French Woman Scientist Dies

PARIS (AP)—Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, Nobel prize winning physicist and daughter of the discoverers of radium, died Saturday. She was 58.

She died in a Paris hospital. The announcement did not disclose the cause of death. She was the daughter of Pierre and Marie Curie, who gained world renown with their discovery of radium.

After World War II both Mme. Joliot-Curie and her husband were widely criticized for alleged Communist activities.

The French government ousted her from its atomic energy commission in 1951. Her husband had been removed as head of the body a year earlier because of his Communist associations.

In 1954, the American Chemical Society rejected Mme. Joliot-Curie's application for membership on belief she was a Communist.

When she was detained briefly at Ellis Island in 1948 upon her arrival in the United States for a lecture tour she said she was sympathetic to communism "in many things," but she denied she was a Communist.

During World War I, Mme. Joliot-Curie worked with her famed mother in doing X-ray work for the army. After the war she assisted her mother in giving courses in radiology to nurses and American officers.

Later, with her husband, she concentrated on research into radioactivity of various materials.

Mme. Joliot-Curie was the author of 54 scientific books. One of her principal works was the "Chemistry of Natural Radio-Elements." She was a member of the Legion of Honor.

Joe Gant Calls Precinct Meet

Joe Gant, Democratic chairman of Precinct No. 1 in Carlsbad, has called a meeting of Democratic precinct committeemen for Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. The meeting will be held in the district court room.

Gant said in a special release last night: "We are issuing a most cordial invitation to all county Democratic candidates to attend our precinct meeting. Each candidate will be introduced and will be asked to speak briefly on platforms or public issues."

Gant said that the public is also invited, but the invitation is especially extended to Artesia candidates.

HUGE CROP PLANTING IS FORESEEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unless farmers change their plans before planting time, they are likely to turn in another bumper harvest this year.

This prospect came in an Agriculture Department report late Friday. It indicated farmers on March 1 will plant 352 million acres. That would be about three million acres less than last year.

The Eisenhower administration has expressed hope of getting a cutback of at least 35 million acres. It is trying to reduce production and to make openings in the market for government-held surpluses which, officials say, are depressing farm prices and incomes.

Such a reduction is the goal of a soil bank plan recommended by President Eisenhower early this year and included in an omnibus farm bill now before the Senate.

In forecasting this year's acreage, the department said, however, that there still is a possibility of getting a larger reduction if the soil bank legislation is enacted before spring planting is completed. Planting gets into full swing next month.

Under the soil bank plan, the government would make payments to farmers for reducing planting of surplus crops.

No forecast was made on the possible volume of production from the prospective acreage, but with favorable weather it could easily (Continued on Page Four)

Junior High Band Takes Top Honors

The Artesia Junior High School band, under the direction of Herbert Beasley, yesterday walked away with Division I (excellent) ratings in all three judgments at the Southeastern District Band Festival here.

The Artesia Senior High School band, directed by Justin Bradbury, took Division I ratings in two categories of judging and a Division II (good) rating in the other judging for an overall Division I rating.

Twelve hundred musicians representing 21 bands took part in the Festival. Nearly 2,000 people attended the performances, which were held at the Junior High School.

Besides the bands, 300 soloists and ensembles vied for honors. Instrumental solos included piano, strings, woodwinds, brass, percussion and twirling events.

Outstanding in the Artesia High band performance was a Div. I rating in sight reading. High School bands were required to sight read and Junior High bands were not. While sight reading the bands performed from music they had never seen before.

Schools were classified according to enrollment based on a national plan of classification: Class A, high schools with more than 750 students; Class B, high schools with from 500 to 750; Class C, high schools with from 250 to 500; Class D, high schools with fewer than 250 students; Class E, Junior High schools; and Class F, elementary schools.

Complete results of band ratings are as follows: Class E bands, Eisenhower Jr., High School, Carlsbad; Div. I, Alta Vista Jr. High School, Carlsbad; Div. II, South Roswell Jr. High, Div. III, North Roswell Jr. High, Div. III; Clovis (Continued on Page Four)

PARIS (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet's government put its new emergency powers into swift effect Saturday night, ordering two mechanized divisions airlifted to Algeria to fight the Nationalist revolt.

All available aircraft were directed to the emergency airlift of crack troops from West Germany to the fighting front.

Naval vessels were ordered to give the air force a hand. The Mediterranean fleet was put on a warlike footing to help guard Algerian coastal cities.

The swift action was taken under the emergency powers bill authorizing stern military, economic and administrative measures in strife-torn Algeria.

RED GEORGIANS RESENT ATTACK ON DEAD LEADER

LONDON (AP)—Stories seeping through the Iron Curtain of riots in Soviet Georgia and of denunciation of Stalin as a murdering, blundering psychopath apparently upset the Kremlin's top lieutenants here Saturday.

News dispatches from Western capitals and official diplomatic advices here and in Washington told a shadowy story of attempts by Russia's new leaders to blacken Stalin's memory.

These were reported to have triggered disorders in Georgia, the dead dictator's birthplace. Nine persons were reported killed on March 7 while protesting the anti-Stalin campaign.

Details differed but all reports MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats recently returned from Stalin's native state of Georgia said Saturday students demonstrated there but emphasized the situation is well under control.

They said the demonstrations took place in Tiflis, capital of the Georgian Republic. They added that the situation presents no threat of any kind.

agreed that Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist party boss, was leading the showdown effort to destroy the myth of Stalin as an infallible genius in order to bolster the new "collective leadership."

Soviet chiefs in London, including the deposed premier, Georgi Malenkov, showed nervous surprise, apparently because the reports were leaking to the West at this time.

Malenkov, for years Stalin's secretary, now is touring Britain in his role as Soviet minister of electric power stations.

He was in Moscow Feb. 24 when Khrushchev was said in the reports to have made his attack on the dead dictator at a secret session of the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party. Presumably Malenkov knew all about it.

However, some of the reports said Malenkov was mentioned by Khrushchev in the attack as the man who kept him from reaching the dictator when he wanted to get more guns for the Ukraine during the war. Khrushchev presumably was primarily responsible for dropping Malenkov from the premier's job a year ago.

Lights were burning past midnight in Malenkov's room at the Soviet Embassy, and a Soviet official said he was pouring over translations of the stories in the British press.

During the morning secretaries scurried in and out of the embassy in London's "Millionaires' Row."

Malenkov finally showed up two hours late for an appointment to visit a British power plant. He gave an explanation. Soviet officials nearby always make a point of being punctual.

Soviet Ambassador Jakob Malik, who was reported pouring over the reports with Malenkov, canceled at the last minute another of his conferences with Shuichi Matsumoto, the Japanese envoy, on a Soviet-Japanese peace treaty. Malik said his duties in escorting Malenkov kept him too busy.

Mills Attends Governor's Talk On Recreation

Vernon Mills, superintendent of schools and chairman of the city recreation committee here, yesterday attended a Governor's Conference on Recreation at Santa Fe.

An estimated 300 persons attended the all-day governor's conference, which dealt mainly with ways to spend the one-cent-a-pack cigarette tax.

Gov. Simms told the group that a proper recreation program for juveniles would prevent delinquency. He said he soon will appoint a statewide recreation advisory committee to aid counties and municipalities with recreation programs.

State Comptroller D. M. Smith Jr. said "everybody wants to have something to say about how to spend this cigarette tax money." He said this was precisely the reason advance planning is necessary.

The afternoon's main speaker, Dr. Charles Brightbill, said the state "has a responsibility to help its political subdivisions in recreation because recreation is essential to the well being of the people of the state."

Brightbill, professor of recreation at the University of Illinois, echoed Gov. Simms, however, in saying that while the state must do all it can to aid recreation programs, local communities must be allowed "full autonomy in developing their programs."

The conference was called by Simms to answer questions of community leaders and officials about the cent a pack tax. At last count, counties and municipalities had been paid more than $300,000 from (Continued on Page Four)

Britisher, Greek Killed Ambush

CYPRUS (AP)—A British soldier was killed and seven others were wounded Saturday in outbreaks of violence on this Mediterranean island.

A bomb hurled at an army vehicle and village on Rizokarpaso peninsula of northeast Cyprus killed the soldier and wounded two others.

The soldiers were wounded in an ambush by pro-Greek Cypriots the snow-covered Troodos mountains. One of the rebel band was killed.

Troops cordoned off seven villages in the mountains and began systematic search for the band. Fought Saturday night saved the lives of two of the five British Commandos who were wounded in the ambush. Emergency operations were performed.

The bitterness of Greek-speaking Cypriots in their campaign for union with Greece has grown ever since the deportation of their leader, Archbishop Makarios.

They took the lives of 18 British soldiers in a year.

The ambush Saturday was laid in a hairpin curve in the 6,400-foot high Troodos Mountains, 59 miles southeast of Nicosia. As a commando patrol was turning the bend, guerrillas threw bombs into the ranks and followed up with automatic weapons.

NEW MEXICO CITY LEADS AGED TO CONTENTMENT

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES (Special)—For a nation with an ever-lengthening life span and an increasing multitude of "problem" old folks, this New Mexico city is blazing a trail.

It is showing the retired and the aged how to find contentment. It is banishing fears of boredom and loneliness for those who don't know what to do with science's precious gift of increasing longevity.

The city's population is only 4500 but approximately 10,000 old folks visited here in 1955 to mingle in the atmosphere of cheer and usefulness which pervades the city, located just east of the Continental Divide at the foot of the huge Elephant Butte Lake. The average stay was about two months.

Many of the city's 4500 have settled here in retirement. There are the Lincolns and the Cadillacs, but many have limited means and find the city ideal for their pocketbooks.

Although the city is known for its mineral water and baths, there is no one single factor responsible for the wholesome and satisfactory view toward old age.

Part of the spirit of Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children has caught on. The city's population views no one as a "handicapped person." Folks with crutches and arthritic pains are commonplace and they aren't pampered. They open their own doors. In the freshness of the average octogenarian's viewpoint, they become self-reliant, confident and independent.

A brisk woman in her sixties, who arrived here 10 years ago deformed and crippled with arthritis, now runs a restaurant which meets the demanding requirements of a major truck stop.

Another arthritic victim opened a shop for rockhounds 15 years ago with $28 capital, and the business is now a large and successful curiosity shop.

An energetic widow in her mid-seventies recently finished a housing development and runs a minnow business. A retired priest makes stained glass windows.

Headquarters for the city's retired folk is the Recreation Center, where they have "more fun than young folks." Here they enjoy the simpler pleasures of cards, shuffleboard and dancing.

The dances twice a week provoke no cardiac cases but old folks who haven't danced in 40 years find themselves doing the Paul Jones and Ten Pretty Girls. One old-timer of 82 does a "cane and crutch" Irish jig. Uncle Johnnie at 94 is a regular. The spirit is astonishing to those who think the end of the world came with their last pay check at 65.

These people have not lost the "gift of aimlessness," described by E. B. White recently in Holiday Magazine in an article entitled "A Stratagem for Retirement." "They have learned how to enjoy leisure. There is little of boastful talk and tall tales too often associated with the old timer. No vain, tedious and rambling accounts of personal exploits. The man with the 11 oil wells or the retired farmer with his eye on the hog market doesn't look or act any different than the rank and file.

As Mrs. Dora Howe, the attractive manager of the Recreation Center, says, "These folks simply take life as it comes and enjoy it one day at a time."

A unique organization is the Indoor Sports Club composed of polio and arthritic victims. They meet regularly and have well-planned meetings for their wheel chair circle. Another set of old-timers gathers for a musicale, in which all participate.

Romances flourish. The Recreation Center has been dubbed "the merry" center.

Certainly a part of the picture is a character known as Magnolia Ellis, whom thousands visit annually. A tall, impressive woman, Magnolia is known far and wide for her "magnetic" touch which "gives a warm feeling deep down." Daily she treats from 100 to 300, and there is much talk of her power.

Climax for the winter season comes annually with the Ralph Edwards Fiesta. The popular radio and television star in 1950 offered to plug the town nationally if it would change its name from Hot Springs to its present name, Truth or Consequences, same as the name (Continued on Page Four)

Bulldogs Lose One, Win One In Triple-Game Round-Robin

In their first play of the season here Friday night, the Bulldog nine dropped one game and won one during a triple-game round-robin tournament with Roswell and Carlsbad. The 'Dogs lost to Roswell 4-1 and walloped Carlsbad 3-0 in five-inning games. The third game was between Roswell and Carlsbad. Coach Jack Barron said he is real pleased with Friday night's showing. "It looks like a real team," he said.

The sale of season tickets apparently has helped, and interest shown by townspeople has put new life into the boys," he said. The coach said that in spite of the cold, Friday's crowd was the biggest ever to show for a high school baseball game here and that he hopes for an even bigger turnout next Friday to see the Bulldogs battle New Mexico Military, the first home game of conference play. Coach Barron said that season tickets are still on sale and will

Jim Holt, running third, gave Jon Totz, Longhorn anchor man, a 15-yard lead by the time Griffin received the baton to start the final quarter mile. Griffin was only five yards behind when Totz broke the tape for the record that erased a 3:16 time urned in by the Aggies in 1951.

Possible To Pick 'Carriers' Dwarfism Say Researchers

Twenty-one agricultural colleges and Experiment Stations have been on the cattle dwarfism problem, but it's a long way from solved," Dr. L. P. McCann, director of research for the American Hereford Association, told researchers at the first Cattle School held recently at New Mexico A&M College.

Researchers have not found the gene to the livestockman's big question of how can I recognize dwarfism? No physical characteristics that will help carriers have been found.

"But work is being continued throughout the United States," McCann said, "is an effort to find a hereditary factor for dwarfism. If two carriers are mated, there will be an average of one normal and three normal appearing animals out of four calves, one of the four calves, on the average, will be carriers like their parents."

When a carrier bull is mated to a normal cow, an average of 50 per cent of the offspring will be carriers and 50 per cent normal, research has shown. However, a carrier never produces unless mated to a carrier.

McCann said, "is a result of a simple recessive inheritance factor. Researchers desire to draw as a semi-lethal animal. Most die at birth or soon after. Some live two, three or four years. They have a severely developed physical abnormality such as an extremely short head, a dish face, protruding tongue, bulging eyes, a middle, unsteady gait, and breathing. However, not all these characteristics occur in dwarf. Production of dwarfs is limited to any type or size of carrier."

Palace Drug Monthly News

A message from Fred and Jim, 'Your Pharmacists'

IN ANCIENT DAYS, Pharmacy was practiced only by priests. All forms of the healing arts were connected with religious rites.

DURING THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY, Pharmacy, the science of compounding, dispensing, and protecting medicines, became separate from the practice of medicine, which is the science of treating disease and the preservation of health.

NOWADAYS, A PHARMACIST must study four years in college of Pharmacy, and pass a state examination before he can receive a license to practice pharmacy. Modern pharmacy, is becoming so technical, that it has already been ruled that in the future it will be necessary to increase the College of Pharmacy requirement to five years of study.

PHYSICIANS, PHARMACISTS, AND RESEARCH SCIENTISTS are the health team that works together to keep you healthier longer. As your pharmacist, we will always cooperate in observing the strict requirements of our profession, and keeping informed of all new progress.

Dozen Foods In Heavy Supply Make Plentiful List For Month Of March

More than a dozen foods are in heavy enough supply to make the March plentiful foods list for the Southwest, says Miss Ruth Sneed, extension specialist in food marketing information at New Mexico A&M College.

Pork... full pig crop, 12 per cent larger than last year, starts to market... will be increased by marketings of additional breeding stock caused by a probable downturn in fall farrowings.

Beef... plenty of long fed steers still coming to market as cattle on feed estimated at 5.8 million head, 1 per cent larger than a year ago.

Broilers and fryers... show increase of almost 50 per cent over March, 1954.

Rice... sharp increases in carryover more than offsets reduction in production, leaving supplies high in excess of anticipated domestic and export use.

Potatoes... salable stocks run about 17 per cent above a year ago... with heaviest supplies in the eastern states, lightest in this area. Fresh and processed grapefruit... last crop report shows increase of a million boxes above previous month, bringing output to 46.2 million boxes. Processed supplies heavy.

Canned and frozen cherries... canned red sour cherries totaled 1,697,026 cases, largest December 1 holdings on record. Prices remained below any recent year except 1950-51 season. Frozen red cherry stocks stand near 69,000,000 pounds compared with nearly 61,000,000 a year ago.

Dates... harvest delayed due to weather conditions, so they missed bulk of holiday market. Crop estimated at 16,500 tons compared with 15,400 in 1954 and average

Know-How Reports Highlight Annual Feeders' Day Meet At University

The recent annual Feeders' Day at New Mexico A&M College featuring scientific and practical "know-how" on livestock feeding attracted more than 300 livestock men from New Mexico, Texas, and adjacent areas.

Following are highlights of some of the reports:

J. H. Knox, head of A&M's Animal Husbandry Department, reporting on the testing of rations for wintering stocker cattle told the group that a light ration of 1 pound of cottonseed meal, 8.2 pounds of cottonseed hulls, and 4 pounds of alfalfa daily proved to be the most economical winter ration for stocker cattle. Cattle receiving a more liberal ration which included grain, made greater gains, but feed costs were about three cents higher per head per day.

P. E. Neale, professor of animal husbandry, said lamb feeding trials at A&M had four objectives: to test cubes with varying amounts of alfalfa; to find out what effect vaccination had on overeating; to test the effect of aureomycin; and to ascertain whether it was advisable to feed lambs the first 15 days while getting them on feed.

His conclusions were that it cost less to put a pound of gain on lambs fed 80 per cent alfalfa cubes. Lambs not vaccinated and fed aureomycin had a d e slightly larger gains than did vaccinated lambs with or without aureomycin. Neale said the aureomycin increased rate of gain, consumption of feed, and cost of gain on lambs which were fed the 80 and 70 per cent alfalfa cubes, and increased rate of gain but decreased feed consumption and cost of gain on lambs which were fed the 60 per cent alfalfa cubes.

Feeding of hay for the first 15 days while putting lambs on feed was of no value.

R. L. Blackwell, assistant professor of animal husbandry at A&M said large type cattle gained faster than compact cattle, but there is no difference in feed requirements per hundred pounds of liveweight is also the same for the two types.

Beef Purchase Program Asked To Aid Drought-Hit Ranchers

FORT WORTH (AP)—Resolutions asking a beef purchase program and other government emergency programs to aid drought stricken ranchers were adopted at the closing session of the Texas and Southwest Livestock Raisers Association here Wednesday.

All of the resolutions, which association officials said were recommended to prevent cattlemen in the region from being forced into bankruptcy, were passed without a dissenting voice.

The resolution asked: That the government institute a program for the purchase of beef, with particular emphasis on beef furnished by cattle in the drought area.

That in the drought stricken areas the government soil conservation program be operated on a plan that would not require the soil owner to match the government's contribution because the landowners are financially unable.

That the emergency program with reference to livestock feed in the drought area be liberalized and expanded. The great need in that area being protein feeds.

That a liberal and practical program for long term financing of people engaged in agriculture in drought areas be developed by government agencies, liberalizing their administrative procedures and reducing interest rates.

The association also authorized appointment of committees to study the beef grading system and to work with the Texas Agricultural Water Committee. The group

Work Is Part Of Life

A GOOD MANY of us who have been successful life have adopted a policy regarding our children which is very commendable and yet we wonder whether it is wise or not.

For years now we have heard parents saying they want their children to secure good educations so they won't have to work as hard as the parents had to work.

What we are overlooking, of course, is that a good education does not eliminate work or hard work. It perhaps changes the kind and type of work done and increases the return but every field of endeavor today requires work, hard work and plenty of it.

The professional man has to work long hours and hard to attain success and to do a good job. That is true in all fields of effort.

In connection with this desire we have as parents we want our youngsters to have more than we had as young people. That is fine, too. However, it appears we have made things too easy; we have given too much; and we have gone overboard on our philosophy.

There was a day and a time when parents stood behind school teachers finding it necessary to administer punishment to those needing it. Often times the parents administered some punishment, too.

But today we all feel our children can do no wrong and that the teacher or school official is wrong. We refuse to discipline our own children and we do not want anyone else disciplining them.

That, of course, is a serious mistake because we have to be disciplined in this life we live. There are many things we can do. We have to take things whether we like them or not. We have to fit into society and we have to live in keeping with the rules, laws and regulations that society sets up.

Some of the problems that arise today in and outside our schools will disappear when we as parents recognize that discipline of our child or children is a good thing and when we realize that youngsters are mischievous and they do get into trouble and they do take advantage or impose on others.

We need to recognize they must develop and have respect for private and public property and they must have respect for authority.

A good many of us can eliminate problems occurring in school if we will take the side of the teacher and school officials instead of only of the pupil or our child or children.

the tax. It is earmarked specifically for juvenile recreation.

Among the questions answered by Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter R. Kegel on the legal aspects of the tax was that the funds must be spent by the governing body of the county or municipality, and not by an organization or committee designated to handle recreation affairs.

He said another statewide meeting might be held before the next Legislature to suggest any additional legislation which may be needed.

He also said a major error could be made if too much money is spent on recreation facilities, leaving little or none to operate the facility. In this case, Kegel said, the community winds up with a "recreational slum."

Simms said it is economically advantageous for New Mexico to develop recreation programs.

"Good recreational facilities and service attract tourist and new businesses," he said.

"If our recreation program keeps only a few boys and girls out of trouble it will be well worth our effort—and well worth the extra penny spent for each package of cigarettes sold in New Mexico," Simms added.

Huge Crop-

produce a harvest approaching last year's near record output.

The report showed livestock feed grain crops may furnish the major part of the total reduction in acreage from last year's level. But an indicated cutback of 2,900,000 acres in corn would be far short of a 10 million acre reduction sought by the department.

An oversupply of feed grains has been blamed for increased production of hogs and a consequent sharp decline in returns from meat animals in the politically important midwestern farm area.

Besides corn, the planting survey indicated smaller acreages this year for oats, barley, rice, potatoes, sweet potatoes, peanuts, dry beans and tobacco.

Increases were indicated for spring wheat, soybeans, hay, sorghums, dry peas and sugar beets.

In an action-packed five-hour Cabinet session, Mollet and his minister for Algerian affairs, Robert Lacoste, pushed through a series of decrees under the emergency law.

The Cabinet dodged an immediate decision on the touchy problem of 86 Nationalist guerrillas who have been captured, tried and condemned to death. They have appealed for clemency.

The French and European community of Algeria has threatened a massive "strike" or demonstration if the sentences are not carried out within a week. Nationalists warn that execution will touch off a merciless campaign against French settlers.

Many French officials feel the situation in Algeria is too explosive to carry them out now.

The clemency appeals are before Rene Coty, president of the republic, who three weeks ago requested the Cabinet's advice.

Realtors Code Of Ethics Provide For Exacting Demands of Profession

"The exacting demands of those with real estate problems—the need for the integrity and special skills of a professional—are met by Realtors—Those pledged to an Established Code of Ethics." Don Jensen, director of the New Mexico Association of Real Estate Boards and treasurer of the Artesia Board of Realtors, said today.

"The board leader's statement was issued in connection with Realtors' Pledge Day during the current observance of Realtor Week. The local board is joining with hundreds of other similar boards during this period in acquainting the public with the services of realtors—those who are members of these boards and of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"More and more," Jensen said, "the intricacies of buying and selling real property for others require the abilities of professional persons—those who have proven competence and have publicly avowed to serve all in fairness. In the real estate fields, such persons are realtors.

"Realtors are real estate brokers—with something added. Realtors, besides meeting state eligibility requirements for all brokers, pledge themselves to abide by a code of ethics, far more demanding in daily dealings than the law governing brokers.

"This is the pledge that is taken by all brokers who join a local real estate board and the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Among other things, this pledge calls on realtor to act toward all in the spirit of the Golden Rule.

"The realtor's pledge to this course of conduct is assurance to those coming to him with realty problems that they will be protected in complex transactions—

Stalin Hatred Thought Useful To Khrushchev

WASHINGTON — The Khrushchev-Bulgarian regime in Moscow is believed to be playing upon strong hatreds of the late Josef Stalin among a great mass of the Soviet people to build up its own popularity and power.

The State Department and other government agencies are studying with fascinated interest the reports now coming out of Moscow through other European capitals. These reports say the new Soviet rulers have not only cut down the inflated reputation of the old dictator to normal size but have gone beyond that to denounce him as a murderer with an almost psychopathic conceit.

The State Department declined Saturday to comment, other than to say that it had received "rumors" about such developments inside Russia. The department has also received reports that in Stalin's home province of Georgia people loyal to his memory, apparently mostly students, demonstrated so violently in protest against the new Khrushchev line that troops had to move in.

No one here seems to know how much of the detail of these reports is really true. No one in the State Department could say for a fact that Khrushchev broke into tears several times while he was allegedly relating to other Soviet leaders how Stalin caused the death of one old comrade after another in his climb to personal power or how he nearly ruined the defenses of Russia against Hitler by purging 5,000 army officers just before World War II.

What is accepted as fact here is that the Soviet leaders of the new generation are completely bent upon destroying the Stalin myth and going back to Lenin for their political authority.

American experts say the explanation for their behavior is to be found in their own self-interest. Succeeding the ruthless, bitter Stalin they have now the task of entrenching their own power and leadership along new lines. They are trying to do this in part by capitalizing on the hatreds and resentments which Stalin's years of suppression created among the Soviet people.

Another point made here is that the switch from Stalin to Khrushchev need not necessarily mean any fundamental change in Soviet rule inside Russia. The argument for this view is that where all power was formerly concentrated in the hands of a single ruthless individual it is now concentrated in the hands of a few individuals. They appear at the moment to be less ruthless than their predecessor but their record has yet to be made.

American experts do say that the Khrushchev-Bulgarian crowd appear to be more practical in their approach to world problems. They seem to understand the modern world and its mass destruction methods better than the senile Stalin did just before his death. They are clever and resourceful men and since they are committed to a political system antagonistic to that of Western democracy they are all the more dangerous because they are clever.

ALBUQUERQUE — The City School Board has approved new school projects totaling 5 1/2 million dollars as "immediate minimum requirements." Included are two new high schools, two new junior high schools, three junior high school gymnasiums, two new elementary schools and additions to four elementary school buildings.

The pressure in the Stratosphere Chamber on the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md., changes from sea level to 70,000 feet above in six minutes. Temperature ranges from 55 to 90 degrees Centigrade in 45 minutes. The chamber is used to test aircraft instruments.

Local Doctor Asks: "Why Suffer With Sinus Trouble?"

Probably no condition is more common in this part of the country at this season of the year, and no condition brings more discomfort to the patient than sinus trouble. Sinusitis is an inflammation of the mucous membranes of the nasal sinuses. It is usually accompanied by headache and eye symptoms are also common. Chiropractic has been found the cause of sinus trouble is a nerve pressure due to misaligned vertebrae in the cervical region (neck). The pressure of the hard bones on the delicate nerves interferes with the normal nerve supply reaching the sinuses, resulting in sinus trouble. The Chiropractor is trained and equipped to locate this nerve pressure and remove it, thereby removing the basic cause of sinus trouble. Often relief will follow the first Chiropractic adjustment but in severe chronic cases more time is needed to make the correction. If you are suffering with sinus trouble, see your Chiropractor at once. Why suffer? For further information about Chiropractic in caring for sinus or other ailments, you are invited to consult Dr. K. Behnke Rains, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 420 W. Quay, Phone SH 6-3996. Advertisement

Backstage New Mexico

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The State Tax Commission, which sometimes resembles a flea going after an elephant in dealing with New Mexico's tax assessment problems, is getting up to do battle with a real jumbo.

With Chief Commissioner Clarence Forsling, an old-time forester himself, leading the way, the commission has undertaken a preliminary survey of the state's timber land with an eye toward getting more of it on the tax rolls.

A federal survey just completed estimates New Mexico to have a total of 3,735,000 acres of commercial timber land.

Some 1,733,000 acres of that land is privately owned. But Forsling said a preliminary count showed that less than 100 million board feet of commercial timber had been declared on the tax rolls out of a total of 3,503,000,000 board feet estimated to be owned by private owners.

The difference is obvious. More than two billion board feet of timber in the state isn't on the rolls, but getting it there is a difficult job.

In states where timber is a big business—Idaho, Washington, Oregon and so on—estimating the timber to be taxed is made simpler because every county has its timber cruisers, as well as the state.

These men do the estimating. The big timber companies, too, have cruisers who keep an accurate check on each stand.

In New Mexico, timber is a smaller business—although it is and has been an important part of the state's economy for many years.

Most of New Mexico's commercial timber is in Colfax, More, Otero, Rio Arriba, Sandoval, San Miguel, Taos, Valencia and McKinley counties. The state has large stands of pine, fir and spruce in addition to the commercially less-valuable, or of no value, juniper, pinyon and other scrub species.

The assessment on timber in New Mexico ranges all the way from 60 cents to $6 an acre. The land the timber stands on is assessed separately.

The wide variation in assessment is necessary because of the location, feasibility of marketing and grade among other factors, Forsling said.

He said he is hopeful that more timber can be put on the tax rolls and has started the ball rolling to that end.

According to the federal survey, federal timber lands amounted to 3,837,000 acres; state, county and municipal timber lands amounted to 163,000 acres and private lands,

1,733,000 acres. Counting all of them, the survey estimated there was 15,054,000,000 board feet of standing commercial timber in the state.

ON THE SUBJECT OF THE Tax Commission, Forsling's office is probably the only one in the predominantly Democratic State Capitol to display a picture of President Eisenhower. A color portrait of Ike hangs behind Forsling's desk. Balancing it, however, is a portrait of Democratic Gov. John F. Simms.

Things have quieted down in Mora apparently, and the small community north of Las Vegas has had the state patrolman temporarily stationed there withdrawn.

Last year a street-shooting resulted in a delegation appealing to the state to have a patrolman stationed in the usually sleepy little town. Patrolman T. J. Chavez went there in answer to the request.

Welfare Director Murray Hitz, a rabid prize fight fan, has a brother who is prominent in the game of Illinois. In fact, Edward Hitz, a Chicago bank executive, may be Illinois' next state boxing commissioner. He's been named as Gov. William Starton's first choice if the post becomes vacant.

John W. Gurley, statehouse lawyer and enthusiastic member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is a likely contender for the state presidency of that organization when it holds its convention this spring.

Gurley went to the Capitol from Carlsbad early in the Simms administration and for an interim period bossed the State Liquor Division. He later went to the Oil Conservation Commission as an attorney, a job he still holds. For a time he considered entering the Democratic race for attorney general but decided against that, on the grounds it would require too much time and too much money.

He and his attractive wife are the parents of four girls, including three-month-old twins.

CAPITOL WAGS are thinking of nicknaming Oliver C. Smith, the mystery man who wanted to run for lieutenant governor, "Typewriter" Smith.

For the benefit of the younger generation, the Oliver was a famous old-time typewriter. There was also the L. C. Smith. And the initial "C" in Smith's name, of course, could stand for Corona.

A mining man who was a great benefactor of New Mexico half a century ago with his vision of mass production mining of low grade ore died a few days ago in San Francisco. He was Daniel C. Jackling, 86, founder of the Utah Copper Co. and an internationally known mining engineer who controlled some of the world's biggest mining properties.

He was once the boss of Horace Moses of Santa Fe, retired one-time New Mexico general manager of the Kennecott Copper Corp. Only a few days before Jackling died, Moses—still scrupulously referring to his old boss as "Mr. Jackling"—was telling a party of newspaper men, touring the Grant County mines, interesting early-day stories about Jackling and how he was responsible for the mammoth open pit mining operation at Santa Rita.

State Tax Commissioner Dick Westaway may resign from the commission right after the primary elections May 8. Westaway is running for the Democratic nomination for Eddy County tax assessor and if he wins the nomination he will go ahead and resign the state post.
