By J.E.

Everything is ready for the annual Cisco Civic League Folklife Festival this Saturday and Sunday. The two-day event will be held in the old Rockwell Lumberyard location.

Saturday's activities will close at 8 p.m. and beginning a 9 p.m. there will be a street dance on East 5th Street with the live band Three Two Three out of Abilene playing. They play rock and country and everyone should enjoy the dance.

One of Sunday's highlights will be the Ice Cream "Freeze Off" at 2:30 p.m. If you think you have a winning ice cream recipe call 442-3794 after 5 p.m. to enter this contest. Prizes will be given.

Susan Hanlon lost her Bible Sunday. She said it had been "marked up" and contained notes made during church services. "It's a treasure to me," she said. If anyone found a Bible, call Susan at 442-1895.

Local businesses have been asked to decorate for the Folklife Festival Saturday and Sunday. Many merchants are having Sidewalk Sales Friday and Saturday.

BAKE SALE

The Pleasant Hill Home Extension Club will have a bake sale Friday, April 20, at First National Bank beginning at 9 a.m.

Nancy Robinson Masters Will Speak To 20th Century Club

Nancy Robinson Masters, aviation columnist and author of "UPS and DOWNS" which appears regularly in the Saturday edition of the Abilene Reporter-News, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Club on Friday, April 20, beginning at 2:30, Community Room, First National Bank.

Club members are requested to bring guests for this special meeting that promises entertainment and information. Nancy's subject will be: "Are You Singing the Song You Were Sent Here To Sing?" Although most frequently aviation-related, Nancy's subjects for the more than 2,000 articles published over twelve years of writing, are varied. Her recently published book, "Guidelines For Freelancers" is a compilation of guidelines from magazine editors which buy freelance materials - what they require, how they want it, and other information which can help writers seeking publication and pay for publication. Another book will be published within this year - selections from her "UPS and DOWNS" columns.

Recognition for Nancy, her achievements and awards are many. Among them appointment to an advisory group established by the Texas Aeronautics Commission, Flight Safety Counselor for FAA, West Texas Chamber of Commerce Journalism Award for better understanding of life in the Southwest, Distinguished Citizen of the Year by the Military Airlift Command, member of the 99's, International Association of Women Pilots and many others. Two years ago as guest of the Cisco AARP, she showed slides and described her trip aboard a military airplane to the Antarctica with members of the National Science Foundation during Operation Deepfreeze. Last July, she attended a National Security Forum at the War College, Maxwell AFB. A West Texas Aviator/Journalist, the only one who wore a dress, she said. Nancy and her husband, Bill Masters, operate the privately owned, public use airport at Elmdale, near Abilene. She is a Stamford-born, West Texas reared, gal born to fly. Of course - she was born on Lindbergh's birthday.

Senator Phil Gramm Speaks In Eastland

Mrs. Virginia Russell welcomes U.S. Senator Phil Gramm on his latest visit to Eastland. A fund raiser breakfast was held for the Senator at the Majestic Theatre.

"Economic and political freedoms are the recipe for a good life."

This was the main theme of a talk by Senator Phil Gramm during a stop in Eastland Wednesday morning.

"Our country is great and powerful and rich not because we are the smartest people on earth - but because we are ordinary people with extraordinary opportunities," the Senator said.

Senator Gramm spoke at the Majestic Theatre, where he attended a breakfast hosted by County Republicans. He was met at the airport by Jim Keffer, County Chairman of the Republican Party, and greeted at the Theatre by about 100 Party members and other friends. Earl Bradley, Republican Chairman of Pct. 1, welcomed Gramm to the event.

The breakfast was partly social - with the Senator calling many of the people by their first names - partly political, and also a fund-raiser for Gramm's current campaign.

The stage of the Majestic was set with two buffet tables decorated in red, white and blue. A large pot of touch added a southwestern motif. The meal was catered by Double Visions Restaurant of Cisco.

The Senator's opening remarks were about the Majestic, noting this was the first time he had seen the building since the restoration.

"This is a beautiful place," he said, looking across at the murals and auditorium. "The citizens here are to be congratulated for saving this fine building."

He went on to remind the audience that he was running for Senator again this year, and he intended to get out the word with about ten different Senators who took their elections back home for granted - and now they are all gone from Washington!

"I don't intend to be complacent about public support - too much is at stake. During the last ten years the free enterprise system has been revitalized and exported all over the world. I want to continue to have a part in this."

Herepeated that we "should share not the cake we have baked, but the recipe."

The Senator sounded a bit cautious on international relations. "If the lion and lamb are about to lie down together I'd like for America to be the lion," he said.

"And on peace dividends in the budget - I'd like to see that to reduce the National deficit first, then give money saved back to long-suffering tax-payers."

Gramm remarked that some Congressmen are proposing that 75 billion a year be spent on new government programs. He said he would rather raise the standard deduction on income taxes back to the same dollar buying-power it had in 1946. That would bring it up to more than $6,000 per year on individual IRS returns, and put more money in the private sector.

"Big Government is not the answer to the problems of mankind," he declared.

On Texas politics, Senator Gramm said he believed he could work with Clayton Williams in rebuilding the economic climate of the state.

UIL One-Act Contest Play Will Be Presented Thursday

The UIL one-act contest play, "The Patchwork Quilt" by Rachel Field, will be performed Thursday evening in the Cisco High School auditorium. The performance will last approximately 30 minutes. The audience should plan to be seated by 7:10. Admission cost will be $1.00 for adults and 25 cents for students.

At district contest this production was chosen as Alternate Play, with Goldthwaite and Hamilton advancing to the area contest held April 7. The entire cast of "The Patchwork Quilt" was commended for their excellent characterization; and the crew, for technical quality.

Allison Williams was placed on District All-Star Cast, and David Pettigrew and Amy Hawkins were chosen as members of the Honorable Mention All-Star Cast.

Allison plays Old Mrs. Willis who lives with her daughter Anne (Amy Hawkins) and son-in-law Joe (Dave Pettigrew). Their young child Betty is portrayed by Teresa Pevey. Molly and William, the young bride and groom from out of the past, are played by Christine Deadman and Keith Stowe. Emily, their daughter of 40 years ago, is played by Tammy Sullivan. Crew members are Clay Lorange, Tonya Humphries, Sarah Zell and Christie Hollis.

Lou Jane Davis, director, complimented the entire company for their talent and conscientious work. "Each actor came to know his or her character well, as you will see; and the crew have been faithful and innovative behind the scenes."

Costumes and quilts were sewn by the company and Mrs. Davis. Each person stitched at least one block of the "patchwork quilt." Walter Williams, photography instructor at CHS, made the portrait of Emily.

"We hope you will take a bit of your time Thursday to see our final performance," Mrs. Davis said. "Begin Folklife Weekend with a story that will touch your heart."

"The Patchwork Quilt" is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

Gospel Singers To Appear At East Cisco Baptist

Donor Awareness Week To Be Observed At Festival

National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week (NOTDAW) was implemented in 1984 as a time to conduct a national effort, to increase the public's awareness of organ and tissue donation, recent scientific advances in transplantation and the tremendous need for donors. NOTDAW is always held during the last week in April.

April 22-28, 1990, Donor Awareness Week will be observed at the 17th Annual Cisco Folklife Festival. Informative video tapes will be shown throughout the weekend in addition to giving away informative literature and donor cards.

Anyone who would like to help in this cause in anyway or work a one hour shift or more at the NOTDAW booth is asked to please contact Pennie Fields at 442-3535 or 442-1188, or Mildred Geist at 442-1528.

This cause is in loving memory of Kelley Lynn Cooper, September 12, 1968 to March 24, 1990; John Lee Geist, June 16, 1970 to July 10, 1989; and Russell Fink, March 15, 1930, to September 25, 1988.

"The Texas Governor's race is not a matter of personalities," Gramm stated. "It's a matter of who can get the job done." He said he hoped the campaign would "stick to the issues."

The Senator thanked the audience for supporting him during the past years, and asked for this to continue. He gave special thanks to Earl Bradley for his efforts.

"I don't know what the world will be like by Nov. 6 (general election day) but I will work hard to make you proud," Senator Gramm concluded.

There was a short time of informal visiting before the Senator caught his plane. After leaving Eastland he stopped at a number of other Texas locations during the day.

School Financing Change Coming

We should have known that some kind of a change in school financing would finally come out of Austin. For years there have been rumblings of discontent from various quarters. Some people even put forth the suggestion that the whole system of taxing property to finance education was unconstitutional.

Yet the Texas Supreme Court ruling last October in the Edgewood vs. Kirby case still sent shock waves through the state. This was a case of a poor district with low local tax resources asking for "equalization" in funding.

The ruling stated that Texas' state-local school finance system is not "an efficient system," and violates the Texas Constitution. This was a unanimous finding of the nine State Justices. State district court Judge Clark's injunction preventing state officials from disbursing state funds to local districts was stayed until May 1, 1990.

Comments from the Court were interesting: "We do not now instruct the legislature as to the specifics of the legislation it should enact; nor do we order it to raise taxes," the court stated. "The amount of money spent on a student's education has a real and meaningful impact on the educational opportunity offered that student....There must be a direct and close correlation between a district's tax effort and the educational resources available to it; in other words, districts must have substantially equal access to similar revenues per pupil at similar levels of tax effort." The court said "...any local enrichment must derive solely from local tax effort."

Continuing in that vein, the Court had other comments.

"The legislature's recent efforts have focused primarily on increasing the state's contributions. More money allocated under the present system would reduce some of the existing disparities between districts but would at best only postpone the reform that is necessary to make the system efficient. A band-aid will not suffice; the system itself must be changed."

The Supreme Court avoided having to decide whether or not education is a fundamental right subject to strict protection under the Texas Constitution. Judge Clark's decision at the trial court level held that the school finance system also violates the equal rights and due process of law guaranteed by the Bill of Rights.

Since that ruling one special session of the State Legislature was unable to agree on how to finance the immediate millions and projected billions needed to satisfy the Court that equalized standards are being met. The second special session is now meeting in Austin. Gov. Clements stated Tuesday that he did not believe there would be an agreement during this session. The Gov. has vowed to veto any bill requiring more than $300 million in new state funds to citizens of the state.

There are numerous opinions on the situation, and few are in agreement. A task force on Public Education, appointed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker of the House Gob Lewis and the Governor has proposed a $4.3 plan-of-action. Under the plan, funding for the next year would rise by $234 million, in addition to the $450 million the Legislature has set aside in equalization aid for this biennium.

This plan is opposed by organized teacher's groups and others, who consider it "inadequate."

June Hicks of Carbon, a teacher in the Abilene State School, sent the Eastland County Newspapers a statement from Ollie Besteiro, President of the Texas State Teacher's Association. It says, in part:

During the past two weeks the Texas State Teachers Association, which represents some 95,000 school employees, has been swamped with calls from concerned members about growing rumors that Texas schools might be forced to close—either because of a court-ordered freeze on state funds or the failure of the state's lawmakers to adopt a school finance plan the Governor will sign and the Supreme Court will accept.

The plaintiffs are asking the courts to freeze all school funding by May 3, an act that would close most, if not all, schools, especially poor ones.

The plaintiffs in the lawsuit of "Edgewood vs. Kirby" are on a collision course with a recalcitrant governor with obviously small concern for high quality education in Texas.

Further, the Governor's proposals to raise revenue by raiding other educational funds is preposterous. It is unconscionable to even consider cutting the state's contributions to employee retirement funds. Employees are sick and tired of having their pensions raided every few years to save the state a needed tax increase. More than a third ($164 million) of the $450 million in cuts recommended yesterday by the Governor would come out of retirement funds that rightfully belong to the educational employees already.

Other cuts being considered are equally ridiculous. It is suicidal to our future economy to eliminate the already scheduled three percent pay raise earmarked for university salaries or raises for community college faculty. And it is downright stupid to cut funds from remedial education and at-risk programs to "equalize" funding for poor school districts.

Three special points are set forth by the TSTA. They include:

1. The need to change the way we're "doing business" in the schools was underscored again this week by the discouraging report of the National Assessment of Educational Progress. Texas isn't singled out by that report, but we all know we're not exempt from the indictment, either.

2. The salaries of teachers and other school employees must be raised. To duck the salary issue in the context of equalizing school funding is to duck one of the essential elements of finance reform.

3. The school employee health insurance crisis has reached the state at which it can not be detached from the compensation equation. The Legislature must at least begin to address the desperate need for health insurance benefits for school personnel.

Near its end the letter had this note:

If nothing comes to pass and if there is no resolution of these conflicts and if schools are closed at this time next month, TSTA is prepared to call for massive, massive action all across this state.

We will call on the active and retired teachers, support staff, school administrators, school board members, parents and students to come to Austin May 5 to let Governor Clements know that we don't intend to stand by and take this. We are suggesting that all forces and segments of the population start now to make plans to descend on Austin and the Governor's Mansion in the largest demonstration of public outrage since the fall of the Alamo to Santa Anna.

The Texas Association of Professional Educators also has a number of members in Eastland County. Ruth Stewart, President of the Cisco group, provided the County Newspapers with comments and proposals by this organization.

"We need weighted ADA," Mrs. Stewart said. "This means that the school districts would receive a little more funding for students in special programs such as Resource."

The ATPE has taken an active role in the current Legislative process. Early this month the House voted to keep the Career Ladder, something the ATPE supported.

Citing ATPE's position on the teacher career ladder, Rep. Ernestine Glosbrenner (D-Alice) persuaded other state representatives Monday not to abolish it. As a result, the House reversed its position on the issue from a vote taken two weeks ago on the first proposed public school finance bill.

Arguing that the majority of the state's teachers favor keeping the career ladder, Glosbrenner, chairperson of the House Public Education Committee, said, "ATPE members at their convention recently voted overwhelmingly not to abolish the career ladder and put that money into teacher salaries."

The House voted 74 to 68 to table an amendment sponsored by Rep. Dick Waterfield (R-Canadian) that would have killed the career ladder.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," a classic movie, will show at the Majestic Sunday and Tuesday. Show time will be at 2:30 p.m.

Classic Movie At Majestic

A classic movie will show at the Majestic next weekend - "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." This film is a highly successful "1969 western," and drew quite a following when it was first produced.

The first showing here is at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 22, and the last on Tuesday, April 24, 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $4 at the box office.

Stars of the film are Robert

Redford as the "Kid," and Paul Newman as "Butch."

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" is based on the adventures of certain leaders of the "Wild Bunch," a group of outlaws which operated from Utah to New Mexico.

These fatalistic, generally cheerful characters created plenty of excitement in the 1890's. A lot of it comes across in this picture.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
I want to take this opportunity to thank the City of Cisco for its Spring Clean up week. We were so surprised to learn of its willingness to not only pick-up any brush and trash, but the fact it doesn't charge for this service.

In the last 20 years we have lived in 2 different large cities and 1 small town and in all three we not only had to hire someone to haul off unwanted items, but had to pay the city to put it in "their" landfills.

People of Cisco, there are some real advantages to living in a small town.

Thanks again City of Cisco, Rev. and Mrs. Ross Dickson

A Thought For The Day....

Have you ever had the terrifying experience of running out of gas on a busy road or highway? There you are - hoping you can at least coast to the curb - with horns honking, people yelling and perhaps a policeman saying, "How come?"

Let's take this situation and think about the possible kinship between this traffic problem and the moral and spiritual situation many people find themselves in today. There are many people who do not have any power within themselves. They can be pushed and pulled around. As far as their own motive power is concerned they are helpless. Sadly, they have developed nothing which makes life go for them... Beware of emptiness. Whether the emptiness is emptiness of thought, or emptiness of heart, or emptiness in life, be sure that it is just as unnecessary as for any of us with normal common sense to allow ourselves to run out of gas..

REID - TALLY

Julie Elizabeth Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durel Reid, and Edward Curtis (Tracy) Tally III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curtis Tally II of Justin, were united in marriage on January 6, 1990 at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas. Dr. William Entzminger officiated.

Dr. William Hanson was organist, and he played various classical selections as preludes, including several by Bach. He also accompanied Mrs. Pat Senteney of Dallas in a flute solo and Mr. Howard Young of Justin in a vocal solo.

Mrs. David (Kathy) Jarvis, former resident of Eastland, was Matron of Honor, and Mr. Edward Curtis Tally II, father of the groom, was Best Man. Miss Michelle Noland of Virginia, Mrs. David (Rebecca) Lopez of Irving, Miss Tessa Barfield of Arlington, and Mrs. Scott (Karen) Slinker of Illinois (sister of the groom) were Bridesmaids. Flower girl was Miss Madison Slinker, niece of the Groom. They all wore tea length gowns of royal blue velvet. Mr. Ben Lund of Hurst, Mr. Scott Jones of Fort Worth, Mr. John Lloyd of Carrollton, and Mr. Donald Reid of Bedford (brother of the bride) were Groomsmen. Ring Bearer was Mr. Mark Setterberg, cousin of the Bride. Mr. Mark Mathis, Mr. John Rutledge, Mr. David Marlett, and Mr. Lonnie Devine were Ushers. The gentlemen were dressed in charcoal gray morning suits.

After the wedding, the couple took a honeymoon to Spain, where they visited the capital city, Madrid, picturesque Toledo, beautiful Granada, the coastal city of Malaga in the southern part of Spain, and Ronda, which contains Arab and Roman ruins.

They also took a two-day tour to Morocco to see the famous port of Tangier and the interesting, ancient city of Fes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curtis Tally III reside in Grapevine.

Randle - Clower

Karen Ellen Randle of Grand Prairie, and Steven Farrel Clower of Irving were united in marriage at 3 p.m. March 17 in the Chapel of Plymouth Park Baptist Church in Irving. Benney Hagan, uncle of the groom, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Carl and Margie Copeland of Irving, and the groom's parents are Dennis and Carole Clower of Stephenville. Grandparents are Mrs. Jess Hagan of Cisco and the late Jess Hagan. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Clower of Cross Plains.

Centered on the altar were 3 brass candelabra adorned with bows of white and peach satin ribbon intertwined with bridal white roses, baby's breath, and greenery. Completing the arrangement were a pair of flora bouquets of peach gladioli, wedding lilies, and gerbera daisies on brass pedestals. The pew markers were identical to the bows on the candelabra.

Jan Clemens, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Shelly Clower, sister of the groom, Melody Kenny and Janell Martin. The attendants wore identical tea-length taffeta designer dresses, styled with overlaid swirl skirts. The bodice featured evening spaghetti straps with a teal lace overlay, above-the-elbow puffed sleeves, and a dropped waist, accented with a bow in front. They carried matching long stemmed gladioli with streamers of ivory and peach lace ribbon.

The grooms' best man was Danny Collier. Groomsmen were Dennis Hagan and James Hagan, both cousins of the groom, and Dallas Isom. They wore classic black tuxedos with teal and black paisley cummerbunds.

and Ray Walker and Ron Waldstein. Candlelighters for the occasion were Jeremy Eisenbach and Keith Clower, both cousins of the groom, and Tom Kelly. The ushers and candlelighters wore classic black tuxedos with teal cummerbunds.

The bride, escorted by her father, entered to "Trumpet Voluntary." She wore an ivory satin and alencon lace gown, designed by Michele Piccione from the Couture Collection. The gown featuring a cathedral train, was adorned with hand beaded drop pearls and sequin and pearl cluster floral designs. The original illusion veil and puffed attached to a heavily beaded pearl and sequin band, with flowers cascading to one side. She carried a full long-stemmed bouquet of bridal white roses and wedding lilies, complemented with baby's breath and greenery.

The groom wore a classic black tuxedo with tails.

Wedding music was performed by Patty Donaldson and Blake Davidson with selections, "In This Very Room", "Looking Through the Eyes of Love", and "Only God Could Love You More". Zach-Stroud read Bible scriptures I Corinthians, Chapter 13.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church fellowship area. The bride's table featured a peach-colored flowing fountain topped with a full bouquet of peach and teal carnations. The traditional three-tiered brides spice cake was decorated with fresh flowers and was topped with a bride and groom porcelain figurine. A silver punch bowl completed the bride's table.

alive. This is not bad but with today's modern live well systems and chemical treatments for stress and injury, the only fish that should ever die are those hooked deep and bleed.

The unofficial top six standings in the E.C.B.C. are: 1st Tommy 25.02; 2nd Gary Harton 22.22; 3rd Gary Crew 16.99; 4th Butch Willingham 16.55; 5th Terry Wilson 14.81 and 6th Chuck Burgess 13.16.

With the bars on the beds and really biting, everyone should make plans to enter the Open Jackpot Tournament slated for April 22 at Lake Leon. This event is open to the public. Entry fee is $15.00 with a $5.00 big bass pot. Fishing hours are 6:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. All contestants must sign up at Chock-a-Block prior to fishing. This will be a three fish 14 inch minimum.

And be advised this will be the last weekend for finding that honey hole for the upcoming Eastland Volunteer Fire Department Open April 29. More about this special tournament next cast.

Wednesday evening jackpots will begin at Lake Leon shortly, details are sketchy so for more information contact Tom Maynard at 629-3550.

Congratulations to our winners and let's all let Tom Maynard know how much we appreciate his unselfish act of returning a fish of a lifetime to Lake Leon.

Financial Help For Disabled Children

A common concern among parents with disabled children is whether there will be enough money for them throughout their lives. The Social Security and supplemental security income (SSI) programs can do much to lessen this concern. These two programs can assure some economic security to disabled children of all ages.

Although there are differences between the programs, both pay monthly cash benefits to disabled people. And someone who receives Social Security or SSI will usually be eligible for Medicare or Medicaid, that will help pay the costs of health care expenses.

The Social Security program pays benefits to the children of retired or disabled people receiving Social Security benefits. Benefits can also be paid to children of workers who died. Any child under 18 may be eligible for benefits. And a child over 18 may get benefits if he or she is disabled and the disability began in childhood - before the age of 22.

The disabled child need not have started getting benefits before age 18. Benefits can start at any age since entitlement to benefits depends on the parent's death, disability, or retirement. For example, suppose John Smith, who has a 40-year-old developmentally disabled daughter living featured a silver candelabrum intertwined with a large bouquet of fresh flowers. The table held a chocolate cake decorated with frosting and topped with chocolate shavings. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service.

An hors d'oeuvre table held shrimp and sauce, fresh fruit trays and an assortment of cheese dishes. Palm trees formed the background for the tables.

Rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Panache Place at MacArthur Commons in Irving.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will live in Grand Prairie.

The bride is a graduate of Nimitz High School in Irving and received her BA degree from University of Texas at Arlington. She is presently a math teacher at Vivian Field Junior High School in Farmers Branch.

The groom is a graduate of Brownwood High School and Tarleton State University. He is employed as a computer programmer for BURCO Systems Development in Fort Worth.

with him, is planning retire. Chances are his daughter would be able to collect benefits when he retires. She probably could also get benefits if he died or became disabled.

The SSI program is somewhat different from Social Security. It pays monthly benefits to disabled people with limited income and resources. The age at which the disability started has no bearing. Disabled people of any age who qualify - young or old - can receive SSI benefits.

A disabled child under 18, who lives with his or her parents, can qualify for SSI payments only if the income and resources of his or her parents are limited. However, once a child turns 18, the parent's income and resources no longer count. If the child has little income and few resources, he or she may be able to get SSI checks. Sometimes disabled children who live in institutions might be able to leave and live outside the institution if they had an income. In many cases, that needed income could come in the form of SSI checks.

If you have a disabled child who may be eligible for either Social Security or SSI benefits, call, write, or visit any Social Security office. The people there will be glad to give you more information and assist you in completing an application.

You can call toll free by dialing 1-800-234-5772. The Abilene office address is 142 S. Pioneer.

Horses Required To Have EIA Test

Polo players, barrel racers, trail riders or anyone taking horses to fairs, races or events must have the animals tested for Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA), an infectious virus that can weaken or kill infected animals. Although some horses infected with the virus develop symptoms of fever and weight loss, other horses appear healthy, but carry the virus and could spread disease.

To protect against the virus, the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) requires that, along with the customary certificate of veterinary inspection, an EIA test document must also be shown when horses are taken to an event.

The certificate of veterinary inspection is valid 45 days for animals that are not to be sold. The EIA test, commonly known as a "Coggins test," must have been run within the previous six months. To run the test, a veterinarian draws blood from the animal and sends a sample to one of the U.S. Department of Agriculture approved laboratories, of which 30 are located in Texas.

"There is no vaccine or cure for EIA, and until researchers develop effective drugs, our tactic is to find animals that react to the EIA test and keep them apart from healthy horses," said Dr. John Holcombe, executive director of the TAHC.

EIA can be transmitted from an infected horse by biting flies, blood transfusions, or by the use of unsterilized and contaminated medical instruments, such as needles or scalpels. Animals affected by the disease include horses, donkeys, asses and other members of the equine family.

During the state's 1989 fiscal year (September 1988-89), 484 EIA "reactor" horses were found in Texas, with most cases occurring in Northeast and Gulf Coast Texas. Since September 1989, another 281 EIA "reactors" have been found.

When an EIA "reactor" is confirmed, a TAHC veterinarian or animal health inspector works with the owner and private veterinarian to determine how to care for the animal. State regulations require that the owner must choose either to keep the infected animal permanently quarantined at least 200 yards from other horses; obtain a permit to transport the animal to a TAHC-approved research or diagnostic facility to aid in disease research; or have the animal destroyed.

GARY HARTON WINS AT LEON

Thirteen members of the Eastland County Bass Club met at Lake Leon Saturday for their monthly inter club tournament. Severe weather prior to 7:00 a.m. starting time was expected to make fishing rather tough. But as always the cream rises when fishing is at its toughest. Anglers were greeted with high pressure and blue bird skies, coupled with a northerly wind.

At the 3:00 p.m. weigh in these anglers demonstrated why Lake Leon is known by many as a good one day and bad the next lake.

I would like to give recognition to a young man who caught the largest bass of his lifetime during this event and being the conservationist he is released this expectant mother to raise young and tug on someone else's line.

Of the 29 fish brought to the scales only four of these were unable to be released

Q. What are some other ways to help a learning disabled child at home?

A. Besides providing a stable homelife, speaking the truth in love when correcting, and guiding development of social skills, there are some very practical ways of helping the child to become more organized.

Have a designated area for study at home with a desk, proper light and supplies. Setting a time for study each evening is also a good idea. You the parent need to sit down BY the child and give help with homework when it is needed. Otherwise, just your being there will help the child to stay on task.

Have the child to keep an assignment notebook to bring home from school to help him remember the assignments. Be sure to check with the child each evening to see what needs to be done.

Designate a place by the door to place completed homework so that it will be remembered on the way to school the next day. Be sure to compliment the child on the things he does well and encourage creativity in hand crafts. Also, membership in organizations such as boy scouts or girl scouts may be helpful in socialization skills as well as development of desired character traits.

As a parent you should be aware of your child's diet. Whole grains, fruits, and vegetables should be a big part of the diet. Sweets should be limited and watch for food additives. All of this can affect your child's learning and general well-being.

President Billie Ruth Loving asked for committee reports. Lois Marshall presented nominations for new members: Cynthia Bilby - 3rd grade teacher at Siebert Elementary; Glenda Denison - Kindergarten teacher at Cisco Elementary; Dorothy Fisher - language arts teacher at Ranger Elementary; Jo Ann Hatton - teacher/coordinator of alternative class at Ranger I.S.D.; Barbara Jones - instructor at Ranger; Jeanette Morren - speech therapist with East End Educational Co-op; Sherry Phillips - resource teacher at Siebert Elementary; Alice Saunders - kindergarten teacher at Cisco Elementary; Mary Schuster - Early Childhood teacher from Eastland I.S.D. All nominations were unanimously accepted by the chapter.

A slate of new officers was presented as follows: President - Kathryn Stapp; 1st Vice President - Pattie Dolen; 2nd Vice President - Davene Jeffcoat; Recording Secretary - Ruth Stewart; Corresponding Secretary - Juanita Shaw; Treasurer - Loren Oliver; Parliamentarian - Marilyn Jackson; Immediate Past President - Billie Ruth Loving. The new officers were accepted by a unanimous vote.

Elizabeth Abernethy, Supt. of schools at Baird presented the program entitled "The Robin Hood Syndrome" theme - Responding to Legal Mandates. She expressed concern about the current legislative quandry about school finances. She urged educators and other interested persons to call their state senators and representatives asking them to vote FOR a bill with "weighted ADA". Smaller schools with high populations of special students would benefit most from such a program.

Refreshments for the day were served by the following hostesses: Ilene Beck, Maria da Rocha, Marilyn Henderson, Marilyn Jackson, Betty Johnson, Marie Mahaffey.

Members in attendance were the following: EASTLAND: Pattie Dolen, Adeline Meredith, Beulah Beth Smith, Marshall Sandy Sargent, Patricia Tone, Diane Upchurch, Becky Siebert; CISCO: Ruth Stewart, Davene Jeffcoat, Carolyn Page, Bernice Carter, Ruby Lee Pirtle, Lois Whitaker, Miriam Bledsoe, Lela Lloyd; CROSS PLAINS: Billie Ruth Loving, Juanita Shaw, and Marie Stambaugh; BAIRD: Elizabeth Abernethy; RANGER: Marie Mahaffey, Maria da Rocha, Marilyn Jackson, Marilyn Henderson, Ilene Beck; and RISING STAR: Azalee Womack; OLDEN: Opal Little; and guest Annie Rendall from RANGER.

Oak Wilt Prevention Discovery Announced

COLLEGE STATION—Plant doctors soon may be giving trees shots to immunize them against the deadly fungus that causes oak wilt.

Dr. David Appel, plant pathologist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, announced Wednesday that injections of a new fungicide has proven in three years of research to prevent, and in some cases stop, oak wilt.

"As a preventative, it is most promising. It has potential as a therapeutic," Appel said, "but it would be an overstatement to say it is a cure."

Ciba-Geigy, the chemical's manufacturer, plans to release the product to arborists in April or May, according to company spokesman Ray Smith of College Station. The product already is labeled for other uses, but Ciba-Geigy is working through the Texas Department of Agriculture to obtain a 24-C, or local need label which would allow the treatment of the state's oak trees. A new name for the product also must meet federal approval, Smith said.

Oak wilt is a fungus disease that enters the tree's vascular system blocking the flow of water and nutrients. The disease sneaks into the tree either underground through roots shared by an infected tree, or by fungus-contaminated insects which land on open wounds or pruning cuts on healthy trees.

Texas, with 36 infected counties, has the most severe incidence of oak wilt, but the disease has been diagnosed in many other states, Smith noted. Ciba-Geigy is pursuing a full, federal label.

Researchers have been seeking a solution to the Texas oak wilt problem since the mid-1970s when the disease was first diagnosed in the state.

"Millions of trees have been lost in Texas," Appel said. "Some of those trees are worth tens of thousands of dollars each."

He said economic impact studies at Texas A&M have shown that property values in Austin can plummet by 13-19 percent when oak trees in the landscape die.

Early fungicides were not effective, the plant pathologist said, because they did not move far enough through the tree's vascular system.

"This product distributes better in the tree, and the fungus is more sensitive to it," Appel said. "It also is less toxic to the tree and user."

The new fungicide is derived from a new chemical class, a triazole or demethylation inhibitor, meaning it doesn't allow the formation of cell membrane, thus preventing the fungus from growing.

Appel's tests have involved about 140 trees, ranging in age from 30-200 years, in plots from Fort Worth to Bandera in Central Texas.

"We treated trees at very high risk — immediately adjacent to diseased trees,"

Appel said. "Some are in ranges, and some are in front lawns."

The scientist said the studies proved that if trees are injected before the fungus begins infecting, the disease is prevented.

"If fungus already is in the tree, it appears promising as a therapeutic if we catch it early," Appel said. "It will not bring the tree back to what it was before infection, but it will stop the disease from doing more damage."

The product will not cure trees with severe infections, however, Appel stressed.

Appel's research now will focus on defining minimum application rates, the number of treatments needed in the tree's life, and the persistence of the fungus in the tree.

"These treatments need to hold up for 5-7 years before the trees are out of danger," he said. "The fungus may challenge the tree for that long, but if it can't establish, the fungus will move on the next time."

Appel said stopping oak wilt will save one of the state's most treasured natural resources.

"People get emotionally attached to their trees," he said. "The tree is one thing that lasts as long as we do or longer. In some very harsh country, the live oak has survived and provided an awful lot to humans without asking to much in return."

"Tremors" To Open At Majestic April 20

Reba McIntire and Michael Gross portray survivalists Heather and Burt Gummer in the Universal picture "Tremors."

The film "Tremors" will begin at the Majestic on Friday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m., and will show at the same time each evening through Monday, April 23.

Tickets will be $3. at the box office, and the film is rated PG13.

This is a different sort of film, and is attracting quite a bit of attention around the country. It cannot be classified as just another "Monster" picture, although there are undoubtedly some scary creatures crawling up out of the earth.

Perhaps it is the combination of science fiction and humor which lifts the picture out of the ordinary, as well as the actors in the various roles.

Leading players are Kevin Bacon and Fred Ward as Val McKee and Earl Basset, handymen from Perfection, Nevada, a desolate town experiencing unusual seismic activity. Finn Carter plays Rhonda Le Beck, a student seismologist investigating the strange vibrations in Perfection.

Also starring are Micheal Gross of "Family Ties" and country singer Reba McIntire, who portray survivalists Burt and Heather Gummer.

"Tremors" unearths an earthbound menace - hungry 30-ft. long creatures with multi-tentacled tongues and bulbous heads, swiftly tunneling through rock and dirt.

Shot in daytime exteriors, "Tremors" has a unique look of reality unlike low-key lit monster films. Not since the black and white "Them" (1954) has a monster been seen under such enlightened scrutiny.

Science fiction fans and others will enjoy this entertaining picture.

Direction In Life

When you choose a direction in life you also are choosing a destination, and so it is with habits. When we choose to develop a habit (habits and life styles are by choice). We are forced to face the consequences, whether good or bad.

People do not start out in life with the intent of becoming victims of their habits. I have never met anyone that wanted in life to live in sin, be an alcoholic, a chain smoker, or overweight, or use bad language. These habits always begin a little at a time.

Morality and immorality are habits that are taught. If we expect our children to grow-up with clean morals, we must set good standards.

So don't let bad habits rule your life and destroy your family.

Decide that you are going to make some changes in your life. Instead of spending so much time bring destruction to yourself, plan some ways to become constructive. A small crack in a large foundation (the home) can cause the entire building to fall.

We must ask ourselves, "Is my life style pleasing to God?" Are there some cracks that I need repair?

Carbon News

By Dorothy Jackson

April 16:

Had a beautiful Easter weekend. I would of been perfect had the wind not been blowing. Did receive 6 tenths of rain Friday night and late Sunday afternoon the "thunderbumpers" began to rumble into our area. The thunder rumbled and the deadly lightning was fierce. Did receive 3 tenths more rain.

The farmers are really turning that soil over, getting it all ready to put those goofers in the ground.

All churches had good attendance Easter Sunday, some were over flowing. I visited my children and grand children in Sweetwater and I sat in the balcony. A lot of visitors in my home church Sunday, I will not try to list them for fear I might omit someone.

Revival is going on this week in the Baptist Church at Carbon. Services each night at 7:30 p.m. Bro. George Weeks, the pastor, will bring the messages each night. Would like to invite each of you in the area to attend each service.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan visited their daughter and husband, Ande and Marla Paulk of Imperial over the weekend.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stubblefield this past week has been her sister Mrs. Doris Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ford; Mrs. Ira Ford, all of Arlington.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Collin Campbell Easter Sunday was: Reba Reeves of Ft. Worth; Polly Reeves of Austin; Colleen Lamb of Nimrod; Bill, Addy Walker, Phillip, Loren and Collin of Burket; Sallie Walker of Stephenville.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Guy during the Easter weekend was Mr. and Mrs. James Guy of Andrews; Don Guy of Austin.

Classes resumed at Carbon School Monday April 16. I am sure all students and teachers will be ready to put their heads to the grind stone for the last few weeks of school.

I believe there is only six weeks of school left.

Extension Highlights

"PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE" is the philosophy of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) which is part of the Texas A & M University System. Dedicated to improving the quality of life of Texas residents, Extensions statewide delivery system provides educational programs in agriculture, natural resources, home economics, community development, and 4-H.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is an educational organization that continues to plan and implement programs to meet the changing needs of both rural and urban citizens in Texas. Flexibility and responsiveness enable the TAEX to provide informal educational programs in areas of needs as determined by the people themselves.

In 1986, the TAEX initiated a new long-range planning process aimed at meeting the challenging needs of Texans. More than 12,000 Texans (with 52 being Eastland County residents) participated in county study group meetings to identify critical needs and issues facing issues that were identified also reflected critical concerns for all Texans:

- * Agricultural Diversification
- * Agricultural Profitability and Competitiveness
- * Economic Development
- * Financial Planning and Management
- * Improving Nutrition, Diet, and Health
- * Leadership Development for Youth and Adults
- * Marketing of Agriculture and Natural Resource Products
- * Revitalization of Rural Texas
- * Strengthening Texas Families
- * Rural-Urban Relationships

* Water Quality and Conservation

* Youth Development

The Eastland County TAEX program of work during 1987-1990 has addressed all of the state issues. Emphasis has been put on drug awareness with a survey of all Eastland County school children conducted. Programs for youth and adults as well as addressed teenage pregnancy, substance abuse, and self esteem. Strengthening families has addressed all areas of parenting, child development, as well as concerns of the mature person. Conferences and programs have targeted some 3,950 persons in Eastland County with educational information during 1987-90 period. Extension Agricultural Committees have addressed the critical issue of water quality and conservation.

The average annual rainfall in Eastland County is 27.6 inches. A large portion of the rainfall comes in the spring and fall. Frequent droughts cause water shortages for livestock and farm use, and reduction in yields of crops and livestock products.

An increasing demand for domestic and industrial water use has caused concern about our water supply and treatment facilities. Quality of water for irrigation and domestic uses is also a major concern.

Many programs were conducted during the last four years to teach methods of water conservation to agricultural producers and homeowners.

Ranchers were taught methods of brush and weed control and grazing management resulting in better use of rainfall for desirable vegetation and less water runoff. Farmers were taught methods of measuring and improving irrigation pump efficiency, thus reducing irrigation cost and water use. New irrigation systems were introduced and put into service that reduced evaporation water loss and energy. These included the low pressure center pivot, the LEPA (low energy precision application) and drip irrigation systems.

Programs were presented and publication distributed to homeowners that taught water conservation in the home and on home landscape. These included programs on xeriscaping—the use of low water requiring plants, and more efficient landscape irrigation methods. Conservation of water in the home was the topic of several programs.

Maintaining water quality and water analysis were subjects of programs for agricultural producers and homeowners which was resulted in an increase of water testing.

Agricultural Profitability was another major issue identified in the Long Range Extension Program in 1986. Net profits of agricultural producers in Eastland County have declined due to narrowing margins between production costs and returns. Some producers had to leave farming and ranching because of decreasing profits.

Because of the issue-based programing, efforts were directed toward finding ways to increase net income. Programs and teaching methods were planned to help farmers and ranchers reduce production costs and maintain or increase gross income. Programs in financial and resource management, risk management, pest control, new crop varieties, livestock breeding and management and marketing were conducted to help increase agricultural income.

The agricultural income in Eastland County has improved since 1986, due to advancements in farming and ranching practices, favorable supply and demand trends and more favorable weather. Annual receipts from farm marketing in Eastland County from 1970 to 1986 averaged $28.07 million compared to an estimated $35.78 million in 1989.

Soon the issues and concerns for 1991-94 will be developed for the next Long Range Extension Program (LREP). Citizens in Eastland County will meet to identify present issues on Thursday, April 26th, at Siebert Elementary School cafeteria, states County Extension agents, Mrs. Janet Thomas, DeMarquis Gordon, and Scott Hodges.

Issue-based programing has been highly successful for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, as well as, the National Cooperative Extension Service.

PEOPLE - their needs and concerns - will remain the key to Extension's long range

PEOPLE - their needs and concerns - will remain the key to Extension's long range planning process as the critical issues that impact Texas which continue to change.

The TAEX computer programs analyze the nutritional adequacy of a person's diet. Research proves that the quality of one's diet has an impact on a person's overall health.

Trained 4-H adult leaders teach 4-Hers in home economics project meetings. Leader trainings are provided on the county level by local Extension Agents and the district-state level by subject matter specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Leadership skills and officer training are stressed in youth development through 4-H clubs. 4-H Teen leaders work with younger members. These skills increase self-esteem and have a positive impact on youth. During 1987-90, 4-H Clubs have increased from 7 to 10 clubs in county. An active 4-H Jr. Leader's Association in the county reaches older teens.

4-H Targets Younger Audience

COLLEGE STATION—They're being called "Clover

Kids" — youngsters in kindergarten through second grade who are the new target audience for the Texas 4-H Youth Development Program.

Four-H is reaching out to a younger group in an attempt them today."

Those factors have become known as "youth-at-risk" issues, problems like drug and substance abuse, teen pregnancy, and illiteracy.

Davison said the problems are the same as they were 10 years ago, but they have increased in magnitude.

"Society is now more conscious of these problems," he said. "People realize that kids are our future and they're concerned that we may not have a future."

When 4-H evolved from boys' Corn Clubs and girls' Tomato Clubs, it grew from a need to improve the life of people in rural area. Clubs provided real-life practical experiences to enrich the learning provided by schools, churches and families.

With migration from rural to urban area, programs began changing to fit the needs of youth in inner cities.

In Texas, more than 60,000 young people are enrolled in the 4-H clubs. Programs allow kids to learn in an informal, nonthreatening environment, Davison said.

Almost 4000,000 young people participate in 4-H enrichment programs in schools. Teachers receive material for a series of six lessons for youth in agriculture, natural resources, home economics, science and technology.

"As far as animal projects, we're probably the best," Davison said. "With one project, we can teach the basics of ownership, responsibility, free enterprise and making a profit. You can do a lot of things with something that doesn't cost a lot—teach how to get along in this world and how to survive."

All Texas youth, regardless of their background, are considered at risk, Davison said. Urban and minority youth are unfortunate leaders in many problem areas, but studies show that the largest increases in troubled kids are occurring in rural and suburban areas, among Anglo-Americans, people not on welfare and people who are educated.

Davison said 4-H goals for youth at risk include finding ways to increase the number of alcohol- and drug-free kids, increase the number of children who complete school, improve literacy, and increase resistance to school-age pregnancy.

While targeting kids ages 5-12, 4-H also will implement a mentor program that depends heavily on 4-Hers 13-19.

"We're working on a 4-H mentor program where we pair up older youth with younger kids...in cooperation with schools," Davison said.

Through experiences as leaders, teachers, role models, peer counselors, and advocates, older children will develop their own life skills while helping others.

Davison said Texas 4-H also is exploring ways to collaborate with communities, schools and other youth-oriented agencies to meet common goals.

"We offer our resources to other youth-serving organizations because we have a university base of knowledge and research...and a lot of them don't have that luxury," he said. "So, their kids can be our kids."

Eastland County Citizens To Discuss Critical Issues April 26

As many as 60 leading citizens of Eastland County will gather Thursday, April 26th, to help identify critical issues facing the county over the next four years.

The purpose of the meeting, one of many being conducted in counties around the state this spring, is to assist in the development of educational programs by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service that are responsive to local needs.

"Local people usually have the best ideas on how to solve local problems," said Extension Agents De Gordon, Janet Thomas, and Scott Hodges. "The Extension Service wants to tap into that collective wisdom, and structure its programs in ways that make them relevant and effective."

More than 10,000 people are expected to participate in this grass-roots planning effort in Extension Service sponsored county meetings throughout Texas.

In Eastland County, the meeting is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., April 26th, at the Siebert Elementary School in Eastland. This citizens' study group, chaired by Ronald Pope of Cisco and chairman of the Eastland County Extension Program Council, was organized earlier in the year by the executive board of the council.

To begin the meeting, the study group will hear status reports from a panel on the economic, environmental, and social conditions in the county.

Panel members who will give these status reports are Joe Taylor, Vice-President, Eastland National Bank; Nannette Keith, Social Worker for the Texas Department of Human Services; and Don Shepard, Manager of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce.

The group will then divide into task forces to identify the most critical issues facing the county in the broad fields of agriculture and natural resources, community development, youth and home economics.

Faith Baptist Church News

The movie "Sr. John in Exile" will be shown Sunday night, April 22, 1990, starting at 5 p.m. This is a full length film, starring Dean James. It is a narrative by John on the isle of Patmos, telling about his experiences with Christ and about Christ death and resurrection. It is a very moving and enjoyable film, with lots of humor and seriousness. Everyone is invited to come and visit the Faith Baptist Church at 700 West 18th St. and view this film.

Afterwards, the study group will reconvene, hear task force reports, and discuss how these issues impact the county's economy, environment, and social welfare. The work of the study group is one of the first major steps in an intensive effort for determining Extension Service programs of 1991-94. Each county long-range Extension program, developed by October, will be considered in the development of the Extension Service's statewide program plan.

Reforming Texas Public Schools

by: Governor Bill Clements

NOTE: The Texas Legislature is under a court order to revise the Educational Funding for Texas Public Schools by May 1, 1990. The Texas Supreme Court has declared the current funding unconstitutional and it is up to our Legislature to devise a plan that will equally fund all public schools.

Texas has always been a tenacious and resourceful people. Whatever the test, we have risen to the occasion. As Sam Houston once said, "We are equal to our destiny." Today, as our state faces one of its toughest challenges ever, that of reforming our public school system, I believe we will remain true to our nature. Texans will summon the courage and unity of purpose needed to get the job done.

But the task before us is neither simple nor one-dimensional. It demands a multi-faceted response, one that calls for increased spending for our poorer schools and dramatically reforms a system that the Texas Supreme Court has declared inefficient. Truly, Texas children must not bear the burden of an ineffective education. They will not be denied a promising future because their school districts are below average in property wealth.

To that end, the Task Force on Public Education, appointed I.L. Governor Bill Hobby, Speaker of the House Gib Lewis and myself, proposed a $4.3 billion plan of action. This blueprint would address the needs of our poor districts by equalizing education spending, and thereby, meet the requirements of the Supreme Court.

Under the plan, which I have endorsed, funding in the next year alone would rise by $234 million, which would be in addition to the $450 million the Legislature already has set aside in equalization aid for this biennium. This means that public education spending would increase by nearly $700 million in the state's current budget cycle. I have already put forth a series of budget options to fund the first full year of the task force plan without increasing taxes or cutting services. Still, money alone will not fix what's broken in public education. The fact is, since House Bill 72 was passed in 1984, public school spending has climbed 50 percent. Yet, SAT scores have remained flat and drop-out rates continue to soar. Taxpayers are not getting a return on their investment.

Clearly, wholesale reform is in order. Indeed, to improve Texas schools, we must shift our focus away from mandates and toward deregulation, giving educators the freedom to achieve results and to be held accountable for what they produce. In fact, as the Task Force on Public Education has recommended, we must get government off the backs of the local independent school districts. Let's cut the red tape that restricts our educators and let them do what they do best—teach our young people.

It's time we also gave principals the authority to hire and fire and allowed them flexibility to concentrate on results and not procedures. But with greater authority must come greater responsibility. Principals must be held accountable for student achievement, which means their job appraisals should be based primarily on how well pupils are performing.

Texas should also establish a reasonable evaluation process to assess our schools. Parents must have the opportunity to review well-defined measures of pupil and campus performance. We can achieve this by developing a "report card" that shows you how your schools compare with others and where they need help. And as report cards improve, as student test scores rise or attendance increases, let's make an example of their accomplishments by giving schools more local control.

Rewards should be financial as well. School districts should receive monetary incentives for gains achieved in combatting drug abuse and cutting drop-out rates. To further encourage educators to keep children in class, we must modify the way we count youngsters for state funding. Instead of only counting students early in the year, let's record the number later in the year as well. That way, the motivation to keep pupils from dropping out will be enhanced.

Accountability must be a factor at every level, starting at the top. That's why I believe the commissioner of education should be appointed by the governor, with the advise and consent of the Senate. Under our current system, accountability is eroded as the commissioner is torn between two policy-making bodies, the Legislature and the State Board of Education. This must change.

With these reforms and others now being considered by the Legislature, Texas can build an efficient school system that prepares our young people for the future.

So my message to the Legislature is this: the time for political games is over. The time for bickering has passed. We have put forth a well-balanced plan to restructure public education and direct $4.3 billion dollars to our schools. We have identified budget options to fully fund our program next year without new taxes and without reducing services.

Its time to adopt this plan, to move forward and do what's right for Texas.

The latest computer updates stating the situation of gain or loss for Texas schools was being read carefully by area superintendents Monday afternoon.

These same printouts were being delivered to the committee who has the task of comparing Senate and House resolutions and deciding on a solution to the school funding situation before May 1. As of May 1st the Supreme Court has said they will shutdown all monies to Texas public schools unless a more equitable plan is put into action by the Legislature.

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D. Godley has proposed a bill that will send the remainder of school funds by April 28th thereby forgoing the May 1st shutdown. Gov. Clements agrees with this bill.

Both House and Senate are looking at budget cuts, increases in state fees and a possible tax bill.

The figures below show additional state aid for the 1990-91 school year as proposed by the House (H) and the Senate (S). Extra figures were included if the individual school districts bring their property taxes within the maximum level:

Carbon—(H) $37,196, (S) $73,091
Cisco—(H) $263,615, (S) $617,962-$54,706.
Eastland—(H) $254,793, (S) $615,723-$152,176
Gorman—(H) $112,138, (S) $143,764-$110,109
Ranger—(H) $214,984, (S) $490,337-$24,649
Rising Star—(H) $102,066, (S) $231,437.

Governor Clements stated that another special session would probably be needed to pass the bill.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
I went to the Chamber of Commerce office early Monday morning to cast my absentee ballot for the Cisco Junior College Board of Regents. If ever a governing board needed new blood, this one does. Accordingly, I cast my votes or Carolyn Page and Davene Jeffcoat. I strongly urge you to do the same.

In one hour I spoke with three current Board members. The day my husband, Dan Montgomery, was "released" from his duties as mens' basketball coach at CJC, he told the President of the college and one board member who his successor would be. He was assured this was not so. And it came to pass two months later this exact person was named mens' basketball coach. What an amazing coincidence!

The Board of Regents has to approve all appointments and yet all three Board members I talked to denied any part in this. So now the obvious question is: "Why do we have a Board of Regents?" The only answer I can come up with is... to satisfy the inflated egos of a few small town businessmen. There is ample evidence of a "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" mentality at work here.

This morning I went out to the college to pick up copies of my husband's job evaluation sheets for the past six years. There were 19 criteria each year, each graded on a scale of one through ten, ten being the highest. He never scored below an eight; yet suddenly in his seventh year he is dismissed. Not one member of the Board found this strange or unusual or worthy of consideration, probably one reason being that their own special interests were not involved. In the past few weeks I have heard similar stories from others.

For obvious reasons, I am moving in a few days. I have enjoyed living in Cisco for the past seven years and have met many fine people and have made, I hope, some lasting friendships. A change will only come about when the Board of Regents is composed, at least in part, of members without special interests - who do not have to answer to anyone. Please consider casting your votes for Carolyn Page and Davene Jeffcoat.

A very desirable two bedroom frame, corner lot, in good repair, paved street and the price is, well you will like the price.
A solid two bedroom frame, ready to move in, large utility room and three lots with a lot of pecan trees.
Two bedroom on paved street very well worth the money and one you can afford at $8,500.00.
Three bedroom frame, one bedroom very large on paved street, owner needs to sell, this is your chance.
We have a nearly new roomy three bedroom brick with plenty of yard room, on paving, if you would like a very nice place this is it.
We are loaded with commercial buildings, anything you might want or need, ask us.
We have land, several blocks, 88 acres and on up to 480 acres. Eight places in all. In fact the 480 ac's is only $195.00 per a. You can't beat that.
Due to cost we do not carry a large ad but, we have the property, and we are selling it, just ask us. We can always use good salable property.
