14 Month Old Owen Turner back at home

Life Changing Moments

Owen was a healthy 8 month old boy. He was jabbering, cutting teeth and trying to figure out how to get two hands and two feet to move at the same time to crawl, and then a stroke took away his ability to use the right side of his body in a matter of minutes. Rushed to the ER his family is given the news that cuts through their heart. We are so sorry to tell you according to lab work, your baby has leukemia and a helicopter will take him to Cook Children's Hospital in Fort Worth. The next 5 days are a whirlwind of tests, tears, and love as doctors determine the type of leukemia Owen has and friends and loved ones join together to support this young couple and their only child.

Owen was diagnosed with an aggressive form of leukemia AML M-5 and the chemotherapy treatment would be just as aggressive as the disease. As with any medical treatment there were side effects that his little body would have to endure to rid him of this terrible disease and the chemo that went into his body to fight it. Always smiling and lighting up the hospital room that became his world. His whole world was confined to a room with a couch, a recliner, crib, toys, and TV in addition to all kinds of medical equipment. Owen was young enough to accept his surroundings and knew his mommy and daddy were always with him so he was safe and loved and welcomed nurses and doctors in with a wave of his fingers and a big, sometimes crooked grin.

Six months have passed and after being in the hospital at Fort Worth for 5 months and at St Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, the past month, Owen has been treated for this cancer, but his parents also chose to help other boys and girls by being a part of a treatment program through St Jude's that is developing a natural killer cell (extracted from the blood of a parent) treatment for AML.

Owen finally got the news everyone has been so anxiously waiting for and was able to return home with his parents on July 3, 2014. Owen is becoming a healthy 14 month old jabbering, cutting teeth and trying to figure out how to get his right hand and right foot to move like his left hand and foot does, but his family and friends surround him with love and marvel at the restoration of health inside this little body and believe his ability to walk and throw a ball with his right arm and talk will be the next miracles to be witnessed.

Although you are never ready for any tragedy, disease, or disaster to be in your life or those that you love, even in the midst of the trials, we knew then and know still that God is in control. As we look back over the past few months, we have seen so many miracles and lives that have been forever changed by the circumstances of the illness suffered by Owen Clay Turner. We thank God for all the love, prayers and support for our family and the strength that was received from each act of kindness.

There is always something good in every situation and every person and sometimes you have to look hard to find it, but through Owen's illness, we did not have to look, the Glory of God was and is shining bright and the song I keep playing over and over in my mind is "I will praise You in the storm"

We are blessed beyond measure by each of you and will never be able to express our gratitude so we will just keep our eyes open to the needs of others to pay it forward.

Journey of Hope cyclists stop in Cross Plains

The Journey of Hope cyclist groups made their way through the center of Cross Plains on Wednesday, July 2, 2014.

The Journey of Hope is one of the many Push America groups made up of members of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity. Each summer they cycle across the United States to raise funds and awareness for people with disabilities. While on their journey they will participate in various activities and team members are able to spread the message of understanding for people with disabilities across the country.

All of the groups that make up Push America's Organization believe and stand by the "People first language". By using "People first language" it puts the person before their disability, for example you may say "person with a disability" instead of "disabled" or "handicapped." By doing this it defines the individual first and foremost as a person and not by his or her disability.

Through fundraising and sponsorships this event alone will raise more than $600,000 annually. The money raised will help with camps for those individuals with disabilities, making community facilities accessible, and spreading awareness.

Their mission and vision is building leaders of tomorrow by serving people with disabilities today. Nick Brady, a member of the 2012 Journey of Hope said "As a team member, you often receive praise for "sacrificing" your summer for such a worthy cause. I have come to learn that we are not the ones that "sacrifice"; we are the ones that have the privilege to participate in such a unique opportunity.... I am confident that my teammates and I will continue to live out the Ideals of Push America."

Traveling in groups of 3 for safety these cyclists started in Long Beach, California on June 6th and have already cycled over 1800 miles. The team is made up of 27 cyclists of all ages and 11 crew members.

Cycling at a pace of 15 - 30 mph they will stop about every 10 miles to refill water bottles and take a small break. Churches, school gyms and sponsors will open their doors for these members to sleep, rest and shower.

The journey will end in Washington DC after traveling over 3800 miles.

Susan Hunter, Ice Cream Crank off Champion

Susan Hunter crowned Ice Cream Crank-off Champion

After passing through a panel of experienced Flavorologists and accumulating lots of little stickers in the People's Choice voting, Susan Hunter's chocolate / caramel/ pecan ice cream entry won her the coveted "Ice Cream Crank-off Champion, 2014" crown. With fluttering eye lashes, a practiced Miss America wave and gushy thank-you's, Susan thanked her adoring fans, posed for pictures and promptly put the crown back on the piano in the Fellowship Hall. Battered as the crown has become over the past five years, Susan figured it might become even more battered with her five grandchildren playing "let's see who can knock it off with water balloons."

Other special recognitions at the annual event at the First United Methodist Church went to Judy Porter with the "golden scoop award" for the most votes in the People's Choice category and to Judy Killgo with the "Flavorologist award," an antique pewter Baskin Robbins ice cream scoop.

Many certificates, suitable for framing, were awarded the other entries for flavors from the plain to exotic. The anonymous panel of judges were greeted with cheers and boos as they were recognized as Wimpy, Linda, Corey, Larry, Betty and Andy.

All in all, it was a wonderful afternoon of fun and fellowship as a large group gathered to celebrate July 4th a day late. But it's never too late to enjoy the truly American tradition of home-made ice cream and hot dogs.

Game Wardens arrest 58 Intoxicated Boat Operators during the July Fourth Weekend

Austin - Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens made 58 boating under the influence arrests and contacted some 30,000 recreational boaters over the July Fourth weekend.

Earlier, TPWD's Law Enforcement division participated in Operation Dry Water June 27-29 as part of a nationally coordinated boating under the influence (BUI) awareness and enforcement campaign. Game wardens continued their enhanced patrol efforts through the holiday as boaters enjoyed area waterways.

Over the three-day Operation Dry Water weekend, game wardens made contact with 22,732 recreational boaters, issued 1,147 citations and safety warnings and made 17 BUI arrests in an effort to raise awareness of the dangers of boating under the influence of drugs or alcohol. During the July Fourth holiday, game wardens made contact with roughly 30,000 recreational boaters and arrested 58 operators for boating under the influence. In addition, game wardens filed 39 minor in possession of alcohol cases and 8 drug related offenses.

"TPWD participates in coordinated efforts like Operation Dry Water, along with hundreds of other agencies nationwide, in an effort to reduce the number of accidents and fatalities we see due to boaters consuming alcohol on the water," says Asst. Commander Cody Jones, TPWD's boating law administrator. "Our goal is to educate boaters as well as remove impaired operators from the water in order to keep all other boaters safe."

Nationally, more than 550 local, state and federal law enforcement agencies from all 50 states and 6 U.S. territories participated in the 2014 Operation Dry Water effort. National results are still being collected and compiled, but in 2013, nationwide 6,219 law enforcement officers from 513 agencies and US Coast Guard units participated in Operation Dry Water. Officers made contact with 144,044 boaters, issued 17,159 citations and safety warnings, and made 290 arrests for boating under the influence.

Alcohol use is the leading contributing factor in recreational boater deaths. Since 2009, the year Operation Dry Water launched, there has been a 37 percent drop in the number of boater deaths where alcohol use was the known contributing factor, according to the 2013 U.S. Coast Guard Recreational Boating Statistics.

Local students attend Farm Bureau's 51st Youth Leadership Conference June 16th-20th

Attending the Texas Farm Bureau's 51st annual Youth Leadership Conference (YLC) held at Tarleton State University, June 16-20, were (left to right): Rebekah Crockett of Cross Plains, and Haylee Tingle of Moran, TX.

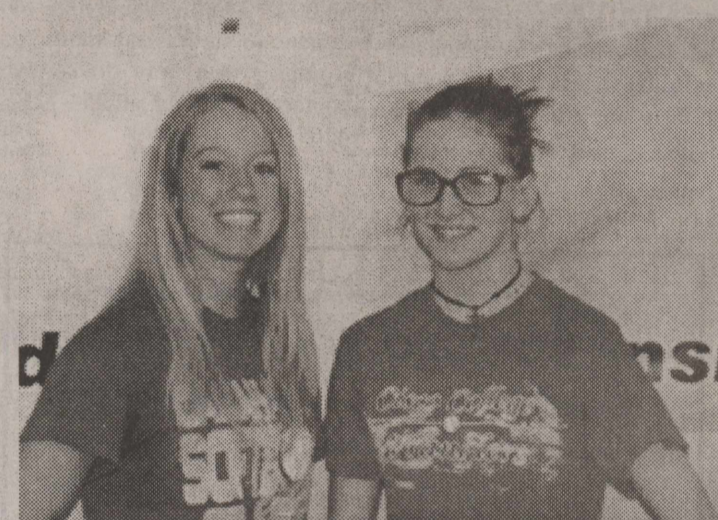

These students were sponsored by Callahan-Shackelford County Farm Bureau. They joined more than 305 high school juniors and seniors from over 120 counties across the state.

The purpose of the conference is to provide the students with a better understanding of their American heritage, the capitalistic free enterprise system, and to inspire leadership development, said Phil Williams, president of the Callahan-Shackelford County Farm Bureau.

During the weeklong event, three areas are emphasized: Patriotism, Leadership and Responsibility. Students discuss topics on the free enterprise system, the Constitution, money management, leadership and goal setting, and are encouraged to meet with school and civic groups upon their return home to share what they've learned.

"We are extremely proud to sponsor area students to attend this important program, which aims to encourage and develop the future leaders of Texas," Williams said.

Tarleton State University President Dr. Dominic Dottavio welcomed students to campus and Vernie R. Glasson, executive director of Texas Farm Bureau, presented "Farm Bureau - Your Host" at Monday's opening session. Dr. Ed Rister, Agricultural Economics and Entrepreneurship professor of Texas A&M University, presented sessions on "Basics of Free Enterprise," Ronald Trowbridge, former assistant dean at Hillsdale College in Michigan, presented sessions on "The Constitution," Lou Kennedy, a professional development consultant, led a session on "Professionalism in Life," and Gary Evans, a registered investment advisor, offered advice on "Managing Your Money."

Gary Montgomery, a motivational communicator and story-teller from Louisville, Kentucky presented sessions on "Public Speaking." Special evening events included a presentation on Tuesday by Damian Mason on "Humor for the Heart of Youth Leadership Conference: a hilarious look at the future of America and Agriculture" and on Wednesday a music/devotional performance by Mark Swayze. In addition, students participated on Thursday in a program called "Congressional Insight," which allowed them to simulate a Congressional office and election.

At Thursday evening's banquet, Gary Montgomery shared his personal message of "Living with an I CAN PLAY attitude!"

Students who complete the Youth Leadership Conference and have given a speech on free enterprise to at least five groups will have taken the first step toward qualifying for the Free Enterprise Speech contest, which awards more than $19,000 in scholarships. After qualifying, students compete at the district level and the winners advance to finals at the TFB Annual Meeting in Corpus Christi in December. The six state finalists will receive additional scholarships and an expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. with TFB representatives in the summer of 2015.

CPVFD Bake Sale and Cookout a Huge Success

The Cross Plains Volunteer Fire Department's Bake Sale and Cookout in front of Lowe's Market was a huge success.

Thanks so much to the ladies (and a few men) who brought us lots of cookies, cakes, pies, brownies, cobblers and other desserts. We had so many wonderful desserts it was hard for people to choose which ones they wanted!

The support of the community was fantastic. We sold out of everything-over 200 hamburgers, over 100 hotdogs and all the baked goods.

Thank you so much to everyone who baked for us, came by and bought something from the bake sale, bought a hamburger, hotdog, or sausage on a stick or gave us a donation. We really appreciate your support. Thank you also to Lowe's Market and to Rusty Reed for their help with the event.

BLOOD CENTER MEEK Blood Drive in Cross Plains on July 15th At First Baptist Church in Cross Plains! Donors will receive a patriotic T Shirt A Community blood drive will take place at the First Baptist Church on Tuesday, July 15. The Meek Blood Center bloodmobile will accept donations from 1:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. "Sixteen people attended the last blood drive in Cross Plains, which took place on May 20. We would like to see that number double are asking donors to please remember that the need for blood is constant. Even the regular of blood donors get busy in the summer with vacations and other activities and forget to donate blood. Blood donation only takes about an hour, and that hour could give someone else a lifetime," said Frances Baker, donor recruiter for Meek Blood Center. Changes have been made to streamline the screening process and some previous restrictions regarding medical conditions and medications have been lifted. Those who have eligibility questions can speak with the Meek Blood Center Supervisor at 325-670-2880. Each donor will receive a patriotic T Shirt and a complimentary total cholesterol test.

Cottonwood News

By Beverly Brown

We've had many, many reports of Copperheads being spotted and killed in the area. Please keep an eye out for them and other snakes.

Family and friends of Ray Dodd gathered to celebrate Ray's Birthday on Saturday. Among those attending were Ray's 93 year old mother - Alliene Wangertine of Kellar, Ray's sister Ruthie Keys and husband, Bob of Kellar; Ray's daughters: Angela Dodd and her daughter Josie both from Oklahoma; and Christi Dodd and new son Tristan from Little Rock, Arkansas; Ray's granddaughter Sammy; and Charles Wood and a bunch of other friends and relatives. Mrs. Loffner baked Ray a German Chocolate Cake for the celebration and his granddaughter Sammy baked a Chocolate Cake.

Everyone had a great time at the Bake Sale and Cookout at Lowe's Market on July 4th. It was so good to see so many folks from Cottonwood. Joe, Deana and Kathleen Terstegge, Roger Hinkle and Robert Simons cooked the burgers and hotdogs. I helped with the Bake Sale, along with my daughter Teri and Alton and Lisa Bell. Thanks to all the ladies who baked for the sale. We had so many wonderful things. Holly's Sopapilla Cheesecake was a big hit. Mrs. Goddard, the Peach Cobbler was wonderful!

Charlotte and Alton Haston, Jayce and Mathew and Jayce's fiancé Logan Rowlan of Jacksboro; Andrew and Zipporah Albrecht and Avery of Lake Worth; Emma Sue Albrecht and Mara of Fort Worth visited with their mother Barbara and Donnie Worley, and their brother Carlisle and Summer Albrecht and family and Gayla and Lee Creamer. They also attended the Albrecht Reunion over the weekend.

Attention Teen Readers

The Cross Plains Public Library will host a Boys' teen book discussion on Friday, July 18, from 5-6pm with free pizza and drinks in the library's conference room. Boys can pick up a free copy of "Seeing Red" by Katherine Erskine, about a boy who loses his father and has some tough choices to make, weighing tradition with morality. Teens aged 13-18 are invited to join.

Previously, a separate girls' book discussion was held about "He Texted: The Ultimate Guide to Decoding Boys" by Lisa Winning and Carrie Henderson McDermott.

In August, both girls and boys will read Veronica Roth's "Divergent" and then watch the movie on Friday, August 15, with popcorn, soda, and "movie theater" snacks served. Each participant in these programs will be entered in a drawing for 2 movie passes to a theater in Abilene.

Texas Spotted Whiptail

The Texas Spotted Whiptail (Cnemidophorus gularis gularis) is one of eleven species of "racerunners" that live in Texas, and it arguably has the largest area of distribution. It can be observed statewide, save for a small portion of the Texas and Louisiana border, and the northern-most section of the panhandle. It also occurs to the north in the southern 1/2 of Oklahoma, west to southeastern New Mexico, as well as southward to the central portions of San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

The habitats that this elegant lizard prefers are arid to semi-arid grasslands, rocky arroyos, and rocky hillsides. They are most common on sandy soil where there is a sparse covering of shrubs and trees. They are also commonly observed near residences and in parks where there is ample moisture from irrigation.

The Texas Spotted Whiptail is an elongated reptile that is covered with small granular scales of equal size along its back and sides. It is one of the larger whiptail species that occur in Texas, with adults reaching a total length of one foot, although the average is between seven and nine inches. The background coloration is tan or brown, and the back is adorned with either seven or eight light stripes that run lengthwise from the neck to the tail. These lines can be white, yellow, or occasionally faint green. There are numerous light spots that appear in random order in between these light stripes, giving this animal the common name. The long tail, which can be up to 65% of the animal's total length, is either brown or orange in coloration. The belly scales are much larger and plate-like in appearance, and in females are light in coloration. Males have dark blue-black mottlings on the belly and orange chins during breeding season.

Texas Spotted Whiptails, like other lizard species, are "cold-blooded", or ectothermic. This means that they do not generate heat from the inside of their body, as mammals and birds do, but rather are dependent on outside sources for heating and cooling. They are active throughout the day from March to Noember, and unlike many other reptile species, the high metabolism of this lizard enables it to be observed during the hottest part of the summer afternoons.

This species of lizard is a dietary generalist, feeding on both animal matter as well as plant material. The term for this is omnivorous. It feeds primarily on small beetles, ants, grasshoppers and other arthropods, but it will occasionally feed on certain leaves and flowering blossoms like the dandelion.

The Texas Spotted Whiptail is oviparous, which is a fancy way of saying that it lays eggs. After emerging from the winter-long brumation period (reptiles do not hibernate in the true sense of the word), males will search out females to mate. After mating, the female will lay a small clutch of eggs (between two and six) in moisture retaining soil. Older, large females can lay two to three clutches of eggs per summer. After approximately two months of incubation, the delicate four inch long young emerge prepared to fend for and care for themselves.

These lizards are nervous and can be quite wary. They are constantly on the move, foraging for food in the ground cover and loose soil. Occasionally they will stop to bask in between meal items, but their metabolism is such that they will begin to forage within minutes of stopping. Their movement is based on short bursts of speed, rarely more than a few feet at a time unless they feel threatened. Look to observe this speedy lizard in and around city parks and nature trails.

Governor Perry issues proclamation on law prohibiting employment discrimination

TWC's Civil Rights Division celebrates 50th anniversary of Civil rights Act of 1964

AUSTIN - Today marks the 50th anniversary of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which was signed into law by Texan and then-President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The Act prohibits discrimination in public places, provides for the integration of schools and other public facilities, and makes employment discrimination illegal.

In honor of the 50th anniversary of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Gov. Rick Perry issued a proclamation commending the Texas Workforce Commission's (TWC) Civil Rights Division (CRD), which is tasked with enforcing employment and housing discrimination laws.

"Fifty years ago, President Lyndon Baines Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964, prohibiting discrimination in the workforce based on an individual's race, color, religion, sex or national origin," Gov. Perry said in his proclamation. "Building upon this foundation, the Texas Legislature later passed the Texas Commission on Human Rights Act, codifying our state's commitment to protect the public from employment discrimination.

In the years since, the Texas Commission on Human Rights and Texas Workforce Commission's Civil Rights Division have worked diligently to ensure equal employment opportunities for all Texans."

Commissioner Thomas M. Anderson, chair of the Texas Commission on Human Rights (TCHR), the oversight board of the Civil Rights Division at TWC, echoed Gov. Perry's sentiment: "The Civil Rights Act of 1964 grants all Americans the right to live and work in this country without being subject to discrimination. In Texas, TCHR is committed to enforcing federal laws, as well as state laws, including the Texas Fair Housing Act and the Texas Commission on Human Rights Act, to ensure that our citizens' fair housing and employment rights are not violated."

TCHR is comprised of seven members appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Texas Senate. Its members are: Chair Anderson, Toni R. Glover, Veronica V. Stidvent, Michelle H. Diggs, Sharon Breckenridge Thomas, Shara Michalka and Danny L. Osterhout.

Congressman Conaway visits here before 4th of July celebration

Republican Congressman Mike Conaway, who represents 29 counties in West Texas, including Callahan County, dropped by the Clyde Journal newspaper office Thursday, July 3rd, during his Independence Day tour of District #11.

Conaway represents 29 Texas counties, including the cities of Midland, Odessa, and San Angelo. His District #11 runs from the state line to the west to Granbury to the east and south to Llano.

A CPA in Midland, Conaway represents 698,488 residents in West Texas.

A business partner in the 1980's with George H.W. Bush, Conaway said he was appointed by Governor Bush for seven and one-half years to the State Board of Accountancy.

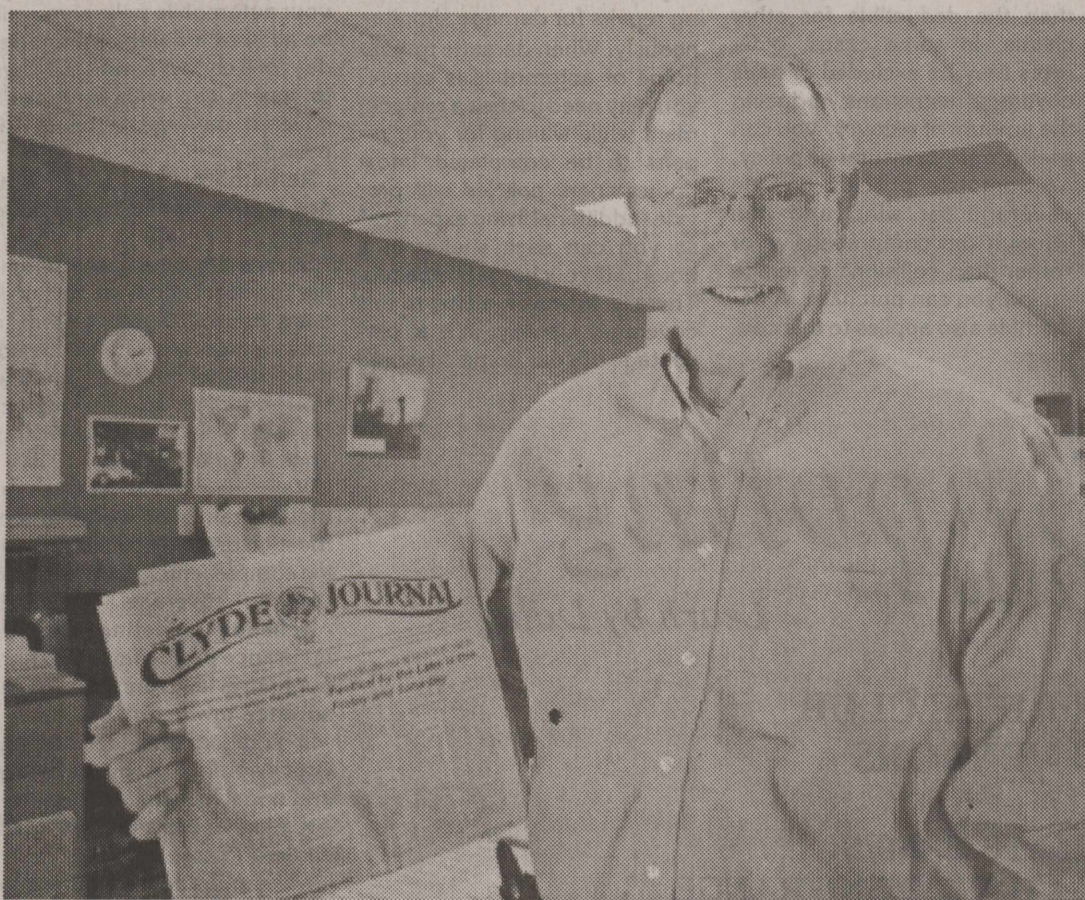

Conaway first ran for the office of United States Congress in 2002 in District #19. Of a total of 17 candidates for the office, Conaway said he lost the runoff election for the District #19 seat in June 2002.

The congressman said, despite losing in the runoff election, he kept campaigning for office and won the primary and general election for District #11 in 2004.

Congressman Conaway is currently Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee in Washington, D.C.

Of several hot topic issues facing West Texas and the nation, Congressman Conaway said of the immigration and in particular illegal children entering Texas, he said President Obama's immigration policy has failed the U.S. He said the United States needs to send a clear message that illegal children entering the US should be deported immediately.

Congressman Conaway said until then, the US value system demands we care for these illegal aliens. "This should not be a direct burden on Texas," Congressman Conaway said of the costs incurred in caring for illegal aliens. He said the US needs

CONGRESSMAN VISITS CLYDE—United States Congressman Mike Conaway visited several communities, including Clyde, just before the Fourth of July celebration last Thursday, July 3rd. Congressman Conaway said he would appear in the Granbury Fourth of July to begin deporting some folks, so these misguided immigrants know they've been misled.

On the subject of energy, Congressman Conaway said that energy has been a boon for Texas. Conaway said three bills concerning energy policy before the House of Representatives include the policy of the EPA on fracing technology, a bill on exporting liquefied natural gas to build LNG terminals more quickly, and the third bill concerning to reduce the amount of time for drilling on federal and private lands.

Congressman Conaway said that energy will continue to grow in the US, despite the energy policies of President Obama. He said all three bills have been approved by the House and await Senator Harry Reid's decision on whether to bring them before the US Senate.

On the issue of water, Congressman Conaway said we must keep the federal government out of Texas. "This should be solved at the local and state level," Congressman Conaway said. He said the only water issues that should be brought before the federal government is along the Rio Grande and the treaties with Mexico and any policies which include underground aquifers which cross over several states. He said the current Farm Bill requires the US Secretary of State to discuss the water deficit with Mexico along the Rio Grande and to update parade on Friday, the 4th of July, before heading back to Midland to spend the holiday back home.

Congress concerning the issue. On the subject of Sergeant Bowe Bergdahl's release arranged by President Obama, Congressman said the release was at too great a cost for the United States.

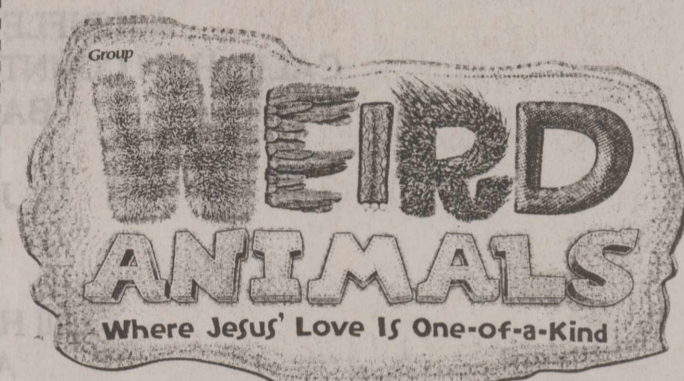

Congressman Conaway said he has attended the funeral's of all US servicemen from his District #11 killed in Iraq and Afghanistan, including Staff Sergeant Michael Murphrey's funeral in 2009 in Clyde, and he wants the military investigation concerning Bergdahl's disappearance and capture continuing. He said at the least, the US should talk to Bergdahl's unit members and update Congress now.

Fred and Josie Davis of San Marcos, have land south of Cross Plains, and find time each month when they are in the area to bring special food items for those who receive home delivered meals or eat at the Cross Plains Senior Center. Vivian Wooten accepts the donations, appreciative of their generosity.

Prepare Yourself and Your Insurance for Storm Season

July Consumer Tips from the Independent Bankers Assoc. of Texas

By Carol Troy

AUSTIN, Texas—Statistics from the National Weather Service report total property damage from weather events in 2013 at $8.8 billion, down from $32.8 billion in 2012 and $20 billion in 2011. July brought the most weather related deaths for the past two years with 103 in 2013 and 156 in 2012, mostly related to tornadoes and extreme heat. Weather patterns are constantly changing, and although we cannot predict what the future holds, we need to protect our loved ones and property as much as possible. Below are tips to consider to prepare for storm season.

Know what your insurance covers, don't be caught without adequate coverage.

Check your policy to see what's covered and the expenses you'll be expected to pay. While most policies provide coverage for windstorm damage, you will be responsible for a deductible and it's often one percent or more of your home's value, which could be substantial. Wind and hail deductibles may be even larger than the deductible for other claims. In some cases, older roofs may be excluded or have coverage restrictions, reducing the amount of recovery you can seek from your insurance policy.

Automobile policies provide coverage for wind and hail through the comprehensive or "other than collision" coverage option you can purchase. A deductible also applies to this coverage.

As storms can affect many people at the same time, you may be one of thousands seeking repairs for damage simultaneously. When damage to your home or automobile is severe, you may need to seek a replacement while waiting for your repairs to be completed. Most homeowners policies will provide "additional living expenses" so you can seek shelter in a hotel until your home is repaired. There is, however, a limit to this coverage. Usually, it's a percentage of your home's insured value. If you have elected to purchase rental reimbursement on your automobile policy, you will be allowed a dollar amount per day for a certain number of days to rent a car while your car's covered damage is being repaired.

Remember that flood damage is only covered by a flood policy.

Storms often bring the potential for flooding. When a hurricane causes flooding from a storm surge, your homeowners policy will not cover the damage from flooding, so seek protection with a National Flood Insurance Program policy.

Water damage to your automobile can be covered under most insurance policies providing comprehensive or "other than collision" coverage.

Schedule a meeting with your insurance professional to thoroughly review your current insurance protection.

In addition to understanding your insurance policy, below are additional measures to consider

- When possible, park your car in a garage or shelter.
- Clean up debris and secure outside items that could become flying missiles in high winds.
- Back up computer records and store the back-up in a secure place. Consider keeping duplicates.
- Gather important papers, including deeds, titles, inventory lists and insurance information and store them in a waterproof environment. Keep electronic copies as well.

• Know your community's evacuation plan and when the authorities ask - evacuate!

• The next time you replace your roof or windows, consider using materials that are designed to withstand high winds or are impact resistant.

Most importantly, always keep your family and pets safe from the elements of weather!

Texas Comptroller Susan Combs designates Deputy Comptroller Martin Hubert to Key State Water Post

Texas Comptroller Susan Combs announced today her designation of Martin Hubert, Deputy Comptroller of the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, to the State Water Implementation Fund for Texas (SWIFT) advisory committee.

The committee will oversee $2 billion in investments and spending by the Texas Water Development Board. In November, Texas voters approved the transfer of these funds from the state's Economic Stabilization Fund to SWIFT. The constitutional amendment, known as Proposition 6, helps Texas finance projects in the state water plan.

Under state law, Combs was authorized to designate a person to serve on the committee.

"I am pleased to designate Martin to the SWIFT advisory committee as our growing state looks for ways to meet future water demands of residents and industries across Texas," Combs said. "With more than 20 years of state service, including serving as the Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture and a Commissioner of the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Martin will utilize his unique understanding of water issues and the state's financial mechanisms to help Texas position itself for the future."

Hubert, a graduate of Texas A&M University, St. Mary's University School of Law and the Georgetown School of Law, also served as general counsel to Lieutenant Governor Bob Bullock. He is the author of the 1999 Texas Tech Law Review article "Senate Bill 1 - The First Big and Bold Step Toward Meeting Texas Future "Water Needs."

Lend a Hand to Stop Elder Abuse & Neglect Adult Protective Services urges Texans to get involved to stop self-neglect

May is Elder Abuse Prevention Month. It's a good reminder for all Texans to look out for and to help those in our communities who are elderly or have disabilities. After all, it's everyone's business to stop adult abuse, neglect, and exploitation.

"I think that a lot of people may not realize that one of the most common situations APS encounters is adults who are neglecting themselves," said Beth Engelking, DFPS assistant commissioner for Adult Protective Services. "When people with disabilities or the elderly become ill or depressed, sometimes they can no longer care for themselves. Sometimes they quit trying. That's when others need to step in."

APS is joining with many community, civic, and professional groups during May to raise awareness and understanding about adult abuse and neglect through conferences, presentations, and other events.

Learn about more events in your area at HYPERLINK "http://www.Everyones-Business.org" EveryonesBusiness.org, and please share them with your friends, neighbors, and colleagues.

Last year, APS completed 69,383 investigations involving people living at home and found that 48,392 of them were victims of abuse, neglect, or exploitation. Self-neglect was at least one factor for most of those victims.

"APS' job in self-neglect situations is to connect victims with services that can help them meet their basic needs," said Engelking.

Often, APS clients are victims of more than one type of abuse or neglect. Learn more about how to recognize adult abuse, neglect or exploitation at HYPERLINK "http://www.EveryonesBusiness.org"

State law requires anyone who suspects abuse, neglect, or exploitation to report it to the Texas Abuse Hotline at 1-800-252-5400 or online at HYPERLINK "http://www.TxAbuseHotline.org"

Jason, Christina and Dianne Leubert of Corpus Christi.

Pre-holiday visitors to Museum

Passing through Cross Plains from exploring the Carlsbad Caverns to their new home in Corpus Christi, Jason Christina and Dianne Leubert stopped to visit the Robert E. Howard Museum last Thursday. Jason has long been an avid reader of Howard's writings and is gradually getting his wife and mother interested. The evening before their stop here, they had viewed the movie, "the Whole Wide World" that features Howard's friendship with local English teacher, Novalyne Price during the last two years of his life. Jason has been teaching art at the 5th grade level in Snyder and Christina was the art instructor at the Western Texas College there in Snyder. In Corpus he will be teaching art classes at a middle school and she will get her studio in hopes of selling her paintings at the professional level.

Jason's mother, Dianne shared that her greatest claim to fame is serving on the city council and is currently the Mayor Pro Tem of Kingsville.
