D&H Enterprises Devises Children's Storage Chest

A Cisco couple, Harvey and Dixie Hull, have devised a children's toy storage chest that will quickly con-

HALL OF REMARKS

By HERREL HALLMARK

WITH A LOT of talk still going on about the train-truck accident in Eastland last week, a lot of thinking has been done on how lucky the entire area was that there were no tragedies. Also area officials have been praised for their quickness in getting people out of the area and keeping people from the scene.

A timely article appeared in the May edition of The Electric Times, a magazine published for employees of West Texas Utilities. It is entitled: Bystanders Can Turn Bad to Worse.

Fortunately, in the Eastland accident there have been no reports of bystanders getting in the way. However, the article helps you to know how to react in the future if another catastrophe happens.

The article is as follows:

Curiosity seekers at the scene of an accident have made a bad situation worse in literally hundreds of cases by causing more mishaps — braking suddenly, parking unsafely or walking around in the way of professionals trying to help — according to the National Safety Council.

Many times onlookers themselves are hurt by the misfortune they are gawking at. An accident scene is a dangerous place for a curious onlooker to tarry. The sooner you can get away, the safer you'll be.

Still, there may be times when you can be of genuine assistance and perhaps save a life. It's important to judge when and to know what to do. Too many variables make it difficult to set hard and fast rules, but experts agree on this general advice:

1. If you are first at the scene, park carefully, well away from traffic, and do what you can to help. If you're trained in first aid, treat the injured to the best of your ability. If you're sure you can do so without compounding injuries, or if there is likelihood of a fire, remove the victims as far as practical from the vehicles. If you can do nothing else, drive to a telephone and ask the operator to put you in touch with the nearest police command.

2. If you're at the scene when the professionals arrive, get out of their way, offer to help and obey their instructions.

3. If you come upon an accident that already has emergency personnel at the scene, keep moving. Slow down so you have instant control of your car, but don't stop to gape. Mentally put yourself in the victim's place.

4. If you hear about an accident on the radio for example, avoid the area. By the time you hear the news, the officials have already taken charge and there'll be nothing you can do to help. Going there just for curiosity's sake will do more harm than good, and you may be among the losers.

vert into a play camper. An attractive model of the dual-purpose box is now on display at the Hull's business, D&H Enterprises, located at 105 West 8th St. in Cisco.

The chest is also featured in advertising in the current issue of Workbench, a nationwide magazine for craftsmen. This has a circulation of 830,000 and is published in Kansas City, Mo. Harvey Hull offers construction plans for the box at the price of $9.95. He will also, if desired, make a price on cutting out the actual parts for the buyer to assemble. He estimates that the cost of the box will range from $40 to $60 dollars.

The model in the store is constructed of wood and painted white and blue. Bright decals of animals and flags decorate it. It opens by ingeniously placed hinges, and a tent quickly unfolds

July 4th Activities In Need Of Money

Letters asking for contributions to a fund to finance a fireworks show and other activities during the annual community July the Fourth Celebration have been mailed to business and civic leaders in Cisco, Manager Ron Schuereen of the Chamber of Commerce reported Friday.

The fireworks display has always been the highlight of the celebration and the concluding event of the day at City Park.

"The fireworks are funded by donations from business firms and individuals," the letter said. "Inflation has

Citizens Attend City Public Hearing Here

Approximately 19 citizens attended the second public hearing conducted by the city on the purposes and development of a Community Development Block Grant Application. To comply with regulations, the hearing was held in the area to be affected by the application.

Cisco Mayor Eris Ritchie expressed his gratitude to the Greater St. Marks Baptist Church, located on Bedford Street, and to Howard Shelton for allowing the city to hold the public hearing, as well as the regular council meeting, at the church. Despite the hot weather, the building was very comfortable with good air conditioning.

City Manager Mike Moore stated the council received some very good input from the people attending the meeting. However, Mr. Moore said the council tried to stress to the people that although Cisco has a very good application, the city will be competing with about 30 other cities for the grant. Probably only three or four will receive funding.

If awarded, the grant in the amount of $400,000 will be used to upgrade water and sewer lines improve streets above the space for a bed. It makes a charming-little hide-a-way, and a safe place for a child to play. Hull estimates that the chest is suitable for children three years old up to about nine. When closed it is 22 inches high, 42 long and 24 deep. Open, with tent, it is 55 in. high, 48 inches wide, and 40 in. deep.

"Dixie actually thought of the idea of this toy chest,"

Water Pressure Low Due To Repairs

As everyone should be aware, the City's water tower is now, and has been, out of service for the last 25 days because of the reconditioning and repainting of both the interior and exterior of the tower. While the tower is out of service it is necessary for the City to supply water and maintain pressure by only running the high service pumps at the College Hill Pump Station. To accomplish this the pumps must run 24 hours a day.

While this method of supplying water and maintaining pressure created additional and special problems for the City, under normal conditions adequate supply and pressure can be maintained. However, the unusually hot and dry weather the area is experiencing has created and unusually high demand for water. Without being able to utilize the water tower this high demand makes it very difficult, if not impossible, to maintain good pressure continuously.

Therefore the City respectfully requests the citizens of Cisco to curtail their water usage as much as possible, especially during peak usage times, until the tower is put back into service. Peak usage times are during the early morning hours (6-9 a.m.), the noon hour and during the evening (5-10 p.m.). Of course, all day Saturday and Sunday are heavy water usage times also and create special pressure maintenance problems.

Hopefully, the water tower reconditioning will be completed and the tower back in service within the next 10 to 12 days. But, until that time, City officials state, "we and all your neighbors would sincerely appreciate the curtailment of all water usage possible for the next two weeks."

The citizens of Cisco should also be reminded that while the city has enjoyed a fairly wet winter and spring and Lake Cisco is definitely in better shape than last year, water is still a very precious and scarce commodity for this area. It should never be wasted.

Also, the City's voluntary conservation ordinance is still in effect. Officials reminded citizens that, "only by everyone cooperating and working together can we ensure adequate water and pressure for ourselves and our neighbors."

A number of the paintings in the store are the work of Dixie Hull, although some are by her mother, Muriel Duncan of Eastland. Dixie likes to work in oils, but she also has some choice paintings on glass. There are a few paintings for sale by the late Letha Stafford of Cisco.

Harvey Hull is beginning another new venture besides the toy chest. He has just signed a franchise for Radio Shack products, and will operate this dealership at the store. An Open House will be announced for these

'Christmas In The Summertime'

SUMMER SANTA—Slim King of 707 East 11th Street in Cisco received a late "Christmas gift" from Santa Claus here on Friday morning. Santa, who said he was too busy with the kids around Christmas time, brought Mr. King an air conditioner for his home. Mr. King did not have an air conditioner and temperatures had risen into the 100 degree-mark during the week. Unfortunately, the film in the camera did not advance so the photo was double-exposed that is why there appears to be two of everything in the picture above. (staff photo)

CISCO

C.R. Saunders, 49, of Anton has been employed as Superintendent of the Cisco Public Schools, and will take over his duties July 1. This announcement has been made by Dr. Allen McGinness, president of the School Board. Mr. Saunders, who was given a two-year contract, will succeed James Couch, who resigned the position last month. Saunders was hired after the Board received some 50 applications for the position and interviewed eight candidates. He has served for ten years as a Principal and Superintendent of the Anton schools.

The store, pavilion and cabins located near the "Point" at Lake Cisco are being remodeled by Lanny Sledge of Ranger. He says there was a lot of work to be done to the cabins inside and out, but it is coming along well. After purchasing the property he began work in mid-January. He plans to open a store in about three weeks across from the cabins. Future plans also include a boat dock and fishing pier located at the "Point".

The Scranton Exes Homecoming will begin with a Musical Saturday night, June 1 at the Community Center. Refreshments will be sold. The Homecoming crowd will gather Sunday at 9 a.m. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. There will be plenty of visiting and entertainment, and everyone is invited to come.

The Cisco Gun Club will meet Monday, June 3 at 7 p.m. at the First National Bank Community Room. All members are urged to attend this meeting, and to plan the upcoming eat out/shoot out during the month of July.

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm has announced that the Farmer's Home Administration has approved a loan of $375,000 for the City of Cisco. The FHA loan will enable Cisco to construct a new sewage treatment plant. This project, including a lagoon, two stabilization ponds, and a lift station, will serve 1,670 customers.

RANGER

Anthony Lopez of Ranger has been chosen to participate in the THSCA All-Star Game in Dallas at the Moody Coliseum on July 31 at 7:30 p.m. A chartered bus has been reserved to transport Ranger fans to and from the event. The cost is $15 per person, and deadline for reservations is June 15. Send your checks to All Star Game, P.O. Box 91, Ranger, Texas, 76470. Departure time will be announced after June 15.

Registration for the First Summer Session at Ranger Junior College will be Monday, June 3 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. on the campus in the Registrar's office. Both academic and vocational courses will be offered. The First Session will end on July 11.

GORMAN

Farmers in the Gorman area are very busy these days working on the land some are re-bedding washed out fields, some are preparing the land for planting, and others are planting dry-land peanuts. Some of the irrigated peanuts are up, growing, and being watered between rains with sprinkler systems. Part of the haygrazer fields have already been cut, but abundant yields. The large round bales are becoming more popular all the time. Everything points to a good year in the farming districts, at least yield-wise.

The Lions Club sale ended last week at the Watermelon shed. The Lions left some items there, however, so if you are passing by and see some item you want just take it and bring the donation to the Gorman Progress or Higginbothams. The Lions appreciate the support of the people of this area in the project, and will use the money for a good cause.

EASTLAND

Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. filed a damage suit in 91st District Court Tuesday morning naming BC Construction Co., BC Construction and Gaylon E. Nelms as a result of the truck-train crash of May 24. No specific dollar amounts are asked. A Fort Worth law firm filed the suit for the railroad company.

The congregation of First Baptist Church, Eastland will hear the Rev. Robert Jeffress of Dallas at the morning and evening services Sunday. Dr. Jeffress will be preaching with a view toward a call as pastor by the Church. He is presently Assistant Pastor of First Baptist church, Dallas, where he is in charge of the high school program. The Eastland Church has been served by an interim pastor since last November.

The annual Chamber of Commerce Newcomer's Barbeque will be held June 8 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the City Park. Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Eastland Volunteer Fire Department to help acquire the "Jaws of Life". Tickets are available from the Chamber of Commerce office and from Chamber members. They are $5 each. The public is invited to this fun-filled event.

Explosion Victims Improving

The condition of those injured in the explosion continues to improve, according to word from Eastland Memorial Hospital and Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene.

Gaylon Nelms, who suffered severe burns, has been moved to a private room at Hendricks, out of intensive care.

Tom Patterson of Patterson's Ambulance Service, was dismissed from Eastland Memorial Hospital Thursday and referred to an Optometrist in Abilene. He received an acid burn in one eye while assisting rescue efforts.

Bill Culverhouse is now in reserve isolation at Eastland Memorial Hospital. He is reported to have second and possibly some third degree

Family Planning Clinic June 12

There will be a Family Planning Clinic at the Multipurpose Center, 204 North Lamar, on Wednesday, June 12. The hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The following services will be offered: physical exams, blood work, contraceptives, medical counseling and follow-up. The Center uses a pay scale based on the client's income. Patients will go to the office of Dr. Stephen Krech, 203 South Daugherty, for physical exams and medical services.

burns over his back and arms. He can have only a limited number of visitors.

Tony Petree, a Texas Electric employee, is much improved. He hopes to leave the hospital for his home this weekend. Petree has second-degree burns on his back and arms, but one arm is almost free of pain now.

He is very thankful to be alive, and is amazed at how all the people in the blast area survived. He was in a pickup behind Nelms and Culverhouse when the disaster occurred.

At the time of the collision he was directly across from Jo Bob's Oilfield Service building. As he was running into the building to call an ambulance the fireball erupted.

He felt a terrible blast of heat and saw people on fire.

He rolled into a puddle of water, and when flames rose from the tank on the ground he started running toward the southwest. There he was picked up by car and carried to the hospital. One strange thing is that his clothing did not catch on fire, in spite of his severe burns.

"I can't praise the work of the doctors and nurses here enough," he says. "They all pitched in together as the injured came in. Their care and concern really made a difference.

"And now they say I may get out of this without even a scar!"

and the area of the city that had been in involved in the evacuation.

Mr. Cartee contacted the minister and director of Camp Inspiration, the Rev. Larry Smith, and Red Cross entered into an agreement to set up the Red Cross headquarters at the camp, and all 96 beds were made available for the evacuees plus the entire dining room area for mass feeding of 200 people.

By 8:30 p.m. 100 people had registered at the Camp Inspiration and the feeding process had been going on since 6 p.m. The members of the Church of God, and staff of Camp Inspiration, worked long hours to assist in caring for the people who came to the Camp as guests. The many volunteers are to be commended as they worked as a team and got the job done in the shortest period of time.

The Eastland County Red Cross is commended for the quick response, and for being able to recruit volunteers so quickly and efficiently to assist with the Eastland disaster.

Many problems were resolved the first few hours, families were separated from one another, people left their homes so quickly medications were left behind, and the need for constant flow of information regarding the condition of the victims homes and the ever present question had to be answered - "When can we return to our homes."

Decisions must be made in a professional manner, the victims of the catastrophe must be handled gently and to minimize hysteria as much as possible. However, the excellent volunteers were able to assist the families devoting many hours away from their own families.

Mr. Cartee stated in regard to the volunteers "I have been on many disasters and I do believe the flow of informations, the volunteering on the part of all segments of the people throughout the city, and singling out one particular group, the workers at the Camp Inspiration, was one of the finest that I have worked on."

Every one in Eastland County realizes, however, for a program of this nature to operate it costs and our service organizations operate on budgets that are very low. The Eastland

You will note the title of this article is PREVENT and not control. I will discuss the prevention of Crabgrass from ever appearing in your lawn and not controlling it after it has appeared.

Last year many homeowner's lawns are blemished with Crabgrass. This can be avoided this year if the homeowner acts soon according to various agronomists.

The answer to eliminating Crabgrass is as simple as applying a pre-emergent weed control. This will prevent the weed seeds (Crabgrass) from germinating without harming existing grass. This crabgrass prevention should be applied in the early spring before the lawn is mowed the third or fourth time. Crabgrass is an annual, therefore, it does not survive the winter, but thousands of seeds are left behind the year before and will begin to germinate in the Spring when the temperature reach the 80 degree mark. If Crabgrass is left unchecked, it will spread, consuming moisture and nutrients in the soil that your regular, more desirable grass needs. Crabgrass will soon choke out your more desirable

Crabgrass killer that will not harm your more desirable grasses. I am asked many times about using a weed killer mixed with a fertilizer, as well as insecticide mixed with fertilizer. I realize that most combinations of these items will reduce the cost of applying the product. However, I personally advise against it, and recommend that you buy the product that is made specially for the results desired and NOT to combine several products. This has been proven to be successful in my many years of gardening.

Most pre-emergent Crabgrass killers can be applied when the grass is either wet or dry. Therefore, by following these simple suggestions there is no excuse for having blemished spots in your lawn from Crabgrass this summer.

Good Gardening from Ted Brice.

Sleepsafe when you travel

The danger that remains from hotel fires, not only in the U.S. but particularly overseas, is bringing growing interest in smoke detectors that travelers carry with them, according to the Stilwell Development people of Klamath Falls, Or.

Stilwell distributes the SleepSafe, a portable detector designed to be hung over a hotel doorway at night. (You can use it at home, too, of course.)

Combined with the detector is a small digital clock with alarm and a bright light for use in case of emergencies. The unit is compact enough to fit in a woman's bag.

The SleepSafe operates on a battery.

Personally, I would not travel without the protection of an alarm. There are many inns and hotels which have inadequate facilities for detecting fire and for alarming guests.

Information is available from Stilwell at Box 5254, Klamath Falls 97601. The suggested retail price for the SleepSafe is $59.95.

HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

The new law would allow Sunday sales for all products except automobiles. Present law bans the sale of 42 items on consecutive weekend days.

The measure, if it becomes law, is expected to add some $24 million or more in sales tax revenues to state coffers strapped for cash.

Rural retailers fought the measure, and Biblical warnings of punishment for Sunday toilers were scattered throughout the debate. But the argument won out that new lifestyles, where both parents work in many families, make the old tradition burdensome.

judge who rocked the legislature six years ago with court-ordered reforms.

The proposal calls for an 11.7 percent reduction in inmates now in prison, and costs $173 million.

Prison board chairman Robert Gunn warned persons who might try to sabotage the pact that "the war is over and the side of reform has won."

Others said the settlement will be a landmark that will lead to a new direction in the state criminal justice system.

"It's just crazy to try to build all the new prisons they will have to build just to keep even," one reformer said.

Spotlights and Sidelights

by Julia Worthy

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE IS NOT THE QUESTION..."
No pass; no play.

School is out for the summer vacation, and around Texas, evaluation of the last nine months is current business.

Misinformation seems about equal to information, and it's debatable whether the Texas Legislature or H. Ross Perot catches the most flak.

It interests me to think that all the hullabaloo is compressed into, "No pass; no play." I think it ranks right along with "Put up or shut up."

My personal idea is that dry rot set in when we decided to "educate" everybody...by putting them in a classroom. Everyone does get an education; all of life is an education, and it never stops.

But not everyone is destined to do well in the little red schoolhouse. I've never been able to understand why everyone should do well in the chalk-dust-and-eraser set. I will defend the individual's right to the opportunity to learn the Three R's—two of which are not "R's", but that is the American way for you.

There's no way I can defend penning reluctant herds of little children together for X-hours to learn their A,B,C's and 1,2,3's. I can fairly hear the gasps of astonishment and the cries of surprise, but I've seen too many young'uns put through Reading Readiness programs that didn't serve the purpose.

Ready or not, on to the next step! Fault the teacher? No. Teachers are not perfect—don't know any who ever claimed to be—but they are caught in "the system". My personal opinion of the system is that it serves everyone better than the children and/or the teachers.

My preference is for an open-ended school where chronological age has no bearing at all.

For example. Good old John Doe finds himself so smart in his own estimation at fifteen that he decides to turn his part-time job into full-time, so he quits the schoolroom.

John manages pretty well for a year or so—maybe longer. Then he runs into a snag when he doesn't get a promotion/raise because he's a shade short in reading and math. (No pass; no play.)

With an open-ended, year-round school system, John could go to classes to sharpen his skills. He would be a willing student; not a captive. A good teacher can teach almost anything to anyone who wants to learn. The same good teacher can teach almost nothing to anyone who does not want to learn.

Teaching Joe Doe to read Shakespeare's (trying to teach him) words when he needs to read blueprints could be much ado about nothing—at least, love's labors lost.

In an open-ended educational system, John Doe's grandpa could go read Shakespeare if he wanted to while John reads blueprints.

I may be wrong, but I do not think a persons determination to get a formal education can be stopped. There's no question of "No pass; no play." I's not "Put up or shut up"; not "Fish or cut bait." No even, "Shoot, Luke, or give up the gun."

Am I wrong in thinking it's perfectly all right if Monty Muscles can't fight his way out of a dictionary? Or Paul Pipsqueak can't whip his weight in butterflies?

Am I wrong in thinking Monty and Paul shouldn't be put in the same classroom and told, "No pass; no play?"

By DEAN BURBANK
Staff Reporter of The Wall Street Journal

Paris has the Louvre and Rome the Vatican collections, but only Texas has a museum built around Lee Harvey Oswald's can opener.

Plus a shrine to tip the Horned Toad, probably the only reptile invited to the White House by Calvin Coolidge. And Miss Hattie's, a museum dedicated to the best in Lone Star bread, including the Mrs. Pencil Collection, all 80,000 of them.

Texas loves to boast, and its museums show it. Places such as the Cowart Hall of Fame and the Confederate Research Center and Audie Murphy Gun Museum are products of the state's pride in its own vast size, frontier heritage, natural wealth and history as an independent republic. It is a source of great bragging rights that ranches are measured in "Rhode Islands," museums inevitably are different, too.

"Texans love the bizarre," says Ann Huff, an authority on Lone Star museums and monuments who runs a motel in Llano. "They want to perpetuate the myth that everything in Texas is bigger, better or stranger."

Marking the Spot
In preserving the past, Texas doesn't stop at museums. It is adding to its 9,000 historical markers at the rate of more than one a day, showing where lucky pioneers found gold, where unlucky settlers lost scalps and where the final spike completed the second transcontinental railroad. Grand statues honor a strawberry in Plozet and a mule in Muleshoe, a rattlesnake in Freer and a roustabout in Fort Stockton, a pecan in Sargin and a peanut in Pearland.

Museums are everywhere, from crowded restaurants near Dallas and Houston expressways to the isolated ranches. Almost every tiny Texas burg has one, often just a gimmick for luring tourists to dinner and coffee shops. About 500 museums are listed in the official Texas travel handbook. Some towns even brag about how many they have; Marshall, population 14,921, promotes its 95 museums and historic sites on billboards.

Texas museums have run into problems never faced by the Smithsonian when the Spradley loses a tiny earplug from an exhibit at the Moe Spradley Telephone Museum in Mexierville. "I think one of the grandchildren must've ate it," he guesses. Museum security can be tough when the museum is in your backyard.

Machismo is a ubiquitous feature. Visitors to El Paso's El Paso Camerastore and Motel and Bullfight Museum can savor prime rib while studying photos of wild-eyed bulls stomping and going hapless outside. The dining room also is resplendent with displays of bullfight costumes, right down to one matador's soiled socks. The museum's manager, Jorge Hiale, scrambles over a booth to point out a gaping hole in the hip of one uniform. "Here's where he got gored," he says delightedly.

Even grisly photos apparently don't upset the Texas appetite. One shows a slaying matador, trying to hold his intestines on the inside, beneath a sign reading "why matadors pray before the bullfight." Says Mr. Hiale: "It fits in great with having steak in the restaurant."

History Made Better
Texans, who prefer their bravado unchallenged by facts, don't mind a little historical revisionism. A film at the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame in Waco ballyhooes the state police, saying, "Had it not been for the Texas Rangers, there might not be a Texas." The film glosses over a 1919 investigation into allegations of spicder, torture and spying by the Rangers, though the scandals are noted in an out-of-the-way exhibit.

Tall tales reach new heights at San Antonio's Buckhorn Hall of Horas, a better-sketched collection of stuffed deformed animals, preserved elephant feet and trophies of nearly every species of the wild. The collection was largely amassed at a now-defunct bar where a set of antlers was good for two beers. Now housed at the Lone Star brewery in San Antonio—home of the "National Beer of Texas"—the exhibit also includes a bottle-cap collection and portraits done in rattlesnake rattles.

On a recent afternoon, guide Melvin "Fuzzy" Plunkett regales some Norwood, Ohio, senior citizens with the story of a stuffed six-foot rattlesnake (a "Texas worm"), an eight-foot narwhal (a "Texas toothpick") and tales of how Theodore Roosevelt trained troops in San Antonio for the Spanish American War. "Teddy got some Texas cowboy look 'em down Cuba and whupped up on the Spaniards," he declares.

Mr. Plunkett describes Siamese-twin sheep as an eight-legged, three-eared mutant genetically designed by Texas scientists to outfox coyotes. "How clever!" one woman whispers.

Nothing is too small to be rendered larger than life. Readers of "Ripley's Believe It or Not" may recall Rip the Horned Toad, a wondrous reptile who supposedly awakened from a 31-year sleep in 1928 after he was buried alive in the cornerstone of the Eastland County courthouse. Today, Rip is among Eastland's most honored dead, sitting stiffly in an eight-inch, velvet-lined open casket inside a glass showcase in the courthouse lobby. (Rip collapsed and died soon after his audience with "Ernie and Cowidge.") "Yep, that's one famous toad," observes James Wright, the manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

When junk piles up in closets, most people hold garage sales; in Texas, they open a museum and charge $1 a head. Try visiting Texas Bob Reinhardt's Art Showcase, a bizarre collection of Roellie Kazotte comic books, Howdy Doody cereal bowls, some 300 Tex candy dispensers and an ever-popular Tarzan tie and underwear, all housed in a maze of dusty, darkened storerooms behind a hotel in Ft. Davis. Tours are led by Texas Bob himself, the 38-year-old hotel maintenance man. Accompanied by theme songs from dozens of ancient television shows, he dons a fedora and shines a flashlight on his "salute to the Coke bottle," snapshots of Texas Bob with comedian Soupy Sales (his hero), and a pyramid of Bicentennial soda cans forming a portrait of Uncle Sam.

Nothing in the museum is peculiarly Texan, but then Texas Bob is from New Jersey. "Would you call this demented?" he asks.

Texas unabashedly honor old institutions that other people might prefer to hide. Miss Hattie's, an elegant brocade on San Antonio's main street until its closing in 1946, is preserved right down to the peep hole with a view of the bed of one "Miss Blue." You could never separate a Texas cowboy from his boots, and so the foot of every bedspread is covered with oiledch. Owner Evelyn Hill, who uses the museum to attract customers to her antiques store downstairs, has even kept some of Miss Hattie's handwritten notes, tucked in the wall and announcing such sentiments as "we believe in the flag and women-hood."

Unfortunately, not all Texas shrines are in good shape. The site of the state's first oil well, off a dirt road deep in an East Texas pine forest, is distinguished by little more than an oily creek, a sludge-filled pipe and a bullet-riddled historical marker. Maybe it's because the site is eclipsed by the nearby East Texas Oil Museum, a monument to H.L. Hunt built by the late billionaire's family. Or perhaps it's because the well was quickly abandoned as a poor producer.

Now, about that can opener owned by Lee Harvey Oswald, a big figure in Texas museums. (Oswald established a presidential museum 20 years ago to soothe regret that President Kennedy was killed in Texas, and the Dallas County Historical Commission is turning the sixth floor of the infamous Texas Schoolbook Depository into a museum.) The can opener, circa 1960, is tucked away in a ranch house 11 miles east of the site of the assassination. There, Betty and O.G. Gafford run a private museum that draws maybe 30 visitors a year.

The Gaffords received the wood-handled opener from Mr. Oswald's mother, who was the family cook for a time in the early 1960s, and have surrounded it in a shrine case by clippings, campaign buttons and other Kennedy memorabilia. "When Ole was going to save it," says Mrs. Gafford, shaking her head, "I just don't know."

AUSTIN—Going into the final week, the business-like Texas Legislature showed all signs of avoiding a major tax increase, something that many said a few months ago could not be done.

All budget hopes rested in the conference committee which is trying to work out $400 million worth of differences between the versions passed by the House and Senate.

The conferees once again are reviewing state agency budgets, searching for fat to trim, but one major issue is whether to give state employees a raise, and how much.

The House approved a three percent increase, the Senate provided none.

The governor has wisely avoided being drawn into the fray by groups wanting him to veto any budget without a built-in pay hike.

"I'm not promising any vetoes," he said. "We're trying to pass good legislation."

Blue Law Repeal

The Texas Blue Law moved closer to repeal when the Senate tacked on several amendments and sent it back to the House for concurrence.

Buckled Seats Belts
The House approved legislation which is sure to set many Texans to grumbling: a mandatory buckled seat belt law.

The good news for the grumblers is the new law would apply only to persons in the front seat. The bad news is a $25 to $50 fine if you're caught unbuckled.

A federal order has mandated that two-thirds of the U.S. population be protected through seat belt laws or installed air bags by 1989. Seat belts are cheaper.

Texas lawmakers, wary of the wrath of Texas pickup truck drivers, tried to exempt certain types of trucks from the requirement with what came to be dubbed "the Bubba amendment."

"Bubba may think he's got a right to drive 75 mph and drink a six-pack of beer driving into the sunset. But Bubba doesn't have the right to injure you or himself on the highway. We outlawed suicide a long time ago," said Bill Messer, the sponsor.

Prison Lawsuit Settlement

State officials last week signed an agreement to end the costly prison system lawsuit and send it to the federal

Wiretap Update
After a Houston senator filibustered for over 12 hours against it, the Senate amended the wiretapping law to allow covert entries to plant wiretaps.

The new law would extend wiretap use, but requires that court orders be necessary to install wiretaps and pen registers, a device recording only phone numbers dialed out of a line.

Indictments Thrown Out
Felony indictments against state Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, were thrown out by a state district judge last week who ruled that a grand jury member was serving improperly.

Parker was accused of criminal drug and pornography offenses, but claimed innocence. Earlier this year, Parker was indicted on porno and prostitution charges, but a state judge threw out the charges on grounds of improper grand jury conduct.

Last week's ruling marked the end of a second attempt by the local district attorney's office to try Parker. The DA said he will not pursue it further.

BRINGS YOU THESE IMPORTANT TIPS... YOU AUTO KNOW

Using seat belts and other restraint devices practically eliminates the risk of death in auto accidents for children under 4, according to a study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Millions of dollars have been saved in medical costs.

Well-chosen options make driving more pleasant and improve resale value, too. Consider interval wipers, headlamp-on warning buzzer, body side guard moldings and bumper strips.

Will your car's cooling system stand up to warm-weather driving? Pressure tester can disclose leaks—or even potential ones—in hoses, radiator core, and other parts.

Cleaning is not enough to keep leather upholstery in good condition. After cleaning with saddle soap, rub in a leather preservative.

Newest feature in car security systems is a remote-controlled transmitter so alarm can be armed or disarmed from outside the car.

Evacuation Spoils Produce, Weekend For Hamilton's

C.J.C. Registration June 3, Classes Start June 4

Among the losses in Eastland the disaster loss at the Hamilton Fruit Market, 811 West Main, is significant. Hamiltons, a family owned and operated establishment, has been called the last "old fashioned" produce market between Fort Worth and Abilene.

There Herman Hamilton, a lifelong produce man, buys and sells the best fruits, vegetables and melons he can find anywhere. The store does a wholesale as well as retail business. Herman's wife, Ruth, his daughter-in-law Laura and another employee assist.

The 150 by 125 ft. building also houses many bedding and potting plants. Almost any time of the year Herman can be seen watering these flowers and vegetable plants under the covered sheds.

At 10 a.m. Friday, May 24 Herman Hamilton was stirring about as usual between customers and the telephone. Two big trucks of produce had just pulled in for the weekend trade. Another was partially unloaded.

The blast did no damage to the market, which had a number of customers. Some were looking at the big fresh California strawberries Herman was featuring.

Ruth Hamilton rushed back from downtown, but the situation did not appear threatening to the Market. Business continued as usual until 12:30 p.m., when Police came up West Main with a loudspeaker.

Everyone evacuate immediately!" They said. The Hamiltons closed the store and drove in a truck to Cisco to the home of their son, Dwight. At 4 p.m. they decided to return home, understanding that the area of evacuation ended on Ammerman Street.

Their store was on the east side of Ammerman, but their home was on the west side - across Main Street. This put it just out of the restricted area.

When they got east of Bobby's Burgers the road was blocked. Herman talked with the officer in charge, and he said he would get permission to let the Hamiltons go home. He left at 5 p.m. and did not return.

About night, after 3 1/2 hrs. waiting on the road, the Hamiltons tried again to get home. Other people, they saw, were in the same situation.

This time the road was blocked at Alsups, one block from the house. An officer said he would contact the Eastland Chief of Police, and when he talked with Chief Lyndall Underwood this officer gave permission for the Hamiltons to go to their house.

As they reached their home Herman began to wonder if he could get any of his produce in coolers, and also water his plants. He looked at the store - cornering right across the road - realizing that a lot of the proceeds of his life's work was ruining right there before his eyes.

He called Mayor Marshall, asking if there was any possible way he could go to the store for a short while to save his things.

The Mayor called Chief Lyndall Underwood, who came to the Hamilton home. The Hamiltons report that Underwood was very gracious about it, but he would not give permission.

There was not much rest for the Hamiltons Friday night or Saturday. Customers and wholesalers - some from a distance - called by phone or came to their home, hoping to obtain produce. Herman explained that there was nothing he could do.

They were not permitted to cross the street until late Saturday, when the blockade was lifted.

Since then a lot of their time has been spent in clearing out spoiled produce and wilted plants, and totaling up losses. A conservative, immediate loss total runs like this: 60 flats of strawberries, 15 boxes of peaches, 29 boxes of tomatoes, 15 tubs of okra, 15 bushels of local squash, 5 flats of avacados, 3 of cherries, 3 of grapes, 15 of lettuce, 35 of cantaloupes, 8 of blackeye peas, 10 of green beans, 3 cuts of celery, and 300 to 400 flats of bedding plants.

This loss, in dollars, is estimated at $3,839.50. In addition the store lost an estimated $7,000 worth of weekend business, as well as costs of hauling, labor and various things. The effect has rippled out into various area towns, to restaurants and other businesses which depend on Hamiltons for produce.

The Hamiltons have always worked hard, and will continue to do so. They appear to have no bitterness about their treatment and loss. But they state that it will be very difficult to recover.

"It may not sound like a lot to some people," they say. "But in a small privately owned business, whatever you have is a lot to you."

Summer classes at Cisco Junior College will begin June 4 at all locations.

BUILDING STRUCTURES

"For we are laborers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building....For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (I Corinthians 3:9,11).

The traveler throughout England, Germany, Italy, and other places in Europe see dotted across the country beautiful, Gothic style cathedrals built in a farm-boyant style. The stonework of these magnificent structures is covered with delicate carvings and designs. The great windows of the structure are of beautiful, stained glass. Friend, these Gothic structures were built ten centuries ago with the dedicated help of the common people to express their inner feelings of love, devotion and beauty.

You, too, are building. The structures you are building is an expression of yourself. You have human limitations, but as you build your life and follow His instructions, you can be assured that you can obtain full stature in Christ. You will endure the ruggedness of the times even as these Gothic structures stood the onslaughts of the ages.

One Of The Team

By Viola Payne

Ken's Motorcycle Shop on East Main is about back to normal, with people coming in from across the county to look at cycles, parts, and accessories.

But the public is not apt to let Kenneth Chapman, the owner, forget that he finished patching the ruptured hydrofluoric tank car after that May 24 derailment.

Ken, age 30, is inclined to brush it off as no big deal.

"Other welders in the area could have done the same thing," he says. "I just happened to be there at the right time."

The set of circumstances which brought him to his "right time" actually began on the stockfarm where he grew up, nine miles north of Putnam. There he learned to do about everything on the place, including welding.

After graduation from High School he came to Eastland and worked for the Perkins Implement Co. for five years, doing some welding there. In 1978 he put in his Cycle Shop down the street, and there has been quite a bit of welding connected with it.

On the morning of the explosion he took his little girl and four-year-old Victoria Jimenez from the blast area, closed the shop, and went out of the restricted area to his home.

At 1 a.m. Saturday Mark Pipkin of the Eastland Volunteer Fire Department called Ken and asked if he would come down to his shop. Some people from Western Hazardous Chemicals Co. needed to construct a steel patch for a car which was leaking hydrofluoric acid.

Ken worked with the men at his Cycle Shop until about 3 a.m., constructing a 26 in.-diameter patch made of steel. Then he went with them to the blast site, planning to stand by if needed.

It wasn't the best place in the world to be at that time. One tank car of LPG was still burning about a block away, and the hydrofluoric tank was still leaking. An acid spill was in the area, and a number of other dangerous chemicals were in cars nearby.

The Eastland Fire Department, other Fire Departments from this area, Law Enforcement Officers and Ambulance crews were all on the scene to give help.

By 6 p.m. Saturday the welder with Western Chemicals Co. was overcome by heat and exhaustion. He had managed to attach the 26 in. piece of steel to the tank car, but the weld around the edges of the patch was leaking in four places.

The welder had discussed his work with Ken, and he understood what needed doing. About 7 p.m. he pulled on the protective clothing, consisting of a set of overalls, rubber boots, plastic gloves, a plastic zip-up suit, and an air pack to breathe through.

This clothing heated up rather rapidly - he had to come out of it frequently in order to survive. Members of the Eastland Fire Department and Ambulance Service stood by. Mark Pipkin was Ken's backup - if the welder was overcome with acid Pipkin's job was to drag him from the area.

By 11 p.m. Saturday Chapman had managed to fasten four one-eighth-inch metal patches on the leaks. One spot was still leaking slightly, but officials decided that would not prevent transfer of the contents of the car. So Ken Chapman could put up his welder and go home.

Acid from the welder car was transferred to one of 15 cars brought in from El Paso on Sunday. It will be a long time, however, before people forget the nightmare - and the team of individuals who worked to bring it to an end.

Texas, California and New York lead the nation in the number of advertisements for fraudulent health items carried in publications, according to a recent Food and Drug (FDA) study.

As a result of a survey of the nation's newspapers and magazines the FDA identified advertising for fraudulent items in publications ranging from the small weekly newspapers to multimillion-circulation magazines.

According to the FDA, weight-loss products are the most popular items being promoted by fraud artists. Body wraps, sauna suits, waist wraps and vibrating belts are among the items heavily advertised.

Yet, there is no scientific or clinical evidence to support the use of these devices for controlling weight. There is also no data to back up promoter's claims that these products will eliminate cellulite and bulging fat, make spot reduction possible or control appetite.

Diet pills are another widely advertised health fraud. The "grapefruit pill" diet accounted for almost half of the weight loss ads surveyed in the FDA study.

Hair restoration schemes for restorers or clinics are next in popularity to diet hoaxes the study shows. However, the FDA has advised consumers that no product has ever been approved as safe and effective for preventing baldness or restoring hair.

Other advertisements included those for wrinkle removers, hypnosis plans, and offers of quick ways to treat heart disease, arthritis, alcoholism, depression and high blood pressure. In addition to wasting millions of dollars on these products, consumers may not be receiving the legitimate health care they need.

The FDA is now listing product recalls, seizures and other regulatory actions in its weekly Enforcement Report. In addition to taking regulatory or legal actions against the promoters of these products, they hope to do a little advertising of their own to warn consumers about health frauds.

Another thing that sounds so easy and tempting... pop a piece of candy in your mouth before meals and your appetite mysteriously disappears. It must be a dieter's dream! Actually, there's not much of a secret to the various appetite-control diet candies, lozenges and gums on the market.

They contain corn syrup or sugar and the local anesthetic benzocaine, a common ingredient in first aid creams and sprays. Benzocaine numbs the taste buds and decreases the dieter's pleasure in eating. The corn syrup or sugar causes a sudden increase in blood sugar levels and temporarily reduces hunger symptoms.

You can get the same effect without numbing your tongue and taste, by eating a caramel (just one), or juices high in carbohydrates, such as grape or prune juice.

These aids may help you get started on a diet, and they are relatively harmless. But they can be expensive and you won't be getting any real value for your money.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK:

BARBARA ANN DUNNING

Granddaughter Of Local Wins

Scholarship

Barbara Ann Dunning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunning of Andrews and granddaughter of Alma Dunning of Cisco, has won an Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Vocational/Technical School Scholarship. She is one of 100 persons to be so honored as a winner of one of these scholarships. College Scholarship Service/Sponsored Scholarship Program (CSS/SSP), Princeton, New Jersey, has called AAL's scholarship programs some of the most extensive in the country.

Barbara is a May graduate of Andrews High School where she was Graphics Editor of The Roundup. Her editorial cartoons and journalism art placed third in UIL state competition. Barbara submitted the winning design chosen as the official Andrews Diamond Jubilee logo. She was recently awarded the Certificate of Merit at the 13th Annual Andrews Art Guild Exhibition.

Barbara served on the AHS Student Council her junior and senior years and was first vice-president of her senior class of 146 members. She was also a member of the National Honor Society and a recipient of the Golden Horseshoe award. Barbara is an active member of Faith Lutheran Church in Andrews where she serves as treasurer of the Lutheran Youth Fellowship and is a member of the choir.

Barbara plans to attend the Art Institute of Dallas where she will study advertising design.

The 1985 scholarship recipients were chosen from more than 500 applicants. Evaluations were done by qualified persons in the field of vocational education based on recommendations from school advisors and community professionals, academic records, church and community involvement, as well as the clarity of the student's defined career objectives.

Summer Dinner Theatre Is Set With Opening Play

APPLICATION for a grant was made last Tuesday by the Conrad N. Hilton Memorial Park and Community Center to the Texas Historical Association for use in restoring the facility in Cisco. The THA has limited funds for grants in Texas cities for preservation and restoration of places of historical importance.

Mayor Eris Ritchie reports that these grants usually are limited to $15,000 or so. The old Mobley Hotel, which was the first of the Hilton chain, qualifies as a place important to our community's and state's history.

The board is still working on a contract for the restoration work, Mr. Ritchie added.

MRS. JERRY (Davene) Jeffcoat, who has taught music in the Intermediate School grades for several years, tells us that she has signed a contract to teach music in the Eastland Public Schools next school year. She leaves with the best wishes of the local school system and the community as she has done an outstanding job with the young folks.

Mrs. Jeffcoat's students presented the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "The Pirates of Penzance" Thursday night at CHS auditorium. It was an ambitious program for the young cast and they were applauded by a large and appreciative crowd.

Mrs. Jeffcoat resigned recently as choir director at First United Methodist Church to accept a similar position with the FUMC in Eastland. Laura Jeffcoat, No. 1 daughter of the Jeffcoats, is back home after spending a few days in a Stephenville hospital. Jana Jeffcoat, their No. 2 daughter, graduated recently at CJC and will attend Southwestern State University at San Marcos in the fall. The Jeffcoats plan to continue living in Cisco.

SURGEONS ARE scheduled to remove a cataract from one of Mrs. James (Joy) Couch's eyes at Humana Hospital in Abilene on Monday. She will be hospitalized overnight. She underwent a similar eye operation a year or so ago. Coaches Russell McLeskey and Doyle Walker will probably be holding a big fish fry this coming week. They spent the past few days fishing in a lake near Terrell. The Royce Darr family enjoyed a camping vacation in New Mexico last week.

GOLFERS BOB Bennie of Cisco and Bob Justice of Abilene tied for first place in the second light of the Memorial Day golf tournament at one of the country clubs at Abilene last Monday. The freight train with 97 cars that derailed in Eastland last Friday went through Cisco about 15 minutes before the tragic event. And the train that derailed near Dublin was re-routed from its scheduled trip through Cisco east. If you read the Press want-ads you know that there's something new in garage sales in our town this Saturday. At 1206 East 18th Street, they're serving free hot dogs during the 6-8 p.m. Saturday garage sale.

MR. TED ROGERS, who is one of the main clogs in the printing department for this newspaper at the central plant in Eastland, was on the job last Friday when the alarm was sounded to evacuate after the tragic train mishap and explosion.

Ted, who lives in Cisco, couldn't evacuate. His car wouldn't start.

IS THE BLUE Danube really blue? That's a question that we heard being asked of Dr. E.E. Addy. He and his missus got home last weekend after a vacation that included a boat ride on the Danube River in Germany. And Dr. Addy reported that the Danube was more muddy than blue—that a lot of rain water was flowing when their ship made the trip.

The Addys joined a group of doctors from over the state and elsewhere for the Danube cruise and visit at points of interest along its banks. Part of each day was spent by the medical men to study new developments in medicine.

During the past week, Dr. Addy has had Audie Woolley, medical student son of the Dick Woolleys, in his clinic office to observe the practice of family medicine. Audie will be a sophomore at the UoT School of Medicine at San Antonio in the fall.

Over the years, we've observed that Dr. Addy has made it a point to invite Cisco young men studying

Is it a detective story? Is it a comedy? Is it a romance? The answer to all three questions is a resounding "yes!" according to theatre director Philip Craik. The opening play of the 1985 Summer Dinner Theatre Season is the original and world-famous SHERLOCK HOLMES by Arthur Conan Doyle and William Gillette. But don't come expecting to see a murder mystery like Agatha Christie's THE MOUSETRAP or TEN LITTLE INDIANS.

When Gillette approached Arthur Conan Doyle about making a play adaptation of his famous Sherlock Holmes detective stories, Conan Doyle was thoroughly fed-up with the Holmes character. It seems that he had literary aspirations other than writing detective stories, but medicine to spend a week or two of their summer vacations in his office. This, of course, is valuable training that we're sure the young students appreciate.

THE REV. Frank Williams and wife and Lay Delegate Rick Whatley will represent the First United Methodist Church at the annual conference of the church in Waco next week. Mark Heidenheimer, assistant district attorney in Taylor County, is vacationing in Europe. The 1985 swimming season is off to a good start, reports City Park Pool Manager Shirley Darr. They've had good crowds since opening day. Life Guards are Karen Fisher, Tracie Edgar and Kelly Darr.

ROY THACKERSON, the fingerless fiddler, will play at the weekly luncheon of the Cisco Lions Club next Wednesday noon, reports Dr. C.M. Cleveland, program chairman. Roy, a former "Cisco Kid", is scheduled to be a feature performer at Buffalo Gap's Blue Grass Festival June 21-22, has played his violin at such places as Nashville's Grand Ole Opry and on national television.

the book-buying public was only interested in Sherlock Holmes, and he had been forced out of economic necessity to continue writing detective stories until he loathed them. So when Gillette asked if Conan Doyle minded his introducing a love interest for Holmes, Conan Doyle is said to have responded "Fine, marry him off, kill him, do whatever you want."

It should be noted however, that Gillette was very discreet, and although his play is both a comedy and a romance, he has stayed true to the characterizations of the original stories. In fact, much of the humor in the play is inherent in the original as any Holmes aficionado will tell you. It is a stylish kind of humor the entire family can enjoy.

Technically, SHERLOCK HOLMES presents some major challenges for the intimate ROOF GARDEN DINNER THEATRE in that there are five different settings. In any other theatre this would be challenging, but in a theatre created in an adapted ballroom with virtually no backstage space, it required some very imaginative planning. The answer in the past to multi-set shows has been the use of roll-drops and sets on rolling reversible wagons. The solution for this play will be a revolving stage on a large turntable. This marks the first time a revolve has been used in the Roof Garden Theatre. With five different settings a large cast of 18 to outfit in Victorian costume, SHERLOCK HOLMES represents one of the greatest technical challenges to date.

The leading roles in SHERLOCK HOLMES will all be played by actors familiar to Roof Garden regulars. The title role will be played by Steven Vincent who also played the hysterical slave hysteria in A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, the devious Sydney Bruhl in DEATHTRAP, the timid tailor Motel in FIDDLER ON THE ROOF, Jack in CHARLEY'S AUNT, the bewildered husband Charles with a ghostly wife in BLITHE SPIRIT, and Nathan Detroit in GUYS AND DOLLS. With a year of training at the Drama Studio in London to his credit, Steven should be able to give a special understanding to the characterization of Holmes.

The role of Dr. Watson, Sherlock's confederate and personal friend, will be played by Bill Austin, Jr. who runs Austin's Furniture Store in Cisco. Although theatregoers remember his performances as Senex in A FUNNY THING... and the lead role Teyve in FIDDLER ON THE ROOF, some are unaware that prior to coming to Cisco, Bill had many years of professional theatre experience with the Windmill Dinner Theatre in Houston.

Also in the play is Charles Hukill who played the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley (Babbs) who dresses up like an old lady in CHARLEY'S AUNT. Charles is a multi-talented theatre artist who has designed numerous shows for the Roof Garden Theatre in the past along with directing last summer's production of BLITHE SPIRIT. This summer, in addition to acting, he will be designing and building the sets for all three plays and directing the second play GREATER TUNA.

SHERLOCK HOLMES will run June 13-15, 20-22. Tickets are $12.00 for Dinner and Show with Dinner beginning at 7 p.m. Reservations are required and can be made by calling (817) 442-2589. Season tickets are also available for $32. All checks should be made payable to Cisco Junior College and sent to Roof Garden Theatre Box Office, Cisco Junior College, Rt. 3, Box 3, Cisco, Texas 76437.
