

Cisco Nursing Center Acquires New Baldwin Piano

The newly acquired Baldwin studio piano, now sitting pretty at the Cisco Nursing Center, will be enjoyed by many people for years to come if the Lord doesn't come first. How did it all begin? Who caused events and people to work together for good?

First of all, we give honor, glory and thanksgiving unto the living God, who gives us richly all things to enjoy. (1 Timothy 6:17) Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and came down from the Father of lights. (James 1:17) It is the Lord, our Creator, who first saw the need for another piano and moved through many people to supply this great need. This new piano is a gift from God through the compassionate people of Cisco to the residents of Cisco Nursing Center.

How did it begin? Mrs. Ina Hart, a well known and beloved lady of our town called Betty Hastings and asked, "What do you know?" She said, "The Lord is good." Mrs. Hart replied, "I know the Lord is good. What else do you know?" Mrs. Hastings answered, "The Cisco Nursing Center residents need another piano. The one they have will not hold a tune." The spark of love caused Mrs. Hart to say, "I have the first $50 for another piano. Get out there and tell the people and they will help too."

Mrs. Hastings called Mae Green of the nursing home and shared this spark of interest. Soon many hearts were united to work toward the same goal. The Lord brought together the people He desired to use to accomplish His purpose and plan. A special piano for very special people also was being provided for in just the right time.

Jerry McBeth, a daily visitor and volunteer of Cisco Nursing Center, expressed his desire to help with this same purpose.

Several days later when Lloyd London was told that

Accomplishments

By DeLores McCulloch
As the school year 1983-84 ends, the Cisco P.T.O. is proud of their accomplishments. We had much success with each of our projects and also with our membership drive. We have the Cisco caring public to thank for this.

Each of our schools was able to benefit because of the money that was raised. We also raised enough money to pay half of a concrete slab which we hope will be built in the near future at the Intermediate School.

Our hats are off to you Cisco for making P.T.O. such a success in the 1983-84 school year.

another piano was needed at the nursing home, he showed great interest and volunteered to help with finding the right piano. He became the mediator between the owner of a piano company and the people who were now working together for a united cause.

As the desire to have a piano progressed, Nila Jones came to the nursing home one day and stated to Mae Green, that if everyone would give $1.00 it would be no problem to get enough money to purchase another piano.

The First National Bank allowed us to place a poster and container in the lobby to pursue this plan. Eva Humphreys and Jerry McBeth took turns as representatives.

Mrs. Ruth Sanders sent $5.00 all the way from Temple, Texas.

The volunteer council, nursing home and other interested persons hosted a garage sale which was very successful. The total price of the piano was $2195.00. We were given $695.00 for the old piano. We now owe a balance of $84.50 on this piano. Great things can be accomplished when people can work together for a common goal or purpose.

God Bless all of you for your cooperation.

The High Cost of Salvation

JULIA WORTHY

It is told that years ago in a poverty-level neighborhood—and The Depression, most of the neighborhoods I knew anything about were definitely poverty-level—one of the black ministers preached a powerful sermon on Salvation.

Salvation, the preacher told his congregation, is free! And he extolled salvation, the glories and the freedom thereof. At the end of his stirring oration came the passing of the collection plate.

The offering did not weigh down the plate-passer, and as one ancient unknotted the corner of her handkerchief to get at her mite, she grumbled aloud.

"Preacher, I though you just tol' us all about salvation bein' free."

"Oh yes, ma'm! It's free. Salvation is free! But you got to pay for piping it to you."

I hadn't thought about that tale in years until I read a story in a city paper the other day that curled my toenails clear back to my instep.

Fact is that a whole heap of my ideas are not just outdated; they are both quaint and antiquated.

The monies paid to grown men and women for playing games has long been a touchy subject with me, but I have managed not to lose any sleep over it.

What shook me up was reading an account of two undergraduates who are ministerial candidates—a formality only (the "mere" kind) as I read it. They will be preaching.

One of them was raising Cain because the other has signed a three million dollar contract, and the same agent has negotiated only two million for the howler.

I do know churches have moved into the big business arena with tax-free this and that. Have I been ostrich head-in-the-sand ignorant all these years?

I expect I have been worse than ignorant; I didn't pay attention to what I knew. I did not want to, I suppose, because I was comfortable with all the messages in the air that a little box like the radio could pick up and repeat.

Aimee Semple McPherson made me uneasy about her financial arrangements with her Four-Square Gospel. If it seems odd that I thought about money in relation to religious radio program at that age, it was a time when all ages thought a lot about money, especially if it was lacking.

Aimee managed to make me uneasy about gospels as well as money, and that's about the time I began paying attention to what the history books said about separation of church and state.

I've always favored supporting the Constitution. Now, I'm not so sure. On the whole, the church seems a better business than the state. They haven't racked up billions of debt-dollars for children and grandchildren to pay. No one is banging on college doors with three million dollar contracts for a potential president.

These youngsters may be in the genius class, but in history the genius does not have that great track record in dealing with the common man.

How many of humanity's real problems have these fledgling ministers faced?

One year, a delicately nurtured youngster in the pulpit of the church we attended gave a "beautiful" sermon on "Sin." As we filed out, I spoke to an older member of our assembly, "What did you think of the sermon, Miss Anne?"

"Humph!" she snorted. "He doesn't know enough about sin to talk about it."

That is the point that frets me, I think, about these youngsters. Not that I don't think anyone can't be an accomplished sinner at any age. But what about love, hate, hunger—body and soul—depression, compassion? Living is much more than sinning or abstaining from sin.

4 To Attend 4-H Retreat

Four to attend District 4-H Council and Leader Retreat in Brownwood. April 13th and 14th two 4-H council

I have thought about these young men, maybe too much. I don't like what I think, nor do I like the idea that I am over-reacting. I am perturbed. Why do I keep thinking about thirty pieces of silver?

Fall Leader Extravaganza.

Other activities include speakers such as: H.T. Davison, Texas 4-H Program Leader and topics of Looking Your Best, Group Dynamics and Role of the 4-H Leader Association in County 4-H Programming. Friday evening there will be a time for recreation and fun. The conclusion of this event will be the installation of officers for District 4-H Council.

Ferguson Family Has Baby At Home In Scranton

An unusual birth happened in Scranton, south of Cisco on January 31, 1984. Misty Ferguson a daughter, was born to Pam and Bobby Ferguson. They already had a son Jake, age four. But the difference in this birth was that Pam decided to have their child at home with an attending midwife. But the midwife was late and Bobby Ferguson delivered their child instead.

Style Show Set

April 14 At Cisco

1st Baptist Church

A style show will be presented for the public Saturday, April 14th at the First Baptist Church 202 W. 9th in Cisco. The show will be from 3:30 till 5:30.

The show will be sponsored by Kid's Country and Little Shoes. Both businesses are located in Cisco. They specialize in children's clothing and shoes.

Nancy Bacon, owner of Little Shoes, said children from Cisco, Eastland and Ranger will be modeling. The public is invited.

fault" stated Pam, a LYN at E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital. "We just waited too long to call her, and Misty was born about 45 minutes before she arrived."

The midwife, Angela Blahak, R.N. from Abilene has been seeing Pam first monthly, then bi-weekly and then weekly during her pregnancy. Angela says she will not deliver a baby if the mother smokes, doesn't eat right or drinks alcoholic drinks. If any complications arise during the pregnancy she makes the mother go to a doctor or if the baby is 2 weeks early or 2 weeks late, the mother has to see the doctor. Pam also had to see a local doctor first before going to the midwife. He said he did not agree with Pam using a midwife.

Ms. Blahak says that most of the babies she delivers are from poorer families or somebody that doesn't have insurance. The savings are in the area of about $1,000.00 if there is no insurance. Also, no insurance covers a delivery made by a midwife.

But Pam and Bobby have insurance, enough to cover the total cost of the delivery, hospital and doctor. "We would have come out ahead financially to have had Misty at the hospital," said Bobby. But they decided to have their child at home as women have done in the past until about 35-40 years ago. Pam had their first baby without any anesthetic at E.L. Graham Hospital four years ago. Bobby was in the delivery room with her during that time.

Pam said at one time that she had almost decided against it but when she said something to Bobby, he said that he figured she wouldn't do it, then she knew she would!

Pam started having light pains early Tuesday morning, but she did her shopping, saw the midwife that day and walked around the Mall of Abilene for a while and then came back home. She called Cindy Westerman and asked her to come over. Cindy and Pam graduated together from Nursing School at Cisco Junior College. Then she started getting things ready for the birth.

Cindy and Bobby wanted to call Angela Blahak but Pam didn't want Angela to have to stay there for hours so she told them to wait. "I was in labor for six hours with Jake. I just didn't think there would be any rush to get the midwife here," added Pam. Bobby decided to call her anyway, but it would be about 1 1/2 hours before she could get there.

Pam was in labor for about 1 hour when she realized that the baby was going to be born soon. "You should have seen the look on Bobby's face when I told him he was going to have to deliver the baby," laughed Pam.

"It was like a three ring circus with Cindy, Jake and me running around getting everything we needed," said Bobby. "The best thing about the delivery at home is that after the birth the baby is not rushed off to the nursery. You can touch her and look all you want to."

During the delivery, Pam saw Jake blowing bubbles with his bubble pipe at the end of the bed. He was unconcerned about the whole thing.

When asked if they would ever have another child this way, Pam was undecided. "I don't know about myself but I don't think that any woman who is having her first child or if she had any trouble having other children should even attempt it," she said.

An hour and a half after Misty was born Pam was sitting at the kitchen table drinking a cup of coffee.

Homemaking Hints

SMALL HOUSEHOLDS SAVE ON FOOD BUYING COSTS

People living alone pay more than twice the per capita food costs of four-member households. The reason for this is that most singles - and couples - buy small quantities at a time. Typically, the bigger the package, the lower the unit cost. So small households pay more per serving.

Also, according to the Food Marketing Institute, 40 percent of all shoppers are men. Some of these men are smart buyers, but many could save by shopping more carefully. Employed women may also tend to buy food impulsively and expensively when they could save more.

Many people resent the time it takes to shop. But if you organize yourself, it can be done quickly and pay off in smaller grocery bills.

Just shopping for groceries instead of eating out saves money. The average home-prepared meal costs one-third less than equal restaurant meal. Even frozen gourmet entrees and dinners from the supermarket will cost less than similar choices in a restaurant.

That doesn't mean you have to give up restaurant dining. But you can keep the restaurant choice for when you need it most and not when you're simply unprepared to eat at home.

Couples and singles don't have to choose between time and money. Instead, try some of these strategies:

- Invest in a microwave oven so you can cook and reheat food rapidly.
- Or think about each evening's dinner before you leave for work in the morning. Move the food you will need from the freezer to the refrigerator to thaw for quick cooking when you get home. Just be sure to use the thawed food right away.
- Avoid the small-cost-more trap. Buy larger sizes, then cut or divide and freeze or store in meal-size portions. You save on shopping time, as well as money.
- Don't feel like you have to cook everything. Vegetables, for example are delicious and nutritious served raw or barely cooked.
- Use quick cooking foods, like fish, or quick-cooking methods such as stir-frying.
- Save money by buying a small roast and slicing it into steaks.
- Prepare enough of a main dish to make two or three meals. Freeze extra portions in freezer-to-oven containers for future meals. That way you'll spend less on convenience foods.
- Cook potatoes, rice, dried beans, carrots and other foods in double amounts. Store servings for a second meal in the refrigerator.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK:
Strawberries are now plentiful and what a delicious treat for the family! If you have never prepared a fresh strawberry pie, try it and your family will love it!

FRESH STRAWBERRY PIE

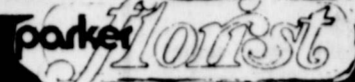

- 1 cup water
 - 1/4 cup cornstarch
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 small pkg. strawberry jello
 - 2 cups fresh strawberries, sliced
- Boil water, cornstarch, and sugar until thick. Add jello and strawberries, pour into baked pie crust. Refrigerate. Serve with whipped cream topping.

Early April is the time for ranchers in Eastland County to beware of oak bud poisoning in livestock.

Oak bud poisoning is a problem each spring because winter weather reduces range forage quality. Also, these conditions will slow spring growth of forage plants.

Oak buds are high in protein and begin growth before most desirable forage plants. They are readily eaten by livestock, especially cattle.

Tannins which are thought to be the toxic substances involved are most poisonous when oaks are budding and leafing. When more than 50 percent of an animal's diet is oak, the animal becomes sick. A diet of 75 percent or more usually causes death.

Sings of poisoning are a gaunt, tucked up appearance; constipation, frequently followed by profuse diarrhea; weakness; tendency to remain near water; reluctance to follow the herd; emancipation (wasting away); mucus in droppings; dark-colored urine; and collapse.

Move animals showing symptoms to an oak-free pasture and put them on adequate feed and water. A supplemental feed containing 10 percent calcium hydroxide may help reduce losses.

However, prevention is a better cure for oak bud poisoning. Control oak in a pasture and save that pasture as a reserve grazing program to improve range and forage production.

Consult a veterinarian if you are unsure of the cause of livestock poisoning and losses.

Weeds cost ranchers many dollars in lost production each year because they rob desirable forages of moisture and nutrients.

But herbicides can reduce those losses.

Range weeds could be a serious problem in Eastland County this spring because of the poor condition of our range grasses. Each rancher needs to check his rangeland now to see if he has a weed infestation.

Ranchers that find heavy weed infestations on their ranges should consider control measures. Broadleaf plants such as distaff thistle, annual broomweed, camphorweed, ragweed and others should be the target for herbicide control.

Use of the herbicide 2, 4-D in early spring provides excellent control of most annual weeds. Weeds should be growing rapidly and the herbicide should be applied before they flower. Ranchers may use 2,4-D amine in areas that receive more than 25 inches of annual rainfall, while 2,4-D low-volatile ester should be used in areas of less rainfall.

To control harder-to-kill weeds, a dicamba-2,4-D mixture or a picloram-2,4-D mixture is effective. Dicamba (Banvel) and 2,4-D may be tank mixed, or a dicamba-2,4-D mixture (1.3 ratio) is commercially available under the trade name Weedmaster. Likewise, picloram (Grazon PC) and 2,4-D may
