body employes, including members of the coaching staffs; Athletic recruiting activities; 2—

Farmington Wins Over Horsemen, Hornets Victors

ALBUQUERQUE — Farmington's Scorpions and Highland Horne's moved into the finals of the Dist. 1A tournament with semifinal wins Saturday morning.

Farmington won their way into the state tourney by edging Michael's Horsemen, 57-56 while Highland mauled Gallup, 63-50. The Scorpions' Larry Neely banked 24 points in leading Farmington to their victory. Neely also swished the winning basket with less than 25 seconds remaining in the game.

Three Horsemen hit the double figures. Joe Ortiz, Ed Lopez and Pat Terrazas tallied 15, 14 and 13 points respectively.

Farmington led at all the quarter stops with 17-11, 28-21 and 41-39.

Highland had very little trouble in downing Gallup. The Hornets gained a 20-7 first period lead and then held on the rest of the way for the win. Gallup's George Buchanan led scores with 20 points.

County Clare Wins Magic City Handicap Race

MIAMI, Fla. — Brookmeade Stable's County Clare came from far back Saturday to win the $18,095 Magic City Handicap before a record opening-day crowd of 23,864 at Gulfstream Park.

County Clare swept to a length and a half margin at the end of the mile and 70-yard run and finished ahead of fast-climbing Fabulist from High Tide Stable.

Hasty House Farm's Prince Nor faded to third at the end and Gammet Farm's Commodore M., favorite at 9 to 5, was fourth in the field of 11 handicap horses.

Time for the distance was 1:41 4-5, compared with the track record of 1:49 3-5 by Atomic Power in 1947.

Jim Hearn will be the starting pitcher, to be followed by Johnny Antonelli, Hoyt Wilhelm and rookies Ernie Broglio, Ben Wibur and Don Zama. They'll work one inning apiece.

It Doesn't Matter Too Much

WE BELIEVE one of the most overworked phrases in America is that one employed by solicitors in seeking donations and contributions when they advise the public their gift is deductible.

Some of those pointing out the fact that the gift is deductible from income taxes are honest in their statement and believe what they are saying. They perhaps could not explain how it is deductible and point out what it could mean but they are sincere.

Others employ it as a "come on." The fact is that the matter of small gifts in so far as income taxes are concerned does not mean much one way or the other. Certainly the gift is not deductible from income taxes but rather it is deductible from the total income. It merely can be included in the total expenses that are allowable and actually reduces the amount on which income taxes are to be paid. It means little one way or the other in so far as the individual is concerned unless it is really and truly a large gift.

In that case, of course, it would have to be given or contributed to one of the approved charities. Gifts can not just be given here or there and then be deducted. The government only allows certain sums in the way of gifts going to recognized programs such as hospitals, colleges, schools, Red Cross, Salvation Army, churches etc.

If the gift is to an unapproved organization then the sum can not be deducted.

But actually we have always felt that the cause to which the gift is made is the important thing. If it is a worthy project or program and the contribution is a good investment then we believe that is the basis on which the gift should be made not on the basis that it is deductible. And by a good investment we mean a program that brings a return and dividends to the community.

But the idea of all contributions being deductible—that doesn't mean much and often times if all the gifts or contributions of an individual were added together and included in expenses it would make little or no difference in the income taxes of the person making the gifts.

As we pointed out the sum is not deductible from income taxes but it is merely deductible on the amount on which income taxes are to be paid or on which they have to be paid.

Korean Vice President Chosen In Summer Could Succeed Rhee

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Who will succeed wily old Syngman Rhee as leader of the Republic of Korea?

The question, important in world affairs, may be answered by South Korea's 20 millions when they choose a vice president in the elections this summer.

Although active and sharp for all his 80 years, Rhee might not survive another four-year term. So business and government leaders are particularly anxious to see who gets the vice presidential nomination at the Liberal government party convention opening in Seoul next Tuesday.

There are half a dozen hot candidates. At this date, however, you can get even money or better on Lee Ki Poong, 59, American-educated speaker of the House of Representatives. His backers say his honesty and integrity seem to be the cornerstone younger Korean leaders are searching for today.

"If Lee runs against a single candidate he has a 50-50 chance," said the publisher of one of Korea's leading newspapers. "If he runs against two or more rivals, he should win hands down."

There is still some hedging, however, because Rhee hasn't announced his own candidacy yet, although there is little doubt here he will. He will have the major voice in picking his running mate. Lee's gentleness impresses visitors. It contrasts with the rough and ready characteristics of most Korean politicians.

His wife Maria Pak is vice president of the Iwa Women's University, one of Korea's finest. Both were educated in the United States and met there. They married in Korea, after Mrs. Lee returned from college. They have two sons.

"During the Pacific war," Lee said, "I had to hide out. The Japanese were especially hard on Koreans who had been to school in the United States. I spent most of my time in mining areas in central Korea, although I had to occasionally report to the police."

When American troops landed in Korea after the war ended, Lee offered his services as interpreter. He left to join Rhee when Rhee returned to head the provisional government.

Since then he has been mayor of Seoul, defense minister and now speaker.

Asked point-blank if he wanted to be vice president, Lee said: "I don't think I will ever be a good politician. I would prefer to be working with young people. I know, however, that a man can't always do what he wants. Some times he has to do something simply because he must do it for others. That is how I feel about politics." He sounded like a candidate, if a reluctant one. He could be the next president of Korea.

All sorts of implications were read into the firing. An increase in tension between Israel and the Arab nations was seen. The Anglo-Jordan Pact, with seven years to run, was considered in jeopardy. Royal Air Force bases in Jordan, deterrants to the Russians, were thought to be weakened.

The Arab Legion, long considered as a stabilizing unit in the Middle East, now becomes a question mark. New Arab pressure is expected to be put on Iraq to desert the Baghdad Pact.

British newspapers viewed the dismissal of Glubb as a blow to the West and said it greatly increased the danger of an Arab-Israeli war.

The influential Times of London labeled the ouster a "studied affront" by Hussein and declared it was "the most sinister event which has occurred in the Middle East arms from the Communists."

Local Doctor Asks: "Why Suffer With Sinus Trouble?"

Probably no condition is more common in this part of the country at this season of the year, and no condition brings more discomfort to the patient than sinus trouble. Sinusitis is an inflammation of the mucous membranes of the nasal sinuses. It is usually accompanied by headache and eye symptoms are also common.

Chiropractically we have found the cause of sinus trouble is a nerve pressure due to misaligned vertebrae in the cervical region (neck). The pressure of the hard bones on the delicate nerves interferes with the normal nerve supply reaching the sinuses, resulting in sinus trouble.

The Chiropractor is trained and equipped to locate this nerve pressure and remove it, thereby removing the basic cause of sinus trouble. Often relief will follow the first Chiropractic adjustment but in severe chronic cases more time is needed to make the correction.

If you are suffering with sinus trouble, see your Chiropractor at once. Why suffer?

For further information about Chiropractic in caring for sinus or other ailments, you are invited to consult Dr. K. Behnke Rains, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 420 W. Quay, Phone SH 6-3800.

Dutch Visitors Are Impressed By Loving Care Displayed For Precious Gifts Nature Bestows

Editor's Note: Misses Cecile and Cornelia Voute, sisters of Dr. J. P. Voute of Hagerman, have been visiting their brother in the United States. Cornelia, a garden architect, and Cecile, a violin teacher, are members of the International Association of Women in Professions. They are natives of Holland. The following is an account of their visit here told in their own words.

We left Europe in the middle of December by boat and made the voyage crossing the Atlantic Ocean, Caribbean Sea and Panama Canal in order to arrive after a month's time on the West Coast of the USA.

Our first contact with America was in California where it struck us instantly how friendly and helpful people were who tried to make us feel at ease in this new world. This first impression was confirmed wherever we went. People made our travel very easy and agreeable. The wonderful, huge cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco gave us an idea of the enormous extent and distances of American cities and we admired the perfect organization of the traffic situation and how well it is controlled.

It amazed us that so few people were walking instead of riding bicycles, a curiosity for people being accustomed to traffic where the bicycle prevails and the car is a luxury of only a small percentage of the population. The brilliant city of San Francisco with its marvelous Golden Gate Bridge made a lasting impression upon us.

We travelled along the Pacific Coast and enjoyed the beauty of the country and the soft climate, until we reached Flagstaff, Ariz. We felt very happy to come nearer to our destination, the visit with our brother, Dr. J. P. Voute of Hagerman. We chose Flagstaff as our first stop in order to meet our brother there for an opportunity to visit the Grand Canyon together. The impression of this magnificent wonder of nature we take with us as one of our richest memories. The way in which this monument is opened to the public and the clear way in which explanations were given, we admire highly. The same care and love for the precious gifts of nature bestowed on this country struck us at the natural monument, the Petrified Forest, and also when we visited the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. New Mexico is the land where the earth and blue sky speak of endlessness in time and space.

Our visit to our brother's home at Hagerman, where we stayed more than a month, enabled us to see much of the state of New Mexico. We took great interest in the agricultural valley of the Pecos River, where a system of irrigation makes it possible to grow cotton, alfalfa and different kinds of corn. W. E. Utterback was so kind as to show us around the area and to explain to us the different motorized machines used in farming. We visited the cotton gin in Hagerman. Day Slingerland showed us his beautiful color slides from which we got an impression of the season's work in the fields especially of the cotton picking in the fall by work of Mexican laborers or by motorized machines.

Through a visit to the Hagerman School — especially in the classes of our neices, Joan and Antoinette Voute, who are enrolled in the elementary school—we came into contact with the education of youth. The teachers there gave us the opportunity to tell about Holland and the pupils were allowed to ask questions. They showed a lively interest and the seeds of international exchange of thoughts were sown in the young ment of youth. The teachers there gave us the opportunity to tell about Holland and the pupils were allowed to ask questions. They showed a lively interest and the seeds of international exchange of thoughts were sown in the young

Parent-Teachers Association program through music and a color film of the Dutch bulb-fields enabled us to meet with the parents and teachers.

Our brother took us out on Sundays to the mountains and we passed through the endless ranch prairies to admire the mountain area of Cloudcroft and Ruidoso. We also visited the oil fields of Hobbs and Eunice, N.M. In the city of Roswell we admired especially the wonderful extensive buildings of the New Mexico Military Institute where so many young men get their college training.

We were so fortunate as to be the guests of Mrs. Donald Powell for a week at Santa Fe. This unique capital of New Mexico fascinated us by its adobe buildings and churches and the typical Spanish-Indian atmosphere. Mrs. Powell enabled us to meet with artists and scientists specialized in the religious rites and culture of the Indians, and we visited Taos with its pueblos and met in the James Pueblo the head of the Indian school. Here we discussed the problem of the emancipation of the Indian into modern civilization.

Very soon we leave New Mexico and continue our trip with a visit to New Orleans, La., to make a short cut by airplane to the cities of the East Coast. There we hope to complete our travel impressions by a visit to Washington, Philadelphia and New York. We will leave the USA at the end of this month with a feeling of thankfulness to have met with a large and powerful population, with whom we feel connected by ties of the past as well as of our mutual aim in the present.

Italian Scooter Introduced By Artesia Firm

Mervyn L. Worley of the Artesia Implement and Supply Co., Saturday announced that his firm has been appointed dealer for the Vespa 150 Italian made motor scooter, which has only recently been introduced in this country.

According to Worley, Veonor, Sotak, representative of the B. K. Sweeney Co., of Denver, will be in Artesia Monday to demonstrate the Vespa 150 and to instruct his staff in assembling and servicing it.

The Vespa 150 is made by Piaggio and Co., of Genoa, Italy, which before it was leveled by the war was one of Italy's major rail transportation and aircraft manufacturers. War damaged roads and lack of vehicles made it plain that some low-cost means of transportation was needed swiftly and in quantity if recovery was to be hastened. The Vespa (the name means Wasp) was developed by the brother Enrico and Armando Piaggio and, in a short time these spry little motor scooters were swarming over Italy and other parts of Europe. They became post-war symbols of revived energy and prosperity.

Capable of speed up to 51 miles per hour and over 100 miles per gallon of gasoline the Vespa 150 is rapidly gaining in popularity in this country particularly among farm families with only one car and in heavily congested traffic areas where parking has become a major problem. Four to five Vespa can be parked in the same

A message from Fred and Jim, 'Your Pharmacists'

IN ANCIENT DAYS, Pharmacy was practiced only by priests. All forms of the healing arts were connected with religious rites.

DURING THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY, Pharmacy, the science of compounding, dispensing, and protecting medicines, became separate from the practice of medicine, which is the science of treating disease and the preservation of health.

NOWADAYS, A PHARMACIST must study four years in a College of Pharmacy, and pass a state examination before he can receive a license to practice pharmacy. Modern pharmacy is becoming so technical, that it has already been ruled that in 1960 it will be necessary to increase the College of Pharmacy requirement to five years of study.

PHYSICIANS, PHARMACISTS, AND RESEARCH SCIENTISTS are the health team that works together to keep you healthier longer. As your pharmacist, we will always cooperate by observing the strict requirements of our profession, and keeping informed of all new progress.

Article Tells Of Invitation To Execution

How engraved invitations to a hanging were sent out in early-day Albuquerque is told by Roy A. Stamm in an article entitled "Boardwalk Town" in the March issue of New Mexico Magazine.

Milt Yarberry had killed a man, and his was to be the new community's first hanging. There was considerable controversy over the case. Citizens took sides. But the event came off without incident at the Old Town court house.

Stamm also recounts the method by which Albuquerque remained comparatively "clean" while other western frontier towns were stamping grounds for assorted bad men. He says that in Albuquerque the tough guys were quietly disarmed on arrival. "We'll keep the guns till you're ready to leave," the marshal would tell them. "It's the law here." All customers at local saloons were required to check their shooting irons.

In the same issue, L. C. Bolles, conservationist, pleads for greater efforts to restore the native grasses in New Mexico, of which he says there are 135 having "livestock adaptability." He says it would save a lot of water, and that quite a few people are having success with lawns of grama and buffalo grass where other types of lawn

Welfare Board Increases Aid To All Groups

ALBUQUERQUE (P)—The State Welfare Board has made sweeping restorations of aid to welfare recipients in all categories.

The board approved increases in payments for old age assistance aid to the needy blind and dependent children.

All increases passed unanimously, with the exception of the old age assistance provision, which aroused considerable discussion.

The aid given needy blind persons was increased from the present maximum of $52 for a single person to $55. For two persons, the maximum was raised from $64 to $75. Board members estimated the cost of the increase for the coming fiscal year at $65,000.

Eligibility requirements for disabled persons also were broadened.

Aid to dependent children was increased from 80 to 100 per cent of need.

All these categories — needy blind, disabled persons and dependent children — were voted to become effective April 1.

Allowances for shelter costs in the old age assistance program was increased from $18 to $25. Home maintenance and taxes payments were increased from $2 to $7. These increases, effective May 1, would affect all persons on the old age rolls who own or rent their homes.

FAIR REJECTS REQUEST

ALBUQUERQUE (P)—The New Mexico State Fair Board has turned down a request that the fairgrounds be used by Albuquerque for its nine-day 250th anniversary celebration in July. The board decided that such use would interfere with completion of the new fair coliseum.

Bryan Moynahan, voted against the old age assistance increases.

Hernandez said he didn't believe that just because the money was available it should be spent. He said the board represents taxpayers as well as welfare clients.

Director Murray Hintz argued that a surplus was created by the effectiveness of the lien and relative responsibility laws, passed last year by a special session of the Legislature to help the financially staggering welfare department, and that increases were in order.

The board was told that the case load in old age assistance cases has decreased from 12,000 to 9,200 since the two laws were passed.

MARGARET WILSON, removes food from one of the kitchen's giant ovens. Every Thursday they bake 240 dozen rolls here.

MAUD BOGGS, central kitchen employee, prepares one of the many trays of salad necessary to feed 1,000 hungry children.

GLADYS SMITH, another employee, slices lunch meat for serving. The federal government contributes surplus food stocks to the schools cafeteria program.

THE MEALS PREPARED, Alta Walker begins the heart-breaking task of washing pots and pans.

IN CHARGE of transportation of steam tables, Vera Cannon turns a crank that lifts the steam tables from a loading platform into the truck for delivery to the various schools.

AN
PICTURE STORY

Believed unique in school cafeteria set-ups is the Artesia central kitchen arrangement, where all food is prepared in one kitchen and transported hot in steamtables to the other school cafeterias.

This operation began with completion of the Junior High School cafeteria in January of this year. Prior to that time there was a kitchen at the High School and one at Central School. Children were transported from Park and Roselawn Schools to the High School for lunch, which consumed most of their lunch hour, and food was transported to Hermosa School beginning in the spring of 1955.

The first school cafeteria in Artesia was opened in a barracks at Park School in 1947, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Wilson, who is now head of the central kitchen with the title of cafeteria operator. At the Park School cafeteria about 150 children a day received hot lunches. Now there between 925 and 1,000 children taking advantage of the lunches each day.

The children pay 30 cents a meal, with or without bread at the city cafeterias, 20 and 25 cents at outlying schools.

In January of this year the cost of the cafeteria operation within the city was $5,777, of which $3,762 went for food. Supplementing this, were large quantities of surplus food made available without charge by the federal government. These foods include pinto beans, butter, cheese, shortening, dry milk, rice, lard, whole hams, luncheon meat, pork and gravy.

One meal requires the preparation of 300 pounds of potatoes, 100 pounds of beans, and 125 pounds of meal. On the day when baking is done it requires 14 sheet cakes for a total. Every Thursday rolls are baked at the central kitchen at a rate of 240 dozen.

A typical menu consists of roast pork and gravy, creamed potatoes, peas and carrots, combination salad, hot jelly and butter, and milk to drink.

Ten women, under the direction of Mrs. Wilson, work in the central kitchen. Twenty persons are employed to operate the entire cafeteria system.

A. R. Wood, who is business manager for the Artesia school system, is also manager of the cafeteria operation.

It is an efficient organization that feeds the children of Artesia for 30 cents a meal, and a worthy organization that contributes so much to their health by providing them with well-rounded hot lunches each day.

WORKING TOGETHER as a team, Vera Birch, left, and Carrill Ross peel and slice boiled eggs for a large tray of potato salad.

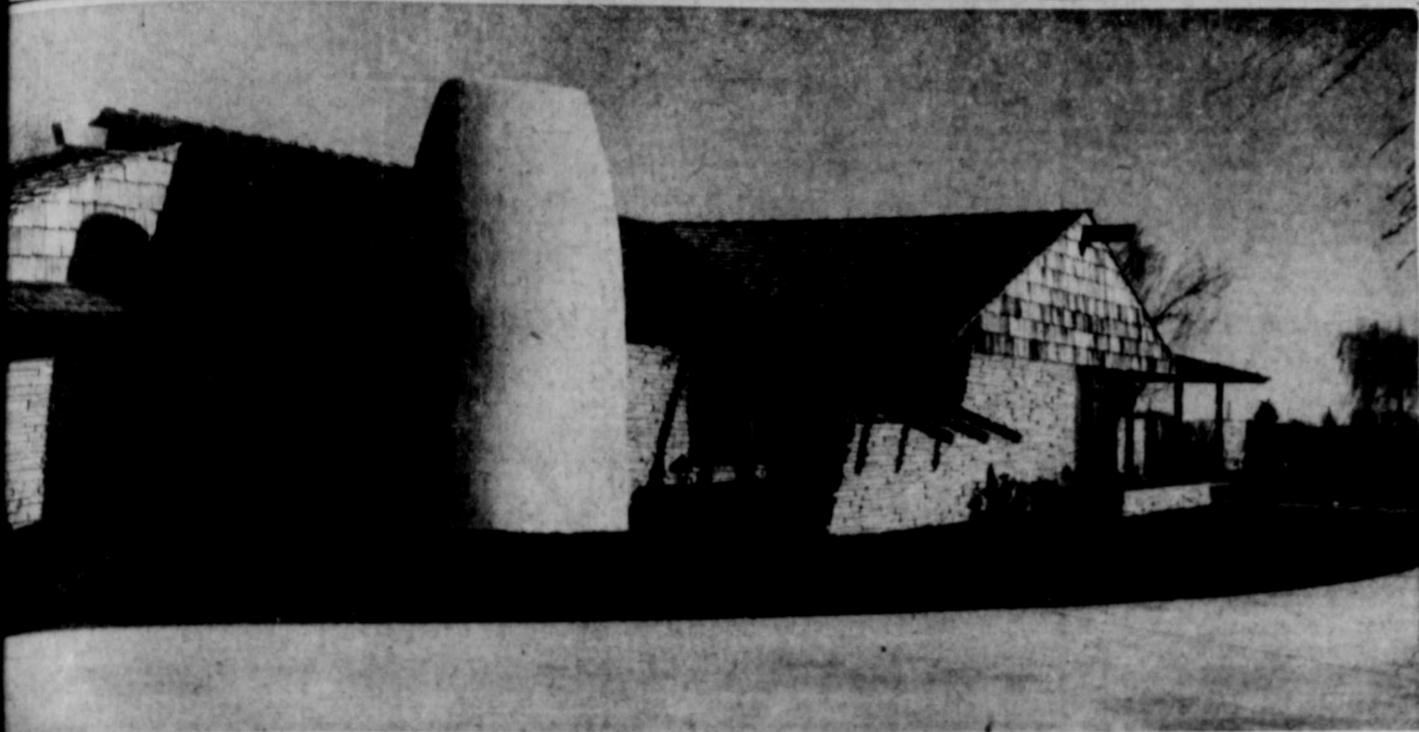

PREPARING a steam table for serving at the Junior High School cafeteria, Maud Boggs, Margaret Wilson and Carroll Ross load it with trays of macaroni and cheese.

LITTLE GIRL at Roselawn School digs into a tray of energy-providing hot food.

ONE LOOK AT these eager faces in the serving line at Roselawn is enough to convince the doubtful that these children appreciate their school cafeteria.

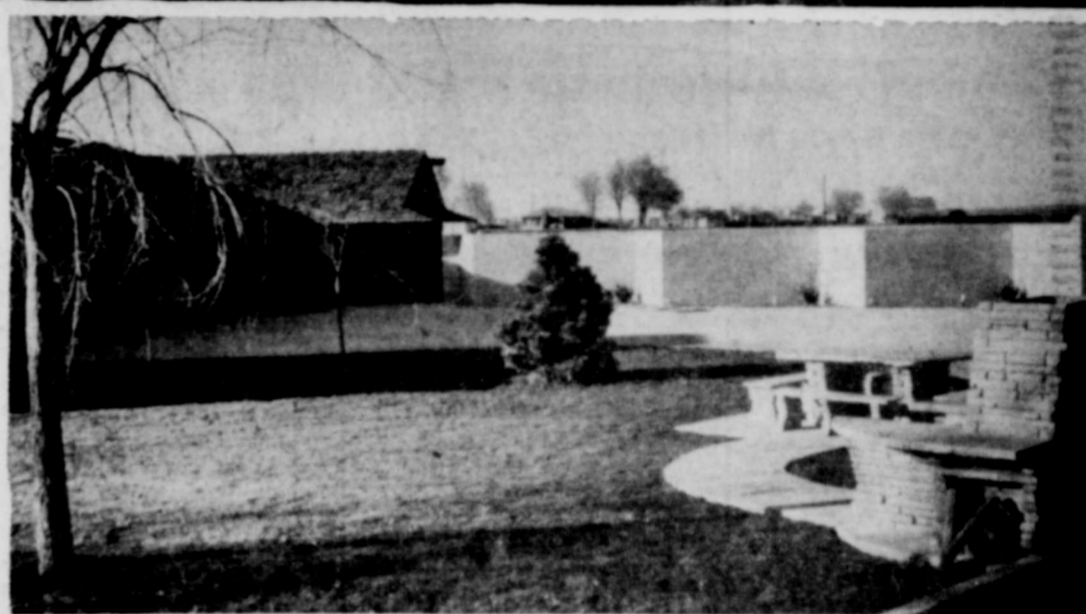

THE NEW country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jackson, southeast of Artesia. The house is set amid broad acres of flat farm land. The front yard features a paved circular drive and a ranch-type fence along the road in front of the house. A predominant feature of the architecture is the large, round, white fireplace chimney at the corner of the master bedroom.

TOP RIGHT: THE HOUSE is built of pink Arizona sandstone brick and is of ranch-style architecture with a pitched shake roof. Landscaping features a large weeping willow tree in front of the house. There's a raised irrigation pond just to the right of the house.

RIGHT: DESIGNED FOR outdoor living, the spacious back yard is enclosed by a high wall and features a paved patio, a sandstone barbecue oven and a sandstone picnic table.

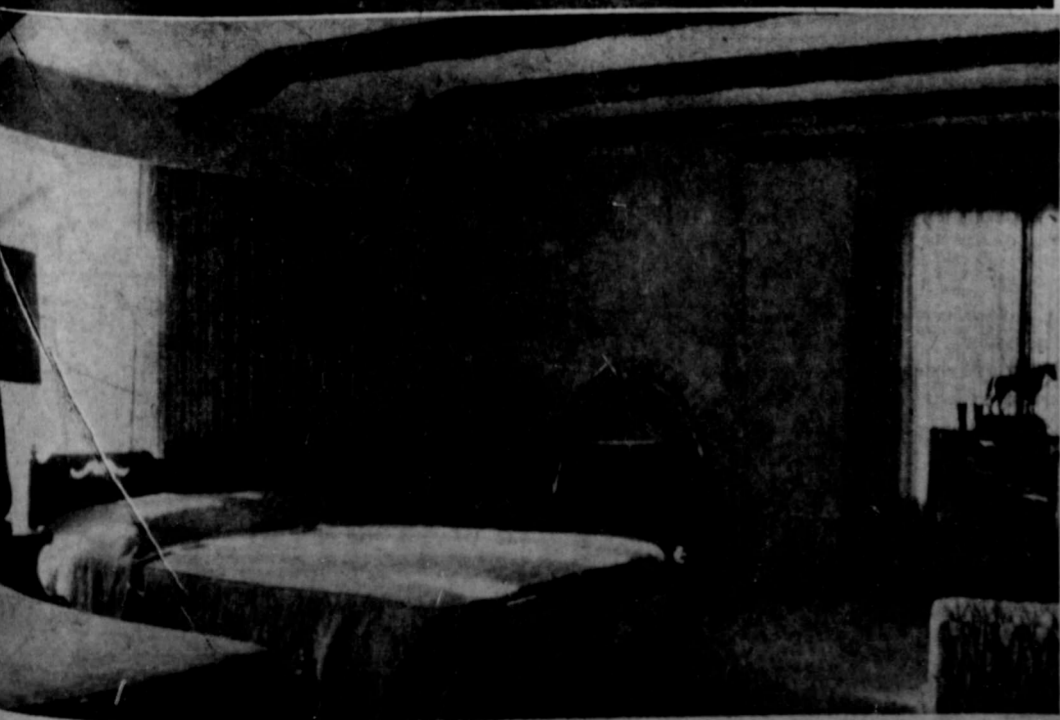

LEFT: THE KITCHEN, dining room, and what the Jacksons call the family room, stretch along the east, or back side of the house from the double garage, which opens to the kitchen through a utility room with large amounts of storage space. The kitchen is done in shell pink, with a large window overlooking the patio, and features convenient built-ins for compactness. It is separated from the dining room by a cabinet area, paneled with walnut on the dining room side. Dining room furnishings are walnut. The room is glassed-in from the patio.

LEFT: AN ATTRACTIVE chandelier overhangs the dining room table. The dining room is separated from the family room by a slit bamboo screen, just as the family room is partially separated from the living room by a portable screen, as part of the "open" design of construction.

RIGHT: LOOKING FROM the family room into the dining room one sees the open arrangement of this part of the house. The dining room is separated from the hallway that leads to the bedrooms by a panel of walnut built-ins.

BELOW LEFT: THE COMFORTABLY furnished family room is glassed-in from the patio on the east. A broad raised-hearth fireplace, trimmed with burnished bronze stretches diagonally along the other side of the room and features a built-in TV set in the pink sandstone fireplace structure. Walls, ceilings and carpets throughout the living portion of the house are of a very soft desert green.

ABOVE: MRS. JACKSON stands proudly by one of the movable bamboo screens that augment the open design of the living area. At her right is the built-in TV at one end of the fireplace structure which separates the family room from the living room.

RIGHT: THE GUEST ROOM is done in pink with shell gray furnishings. The adjoining bath is in matching colors. Large corner windows lend a light, pleasant atmosphere to the bedroom.

Russians Show 'B' Line Fashions, Admit Western Influence In Styles

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest from Paris may be Dior's "F" line, but Soviet dress designers last week came out strongly for a "B" line. Their new spring models allow ample room for bosom and beam.

They resemble American-made stylish stouts. The buxom mannequins at Moscow's Dom Modelle—house of models—stress the natural line by wearing low heels and omitting girdles.

Before the spring showing opened, the director of Dom Modelle made the surprising disclosure that Soviet fashions are influenced by the West. He said the Soviet Chamber of Trade buys models from France and Britain and from other European countries for reproduction in Soviet factories. Moreover, he said, the designers here study Western fashion magazines carefully.

His statement was supported by the most exciting model in the spring show—an adaptation of a butterfly-sleeved dinner dress that was a highlight of the Fath collection in Paris last fall. A sharp eye also can detect Balenciaga influence in tweed coats and suits, including such details as below-the-waist belts popular in France a year ago.

Soviet designers clearly have no illusions about the average figure they are dealing with. Most of their spring numbers are loose fitting, raglan sleeve styles suitable for size 40. The only dress with a nipped in waistline has zippers on both sides for easier exit.

Dom Modelle is a center for the 16 fashion houses in the Soviet Union and has the most important influence on what the Russian woman will wear. Its models are reproduced in factories, workshops and the sitting rooms of neighborhood seamstresses. They also can be copied by the wearers themselves.

Fashion-hungry Russian women turned out in subzero weather to see the latest show. Huddled in shawls and boots, they watched stoically and offered no applause, although they did gasp with pleasure at the Fath-like dinner dress. It was one of only two formal in the collection.

They snickered at a white wool wrap that can be transformed from coat to cape by pulling out the sleeves.

Styles for men and teen-age girls were shown at the same time. The latter were attractive imaginative and well fitted to the superior figures of young girls. Western influence is strictly restricted in men's clothes, the tight jackets and wide trouser bottoms still prevailing.

The first successful helicopter flight in the Western Hemisphere was made by Dr. Igor Sikorsky at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1939.

Court Hearing Set On Future Of State Waif

TUCUMCARI — A court hearing has been scheduled Monday to decide the immediate future of little Jimmy Trout.

He is the 3 1/2-year-old who was found whimpering and cold in front of a filling station near Montoya.

Miss Eloise Cardullo, superintendent of the Happy House, handicapped children center of Elmore, Del., Friday identified him positively. She has sought to return him there while the search for his parents, charged with abandonment, continues.

But Dist. Judge J. V. Gallegos said he would rather learn more about the Delaware institution before making a final decision on the case. He accordingly set the hearing date for Monday.

The child is a ward of the state courts and there has been comment that perhaps the court would be reluctant to release him until his parents are located. The Wilmington, Del. couple has not been heard from since they left there Feb. 17.

Backstage New Mexico

By The New Mexico Staff of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In simple terms, how does a weatherman go about the business of forecasting?

"Did you ever ask a doctor to explain to you in simple terms how he goes about practicing medicine?" That's the country question of Supervising Forecaster Howard E. Hutchinson of the U. S. Weather Bureau's regional office in New Mexico.

In other words, there is no simple explanation for why the weather bureau predicts a big storm which fails to develop—or fails to forecast a real lulu which flows full blown in a matter of hours.

At best, a weather forecast is nothing more than an estimation, Hutchinson says. There is no law that requires weather to do what is predicted by the weatherman. No estimation can ever be exact. Forecasting the weather is a task full of complexities. And the U. S. Weather Bureau has done everything known to man to remove the complex factors and undetermined quantities by extensive training, use of experienced personnel and by taking advantage of the most modern instruments in this scientific age.

As an example, every man on the forecasting staff of the regional office in Albuquerque has been at the business at least 10 years. Three of them—Hutchinson, E. O. Mox and R. S. Murray—have been at the weather bureau for a quarter of a century each. They are surrounded by training, experience, instruments and yet:

"It's still a glorified guessing game," Hutchinson says.

One of the traps into which weathermen fall, the official contends, is basing forecasts on what happened before under similar circumstances.

A few weeks ago the bureau forecast a heavy storm for New Mexico and issued blizzard and severe cold warnings. Nothing happened.

"We're still trying to figure out that one," Hutchinson says. "The signs had all the earmarks of an earlier storm which was really a storm."

Then there is the factor of how much people who really watch the forecasts and who have a lot at stake on the vagaries of the weather want to be warned. There is a tendency, weathermen say, to give the worst picture possible so that people can be prepared—and be happy if the worst never happens.

The weathermen themselves say no one should take a single forecast as gospel.

Most of them are on a fairly long range basis—say 24 to 48 hours in advance. They are based on what the forecasters—with a given set of conditions—think will happen a day or two days later. But there are too many factors involved—factors which can change in a matter of minutes or hours—to say "this is absolutely it."

The weathermen also say those who really take the forecasts seriously—who base economic loss or travel or something else on the weather—should take care to follow the weather closely. Hutchinson says each succeeding forecast may show a change in the picture and those interested "should keep abreast of all new editions" of the forecasts.

"No matter what you say about the weather forecasting business," Hutchinson says, "it's going to be over-simplification."

The wind blusters so hard and long across Carrot Flats in the Bluewater area that special arrangements had to be made by the Copper Mining Co. to weigh railroad ore cars and trucks hauling uranium into the firm's big uranium mill. The company had to build windbreaks around the scales. "We have about seven months of heavy wind," says mill manager Jack Knaebel. "If we didn't have windbreaks, we never would get the scales settled down so we could take a true reading."

IKK MERRY, secretary-manager of the annual Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial at Gallup, says one of the main purposes of the event is "to stiffen the tribal identity of the Indian peoples who take part in a losing battle against the overwhelming American drive to integrate them into our common melting pot."

"No one denies," Merry says, "that acculturation is taking place and will continue from now on at even a greater rate than before, nor would anyone want it any different as long as the Indian can hew out a sound and respectable place in American life and not have to suffer economic and social disadvantages because of lack of opportunity."

"Twenty-five years from now the Ceremonial may be hard pressed to find tribal groups with sufficient knowledge and interest in the dances and costumes, but this part of Indian civilization would disappear a lot faster without influences like the Ceremonial tending to slow down the tempo."

"The Indian picture has always been confused by people who couldn't decide whether the Indian should remain an aborigine or become a college professor—or worse, by those people who want him to be both at the same time."

"The Ceremonial is the Indians' show and everything is subordinated to that fact."

Ever wonder what a stripper thinks about when she's busily engaged in her act?

"Music," says a tall brunette who recently left Albuquerque for higher-paying Denver niteries.

"It's like this," she says. "When a reporter writes a story, he does not think about the mechanics of typing, does he? No, he thinks about what he's got to say. It's the same thing. You think about what you've got to do, not the mechanics of it."

So now you know.

People who are supposed to know and who prefer to remain nameless, say there is a quiet move under way to replace U. G. (Monty) Montgomery as executive secretary of the New Mexico High School Activities Assn. Just who is heading the move and what it means is hard to figure out. It's all pretty vague right now, but it's a historical fact that the association, governing body for the state's high school athletics, changes—for one reason or another—its executive secretary for a new model every two or three years or so. Montgomery has had the spot for about three years, succeeding Morris Ward of Roswell.

During the recent, hard-blowing dust storms that hit the state, one New Mexico newspaper had only one brief, poetic comment to make "Ah, spring."
